"Nop; never moved out o' my tracks. When they all started out o' the same bunch of grass, I held the gun away over to the right, and as it went off I swep' it aroun to the left. The result was that I slung shot in every direction, same as you can sling water outen a pan, and a little of the shot ketched ev'ry one."—San Francisco Post.

Tides In the Atmosphere.

Distinct tides in the atmosphere, corresponding to those of the sea and produced twice daily by lunar attraction, have been traced by M. Bouquet de la Grye in the barometric records of stations removed from powerful local disturbances. The recorded observations of Brest, St. Helena, Cape Horn, Batavia and Singapore give positive evidence of a regular ebb and flow according to the moon's position. The effect is slight, but measurable, the greatest atmospheric tide at Brest being shown by a movement of one-quarter of an inch in a water barometer, which is equivalent to about one-fiftieth of an inch in the mercury barometer. The tide seems to bear about the same ratio to the weight of the atmosphere that the sea tide bears to the depth of the ocean.

Three Books.

A leading literary light in one of the best known woman's colleges says that there are just three books that everybody should know by heart—"The Arabian Nights," "Alice In Wonderland" and "Mother Goose." "A thorough knowledge of those masterpieces," she says, "will do more toward cultivating the imagination than any other process that I know of. And I regard imagination as the most important of all mental faculties." This is in direct and significant opposition to the ideas held by many parents and teachers that fairy tales are injurious reading for the young.—New York Sun.

Repartee From a Statesman.

For once in his career the incorruptible alderman from the S'teenth ward lost his temper.

"I can lick you," he roared, "with one hand tied behind me!"

"You can fight better with one hand behind you," vociferated the high minded alderman from the Umpty-second ward, "than you can any other way. It's your customary position, b'gosh!"—Chicago Tribune.

CUPID HAS AN ENEMY

PERSISTENT SOLICITORS WHO DETER WOULD BE BENEDICTS.

Matrimonial Ventures Made Extra Hazardous by the Hunt For Business—A Hair Raising Warning From a Life Insurance Man.

When the young man walked into the newspaper office and timidly asked the society editor if she would kindly insert a notice of his approaching marriage, he little thought of the trouble he was bringing down upon his head.

The announcement was printed Sunday. When he reached his office Monday, he found a stack of letters waiting for him, every one addressed in a handwriting he did not know. He whistled when he opened the first, ditto the second, looked a bit surprised at the contents of the third and swore fluently through the balance of the pile. At noon there were more. At night there were others.

Despite the evident curiosity of his fellow laborers in the office he did not take a soul into his confidence until the third day. Then he remarked to his deskmates:

"Say, the great American life insurance man isn't overlooking any bets these days, is he?"

"Wherefore this outburst?"

For answer the groom to be went to a drawer and produced a stack containing 147 letters—he said that was the exact number, though his friend did not count them—the accumulation since that fateful Sunday morning.

"Every blamed one of them is from some agent for some life insurance company who wants to insure my life. Each one represents the best company on the face of the earth. Each pays the largest dividends. Each invests the money of its patrons to the very best advantage. Each moralizes on the uncertainty of life and seeks to impress upon me the solemn duty I owe to my wife that is to be to get my life insured for a million or two of dollars. And each blessed one has come since the announcement of my approaching wedding was printed."

The young man paused a moment, then he dug into the pile and after a few moments' search produced a document which he shoved at his friend, simply saying:

"Just look at the devilish ingenuity displayed in the construction of that thing."

The "thing" was about the size of a theatrical poster known as a three sheet, in other words, three of them will paper the side of a barn. Down the center, at regular intervals, were a lot of mottoes and warning exhortation printed in type three times the size of the context, and in red ink. Here is one choice extract from the document: "In the midst of life we are in death."

"Let us call your attention that it is every husband's duty—his solemn duty—to provide for those dependent upon him. No one knoweth when the angel of death may knock at the door of hovel or mansion and how can one be prepared for his coming unless time is taken by the financial forelock? Think of the ray of hope which breaks through the clouds of bitter bereavement when the sorrowing ones reflect that by the careful forethought of the dear departed poverty has been prevented from adding its horrors to those of the grave. It is your duty to provide for your loved ones. Do not put it off until tomorrow, for in the language of the poet, 'Tomorrow never comes.'"

There was another paragraph in the document that showed the touch of a master hand. It ran something like this:

"Our policies are devised and designed to meet the wants and needs of all people desiring insurance. They are liberal. They are honest. They bring the very best returns. We have ideal policies which we can safely recommend. We can and will guarantee endowment results at much less than endowment rates. And again we pledge ourselves to furnish paid up policies at far below the usual cost. Our dividends are often five times as large as those of other companies on similar policies. We also make a specialty of making liberal loans to our clients on their policies. We are in the field for business and we mean to get it. And don't you forget it."

"Do not leave your wife and babies dependent on charity."

The elocutionary effect the benedict to be threw into the reading of these extracts gained him a round of applause from his companions. It also brought to him the knowledge that every other man in the office who was married—in Chicago—had been similarly afflicted. But that brought no balm to his soul, and he continued to kick. He didn't think it the proper thing to do and he announced his intention of writing a circular letter to the various individuals who had importuned him to "take a risk" and informing them of his feelings.

"Don't do it, my boy," said the head bookkeeper. "Wait until after you are married. You will get forty of these things then to one now, and then you'll have to get out another letter. Wait till then, and then you can address yourself at one and the same time to the life insurance agent, the furniture dealer, the grocer, the man who has a second hand sewing machine to sell, the philanthropist who wants to see young people get along and who offers you a lot way out in the suburbs that will make you rich in five years, the rental agent, the iceman, the milkman, the cockroach exterminator, and all their kith and kin. You'll hear from them all, for they all read the society columns of the daily papers and the newly married are their legitimate prey."—Chicago Tribune.

The Remedy.

"Anna, your lover was again in the kitchen till 10 o'clock last night. I cannot allow that any more."

"I, too, have been thinking if we couldn't have supper a little earlier."—Fliegende Blatter.

SUMMARY OF WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Sept. 18.

A new army retiring board has been appointed at Chicago.

Yellow fever and black vomit have appeared at Cordoba, Mex.

Filibusters arrested at Cedar Keys, Fla., were released upon trial,

The big battleship Maine has been put in commission at the Brooklon navy yards.

Duluth is already preparing for the bonspiel of the Northwestern curlers next winter.

Secretary Olney has returned to Washington, and it is expected President Cleveland will follow soon.

Marie, daughter of Meredith Y. Read, ex-United States minister to Greece, is betrothed to Comte Max de Foras.

Emperor William is drawing an allegorical picture illustrating the intervention of the powers to make peace between China and Japan.

The collateral securities of the Georgia Central railway, advertised to be sold at public auction at New York, were purchased by Messrs. Thomas and Ryan for $1,000,000.

The steamer Santa Barbara has arrived at Havana with 1,000 soldiers and 37 officers from Tetuan, Morocco. The troops were given a splendid reception by the citizens of Havana.

Thursday, Sept. 10.

California soapmakers have combined to keep up prices.

President Cleveland is to make a speech at Atlanta about Oct. 20.

There is renewed agitation at Washington of recognizing Cuban belligerency.

Consul General Morse and Ambassador Eustis are said to be on bad terms with each other.

Mrs. G. E. Sweeney, wife of one and mother of four preachers, is dead at Newman, Ills.

The latest about the third term is that President Cleveland allowed the boom to start to see how the people liked the idea.

The Washington hop crop will not be more than half an average. That of Oregon will be about three-fourths the usual amount.

The report that the St. Louis Car company and the American Car company will consolidate has been confirmed by the officers of both companies. The consolidated concern will be known as the St. Louis-American Car company.

Friday, Sept. 20.

The true amount of gold reserve at the close of business was $95,948,875.

At Napa, Cal., Walter Foster rode a half mile paced in 50 4-5 secs., a new world's record.

Charles Le Clercq, the actor, died in the New York hospital, where he has been since the 16th of this month suffering from typhoid fever.

The dowager princess of Battenburg, whose son, Prince Henry of Battenburg, is the husband of Queen Victoria's youngest daughter, Princess Beatrice, is dead.

The treasury department is advised of the deposit of $100,000 in gold in exchange for currency by the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis, through its New York correspondent.

Saturday, Sept. 21.

Several cases of cholera have been reported at Constantinople and one of them has resulted fatally.

The United States steamer Ranger has sailed from Guayaquil for Panama. She will be succeeded at Guayaquil by the Alert.

As the result of a trivial dispute, Peter Kenizel, a farmer living near Arapahoe, Neb., shot and killed his wife and then blew out his brains.

At Denver, Millie Merz, aged 9, endeavored to kindle a fire by using kerosene. The can exploded and the girl and her baby brother, aged 2 years, were burned to death.

Advices from Antananarivo, Madagascar, are to the effect that a condition bordering on anarchy prevails in the district of Morina, where everyone is fighting for power.

The hearing before Attorney General Hancock in the action brought against the American Tobacco company to restrain the trust from doing business in New York state, has begun.

Monday, Sept. 23.

Eleven Mussulmans have been arrested for attacking the American College at Tarsus.

An attempt was made by burglars to rob the bank at Baldwin, Kan. The burglars were discovered before they got into the safe.

The race for the Gerard Nursery bancicup of 200 sovereigns for 2-year-olds, at Manchester, was won by Mrs. Langtry's Decree Nisi.

Acting Comptroller Bowers has decided that nothing can be collected off the government for the city sewer through its grounds at Hot Springs.

It is reported that the recent report of Senator Vest having changed his views upon silver originated in a conversation with Congressman Tarsney.

Arrangements have been made for a joint debate on the financial question at Hannibal, Mo., between ex-Congressman Hatch and Congressman U. S. Hall.

The transfer of the fish commission, now an independent organization, to the agricultural department by congress, at the coming session is considered probable.

Tuesday, Sept. 24.

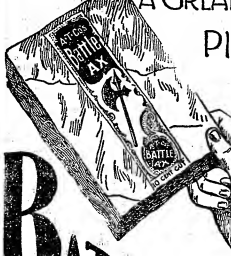
Frost occurred in Kansas and Missouri Sunday night.

The trial of H. H. Holmes for the murder of B. F. Pietzel has been set down for trial Oct. 28, at Philadelphia.

The strike of finishers at the Oliver Iron and Steel company's mill at Pittsburg has been declared off, the men notifying the firm of their willingness to return at the company's terms.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church at Washington has voted to extend a call to Rev. T. De Witt Talmage to be co-pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland are members of this church.

At Stamford, Conn., Mrs. Henry Dudley, a young mullatto woman, was murdered by Mack Simpkins, a colored plumber, who afterwards ended his own life by cutting his throat with a razor.



A GREAT BIG PIECE OF
BATTLE AX PLUG
FOR 10 CENTS

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty, Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜
Office o Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Female Troubles.
Many of the disorders peculiar to women are caused by diseased conditions of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Restore these organs to a healthy state by using
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM,
And the female organs will perform their regular functions, and the sufferer be strengthened and cured. Ladies from all parts of the country testify to its marvelous success in curing them.
For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

THE Northern Pacific receivers have tendered their resignation and the judge will give his decision thereon to-morrow.

IT would seem that Grover has hardly made up his own mind yet whether he will run for a third term or not. He may run for it but he will never get it.

IT is not all harmony, with the democrats in convention in New York. Well, it never was, and never will be until the millenium and we doubt very much if even that brings it.

Boss Crocker says IF the democrats succeeded in restoring good times to the country that party will no doubt still be continued in power. That "if" was pretty well put in, but the democratic policy can't do it you know.

THE Penay Press produces a likeness of Loren Fletcher, (by permission of Kohlsaat) and calls it a "war savage." We should think it would make your Uncle Loren "savage" to see himself in that guise, and to think that Blethen had to ask permission of Chicago to produce the effect.

THE presence of Geo. Gould in the Northwest at this time, and the fact that he has been traveling over the N. P. road has set the tongue of gossip to wagging furiously and "they do say" that George is behind President J. J. Hill in his scheme to swallow the N. P. "They say" that George will invest his pocket change—$50,000,000, in N. P. stock and whack up with Yim on the deal—We hear dux.

THE fact that wheat will go higher if not rushed upon the market as fast as can be, becomes plainer every day. In face of the fact that it is being marketed as freely as possible, wheat shows a strong upward tendency and would no doubt climb faster if the supply was more limited. Good judges are of the opinion that the first of the coming year will see much better prices.

WELL, well: it does seem as though the bountiful crops of this year would leave the calamity howlers absolutely nothing to find fault with, but now comes Senator Roach, of North Dakota, who says: "The present crop will do the farmer no good, because the proceeds of it will all have to go east to pay their debts!" Well, wouldn't that kill you dead! The farmer "not benefitted" because he "is enabled to pay his debts!" Does Senator Roach mean to infer that the farmer is better off to have his debts forever hanging over him, or would he have the farmer repudiate his debts entirely? It must be one or the other. If farmers were out of debt they could control their wheat—and get more for it. This crop will, in any case, almost entirely wipe out the debts the farmers owe to eastern manufacturers, and then they will be independenat; and yet Senator Roach says it will "do the farmers no good!" It is such senseless twaddle as this that tends to keep the spirit of uneasiness that has prevailed among the farmers of the Northwest, alive, and serves to render these conditions more unendurable. But the most of them are beginning to understand these things better and they will all repudiate such senseless howls. A crop like this that will do so much to remove the incubus of debt from the people is a great blessing that the most of farmers are prepared to appreciate fully.

McINTOSH ITEMS.

[From The Tribune.]

An attraction which the McIntosh fair missed, was a unique team driven through town Saturday by Andrew Halland, of Hill River. While at Narve Trulson's in Sletten that day Mr. Halland traded off one of his horses for a cow; and he thought the easiest way to get the cow back was to hitch her up with the horse he had left. He did so, and he drove home through McIntosh with the cow taking the part of one horse, just as natural as if she had been broke to do such work.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a secret preparation. Any physician may have the formula on application. The secret of its success as a medicine lies in its extraordinary power to cleanse the blood of impurities and cure the most deep-seated case of blood-disease.

AN IDEAL OCTOBER MAGAZINE.

Lincoln's apprehensive distrust of marriage is revealed in some extremely interesting letters from the great President in the October Ladies' Home Journal, in which John Gilmer Speed discusses "Lincoln's Hesitancy to Marry." The letters are given publicity for the first time, and are addressed to Lincoln's most intimate friend, Joshua Speed. Edward S. Martin presents a review of the various theories advanced by scientists in the effort to definitely locate the Garden of Eden site, and shows how far from solution is the problem. Dr. Parkhurst's October article treats of "Religion in the Family," and is one of the most forcible arguments that has come from his pen. "The Woman who most Influenced Me" series of papers is enriched by a contribution from Thomas Wenthworth Higginson. Edward W. Bok editorially discusses "Where American Life Really Exists," and outlines those communities where its best and purest phases are found. Robert J. Burdette contributes "The Strike in the Choir," a humorous article in his brightest vein. How to fit up and furnish "A Japanese Home," is told and illustrated by F. Schuyler Mathews, and Nancy Huston Banks writes of "A Painter of Miniatures." Mr. Bangs has another report of the "Paradise Club," and Elizabeth W. Bellamy's serial, "The Luck of the Pendennings," is increasing in interest. "Early Autumn Costumes" are described by Isabel A. Mallon and "Novelties in Dress Designs" by Emma M. Hooper, Miss Underwood illustrating both.. In the same issue are suggestions for evening parties and church festivals, helpful, practicable papers, a guide to scrap-book making, etc. Ruth Ashmore discusses "The Girl and Her Church," and Maria Parloa "The Science of French Cooking," while the usual attractive departments are complete. In its offerings of poetry the October Journal is unusually engaging. Eugene Field's "Dream Ship" is, perhaps, his best effort along the more ambitious lines of verse-making; W. L. Taylor has exquisitely illustrated the poem. The best works of such artists as W. L. Taylor, B. West Clinedinst, Frank G. Small, Alice Barber Stevens, Abbey E. Underwood and F. Schuyler Mathews are shown in the current issue. The October Journal blends interest, entertainment, instruction, usefulness and artistic excellence, and is the magazine par excellence for the home. It is published by the Curtis Publishing Company, Nos. 421-427 Arch Street, Philadelphia, at ten cents per copy; one dollar per year.

Angus Items.

M. A. Campian was to Warren, on Wednesday, for men to help him thresh.

F. Strobls was to Warren, on Thursday, for lumber to build granaries.

Lewis A. Larson, state boiler inspector for this district, spent Saturday and Sunday in town.

Sheriff Steenerson spent Friday in town on business.

Wm. J. Brown, of Warren, spent Friday in town. Ex.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.!

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props.,
Toledo, O.

We the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney, for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists Toledo, O.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

Rev. Dr. McKaig, Methodist Episcopal presiding elder of this district, held services in the church Thursday evening.

Phil Zeh and son returned home Wednesday from a trip to Green Bay, Wis. Mrs. Zeh and the other children will remain there for a visit with friends.

Hon. A. Douglas and family arrived here from Wisconsin last Monday and are arranging to take up their abode in the H. O. Hanson residence for the winter.

Messrs. B. F. Cummings, Dr. Migher and R. McBride, of Marshalltown, Iowa, arrived here Monday for a few days' hunting. They proceeded to Red Lake by steamer, where they will try their luck at angling.

Col. A. F. Naff, of the interior department, arrived here Wednesday and will shortly proceed to the Red Lake agency. Col. Naff will make headquarters in these parts for some time ostensibly to look after timber depredations, but it is supposed his mission here is to make preliminary arrangements for the early opening of the reservation. Upon this point, however, he was very reticent when approached by the Press, but his well guarded conversation was indicative of such a move.

Messrs. D. A. Cozzens, O. C. H. Reilihen, C. H. Heath and George R. Kline, who composed party of hunters from the village of Chicago, and who have enjoyed a couple of weeks here winging the festive chick, departed Wednesday for their homes. While here the market and tables were laden with the toothsome fowl, but since their departure there is not a chicken reported in the country. The boys' agility, faultless aim and smokeless powder are supposed to be the cause of the present scarcity.

The people of Thief Lake have been endeavoring for some time to secure a post office but so far, their efforts have availed naught. The injustice of depriving that section of postal facilities is apparent to all who have been there. There are forty families or more already there and every week new settlers are going in. Their nearest post office at present is twelve miles away, and it is often two weeks before these people receive their mail. It would seem that if the department fully understood the situation the injustice would be remedied.

East Grand Forks Items

[From The Courier.]

Merchants of East Grand Forks offered prizes even for bald heads. If they had not been so conservative and had offered prizes for cracked heads East Grand Forks would have had a walk-away.

W. A. Gordon, of Grand Forks, and owner of the Fernwood farm on the Point, which is in Minnesota, took first prize on butter at the Minnesota State fair.

Monday last Sheriff O'Connor and a number of deputies raided the different blind pigs in Larimore. There seems to be a concerted action all through North Dakota to kill off this illegitimate business.

Monday evening Mayor Anderson's foreman while cleaning up around the threshing machine accidentally stuck a fork into a laborer's foot. The man injured picked up a bolt 2½ feet long and ¾ of an inch thick and struck the foreman two vicious blows over the head and then made off. The fellow escaped to this side. The foreman is badly injured.

Mrs. Swanson, of Crookston, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. Madson, the first part of the week. Mrs. Swanson enjoyed the pleasures and sights of the street fair.

Wm. Huggins, of Esther township, received first prizes on one-half bushel of dent corn, $10; on stock with ears $10; single stock with corn, $3.50, and second prize, one-half barrel of flour on twelve heads of wheat.

Charles Sanders, of Chicago, a brother of John, Thomas and William Sanders, of Grand Forks township, is in town and feels disposed to find fault with his brother John for having taken any steps in the insanity matter of his brother Thomas, who has upon several occasions been adjudged insane, and is now incarcerated in the asylum at Fergus Falls. It appears that the brother Thomas during some of his wild moods felt that he had a special mission to perform and in its execution the fact was developed that his special mission was the destruction of the property of his brother John. Mr. John Sanders objected, and any hand he may have had in again sending his brother Thomas to the asylum was actuated solely by a desire to place his brother where he could do no harm. The writer has been intimately acquainted with John Sanders for the past thirteen years, and will cheerfully vouch for his character as to honesty, integrity and sobriety, and when he made a move toward caring for his brother who has been twice, and we may add thrice, declared insane, it was to protect his brother's interests and the family name.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Montague came over from Crookston to take in the street fair on Wednesday. The party had barely alighted from the train when a member of the committee on badges presented Mr. Montague with a badge representing the fact that he was a "hot sport."

Tuesday evening Officer Sullivan found the dead body of a man on the streets, and a rumor was current that the fellow had been killed. A post mortem examination was held which developed the fact that the man had simply died. County Attorney Gossman assisted Coroner Dwyer in his arduous duties of determining that the man was really dead, and before leaving for Crookston gave special orders to the undertaker that the corpse must be encased in a rough box, as Polk county henceforth will refuse to pay for redwood or metallic cases for paupers. The jury empaneled to "view" the remains were Martin Purcell, Aaron Brown, Ole Thorson and George Peasley.

Euclid Items.

Bert Teal drove to Crookston Thursday after lumber with which to increase the capacity of his father's granaries.

E. J. Hazeltine drove to Crookston Thursday and returned with a load of lumber.

The N. P. road has surveyors looking over the land north and west of the Keystone elevator with a view of extending the Keystone spur about twelve miles further northwest. The gentlemen have made a favorable report and are authority for the statement that before a short time, cars would be running twelve miles west of Keystone.

Mr. George Harris, who was located here about 15 years as G. N. station agent passed through last week enroute for Warren. Mr. Harris has been engaged in railroad business and gardening in Texas for a number of years, but has accepted a position as station agent at Sabin, Minn.

Miss Olive Currie departed for Faribault, Wednesday evening to resume her studies at St. Mary's college.

Theo. Myers, the Shirley wheat-buyer, was up the first of the week and reported large wheat receipts.

Ed. McVean, of Hallock, is down looking after division of crops in which his employers, J. Kelso & Son, are interested.

W. A. Marlu was up from Crookston, last week, looking after the interests of Messrs. Larson & Carpenter.

Mr. Fred Tiedt, of Argyle, visited friends in this vicinity, last week.

Mr. S. S. Simpson, of Red Bud, Ill., was in the city the first part of the week, looking after his interests connected with the burning of the Wallis granary.

Mr. Beebe, of the southern part of the state was in town, Monday, looking after his interests here. Mr. Beebe is present owner of the farm known as the Prescott place.

Mr. George Easby returned, Tuesday, from a short visit to Grand Forks.

Mr. P. Fairweather commenced work, Tuesday morning, on a dwelling, barns and granary to be erected on Sec. 15.

Harvey Misner and Trixy Pitkin took in the ball game at Crookston, Tuesday.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

The mill started up yesterday after a long spell of idleness.

James Bain: "Just finished threshing and got 29 bu. of wheat and 65 bu. of oats to the acre."

Mrs. G. Krostus who has been confined to her room by sickness this week is much improved.

Miss Lizzie Zarracher and Prof. Hettler spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Skinner on the farm.

Will and Henry Peterson of Crookston tarried in town a short while Thursday while on their way to attend the races at East Grand Forks.

Thos. Johnston of Crookston was in town Monday on his way to the free street fair at Grand Forks. He had with him a fine French Coach Stallion which he exhibited.

Talk about your prolific crops, here's one for you. Rev. Billings has a patch of potatoes that not only yield a double crop under the ground but there not being room for any more tubers under the soil have actually commenced to grow potatoes on top of the vines like apples on a tree. Fact!

Paul Jones brought a turnip into this office on Monday large enough to make several meals down at our boarding house when its days of exhibition are over. It weighed 16½ pounds; Paul says he could have brought in a larger one but that was as large as he cared to carry.

J. A. Aird, of Milton, North Dak., arrived in town Monday to take the place of Henry Rienard, resigned, as head miller of the N. D. M. A. flour mill at this place. Mr. Aird was employed at Milton for the past five years and comes well recommended. We extend to him a hearty welcome to Fisher.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20, 1895.

Secretary Carlisle did not go to the dedication of the Chicamauga battlefield, although four of his fellow members of the Cabinet did. He still maintains an oyster-like silence concerning government finances, and declined positively to say a word when bluntly asked to say yes or no as to whether there had been any preparations for another bond issue. The same policy of silence prevails among those of his subordinates who would be likely to know anything about an issue of bonds, the intimation having been made pretty strong to them that talking would be considered a sufficient cause for removal. A Democrat, not connected with the treasury department, but who somehow manages—probably through his intimacy with Logan Carlisle—to know in advance many of Secretary Carlisles intentions, said to a personal friend: "Both Cleveland and Carlisle believe that another issue of bonds is inevitable, and all necessary preparations therefor have been made, but the bonds will not be issued until they consider it absolutely necessary, and nothing short of an actual panic will cause their issue until after the fall elections, on account of the bad effect it would be certain to have in the few states in which the Democrats have any prospects of winning. It is the desire of Mr. Cleveland to postpone the bond issue until after congress meets, so that he can throw the blame on congress for not coming to the relief of the treasury in some other way in answer to the appeal he proposes to make in his annual message."

Mr. William Webster, a Toledo lawyer and one of the most enthusiastic McKinley men in Ohio, is now in Washington. He says: "McKinley is going to be nominated and elected president just as certain as the Republicans carry Ohio this year, and of that there isn't the slightest doubt. If we do not duplicate last year's tremendous victory in Buckeyedom, I can't guess political results even a little bit. That means, of course, Foraker for the Senate and McKinley for the White house. The whole trend of political opinion, as I have it sized up, is towards a restoration of the strong American policy so ably championed by Wm. McKinley. We are bound to do it in self-defense."

Ex-Senator Sanders, of Mont., says the only politics in his state is the free coinage of silver, to which both parties are committed. "But," added Mr. Sanders, "there is greater cohesive force among the Republicans, and though they would much prefer the nomination of a national ticket that would be favorable to silver, they will fall in line and support the party nominees. Cameron and Teller would be hailed with delight. As for the Democrats, they are so badly split up and demoralized that very few of them can be found outside the federal office-holders. The others, who used to be proud to be known as Democrats, do nothing but damn the administration and charge upon the president all the evils that afflict the country. They swear by all that is sacred that they will never cast another vote for any man who does not come out absolutely in favor of free coinage."

Secretary Olney is said to be giving considerable attention to the Waller case, and to have become ashamed of the indifference with which the state department treated the case at first. One of the things which convinced Mr. Olney that Mr. Waller had a good right to complain of his treatment made at his request by Mr. E. G. Woodford, an American citizen who was in Madagascar at the time of the Waller court martial, and who is conversant with all the facts and at the same time entirely disinterested. Mr. Woodford is now in London, but he will sail for the United States in a few days and will come to Washington to examine the record of the court-martial which is to be furnished the state department by France, in order to see if it is accurate.

The silver Democrats accuse the cuckoos of having originated that fake interview in which Senator Vest, of Mo., was made to change front on the silver question. Vest isn't a man of angelic disposition at the best, but when he talks of that interview, which was printed while he was on the ocean coming from Europe, the most of his language is unprintable in a family paper.

"For years," says Capt. C. Miller, "I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else in the medicine chest, to regulate my bowels, and those of the ship's crew. These pills are not severe in their action, but do their work thoroughly."

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

Mrs. J. Widseth, of Lambert, is here on a visit to her husband.

A meteor fell on the farm of John Mannum, of the town of Godfrey, on Sunday. Mr. Mannum was the only eye witness to the sight.

Tom Harris arrived here last week with his house moving apparatus and is now at work moving the post office building to its new site on Lincoln avenue.

Out of not quite ten acres of wheat John Scott, of Liberty, threshed 600 bushels and still has four loads left that will probably yield him another 100 bushels. This the largest yield we have heard of so far, but there are several others who can almost equal Mr. Scott.

The steady hum of the threshers is heard on every hand and the golden grain begins to flow into the market exceeding the anticipations and estimates of the people of this vicinity. The average yield in this portion of the county will be about 30 bushels per acre, and the grade No. 1 hard. There is little or no smut in the wheat of this locality.

If you are in the city about meal-time, after repairs, don't forget that you can get the best meal in town at McKinnon's restaurant on Second street.

Blood Poison
THE BANE OF HUMAN LIFE,
Driven Out of the System by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I was a great sufferer from a most persistent blood disease, none of the various medicines I took being of any help whatever. Hoping that change of climate would benefit me, I went to Cuba, to Florida, and then to Saratoga Springs, where I remained some time drinking the waters. But all was no use. At last, being advised by several friends to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I began taking it, and very soon favorable results were manifest. To-day I consider myself a perfectly healthy man, with a good appetite and not the least trace of my former complaint. To all my friends, and especially young men like myself, I recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if in need of a perfectly reliable blood-purifier." — JOSE A. ESCOBAR, proprietor Hotel Victoria, Key West, Fla.; residence, 352 W. 16th St., New York.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla
Admitted for Exhibition
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Good Blood IS ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH.
You cannot hope to be well if your BLOOD IS IMPURE.
If you are troubled with
BOILS, ULCERS or PIMPLES, SORES
your blood is bad. A few bottles of S. S. S. will thoroughly cleanse the system, remove all impurities and build you up. All manner of blemishes are CLEARED AWAY
by its use. It is the best blood remedy on earth. Thousands who have used it say so.
"My blood was badly poisoned last year, which got my whole system out of order—diseased and a constant source of suffering, no appetite, no enjoyment of life. Two bottles S.S.S. brought me right out. There is no better remedy for blood diseases.
JOHN GAVIN, Dayton, Ohio.
Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Miss Nellie McAvoy was in from Angus last week.

C. E. Harrington, of Keystone was in the city on Monday.

John Ghoosen and wife were down from Euclid on Monday.

W. E. Kelsey went out to Red Lake Falls on Saturday.

Everybody goes out to Fosston this week, to attend the fair.

Mr. Lewis and wife were down from their farm near Warren on Monday.

An accident at the saw mill on Saturday shut off the whistle for a few days.

Some of our citizens took in the races at the Forks last week—more of 'em didn't.

S. S. Simpson arrived on Sunday from Iowa to look after his farming operations near Euclid.

August Himmelsbach hauled out lumber to his farm in Fairfax for a house and burn this week.

George Messick came up from Duluth on Sunday. He is said to have the finest cold storage in the west.

Mr. Swanson, who works the E. O. Flanders farm north of town reports a yield of 20 bushels of wheat per acre.

Chris Stuhr was in from Euclid on Friday of last week. Reports that his wheat yield was 30 bushels strong.

Mrs. Shields, wife of mine host of the hotel Sherman went to Argyle for a few days visit to friends last Saturday.

Wheat opened the week on Monday morning at 42 cents for 1 Hard; track buyers were offering 44. Very little offered.

Martin Hagun purchased A. K. Austin's trotting horse one day last week and then traded the animal to Judge Benson.

Prof. John Moore welcomed the arrival of a nephew, from Canada, last week. The young man will remain for the winter.

Frank Bivins reports 32 bushels per acre for his entire wheat crop. Mr. Bivins always has good crops if there is any in the country.

Sam Suto passed through the city Friday night from the East Grand races where he had been to book some attractions for the Fosston fair.

The rain on Sunday rendered threshing on Monday impracticable and the result was that the town was full of men from the threshing fields.

Mrs. W. F. Bugg and her sister, Miss Cora Lee, of Buffalo, N. Y., spent the week at Maple Lake, last week. On their return they went up to Argyle to see Bert's folks.

Halloek News:—N. H. Root came up to Halloek Monday and closed up his barber business here. He returned to Crookston with his wife where they will make their home.

Sunday was a surprise party—as to weather. It was cold enough for a brisk fire all day and yet it rained copiously. A red hot frost greeted the early riser on Monday morning.

August Wentzel was up from the farm, this week, and reports his threshing all done and his yield of wheat a trifle over 30 bushels per acre for the whole farm. Good enough.

Miss Jennie Miller started for Angus on Friday morning, via the cannon ball line, hoping to arrive there before dark. As the distance is 21 miles it is an open question whether she arrove there by that time.

Jim Keenan and wife spent the week in the city last week, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Kelley. Mrs. Keenan left for her home in Superior on Friday and Jim went north on the St. Vincent line to buy wheat.

Roseau Times:—Geo. Ralph, civil engineer and government surveyor, came in on Wednesday's stage from Crookston and proceeded in the afternoon to War Road where he has two surveying crews at work on the Indian reservation.

The trustees of Col. Cobham Post have awarded the contract for plastering the kitchen, and when that is completed Grand Army Headquarters will be in pretty good shape. At the next meeting, on the evening of Oct. 4th, the matter of dedication will come up for discussion.

The Fertile fair was everything that could be desired in point of exhibits but the attendance was very small owing to the fact that the farmers are all too busy in the field to go to fairs or to think of anything else besides the threshing and fall plowing. Zan Farley won the 5 mile bicycle race, handicapped 300 yards, in 16 minutes and 17 seconds. His nearest competitor was a close second.

The following item from the Brainerd Dispatch refers to one of the sons of J. E. Greenhalgh Esq., of this city who is fireman on the N. P. main line, running west from Staples. "Will" is well known here and the JOURNAL extends congratulations with his host of friends: "Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Wm. C. Greenhalgh to Miss Alice J. Shore, at the First Congregational church in this city, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 25th, at 2 o'clock. Rev. Edmands will perform the ceremony. A reception will be given in their honor at the residence of Mrs. H. J. Gross, at 5 p. m."

Comrade Paul Felix received notice that his application for admission to the soldier's home had been accepted and he leaves this week for that institution. Paul has been one of the most faithful members of Col. Cobham Post, never absent from his place at Post meeting except it be from sickness, and he always took a very great interest in all matters pertaining to the Grand Army. He will be missed at the Post meetings but he will carry with him the love and best wishes of the members of the Post.

The Roseau Times says: "The petition for a daily mail to and from Stephen has been sent to Third Assistant Postmaster General at Washington. The petition was numerously signed by residents at Roseau, Stephen and intervening post offices. It is to be hoped that the prayer of the petition will be granted by the Washington officials as the advantages of a daily mail will be of great commercial value as well as a decided convenience to the people of Roseau county."

Jim Keenan, who is buying wheat on the St. Vincent line says he finds no difficulty in obtaining all the cars he needs. Along at first the company could not find cars enough for him—they were all busy somewhere else so Jim made a great roar to the board of warehouse and railroad commissioners and after that he got all the cars he wanted—had cars "to throw at the birds" as it were. He had sixty cars to load on Saturday —and loaded every one of 'em.

On Friday last, as E. M. Walsh was returning from a drive into the country with Mr. S. S. Robb, the team became frightened and ran away, throwing the gentlemen out and making a total wreck of the buggy. Mr. Walsh was quite seriously hurt but the other gentleman escaped with slight injuries. Mr. W. is doing nicely and bids fair to be all right again shortly. It was an extremely narrow shave, though.

The Fast Mail company appeared at the Grand last Friday evening and owing to the fact that they had to take a freight out after the entertainment, cut the life out of the play. The music was——conspicuous by its absence; large chunks of stillness prevailed right where the most effective orchestral strains should have been. But maybe that was all right—the company did not have time for extras.

The base ball game at the fair grounds in Fertile last week was awarded to Fertile by a score of 9 to 10. The umpire is one of the best and most progressive farmers but it is said that he might learn some points about the National game that would be useful in preserving his life to a ripe old age if he was to umpire many league games.

E. D. Childs lost a straw stacker by fire on Friday of last week and came near losing his separator also. This was fortunately hauled out of the way in time but the stacker and some oats were destroyed. This occurred on one of Mr. Childs' Fairfax farms.

Geo. Vine tells the JOURNAL that the way his 20 acre patch of corn is husking out he will have 2000 bushel baskets full. It is as fine and solid as anyone could wish to see and this has not been an extra fine corn year either. Geo says he will keep plenty of that corn for seed next spring.

The funeral of the late Alex. McDonald at St. Mary's church on Thursday last was well attended. The bearers were Allan McKinnon, Benj. LaDue, Paul Felix, M. Mahone, P. J. Russel and Dan McKinnon. The remains were laid to rest in Oakdale.

Mrs. E. J. Caffrey arrived on Friday morning to visit with her many friends in the city, for awhile, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Wyatt. Our readers will best recognize her as Miss Mabel Arnold, which name was changed only a few week's since.

Quite a number of our citizens went to Fertile to attend the fair last week. The N. P. morning freight was very late and didn't get there until 2 p. m., which gave very little time, so a good many gave up the trip on that account.

Iver Krohn went to his farm near Fertile last week and started the thresher. Was up to spend the Sunday in the city and reports that his wheat yield is running on an average of 30 bushels per acre.

"SAY BOSS! Them People Won't Take This Soap—They Want SANTA CLAUS SOAP"

Everybody wants SANTA CLAUS SOAP who knows the goodness of it. Try it once and you will refuse all other kinds, too. Sold everywhere. Made only by

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, CHICAGO.
JUST GOOD SOAP.
GROCERIES

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

❀ ❀ ❀

HURRAH: For the Fire Proof Shoe, the latest scientific discovery. If you want a Shoe that will give you perfect satisfaction ask for our celebrated FIRE and WATER PROOF SHOES. They are made for honest service and are the product of honest workmanship and honest leather. A new process of tanning has culminated in the invention of a shoe that will stand two hundred degrees of heat without injury to the leather and is impervious to water. Every pair has Patent Heel Protectors. Have good style and are particularly adapted to workmen around slaughter and packing houses, cooks, bakers and plasterers, and others, where the shoe is apt to come in contact with hot water. Farmers and out door workers, teamsters, expressmen and railroad men will find in these shoes just what fills the bill for service, style, fit and economy for the wearer. Try a pair and be convinced that you have at last succeeded in finding just the shoe you have wished for.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM
CROOKSTON, MINN.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions is NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jeweler.

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

T. A. Harris went down to Fertile last week to move a building and this week he went down to lift a thresher engine out of the river that fell through the bridge one day last week. He expects to finish up all his business there and get back home by Saturday.

The fine, thoroughbred trotter owned by S. L. Collins had the misfortune to get a leg broken on Friday, of last week and had to be shot. Collins thought a great deal of the animal and it was not the sharp, cold wind that made the tears stand in his eyes as he told about the affair.

Geo. Gould, the representative of the Gould railway system, of New York passed through the city via N. P. Railway on Saturday morning, enroute to Manitoba for a chicken hunt, he said. Someway the earth seems to have performed its regular diurnal revolutions just the same, ever since.

Heap plenty big Injuns, half-breeds and squaws in the city enroute to Fergus Falls to tell what they know about John Doe, who did wilfully and maliciously then and there, give, sell or transfer to one Stick-in-the-mud, one quart, gallon, barrel or drink of whiskey—same thing.

Land commissioner Babcock and Agent Hilligoss have been up in Kittson county looking over lands for the McGolrick colony. The intention of father McGolrick is to establish an Irish colony on Great Northern lands and Kittson county has been chosen.

John Quisnell was in from Mentor on Tuesday, and did not forget to drop in and exchange views with the JOURNAL man. John has been of the bone and sinew of the Populists in Polk county; but is evidently weakening in that faith. He don't seem to be in full accord with the ideas enunciated by that party.

Work on extending the N. P. branch north from Keystone commenced this week Something like 15 miles will be built this fall in time to handle the wheat tributary to the line. How much farther the road will be continued north it is impossible to say, but it will probably not remain many years in that condition.

Prof. Hovestrud arrived from St. Paul, on Tuesday morning, and says that work on the experimental station buildings will soon be commenced. They have the plans nearly perfected and the work will be commenced by Oct. 1st, he thinks. Next spring they will be all ready to go ahead with business.

U. S. District Court meets at Fergus Falls, this week.

Thos. Johnstons took a trip to the Marais country on Monday.

The N. P. boys were rejoiced at the arrival of the pay car on Saturday.

Billy Dawley was in the city this week, enjoying "all the comforts of a home."

Potatoes are selling about town from farmers' wagons for 15 cents per bushel.

Hubert Plowboy rode to Fisher on Tuesday, on his bike, to look after telephone business.

One of Jake Francis boys had the misfortune to get a leg broken while at play on Saturday.

Chas. Holt is up from Faribault this week visiting his folks and old-time friends in the city.

John Huge, of Maiden Rock, Wis., is visiting his sister, Mrs. John O'Brecht for a few days.

W. D. Carlton spent the Sabbath in the city with his family, returning to Angus on Monday morning.

Atty. A. A. Miller went down to Fergus Falls, Sunday evening, to attend the session of U. S. court.

J. M. Palmer's wheat yield at Angus is reported to the JOURNAL at 42½ bushels per acre all 'round.

Sunday afternoon the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thompson died of cholera infantum aged 18 months.

Mrs. Jerry Schefestad starts for Germany this week to join her husband who is in the musical conservatory at Leipsic.

Myron Collins arrived with a car load of good work horses, on Monday evening. They may be seen at S. L. Collins' stables.

S. L. Collins received another carload of horses on Monday evening, which may now be seen at his stables. Call early for choice.

C. W. Palmer took the Cannon ball for the north on Monday. Though he expected to come back on the return trip he took his over-coat along for it may be cold weather—next fall.

If the care of the hair were made a part of a lady's education, we should not see so many gray heads, and the use of Hall's Hair Renewer would be unnecessary.

The board of county commissioners met in regular session at the court house, on Tuesday, for the transaction of regular routine business.

C. O. Christianson returned from St. Paul on Monday morning where he has been engaged in his duties as a member of the state board of equalization.

Sheriff Steenerson went to Grand Forks, on Saturday, to raid a few gambling houses. He succeeded in finding some traps that indicated gambling and made a few arrests.

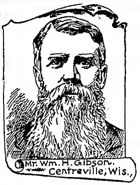
Rev. H. P. Fisher arrived on Tuesday morning from his trip to Alexandria, having stopped in Glyndon over Sunday to exchange with Pastor Wrigley. Reports having had an enjoyable trip.

It did look something like an elopement—that little affair on Broadway—on Tuesday afternoon—and a cream colored horse—but Benoit assures us it was not; it was only a start for the ball game.

Next Sunday will be Elderly People's Day at the Congregational church. The communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered, the services beginning at 11 o'clock, and the Sunday school at 10. In the evening at 8:00 there will be a Praise Service, and reports will be heard from the State meeting recently held at Alexandria.

Will Olds, while over at Grand Forks, last week, was given some jobs at bicycle repairing that none of the repair shops in that city were capable of handling. He brought the bikes along and very soon made them as good as new. Hawkins & Co. not only know how to fix up a bike if there is any fix to it, but they also have the tools required. The other day we dropped in and saw Will busily fooling with two big round holes like this: O O and asked him what he was up to and he said: "'Feller brought these in and wanted me to fix his bike an' I'm fixin 'er."

A ball game between league teams is a novelty in Crookston, but that is what lovers of that sport were permitted to see on Tuesday afternoon at the fair grounds. At 3 o'clock the home team went against the "All-American" team and after five innings they despaired of ever reaching the home plate and the St. Paul club took their place and went up against the A. A's. The score was 6 to 7 in favor of the latter club. These clubs are on their way to California, where the St. Paul club will play for San Francisco during the coming winter and the All-American club for Oakland. In the evening the Crookston first nine gave a pleasant hop for their guests at G. A. R. hall, and the boys departed Wednesday morning, well pleased with their treatment at Crookston.



Mr. Wm. H. Gibson, Centreville, Wis.,

Renewed in Strength

After the Grip—Liver Troubles, Acute Rheumatism

"For a long time I was suffering from the grip, which terminated with a severe attack of congestion of the liver. I also had rheumatism, being so lame as to be unable to do any hard work, and could only walk short distances. My attention was called to Hood's Sarsaparilla by the druggists and after taking some seven or eight bottles I found myself quite renewed in strength, my rheumatism was gone entirely and I have never had serious trouble with my liver since. My physician also advised the continuance of Hood's Sarsaparilla." WILLIAM H. GIBSON, Centreville, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

FOSSTON ITEMS

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

A cabbage weighing 52 pounds was sent from Crookston to the Grand Forks fair.

Miss Frankie and Maude Bearnes, of Crookston, were visiting friends here on Friday

A large number of letters that had survived the wreck at Melby last week arrived here Saturday evening. Many of them were badly disfigured.

An attempt was made by the drivers of Belle W. and Spot Buford in one of the races at McIntosh last Friday to put Harry S. in the third place, but it didn't go with the judges.

An important feature of the coming Thirteen Towns Fair will be the absence of all "shell" games, "chuck-a-luck," etc., either in the village or at the fair grounds. The Association has shut down on such devices entirely.

One of our prominent hardware men, L. S. Johnson, who left here last week, ostensibly to visit the state fair, will be united in marriage next Monday, 23rd inst., it is announced to Miss Martha Lee, at the residence of the bride's father, Aslak Lee, of Waseca, Minn. Mr. I. I. Hillestad and Mrs. Hillestad, Mr. Johnson's sister, accompanied Mr. Johnson to Waseca and will be present at the wedding. Miss Lee is a sister of John Halvorson, of McIntosh, and is highly esteemed by those here who know her. They are expected home soon after the wedding.

C. M. Benson, Judge of Probate, held a special term of court in the town hall here last Saturday. C. Clough, the appointed guardian of A. Connor's property, was required to appear before the court and explain why the property was not turned over to Connor upon the reinstatement of the latter to capacity. Attorney Rowe appeared for Connor and B. S. Bennett for Clough. After hearing the testimony the judge decided that $25 was due Mr. Clough for expense incurred in attending to his duties as guardian.

Friday, the last day of the McIntosh fair, drew a crowd from here. The races were all interesting as was also the baseball match between Fosston and McIntosh. Our local team was ably assisted by Editor George, of Fertile, and Geo. Newton of Hansville. At the end of the sixth inning the score stood 12 to 12. In the seventh and final inning, the Fosston nine went in first and made one run. Their opponents then won the game by making an extra score. The game was closely contested throughout.

A TIMELY REMINDER

Each season forces upon our consideration its own peculiar perils to health. The advent of fall finds many reduced in strength and vigor, poorly prepared to continue the business of life. The stomach and bowels, the great highway of animal economy, is especially liable to disorder in the fall. The nervous system has also suffered in the struggle. Typhoid fever and malaria in particular find in the fall that combination of earth, air and water that mark this season as especially dangerous. The falling leaves, the decaying vegetables contribute their share of contamination. Hood's Sarsaparilla furnishes a most valuable safeguard at these important points, and should be used in the fall before serious sickness has laid you low.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

For Sale Cheap

If you want a good farm, right adjoining the experimental farm at first price call at the JOURNAL office for particulars. This farm has good artesian well, 15 acres natural timber and balance in crop. Will sell it with or without half interest in the crop now growing thereon. A snap for somebody. [15tf]

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 303 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER. Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED.

If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

BEFORE AFTER
NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5, with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis..........
8	Neuralgia Toothache, Faceache.....
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.......
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding.............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes.....
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough....................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing.......
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases....................
28	Nervous Debility....................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30	Urinary Weakness..................
31	Painful Periods......................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.

DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 112 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.

Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

AN ENGLISH CASUAL.

WHERE TRAMPS GET FOOD AND LODGING FOR WORK.

Josiah Flynt and a Companion Wind Up a Study of Tramp Life In England by a Visit to a "Spike"—Meeting With a Great Friend of Mark Twain.

Josiah Flynt, who has given interesting studies on tramp life in Germany and in this country, has extended his investigations to England. He writes a paper entitled, "Two Tramps In England" in Century. He and his companion, a German student, completed a tour through the provinces with an experience in a "casual" at Notting Hill, London. Mr. Flynt writes:

We appeared at the door of the ward about half past 7 in the evening. A little window was raised, and I stepped forward to state my business. Unconsciously I leaned against the sill of the window, which offended the inspector in charge considerably.

"What's your name?" he thundered. Still leaning on the sill, I gave him my name honestly enough. He then remarked to some person inside that we were not accustomed to such places evidently, and called out, "Stand back, will you!" Back I stood. He cried out again, "Take off your hat!" My hat came off instanter. Still again: "You come in here as if you was a meeleeonary. You're not. You're a casual." I was as meek as could well be. Ryborg was itching to grab the inspector with his long arms. The next question was as to where we had slept the night before.

"Straw stack," I replied.

"None of your impudence! You slept out. Why don't you say so? Have you got any money?"

"A hap'enny, sir."

"Hand it in." In it went. Then I had to tell my trade, which was that of a sailor, and naturally the next question was as to where I was bound.

"To Ameriky, sir, if I can ever get here."

"You're goin to tramp it, aren't you?"

"Yes, sir; that's my intention." But for the life of me I could not see how I was to reach America that way. I was so frightened that I would have told him anything he wanted.

When he was through with us, a kind hearted attendant took us in hand, gave us some gruel and bread, a bath, clean night shirts, and then a cell apiece, in which we slept very well.

As there were only four inmates that morning we were needed for the cleaning up, and so escaped stone breaking, which I dreaded exceedingly, and were put at various light occupations—or rather I was. Ryborg was the victim of his strength. Our breakfast consisted of the same dish as our supper of the night before. I was soon busy as general fireman, scrubber, knife cleaner, coal carrier, dish washer and helper of my sister sufferer, Mrs. Murphy, as she washed her task of towels and shirts. At noon we had pea soup and bread. I enjoyed it, but Ryborg did not. The poor fellow was feeling badly. He had had to scrub nearly 20 cells, and the bending over incident to such a feat had nearly broken his back. At dinner he said plaintively, "Flynt, I want to go home." "So do I," I replied, "but I fancy we're wanted here till tomorrow morning." This proved to be the case, but he felt better in the afternoon and got through comfortably, wheeling nearly a ton of stone from some of the cells to the general pile. He earned his "keep," if ever any poor prisoner did.

I fear I was more shiftless, for about the middle of the afternoon the attendant who was with me at the furnace said: "You might as well rest. Just keep your eye on the fires, that's all." It was kind of him, and as I had at least earned my pea soup and gruel I took his advice. He was kinder to me, I think, because I gave him a corncob pipe which he had had to take away from me the night before. During the day he had asked me several questions about it, and I said, "It's a very decent sort of pipe—coolinlike, you know."

"Doesn't Mark Twain always smoke one o' them pipes?" said he.

"Blest if I know," said I, "but I can well think it."

"I'm a great friend of Mark Twain," he pursued, "an I'm a-thinkin o' gettin one o' them pipes, jest out of respect for him."

"Well," said I, "permit me in the name of your respect to present you with my pipe. Besides you've got it anyhow." He thanked me profusely, and promised to keep it forever. Later in the day he reported it to be just as I had said, "sort o' coolin like." And he was a good friend to me all the rest of my stay in the Notting Hill station.

On Wednesday morning we were turned loose with our two ha'pennies. We were both so happy that we decided to get off the road that very day.

We had been tramps for three weeks, and had walked most of this time fully 15 miles a day. So we looked up my friend at the Temple, and in a few hours were respectable again. That same day I took my tramp clothes out to the casual ward and presented them to my friend the attendant. I had told him the day before that I expected to get new "togs" soon, and he had put in a plea for my old ones. Good luck to him and them.

The Reason Why.

New Parson—Which do you like best, Willie, your day school or your Sunday school?

Willie—My Sunday school.

New Parson—I am glad to hear that. Why do you like your Sunday school the best?

Willie—Because it is only once a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Particular.

Conductor—That's a French coin, sir. I can't take it.

Passenger—You can't? You gave it to me in change this morning.

Conductor—Well, you see, I'm more particular than you are.—London Quiver.

HOW CHRISTY PAID A DEBT.

The Minstrel's Generosity to a Man Who Had Befriended Him.

The head of the famous Christy minstrel troop was not George, but E. P. Christy, who originated the company some time back in the forties, and the following story of the latter is interesting:

Christy, then a young man, was a passenger on a Lake Erie steamboat commanded by Captain Folger and bound to Buffalo, where the first show was to come off. But the minstrel had not even a dollar to invest in the hire of a cellar for the performance. Captain Folger, to whom he made known his wants, generously handed him a $20 bill, telling him that he was welcome to it, and that he need not trouble himself about paying it back. On the strength of this $20 Christy began business and in a few years became successful and rich.

In the meantime misfortunes overtook Captain Folger. Losing his employment on the lakes, he resolved to try again the salt water, on which he was brought up. So he came to New York to see if he could obtain a situation as master or, failing that, as mate of a seafaring vessel.

He bethought himself of Christy, whom he supposed might possibly know some shipowner to whom he could recommend him. The minstrel received him most cordially, but told him that he had no acquaintances in that line of business.

"Why don't you buy a ship?" he asked.

"Buy a ship!" answered Folger. "Why, I haven't a dollar in the world. All I want is employment."

"See here," returned Christy, "how much would a vessel cost?"

"Any price," replied the Captain. "A pretty good one could be bought for, say, $20,000 or less."

"Well, now," exclaimed the big hearted showman, "you loaned me $20 once, and I am ashamed to say I have forgotten to pay it, but I will pay my debt now. Go and buy a $20,000 ship and send the seller to me for the money. I will own her, and you shall sail her. If she makes anything, you shall have it. If she don't, I shall stand the loss."

This is the conversation, word for word, as Captain Folger told it to me. I had just returned from an East Indian voyage in the Vandalia, a ship of about 400 tons. One day Captain Folger came on board at the dock and introduced himself. He said he would like to buy the ship and asked the price. It so happened that $20,000 was the sum I had decided upon. After a little dickering he offered me $18,000, and I accepted it.

To my astonishment, he referred me to E. P. Christy as the purchaser, and then he told me the story as I tell it. We went together to see Christy, and the result of the interview was that I gave him a bill of sale of the Vandalia, taking his note in payment, the note to be paid in installments, and every morning after one of his entertainments I called upon him and received a hatful of bills, quarters, shillings and sixpences until the indebtedness was canceled.

Captain Folger made a successful voyage to California in the Vandalia. The ship was then sold, and Christy bought a larger and more expensive ship, on board of which Captain Folger eventually died at Calcutta.—John Codman in the New York Herald.

Watch Competitions.

Very few people know that there are, in connection with the Geneva watch trade, competitions involving very large sums of money, a goodly proportion of which finds its way into England.

A certain number of watchmakers at Geneva nominate certain dealers in England who shall hold competition watches made by the former, and the names of such dealers are agreed to by the whole of the said makers. Prizes ranging from £300 downward are given to the makers whose particular watches shall keep the best time and remain in the finest condition during 12 months.

The English dealers who hold the watches during the 12 months have to keep a daily record in regard to the loss or gain of time evidenced by their charges, and they are of course in absolute honor bound to keep a correct one and not to tamper with the watches beyond winding them. No given maker's watch in the competition bears any name or distinctive mark other than peculiarities of construction by which the name of the maker can be identified by the holder. The watches are of the usual kind manufactured for trading purposes and not mere "exhibition" watches, and the holder of each prize winner receives one-half of the award.—London Standard.

Napoleon's Manners.

Napoleon was rude. His manners were coarse, and when at table he ate as fast as he could chew and swallow, shoveling the food into his mouth with his knife and using his fingers whenever they came into more convenient employment. When talking to his officers, he often, as a friendly favor, pulled their whiskers or pinched their ears. To women he was almost invariably offensive, sometimes uttering language so coarse as to bring a flush of shame to their cheeks and the tears to their eyes.

The Eyes.

The eyes are placed in cavities in the head and are protected by ridges of bone above and beneath so that a very strong blow in the face rarely does more than contuse or blacken the surrounding muscles. If the eyes were placed on the outside of the round skull, many persons would have these valuable members crushed by falls or blows.

New Zealand commemorates the love of the Dutch explorers for their native country. There is a district in Holland known as Sealand.

Linsey woolsey was first made at the town of Linsey, in Suffolk, England, about 1580.

THE FIRST LOCOMOTIVE.

It Was Built by Oliver Evans, Who Couldn't Lay Up Money.

The real inventor of the locomotive never realized a cent from his invention.

His name was Oliver Evans. He was born in Delaware in 1756 and spent all his life perfecting inventions which were destined to bring him nothing but more poverty. He was the original inventor of the high pressure engine used in locomotives, the only kind that could be employed to advantage in this form of transportation, but realized nothing for his idea.

His application of the notion to both land and water power was somewhat novel.

In 1804 the municipality of Philadelphia called for bids for the dredging of the river and the cleaning of the docks. Evans put in a bid lower than any of his competitors, and when it was accepted determined to build a steamboat to do the work.

He fitted out a scow with a steam engine, building both the engine and the scow in his own workshop.

When the boat was ready to be launched, Evans determined to give the people of Philadelphia an object lesson in mechanics, so he put the boat on wheels, fitted up a push wheel behind, set his engine to work and propelled the boat through the streets to the river in the midst of an open mouthed throng, not a few of whom had a dim idea that he ought to be arrested for witchcraft.

When the boat reached the bank of the river, the wheels and axles were taken off, the craft was launched, fitted out with other wheels and made to do the work of dredging the harbor.

So far as the invention of mechanical devices went, Evans had a splendid genius, but when dollars and cents came up for consideration he was a mere child, and even allowed himself to be cheated out of the money that was due him for cleaning the Philadelphia harbor with his new fangled steamboat.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AMENDED HER LIST.

She Now Declares That Lawyers Come Under the Head of Nuisances.

A few evenings ago a lawyer living in West Philadelphia was visited at his residence by an indignant woman, who declared that she had come for legal advice, and in a businesslike manner deposited on his table a $5 note as a retaining fee. After pocketing the money the man of law politely requested her to proceed with her statement. She said she was continually afflicted with a series of nuisances which she desired the lawyer to have abolished.

She was annoyed by a neighbor on one side, she said, who is a music teacher and trainer of the voice. The constant thumping on the piano and the discordant notes of the vocal students made her very nervous. On the other side the neighbor kept chickens, which awoke her early in the morning by their crowing and annoyed her during the day by flying over the fence and invading her premises. Day and night she was made nervous by the noise of the trolley cars passing her door, organ grinders and peddlers made her life miserable, hucksters added to her misery by calling their wares, and she wanted to know what action she must take in order to be made free of such nuisances.

The lawyer reflected a few moments with compressed brow, and then said, "Madam, you are decidedly unfortunate, and my advice to you is that you go to a real estate agent and engage him to secure for you a nice comfortable dwelling in the suburbs of some country village, where the nearest neighbor is a quarter of a mile away, organ grinders unknown, trolley cars unheard of, and where hucksters and peddlers do not come." Realizing that she was $5 out, the woman replied, "I'll do as you say and include among the others that no lawyers must exist in the same county."—Philadelphia Record.

Profit In Soda Fountains.

A New Orleans man named May told me that his yearly profits from his soda fountain were $30,000. One Sanders, a Detroiter, who owns an $8,000 fountain, the finest displayed at the World's fair, does a rushing business, and his sales run from $300 to $700 per day the year round. In Buffalo Stoddard Bros. employ 30 girls to handle ice cream soda, and it takes 3,000 glasses to accommodate their trade. They sell it at 5 cents a glass, and there is a net profit of just 100 per cent. In Boston Thompson's Spa, the greatest soda resort at the Hub, easily clears for its owner $50,000 a year. There are in the United States 100,000 fountains in operation, and manufacturers are getting more orders now than they ever got before.—Washington Post.

Begonias For Garden Decoration.

It is now getting to be well understood that many plants that it was thought could only be grown under glass do remarkably well in our climate under summer shade. The begonia is especially suited to this summer work. The writer came across a little piece of rockwork constructed under the shade of some large trees, in which the whole mass of rocks was completely covered with species of begonia. Every night, or nearly every night, water was showered on them through a hose from a hydrant. Nothing could exceed the beauty of this mass.—Meehan's Monthly.

The Mean Thing.

Maude—Do you know Mr. Jinks fainted last night at the dance and would have fallen if I hadn't caught him in my arms?

Ethel (slightly jealous)—Yes; he told me that he'd been suffering from the effects of the grip.—Scribner's.

I must have known life otherwise in epochs long since fled, for in my veins some orient blood is red, and through my thought are lotus blossoms blown.—T. B. Aldrich.

The Sahara is so named from the Arabic word signifying "desert."

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m
have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway. CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,000
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON........................President
L. ELLINGTON........................Vice President
J. W. WHEELER........................Cashier
A. P. HANSON........................Assistant Cashier

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK FREE!

320 PAGES ILLUSTRATED

Martha Washington Cook Book

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet ... Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE.

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a ... etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture ... every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. ... TOLEDO, O.

Order for Hearing on Claims.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. In Probate Court
County of Polk. }

Special term September 9th 1895.

In the matter of the estate of Ferdinand Gallette, deceased.

Letters of Administration on the estate of said deceased being this day granted unto David Coe of said County,

It is ordered, That all claims and demands of all persons against said estate be presented to this Court, for examination and allowance, at the Probate Office in the city of Crookston on the following days, viz: Monday the 9th day of March, 1896.

It is further ordered, That Six months from the date hereof be allowed to creditors to present their claims against said estate, at the expiration of which time all claims not presented to said Court, or not proven to its satisfaction shall be forever barred, unless, for cause shown further time be allowed.

Ordered Further, That notice of the time and place of the hearing and examination of said claims and demands shall be given by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to the day appointed for such examination, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 9th day of September A.D. 1895.

By the Court,
C. M. BENSON,
Judge of Probate.

22-24.)

H. STEENERSON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Crookston, - Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

FFICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor ....David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor.... ....Frank A. Da
Secretary of State....................F. P. Brown
Attorney General........ ....H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist....Frank M. Eddy

Senator 51st Sen. dist..............P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist...John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice ....Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court,...Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist ....Frank Ives
Clerk of Court.................................John Vig

County.

Auditor...John Gleason
Treasurer ....J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds.....................A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney..................................L. E. Gossman
Sheriff................................Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate..........................C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools...............................O. McCrillis
Surveyor ....O. L. Hamery
Coroner..John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District.....................John E. Oppegaard
Second District..........................Anton Lindem
Third District..............................M. E. Kirsch
urth District................................Henry Norland
ifth District.................................A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor ....John McKinnon
Clerk..W. A. Lanctot
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer..........................Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller.....................................August Georg
Assessor...C. H. Mix
City Attorney...............................Martin O'Brien
City Engineer................................George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables...................A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom.
Chief of Police.............................Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large.......................................C. E. Sawyer
First Ward.......A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Bahn
Second " ....J. E. Morrisey, E. C. Davis
Third " ....Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth " ....N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth " ....A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

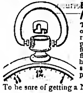
TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
Block River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
Bray	C C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....	....
Crookston	L. C. Courrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fanny	J O McWaters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Go. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Houson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Goudrou	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Pork	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Neilsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	G H Froats	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Gibean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Motteson	Oxetia
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Meager	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Albue	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marlu	Melvin
Parnell	S W Bleau	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Houkom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildaig Baril	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rocksburg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
Rosecud	John E Juvrud	Fosston
Russia
	Oscar Wick	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cernousek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
Tynsid	....	....
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
T R Falls	Lars Backe	T R Falls

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timberland. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]



Going to Buy a Watch?

If so, buy one that cannot be stolen. The only thief-proof Watches are those with Non-pull-out BOWS.

Here's the Idea: The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendent (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendent, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

To be sure of getting a Non-pull-out, see that the case is stamped with this trade mark. It cannot be had with any other kind.

Send a postal for a watch case opener to the famous Boss Filled Case makers.

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S

FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS. A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the out the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

PLANET COLLISIONS.

Should Stars Knock Together the Fire Would Be Indescribable.

Professor Ledger of London, whose series of Gresham astronomy lectures on "Knocks In Their Relation to Astronomy" has been completed, in his last discourse pointed out that the universe, instead of being fixed, is alive with motion, each star with its attendant planets hurrying through space. If star were to knock against star the intense heat and fierce fire generated by the enormous velocity and vast momentum of the two masses would be such as to pass human conception.

It may be that the sun was formed by the collision of two stars. The effect of two such bodies attracting each other, and meeting would be to reduce them to a violently agitated gaseous mass, which would oscillate, first inward, producing inconceivable heat, and then outward again, ultimately assuming the condition of the sun. The general result would be that the two bodies would revolve around their common center of gravity—that is to say, around each other—creating a double star. Lord Kelvin has calculated that if 29,000,000 solid globes, each of the mass of the moon, should be scattered over a spherical surface 100 times the radius of the earth's orbit, they would come together and be raised to a temperature of 100,000 degrees. They would oscillate outward and inward, reaching to a less distance each time, and ultimately settling down into a sphere.

The nebulæ we see around us may, Professor Ledger suggests, have been produced by the knocking together of two great bodies rather than by the aggregation of many smaller ones. The collision of two huge suns would thus lead to rejuvenescence and the formation of new systems. Phenomena indicating that something very much in the nature of a collision had occurred are the outbursts of temporary stars such as those observed by Tycho Brahe in 1572, by Kepler in 1604 and those of 1848, 1866, 1876, 1885 and 1892, the last being the new star Auriga, which declined through ten magnitudes, or became 100,000 times less bright in two months. The great increase in the light of a comet as it approaches the sun may be due to a tidal disturbance in the bodies forming it, causing them to knock against each other, and thus generate heat and light.

In the same way the twinkling of the stars may be caused by the knocks of the molecules of the atmosphere on the ether, whose undulations carry their light to us. The excessively great and the exceedingly small are all interdependent, and the past, present and probable future of nebulous bodies all hinge on the relations they bear to the knocks of the molecules of their gases, while the knocks of immense bodies depend ultimately on the knocks of their constituent atoms.

Book Bound In Gold and Silver.

The only gold and silver bound, diamond incrusted book in the world was lately enshrined in the holy Mohammedan city of Isnan-Ruza, Persia. The book is of course a copy of the Alkoran and is a gift from Abd-ur-Rahman, ameer of Afghanistan. The covers of this unique volume, the sides of which are 9½ by 4 inches, are of solid gold plates one-eighth of an inch in thickness, lined with silver sheets of the same thickness.

The centerpiece, as well as the corners, is a symbolic design wrought in diamonds, rubies and pearls. The center figure is a crescent with a star between its points, the whole design being composed of 109 small diamonds, 167 pearls and 122 rubies. The diamonds on each corner, which are almost hidden in their golden setting, and the orange colored lacquer with which they are fastened, are each worth about $5,000. The book itself is on parchment, entirely written by hand. It is valued at $125,000. There are said to have been over 100,000 visitors present in Isnan-Ruza the day the holy relic was enshrined.—St. Louis Republic.

Soap Bubbles.

M. Izarn has communicated to the Academy of Sciences a new method for obtaining soap bubbles lasting a much longer time than those obtained from the soap water generally used. He has recourse to a resinous soap made by the following formula: Pulverize together 10 grams of pure rosin and 10 parts of carbonate of potash; add 100 parts of water and boil until complete solution. We obtain in this way a thick solution which may be kept in stock to be diluted for use with from four to five times its volume of water. It can be kept indefinitely even when exposed to the air. The bubbles produced are very persistent and consequently can be made useful in the study of phenomena relating to thin laminæ and in making photographs in which soap bubbles play a part.

The Director's Fee.

Nearly all the great financial concerns here pay the directors who attend board meetings $10 for each sitting, not counting lunch and cigars. Some men in this way pick up all the way from $5,000 to $10,000 a year, they being of the directory of several institutions or corporations. A bank president whose services are in demand as a director is authority for the statement that the fee is paid in gold and is given to the director the moment he enters the board room. And directors don't always direct at that.—New York Letter.

The Public's Own Fault.

Jazkins—Bicyclists are so common nowadays, I suppose, that nobody pays any attention to them.

Biznog—That's just it. People pay no attention to them, and then they denounce the bicyclists for running them down.—Roxbury (Mass.) Gazette.

First Church Building In Chicago.

Erected in 1833. Dedicated Jan. 4, 1834. Location, a block and a half from South Water street, on the alley on Clark street, in the rear of the present Sherman House. Denomination, Presbyterian.

FLOOD OF THE NILE.

THE GREATEST EVENT OF ALL THE YEAR AT CAIRO.

Impressive Ceremonies at the Cutting of the Bank to Allow the Water to Flow Into the Canal—The Ancient Nilometer on the Island of Roda.

The tourist who only comes to Egypt to shun "winter and foul weather" knows nothing of the majestic glories of the Nile flood. The ancient Nilometer at the south end of the island of Roda, just above Cairo, is one of the most interesting sights of the place. The water enters from the river by a culvert into a well about 18 feet square, with a graduated stone pillar in the center. On each side of the well is a recess about 6 feet wide and 3 feet deep, surmounted by a pointed arch, over which is carved in relief a Kufic inscription, and a similar inscription is carried all around the well, consisting of verses of the Koran. A staircase goes down the well, from the steps of which the initiated may read the height of the water on the pillar, but they are few in number, and the hereditary sheikh of the Nilometer, whose duty it is to keep the record, is a person of some importance. The Nilometer dates from A. D. 861, and I believe in the archives of Cairo may be found the daily record for 1,000 years.

I need hardly tell you that when our English engineers took the river in hand we established a number of gauges at Wadi-Halfa, Assuan, Cairo and many other points on more scientific principles than the venerable Nilometer of the Roda island.

After the river has begun to rise its height is daily chanted through the Cairo streets until it reaches 10 cubits on the gauge. At this point the Khalig el Masri, the old canal that flows through the heart of Cairo, is opened—up to this point it is dry, and full or empty it is little more than a sanitary abomination at present, but in former days it occupied an important place, and when the Nile water was high enough to flow down its bed it was looked on that the flood had fairly set in, and that the kindly fruits of the earth might be duly expected.

The head of this canal is on the right bank of the river, just south of Cairo. The water enters a channel some 30 feet wide, with a high wall on its left and a sloping bank on its right or southern flank. The water then flows under the pointed arch of an old stone bridge. The bed of the canal is cleared so that it would flow in at a gauge of about 14½ cubits, but an earthen bank is thrown across it about four feet higher.

There is no more interesting ceremony in Egypt than the annual cutting of the khalig, as the opening ceremony is called. It takes place between Aug. 5 and 15. Days before preparations are made for the festival. Tents with innumerable lamps are placed along the wall on the one side. Frames for all manner of fireworks are [illegible] ban' on the [illegible]. All the notables [illegible] there in full uniform or in [illegible]. The khedive himself or his representative, the Sheikh ul Islam, the highest dignitary of the [illegible], the Sheikh el Bekri, the Sheikh [illegible], all the learned scribes of the great university of the Azhar, the cabinet ministers and under secretaries, the sirdar of the army and his staff, the judges and the financiers.

The Egyptian troops are turned out, salutes are fired, and about 8 o'clock in the warm summer night the classes all assemble under the gayly lighted tents, the masses crowd round the frames for the fireworks, the street is lined with harem carriages full of closely veiled figures, though it is not much that they can see from their broughams. Out in the river just opposite the canal's mouth is moored an old hulk of a certain seagoing outline, which has been towed up from Bulak during the day and is an emblem of the time when the great republic of Venice sent an envoy to witness the ceremony. This boat is full of lamps, and fireworks too. As the night deepens the excitement increases. The populace on the bridge and opposite bank are shouting, yelling and dancing wildly round the fireworks.

On the other side are the gay uniforms and lighted tents, from which we can look over the wall down on the dark water, where you see brown figures plunging in and, waist deep, digging with their hoes at the embankment that blocks the canal's mouth. Long before midnight the fireworks have gone out and left the splendid stars to themselves; the grandees have all gone to bed, but the people keep up the revelry, and in the morning, by 7:30, every one has come back. Then but little of the bank is left uncut, and a few more strokes of the big hoes will do it, and the brown skins and brown water reflect the bright sunlight from above. Then the Sheik hul Islam solemnly thanks the Almighty, Allah the all powerful, the all merciful. He implores his blessing on the flood, and at a signal the bank is cut, the waters rush in, and with them a crowd of swimmers. A bag of silver piasters is scattered among them, and the ceremony is at an end.—Nature.

Always on Time.

Washington had many admirable traits worthy of imitation, and one of them was rigid punctuality. This was well illustrated by an incident during his visit to Boston 100 years ago. Having appointed 8 o'clock in the morning as the hour at which he should set out for Salem, he mounted his horse just as the Old South clock was striking that hour. The company of cavalry which was to escort him did not arrive till after his departure and did not overtake him till he had reached Charles river bridge.—Exchange.

Concealment No Longer Necessary.

Mrs. Oldun—Why, my dear, you look ten years older since you were married.

Mrs. Youngun—And I am. You know I have been only 22 for the past ten years.—Detroit Free Press.

MINNESOTA NEWS NOTES

Hector has issued bonds for waterworks.

The Pingree potato patch scheme was a success in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, convened in annual session at St. Paul Tuesday.

George E. Skinner, an old resident and prominent citizen of St. Paul, died Saturday.

The national convocation of the Episcopal church will meet in Minneapolis next week.

Judge Kelly of St. Paul was burned while trying to rescue his horse from a burning barn.

Nearly 100 members were initiated in the Modern Woodmen lodge at Willmar Friday evening.

Homeopathic surgeons of the state discussed matters of interest at Minneapolis Thursday.

Work to prepare a fitting welcome to G. A. R. visitors in 1896, has already begun at St. Paul.

The St. Paul board of education, has decided to maintain night schools from Oct. 1 to March 20.

The Northern German Methodist Episcopal conference favors abolishing the itineracy system.

The German Methodist Episcopal conference at St. Paul declared against women as delegates.

The national triennial assembly of the Welsh Presbyterian church met at Minneapolis Thursday.

The Zenith City took from Duluth a cargo of 138,000 bushels of wheat, the largest ever loaded there.

A rear-end collision on the Great Northern near Ashby, wrecked three loaded cattle cars and a caboose.

At Grand Rapids, Peter McKenna, charged with the Bacon murder, was held to the grand jury without bail.

Assistant Secretary of State Wildt has left on a trip to Europe, where he will spend his vacation of about 60 days.

Chief of Police Smith of Minneapolis has issued a ukase against the wearing of knickerbockers by lady bicyclists.

Daniel Flint, policeman at Breckenride, was shot twice by a hobo he was trying to arrest. Neither wound will prove fatal.

Professional base ball players are going into winter quarters. Three were arrested at St. Paul Sunday. They were painting the town.

The Epworth and Oxford Methodist churches at St. Paul will be consolidated with the First Methodist church, and a new building will be erected.

The president has appointed John F. Baker of Minnesota to be secretary of the legation at Managua, Nicaragua. He is a son of Minister Baker.

The state insurance department and fire insurance men have agreed upon riders to be attached to the standard policy, so there will be no test suits against the law.

Judge Severance has allowed Jacob Freund, who is awaiting the action of the grand jury on the charge of murder in the first degree at Blue Earth City, to furnish bail in $10,000.

The state board of equalization raised the valuations of bank stock and of logs and lumber. Ten percent was added to merchandise valuations in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth.

Lieutenant Mercer, U. S. A., Indian agent for La Pointe agency, paid the Chippewa Indians on Vermillion Lake reservation their annual annuities, amounting to $7,200, at Tower.

Mrs. J. H. Brown of Springfield, Ills., died at Duluth. Mrs. Brown was a friend of President Lincoln, was prominent in charitable work, and at the time of her death was president of the Illinois board of foreign missions.

The latest census bulletins give Filmore county a population of 20,038, a gain of 3,072; Freeborn, 20,138, gain 2,176; Faribault, 20,139, gain 3,431. Grant, 7,987, gain 1,112; Goodhue, 32,268, gain 3,402; Hennepin, 218,630, gain 33,336.

Auditor Dunn has canceled 10 timber permits in Aitkin, St. Louis and Itasca counties, and has notified the holders of another batch of similar permits that they will be required to deposit a sum equal to 25 per cent of the value of the timber to be cut, otherwise their permits also, will be canceled.

Two new steel tank elevators, having a capacity of 20,000 bushels each, will be built at once by the Springfield roller mill. They will be fitted with pneumatic conveyors for grain, which can also be used to unload cars. These elevators are patented, and will be the first to be erected in Minnesota. They are air tight and the grain is taken out or put into them by pneumatic suction.

The surveys recently made in the vicinity of Red Lake are being examined by government land office engineers, headed by Colonel T. R. Hinsdale of Washington. He said with reference to the report that the Red Lake reservation may be opened this fall that there is a strong movement in that direction, but he thinks it will take nearly a year to complete the details that are necessary before opening this vast and very valuable domain to settlement.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright, whose two children were recently left a big fortune and are in charge of the probate court at Duluth, made a desperate attempt to kidnap them. They stole the children from the institution they had been placed in, and made a hard fight against the police who came to recover them. The children were taken from the parents on charges that the latter were of dissolute habits. The babies are now in custody of the court again, and Mr Wright will be tried on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN MCKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skillfully performed.

Money to Loan.
I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER MCKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)
Three (3) First-Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW&CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Aaline Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 30 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1895, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 66, duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olaf O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00.) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, situated, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November, 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE,
Assignee of said Mortgage.
Moritz Heim,
Attorney for Assignee.
Bank of Minnesota Building.
St. Paul, Minnesota.
[23-29

DEFECTIVE PAGE

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at..........7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at..........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

GO To The East, To The West, To The Town That You Like Best; BUT

Whichever way you decide to go, Be sure that your ticket reads just so—

"GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY"

The New and the Right Way EAST AND WEST.

Time Card for Crookston.

LEAVE		ARRIVE
8:30 p m. Daily	Going south to Ada, Glyndon Barnesville, Fergus Falls, St. Cloud, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and West Superior	8:25 p.m. Daily
5:40 a.m. Daily	Going west to Fisher, Grand Forks, Winnipeg, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls, Helena, Butte, Spokane, Seattle and Pacific Coast Points	5:35 a. m. Daily
7:00 a m Daily ex Sun.	Going north to Euclid, Augus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Hallock and St. Vincent	7:45 p m Daily ex Sun.
9:00 a m Mond. Wed. Friday	Going east to Wylie, St. Hilaire, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls	6:00 p m Mond. Wed. Friday
9:00 a m Tues Thurs. Sat.	...Going on Fosston branch ...	[illegible]

From July 1st 1895, trains No. 11 and 14 will run daily between Grand Forks and Crookston.

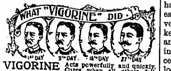
Tickets sold and baggage checked to all principal points in the United States and Canada. Rates always as low as the lowest.

Dining and Sleeping Cars, Buffet, Library, Observation Cars, Family Tourist Cars, etc., on Pacific Coast trains. For publications and information about rates, routes, etc., apply to

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
Crookston, Minn.

The RAPID DISH WASHER

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.



VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages $5 00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Altogether Too Honest.

Hotel Clerk—That lawyer stopping with us is the most honest man I ever heard of.

Landlord—Why?

Clerk—He sits up in a chair and sleeps at night.

Landlord—What's that got to do with it?

Clerk—He says after his day's work is over he doesn't think he ought to lie in bed.—Detroit Free Press.

The First Safety Lamp.

The first claim as an inventor of a safety lamp for use in mines was made by Dr. Clanny of Newcastle, who, in 1813, contrived a ponderous and complicated machine, requiring a boy to work it. This apparatus never became popular. It was found to be too unwieldy.

Awarded Highest Honor-World's Fair

·DR· PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

ALBERT EDWARD'S EXPENSIVE JOKE.

How He Smashed the Crockery and Furniture of an Elderly Countess.

Albert Edward, prince of Wales, is perhaps the most popular man in England. This popularity is due to his love of sports and all manly traits which are particularly commendable in the eyes of the average Britisher. As a youth his audacity and appreciation of a joke, either as a perpetrator or victim, were well known.

One of his early escapades resulted in her majesty the queen footing a bill for broken crockery and wrecked furniture which the young prince caused in the house of one of the lesser members of the nobility. A rather elderly countess whose quick temper and sharp tongue drove even her servants away from her advertised for a footman. The prince, to whose ears tales of the peculiarities of the old lady had come, resolved to teach her a lesson. He therefore presented himself in disguise at her ladyship's house and applied for the position of footman.

The countess had just finished her breakfast, and pushing her chair back from the table instructed the servant to bring before her the applicant. The prince was thereupon ushered into the room. The countess looked him over from his feet up.

Apparently pleased with the appearance of the prince, she said, "Let me see you walk."

Albert Edward did as commanded and walked backward and forward several times across the floor from one end of the room to the other, now walking briskly at the request of the old lady and then pacing slowly, as she wished to obtain points on this score.

This performance over, the countess ordered him to trot. The dining room still the theater of action, the prince trotted around it several times. When this exercise was completed, he again came to a standstill near the head of the table, where the countess was seated. Her ladyship seemed pleased and was just on the point of asking the young man some questions about himself when he shouted:

"Now see me gallop!"

Grasping a corner of the tablecloth firmly in one hand, the prince rushed around the room, pulling the crockery off on the floor in a heap, knocking over the furniture and finally winding her ladyship up in the folds of the cloth. He then bolted for the door, leaving the countess sputtering and shouting and the servants running about in a distracted way to liberate their mistress and quiet her rage.

In the hubbub and confusion the prince escaped. The next day a check from the keeper of the privy purse settled the amount of the damages and likewise established the identity of the mischief maker.—New York Herald.

Some Everyday Mistakes.

Current natural history is sometimes very amusing. An observant country boy can give you more reliable information in half an hour than many of the writers who are accepted as authority. Two examples of the fallacies of the latter have been going the rounds. One was an article on the cricket, which was described as a very dainty insect with a delicate appetite. There is in reality but one that is more voracious, and that is the cockroach. The cricket has a robust taste for almost anything, especially farinaceous matter, and it is very destructive to clothing. A housekeeper had her lace curtains eaten up, and the writer remembers once visiting in a house where the walls had been ceiled and papered. The paper hung loose here and there, due to the crickets that gnawed through to get at the paste that had been used by the paper hangers.

Another story was of the marvelous self control of a man who discovered that a black snake had concealed itself in the pocket of his coat, which he had thrown aside in the field and donned again, very stupidly, without discovering the reptile. This of itself was surprising, as it is generally from four to five feet in length and and weighs several pounds. The black snake of the northern middle states is as harmless as the toad, and, moreover, is extremely cowardly. Its greatest fault is its destructiveness of young birds—the broods of those species which nest in low shrubs or upon the ground. But a man might carry one in each pocket and come to no harm, if his pockets were large enough and if he did not have the inherent animosity of mankind toward reptiles.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Humming Birds and Flowers.

It has long been known that insects assist plants by carrying the fertilizing pollen from flower to flower, but the fact has only recently been prominently brought forward that humming birds are just as effective distributors of pollen as insects are.

It has been shown that these little birds, which are as fond as bees of the honey of flowers, carry the pollen grains in great quantity, not only on their feathers, but on their long bills also. Indeed, so well suited is the humming bird to do this work of distribution, without any intention of its own, that the question has been raised whether it may not be the most beneficent of all the unconscious friends that the flowers have in the animal world.—Youth's Companion.

Voluminous.

A Philadelphia lawyer said a very bright thing the other day. He was seated with a group of friends, and they were discussing in a desultory way the leading topics of the day. One of the parties present, Mr. ——, persisted in monopolizing more than his share of the conversation, and his views did not at all accord with those of the lawyer. As the men separated one of them said to the lawyer:

"That —— knows a good deal, doesn't he?"

"Yes," replied the lawyer; "he knows entirely too much for one man; he ought to be incorporated."—Green Bag.

HUMAN SUFFERING.

Nine-tenths of It Is Useless and Could Be Avoided.

Go through a crowd of people, preferably city people; examine the tired, anxious, wasted faces; remember your life and the lives of the men whom you have known intimately; recall the violent deaths, the suicides of which you have heard, and ask yourself the reason of all this death, suffering and despair. And you will see, however strange it may appear, that the cause of nine-tenths of human suffering is the present life of the world; that this suffering is useless; that it could be avoided, and that the majority of men are martyrs to worldly ideas.

Recently on a rainy Sunday I crossed the market near the tower of Soukharev in a street car. For a third of a mile the car made its way through a dense crowd that closed in again behind us. From morning till evening these thousands of men, most of them hungry and in rags, jostle each other in the mud, dispute, deceive and hate each other. The same thing goes on in the markets of Moscow and other cities. These men will pass their evenings in the wine shops and afterward will seek their holes and corners. Sunday is their best day. Monday they begin again their accursed existence.

Think of the existence of these men, of the situation which they abandon and of that which they choose. Consider the labor to which they give themselves, and you will see that they are martyrs.

All have left their fields, their houses, their fathers and brothers, often their wives and children. They have renounced everything and come to the city in order to acquire that which the world considers necessary. All of them are there, from the operative, the coachman and the seamstress to the wealthy merchant, the office holder and the wives of all of them, to say nothing of the tens of thousands of unfortunates who have lost everything and live on scraps and brandy in the free lodging houses. Go through this crowd; watch poor and rich alike; look for a man who says that he is satisfied and believes that he possesses what the world deems necessary. You will not find one in a thousand. —Count Tolstoi.

BOTH PAPERS WERE USEFUL.

The Fortunate Result of a Tennessee Justice Mixing His Documents.

Bill Wright was a justice of the peace, and also an absentminded man, whose wife was as able an orator as Xantippe.

Bill used to serve all his processes himself and to save time would sign the marriage certificates in blank and deliver a number to the parson.

One day Bill had a process to serve away up in the mountains on a semibarbarous recluse, who was sued for damages for some disdeeds, and Bill thought he would deliver a few of the certificates to the parson.

So, sticking both packages of papers in the same pocket, he mounted his horse and rode off.

Reaching the minister's, he stopped and chatted awhile, and, after delivering his papers, he started off again and took the road to the mountains.

The parson had a wedding that day, one of the parties being a notorious horse thief from an adjoining county. When the ceremony was over, the parson selected a certificate from the bundle and unrolled it sufficiently to sign his name. On handing it to the man the latter opened it, and his eye grew wild as he read instead of a marriage certificate a warrant of arrest, signed by both the justice of the peace and by the parson. He feared some trap, so surrendered himself to custody.

When the justice reached the mountain side, he took out the paper to read it and immediately saw its nature, but, maintaining his self possession, he recited the form of summons, which he fortunately remembered.

He then returned and found the horse thief in jail and went and saw the parson, remarking, with his own matrimonial felicity in mind, that both papers had unintentionally served the ends of justice.—University Courier.

Why He Wanted It Printed.

Compositors are supposed to be able to decipher all kinds of handwriting, even that of editors and ministers. On this point Mr. Robert Clark, the Edinburgh printer, used to tell a story:

Professor Lindsay Alexander came into our office one Friday with the manuscript of a sermon.

"You must let me have proofs of this tomorrow," he said.

I told him the time was too short. He must give us a few days longer.

"No," he said. "I must preach this sermon tomorrow. It is a special sermon. I wrote it ten years ago, and now I can't make out a word of it."—Youth's Companion.

When Tears Are Dangerous.

M. E. Gregory, sheriff of Amador, was telling some friends the other evening about a plucky deputy and wound up by saying: "When you find a man as cool and steady as a rock in the face of danger, you can bet on him. But the most dangerous men are those who laugh or cry when they have a dispute on hand. I knew a man named Drew, down in Texas, who was noted as a very bad man. When he was doing any shooting, he would laugh loudly—a hard, demoniacal laugh, without any merriment in it. Up at Indian Diggings, many years ago, two men named Archer and Pawson had a dispute with a German about a claim. When they claimed the property, he broke down and cried, and they, supposing they would have no trouble in taking possession, marched on the ground. The German took up a broken pick and laid them both out. Archer was badly hurt and was a long time getting over his injuries. After that whenever he saw a man start to cry he got out of the way."—San Francisco Call.

THE STORY OF A BEAR.

The Truth Came Out In Spite of the $25. Paid to Suppress It.

"There used to be some good hunting up in Maine, about Rangeley lake," said Mr. T. L. Page. "A house that I managed in the little village of Phillips was the headquarters of a lot of Nimrods, who came up every season after big game. Of all the ardent sportsmen, two New Yorkers, chums and partners in business, Messrs. Buckley and Webb, were the keenest lovers of the chase. They were very successful hunters, too, and generally carried off the palm both as to quality and quantity of game.

"One season, however, they met with very poor luck, and after spending about a week in camp, with nothing to show for their labors, started to come to town, with the intention of going home. On their way in they overtook a countryman driving a farm wagon, in the bed of which lay one of the handsomest specimens of black bear that the New Yorkers had ever laid eyes on. The rustic stopped his team to let the city strangers admire his big take. Suddenly a brilliant idea occurred to Buckley. 'What would you be willing to sell your bear for?' said he to the farmer.

"'Well, the state gives a bounty of $10 for every bear, and I reckon if you'll give me $10 more you can have him.'

"Buckley gave the old man his price, with $5 additional, first exacting from him a solemn promise that he would never breathe a syllable of the transaction to any one. Then he and Webb rode ahead, and on reaching the hotel told in most enthusiastic style how they had killed the biggest black bear that had ever came out of the Maine woods. They entered into details of the shooting, and every guest of the house was on the qui vive for a look at bruin, that was coming on a little later. He was such a heavy beast that the mighty hunters were forced to hire an old farmer to bring him in town in a wagon. Pretty soon the wagon hove in sight and a big crowd gathered at the hotel entrance to see him unloaded. Exclamations of delight were heard on every side, and Buckley and Webb were the heroes of the hour.

"Down in the little village of Phillips Old Sol Mayberry, with a bigger wad of cash in his pocket than he had possessed for a long time, was getting very drunk on the proceeds of his sale, and after the third or fourth round of drinks he couldn't resist telling how, on that very morning, he had caught in a trap the finest bear he'd ever beheld, and how he had sold him to two chaps from the city. The facts leaked out in less than an hour, and the conspirators were forced to own that Old Sol had spoken the truth. Their bill for champagne that day was in three figures."—Washington Post.

Indoor Bicycle Riding.

Nowadays every one wants to ride a bicycle, but many do not attempt it because they dread the ordeal of learning. In the first place they dislike the idea of abrasions and bruises, and in the second they can hardly bring themselves to the sacrifice of dignity which the flounderings of the beginner usually entail. They need no longer hesitate. The bicycle can now be learned indoors, safe from prying eyes and without fear of falls. A new appliance designed for this purpose consists of a small flywheel covered with rubber and two side wheels fitted with a simple arrangement by means of which it can be adjusted to any kind of cycle in two minutes. Its great advantage is that the rider experiences the same momentum as in a spin on a hard road, while the machine either remains stationary or moves so slowly that in traversing 15 feet the same amount of exercise is obtained as in a mile of ordinary traveling.

Practice can thus be carried on in a hall or room, and riders can gauge the rate of speed their exertions would have given them on the highway. For beginners, children and invalids needing physical exercise this invention is specially adapted, as it stands perfectly steady and enables the difficulties of mounting and dismounting to be thoroughly overcome without danger of falls or bruises. The appliance is collapsible, weighs 15 pounds and can be easily carried in the hand.—Exchange.

Bank Sold by Sheriff.

SHELL LAKE, Wis., Sept. 24.—The Shell Lake Savings bank here, which assigned two years ago, and reopened by consent of depositors in March, 1894, was sold by the sheriff under execution.

WANTED.

An agent for the distribution "for trial," sale and collection of Dr. Koch's Liniment, Powdered flavoring extracts etc., etc. No cash required. We furnish the goods you put them on trial, collect, etc. Agents make good wages. For territory etc. address, Dr. KOCH VEGT. TEA CO.,
[23-25] Winona, Minn.

List of Patents.

Granted to Minnesota inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents, opposite U. S. patent office, Washington, D. C.

O. Damun, Minneapolis, stand-pipe for gasoline burners; C. D. Edwards, Albert Lea, stump-puller; F. C. Gerhard, Minneapolis, combined sheathing and lath machine; A. S. Harris, Minneapolis, dynamo telegraphy; A J. Huber, Minneapolis, kerosene-gas burner; G. J. Johnson, St. Paul, hat holder; D. F. MacCarthy, St. Paul, seal; H. O. Olson, Two Harbors, exhaust nozzle; W. C. Porter, Arlington, electric calculator; E. L. Thoms, Ashby, sleigh; A. M. Wickenberg, Minneapolis, bellows; G. E. Wilson, Stillwater, threshing machine.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wood Paving.

A nonslipping wood pavement has been recently devised which is claimed to be simple, inexpensive and efficient. It consists in preparing the wooden blocks before they are laid by boring a few holes in them and filling the same with a hard setting substance composed of crushed stone, bitumen and Portland cement. The compound is cleared off even with the surface, and when they are laid the roadway is thus covered with a series of rough spots which arrest the foot of the horse in all conditions of weather, and prevent the animal from slipping. Wood paving is extensively used in England and France. —Northeastern Lumberman.

Realistic.

Critic—Has that painting of yours, "At Work in the Fields," received any favorable comments?

Artist—A rather seedy looking man stopped to look at it today, and he said it made him tired.—Philadelphia Record.

Division of the Sexes.

One of the most remarkable churches is to be found at Freudenthal, in the Black Forest. It is built on such a plan that the men are unable to see the women, and vice versa, for it is composed of two wings, which meet at an angle where the pulpit stands. The right wing is allotted to men, and the left one to the women of the congregation.—Berlin Letter.

Right He Was.

"Now," began the orator, "in considering the money question, let us avoid false issues."

"Right you air," shouted Mr. Fallwheat. "I thort I was buyin $3,000 of 'em once, and it turned out to be sawdust."—Indianapolis Journal.

Man is the merriest, the most joyous of all the species of creation. Above and below him all are serious.—Addison.

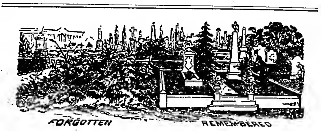
The Catawissa river, in Pennsylvania, was named from an Indian word that means "getting fat."

IVORY IVORY SOAP
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 3, 1895 NO 25.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

GONE UP IN SMOKE.

The Fine Carriage Works of A. J. and A. McKinnon Fall a Victim To

THE FELL DESTROYER.

Building and Stock Only Insured For $4,000, While the Loss Will Reach $12,000 to $15,000.

Some Valuable Horses Also Cremated.

A HARD BLOW.

About six o'clock on Thursday afternoon the fire bell rang its dread alarm and the department responded in an incredibly short time and soon had four streams turned on to the large carriage works of A. J & A. McKinnon, from the basement of which a dense, black smoke was pouring, showing that the fire fiend had commenced active hostilities. The building was a three-story brick, built by M. R. Brown a few years ago and used a while for a livery stable and later sold to McKinnon Bros., who converted it into a large carriage shop, using the basement for stable for their fine horses, the main floor for carriage and repair shops and office, and the loft in which to store their timber used in carriage building, and in which they had just stored three car loads of valuable timber and lumber of hickory, ash and maple. The fire seems to have started below in the stables, and soon gaining the hay chutes it climbed rapidly to the loft, soon burning out the chutes it came in contact with the stock of oils and paints, and soon the whole structure was a mass of roaring, seething flames, impossible to subdue. At the start valuable time was lost by the breaking of a hose, followed right away by a hitch at the power house, and so the flames got away with the boys, and the building, with its contents, were a total wreck. When the fire was first discovered one of the employes went into the basement in which, in a box stall, was Mabel W. and her colt, the property of Mayor John R. McKinnon and in other stalls Archie's fine young team of Star Bashaws, than which there was not a finer team in the city, and another horse used as a family driving horse. The man succeeded in slipping off the halters but the horses would not go out and the man was soon so overcome by smoke that he had to run for his life, succeeding in getting out from a basement window. The origin of the fire is a mystery as yet unsolved. This loss, coming as it does to men of this character, men who by hard work have established a valuable institution of this kind in our midst, seems peculiarly hard, as the boys have invested every cent they have made here in the effort to give the city not only a good building, but an institution that is a credit to it. We learn that they will, as soon as the insurance matters can be adjusted, go to work to rebuild and our citizens should remember them and throw every dollar in their way that is possible. Such enterprise as they have always shown deserves ample encouragement.

Advertised Letters.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Crookston, Minn. postoffice for the week ending Sept. 28, 1895.

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Barstow, T. G.
Brodurt, Nels
Grill, Christion
Johnson, Aug. K.
Oshenbrever, Jos.
Olson, Iver
Pritchard, Will Parkins, Oee
Saline, A.

LADIES' LIST.

Gunderson, Tillie
Logepril, Karin
Turman, Amelia Maria

Persons calling for the above say advertised. F. E. LEPAGE, Postmaster.

Of Rev. Mr. Fisher, who supplied the Glyndon pulpit on the 22d, ult., the Glyndon News in its following issue says: "Rev. H. P. Fisher, of Crookston, was at Glyngon church, last Sabbath, officiating in all the services. Morning sermon was on "Receiving Christ and Thereby Receiving Power," (John i 12,) and evening from the text: "I Have Written Unto You, Young Men, Because Ye are Strong." Congregations were small because of untoward weather but the occasion was one of especial pleasure to such as came, as was his visit for two or three days with our people."

AN UNDEVELOPED REGION.

Duluth News-Tribune.

As the News Tribune pointed out yesterday in reviewing the census reports for the Sixth district, there is a new era of development inaugurated for the northern part of the state. It is time to realize this and to act upon it.

There ought to be in the next five years even a greater proportional growth in the Sixth district than there has been in the past five years although its growth for that period exceeds that of any other district in the state.

It may be assumed that the commercial interests of Duluth and the iron interests of St. Louis county will largely take care of themselves for they are in competent hands and handled by interests that leave no stone unturned for development. A great deal may be done in promoting the establishment of iron manufactories at the head of the lake, but in any event that will take time and the concentration of much study and the exercise of persistent work will eventually bring it about.

But efforts should be renewed and better efforts than were ever made before, to open up to settlement the fertile region that lies to the northwest of us and to extend the railroad system of Duluth into those regions and on to Winnipeg. There is over one-third of the area of Minnesota lying north of any line running from Duluth to the Dakota line. There ought to be a railway bisecting this region, extending from Duluth in a northwesterly direction. Much was expected and predicted of the Duluth & Winnipeg road on this score, but it has failed to carry on the work that was so well begun.

There is need of more than one road in that direction, one toward Fosston and one through the Red Lake territory. The latter should extend to the boundary and on to Winnipeg. A third line should reach the Rainy river country. It is unnecessary to speak of the trade that these roads will bring to Duluth from regions that are already cultivated and productive; what is necessary to impress upon all are the possibilities of new settlements, new towns and villages and prosperous communities that will spring up in the rich regions of Red Lake and Rainy river just as soon as they can be made accessible. There is no other section of Minnesota that affords better chances for the settler and there are thousands of people from older settlements who will pour in there as soon as the way is open.

Further, no energy should be spared in opening up the Red Lake reservation to entry as soon as possible.. This matter should be pushed at Washington. The reserve has a fertile soil and has an enormous crop of pine, especially in its southeastern portion. There are over 3,000,000 acres that are largely farming lands. On the Rainy river extending in a southwesterly direction is another tract of fine agricultural land. What these regions require is settlement, and before there is settlement there must be means of transportation. Then the settlers will come soon enough.

If the roads are built as outlined above, the northern part of the state within from three to five years thereafter will see as rapid and substantial a growth as the Red River Valley did in the palmy days of immigration.

"TOO SHEAP."

One of the trustees of a certain school district about three miles from Fosston has offered the bright young lady teacher two sheep if she is married before Dec. 31st '95, and it is said that the old man will lose his sheep! It is thought that next year every female teacher in this county (of doubtful age) will want that school and that trustee "kalkintes" he will get teachers pretty "Sheap" hereafter as every marriageable farmer in the neighborhood is just falling all over himself in his efforts to rake in the two sheep that are hanging in the air, and it is said that that district 'l agree with all ancient maiden lady teachers hereafter, howbeit the lady in question is young and handsome.

"For several months, I was troubled with a persistent humor on my head which gave me considerable annoyance, until it occured to me to try Ayer's Hair Vigor. Before using one bottle, the humor was healed." —T. T. Adams, General Merchant, Turbeville, Va.

SYMPATHY FOR CUBA

Strong Resolutions Adopted by an Immense Mass Meeting at Chicago.

Mayor Swift Presided and Many Prominent Citizens Attend.

Uncle Sam Asked to Recognize the Cubans as Belligerents.

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—As much of the population of Chicago as could find entrance to the auditoriums of the Central Music hall and the Young Men's Christian association buildings, shouted itself hoarse in approbation of a series of resolutions in which the United States government is asked to recognize the Cubans as belligerents. Such genuine enthusiasm has seldom been witnessed in this city, and on no occasion were words spoken by men more full of the heart and soul of the speakers. Mayor Swift presided at the main meeting in Central Music hall, while Judge William A. Vincent was chairman of the overflow meeting in the association building. The 75 vice presidents who occupied seats on the platforms were chosen from among the and each one of them had previously expressed himself as in full accord with the object of the meetings. Before the speaking began copies of telegrams from a number of gentlemen who could not be present were read. The first of these was from Governor Altgeld, and its ringing words called forth cheer after cheer. Other telegrams were from Congressman Adams, Senator Wilkinson of Florida, and George R. Peck.

Leading Business Men of the City

The representatives of the various organizations which had selected committees to co-operate in making the meetings a success were distributed between the two. Among these were the presidents, with committees, from the following organizations: Loyal Legion, Confederate Association, G. A. R., Naval Veterans, Society of the Sons of the Revolution, Illinois State Federation of Labor, 25 local labor organizations and many other societies.

Prominent Cuban Present.

When Gonzales de Quesda, secretary of the Cuban revolutionary party of the United States, and Q. A. Zayas, another prominent Cuban, stepped upon the platform at Central Music hall the enthusiasm of the audience knew no bounds, and it was some minutes before order was restored.

The Rev. Dr. H. W. Thomas read the resolutions, which were adopted as by one mighty voice. The preamble was as follows:

We, citizens of Chicago, have gathered to express our deep sympathy with the Cubans in their brave struggle to secure for themselves and their children the blessings of independence, liberty and self government. The resolutions then condemn the heartless tyranny of Spanish rulers and urge citizens of free America to give emphatic expression to their sympathy with the struggling Cubans.

The Treasury Surplus.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The treasury closed the month of September in very comfortable shape with a surplus of $3,175,040 in receipts over expenditures instead of the deficiency which has been for some months a characteristic feature of its monthly statements.

Saw The Big Doin's.

Mrs. A. J. Streeter returned from her trip to Louisville Ky., where she went to represent the W. R. C., on Saturday morning. She reports having a spendid time, says that the way the former rebs met and greeted the members of the G. A. R., was affecting in the extreme. Louisville was adorned as a bride for the wedding, gaily decked and decorated lavishly, while the good people of Louisville vied with each other in the efforts to entertain their guests. She says it was the finest reunion she ever saw. From Louisville she extended her trip to the Chattanooga battlefields to attend the dedication ceremonies that occured the week after the reunion and here again she had a splendid and impressive visit. She says the old 2d Minnesota has the finest monument that she saw—and she saw them all. From here she went to Atlanta to see the great exposition but was rather disappointed in that institution as everything was incomplete and in a rather chaotic state, though she thinks it will be grand as soon as everything is in readiness. She is well pleased with her trip.

"Dan's place" means McKinnon's restaurant, every time. The place where you can get one of the best meals in the city for very little wealth.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

GUBERNATORIAL POT

Is State Auditor Dunn Going to be Dragged Into the Gubernatorial Bouillon?

A Dangerous Element in the Political Situation is Being Utterly Ignored.

The Minneapolis Penny Press.

The "Penny Press" some weeks ago printed an article intimating that circumstances might force State Auditor Dunn into the field as a candidate for governor. The comments of the country papers upon this matter are significant of the hold which our sturdy, honest state auditor has upon the confidence of the people of the state. It is safe to say "people" because there is nothing which so well represents their sentiments as the voice of the state press. It is significant that the only objection raised by any of the papers, so far as the "Penny Press', has observed, is that Mr. Dunn was elected to serve as auditor, and is needed in his present position. This is, however, a very flimsy objection, for if good it would apply equally to Gov. Clough, when elected to serve as lieutenant governor, and to Senator Nelson when elected to serve as governor.

Another significant fact about the matter is that the managers of the booms of the several avowed candidates for the position steadily ignore Mr. Dunn as even a possibility.

The "Penny Press" is well aware that Mr. Dunn is not a candidate for governor. It knows that he has steadily objected to any mention of his name for the place, but everybody knows that he is too good a citizen to refuse the responsibility, if the people of the state ask him with any sort of unanimity to do so. It is true that his present salary is larger than the one which attaches to the office of governor, but as Mr. Dunn has never shown himself to be a seeker after the almighty dollar, it is not likely that he would allow that fact to weigh for anything in making his final determination.

The "Penny Press" is not by any means advocating Mr. Dunn for governor, it is simply calling attention to an element in the situation which the several gentlemen who are industriously canvassing the selection of a candidate, with more or less disinterestedness, are leaving out of the calculation, when the indications are that it is extremely dangerous to do so. No one who reads the country will deny that the country papers would with almost one voice whoop it up for Editor Dunn, if it was the closing of his term two years hence. But there is so large an element which is in favor of him now, nolens volens, that it is certain that Dunn is a factor not to be safely left out of calculations.

He Sold A Bike.

Frank Hawkins and Will Olds went over to the Fosston fair last week and went in the bicycle race. Will came out ahead and Frank would have got third or fourth place only, when he got around he failed to pass under the rod—or in other words to go under the wire, while the starter, Frank Gravel, just ground his teeth and famed with rage, and after all but Frank had passed under the wire, then Gravel did turn the vials of his wrath loose on Hawkins' devoted head and score him for all there was in it. When he got tired coughing up his private opinion in public, Hawkins looked up and said: "Is it agin the rules to stop on the road to sell a bike? I didn't know that or I'd told that feller I just sold one to, to wait till I'd skinned these schoolboys!"

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficent. 25c.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE, Opera Block.

BLOCKED THE GAME

The Great Northern Opposed to the Keystone Extension.

TABOR FARM BOUGHT

Attorney Wilkinson Invests in a Polk County Farm.

The Northern Pacific railroad company has commenced work on the Keystone extension of that road. The route is from the Keystone farm in the the town of Keystone through Tabor and Farley to a point near Warren. A large force of men and teams left here yesterday morning to commence work on the grade. The road as surveyed would furnish a valuable feeder to the Northern Pacific and would detract largely from the business of the Great Northern. This is where the shoe pinches, evidently. Yesterday afternoon Editor Duffy, of the East Grand Forks Courier, sold an 80 acre farm in the town of Tabor to R. A. Wilkinson, of St. Paul, attorney for the Great Northern railroad. As the N. P. extension has been surveyed through the entire length of the farm it would look as though the Great Northern officials were making a bold attempt to block the building of this important feeder of its leading contemporary Right-of-way through the G. N. farm will probably be obtained only after the court process has been gone through with and by that time the 1895 crop will have been harvested.

Bound to be Heard From.

That indomitable rustler, A. J. Clark, always would make a stir in whatever calling he engaged and now we have the following from the Pineville Herald, published in Clark's far-away Missouri home:

"And. J. Clark, who recently came here from Minnesota and purchased 200 acres of unimproved land in the southeastern portion of the county has moved onto same and christened it the "Razor-back Hoggery," and expects to raise porkers on an extensive scale. He called and subscribed for the Herald and had us print him a lot of stationery while in town Wednesday, for which we thank him. We appreciate such friends as Mr. Clark, and would be glad to have more such enterprising gentlemen locate in our county."

Waterways.

The primary instincts of man made him a nomadic creature, travelling like other animals, in search of food. When he learned to till the ground, and build a house, he became more permanent in his habits, but he still had a disposition to wander, now, however, to see what lay beyond his immediate neighborhood. After many weary marches on foot, it dawned upon him that to float on a river or the sea was a much easier mode of locomotion. The next step was to make an artificial waterway, and as far back as the time of Rameses II., one of the Pharaohs, a canal from the Nile to the Red Sea was begun, to be completed under the Ptolemies. The Emperor Trojan re-opened the canal, which had become blocked up, and on the Mohummedan conquest of Egypt, another re-opening took place, which kept it in use for a hundred years. It then fell again into disuse, and it was not until April, 1859 under the auspices of Said Pasha and Ferdinand DeLesseps, that another attempt was made. The work began at Port Said on the Mediterranean, and in November, 1869, the canal was completed to Suez, on the Red Sea. It is 100 miles long, 300 feet wide at the top, 72 feet at the bottom, and 26 feet deep, costing about $100,000,000. The subject of waterways between the great lakes of our country and the Atlantic has recieved a strong agitation lately, but for the greater part of the United States the carrying must be done by the great railroad, such as the Burlington Route, the main traveled road from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Chicago and St, Louis, and hundreds of towns and cities in eleven western states. For rates, tickets, maps, time tables and other information, apply to your home ticket agent, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent St. Paul, Minn.

If you are in the city about mealtime, after repairs, don't forget that you can get the best meal in town at McKinnon's restaurant on Second street.

MURPHY'S SAY.

The General Manager of the C. W. P. & L. Co. takes a Whirl and Explains

HOW IT WAS.

Says Supt. Peterson Was Too Anxious To Supply Plenty Of Power,

And Endangered The Entire Plant.

MUSN'T DO IT AGAIN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29, 1895.

ED. POLK COUNTY JOURNAL:

I understand that the Water Works Co. has been criticized for the service rendered during the progress of the McKinnon fire. On behalf of the Co. let me say that the criticisms are not warranted. Under the terms of our contract, our Co. is obligated to maintain a pumping station capacity, equal to the capacity of the Triple Plunger Water Power Pump, when operated up to its safe working capacity.

The capacity of this pump is 1,000,000 gallons per day, or 700 gallons per minute. The particular pump specified in the contract, furnished the fire protection on the night of the fire in question. The pump was in good condition, and had behind it 50 per cent more power than when it was operated by the city itself, or by the previous managment of our company.

A one inch nozzle will discharge, under 100 pounds pressure, 250 gallons of water per minute, and the pump in question will safely supply three one inch fire nozzles operating simultaneously, and maintain 100 pounds pressure. During the progress of the fire in question—if I have been correctly informed—there was equivalent to eight one inch fire streams operating at one time. This was a draft equal to 2,000 gallons per minute. How it was expected that a pump could supply 2,000 gallons per minute, and maintain 100 pounds pressure at the nozzle, while the safe working capacity of the pump was only 700 gallons per minute, is more than I can understand. The surprising thing about it is, that there is any Water Works left. I know of no other station in the country which would have stood up under such punishment.

The Co., however, has not only maintained the pumping capacity provided for in the contract, but it has doubled it; so that when the steam pump is brought into operation, as it invariably is during the progress of a long and dangerous fire, the Fire Department can safely attach five or six nozzles. This is ample: five or six nozzles will take care of any fire.

If Mr. Peterson had done his duty to the City, and to the Water Works Co., on the night in question, he would have closed the valves on the street mains, until he had received the unqualified assurance that the number and size of the nozzles attached, would be confined to the safe working capacity of the Plant. To permit the Plant to be worked beyond this point, is carelessness amounting almost to criminality.

If during the fire in question, both pumps had broken down under the excessive draft, the whole business portion of the City, would in all probability have been burned down. As it was, there were half a dozen minor breaks, but fortunately none of them were fatal. Our Co. is incapable of protecting its station—and by so doing the entire City—in any other way, than by closing the valves on the street mains, when the draft made threatens to wreck the Plant.

I have sent to the Supt. of the Water Works, unqualified orders to do this in the future, if any similar emergency should arise. It would require more courage to stand idly by and see the Plant in danger of being wrecked, with the result of having the whole City burn down, than to temporally close the valves on the street mains.

I presume, of course, that it was a misunderstanding on the part of the Fire Department; they probably did not realize that there was any limit to the capacity of the pumps. I have no doubt that in the future care will be taken not to operate the Plant beyond its safe working capacity. Within that capacity, there is no safer fire protection anywhere, and Crookston has more reason now than ever to be proud of it.

Respectfully,
W. J. MURPHY.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

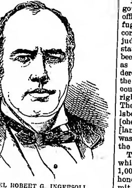
IN WAR AND IN PEACE.

Colonel R. G. Ingersoll to His Old Cavalry Command.

HERITAGE TO EVERY AMERICAN.

An Eloquent and Patriotic Address to the Eleventh Illinois Cavalry on the Occasion of Its Reunion at Elmwood—The Years 1860 and 1890 Strikingly Compared.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, FELLOW CITIZENS, OLD FRIENDS AND COMRADES—It gives me the greatest pleasure to meet again those with whom I became acquainted in the morning of my life. It is now afternoon. The sun of life is slowly sinking in the west, and before the evening comes nothing can be more delightful than to see again the faces that I knew in youth. When I knew you, the hair was brown. It is now white. The marks were not quite so deep, and the eyes were not quite so dim, and mingled with this pleasure is sadness, sadness for those who have passed away—for the dead. And yet I am not sure that we ought to mourn for the dead. I do not know which is better, life or death. And it may be that death is the greatest gift that ever came from nature's open hands. We do not know. There is one thing of which I am certain, and that is that if we could live forever here we would care nothing for each other. The fact that we must die, the fact that the feast must end, brings our hearts together and treads out the weeds between the paths. And so it may be, after all, that love is a little flower that grows on the crumbling edge of the grave. So it may be that were it not for death there would be no love, and without love all life would be a curse. I say it gives me great pleasure to meet you once again, great pleasure to congratulate you on your good fortune—the good fortune of being a citizen of the first and grandest republic ever established upon the face of the earth. [Cheers.]



COLONEL ROBERT G. INGERSOLL.

That is a royal fortune. To be an heir of all the great and brave men of this land and of all the good, loving and patient women, to be in possession of the blessings that they have given, should make every healthy citizen of the United States feel like a millionaire. [Cheers.] This, today, is the most prosperous country on the face of the globe, and it is something to be a citizen of this country. [Applause.] It is well, too, whenever we meet to draw attention to what has been done by our ancestors. It is well to think of them and to thank them for all their work, for all their courage, for all their toil. [Applause.] Three hundred years ago our country was a vast wilderness, inhabited by a few savages. Three hundred years ago—how short a time, hardly a tick of the great clock of eternity—300 years; not a second in the life even of this planet—300 years ago, inhabited by a few savages; 300 years ago a few men in the old world, dissatisfied, brave and adventurous, trusted their lives to the sea and came over to this land. In 1778 there were only 3,000,000 people all told. These men settled on the shores of the sea. These men by experience learned to govern themselves. These men by experience found that a man should be respected in the proportion that he was useful. They found by experience that titles were of no importance; that the real thing was the man, and that the real things in the man were his heart and his brain. They found by experience how to govern themselves because there was nobody else here when they came. The gentlemen who had been in the habit of governing their fellow men staid at home [laughter and cheers], and the men who had been in the habit of being governed came here, and consequently they had to govern themselves. And finally, educated by experience, by the rivers and forests, by the grandeur and splendor of nature, they began to think that this continent should not belong to any other; that it was great enough to count as one and that they had the intelligence and manhood to lay the foundations of the nation. [Cheers.]

Tribute to the Forefathers.

It would be impossible to pay a too great and splendid tribute to the great and magnificent souls of that day. They saw the future. They saw this country as it is now, and they endeavored to lay the foundation deep. They endeavored to reach the bedrock of human rights, the bedrock of justice. And thereupon they declared that all men were born equal; that all children of nature had at birth the same rights, and that all men had the right to pursue that phantom called happiness. And what did they say? They said that men should govern men; that the power to govern should come from the consent of the governed, not from the clouds, not from some winged phantom of the air, not from an aristocracy of either. [Cheers and laughter.] They said that this power should come from men; that the men living in this world should govern it, and that the gentlemen that were dead should keep still. [Laughter and cries of "That's right!"]

They took another step and said that church and state should forever be divorced [cheers], and that is no harm to real religion. [Cheers.] It never was because real religion means the doing of justice. Real religion means the giving to others of every right you claim for yourself. Real religion consists in duties of man to man [cheers], in feeding the hungry, in clothing the naked, in defending the innocent and in saying what you believe to be true. [Cheers.] Our fathers had enough sense to say that, and a man to do that in 1776 had to be a pretty big fellow. [Cheers.] It is not so much to say it now because they set the example, and upon these principles of which I have spoken they fought the war of the Revolution. At no time probably were the majority of our forefathers in favor of independence, but enough of them were on the right side, and they finally won a victory. And after the victory those that had not been even in favor of independence became, under the majority rule, more powerful than the heroes of the Revolution.

Then it was that our fathers made a mistake. We have got to praise them for what they did that was good, and we will mention what they did that was wrong. [Laughter and cheers.] They forgot the principles for which they fought. They forgot the sacredness of human liberty, and in the name of freedom they made a mistake and put chains on the limbs of others. [Cheers.] That was their error; that was the poison that entered the American blood; that was the corrupting influence that demoralized presidents and priests; that was the influence that corrupted the United States of America, with but few exceptions. That mistake of course had to be paid for, as all mistakes in nature have to be paid for. And not only do you pay for your mistake itself, but you pay at least 10 per cent compound interest. [Laughter and cheers.] Whenever you do wrong, and nobody finds it out, do not imagine you have gotten over it. You have not. [Laughter.] Nature knows it. The consequences of every bad act are the invisible police that no prayers can soften and no gold can bribe. [Cheers.] Recollect that. Recollect that, for every bad act, there will be laid upon your shoulder the arresting hand of the consequences, and it is precisely the same with a nation as it is with an individual. You have got to pay for all of your mistakes, and you have got to pay to the uttermost farthing. That is the only forgiveness known in nature. Nature never settles unless she can give a receipt in full. [Laughter.] I know a great many men differ with me and have all sorts of bankruptcy systems, but nature is not built in that way. [Laughter and cheers.]

Slavery In Possession.

Finally, slavery took possession of the government. Every man who wanted an office had to be willing to step between a fugitive slave and his liberty. Slavery corrupted the courts [cheers] and made judges decide that the child born in the state of Pennsylvania, whose mother had been a slave, could not be free. That was as infamous a decision as was ever rendered, and yet the people, in the name of the law, did this thing, and the supreme court of the United States did not know right from wrong. [Cheers and laughter.] These dignified gentlemen thought that labor could be paid by lashes on the back [cheers], which was a kind of legal tender [laughter and cheers], and finally an effort was made to subject the new territory—the nation—to a constitution of slavery.

Then we had a war with Mexico, in which we got a good deal of glory and 1,000,000 square miles of land, but little honor. [Laughter and cheers.] I will admit that we got little honor out of that war. That territory they wanted to subject to this institution of slavery. In 1803 we purchased from Napoleon the Great 1,000,000 square miles of land, and then in 1831 we bought Florida from Spain. So that when the war came we had about 3,000,000 square miles of new land. And the object was to subject all this territory to slavery. The idea was to go on and sell the babes from their mothers until time should be no more. The idea was to go on with the branding iron and the whip. [Cheers.] The idea was to make it a crime to teach men, human beings, to read and write; to make every northern man believe that he was a bulldog, a bloodhound to track down men and women who, with the light of the north star in their eyes, were seeking the free soil of Great Britain. [Cheers.] Yes, in these times we had lots of mean folk. [Laughter.] Let us remember it. And all at once, under the forms of law, under the forms of our government, the greatest man under the flag was elected president. [Cheers.] That man was Abraham Lincoln. [Loud cheers.] And then it was that those gentlemen of the south said: "We will not be governed by the majority. We will be a law unto ourselves."

And let me tell you here today—I am somewhat older than I used to be; I have a little philosophy now that I had not at the 9-o'clock-in-the-morning portion of my life—that I do not blame anybody. I do not blame the south; I do not blame the Confederate soldier. She, the south, was the fruit of conditions. She was born to circumstances stronger than herself, and do you know, according to my philosophy, which is not quite orthodox [laughter], every man and woman in the whole world is what conditions have made them. So let us have some sense. The south said: "We will not submit. This is not a nation, but a partnership of states." I am willing to go so far as to admit that the south expressed the original idea of the government.

The Interests at Stake.

But now the question was, To whom did the newly acquired property belong? New states had been carved out of that territory. The soil of these states had been purchased with the money of the republic, and had the south the right to take these states out of the republic? That was the question. The great west had another interest, and that was that no enemy, no other nation, should control the mouth of the Mississippi. [Cheers.] I regard the Mississippi river as nature's protest against secession. [Loud cheers.] The old Mississippi river says, and swears to it, that this country shall be one, now and forever. [Cheers.] What was to be done? The south said, "We will never remain," and the north said, "You shall not go." It was a little slow about saying it, it is true. [Laughter.] Some of the best Republicans in the north said, "Let it go." [Laughter.] But the second, sober thought of the great north said, "No, this is our country, and we are going to keep it on the map of the world."

And some who had been Democrats wheeled into line, and hundreds and thousands said, "This is our country," and, finally, when the government called for volunteers, hundreds and thousands came forward to offer their services. Nothing more sublime was ever seen in the history of this world. I congratulate you today that you live in a country that furnished the greatest army that ever fought for human liberty in any country round the world. [Loud cheers.] I want you to know that. I want you to know that the north, east and west furnished the greatest army that ever fought for human liberty. I want you to know that General Grant commanded more men, men fighting for the right, not for conquest, than any other general who ever marshaled the hosts of war. [Cheers.] Let us remember that and let us be proud of it. [Cheers.] The millions poured from the north for the defense of the flag. The story of their heroism has been told to you. I have told it myself many times. It is known to every intelligent man and woman in the world. Everybody knows how we poured out money like water, how we spent it like leaves of the forest. Everybody knows how blood was shed. Everybody knows the story of the great, the heroic struggle, and everybody knows that at last victory came to our side and how the last sword of the rebellion was handed to General Grant. [Loud cheers.] There is no need to tell that story again.

But the question now as we look back is: Was this country worth saving? Was the blood that was shed in vain? Were the lives given for naught? That is the question. This country, according to my ideas, is the one success of the world. Men here have more to eat, more to wear, better houses, and, on the average, a better education than those of any other nation now living or any that has passed away. [Cheers.] Was the country worth saving? See what we have done in this country since 1860. We were not much of a people then, to be honorable and right about it. [Laughter.] We were carrying in the great race of national life the weight of slavery, and it poisoned us; it paralyzed our best energies; it took from our politics the best minds; it kept from the bench the greatest brains.

What the War Did.

But what have we done since 1880, since we really became a free people, since we came to our senses, since we have been willing to allow a man to express his honest thoughts on any possible subject? Do you know how much good we did? The war brought men together from every part of the country and gave them an opportunity to compare their foolishness. [Laughter.] It gave them an opportunity to throw away their prejudices, to find that a man who differed with them on every subject might be the very best of fellows. [Cheers.] That is what the war did. We have been broadening ever since. I sometimes thought it did men good to make the trip to California in 1840. As they went over the plains I thought they sometimes dropped their prejudices on the way. I think they did, and that's what killed the grass. [Cheers and laughter.]

But to come back to my question, what have we done since 1800? From 1860 to 1880, in spite of the waste of war, in spite of all the property destroyed by flame, in spite of all the waste, our profits were $1,374,000,000. Think of it! From 1860 to 1880! That is a vast sum. From 1880 to 1890 our profits were $2,189,000,000. Men may talk against wealth as much as they please, they may talk about money being the root of all evil, but there is little real happiness in this world without some of it. [Laughter.] It is very handy when staying at home, and it is almost indispensable when you travel abroad. [Laughter.]

Money is a good thing. It makes others happy; it makes those happy whom you love, and if a man can get a little together when the night of death drops the curtain upon him he is satisfied that he has left a little to keep the wolf from those who in life were dear to him. Yes, money is a good thing, especially since special providence has gone out of business. [Laughter.] I can see today something beyond the wildest dream of any patriot that ever lived 50 years ago. The United States today is the richest nation—is the richest nation on the face of the earth. [Cheers.] The other nations of the world—Egypt, India, Greece, Rome—every one of them, when compared with this great republic, must be regarded as a pauper. How much do you suppose this nation is worth today? I am talking about land and cattle, products, manufactured articles and railways. Over $70,000,000,000. Just think of it. Take $1,000 and then take $999,000. So you will have 1,000 piles of $1,000 each. That makes only $1,000,000, and yet the United States today is worth $70,000,000,000. This is 85 per cent more than Great Britain is worth. [Cheers.] Truly we are a great nation. We have got the land. This land was being made for many millions of years. Its soil was being made by the great lakes and rivers and being brought down from the mountains for countless years.

This continent was standing like a vast pan of milk, with the cream rising for millions of years, and we were the chaps that got there when the skimming commenced. [Laughter and cheers.] We are rich, and we ought to be rich. It is our own fault if we are not. In every department of human endeavor, along every path and highway, the progress of the republic has been marvelous, beyond the power of language to express.

Figures Showing Progress.

Let me show you: In 1860 the horsepower of all the engines, and the locomotives, and the steamboats that traversed the lakes and rivers—the entire power—was 3,500,000. In 1880 the horsepower of engines and locomotives and steamboats was over 17,000,000. Think of that and what it means! Think of the force at work for the benefit of the United States, the machines doing the work of thousands and millions of men! And remember that every engine that puffs is puffing for you; every road that runs is running for you. I want you to know that the average man and woman in the United States today has more of the conveniences of life than kings and queens had 100 years ago. Yes, we are getting along. In 1880 we used $1,800,000,000 worth of products of things manufactured and grown, and we sent to other countries $350,000,000 worth. In 1803 we used $3,089,000,000 worth, and we sent to other countries $654,000,000 worth. [Cheers.] You see, these vast sums are almost inconceivable. There is not a man today with brains large enough to understand these figures; to understand how many cars this money put upon the tracks, how much coal was devoured by the locomotives, how many men plowed and worked in the fields, how many sails flew to the wind, how many ships crossed the sea. I tell you, there is no man able to think out the ships that were built, the cars that were built, the mines that were ored, the trees that were felled—no man has got imagination enough to grasp the meaning of it all. No man has any conception of the sea till he crosses it. I knew nothing of how broad this country was until I went over it in a plow train. [Laughter and cheers.]

Since 1800 the productive power of the United States has more than trebled. [Cheers.] I like to talk about these things, because these things mean good houses, carpets on the floor, pictures on the wall, some books on the shelves. [Cheers.] They mean children going to school with their stomachs full of good food, prosperous men and proud mothers. All my life I have taken a much deeper interest in what men produce than in what nature does. I would rather see the prairies, with the oats, and the wheat, and the waving corn, and the schoolhouse, and hear the thrush sing amid the happy homes of prosperous men and women—I would rather see these things than any range of mountains in the world. [Cheers.] Take it as you will, a mountain is of no great use. In 1880 our land was worth $4,500,000,000; in 1890 it was worth $14,000,000,000. In 1860 all the railroads in the United States were worth a little less than $10,000,000; now they are worth $400,000,000,000,000. I want you to understand what these figures mean.

How It Was Made.

For 30 years we spent, on an average, $1,000,000 a day in building railroads. [Cheers.] I want you to think what that means. All that money had to be dug out of the ground. It had to be made by raising something or manufacturing something. We did not get it by writing essays on finance or discussing the silver question. [Cheers and laughter and cries of "You're right."] It had to be made with the ax, the plow, the reaper, the mower, in every form of industry, all to produce these splendid results. [Cheers.] We have got railroads enough now to make seven tracks around the great globe and enough left for side tracks. [Laughter and cheers.] That is what we have done here in what the European nations are pleased to call "the new world." I am telling you these things because you may not know them, and I did not know them myself until a few days ago. [Laughter.] I am anxious to give away information, for it is only by giving it away that you can keep it. When you have told it, you remember it. It is with information as it is with liberty—the only way to be dead sure of it is to give it to other people. [Laughter.] In 1800 the houses in the United States, the cabins on the frontier, the buildings in the cities were worth $8,000,000,000. Now they are worth over $22,000,000,000. [Cheers.] To talk about figures like these is enough to make a man dizzy.

In 1860 our animals of all kinds, including the Illinois deer, commonly called swine [laughter], the oxen and horses and all others, were worth about $1,000,000,000. Now they are worth about $4,000,000,000. [Cheers.] Are we not getting rich? Our national debt today is nothing. It is like a man who owes a cent and has a dollar. [Cheers.] Since 1880 we have been industrious; we have created 2,500,000 new farms. Since 1880 we have done a good deal of plowing; there have been a good many tired legs. [Laughter and cheers.] I have been that way myself. [Laughter.] Since 1860 we have put in cultivation 200,000,000 acres of land. Illinois, the best state in the Union, has got 35,000,000 acres of land, and yet since 1880 we have put in cultivation enough land to make six states of the size of Illinois. That will give you some idea of the quantity of work we have done. I will admit I have not done much of it myself [laughter], but I am proud of it.

In 1800 we had 4,565,000 farmers in this country, whose land and implements were worth over $16,000,000. The farmers of this country, on an average, are worth $5,000, and the peasants of the old world, who cultivate the soil, are not worth, on an average, $10 beyond the wants of the moment. Have we kept pace with our physical development? Have we developed the mind? Have we endeavored to develop the brain? Have we endeavored to civilize the heart? I think we have.

American Schools.

We spend more for schools per head than any nation in the world. [Cheers.] And the common school is the breath of life. [Cheers.] Great Britain spends $1.30 per head on the common schools; France spends 80 cents; Germany, 50 cents; Austria, 30 cents; Italy, 25 cents, and the United States over $2.50. [Applause.] I tell you the schoolhouse is the fortress of liberty. [Loud cheers.] Every schoolhouse is an arsenal, filled with weapons and ammunition to destroy the monsters of ignorance and fear. [Cheers.] As I have said ten thousand times, the schoolhouse is my cathedral. [Cheers.] The teacher is my preacher. [Cheers and laughter.] Eighty-seven per cent of all the people of the United States over 10 years of age can read and write. There is no parallel for that in the history of the wide world. [Cheers.] Over 49,000,000 of educated citizens, to whom are opened all the treasures of literature! [Cheers.] Forty-two millions of people, able to read and write! I say, there is no parallel for this. The nations of antiquity were as ignorant as dirt when compared with this great republic of ours. [Cheers.] There is no nation in the world that can show a record like ours. [Cheers.] We ought to be proud of it. We ought to build more schools and build them better. [Cheers.] Our teachers ought to be paid more, and everything ought to be taught in the public schools that is worth knowing.

I believe that the children of the republic, no matter whether their fathers are rich or poor, ought to be allowed to drink at the fountain of education, and it does not cost more to teach everything in the free schools than it does to teach reading and writing and ciphering. [Cheers.]

Have we kept up in other ways? The postoffice tells a wonderful story. In Switzerland, going through the postoffice in each year, are letters, etc., in the proportion of 74 to each inhabitant. In England the number is 60; in Germany, 53; in France, 39; in Austria, 24; in Italy, 10, and in the United States, our own home, 110. [Loud cheers.] Think of it! In Italy only 25 cents paid per head for the support of the public schools and only 18 letters. And this is the place where God's agent lives. [Laughter.] I would rather have one good schoolmaster than two such agents. [Cheers.]

There is another thing. A great deal has been said from time to time about the workingman. I have as much sympathy with the workingman as anybody on the earth who does not work. [Laughter and cheers.] There has always been a desire in this world to let somebody else do the work, nearly everybody having the modesty to stand back whenever there is anything to be done. In savage countries they make the women do the work, so that the weak people have always the bulk of the burdens. In civilized communities the poor are the ones, of course, that work, and probably they are never fully paid. It is pretty hard for a manufacturer to tell how much he can pay until he sells the stuff which he manufactures. Every man that manufactures is not rich. I know plenty of corporations, I know tramp railroads that have not got a dollar. [Laughter.] And you will find some of them as anarchistic as you will find their men. What a man can pay depends on how much he can get for what he has produced. What the farmer can pay his help depends upon the price he receives for his stock, his corn and his wheat.

Wages In America.

But wages in this country are getting better day by day. We are getting a little nearer to being civilized day by day, and when I want to make up my mind on a subject I try to get a broad view of it and do not decide it on one case. In 1860 the average wages of the workingman were per year $289. In 1890 the average was $485. Thus the average has almost doubled in 30 years. The necessaries of life are far cheaper than they were in 1860. Now, to my mind, that is a hopeful sign. [Cheers.] And when I am asked how can the dispute between employer and employee be settled I answer it will be settled when both parties become civilized. [Cheers.] It takes a long while to educate a man up to the point where he does not want something for nothing. Yet when a man is civilized he does not. He wants for a thing just what it is worth; he wants to give labor its legitimate reward, and when he has something to sell he never wants more than what it is worth. I do not claim to be civilized myself [laughter], but all these questions between capital and labor will be settled by civilization. [Cheers.]

We are today accumulating wealth at the rate of more than $7,000,000 a day. Is not this perfectly splendid? And in the midst of prosperity let us never forget the men who helped to save our country, the men whose heroism gave us the prosperity we now enjoy. We have one-seventh of the good land of this world. [Cheers.] You see there is a great deal of poor land in the world. [Cheers.] I know the first time I went to California I went to the Sink Humboldt, and what a forsaken look it had. There was nothing there but mines of brimstone. [Laughter.] On the train going over there was a fellow who got into a dispute with a minister about the first chapter of Genesis. And when they got along to the Sink Humboldt the fellow says to the minister, "Do you tell me that God made the world in six days and then rested on the seventh?"

He said, "I do."

"Well," said the fellow, "don't you think he could put in another day here to devilish good advantage?" [Laughter.]

But, as I have said, we have got about one-seventh of the good land of the world. I often hear people say that we have too many folks here; that we ought to stop immigration; that we have no more room. The people who say this know nothing of the geography of the country. They are ignorant of their native land. I tell you that the valley of the Mississippi and the valleys of its tributaries can support a population of 500,000,000 men, women and children. Don't talk of our being overpopulated. We have only just started. [Cheers.]

The Foreign Born.

Here in this land of ours 500,000,000 men and women and children can be supported and educated without any trouble. We can afford to double two or three times more. But what have we got to do? We have got to educate them when they come—that is to say, we have got to educate their children, and in a few generations we will have them splendid American citizens, proud of the republic. We have got no more patriotic men under the flag than the men who came from other lands, the hundreds and thousands of those who fought to preserve this country. And I think just as much of them as I should if they had been born on American soil. What matters it where a man has been born? It is what is inside of him you have to look at—what kind of a heart he has got and what kind of a head. I do not care where he was born. I simply ask: Is he a man? Is he willing to give to others what he claims for himself? That is the supreme test.

Now, I have got a hobby. I do not suppose any of you have heard of it. [Laughter.] I think the greatest thing for a country is for all its citizens to have a home. [Cheers.] I think it is around the fireside of a home that the virtues grow, including patriotism. [Cheers.] We want homes. Until a few years ago it was the custom to put men in prison for debt. The authorities threw a man into jail when he owed something which he could not pay, and by throwing him into jail they deprived him of an opportunity to earn what would pay it. After a little time they got sense enough to know that they could not collect a debt in this way, and that it was better to give him his freedom and allow him to earn something if he could. Therefore the system of jailing was done away with. At another time when a man owed anything, if he were a carpenter, a blacksmith or a shoemaker and not able to pay it, they took his tools on a writ of sale and execution, and thus incapacitated him so that he could do nothing. Finally they got sense enough to abolish that law, to leave the mechanic his tools and the farmer his plows, horses and wagons, and after this debts were paid better than ever they were before. [Cheers.]

Then we took to emancipating the home builder, and we said: "We will have a homestead exemption. We shall put a roof over wife and child which shall be exempt from execution and sale." And so we preserved hundreds of thousands and millions of homes, while debts were paid just as well as ever they were paid before. [Cheers.] Now, I want to take a step further. I want the rich people of this country to support it. I want the people who are well off to pay the taxes. I want the law to exempt a homestead of a certain value, say from $2,000 or $1,500, and to exempt it not only from a sale on judgment and execution, but to exempt it from taxes of all sorts and kinds. [Cheers.] I want to keep the roof over the heads of others when the man himself is gone. I want that homestead to belong not only to the man, but to the wife and children. I would like to live to see a roof over the heads of all the families of the republic. [Cheers.] I tell you, it does a man good to have a home. You are in partnership with nature when you plant a hill of beans. [Laughter and cheers.] When you set out a tree, you have a new interest in this world. When you own a little tract of land, you feel like you and Jehovah were partners. [Laughter and cheers.] All these things dignify human nature. [Cheers.]

Work For Criminals.

Bad as I am, I've got another hobby. There are thousands and thousands of criminals in our country. I told you a little while ago I did not blame the south because of the conditions which prevailed in the south. The people of the south did as they must. I am the same about the criminal. He does as he must. If you want to stop crime, you must treat with property. The condition of society must not be such as to produce criminals. When a man steals and is sent to the penitentiary, he ought to be sent there to be reformed and not to be brutalized; to be made a better man and not to be robbed. I am in favor, when you put a man in the penitentiary, of making him work, and I am in favor of paying him what his work is worth, so that in five years, when he leaves the prison cell, he will have from $200 to $800 as a breastwork between him and temptation and something for a foundation upon which to build a nobler life.

Now he is turned out and before the day passes he is driven back. Nobody will employ him, nobody will take him, and the night following the day of his release he is without a roof over his head and goes back to his old ways. I would allow him to change his name and allow him to go to another land with a few hundred dollars. We must recollect that it is the misfortune of a man to become a criminal.

I have got hobbies and plenty of them. I want to see 500,000,000 of people living here in peace. We must develop the brain, civilize the heart, and, above all things, must not forget education from early days. Nothing should be taught in the school that somebody does not know. [Laughter.] When I look about me today, when I recall the advance of the country in its development, then I think of the work that has been done. I think of the toil, I think of the labor, I think of the settlers, I think of the millions that crossed the mysterious seas. I think of the thousands of ships with their brave prows toward the west. I think of the settlements on the coast of the sea, and the banks of the rivers, and the edges of the forest. I think of the countless conflicts with savages, the midnight attacks, the cabin floors wet with the blood of father, mother and babe. I think of the long winters and worn days of toil, of nights of fear and dread. I think of the hunger, I think of the courage, the hope, and I think of despair. I think of the suffering, the hardships, the homesickness, the disease, the death. I think of the labor of millions and millions, pressing forward over the field and hill and forest. I think of the great forests that resounded with the echoes of the ax. I think of the stones that were gathered, the walls were laid, the millions of miles of furrows dug by the plow. I think of the logs changed to lumber and to millions of huts and cabins and houses. That is the work of those who have gone before us. Just think of it! Listen, and you will hear the hum of the wheels with which our mothers spun flax and wool; listen, and you will hear the loom and the flying shuttles with which they wove the cloth.

Pictures of the Future.

And just think of the millions still pressing forward to the unknown west! Think of the lodges they built, the roads they made, of the little houses where the sunlight fell, where the bees hummed, and the birds sang, and the children laughed, and the little towns, with mill and shop and the schoolhouse, of the old stages and the drivers' horn. Think of the canals they dug, of the mines they owned. Think of the thousands still pressing toward the unknown west, passing over the Alleghanies to the shores of the Ohio and the great lakes and pressing forward to the Mississippi, and thousands and thousands still going forward to the great Mississippi. See the paths of the processionists covered with wagons, drawn by horses and by oxen, of the men and boys and girls, of the fond mothers and of the dogs following on! [Laughter.] See the glimmer of the campfires at night. See the travelers up with the sun, leaving the perfume of coffee on the air and sometimes leaving a new made grave for wife or child. Listen, and you will hear the cry of gold. See the many thousands crossing the great plains, climbing the mountains, pressing on to the shores of the great Pacific. Think of the toil, the courage that it has taken to possess this land and to cultivate this soil. Think of the inventions leaping from the brain of genius. Think of the old wooden plow with the pull tongue changed to iron and polished steel.

The American mind is the most inventive that nature has yet produced. Think of the old spinning wheel changed to the jenny. Think of the old loom transformed to a machine that seems almost to think and weaves flowers that seem to blossom beneath its iron hands. And think of the steamboats that have traversed vast rivers, bringing towns far apart into relations of friendship. Think of the stages that became cars, of the horses that became locomotives, with bones of steel and breath of flame. Think of the rivers spanned, of the mountains tunneled, of the inventions which changed huts to cabins and cabins to houses and houses to mansions and palaces. Think of the earthen floors and bare walls changed to carpets and pictures. Think of the invention that changed famine to peace, toil to happy, prosperous labor and poverty to wealth. Think of all that has been wrought and endured and accomplished for our good, and let us remember with gratitude and love and tears the brave men and patient women who subdued this land for us. [Cheers.]

Words For the Heroes.

Then think of the heroes who served this country; who gave us this glorious present and hope of a still more glorious future. Think of the men who really made us free, who secured the blessings of liberty, not only to us, but to billions yet unborn! [Cheers.]

When this country shall be covered with happy homes and free men and free women, let us remember these dead heroes. They belong to us. Today we remember the heroic dead, those whose blood reddens all the paths and highways of honor; those who died upon the field, in the charge, in prison pens or in famine's clutches; those who gave their lives that liberty should not perish from the earth. And today we remember the great leaders who have passed the realm of silence to the land of shadow—Thomas, the Rock of Chickamauga, self poised, firm, brave, faithful; Sherman, the reckless, the darling, the prudent and the victorious; Sheridan, a soldier fit to have stood by Julius Cæsar and to have uttered the words of command; and Grant, the silent, the invincible, the unconquered; and, rising over them all, Lincoln, the wise, the patient, the merciful, the grandest figure in the western world. [Cheers.] We remember them all today and hundreds of thousands who are not mentioned, but who were equally worthy, hundreds of thousands of privates, deserving of equal honor with the plumed leaders of the hosts. And what shall I say to you survivors of the death filled days; to you, my comrades; to you whom I have known in the great days, in the time when the heart beat fast and the blood flowed strong, in the days of high hope—what shall I say? All I can say is that my heart goes out to you, one and all; to you who bared your bosoms to the storms of war; to you who left loved ones to die, if need be, for the sacred cause. Today I say to you, may you live long in the land you helped to save; may the winter of your age be as green as spring, as full of blossoms as summer, as generous as autumn, and may you, surrounded by plenty, with your wife at your side and your grandchildren on your knee, live long. And when at last the fires of life begin to burn low; when you enter the deepening dusk of the last of many, many happy days; when your brave hearts beat weak and slow, may the memory of your splendid deeds—deeds that freed your fellow men; deeds that kept your country on the map of the world; deeds that kept the flag of the republic in the air—may the memory of these deeds fill your souls with peace and perfect joy. Let it console you to know that you are not to be forgotten. Centuries hence your story will be told in art and song, and upon your honored graves flowers will be lovingly laid by millions of men and women now unborn. [Loud cheers.]

Again expressing the joy that I feel in having met you, and again saying farewell to one and all, and wishing you good luck, I bid you goodby. [Cheers.]

A Bedticking Portiere.

An attractive portiere seen in an English bedchamber is made from striped blue and white bedticking. Every fifth stripe of the curtain is covered with a narrow gold braid sewed in place with gold colored silk. The stripes between are worked closely with blue silk in a chain stitch. Next the blue comes a stripe worked in scarlet. This is done in the same stitch. This decoration is repeated over the entire hanging.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW.
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law.
No. 2 Fournet Block } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.
A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - - MINNESOTA.

VALLEY
Roller Mills
CROOKSTON, MINN.
MERCHANT MILLERS.
Leading Brands of Flour:
LEE & HERRICK'S BEST,
NORTH STAR,
FAMILY PATENT.
We solicit Custom Trade From Farmers,
Our Rates of Exchanging Flour & Feed for Wheat are as follows:
30 lbs. Best Patent } For 1 bushel
6 lbs. Bran
6 lbs. Shorts } 1 Hd. Wheat.
32 lbs. Straight } For 1 bushel
6 lbs. Bran
6 lbs. Shorts } 1 Hd. Wheat.
OR
32 lbs. Best Patent without feed.
34 lbs. Straight Flour without feed.
We pay highest Prices for Wheat.
North Dakota Milling Ass'n,

1895	OCTOBER.					1895
Su.	Mo.	Tu.	We.	Th.	Fri.	Sat.
		1	2	3	4	5
6	7	8	9	10	11	12
13	14	15	16	17	18	19
20	21	22	23	24	25	26
27	28	29	30	31

SUMMARY OF WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Sept. 25.

The widow of General Crooks, the famous Indian fighter, is dead.

A rebellion has broken out among natives in the Portuguese portion of the Island of Timor.

Eddie Maloney, 4 years old, was burned to death at St. Paul while playing with fire.

The Northern State bank at Washburn, Wis., has opened for business, with a capital of $125,000.

Among the arrivals on the Teutonic at New York Wednesday was Hall Caine, author of "The Manxman."

Frank Regan, a brakeman, was seriously injured in a collision on the Northern Pacific near Muskoda, N. D.

Senator Allison and ex-Senator Washburn hed a long conference et Chicago. It was said to be of no political interest.

It is announced that, with the sanction of the czar, a Russian bank with very large capital will be opened for business soon at Pekin, with a branch at Shanghai.

Thursday, Sept. 26.

Albert Lea, Minn., will have an electric street railway.

Oscar Wilde's debts amount to £3,591, with no assets.

A Russian bank with a large capital is to be established in Pekin.

Sir Herbert Murray has been appointed governor of Newfoundland.

Dr. Henri Adolf Bardeleben, chief of surgical staff in the wars of 1866 and 1870, died in Berlin.

The Episcopal Church of Kentucky has voted to divide the state into two dioceses.

A banquet was given at Davenport, Ia., to Bishop Cosgrove by the priests of the diocese.

Sixty per cent of the greenbacks and gold-demand peper, it is estimated, is held by the banks.

A steamer carrying 250 men and arms and ammunition has succeeded in getting away for Cuba.

Friday, Sept. 27.

Ten thousand diamond cutters are on strike in Amsterdam.

South Dakota Christian Endeavorers are in session at Redfield.

The McKinnon carriage factory at Crookston, Minn., was totally destroyed by fire Friday.

Alix dislocated a bone while going against the record at Springfield, Ills., and may not race again this year.

The Mexican Minister has complained that a filibustering expedition is being organized to seize property in Lower California.

The report that President Jeffrey of the Denver & Rio Grande is to be made president of the Santa Fe has again gained currency.

Saturday, Sept. 28.

Gunmaker Wiard has made a proposition to make all Uncle Sam's smooth-bore cannons into rifles.

S. R. Colloway, general manager of the Nickel Plate line, has been offered the management of the Grand Trunk system and declined the same.

Net earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul for the last two months show an increase of $556,000 over the corresponding period of last year.

A petition for the removal of Austin Lathrop, superintendent of prisons, has been presented to Governor Morton. The charges are, substantially, boodling.

United States Marshal Garden and Secretary of State W. H. Ohley of West Virginia, were badly hurt in a collision near Wheeling. Garden will likely die.

Monday, Sept. 30.

Forty-one fourth-class postoffices will become presidential offices after Oct. 1.

The president is not expected to return to Washingtan from Gray Gables until about Oct. 15.

Secretary Lamont has been called to Gray Gables for a conference with President Cleveland.

Nellie W. Hazel, an aeronant, dropped 1,000 feet at Monrovie, Cal., and met instant death.

Fire damaged the River Spinning Company's mill at Woonsocket, I. L., to the extent of $100,000 or more.

John Harb, aged 75, was caught by a shaft at the Bain wagon works in Kenosha, Wis., and instantly killed.

The Bellevue Mining and Milling company has been incorporated at Pierre, S. D., with a capital stock of $1,000,000.

American Sailors Richilien and Morse, arrested in Cuba, have preferred claims for damages against Spain through the state department.

Tuesday, Oct. 1.

Governor Brown of Kentucky has issued a strong proclamation to the mayor of Louisville to stop the Murphy-Griffin fight.

In the United States circuit court at St. Paul Judge Sanborn confirmed the nomination of the new Northern Pacific receivers.

At Rockford, Ills., Leonard Preston, a young bank clerk, and George Ashbrook of Janesville, Wis., were drowned by the capsizing of a canoe.

The attacks upon the Whiteway party in Newfoundland continue, and it is believed that the whole government is on the eve of disruption.

The injunction case to prevent the consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads will be argued in the district court at St. Paul on Saturday.

TAMMANY A WINNER

TURNED THE STATE DEMOCRACY DOWN AT SYRACUSE.

Latter Objected to the Treatment and Left the Convention Hall in a Body. Nominations Put Through Rapidly and a Platform Adopted.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The Democratic convention has finished its work by nominating the following officers: Secretary of state, Horatio C. King of Brooklyn; comptroller, John B. Judson of Gloversville; state treasurer, D. C. Dow of Cobleskill; attorney general, Norton Chase of Albany; state engineer, Russell R. Stuart of Syracuse; court of appeals, John D. Teller of Auburn. It then adopted the resolutions and its platform of principles.

Within two hours after the close of the convention the town was deserted by the delegates. There has been absolute lack of enthusiasm, for up-country delegates are angry that an understanding was not arrived at with the State Democracy people, and Tammany, while exultant at the State Democracy's defeat, is still quite disgruntled at the platform declaration on excise.

The Slate Broken.

Never at any political gathering did so much depend on the admission of contesting delegations, and never were plans so rudely broken as when the State Democracy refused to enter the convention. The ticket had been looked upon in part as: Augustus Schen of Erie for comptroller, Daniel Griffin of Watertown for attorney general, Norton Chase of Albany for secretary of state, and J. B. Judson of Fulton for treasurer.

At 9 o'clock, one hour before the time set for the meeting of the convention, the slate was unchanged and the platform very little changed. Half an hour later Daniel Griffin, who hed a clear field for attorney general, hed declined to run, and Augustus Schen, who was slated for comptroller, with every chance in his favor, had declined to allow his name to be used. Judson was transferred to the comptrollership; D. C. Dow of Schoharie was and Norton Chase was put on the slate for attorney general although he had never been mentioned for the office. The platform, too, had been cut until it had become a much abbreviated message of few declarations and many semicolons. The nominations were rapidly put through by the convention and with no great enthusiasm. The results detailed were all because of the withdrawal of the delegates of the State Democracy.

Slated for State Treasurer

Various reasons were given for the sudden changes in the slate. Mr. Schen, who had been turned down in the comptrollership fight, was very bitter. He said that the personal enmity of one of the leaders was the cause. A friend of his stated that the reason was that Herbert Bissell refused to nominate him and Mr. Schen would not run unless the nomination was made by a Cleveland adherent.

Cause of the Bolting.

The convention was slow in meeting and it was 11:25 when the gavel of the chairman fell, and the report of the credentials committee called for. The Queens county contest was settled without debate. When the contest between Tammany and the State Democracy was reached, however, the result was different. The committee reported the resolution adopted at its morning session, allowing State Democracy delegates one-fifth of a vote each, and then there was trouble. Delegate Patterson of Kings county offered a substitute in which the State Democracy was accorded half the representation of Tammany. He made a brief speech in support of his substitute and when the vote was taken it was rejected. The report of the credentials committee was adopted, and the State Democracy delegates left the hall in a body. This episode over, the convention proceeded to business and the above ticket was nominated by acclamation.

The Platform.

The platform adopted lays down the following propositions: Home rule; economy in public expense; honesty in public office; equal and honest enforcement of all laws; equal taxation; individual liberty; honest elections; honest reform in civil service; earnest and liberal promotion of agriculture; improved highways; beneficial and needed legislation in the interest of labor; opposition to combinations, trusts, and monopolies; improvement and the maintenance of the canals of the state; federal taxation for revenue only; no meddling with the present reformed tariff to the injury and unsettling of business and industries; sound money legislation, as gold and silver the only legal tenders; no currency not convertible into coin; gradual retirement and extinction of the greenback currency; no free and unlimited coinage of silver; strict construction of the federal constitution; rigid maintenance of the reserved rights of the states; no force bills; no entangling alliances with foreign nations; the vigorous enforcement of the Monroe doctrine; no jingoism.

ANNOUNCED DAVIS' CANDIDACY.

Senator Pettigrew Is Booming the Minnesota Senator for President.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Senator Richard T. Pettigrew of South Dakota is registered at the Fifth Avenue hotel. In an interview he announced the candidacy of Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota for the presidential nomination on the Republican ticket. Senator Pettigrew said:

"Cushman K. Davis is the choice of the Northwest for president. In the nominating convention he will have the solid delegations from his own state, the Dakotas, Montana, Oregon, Washington and probably a part of the Wisconsin delegation."

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

I.

"Whenever the women of the United States really want the suffrage, they will get it." This has long been said by all reasoning men in the United States. It has proved itself true in two of our commonwealths, and if the test comes it will prove itself true in New York and Massachusetts.

It is perfectly certain that whenever we women ask to be allowed to vote—unanimously or in any determinant majority—we shall get what we ask. Therefore it behooves us to know thoroughly well just what our demand would involve, whether we veritably wish to make it, and whether we should be justified in making it at this present time. And therefore, as a New York woman, but one who has lived in other countries and other parts of our own country, and has compared the condition of women there and here; as a working woman who for many years has been thrown much with other working women and with men of various classes and kinds; as a woman who now holds property in her own right, and has no relative who immediately "represents" her at the polls; as one who has carefully considered the woman suffrage question for a long time, listening respectfully to the arguments of its advocates, and as one who recently voted in Colorado—on all these counts I ask women, and especially working women, to look with me a little into the matter. Let us take up in succession the chief points it presents, and briefly examine them one by one.

The first point of all is this: Need every conscientious woman make up her mind decidedly whether or not she "believes in woman suffrage" as an abstract question? No. But we have often been implored to say that we do believe in it so firmly that we wish for its establishment here and now.

If we do not feel certain that it would be advantageous, then we must feel certain that its establishment would be a risk.

Woman suffrage has never been tested in any way which indicates how it would work in our eastern states. Colorado and New Zealand are being held up for our imitation. But their experience has been too brief to prove anything. The experience of Wyoming has not been so encouraging as the advocates of suffrage here desire us to believe. And even if it had been, it would still prophesy little with regard to New York and Massachusetts. Not one of those three communities includes a city even remotely approaching the size of ours. Not one has a population at all resembling ours. Not one has problems to deal with such as are most prominent, most insistent, with us. Surely we must feel that it would be a fresh experiment, in the fullest and gravest meaning of the term, to establish unlimited feminine suffrage here and now.

Some people are passionately asserting that they know it would work well here and now—even that they know just how it would work well. But they have no right to assert this unless they claim the gift of inerrant prophecy. They have no proved reasons, no tangible indorsements, to give for what they call their knowledge. They say more with regard to women who have never possessed political power, than they would dare to say with regard to men who have possessed it for more than a century, and been severely tried, variously tested and minutely studied during that time. They say that good women, intelligent women, would vote and vote more wisely than the men of their kind, and they say that ignorant women and bad women would not vote (or would vote in comparatively harmless numbers), or that they, too, would vote more conscientiously and wisely than the men of their kind. Some people boldly declare this, and all who ask for woman suffrage imply that they believe it, for unless the average of intelligence and conscientiousness is to be raised at the polls, certainly no sane person can wish to see the suffrage in any way extended.

For myself I do not think that these predictions are plausible, and bit by bit I shall try to tell why. But what I want to insist upon now is that no one can know anything with regard to the matter—that any person who says he or she does know, or can make more than a plausible guess, has never learned to appreciate the difference between knowing and guessing. What he or she calls knowledge is merely a personal opinion based upon data which are almost altogether of theoretical sort. And when a thing is a matter of guesswork, risk is of course involved.

In this case it would be hard to overestimate the magnitude of the risk. It would mean an innovation of unparalleled significance with regard to the future of our women and of our men, with regard to our political course, our social conditions, and the status of the home and family. And it would mean an innovation affecting not merely our own state, but the country at large. What Wyoming does the rest of the states may disregard. But what New York and Massachusetts do the rest of the states must at least consider and most probably would imitate. We must think of the tens of thousands of illiterate and vicious women in New York city, and just as carefully of the scores of thousands of ignorant negresses at the south. All told, the women of the United States very nearly equal the men in number. Think of the enormous burden of responsibility for the welfare of our whole fatherland which we women are asked to assume.

Are we prepared just here and now to assume it? Are we prepared to throw into political life all the women, good and bad, intelligent and unintelligent, of the whole United States, including the swarms which belong to Europe, but have been adopted here? Are we thoroughly, rationally convinced that such an innovation, sudden, but irrevocable, would inevitably work for good? And if not—if we feel that it would to any degree be a risk—ought we not to raise our voices against it?

Silence will be cited as consent. Every new recruit for the "movement" will be counted, and all the rest of us will be pronounced merely weak, cowardly, indifferent, or as yet unawakened. The world will be told that at the bottom of our hearts we all think the suffrage desirable, else we should have said that we did not. We must declare that we are not convinced that unlimited woman suffrage is desirable here and now. And it is our duty in any clear and forcible manner that presents itself to say, "I am not sure that our country should run this enormous new risk at this particularly disturbed and critical time."

A GOOD THING - PUSH IT ALONG

BATTLE AX
Plug Tobacco
A Great Big Piece for
10 Cents.

Aug. Miller, O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty, Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.☜
Office o Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Bright's Disease
Is the most dangerous of all kidney diseases. Pains in the back, irregularities in the urine, swelling of the limbs or abdomen are the first symptoms.
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM
Has proved, in thousands of cases and for many years, to be the peerless remedy for this dreaded disease. It relieves promptly and works a permanent cure.
For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

WHEAT has been marketed more slowly for the past week and, as we predicted the price is very much better. If something would hold it back a fortnight longer you would see sixty cent wheat in this market at the end of that time at least.

GOOD for Gov. Culbertson! He is a man after our own heart. Finding that the laws of Texas were insufficient to prevent the threatened "mill" between Corbett and Mitchel he did not do anything but call the legislature together to frame a law that will hold water, a law that the pugs will be compelled to respect. That's BUSINESS!

AND peace and harmony does not seem to reign in the ranks of the free silverites to any alarming extent. Just now they are accusing some of their leaders of being in the pay of and under the dominion of the "silver barons." 'Twas ever thus—from childhood's hour, I've seen my fondest hopes decay," etc.

IT is whispered that whenever "Grandfather's Hat" is consulted upon the subject of a Republican presidential candidate, from under the old bell-crown comes a merry warble: "Bob-o'-link." In other words, they do say that ex-President Harrison is "mashed" on Robert Lincoln and would prefer to see him nominated—i. e., providing alwas that Benjamin isn't in it..

THE Times which "gives all the news," accuses Gov. Clough of going ways with the editors to Atlanta so as to curry favor with the boys. Unfortunately for the accuracy of the Times' news service Dave didn't go and now the Times is in the predicament of the Irishman that was knocked into the river by the ram and can exclaim with him: "Begorra, it was a good thing that I had me laugh furrust!"

NEVER before has barley been so low in this market but the fact that lots of it has been bought and shipped out will render it pretty sure that later on barley will be gilt-edged property to have. Even at the low price of 20 cents per bushel it pays better than wheat at the ruling price so far and many farmers have wisely sold their barley and hung on to their wheat which will bring a good price later on.

A STEAM PLOW was on trial at Grand Forks last week and it rolled over the soil at the rate of 30 acres per day, but the price of the outfit, $4,000.00 in good cold cash renders the thing impracticable for general farm use—with horses so cheap as they are and nothing else for them to do in the fall. That is too much money tied up in a plow—and besides you must have a practical engineer to run it.

WHEAT took a bit of a boom the latter part of last week on unfavorable reports from the crops of the Argentine Republic. On Monday morning track buyers were offering 50 cents for wheat in this market which had a tendency to bring out a good bit that was waiting for a little better price. If the farmers can get fifty cents for the most of their wheat that, with the abundant yield they have, will be a royal good thing and will wipe out lots of those old eastern debts leaving them in better shape to control the output next year.

THE celebrated Steenerson rate case, wherein Elias Steenerson complained of excessive rates on wheat between Crookston and Duluth and Minneapolis, to the board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners, which body, after hearing both sides of the question, decided that the complaint was just, and at once ordered the roads to adopt rates that they considered equitable, from which the roads appealed to the district court, has been decided adversely to the plaintiff, Steenerson. Judge Kerr handed down a decision that sustains the roads in former rates.

LAST week James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, left St. Paul so quietly that even the argus-eyed newspapers did not get onto the fact that he had gone until he came back. He came to Crookston in his private car and had with him a box car in which was his hunting team and buggy, his dogs and other paraphernalia of the chase and he went out to Fosston where he spent two or three days "hunting" around—some say to find a good way to get through that city with an extension for the system to Duluth. And now all the great St. Paul and Minneapolis dailies are just falling over each other trying to find out just what he went out there for. Well, if he did not go to hunt chickens, as he said, when he gets ready to divulge we shall know just what he did go for.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR.
NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

THAT the Republicans have an absolute cinch in Nebraska, seems beyond a doubt. The campaign this year is for the election of justice of the Supreme court and two regents of the State University. As a rule this contest excites very little interest but the presence in the field of five tickets, including the Prohibition ticket, lends unusual interest and the fact that the Democrats are hopelessly split up, with two tickets in the field. The Republican convention which met yesterday will no doubt renominate the present member of the bench, Chief Justice Norval, who, aside from being personally popular will have a united party behind him. He is acceptable to many in other parties, who, knowing that their own party can not win and not caring to waste their votes will cast it for the Republican ticket. The Populists are not satisfied with the way things have been run and very many will come back this fall to the old party, and it will be in pretty good shape for the presidential battle next year.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

☞Sold by druggists 75c. Toledo, O.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

Invests in what is generally conceded in Philadelphia to be one of the most desirable building sites in the city has just been purchased by the Ladies' Home Journal. The property is located at Sixth and Walnut street which means that it fronts on two of the most beautiful squares in Philadelphia, the famous Independence square on the east and Washington square on the south. The land acquired includes five properties. On May 1st, next, the houses thereon will be torn down to make room for a building costing $250,000, to be solely owned and exclusively occupied by the Journal. The building will require two years in its construction.

Mary Anderson's Autobiography

Mrs. deNavarro (Mary Anderson) has now completed the autobiography of her stage career, and a series of the most interesting chapters from the manuscript will be printed in The Ladies' Home Journal. In these articles Mrs. deNavarro will tell of her first appearances on the stage, the experiences of her theatrical life, and the famous people in America and England whose acquaintance she made. The Journal will begin the autobiography in an early issue.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27, 1895.

"How would Reed and Davis strike you?" The question was asked by one of a group of prominent Republicans who had been discussing opinions which had been expressed by Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota and ex-Senator Sabin, of Minnesota, on the presidential outlook. The response was prompt and emphatic—"Good!" Senator Pettigrew expressed the belief that Senator Davis would be supported for the presidential nomination by from five to eight states at the opening of the convention, and that, owing to his very friendly relations with all the other candidates, his chance for winning would be excellent in case of a prolonged contest. Mr. Pettigrew thinks Senator Davis a splendid candidate. He says of him: "While nobody ever accused him of being a trimmer or of attempting to carry water on both shoulders, there is no truer friend in the country of both the working man and the business man. It is, perhaps, a curious fact that while so many distinguished and able lawyers have been almost all their lives representatives of opulent railroads, steamship companies, or other corporations, Davis has never been a corporation lawyer. It would be a great thing for the United States if it would have at the head of affairs a man whose sympathies are so cosmopolitan, and whose scholarship embraces at once the practical knowledge of the statesman, and the elegant acquirements of a litterateur."

Ex-Senator Sabin, while not disparaging Senator Davis, thinks he cannot hope for anything better than the vice presidency. He states his opinion of the situation to be as follows: "Out in the Northwest as far as I can learn by personal contact with the rank and file, as well as the leaders of the Republican party, the trend of sentiment is favorable to the consideration of Thomas B. Reed, of Maine. He possesses the qualities which so endeared Gen. Grant to his supporters, conspicuous among which is the fact that he always stands by his friends. That is the kind of man to lead and win with, for you always know where to find him in an emergency. Senator Quay's success in Pennsylvania and the result of the recent Republican convention in New York are indications favorable to the Reed boom, for Quay and Platt admire the Maine statesman, because he has the courage of his convictions and is not afraid to speak his sentiments. Hence it may be set down as a certainty that the Empire and Keystone states will be found linked together at the Republican presidential convention in support of Reed. With New England and the Middle states for him it will be a difficult matter to overthrow the standard of Reed, and all over the West the sentiment is steadily increasing in his favor. It would not surprise me, under the circumstances, to see his nomination for president on the first ballot; and certainly no truer exponent of the principles of Republicanism can be found. With Reed at the head of the ticket and a good man from the West as his running mate, an old-time majority would be rolled up, for every Republican in the United States would want to cast his vote for such a ticket."

The administration men have made a new move against Blackburn in the Kentucky campaign. It was inaugurated when Representative Berry, of that state, announced himself a candidate for the Senate, and will, it is said, be followed by similar announcements from other administration Democrats who are personally popular enough to get the support of a few of the Democratic candidates for the legislature. None of these men have any serious intention of coming to the senate even if the Democrats can hold the legislature. Their object is to aid in electing a Democratic majority of the legislature and to control a majority of the Democrats so elected, in order to prevent Blackburn's election. When they can make it plain that Blackburn cannot be re-elected the name of Secretary Carlisle will be pushed to the front as a compromise candidate and all the administration men will retire in his favor. Quite a shrewd game in its way, but it will be nicely blocked if the Republicans carry the legislature.

If any doubts remained in the minds of the Republicans about carrying the state of New York this year they were removed by the bolting of Senator Hill's Syracuse convention by the cuckoos. New York is all right this year, and also next.

It is now said that Senator Gorman has given up whatever hope may have indulged in of receiving any help from the administration and that he is now depending solely upon cash, with which the sugar trust and other corporations under obligations to him are plentifully supplying him, to retain his hold upon Maryland. If he fails, his influence in national politics will hereafter be insignificant.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

We have received a copy of a unique publication called H. M. Greene & Co.'s "History of Grain and the Grain Trade of the World." It is printed in colors and is illustrated with a picture some 6,000 years old, from the Tombs of Thebes, representing the ancient Egyptians elevating their wheat into granaries. There is also a threshing song in hieroglypics, with the translation of each character. The book covers the prehistoric chapters of the subject. Egyptian, Chaldean, Assyrian, Babylonian, Persian, Indian, Chinese Phoenican and Carthagenian historians are quoted. There is a very rare descriptions of land caravans and sea caravans. The history of of wheat in Greece, Rome, Antioch, and among the Scythians, Celts, Gauls, Germans, Goths, Scots, Brittons, Irish, Africans, Mound Builders Peruvians and American Indians, finishes the first part, or Ancient History of Grain. The part called Modern History deals with Venice, the Arabs, carrying of wheat to the New World, the Philippines, the Dutch, Antwerp, and the great modern European and American cities. There is an index covering all the matters contained in the book. It is the publishers' wish to present a copy of the work to every miller, grain dealer and interested party in the United States, and all wishing a free copy should address H. M. Greene & Co., Rialto Building, Chicago, Ill. The Liverpool Corn Trade News has spoken of this book with admiration, and it has also received abundant testimonies to its merits from such crop experts as S. T. K. Prime and the Secretary of Agriculture. It reflects great credit on the intelligence of its authors and the grain trade in general will feel no uncertain pride in receiving from its own ranks a work which is at once commercially brief and not the less notable for its erudition.

WANTED.

An agent for the distribution "for trial," sale and collection of Dr. Koch's Liniment, Powdered flavoring extracts etc., etc. No cash required. We furnish the goods you put them on trial, collect, etc. Agents make good wages. For territory etc. address, DR. KOCH VEGT. TEA CO., [23-25] Winona, Minn.

The Kaiser's Uniforms.

The task of looking after the uniforms and other costumes of the Emperor William is by no means a sinecure. All these different and greatly varying articles of attire, as diversified as those at the disposal of a star actor, are carefully kept, systematically arranged and in large wardrobes, and at the head of the department is an official entitled the obergarderobier, who has under his command two valets de chambre. The nautical uniforms are placed under the charge of an ex-subofficer of the German navy. Before the emperor undertakes any one of his many expeditions the obergarderobier is provided with an exhaustive list of all the dresses and other paraphernalia that will be required.—London Tit-Bits.

Neglect of the hair often destroys its vitality and natural hue, and causes it to fall out. Before it is too late, apply Hall's Hair Renewer, a sure remedy.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

The many friends of Henry Tiedt are pleased to see him at his desk in the Polk County Bank again, after his illness and absence.

Dr. Thomas and wife, of Crookston were in the city a few days during the week. The Dr. was administering to the relief of diseased molars and cuspids and Mrs. Thomas was visiting the family of Lyman Clark, and other friends.

The marriage of Mr. Albert Christianson and Petra Olson, both of this city, was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Evenson on Friday the 13th inst., by the Rev. Aastad.

Douglass Hansen, brother of Mrs. O. P. Johnson, Mrs. Mulnrky and K. M. Hansen, arrived in this city last week with his bride. The newly wedded couple were circling around the country on a delightful tour and dropped off here to visit their friends. Mr. Hansen was taken immediately ill with typoid fever and it will doubtless be a number of weeks before they can depart for their North Dakota home.

East Grand Forks Items

[From The Courier.]

Shock threshing is about finished and the work of depleting the immense stacks of wheat is already begun.

C. M. Benson, Judge of Probate for Polk county, was in town again on Wednesday seeking a retraction from the Grand Forks Herald for certain statements made recently in that paper.

Early in the week the hotel register of the new hotel in Crookston bore the names of many prominent business men from this city. They were not bent upon pleasure either, and their business was of such a nature that they gladly took the first train out of that city.

An exhibition was given Tuesday afternoon by Mr. Ingleton on the W. H. Hackney farm with his steam plow. It is claimed that the plow will cover 30 acres per day. As the plow will not be sold on time and costs $4,000 the average Polk county farmer will not touch it. What he wants is something which is sold on time—long time and a stiff rate of interest.

On Tuesday Miss Maggie Mora, a sister of Mrs. St. Lawrence of the Point, was badly bitten by a dog belonging to Antwine Lessor, the brute's fangs penetrating the young lady's left limb and left arm. As Mr. Lessor claimed that he was not responsible for his dog's actions, and furthermore refused to kill the animal, a warrant was sworn out on Tuesday, wherein it was recited by clerk Chambers that both Lessor and the dog be arrested forthwith.

[From the Advocate.]

County Attorney Gossman says he is determined to leave nothing undone in the line of his duty to suppress gambling houses wherever they may exist in Polk county.

Mr. George Damarel, grocer, has on exhibition in his window a most remarkable specimen of potatoe, grown in the garden of Mr. Peter Cotu. It just lacks an ounce of weighing four pounds. This is the largest "murphy" without exception we have ever seen. Who can beat it?

The St. Paul and All-American league teams remained over a day in Grand Forks where they played two games; one with Co. F. and with each other. Co. F. succeeded in capturing two runs, the score being 9 to 2 in favor of the league. This practically ends the base ball season for this year

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

The railroad company have a crew of men at work here this week building a new stock yard on the site of the old Farmers' Mutual elevator.

Charles Tschida, our popular cigarmaker, has gone to Crookston to work. Mr. Tschida may return here and open a shop of his own in the near future.

Somebody should buy the Crookston base ball team a rag ball and let them practic up. They didn't get to first base in the game with the St. Paul league club.

The livery barn will be moved this week to Mill street near the old Central House building. It is rumored a fine new block will go up in the corner where the barn now stands.

The new threshing rig of Tuff Bros. went through the bridge that spans the Sand Hill river just beyond Valley one day last week. Tom Harris was engaged to get the rig out with his house moving apperatus. Both the engine and separator was badly damaged and it will probably be some time before they can commence threshing again.

One of the band boys found $20 in bills in the grand stand during the fair and immediately handed it over to the judges of the races. An announcement was made of the fact and in less than a minute the rightful owner stepped up, described his money and got it. A gold watch was also found on the ground and turned over to its owner.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Will Zutz was down from Crookston yesterday.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Kalb died Wednesday morning after a long illnes.

Hon. T. A. Dunlava and wife and County Auditor Gleason and wife of Crookston came down yesterday to attend the funeral of the late H. B. Herrick.

Jas. Gilmour a prosperous farmer of the Marais is hauling lumber from town to build a new residence.

John Scott takes the cake for raising big potatoes. He brought into this office the daddy of all the big un's. It tipped the beam at 4¾ pounds.

The boys who attended the ball game in Crookston and Grand Forks between the All-Americans and St. Paul teams, were not favorably impressed with the playing.

Miss Lizzie Zarracher teacher in the primary department of the village school spent Sunday in Crookston visiting her parents.

Owing to the fact that the necessary poles cannot be procured, the telephone line will not be extended to Grand Forks this fall.

Wednesday evening as little Douglas Rosaaen, aged three years, was following his father into the stable, each leading a horse, the one the boy was leading struck him in the back of the head, knocking him down and badly fracturing the skull. He was insensible for a while. Dr. Sorkness was called and the little fellow is now doing well and no serious results are apprehended.

Died, in Fisher township on Sunday Sept. 22th, Gunder Olson, aged 79 years. The deceased has been a resident of this town for 14 years and leaves a wife and 5 grown-up children. All, except a son and daughter live here. All the children were present when he died. The funeral was held at the late residence of the deceased and the remains were laid to rest in the Lutheran burying ground across the river.

Easy to Take
And Perfect in Their Action,
AYER'S PILLS
Never fail to relieve Dyspepsia, Constipation, and Headache.

"I have proved the value of Ayer's Pills in relieving dyspepsia and headache, with which complaints I was so long troubled that neither the doctor nor myself supposed I should ever be well again. Through the use of the above medicine I am better than I have been for years."—A. GASKILL, Versailles, Ill.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for 15 years as a cathartic in liver complaint, and always with extremely beneficial effect, never having had need of other medicine. I also give Ayer's Pills to my children, when they require an aperient, and the result is always most satisfactory."—A. A. EATON, Centre Conway, N. H.

"Having been severely afflicted with costiveness, I was induced to try Ayer's Pills. Their use has effected a complete cure, and I can confidently recommend them to all similarly afflicted."—C. A. WHITMAN, Nipomo, Cal.

AYER'S PILLS
Received Highest Awards
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Manifold Disorders

Are occasioned by an impure and impoverished condition of the blood. Slight impurities, if not corrected, develop into serious maladies such as

SCROFULA,
ECZEMA,
RHEUMATISM

and other troublesome diseases. To cure these is required a safe and reliable remedy free from any harmful ingredients, and purely vegetable. Such is S.S.S. It removes all impurities from the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system. Thousands of cases of the worst forms of blood diseases have been

Cured by S. S. S.

Send for our Treatise mailed free to any address
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

School shoes at The Fair.

School Shoes 98 cents a pair at The Fair.

T. A. Harris is at Fertile this week moving a barn.

F. H. Kratka returned last week from a visit below.

Senator Burkhardt has been quite ill during the past week.

A. W. Foss was greeting friends in the city on Wednesday.

Myron Collins left for his home in Iowa on Monday evening.

Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

P. L. Renne went down to Fertile, this week, to visit pa and ma.

A. A. Miller went to St. Paul Monday evening on some cases before the Supreme court.

Monday afternoon the price of wheat quoted on 'change was 47 cents. It will get there.

C. E. Paxton, of Saginaw, Michigan, is in the city with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Marin.

Don't forget that Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, will be in the city Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Dr. Dunlop was called to his home in Ontario, on Monday, by the news of the serious illness of his mother.

Iver Krohn returned to civilization after pounding out 30 bushels per acre of the golden on his Fertile farm.

Mrs. Robert Leick was up from Valley City, N. D., last week, visiting friends and relatives in the city.

John Hager, after a pleasant visit with relatives, left on Monday evening for his home at Maiden Rock, Wis.

Track-buyers inform us that they can get all the cars they want, and promptly, on the Northern Pacific road.

Judge Lewis was reported to have passed a more restful night and seemed to be much better on Wednesday morning.

August George has rented the handsome little cottage just vacated by Engineer Jack Bunnell and moves into it this week.

Rev. J. W. Klepper, a former pastor of the M. E. church here, died at Hall, Iowa this week of apoplexy. Mrs. J. D. Marshall, his daughter and her husband left for Iowa on Monday night.

A. J. & A. McKinnon commenced on Monday to remove the debris from the ruins of their burned carriage works and on Tuesday they got the bodies of the horses out and buried them.

The wheat business was quite lively this week. The little diversion by the track buyers livened things up a good bit and the result was a good many extra dollars in the pockets of the farmers.

Nevertheless, notwithstanding that Krohn has so much patronage he dassent advertise for more, it is a fact that you can always manage to find a good cigar at his shop that somebody else hasn't smoked.

Last week Peter Cornelius threshed 1,055 bushels of wheat from 30 acres on his home place, nice, plump berry, 63 pounds to the bushel—1 Hard wheat. The rest of Pete's crop may not turn out as heavy but will come pretty near it and is elegant wheat.

W. E. Walker has taken the contract for building a school house in Russia, and left for the scene of his operations on Monday afternoon. That might mean that he has gone abroad—but it don't; Russia is a town about six miles south of the city in this case.

Uncle Lewis, who has been in failing health this summer, was taken so much worse last week that it was thought advisable to summon the children and all whose whereabouts were known were summoned to his bedside. Sunday it was thought that he could not survive the day.

Mrs. Sadie Childs arrived from Chicago, on Tuesday morning via Great Northern train and has accepted a position in Mrs. I. U. Jennings' store as trimmer. She has spent some weeks in the wholesale houses of Edson, Keith & Co., and of D. D. Fisk, of Chicago, the leading millinery houses there, learning the latest styles of the art, and is thus fully posted on the lovely fall fashions.

When we met Rudy Barkhardt on Thursday morning of last week he was standing in front of his hotel, the Germania, behind a smile 16 rods wide, or occupying at least two-thirds of his handsome German physymahogany, as he remarked: "Dot leedle boy what registered at mine house last night vas a leedle gurl some more already"—the first girl in the lot and no wonder Rudy "smiled" frequently that day.

Warm shoes and slippers at The Fair.

Wheat closed last night at 48 cents 1 Hard.

E. J. Haseltine was in from Euclid on Monday.

Mrs. Fred Hall is visiting friends at Oberon, N. D.

Atty. Street was down from Fosston this week.

S. Langevin left this week for a trip to the far west.

Mrs. Geo. Ralph is visiting friends at Red Lake Falls this week.

Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Miss Lizzie Zarracher spent the Sabbath with her parents in the city.

The Fair is rapidly coming to the front as leaders in popular priced footwear.

K. D. Chase is up from Faribault this week looking after his business interests here.

Will Greenhalgh and bride are visiting relatives of the groom in the city this week.

Atty. Wilkinson is in St. Paul this week attending to cases before the Supreme court.

Pete Sture is up from West Duluth visiting his father's family and old-time friends in the city.

When you need another pair of shoes, try The Fair. They'll save you money on your purchase.

For work in his line, wait for Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Don't forget that Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, will be in the city Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

George Marshall is now employed as brakesman on the Great Northern running west from Grand Forks.

Geo. Lally has secured a position on the Northern Pacific road and will make Grand Forks, his headquarters.

Maj. Mix returned on Monday evening from his short visit to his daughter, Mrs. Les McDonald, at Tacoma.

Charlie Misner has run out of fairs for this year and is now seeking after other worlds to conquer with Word and Works.

O. Sargeant return this week from Kittson where he has been at work for several weeks and is now ready for what may turn up.

Messrs Montague and Steenerson left for St. Paul on Monday evening to be on deck for the opening of the Supreme court Oct. 1st.

October opened out with bright and beautiful weather. Four weeks of that kind of weather would help out the farm work in great shape.

County Attorney L. E. Gossman went to Fertile, Wednesday evening, summoned by a telegram from Justice English to appear in a criminal case.

Frank Brown went out to Fosston, last Thursday, and disposed of a car load or so of the Valley Rolling Mill's flour—and still he wasn't quite happy.

Miss Helen Halvorson went over to Grand Forks, on Wednesday to attend the marriage of Miss Marie Ryggea, of Erskine, to Rev. S. O. Heldal.

It is rumored that the Great Northern road will put the flyer on between Fosston and St. Vincent instead of Grand Forks as heretofore, and make the change Sunday next.

Wheat fell off three cents on Tuesday, but not before our farmers had sold considerable at 50 cents. It has however, an upward tendency, and will no doubt soon reach the 50 notch again.

A. P. Kirsch accompanies the editorial excursion to Atlanta representing the St. Vincent New Era(che) while the Deacon will stay at home to keep the head of the estate (the north end) level.

A call at the busy millinery store of Miss E. Veronneau on Wednesday morning found three trimmers busily at work in preparation for the reception that will take place there on Friday and Saturday of this week, while the little lady herself was engaged on the sweetest production in the line of a hat that we ever saw. It had a little gold business on top of it as big as a desert plate, while all around the "plate" were clustered some of those elegant wings that are a lovely feature in hats this fall, which with the boas and the ribbons and such other filigree work—far beyond our power of description, formed a complete whole that the ladies would call a "love of a bonnet." The little lady displays great taste in the blending of colors to form complete harmony and besides she has the advantage of having spent some time in Chicago recently, becoming familiar with the very latest Chicago and New York styles. If our lady friends would be in style they should call to-morrow and next day. Remember every lady caller gets a souvenir these days. Don't be satisfied with our feeble description but call and see for yourself.

Do You Wash?

Of Course -

BUT Do you Wash QUICKLY?
Do you Wash EASILY?
Do you Wash THOROUGHLY?
Do you Wash CHEAPLY?

You may IF you will use

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

The best, purest and most economical soap made Sold everywhere. Made only by

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
CHICAGO.

$150,000.00

WORTH OF NEWEST GOODS

BARGAINS BOUGHT
To be BARGAINS SOLD

In a selling floor space of 20,000 square feet.

Our Buyers have been hard at work for the last six months in the leading markets and manufacturing centres of this country collecting a stock whose equal no concern in the "Red River Valley" would for a moment dare to dispute. Some of you who read this may at some time, visit our city, and to those we extend a cordial invitation to call. We have have five departments—Dry Goods & Carpets—Clothing & Furnishings—Boots & Shoes—Groceries—Crockery & Glassware—and are situated right across the way from the Great Northern Depot—but facing on Main Street. From those who cannot come to Crookston, we will be pleased to receive a written communication at any time. A postal will bring you a Fall Price List. Our guarantees accompany all transactions—and whenever for any reason competition names lower than usual prices, reductions to the lowest point are immediately made here.

Well may a person say—I ought at least to look around before I let my money go—the more you look here—the more you'll buy.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM
The Leading Store of CROOKSTON.

Agents Buttrick's Patterns.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jeweler.

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER CASHIER

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

Dept. Marshal Sheehan brought a prisoner from Fergus Falls this week convicted of selling wiskey to Indians and sentenced to imprisonment in the Polk county jail for ten months.

Wm. Becker, who has been working for a farmer near Fertile, was thrown off a load of wheat on Wednesday and the wagon ran over him injuring him seriously if not fatally.

G. H. Horn was in from Keystone on Tuesday, after a well driller. Says a mile of road has been graded already and a large force is now at work on the extension of the Keystone spur.

Mrs. G. H. Palmer and Miss Addie Dickmann received intelligence of the death of their grand father, George C. Dickmann of Winona, who died on Saturday last at the ripe old age of 88 years.

Obert Sundet returned from Chicago on Friday last where he has been in a big marble establishment gaining some valuable pointers in that business and goes to work in his father's shop here.

We have often wondered why it was—and as good looking as Frank Hertz is, and—but now we reckon we've caught on. The girls are all afraid if he should buy one he would not keep her very long.

Chas. Hitchcock was down at Ada last week to attend the fair. He had Spot Buford along with him and won the free for all in 2:23—and now you can't touch Judge Benson, (the owner) with a ten-foot pole.

It will pay JOURNAL readers to look over the mammoth establishment of Fontaine & Anglim before making extensive purchases. If there is anything one could desire that they havn't got in stock, we can't think just now what it could be.

Rev. Lee W. Squier left for conference meeting on Monday evening. As he has been in the city for some time, it is more than likely that he will be sent elsewhere for the coming year, which his many friends here would most sincerely regret.

P. S. Ware, of the Thief River Falls Press, seems to be the only Polk county newspaper man who is able to go to Atlanta with the editorial excursion this fall. He passed through the city on Friday evening, on his way to join the gang in St. Paul.

Rev. Herman P. Fisher leaves this evening to attend the great Congregational convention at Syracuse, New York. This convention meets once every three years and is composed of delegates from every Congregational church in the United States.

The Grand Forks News in its issue of last Saturday says: "The six months old baby of Ole H. Bang, the well known farmer in the town of Higdem, Polk county, Minn., died last Thursday, of brain fever. The funeral will take place tomorrow, Sunday."

E. E. Abbot was in from Mentor on Wednesday, looking a good bit like he had been hauled through a knot-hole—but he hasn't. It is only a two or three weeks run of fever that ailed him. Says his oat crop was hailed out, but he had his wheat all in stack in time to save that.

Quite a number of strangers have been quietly looking over Polk county products and soil for the past ten days and the result begins to be apparent in the increased sales of farm property. Some of these are shrewd farmers from different states, who can tell a good thing when they see it.

A. J. and A. McKinnon will go to work to fix up the old building adjoining their present location, to use until they can rebuild the burned shop. They hope to have the building all ready for business again before winter sets in, and will accomplish it if they get good weather.

Iver A. Krohn: "Am getting so many orders now for cigars that I dare not advertise for fear I shall get more orders than I can fill, nevertheless, if the boys want to know where they can find the best cigar in town I would not mind telling them if they will call and see me. You may say that I am still on Main street—one door north of the weather shop.

On Monday morning our ears were greeted by the welcome sound of the big sawmill whistle announcing that the broken valve in the big engine had been repaired and work was about to be resumed. They had to send to Milwaukee for a new one hence the delay. Barring accidents the mill will now run steadily until the cut is completed.

Of a former pastor of the Congregational church, at Crookston the Wabasha Herald says: "Rev. W. H. Medlar will give at his church, during the latter part of October, a series of four lectures, covering his European trip. These lectures will be illustrated with sterioptican views and will show every phase of life as he saw it while abroad. These will be given on week day evenings and will doubtless be full of interest to all."

Mrs. J. C. Knudson
Albert Lea, Minn.

Ringing Noises

Catarrh and Rheumatism Cured by Hood's

A Thorough Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"It gives me great pleasure to state my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the hope that others suffering may receive the same benefit. I was suffering with Chronic Catarrh and Rheumatism.

Had a buzzing noise in my head and at times I could hardly hear at all. I tried three different physicians in town with no benefit and at a cost of about $100 in one summer. I happened to read about

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Sarsaparilla and I thought I would try it and after taking one bottle and a half I began to feel better. I took Six Bottles and Was Cured.

We have taken it since and always keep it in the house. We would not like to be without it. We have also tried Hood's Pills and found them to be just as represented." MRS. J. C. KNUDSON, Albert Lea, Minnesota. Get HOOD'S.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

Last week Frank Hertz bought out F. L. Kermott's drug stock before breakfast and after supper he sold it to Sam Wallace. We don't know what Hertz is up to this week, but we saw him standing in front of the Fair store a while ago, shaking his fist at Wilson, and we shouldn't wonder—but then it wouldn't be Fair to insinuate anything of that kind until it happens. That is the 'steenth business Hertz has bought and sold within two years.

Will Wilkins, who is up in this county selling hay presses, says Clay county has potatoes to throw at the birds. He says he knows of some instances where farmers have as much as 160 acres all in potatoes while 80 acre tracts are very common and hardly a farmer in Clay has less than 5 acres. He don't know whatever they will do with all those taters as the yield is immense and the acreage great. Surely they ought to be needed somewhere.

Chas. Misner was last week bragging about a sample of celery that was sent him from Euclid, raised by A. H. Pitkin, who has had experience in that line in Michigan, where they raise celery, "as is celery." This sample was indeed as fine as any we ever saw, so white and crisp and large. Charlie said so much about it's being the very best that ever grew in Polk county that others who had raised celery themselves brought in samples to such an extent that Charlie is liable to have his cellar fall (of cellar—eh?)

Mrs. I. U. Jennings has rented the building formerly occupied by Crawford's bakery and is getting her millinery establishment into it as rapidly as possible. Just as soon as she is settled—possibly by Saturday she will have the season's display of millernery ready for inspection. With one of the best of trimmers who is fully posted upon all the latest fashions, she feels confident of her ability to meet all the requirements of the ladies in this line and invites them to call at the new place on Broadway,

On Saturday afternoon the whole front of the ruined McKinnon carriage works blew down carrying with it three telephone poles—the one in front of the shop itself, the one in front of the Germania hotel and the one in front of the Montgomery building, (the old G. A. R. hall.) To this one a horse attached to a road-cart was hitched and they do say that the horse immediately left this earth on a fly and went up into the cerulean about 'steen feet—more or less. He got back after awhile and though apparently surprised he didn't seem no ways put out about it and looked as though he might have said: "That's pretty good, I wonder what they will do next!" Certainly, the horse belonged to Hixson and he did not even bust the go-cart.

WANTED SALESMEN. Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes.

A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple is warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Our Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.

NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN. L. L. MAY & CO. St. Paul, Minn.

[23-30]

WANTED:—Several trustworthy gentemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed stamped envelope. The Dominion Company, Third Floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago. [23-38]

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second-St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty

H. BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER. Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

For Sale Cheap

If you want a good farm, right adjoining the experimental farm at first price call at the JOURNAL office for particulars. This farm has good artesian well, 15 acres natural timber and balance in crop. Will sell it with or without half interest in the crop now growing thereon. A snap for somebody. [15tf]

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis..........
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods..........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding.............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough..............
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases,..............
28	Nervous Debility.................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker...........
30	Urinary Weakness,...............
31	Painful Periods.................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.

DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.

HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.

PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.

Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.

HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

IRISH CALL TO ARMS

WARLIKE RESOLUTIONS OF "NEW MOVEMENT" PROMOTERS.

National Alliance Formed and a Full Set of Officers Selected—The "Declaration of Principles" Given Unanimous Support.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The Irish National Alliance is the result of the convention of Irish-Americans in session here the past three days. Officers were elected and the following "declaration of principles" adopted:

The people of Ireland are a sovereign people. Ireland is by nature separate from every country and liberty is the birthright of her people. Ireland was known throughout Europe as a nation long ago as the dawn of Christianity and was the home of civilization while England was still barbarous.

England's claims to authority in Ireland originated in force and has been maintained by corruption and coercion. They have never ripened into a right to rule; the title by conquest has never been perfected, inasmuch as the Irish people have continuously by constitutional agitation or revolutionary movements resisted England's power and endeavored to destroy her unlawful supremacy.

Deprived of Almost All Rights.

Ireland is deprived of almost every civil right which the American people most dearly cherish, unexampled cruelty and brutal vindictiveness have been the distinguishing features of English rule in Ireland. England has destroyed Ireland's industries and ruined her commerce; she has placed upon her statute books laws making it a crime to educate an Irish child; she burned Ireland's school houses and destroyed her churches; she has driven into exile or left to perish in her dungeons thousands of men whose only crime was love of Ireland. Every measure for the last century, looking towards legislative independence of the Irish people, has either suffered defeat in the commons or been arbitrarily rejected by the lords. England has and broken every pledge, and with almost every year of the century she has imposed upon Ireland brutal laws of coercion, and one, of the most drastic character, is now upon her statute books.

Violated Every Treaty

To the pleas of the people for justice and their prayers for mercy, England has responded with the scourge and the scaffold, and yet today Ireland is enthralled, but not enslaved; crushed, but not conquered.

It has become evident after many years of earnest endeavor to obtain a measure of independence from the English government by peaceful agitation that appeals to reason for justice are futile. It is left, therefore, to the men of the Irish race to proclaim against the truth recorded by all history that the liberties of a people and the independence of a nation cannot be achieved by debate, but must be and we declare our belief that the men of Ireland who are being driven into exile, or into the graves of serfs in their native land by English misgovernment, are entitled by the laws of God and man to use every means in their power to drive from their country the tyrant and usurper and we believe that Ireland has the right to make England's difficulty her opportunity and to use all possible means to create that difficulty.

Won Upon the Field of Battle,

In view of these facts the members of this convention appeal with confidence to their American fellow citizens and all lovers of liberty to co-operate with them in aiding the people of Ireland in the achievement of the same measure of liberty enjoyed in these United States.

Was Unanimously Adopted.

The "declaration of principles" created decided enthusiasm and was unanimously adopted by the convention as submitted by the committee. The three resolutions were read separately and were warmly endorsed by the convention in similar manner. Then the following was submitted and met with instant approval:

Resolved, That this convention recommends the formation of military companies, wherever practicable, in order to foster and preserve the military spirit of the Irish race and to be prepared for action in the hour of England's difficulty.

The "new movement" organization shall be known by the style and title of the Irish National Alliance.

Election of Officers.

The election of officers of the newly created alliance resulted as follows: President, William Lyman, New York; vice president, O'Neill Ryan, St. Louis; treasurer, P. V. Fitzpatrick, Chicago; executive council, J. J. Donovan, Lowell, Mass.; Chris Gallagher, Minnesota; Martin Kelly, Tennessee; Captain Mangan, Wisconsin; J. Sheehy, San Francisco; J. M. Kennedy, Anaconda, Mon.; Thomas J. Dundon, Ohio; Thomas H. Greevy, Pennsylvania, and James Lawlor, Texas.

The election of president was by acclamation, no nomination being made in opposition. J. J. Keating of Chicago, state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Illinois, was nominated for the vice presidency of the alliance but declined in favor of Mr. Ryan, whose nomination was also by acclamation. The convention then adjourned sine die.

After the convention adjourned there was a meeting of the executive council at which New York city was selected as the headquarters of the alliance.

TWO NEW RECEIVERS.

Edward W. McHenry of St. Paul and Frank G. Bigelow Appointed.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 28.—Edward W. McHenry of St. Paul, chief engineer of the Northern Pacific railway, and Frank G. Bigelow, banker of this city, were appointed receivers of the Northern Pacific road by Judge Jenkins, in place of Messrs Oakes, Payne and Rouse, who resigned a few days ago.

SPAIN MUST MOVE.

Given Three Months in Which to End the Cuban Rebellion.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A Times-Herald special from Washington says: Spain must crush the Cuban rebellion during the next three months or submit to international interference in the interest of humanity and commerce. That is the significance of a series of conferences just held between Secretary Olney and the Spanish minister, Senor Dupuy de Lome. The United States has agreed for the present to keep hands out of the trouble, but this is accompanied by a tacit warning that unless Spain carries out her promise of suppressing the insurrection and restoring order to Cuba within reasonable time she must expect the United States government to pursue a quite different policy.

Must Restore Order.

In other words, Spain is to be given one chance to demonstrate her ability to rule the island, and, failing in this, the chances are the United States government will take the leadership in international intervention, with the complete autonomy or perhaps the independence of Cuba as the objective point.

The conferences were held at the request of Secretary Olney, who asked Senor Dupuy de Lome for a full statement of the condition of affairs in Cuba, the intentions of the Spanish government, its ability to protect American citizens and their property and the prospect of suppressing the insurrection.

SCHOFIELD'S RETIREMENT.

He Was Lieutenant General by Special Act of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Lieutenant General John M. Schofield has retired from active service and goes on the retired list, after an eventful career in times of war and peace. For more than seven years he has been in command of the army, but since Feb. 8 last he has held the exalted rank of lieutenant general by special act of congress. General Schofield was born in Chautauqua county, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1831, and was appointed to the military academy from Illinois in 1849. Entering the artillery branch as a second lieutenant in 1853, the outbreak of the civil war found him a captain of the First artillery in 1861. He was in active service in the West throughout the hostilities, and in 1864 was a brigadier general in command of the Army of the Cumberland. During reconstruction times we was in command of the First military district, (State of Virginia) for little over a year, and for 10 months was secretary of war, from June 12, 1868, to March 14, 1869, in which latter year he became a major general, and after commanding several of the army departments, he became commander of the army in 1888, upon the death of General Sheridan.

CONTINUE IN OFFICE.

Old Officials Re-elected by the Deep Waterways Association.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 28.—The committee on nominations presented its recommendations at the opening of the morning session of the deep waterways convention for the re-election of the old officers and the election of 17 members of the executive board. The report was promptly adopted. The members of the new board will determine by lot what shall be the terms of the members, six of whom will serve for one year, six for two years and six for three years. The 18th member will be chosen by the other members of the committee.

Frank A. Flower of Superior, Wis., was re-elected executive secretary of the association. No choice of the next place of meeting has been made. The candidates are Quebec, Toledo, Washington, New York, Detroit, Minneapolis and Chicago, with the chances about even for Quebec against the field.

EPISCOPAL UNIVERSITY.

Plans for a Great Institution at the National Capital.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30.—The Journal says, on the authority of a prominent churchman, that one of the principal matters to come before the Episcopalian convention, to open here Oct. 2, will be the establishment of a great national university at Washington, somewhat similar in its general plan to the Roman Catholic university. It appears that an endowment of $800,000 has already been collected from a number of sources. Moreover, a fine site in Washington has been secured, better, if anything, than that of the Catholic university. It is understood that the most active layman behind the plan is George Vanderbilt, who, besides being very wealthy, is an earnest churchman.

OBSTRUCTING INQUIRY.

Chinese Officials Laying Up Further Trouble for Themselves.

HONG KONG, Sept. 30.—Obstruction of the inquiry by foreign consuls into the Ku Cheng massacre of August is still being kept up by Chinese officials. Forty men suspected of complicity in the riots have been liberated by the local authorities without the consent of the consuls. Mr. Mansfield, the British consul at Ku Cheng, has been insulted by Chinese soldiers. The consuls are considering the advisability of returning to Foo Chow and referring the matter to their respective governments.

CHINA COMPLIES.

Viceroy Liu Removed From Office at England's Request.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. — Minister Denby cabled the state department from Pekin as follows:

"Imperial decree issued. Abstract: Responsibility for Sze Chuen riots rests with officials. Viceroy Liu careless; took no notice of beginning of riots. He is deprived of office, never to be employed. Other officials to be punished."

SIX LIVES LOST.

Premature Explosion of a Blast Near Independence, Kan.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 1.—Six lives were crushed out at a quarry eight miles out from Independence by the premature explosion of a blast.

MINNESOTA CENSUS

INCREASE OF NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION IN POPULATION

During the Past Five Years—Every County Contributes to the Total Increase, None Showing Loss—North Half Gained Most Rapidly.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30.—The state census bureau has issued a bulletin showing the population of the entire state by counties. The aggregate gain during the past five years is 271,524. The growth in the Sixth congressional district, embracing the new mining districts and the lumber region is 44 per cent, while that in the western portion, comprising the Second and Seventh congressional districts, show a gain of 25 per cent. The southeastern portion of the state, the oldest section, shows a strong gain. Some of the oldest counties, which had shown a decrease during the preceding five years have regained all that they had lost and more. Following are the figures for the state:

	1895.	Gain
Aitkin	5,224	2,762
Anoka	11,181	1,297
Becker	11,052	1,641
Beltrami	1,834	1,053
Benton	7,693	1,509
Big Stone	7,530	1,808
Blue Earth	32,303	3,038
Brown	18,431	2,614
Carlton	7,458	2,185
Carver	17,567	1,085
Cass	3,425	2,173
Chippewa	10,805	2,250
Chisago	13,116	2,759
Clay	15,154	3,637
Cook	427	89
Cottonwood	10,187	2,765
Crow Wing	11,561	2,109
Dakota	21,345	1,105
Dodge	12,753	1,889
Douglas	16,942	2,386
Faribault	20,139	3,431
Fillmore	28,599	2,633
Freeborn	21,138	3,176
Goodhue	32,268	3,462
Grant	7,987	1,112
Hennepin	217,796	32,504
Houston	15,646	993
Hubbard	2,447	1,035
Isanti	10,195	2,586
Itasca	3,967	3,224
Jackson	12,416	3,492
Kanabec	2,714	1,135
Kandiyohi	16,402	2,405
Kittson	6,288	901
Lac qui Parle	12,634	2,332
Lake	2,211	912
Le Sueur	20,915	1,858
Lincoln	7,196	1,505
Lyon	12,425	2,924
McLeod	19,186	2,110
Marshall	12,072	2,942
Martin	13,933	4,580
Meeker	17,389	1,933
Mille Lacs	5,129	2,284
Morrison	19,163	5,838
Mower	21,546	3,527
Murray	9,322	2,630
Nicollet	14,299	917
Nobles	11,905	3,947
Norman	13,470	2,652
Olmsted	21,316	1,510
Otter Tail	40,003	5,770
Pine	6,681	4,519
Pipestone	7,115	1,983
Polk	39,171	6,979
Pope	11,627	1,595
Ramsey	147,537	7,741
Redwood	13,632	4,246
Renville	21,316	4,719
Rice	26,836	2,870
Rock	8,597	1,750
*Roseau	3,493	3,493
St. Louis	77,487	32,625
Scott	16,494	2,663
Sherburne	6,357	449
Sibley	16,486	1,237
Stearns	41,612	6,768
Steele	15,818	2,586
Stevens	6,543	1,292
Swift	11,846	1,685
Todd	17,674	4,744
Traverse	6,064	1,548
Wabasha	16,587	1,615
Wadena	6,076	2,023
Waseca	14,718	1,400
Washington	27,417	1,425
Watonwan	10,262	2,516
Wilkin	6,400	2,054
Winona	67,134	3,357
Wright	27,658	3,489
Yellow Medicine	12,581	2,727
Totals	1,573,350	271,524

MINNESOTA NEWS NOTES

Typhoid fever is raging at Sandstone.

Fire damaged the Fountain House at Grand Rapids to the extent of $1,000.

The triennial Episcopal convention of the United States has convened at Minneapolis.

An addition to the Amboy elevator burst, letting out 10,000 bushels of grain.

Fire damaged the Minneapolis chamber of commerce building to the amount of $30,000.

Free Baptists of the country are holding their triennial conference at Winnebago City.

An Old Settlers' association has been formed at Worthington. Dan Shell was elected president.

The Minnesota Methodist conference voted in favor of admitting women to the general conference.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth for September were about 10,000,000 bushels. Nearly double the receipts for September last year.

George McCoy from Kandiyohi county has been returned to the state reformatory for breaking his parole. He was caught in Wisconsin.

Three barns were burned at Mankato Sunday night. Twenty-one horses were cremated. A fourth fire was started, but gained little headway. Mankato people are busy looking for the firebug.

The normal temperature for October according to the St. Paul weather bureau, has averaged 47 degrees for 24 years. The highest average was 58 degrees in 1894 and the lowest 42 degrees in 1887.

Judge Kerr of the Ramsey county district court has decided the "Steenerson wheat rate case," reversing the order of the state railroad and warehouse commission, establishing certain freight rates on grain. This is a victory for the Great Northern road.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA,
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily: For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.m.

For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT

The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway. CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON..........President
L. ELLINGTON..........Vice President
J. W. WHEELER..........Cashier
A. P. Hanson..........Assistant Cashier

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK FREE!

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also [illegible] etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. [illegible] Streets, TOLEDO, OHIO.

A TIMELY REMINDER

Each season forces upon our consideration its own peculiar perils to health. The advent of fall finds many reduced in strength and vigor, poorly prepared to continue the business of life. The stomach and bowels, the great highway of animal economy, is especially liable to disorder in the fall. The nervous system has also suffered in the struggle. Typhoid fever and malaria in particular find in the fall that combination of earth, air and water that mark this season as especially dangerous. The falling leaves, the decaying vegetables contribute their share of contamination. Hood's Sarsaparilla furnishes a most valuable safeguard at these important points, and should be used in the fall before serious sickness has laid you low.

H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt B ocz. - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE——
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

FFICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor ....David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor... ....Frank A. Da
Secretary of State.......................F. P. Brown
Attorney General....... ....H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist....Frank M. Eddy

Senator 51st Sen. dist..............P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist...John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice ....Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court,.......Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist ....Frank Ives
Clerk of Court.............................John Vig

County.

Auditor...... ....John Oleason
Treasurer..................................J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds...............A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney........................... L. E. Gossman
Sheriff...........................Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate.......................C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools.........................O. McCrillis
Surveyor ....O. L. Hamery
Coroner............. ....John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District...................John E. Oppegaard
Second District..........................Anton Lindem
Third District.......... ....M. E.Kirsch
urth District.................................Henry Norland
1th District..............................A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor .... John McKinnon
Clerk.......................................W. A. Lauctol
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer.. ....Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller..............................August Georg
Assessor...O. H. Mix
City Attorney......... ....Martin O'Brien
City Engineer...............................George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables..................A. A. Olenn, Wm. Bloom.
Chief of Police...........................Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large........... ....C. E. Sawyer
First Ward ....A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Bnhn
Second " ....J. E. Morrisey, E. C. Davis
Third " ....Wm. Watts, M. E.Kirsch
Fourth " ....N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth " .... A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
Black River	P A Ekstrom	Wylie
Dray	C O Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....	....
Crookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fanny	J O McWoters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city	....	....
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondrou	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syeverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Nellsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Beckersville
Huntsville	O H Froats	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Olbean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Multeson	Ovella
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Merager	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Albua	Twedt
Onstad	W A Maria	Melvia
Pornell	S W Bleau	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Haukom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Poul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildalg Barll	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rocksburg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
Rosebud	John E Juverud	Fosston
Russia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cernonsek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Parrusa	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
T R Falls	Lars Backa	T R Falls

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

is stamped in the best watch cases made. It is the trade mark of the Keystone Watch Case Company, of Philadelphia, the oldest, largest and best-known factory in the world—1500 employees, capacity 2000 cases daily. Its products are sold by all jewelers. It makes the celebrated Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases, now fitted with the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled off the case—the

Non-pull-out

A WATCH CASE OPENER SENT FREE.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.
NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 569 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

CLIMAX PLUG

LORILLARD'S
Climax Plug
IS MUCH THE BEST
When buying CLIMAX PLUG, always look for the little round red Tin Tag. It's the sign by which you can protect yourself against inferior brands. It is an assurance of quality, purity and substance. It represents the word and honor of the oldest tobacco manufacturers in America and the largest in the world. When you want a delicious chew, a lasting chew, a satisfying chew, be sure and get LORILLARD'S
CLIMAX PLUG.

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have an fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynae's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.
[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

First Publication Aug. 29, 1895.
Last Publication Oct. 10. 1895.

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Henry M. Secord and Mabel A. Secord, his wife, mortgagors, to MINNESOTA SAVING FUND & INVESTMENT COMPANY, mortgagee, dated March first 1890, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county of Polk, on the 15th day of April, A. D. 1890, at 10:50 o'clock A. M. in Book 52 of Mortgages on Page 110, conveying and mortgaging the following described land and premises, situate in the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: Lot Twenty-eight (28) in Block Four (4) Traill's Addition to East Grand Forks according to the plat of said Addition now on file or of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk county.

And whereas, by reason of said default, the power in said mortgage has become operative, and the mortgagee has paid out the sum of Thirty and 32-100 Dollars ($30.32) for taxes past due on said premises, and there is now claimed to be due and is due at the date hereof on said mortgage and the debt secured thereby and for taxes, the sum of six hundred and twelve & 97-100 Dollars ($612.97) and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover said mortgage indebtedness or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale therein contained and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of said above described premises by the sheriff of said Polk county at public auction, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, county of Polk, state of Minnesota, on Saturday the 12th day of October A. D. 1895, at ten o'clock in the forenoon to satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt secured thereby, together with the amount paid for said taxes and the costs and charges of foreclosure and Fifty Dollars ($50) attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage.

Dated at Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 26th A. D. 1895.

MINNESOTA SAVING FUND & INVESTMENT CO.
Mortgagee.
Fred B. Snyder,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
120-261 Minneapolis, Minn.

HE FAVORS LINCOLN.

Harrison's Choice for President Is His Former Minister to England.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Herald prints the following: In his recent Indianapolis interview John C. New, ex-President Harrison's closest friend and political representative, made the statement that if Mr. Harrison were to give his support to any presidential candidate it would be neither to William McKinley nor Thomas Brackett Reed, but to "some one else"—whom Mr. New did not say. The Herald has it from indisputable authority that the "some one else" is Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago. Mr. Harrison and the man whom he appointed minister to England have long been near friends, and John C. New has also been a partner in this intimacy. In 1892, when Major McKinley refused to withdraw from the Minneapolis convention and kept the Ohio delegation in line for himself, Mr. Harrison conceived a dislike for the Ohio candidate, which of their former friendship. Since then a truce has been patched up, the reasons being their mutual opposition to Mr. Reed. In the Minneapolis convention Mr. Lincoln was, as he is now, the former president's first choice, and he it is whom the Harrison men will support in case they see no chance to stampede the nomination into their own corral. The New York custodian of the Lincoln boom is ex-Postmaster General Thomas L. James, who is now in Europe. Mr. James states that before he sailed in July, that Mr. Lincoln would have the united support of the Tennessee, Alabama and Illinois delegations to the Republican national convention, and that he would be the second choice of several Southern and a number of Western states.

Resulted in a Disruption

YIELD OF WHEAT.

The Crop of the Entire Country Will Average 12.0 Bushels Per Acre.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The October crop report of the Orange Judd Farmer, basing its estimate upon county returns and threshing results, estimates the rate of yield of wheat at 12.6 bushels, and the total crop at 459,589,000 bushels, divided into 260,000,000 winter and 199,000,000 spring. Threshing shows the winter wheat yields larger than were expected, but the quality is poor, and a considerable part of the crop will never enter commercial channels. The yield of oats is phenomenal, exceeding all expectations, and making new records in Iowa and the Northwest. The measure from the machine has been a constant surprise since threshing began. The crop is estimated at 904,000,000 bushels or 210,000,000 bushels larger than last year with 30 bushels to the acre. Iowa alone has over 200,000,000, with nearly 47 bushels to the acre. Quality is not in keeping with the size of the crop, much grain being stained. Condition of corn Oct. 1, 92.5, a high average. It is matured, safe from frost, and drying rapidly. There is every indication of a rate of yield larger than has been anticipated, necessitating a final upward revision of all estimates of the crop.

PASTUER IS DEAD.

The Eminent Bacteriologist a Victim of Paralysis.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Professor Louis Pasteur, the eminent bacteriologist, is dead, a victim of paralysis. For several months he had been practically without the use of his legs and the spread of the disease was so steady that hope of saving his life was given up last Monday.

Rupture Probable.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The World dispatch from Colon says: A rupture of Colombia's diplomatic relations with Venezuela is probable, owing to the latter's quibbling when asked to extradite an accused murderer.

Snow in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—Between midnight and 1 o'clock there was a slight fall of snow in this city for half an hour. At daybreak there was quite a heavy frost in the open parts of the country.

COMBINE OR BUST.

Said the Millers of the Country Must Do Something Soon.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 2.—In regard to the announcement from Buffalo that the flour millers of the country have about succeeded in forming their combine, upon which they have been working for some time, Milwaukee millers declare that the Millers National association has nothing whatever, as an association, with forming the reported combine, and if it had been formed, it will be next to a miracle, notwithstanding the fact that something of the kind must be done soon or nearly all big mills will go into bankruptcy. The action of the Sanderson Milling company, in winding up its affairs because of unprofitable business, shows the drift of the flour trade.

Minnesota Editors at Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 2.—The Minnesota editors, on their journey to Atlanta, arrived here during the day and were met at the depot by a delegation of leading citizens. After breakfast at the Nicholson hotel the party made a tour of the city in cars and carriages. A barbecue, arranged for the afternoon, was abandoned, and instead the party were treated to a genuine deer chase.

The Volunteer to Resume.

NEGAUNEE, Mich., Oct. 2.—The Volunteer mine at Palmer, six miles south of Negaunee, of which General Russel H. Alger is the principal owner, is cleaning up its stock piles and the mine will be unwatered and active mining resumed before the close of the year. The Volunteer has been idle two years.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 30, 1895.

FLOUR—Firm.

WHEAT—No. 2 spring, 61¼c; No. 1 Northern, 63c; December, 62c.

CORN—No. 3, 32c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 21½c; No. 3 white, 20½@21½c.

BARLEY—No.2,41½c; sample on track, 27@41c.

RYE—No. 1, 42c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Sept. 30, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 61½c; No. 1 Northern, 59½c; September No.1 Northern, 59½c; December No. 1 Northern, 59½c; May No. 1 Northern, 64½c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 30, 1895.

WHEAT—September, 57c; December, 58¾c; May, 62⅝c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 59c; No. 1 Northern, 58c; No. 2 Northern 56c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Sept. 30, 1895.

HOGS—Market strong; quality fair; choice light hogs bring $4. Range of prices, $3.80@4.00.

CATTLE—Not enough received to make a market.

SHEEP—Market steady on good sheep and lambs; common dull.

Receipts: Cattle, 1,000. 50; calves, 0.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30, 1895.

HOGS—Market active, averaging 5c higher, heavy closed easy.

Sales ranged at $3.90@4.40 for light; $3.90@4.40 for mixed; $3.75@4.40 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.75@3.95 for rough.

CATTLE—Markets slow, prices weak at 10c lower.

Beeves, $3.25@5.20; cows and heifers, $1.30@3.85; Texas steers, $2.70@3.25; Westerns, $2.80@4.10; stockers and feeders, $2.25@3.75.

SHEEP—Market weak and generally 10c lower.

Receipts: Hogs, 25,000; cattle, 20,000; sheep, 23,000.

Chicago Grain and Provision.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—September, 62½c; December, 63½c; May, 67½c.

CORN—September, 31c; October, 31@31½c; November, 30½c; December, 28⅝c; May, 29½@29⅝c.

OATS—September, 18½c; October, 18⅝c; May, 20½@21c.

PORK—September, $8.42½; October, $8.42½; December, $8.55½; January, $9.62½; May, $9.85.

LARD—September, $5.87½; October, $5.87½@$5.90; January, $5.92½; May $6.0½.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO
OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 8:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Anine Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 39 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1892, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 566, duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olai O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, situated, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November, 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE.
Moritz Heim, Assignee of said Mortgage.
Attorney for Assignee.
Bank of Minnesota Building,
St. Paul, Minnesota. [13-29

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at..........7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

GO To The East,
To The West,
To The Town
That You Like Best;
BUT
Whichever way you decide to go, be sure that your ticket reads just so—
"GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY"
The New and the Right Way EAST AND WEST.

Time Card for Crookston.

LEAVE		ARRIVE
8:30 p m. Daily	Going south to Ada, Glyndon, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, St. Cloud, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and West Superior	8:25 p.m. Daily
5:40 a.m. Daily	Going west to Fisher, Grand Forks, Winnipeg, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls, Helena, Butte, Spokane, Seattle and Pacific Coast Points	5:35 a. m. Daily
7:00 a m Daily ex Sun.	Going north to Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Hallock and St. Vincent	7:45 p m Daily ex Sun.
9:00 a m Mond. Wed. Friday	Going east to Wylie, St. Hilaire, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls	6:00 p m Mond. Wed. Friday
9:00 a m Tues Thurs. Sat.	...Going on Fosston branch ...	30 ue hu Sar

From July 1st 1895, trains No. 11 and 14 will run daily between Grand Forks and Crookston.

Tickets sold and baggage checked to all principal points in the United States and Canada. Rates always as low as the lowest.

Dining and Sleeping Cars, Buffet, Library, Observation Cars, Family Tourist Cars, etc., on Pacific Coast trains. For publications and information about rates, routes, etc., apply to

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
Crookston, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE
Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.
Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.
One ... e residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
9th DAY
18th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Altogether Too Honest.

Hotel Clerk—Thet lawyer stopping with us is the most honest man I ever heard of.

Landlord—Why?

Clerk—He sits up in a chair and sleeps at night.

Landlord—What's that got to do with it?

Clerk—He says after his day's work is over he doesn't think he ought to lie in bed.—Detroit Free Press.

The First Safety Lamp.

The first claim as an inventor of a safety lamp for use in mines was made by Dr. Clanny of Newcastle, who, in 1813, contrived a ponderous and complicated machine, requiring a boy to work it. This apparatus never became popular. It was found to be too unwieldy.

Awarded
Highest Honor-World's Fair
·DR·
PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

EUCLID ITEMS.

Henry Wiedemaa went to Crookston, Wednesday and returned with one of S. L. Collins' Iowa horses.

Mr. Geo. Messick, of Duluth, is visiting with his sister, Mrs. E. B. Ballou.

J. J. McCall, a gentleman from West Superior, who claimed to be a travelling agent for the C. H. Perry Grain Commission, of that city, left town quietly one day last week after remaining here for several days and forgot to settle his board and livery bills before his departure.

A missionary tea was served last Thursday evening by the Ladies' Aid Society, at the home of Mrs. A. H. Pitkin.

A laboring man by the name of Chas. Dusak died at the Keystone farm last Friday afternoon. He was a Swede by birth and had no relatives this side of the waters. Meningitis of the brain was the cause of his death.

Threshing progresses very slowly owing to the amount of wet weather we have been having of late.

Theodore and Mary Goosen are both dangerously ill with typhoid fever, but fatal results are not anticipated.

Miss Frances, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stroot, passed away Saturday evening, at the home of her parents, after an illness of about two weeks. Typhoid fever was the cause of her death. The remains were interred at the cemetery at Crookston, Monday.

Fire destroyed about 20 acres of wheat in the shock on Sec. 10, Town of Keystone, Monday last. The wheat was the property of Caspar Tiedemaa and the fire is supposed to have crept along the stubble from an adjoining field, belonging to G. H. Horn, where stacks had been burned the preceding Saturday.

T. J. Tillish was in town Tuesday.

After Oct. 6 the Fosston Flyer will run to St. Vincent instead of Grand Forks, giving Euclid the advantage of two daily trains. Conductor Cooper gets the run.

Lincoln J. Carter's new play, "The Tornado," which appears at the opera house Oct. 4th is said to be a novelty in every sense in which the word can appertain to a dramatic work. When the curtain rises on the first act it reveals a handsome setting of rustic surroundings. It is at this moment that Mr. Carter starts in on his audience, he goes right up to "High C" and stays there. The beauty of his first act setting is but a plaything for the mighty Tornado at the close of the act. The old homestead with its outlying buildings, its grand old trees, its fragrant shrubbery, all are swept away before the awful wind which prevails. The impressive grandeur of this scene cannot be described, can hardly be imagined. In this tremendous climax Mr. Carter gave his admirers cause for apprehension. They said "he has struck too high, he cannot hold up to it; the interest must flag after such a scene as that." But when, in the second act, the curtain-rise exposed the full deck of a ship, with every detail in its make-up complete, the swaying with the motion of the waves of the entire scene, then came the order to shorten sail and prepare for a blow, and then a moment of expectancy and the grandeur of the rigging scene was before their eyes. Six old tars on the yard-arm of a mast furling a monster sail forty feet above the deck, the wind cracking the canvass, the lightning blinding in its flashes. Another moment of calm and the audience find themselves back on deck again only to experience the great collision scene. Two ocean steamers coming together at full speed, and then the open sea scene, with the waves running mountain high, tossing a man from crest to crest as though he were but a cork. The curtain down, the lights up, and the doubters are wondering "what can he have to follow." Then comes the street scenes in Chicago, the harbor at night, showing all the familiar buildings, the vast water front, the Randolph street viaduct, etc., quickly followed by the dissecting room scene in a medical college, and another act of novelties has passed. The next one is up to the standard, in a comedy excellence, and then the gorgeous autumnal beauty of the final act is shown, and with it ends a play which, starting in at "concert pitch" stays there, and keeps an audience with wonder in their minds, amazement on their faces and their hands gripped on the arms of their seats.

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

Now being printed in this paper. It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

New York Fashion Letter.

Stylish costumes of mohair and alpaca are made with jaunty blazers trimmed with bands of material covered with machine stitching. Chameleon silk blouse fronts finish prettily these gowns. The skirt is six yards wide and is ornamented with stitched bands. The new sleeves are all tight on the fore-arm and above are one or two immense puffs or they are the regulation gigot. Caps and all trimmings which lengthen the shoulder are very popular. Combinations in color will be used to a great extent for evening toilettes. Plain satins are employed for revers, Marie Antoinette fichus and other such trimmings combined with velvet of several shades. Apropos of colors the blended chameleon is a popular novelty. Framboise or raspberry red, prunell purple and scabieuse together with Dahlia and Periwinkle shades, Prella and Mordore brown are the leading novelties. A new blue is Bengal. The earliest autumn hats are of the fancy dark straws. In these new shades they are trimmed more or less with rosettes and bows of velvet mingled with fanciful birds. Creped gauzes are very fashionable for evening dresses. Very charming effects are given them by Persian coloring. The effect of tucks is seen in many. Large plaids are used as well as flowers and polka dots. A novelty for fancy evening waists is a mousseline de sole with charming designs in open work embroidery; white mousseline de soie is almost covered with colored embroidered flowers. A novelty in skirts is a pretty coat front of Louis XVI period. This style requires a smaller sleeve which is in character with the models of that period, but for the present the large sleeves will continue to be popular. In the Fashion Magazines published by A. McDowell & Co. one sees a large variety of the latest styles which are introduced for the coming season. In looking over such a collection of beautiful models comes a desire to be able to cut and make them. The McDowell schools for dress cutting are the largest and most practical in the country. In the finishing school a dress may be cut and made while learning. The proof of the superiority of these schools and the method of cutting which they teach is found in the fact that the McDowell Drafting Machine is now acknowledged to be the standard system of dress cutting. It offers the simplest method to learn, the most rapid to use, and a perfect fit for all forms. This machine has received the two highest awards at the World's Columbia Exposition as the most perfect in existence.

Of the McDowell Fashion Magazines "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashions" cost $3.50 per year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. The "French Dressmaker" is $3.00 per annum or 30 cents a copy; and "LaMode" $1.50 a year or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure either of these journals from your newsdealer do not take any substitute, but apply by mail to Messers. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York.

FOSSTON ITEMS

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

Frank Grnvel was on deck as starter througout the three day's races, with his invaluable services.

Dr. J. Waralnger, A. Berg and Geo. Houghtaling attended to the judging of the races with satisfaction to all.

Dr. E. A. Umland sent in his resignation from the office of postmaster of this place to the department, yesterday, resigning in favor of his daughter, Miss Amelia M. Umland, who has previously efficiently occupied the position of assistant. If his resignation is accepted, the doctor will devote his entire time to his practice in future.

Among the visitors who came from Crookston, yesterday, to attend the fair were Hon. B. Sampson and daughter Miss Olga, H. F. Brown, Rev. H. P. Fisher, A. J. Arnold, O. McCrillis, Felix Fournet, Chris Houston, Ed. Wilson, Mrs. A. K. and K. K. Austin, L. Filiatraut and others.

C. H. Misner is up from Crookston during the fair "painting the town" in all colors with "Word and Works" posters.

A. Holmboe is up from Crookston in charge of the extensive exhibit made by the Crookston tannery.

Mrs. J. Monroe, of Crookston, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. McArty, of this place.

Mrs. J. H. Phinney, of Detroit, Minn., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. B. S. Bennett.

If your child is puny, fretful, troubled with glandular swellings, inflamed eyes, or sores on the head, face or body, a course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is needed to expel the scrofulous humors from the blood. The sooner you begin to give this medicine the better.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wood Paving.

A nonslipping wood pavement has been recently devised which is claimed to be simple, inexpensive and efficient. It consists in preparing the wooden blocks before they are laid by boring a few holes in them and filling the same with a hard setting substance composed of crushed stone, bitumen and Portland cement. The compound is cleared off even with the surface, and when they are laid the roadway is thus covered with a series of rough spots which arrest the foot of the horse in all conditions of weather, and prevent the animal from slipping. Wood paving is extensively used in England and France.—Northeastern Lumberman.

Realistic.

Critic—Has that painting of yours, "At Work in the Fields," received any favorable comments?

Artist—A rather seedy looking man stopped to look at it today, and he said it made him tired.—Philadelphia Record.

Division of the Sexes.

One of the most remarkable churches is to be found at Freudenthal, in the Black Forest. It is built on such a plan that the men are unable to see the women, and vice versa, for it is composed of two wings, which meet at an angle where the pulpit stands. The right wing is allotted to men, and the left one to the women of the congregation.—Berlin Letter.

Right He Was.

"Now," began the orator, "in considering the money question, let us avoid false issues."

"Right you air," shouted Mr. Fallwheat. "I thort I was buyin $3,000 of 'em ones, and it turned out to be sawdust."—Indianapolis Journal.

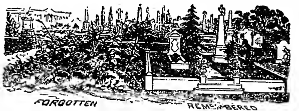
Man is the merriest, the most joyous of all the species of creation. Above and below him all are serious.—Addison.

The Catawissa river, in Pennsylvania, was named from an Indian word that means "getting fat."

IVORY IVORY SOAP
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.
LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.
ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 10, 1895. NO 26.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

PERISHED IN A MINE

Terrific Gas Explosion Occurs in a Colliery at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Number of Dead Unknown, but Will Probably Reach a Dozen.

Rescuers Recover Eight Victims in a Serious Condition.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 9.—Shortly after 5 p. m. a terrific explosion of gas occurred in the Dorrance mine, operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal company, which is situated in the northwestern part of the city. It is not yet known how many men were in the mine. The officials are very reticent and it is almost impossible to get any information from the levels of the earth where the rescuers are at work. At 9 o'clock eight men, all badly burned, were brought to the surface.

Robert Blanchard, one of the rescued miners, gave his version of the explosion to a reporter as he lay on a cot in the hospital. Shortly before 5 o'clock the engineer corps decided to make a survey of a portion of the old abandoned workings known as the Baltimore section. The party, which was in charge of the fire boss, Daniel Reese, who is an consisted of William Jones, William Cahill and Llewellyn Owens. Blanchard and Miller were left behind to finish some work that had been started in the morning. About 12 minutes after the party had left Miller and Blanchard the explosion occurred. Both Miller and Blanchard were knocked down by its force. Flying timbers also struck Miller, breaking both his arms.

Expert on Mine Gases,

After being knocked down Miller and Blanchard remembered nothing until they were revived at the hospital. Blanchard thinks one of the engineers, or probably the fire boss, set fire to a body of gas in the old workings, and that all of the party must have been instantly killed.

Work of Rescue Slow.

At midnight the rescuers had made very little headway in their efforts to reach the scene of the explosion. Firedamp made its appearance shortly after 8 o'clock and it was necessary to do considerable brattice work, which proceeded very slowly. There is a strong suspicion also that the explosion caused a heavy fall in the old workings and that this will further retard the work of the rescuers. It is now admitted by the mine officials that there is no hope of finding the engineer corps alive. They all perished in the explosion and if they were not killed outright they were Suffocated by the Firedamp.

The superintendent is of the opinion that they were killed by the force of the explosion and their bodies probably burned to a crisp. All but eight miners and laborers have now been accounted for. Whether these eight perished with the engineers is not yet known. Superintendent Chase thinks, however, that the list of dead will not number more than seven or eight. These may be put down as follows: William L. Jones, William Cahill, Llewellyn Owens, mining engineers; Daniel Davis, fire boss; three unknown men, probably Hungarian laborers.

WAS NOTED IN ART.

William Wetmore Story, Sculptor and Poet, Dies in Italy.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Times announces that William Wetmore Story, the American sculptor, died at Vallambrosa at the residence of his daughter, the Marchesa Peruzzi.

William Wetmore Story, artist, sculptor and poet, was born at Salem, Mass., Feb. 12, 1819, and was the son of Joseph Story, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States and the famous commentator on the constitution. He was graduated at Harvard in 1838 and at its law department in 1840. He was a frequent contributor of both prose and verse to The Boston Miscellany and other periodicals. His first volume of poems was published in 1847 and in 1850 he delivered a poem at the dedication of the statue of Beethoven at the Boston Music Hall. In 1848 his fondness for art led to his going to Italy, where he had ever since resided, devoting his attention chiefly to sculpture.

Endeavor Convention Closed.

LA CROSSE, Wis., Oct. .—The state convention of Christian Endeavor societies closed with monster meetings at the theater and Y. M. C. A. building during afternoon and evening. S. L. Mershon of Chicago and John Willis Baer of Boston, secretary of the United Society, made rousing addresses at the afternoon meeting, and President A. G. Leffingwell spoke in the evening.

Hawaiian Minister Received.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Mr. Castle, the newly appointed minister from Hawaii, has been informally received by Secretary Olney for the transaction of all routine diplomatic business between the two republics, pending his formal official reception by the president.

AN INJUNCTION

Meets the Railroad Builders On the N. P. Extension North of Keystone.

Work on the N. P. extension came to a sudden stop on Wednesday owing to an injunction that was served upon the business, which will no doubt prevent further progress until the right of way is legally acquired across a piece of land recently bought by R. A. Wilkinson, right-of-way agent for the Great Northern road. The writ was issued in St. Paul and is made returnable before Judge Ives. Mr. Wilkinson says the N. P. company was offered right-of-way by paying first cost for the land used but that they declined to accept it and arranged to run the road around the tract in question. Instead of doing that, however, they entered upon his land and commenced grading without first securing the right-of-way. Hence these tears.

WHEAT GRADING.

Complaints, loud and deep, of the system of wheat grading reach us, and we are sorry to say they are not without reason in the large majority of cases. One case is reported of a farmer at Angus who took some wheat to an elevator and was told that while his wheat was No. 1 Hard all right enough, they could only give him No. 2 Northern for it, because their "No. 1 Hard bins were already full!" Of all the thin excuses we ever heard, this caps. A prominent farmer near Angus writes the JOURNAL as follows:

ANGUS, Minn., Oct. 8, 1895.

ED. JOURNAL:—I notice in a recent number of the St. Paul Globe a very labored article defending the present methods of (stealing) excuse me I mean "grading" wheat, in which article the writer gives the country editors fits because they sympathize somewhat with the farmer. Now the writer goes on to show that the grading is equitable, liberal, just and honest, etc., etc., and that it is all done at the terminal point, and that the country editor and farmer don't know anything about it, and then says that they have nothing to howl about, as ninety per cent of it or more is owned by elevator companies and others, and out of the farmers' hands when it is graded, and also if farmers are not satisfied they can ship their own wheat. Now these are just the points; first it is out of the farmers' hands, when graded, how did it get out? At about two or three grades below what it grades at the terminal, and this the farmer must take or haul it home again; but money must be had, bills, notes and help must be paid and so 90 per cent gets out of farmers' hands. And a farmer 8 or 10 miles from a railroad cannot load a car. The company gives only 24 hours to load and a farmer with oxen or one or two teams of horses cannot load in that time. Those of us who live near the station and could load from the separator could not get a car in any way until our grain was all threshed and stored, and if stored in an elevator then it it is docked or graded, in most cases, and might just as well be sold; and if stored at home we cannot haul it now, as a large share of the fall has been spent in threshing and storing and we must plow a little. All this and much more the writer of the Globe's article was ignorant of and showed his ignorance by not keeping quiet, but in being over anxious to justify a lawful and respectable system of robbery.

Yours Truly,
J. M. P.

Worthy of Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

NO FIGHT IN TEXAS

CULBERSON'S LEGISLATURE ACTS UPON HIS SUGGESTIONS

And Promptly Passes a Law to Prohibit Prize Fighting in the State—An Emergency Clause Attached Which Puts the Law in Force Immediately.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 5.—There will be no prize fight at Dallas Oct. 31 between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. This fact was settled during the afternoon by the Texas legislature in exactly three hours. The two committees, one in the senate and the other in the house, gave an audience to the Dallas attorneys all the morning to ascertain their objections and protests to the passage of the law. After hearing the gentlemen until noon the committees adjourned. When the two houses met at 3 o'clock both committees were ready to report and the senate bill was very promptly considered. From the time the bill was placed before the senate until it finally passed was Exactly Fifty-five Minutes.

During the time Senator Dean opposed the bill and Senator [illegible] spoke in its favor. These were the only two who spoke on the bill, the balance satisfying themselves by voting. The vote on the final passage of the bill was 27 ayes and 1 nay, Dean being the negative voter. The bill was immediately sent to the house and at 4 o'clock that body began discussion, substituting the senate bill for the house bill. After several gentlemen had spoken on the bill and the emergency feature pro and con a final vote was reached at 6 o'clock precisely and the bill passed the house by a vote of 110 to 5. Thus within three hours did the Texas legislature forever put an end to prize fighting in Texas.

Absentees Arrive.

There were only 92 members present Tuesday and of that number 15 were opposed to the emergency clause. It was necessary to have 80 votes to carry the emergency clause. The administration forces readily saw that the minority would do them if the matter came to a vote so they immediately wired all their friends to come here and then set about killing time until their forces could arrive. The fight management was confused at the way the solons came in Wednesday morning and practically by 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It was almost a certainty in the morning that the Populists would be called over to the Dallas side of the question, but a cog was slipped and on the vote they were with the administration forces, which cinched the matter. Governor Culberson's friends consider it a great victory for him and lost no opportunity to congratulate his excellency on the outcome of one of the hottest and, it might be safely termed, one of the bitterest, as well as shortest political fights ever brought up in the Lone Star state on any one single man.

Gave Up the Fight

BROWNING SAYS NO.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Cannot Fight in Indian Territory.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Commissioner Browning of the Indian office has taken prompt and decisive steps to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight taking place in the Indian territory. He has prepared a letter of instructions to Agent Wisdom at Muskogee, I. T., directing him to see that the laws are enforced and to eject forcibly any intruders who may enter the Indian country for the purpose of creating a disturbance or of engaging in anything that may be detrimental to the Indians. The commissioner says that the statutes of the United States are ample to cover the situation, and to prevent the fight. The agent will have at his back not only the Indian police, but all the United States troops necessary to eject the fighters.

PLATFORM COLLAPSED.

Serious Accident During the Laying of a Cornerstone at Lorain, O.

LORAIN, O., Oct. 8.—While a great crowd of people were assembled to witness the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Mary's Catholic church, a temporary floor on which many of the people were standing suddenly gave way, precipitating many men, women and children into the basement. One was killed outright, 10 were fatally injured, and between 30 and 40 others were badly hurt.

Century Land Mark Gone.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The Abington Presbyterian church, the home of the oldest Presbyterian congregation in Montgomery county, and for more than a century a land mark on the old York road, in Abington village, a mile and a half above Jenkintown, was destroyed by fire with its contents. The walls erected over 100 years ago, are left standing. The congregation of the burned church was organized in 1714.

Spanish Bark Wrecked.

HAVANA, Oct. 9.—The Spanish bark Joven Lola has been wrecked near Rosario, on the Colorado reefs. Five of her crew were drowned, but the captain succeeded in swimming ashore. The captain and seven of the crew of the unknown Dutch steamer which was wrecked on the Colorado reefs have arrived at Esperanza, province of Pinar del Rio.

IN A WORSE TANGLE

COMPLEXITY OF NORTHERN PACIFIC RECEIVERSHIP INCREASED.

Two New Appointments Made to Control the Montana District—But One Step More Necessary to Cause Total Disruption.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 8.—The complexity of the Northern Pacific receivership tangle has received an addition by the action of the Montana court which not only extended the authority of Judge Hanford's receiver, Andrew F. Burleigh, to that state, but appointed two new independent receivers as well. The dispatches brought news of the naming of Captain Mills, an editor of Deer Lodge, and E. L. Bonner of the Missoula Mercantile company, as the new receivers, whose appointment leaves even the attorneys for the receivers already named completely in doubt as to how the whole matter will end.

Mr. Burleigh has thus far refrained from expressing his opinion as to how an understanding between the different receivers might be reached which would save the property from disruption. Mr. McHenry has said in answer to direct questions that no policy had been decided upon, it being understood that such a decision pending the action of the Montana court. Now that Judge Knowles has made his appointments, the matter, instead of becoming slightly straightened out, is much further involved, as there are now four distinct sets of receivers, viz., the three original receivers, Messrs. Payne, Oakes and Rouse, in New York and Idaho; Messrs. Bigelow and McHenry, in Minnesota and Wisconsin; Mr. Burleigh, in Washington, and now Mr. Burleigh with the two newly named gentlemen in Montana. The situation is palpably more difficult of adjustment than at any time before, it being intimated that but one more step, namely, the establishment of separate systems of accounting, stood between the road and its ultimate breaking up.

Could Hardly Be Reached

MORE NEW RECEIVERS.

Judge Knowles Names Two for the Montana District.

HELENA, Oct. 8.—Judge Knowles of the United States circuit court has confirmed the appointment of Andrew F. Burleigh as receiver of the Northern Pacific railroad and appointed two others as receivers for the Montana district. They are Edwin L. Bonner of Missoula and Captain J. H. Mills of Deer Lodge. The former is a well known merchant in this city, the latter being the commissioner of the bureau of labor, agriculture and industry of Montana in this city.

REMOVED RECEIVERS.

Judge Hanford Refuses to Accept Resignations Oakes, Payne and Rouse.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 5.—Judge Hanford refused to accept the resignation of the receivers of the Northern Pacific and removed them because of failure to comply with his order directing them to give an accounting of their past acts and to answer the charges of Brayton Ives. Andrew F. Burleigh was appointed receiver for the lines in Washington. The court fixed Burleigh's bond at $300,000, and directed him to take charge of the company's affairs at once.

In the afternoon Burleigh qualified by filing a $300,000 bond. He announced before leaving that G. W. Dickinson, assistant general superintendent under the old receivers, would be his general manager. The appointment will be followed by applications all along the line.

MONEY TIED UP.

Judge Lacombe's Order Threatens Some Serious Results.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7.—The order of Judge Lancombe in the United States court at New York, in retaining the former receivers of the Northern Pacific from turning over to their successors any of the moneys or properties of the company within his jurisdiction is not apt to be fully appreciated, but it is a most important one not only from the fact that there is considerable money deposited in New York, but because the books of the company are in that city and if the receivers, especially Receiver Bigelow, who has charge of the finances, are not to have access to them there will be almost unsurmountable obstacles to overcome.

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat.

Millinery Opening.

Everything in millinery, the newest and latest, will be on exhibition at Mrs. I. U. Jennings' new store on Broadway, Wednesday and Thursday, the 9th and 10th of October. Our patterns are copied from the finest imported hats and bonnets brought to this country. We also have a large line of practical headwear at prices to suit everyone—don't fail, ladies, to see our display.

A GOOD MAN GONE.

Judge G. W. Lewis Dies at 5:30 Friday Morning.

At last, after many weary hours of suffering, Judge G. W. Lewis passed away at 5:30 o'clock on Friday morning, at his residence in this city, at the ripe old age of nearly four score years. George W. Lewis was born at Watertown, New York, on Nov. 18, 1815, and there he spent his boyhood days. In early manhood he came west settling eventually in Bellevue, Iowa, where he was married. For a number of years he has been a respected resident of this city, where has made many friends by his quiet, genial manner. He leaves a widow and two children; Henry, who is now in Texas, and Mrs. Geo. Bucknam, who was at his bed-side during his last hours. Another daughter, Mrs. A. A. Allen, died a few years ago in the South. Mr. Lewis was a member of Crookston Lodge, A. F. & A. M., also of the Odd Fellows Lodge, both of these lodges turned out en masse on Sunday evening to escort the remains to the Great Northern depot, on the way to the old home at Bellevue, Iowa, for interment. Mr. Lewis will long be remembered by hosts of friends, who will unite in words of sympathy for the sorrowing relatives.

SURROUNDED THE GANG.

One night last week a gang of hoboes managed to get hold of five or six kegs of beer at the brewery then they stole a skiff and loading their plunder thereon, they dropped down the river a mile or so and went into camp in a grove on the river bank. On the way they stole a number of chickens and a wash boiler, also some vegetables and hied themselves out for a regular picnic but alas for all human plans and calculations—before they had got their anticipated meal prepared, officer John Kyle swooped down upon and "surrounding" the gang marched them all to the city lock-up, where they all solemnly averred that they did not steal the stuff but that some kind-hearted man had made them a present of it. This story would not wash, so they were bound over to the next grand jury where they will have another opportunity to explain how they happened to obtain the elements for such a spread.

In Your Blood

Is the cause of that tired, languid feeling which afflicts you at this season. The blood is impure and has become thin and poor. That is why you have no strength, no appetite, cannot sleep. Purify your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will give you an appetite, tone your stomach and invigorate your nerves.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy in action and sure in effect. 25c.

Armour in the Northwest.

Minneapolis Evening Journal.

The Journal announced the advent of the Armour interest as a buyer of cash wheat in Minneapolis two days ago. As a result of this buying, cash went to a premium yesterday over December price. That this move in the Northwest was generally taken note of was shown yesterday by numerous Chicago dispatches, which quoted the buying in the Northwest as a bearish factor because it would mean a heavy increase of receipts in Chicago.

The trade seems to be inconsistent or superficial in its conclusions at times. Why should the buying of wheat in the Northwest by Mr. Armour or any outside interest be construed as unfavorable to prices? The limiting of considerations to the mere fact that wheat receipts may increase in Chicago is surely too narrow a view to take. Instead of being construed as bearish, the fact that any large Chicago interest is obliged because of the scarcity of wheat southwest to go out of its territory to find sufficient wheat for elevator storage, should be looked upon as very significant to the real situation: there is nothing bearish about it. It shows that the big surplus of Northwestern wheat will be distributed so that wheat will be asked for as the season progresses. It would be difficult to produce an argument that points more strongly to the future advance of wheat prices than the fact that Chicago is buying wheat in the Northwest in large amounts for shipment to Chicago. The fact that a little wheat may accumulate in Chicago in the meantime need frighten no one.

SNUFFED OUT.

A Man's Life Crushed Out Between The Relentless Bumpers.

Monday night, somewhere about 10 o'clock, two men said to belong to the genus hobo, were standing by a freight train talking together when one of them said to the other: "I am going over to the Germania hotel and get a bed," and so saying started to cross the track between two box cars standing four or five apart. Just as he got fairly between the bumpers the cars came together catching him just above the hips and crushing his body into a shapeless mass, and of course, killing him almost instantly. The body was taken to Chesterman's undertaking rooms where it was learned that his name was Oswald Brown and his home some place in New York. Upon learning the facts the coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary and the body was buried at the expense of the city.

CROP REPORTS.

The General Passenger Department of the Great Northern Railway is gathering all the crop statistics it can procure for use in its publications and respectfully request farmers to send in any item of interest on the subject. If the reader of this has raised a big pumpkin, a melon or mammoth squash or turnip, or had an unusual yield of wheat, oats, flax, corn, barley, potatoes, onions, beans, or any of the products of the field, garden, orchard, or vineyard, just send the facts to this office, and we will see that they are placed in proper hands. Such items are of real interest, and the Great Northern will publish the reports, and so will give the grower full credit. If you have had more than ordinary success with live stock, too, please give us particulars. We all learn by experience and observation, and the printing of information of this sort cannot help but be of service to the public.

CITY COUNCIL.

The city council met on Tuesday and performed some routine work of more or less importance to the interests of our city.

The report of the committee on the ordinance relating to saloons, whereby the saloons would be required to remove all screens, or other obstructions from the windows and glass doors, after 11 o'clock at night and on Sundays was submitted and a lively discussion followed. There were 10 aldermen present including President Kirsh, and when the vote was taken it stood 4 to 5 for passage of the ordinance. The president then voted which made a tie. Ald. Childs raised the point that the president had a right to vote only where his vote would break a tie but had no right to vote when it would make one. After a lively discussion on this point the chair declared the motion to pass the ordinance lost, and peace and harmony then prepared to prevail in due and ancient form, and the city engineer made a report on sidewalks to the effect that various and sundry parties to this jury unknown who were duly ordered to build new sidewalks, had with wondrous unanimity declined or neglected to do so, whereupon the council did straightway authorize the aforesaid city engineer to proceed without any unnecessary delay to supply the deficiency and build the said sidewalks. The committee that was appointed to examine the Alderman & Sylvester building, corner Main and Fletcher reported that they had performed that duty and had made some needed repairs thereon that would render the building safe for the future. The bond commissioners were voted the sum of $50.00 for their trouble in placing the bonds. This sum it is understood they will present the city to defray its part of the cost of the Polk county display at the State Fair. The city engineer was made a member of the sewer committee.

A number of bills were allowed and the city dads departed for their several homes with the very comfortable feeling of great duties nobly performed—peace and harmony prevailing.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

DEFECTIVE PAGE

IN HER YOUNG DAYS.

GAIL HAMILTON IN THE DAYS WHEN SHE WAS A TEACHER.

She Thoroughly Understood Girls—In Every Way a Womanly Woman—A Splendid Teacher—Her Advice to Girls When About to Graduate.

Hamilton, Mass., has been noted for many years and is still for its Methodist camp meeting every August at Asbury grove. It has also been famous for having produced Abby Dodge, known to the American public as "Gail Hamilton," from the end of her Christian name, Abigail, and her birthplace. And for many years Miss Dodge lived at Hamilton, and it was there she wrote all her books.

No one who had the good fortune to be assigned to her classes in those days and the privilege of continuing a generous hour daily for a course of years through grammar, rhetoric, English literature, logic, etc., could fail to appreciate the immeasurable advantage or cease to hold the teacher, lavish with her intellectual treasures, in affectionate remembrance. That the regard was mutual may well be believed if one reads between the lines in her "Gala Days" and can interpret her allusions to the girls of that period, where she invokes them by name, "and the rest of you, dearly beloved and longed for"—"Knowing you and from you, all, do I not know what girls can be?"

The course in English literature, her specialty, was very comprehensive and declared on the authority of a Yale valedictorian to be better than that of Yale at that time. This was before everybody was highly educated—before the day of the college annex and the woman's college, and just before everybody was too busy making history, marches or havelocks to think of anything else.

Miss Dodge then was not above average height, possibly under, not especially slender or petite, and certainly not the opposite; hair not abundant, light brown; eyes grayish blue; complexion fair, where color came and went quickly. Her mouth was generous and the teeth conspicuously full, even and regular. She was modest, unaffected and unassuming, essentially feminine in way, manner and voice. Her habit of mind being scholarly, she always seemed studious when not engaged in conversation. Anyone supposing that she at all suggested the self asserting, screeching amazon, with platform stride and voice, or an untamed shrew clasping a mustard pot would be vastly mistaken. Earnest and intense, she was doubtless frequently subject to misinterpretation, as are all who relieve the tension by dropping into badinage.

She did not put herself forward or advertise herself in any way. She was called forward because she could not be hid, and in response she went forward and made herself speedily the mistress of the situation. In ordinary conversation she was piquant and forceful, and she taught with "some of Miss Dodge's vim," as they called the ineffable something which distinguished her mode of teaching. She herself might have called it "soul," as she one day roused a pupil, listless for the nonce, with, "Can't you give us a little of that soul of yours, Miss Blank?"

She believed that "fun and frolic do not lower the life they immeasurably lighten." She was reverent, deeply so, where reverence was due, but she could aim little arrows of wit betimes so as to pierce the dignity of dullness and leave it to collapse at leisure. She dressed plainly, chiefly in blues, grays and browns, without taste probably, for dress was an incident with her.

It was whispered that she had the largest salary ever paid to a woman for teaching, and that she had already lifted a mortgage for her father. It may have been mere schoolroom romancing, but it was believed by many who worshiped afar off, as also the floating idea that she had refused innumerable offers of marriage from teachers, doctors, lawyers and priests.

One had to study the whole lesson and gather information from all highways, byways and approaches not to be caught empty handed in recitation. One was sure to have been well drilled in the uses of shall and will, and happy the student, especially if a natural lover of literature, who was trained by her to love and be loyal to the English mother tongue.

Reading her earlier books, one almost lives over again some of the red letter days of the classroom. It may have been in the moral science Monday class when, something suggesting, she turned abruptly with, "If you are any of you going to be robbers—mind, I am not urging you to robbery, but if you should some day set out to be robbers, be highway robbers!" and then followed briefly pros and cons, æsthetics and morals, lights on truth and hypocrisy that illumined that day and have sent beams across the long bridge of years till now.

"She talks faster than any one I ever knew," was the general verdict.

Little burs of thought caught the wits of the prosiest. "Don't study all the vacation. Go somewhere, if only for a week or a day, just to break the thread of life." "The best time for writing? Oh, when you wake up after a sound sleep—perhaps at 2 in the morning, when everything is still, or perhaps about sunrise, when great thoughts come to you. Isn't that so?"

She was exquisitely facile and apt in quoting from here, there and everywhere. It was a treat to have one of her own favorite authors given into your hands for reference. On blank pages, spaces and margins were copied extracts galore in the clear, even, open handwriting, which only beautified the text. Perhaps the new woman was foreshadowed when she said: "It is not my fault that I was born a woman. It might have been different had I been consulted in the matter," but it only seems as if she were one who had a mind of her own and dared to speak it.

HIS FARM SLID AWAY.

Remarkable Misfortune of a Small Ranch Owner In California.

On the slope of the mountains on a branch of Elk creek one homesteader at least has lost his home and is now wondering whether the government will allow him, under the circumstances, to file another claim. Mr. Donohoe, county surveyor of Mendocino county, Cal., who has just returned from establishing some boundary lines near there, says: "Some time since Fred Houx filed on a piece of land on a mesa on the south side of the stream and erected a cabin and made other improvements thereon. It has been his habit of late to make occasional trips to town, and it was during one of the late rains that he made his last trip. High water prevented his return and probably saved his life. Last winter was unusually severe, the rainfall being over 50 inches. The soil was thoroughly soaked and is of such nature that large patches frequently become loosened and slide down the mountain.

"Mr. Houx as soon as possible returned to his claim, and when about a quarter of a mile from home the horse he was riding became very restless, and it was with difficulty he could urge it forward. The animal finally stopped and commenced to tremble violently. On looking up Mr. Houx saw his cabin coming down the slope, and felt as though he, too, were going with it. The man described the sensation as though one were on a ship at sea.

"He immediately turned his horse back and raced for firmer land. Arriving at a safe distance he looked back and saw the whole mountain slope moving down into the valley. At first the ground moved very slowly, like a glacier, but it constantly gathered speed and dashed over a precipice with a loud roar into the creek below, completely damming it, the stream being entirely dry below the dam for some hours.

"The house, three cows and several sheep were completely buried in the debris. The slide was about a quarter of a mile square and stripped the slope bare of soil."—San Francisco Examiner.

PLANET COLLISIONS.

Should Stars Knock Together the Fire Would Be Indescribable.

Professor Ledger of London, whose series of Gresham astronomy lectures on "Knocks In Their Relation to Astronomy" has been completed, in his last discourse pointed out that the universe, instead of being fixed, is alive with motion, each star with its attendant planets hurrying through space. If star were to knock against star the intense heat and fierce fire generated by the enormous velocity and vast momentum of the two masses would be such as to pass human conception.

It may be that the sun was formed by the collision of two stars. The effect of two such bodies attracting each other and meeting would be to reduce them to a violently agitated gaseous mass, which would oscillate, first inward, producing inconceivable heat, and then outward again, ultimately assuming the condition of the sun. The general result would be that the two bodies would revolve around their common center of gravity—that is to say, around each other—creating a double star. Lord Kelvin has calculated that if 29,000,000 solid globes, each of the mass of the moon, should be scattered over a spherical surface 100 times the radius of the earth's orbit, they would come together and be raised to a temperature of 100,000 degrees. They would oscillate outward and inward, reaching to a less distance each time, and ultimately settling down into a sphere.

The nebulæ we see around us may, Professor Ledger suggests, have been produced by the knocking together of two great bodies rather than by the aggregation of many smaller ones. The collision of two huge suns would thus lead to rejuvenescence and the formation of new systems. Phenomena indicating that something very much in the nature of a collision had occurred are the outbursts of temporary stars such as those observed by Tycho Brahe in 1572, by Kepler in 1604 and those of 1848, 1866, 1876, 1885 and 1892, the last being the new star Auriga, which declined through ten magnitudes, or became 100,000 times less bright in two months. The great increase in the light of a comet as it approaches the sun may be due to a tidal disturbance in the bodies forming it, causing them to knock against each other, and thus generate heat and light.

In the same way the twinkling of the stars may be caused by the knocks of the molecules of the atmosphere on the ether, whose undulations carry their light to us. The excessively great and the exceedingly small are all interdependent, and the past, present and probable future of nebulous bodies all hinge on the relations they bear to the knocks of the molecules of their gases, while the knocks of immense bodies depend ultimately on the knocks of their constituent atoms.

The Banavia Flea.

All tourists in the highlands know Banavia. They may not know why a lobster is, in the west highlands, called "a Banavia flea." From a book referred to we gather that a good many years ago an American was stopping at the Banavia hotel, and he made himself very obnoxious by his contemptuous remarks on Scottish scenery. "Ben Nevie," he said, "do you call that a mountain? You should see our mighty Rockies! Loch Linnhe! Do you call that a lake? You should see our Lake Superior!" and so on. The highland waiter was exasperated, and procuring a live lobster he secreted it, in requital of the insults, in the American's bed. Hardly had the American gone to sleep when the lobster caught him firmly by the toe, and he jumped out of bed with a yell and rang for the boots. "Boots," he said solemnly, rubbing his toes as he spoke, "you may not have such big mountains and big lakes here as we have in the states, but you have the most tarnation big fleas I ever experienced."—London Paper.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

Now being printed in this paper. It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

DECISION FILED IN THE SISTER JULIA WILL CASE.

Judge Hansen Holds the Will Valid. Two New Railroads Are Incorporated. State Treasurer Sued by an Express Company—Eustis Candidate for Governor.

Southern Minnesota beekeepers will meet at Winona Oct. 15.

The St. Paul municipal court collected $2,203 in fines last month.

The Methodist conference at Winona voted in favor of admitting women.

State land sales are turning out very satisfactorily, according to Auditor Dunn.

Seven new Methodist ministers were ordained by Bishop Fowler at Minneapolis.

Ex-Mayor Eustis of Minneapolis is a candidate for the governorship of Minnesota.

St. Paul city and Ramsey county officials junketed at Duluth Saturday and Sunday.

A contract for the foundation of the drill hall at the state university has been let.

John Steiniger of Luxemberg, Stearns county, is serving a 45 days sentence for wife beating.

The state dairy and food commission has begun an inspection of the foods sold in the state.

The average school attendance at St. Paul for September was 1,200 more than for September, 1894.

Bishop Marty of St. Cloud laid the cornerstone of Assumption church at Foley Sunday morning.

The library for the steamer St. Paul, donated by the citizens of St. Paul, is about ready for delivery.

Plans for the new capitol building are now on exhibition at the old Mannheimer building, on Third street, St. Paul.

Albert Peterson, watchman at Zozer, McClure & Co.'s camp, near Mora, was found murdered with a bullet hole in his breast.

The October apportionment of state public school funds was $771,428.25, and the number of pupils 291,105, or $2.65 per pupil.

Clarence Anderson, a Minneapolis musician, shot his wife and then himself. He will probably die, but his wife may recover.

A civic federation is now in process of formation in St. Paul. A committee of 15, formed some time ago, has prepared a report on the subject.

Colonel Liggett and Professor Hays have finished a tour of inspection of subexperiment station sites offered by the villages of Cloquet, Aitkin and Carleton.

Deputy Labor Commissioner Frank Valesh is engaged in preparing a report to cover a period of four years to date, on the probate court statistics of Minnesota.

The Minneapolis, New Ulm and Southwestern is the name of a newly incorporated railroad. The road will begin at New Ulm, Brown county, and connect with the Minneapolis and St. Louis road between Hopkins and Morton.

The new insurance law has gone into effect. As yet the effect of the new law has not been felt in the department of the state insurance commissioner, but Deputy Insurance Commissioner Lightbourne said that he anticipated no difficulty of a material nature.

The United States Express company has begun an action against State Treasurer Koerner to recover $80.25, which amount the company claims is due it from the state for the transportation of state school bonds to the value of $250,000 from St. Paul to Washington.

In accordance with the recommendation of the committee on public accounts of the legislature of 1895, the state auditor has inaugurated a system of expense vouchers, to be used by all employes of the various state departments whose expenses are paid while traveling in the service of the state.

Sunday was a noteworthy day in St. Paul and Minneapolis, owing to the fact that every Episcopal church in the two cities was occupied at both morning and evening services by some member of the house of bishops, and in consequence each place of worship was attended by large congregations made up of persons of all denominations.

The Mantorville Railway and Transfer company of Mantorville, Dodge county, has incorporated, with a capital stock of $100,000. The road is to be constructed from Mantorville to intersect the Winona and St. Peter at Kasson, and the Chicago Great Western road at another important point in the Southern part of the state.

There are several candidates among the Danish-Americans of the state for the appointment of the vice consulate at Rush City, Minn., made vacant by the death of F. C. Christensen. Applications will be received for a period of three months. Among the candidates are Dr. J. C. Nelson, Carl Neumann, Carsten Hansen, St. Paul; C. Rasmussen, C. A. Qnist, H.P. Paulson, William Heggum, Minneapolis. Others will probably heard from later.

Judge of Probate Hansen of Stearns county has filed his decision in the will and testament case of Sister M. Julia Will, sustaining the same and admitting the instrument to probate. The main point in the contest, which is brought by the brother of the deceased, is that his sister was not a free moral agent, and was subject to undue influence or compulsion when she bequeathed her estate to the Sisters of the Order of St Benedict, of which she was a member.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

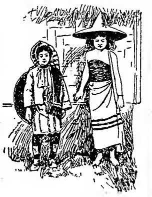
BURMESE GIRLS AND BOYS.

They Live In a Land of Sunshine and Are Merry All Day Long.

You can find Burma very easily by consulting your school geography if you don't know exactly where it is located. Finding the map of India, you will notice that this strange, interesting country is bordered on one side by the Chinese lands and on the other by the country of the Hindoos. The thing that will most interest young readers is the fact that the Burmese children are among the happiest youngsters of earth.

They live in a gorgeous country, and their mothers are held in great respect, which is not always the case with the various races of old India. Some of the little Burmese girls are very pretty and very graceful. They are fond of many trinkets, and though shy in their manner they easily become acquainted with strangers when the latter are lavish enough in their gifts of pretty things.

All Burmese boys are educated in the Buddhist monasteries, but it has not hitherto been thought necessary to teach the girls more than to read and write. To be pretty, to be religious, to be amiable and gay hearted and to have a good business instinct is all that is demanded of a girl in Burma. Presently, when she comes to learn the advantages which education confers in dealing with the foreigner, she will doubtless demand it as her right. To be pretty and to charm is her aim, and few things human are more charming than a group of Burmese girls going up to the pagoda to worship at a festival. With her rainbow tinted silk tamein fastened tightly round her slender figure, her spotlessly clean short jacket modestly covering the bosom and with her abundant black tresses smoothly coiled on to the top of her head, in the braids of which sweet smelling flowers are stuck, the Burmese girl knows full well she is an object to be admired. Perfectly well pleased with herself and contented with her world as it is, she gayly laughs and chats with her companions.



BURMESE BOY AND GIRL.

Ah, yes, Burma is a happy land, and its people are all gay and honest and sober, and the sunlight is warm and strong in their land, even as their bodies are strong and their hearts warm.—New York Recorder.

The Slate's Complaint.

The sch[illegible] was very quiet, for all the chil[illegible] had gone home. The sun had set [illegible] was only a f[illegible] ing book [illegible] desk. He had fo[illegible]

All a[illegible] "Well, sla[illegible] better than you [illegible] learn. N[illegible] word on my p[illegible] spelled wrong [illegible]

"I can't help it [illegible]," said the poor slate. "It's no fault of mine. You see, that careless little Harry does make me spell so that I really feel ashamed of myself. A little while ago Mary White had me, and she only made me spell one word wrong all the time she kept me. And then you ought to see the answers Harry makes me give to the examples he has to do in arithmetic! Oh, dear! I do wish the teacher would give me back to Mary White!"—Women's Journal.

Blanket Street.

Oh, come with me, baby, to Blanket street,
'Tis a famous place, dear, for tired feet.
Up Stairway hill, across Landing Bidge.
Past Bannister lane and then "Kissing bridge,"
Where somebody always you're sure to meet.

Over the bridges and at last we are there,
Right in the middle of Little Crib square.
The street is as white as the driven snow,
But warm like the blossom time snow, you know—
Warm to toes that are soft and pink and bare.

And, speaking of toes, 'tis in Blanket street
That the five little pigs so often meet,
And the littlest always goes squeak, squeak, squeak,
Though the weather is never cold and bleak—
For 'tis always summer in Blanket street.

And the yellow bird talks as well as sings,
And the bumblebee hums, but never stings,
And the love lamps burn like stars all night.
Oh, come, and be sure to listen right,
For the Blanket street birds say wonderful things.

—May D. Hatch in Once a Week.

The Babblers' Stone.

On the side front of the Mulhouse town hall there is hung up a stone called the "Klapperstein" or "Babblers' Stone." It bears an inscription in German, of which the following is a translation:

I am called the stone of babblers,
Well known to evil tongues.
Any one who is of a quarrelsome or slanderous turn
Will be compelled to carry me through the town.

This stone, which was brought into requisition for the last time in 1781, served as a penalty for excessive use of the tongue. Its services were often required, and never a week passed without some man or woman being condemned to carry it through the streets of Mulhouse.—Tribune de Geneve.

SUMMARY OF WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Oct. 2.

Senator Burrows of Michigan says he thinks congress will inflict a very short session upon the country this winter.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the First National bank of Britt, Ia., to begin business with a capital of $50,000.

Albert Wade, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Mt. Vernon, Ind., has disappeared. He is short about $30,000.

It is announced that China has accorded full satisfaction to France for the recent attack made on the French missions in China.

The faculty of Princeton college has passed resolutions prohibiting any student having conditions in his college work from playing on any athletic team.

Thursday, Oct. 3.

Commercial bills are more plentiful among the New York money changers.

Judge Houston, chief counsel for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is dead.

Civil service examiners have started upon their fall tour of examining applicants for life jobs.

General O. M. Poe, the well-known United States engineer, died suddenly at his residence at Detroit.

The District of Columbia grand jury recommended that a whipping post be established for petty offenders.

The statement of the mint director shows the United States has dropped to third place among the gold-producing nations.

Citizens of Dallas held a monster mass meeting to protest against anti-prize fight legislation.

Jockey C. Pratt and the horse Colonel Wheatley were killed at the new race track in Sportsman's Park at St. Louis.

Friday, Oct. 4.

General Craighill is on a tour of inspection of the government works on the Upper Mississippi.

Harry Wright, chief of umpires and ex-manager of the Philadelphia National League club, is dead.

Freight through the Soo canal for September amounted to 2,132,678 net tons, of which 1,613,467 was east bound.

The business portion of Cambridge, O., was destroyed by fire, with a loss of over $100,000. The alarm was given at 1 a. m.

Mrs. Aggie Wigginton, 80 years old, committed suicide at Mt. Washington, Ky., hanging herself from a limb of an apple tree.

Dennis Burke, Thomas Mooney and William Mooney were killed and Edward Mooney and a Miss Jones were seriously injured at a Michigan Central crossing at Essex, Ont.

Lillie Bayer, one of the women who claims to be the lawful widow of the late Senator Fair, is now a prisoner at San Quentin, where she will serve a term of ten years for embezzlement.

Saturday, Oct. 5.

Laramie, Wy., reports a snowfall of 10 inches.

The published report of a car famine on Northwestern roads is denied.

Advices from Constantinople say that the Turkish minister of the interior has resigned.

One man was burned to death and one woman seriously injured in a fire at Groton, N. J.

Gee Hop, a Chinaman, claiming to be a naturalized American citizen, has been refused admission from China at San Francisco.

The unarmored Spanish cruisers Alphonso XII and Marques Enseneda have been ordered to proceed to Cuba immediately.

The Harlem race track has transferred its futurity of 1897 to the St. Louis fair grounds. This stake is the largest ever closed in America, it having over 1,500 entries.

Monday, Oct. 7.

Cleveland won the Temple Cup from Baltimore in three straight games.

The national officers and executive committee of the Irish National Alliance has issued an appeal for funds.

Gilbert W. Leslie, for 25 years auditor of the Flint and Pere Marquette Railroad company, dropped dead at Saginaw, Mich.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, for nearly a year. It is feared that he has been killed.

The regular Democratic organization of Brooklyn has nominated Edward M. Grant for mayor. The Reform Democracy nominated Edward M. Shepherd.

Japanese cotton spinners desire their government to establish a line of steamers to the west coast of Mexico, so that they may get United States cotton at cheaper rates.

Tuesday, Oct. 8.

Patrick Grant, father of Robert Grant, the novelist, is dead at Boston.

Traffic on the roads eastbound from Chicago showed an immense gain last week, amounting in the aggregate to 17,000 tons.

The Rhode Island G. A. R. has decided to raise a monument to the Roman Catholic soldiers of the state who fell in the civil war.

The New York court of appeals has affirmed the conviction of Bat Shea for the murder of Robert Ross at the Troy spring elections of 1894.

Admiral Hon. Sir James Robert Drummond, C. C. B., K. C. B., gentleman usher of the Black Rod, sergeant-at-arms, is dead at the age of 84.

The government of San Domingo has placed an order in Glasgow for a gunboat which is to carry nine quick-firing guns and to have a speed of 14 knots.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Bannocks at Jacksons Hole Take Revenge on White Settlers.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 8.—A special to The Tribune from Idaho Falls, Ida., says: A report was brought here by J. H. Wilson, who lives near Jacksons Hole, that three men were killed by Indians at the lower end of Jacksons Hole on the morning of the 3d. The men were shot from ambush, and one was Captain Smith, who precipitated the Indian trouble there last July.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.
P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.
A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - - MINNESOTA.

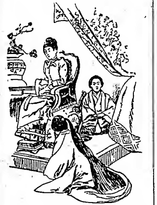
VALLEY
Roller Mills
CROOKSTON, MINN,
MERCHANT MILLERS.
Leading Brands of Flour:
LEE & HERRICK'S BEST,
NORTH STAR,
FAMILY PATENT.
We solicit Custom Trade From Farmers.
Our Rates of Exchanging Flour & Feed for Wheat are as follows:
30 lbs. Best Patent }
6 lbs. Bran } For 1 bushel
6 lbs. Shorts } 1 Hd. Wheat.
32 lbs. Straight }
6 lbs. Bran } For 1 bushel
6 lbs. Shorts } 1 Hd. Wheat.
OR
32 lbs. Best Patent without feed.
34 lbs. Straight Flour without feed.
We pay highest Prices for Wheat.
North Dakota Milling Ass'n,

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE EMPRESS OF JAPAN AND HER DOWDY COSTUMES.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor—Woman, Religion and Law—Novelties In Jewelry—The Dainty Mull Gown—Lady Norreys on Knickerbockers—Girls In New York.

This quaint sketch of the Japanese empress was made by a native artist, who loses every idea of grace when he deals with European costume. It is not much to be wondered at in the case of this fair sovereign, whose foreign clothes are of the ugliest fashion of 17 years ago. What ignorant and vulgar person furnishes these garments it would be interesting to know. Probably the unsalable costumes of London dressmakers, costumes put together in the late seventies, are unloaded upon trusting oriental palace officials by some ingenious introducer of civilization.



EMPRESS OF JAPAN.

It is a pity to so spoil the really charming personality of the empress, who used to be bewitching in the pretty clothes of her own land. This drawing represents the sovereign and her ladies engaged in preparing lint for the Japanese wounded—a most womanly occupation.—New York Tribune.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor.

The liveliest piece of recent news from Michigan university was set forth in a newspaper dispatch which tells of the brave stand made by certain of the women students at Ann Arbor in defense of one of woman's newest rights.

Miss Day, a junior, wears bloomers when she rides a bicycle, as all women do who choose. But she can't ride a bicycle all the time, and finding it an inconvenience to change her raiment from hour to hour she fell into the habit of wearing bloomers around her boarding house. Mrs. Eames, who keeps the boarding house, is not a "new woman," but one of the older fashioned sort who believe in skirts. She told Miss Day that bloomers did not "go" in her house, so Miss Day compromised and agreed to wear bloomers only when she rode her bicycle. But Miss Brown of the Medical school cried "Tyranny!" when she heard of it and put her bloomers right on and sallied forth into the street and declared war. Some of the professors' wives who ride bicycles sided with her and declared it to be the constitutional right of every woman to wear bloomers with or without bicycles whenever she would. Then Mrs. Eames rose up and declared that she would have no bloomers worn about her house if she lost every bloomering boarder she had! Now there is war in Ann Arbor. But of course the bloomers will win. The town has been a stronghold of women's rights ever since its university started, and if women want a new right at any time there is no better place to seize it in.

A place for bloomers and every bloomer in its place may be a good rule, but there is small chance for it to be enforced in Ann Arbor. Certainly this presents a grave question of casuistry, and women will do well to consider it. The Bachelor's opinion is that only pretty women should wear bloomers at any time.—Bachelor of Arts.

Woman, Religion and Law.

Among unused manuscripts accumulated in the office of The Woman's Tribune is one by the late lamented Dr. Grace Danforth. The following part of it is still timely, and especially so in view of the present comments by women on the Bible:

"Had the religious scientists or political worthies of 2,000 years ago received their education in a modern college, their views would have been modified in many respects. What could they know of woman's condition in an age of invention, where machinery has relieved her in large measure from constant attendance upon household necessities? Where she can pass alone with perfect freedom around the globe? There would be no freedom for man, if, like woman, he persisted in wasting his time sifting the religious ashes of the past. What woman needs is not the study of the Bible and creed, but history and law. Law does not teach that woman brought sin into the world, but it does reflect the consequences of such teaching. As long as woman has not self respect enough to spurn such slander, she will never win her freedom, neither is she worthy of it. We cannot advance with our faces to the past. The future contains hope for women, and all the inspiration needed to grasp its possibilities is an earnest purpose and confidence in her powers. This she can never acquire so long as she bows the knee to the opinions of an age that regarded her merely as man's handmaiden. We refuse the opinions of that age on every other subject. Why should they still be used to enforce woman's inferiority, and most wonderful still, why should woman hug the chains that bind her, and by every sophistry try to prove they are not chains? Is it not the natural outcome of the slavery in which she has been held for ages?"

Novelties In Jewelry.

The desire to meet the tastes of those who have gratified themselves with the ordinary forms of jewelry has produced some novel pieces. The taste for the odd, the bizarre, the interesting, instead of what has always been termed the beautiful, is a characteristic of this era. The mind must be entertained as well as the eye. Some new and interesting pieces of jewelry will illustrate this tendency. With all the splendor of jewels and enamels three bonnets are made and trimmed with flowers, ribbons and feathers. These are three brooches. One is an ancient form—one may imagine Minerva wearing it, since it has something the shape of a Greek helmet, having a brim. This is of solid diamonds. A bunch of curling feathers of gold powdered with diamonds curls over the brim. Two strips of ribbon are brought down from the front and back to meet at the edge. These are of rubies. The bonnet has what the milliner would call a piping of gold around the edge.

The second bonnet is a huge directoire shape, made of alternate strips of black enamel and gold. This is trimmed with black enamel ribbon looped and bowed in the true style, and tumbling over from the back is a group of three feathers of diamonds curled gracefully. The third is another directoire hat of black enamel and gold, but trimmed with a large ornament of smoked quartz with branching stems of gold. The effect is that of a spray of flowers made to rear its head. —Elsie Bee in Jewelers' Circular.

The Dainty Mull Gown.

The beauty of mull is something that can never be denied, and while it is not a particularly expensive material it becomes rather costly to make it up, inasmuch as silk or satin is required for its lining, writes Isabel A. Mallon in The Ladies' Home Journal. That girl who is at once fond of pretty clothes and economical has saved the white silk or white satin party dress that has served its time and utilizes it, after it has been thoroughly cleaned, as a foundation for the mull skirt, under which it looks so well. It might be that instead of white it was a pale pink or blue that did service, for this would also be in good taste and make a very effective background for the thin mull.

Instead of being plaited the mull skirt is carefully gathered and falls over its silky lining in fine curves. Its trimming consists of three narrow flounces carefully hemmed by hand and headed by a quille, which is in reality a triple box plait of very narrow pink satin ribbon. Broad pink ribbon, that which is known as the sash width, makes the yoke, and the lower part of the bodice, which is of the mull, is fulled to it. This fullness is evenly laid on the yoke edge, but at the waist it is drawn to the center so that a pointed effect is achieved.

The yoke is overlaid with rather coarse lace, white in color, and the collar, which is of the folded mull, has an edge of lace turned over on it as if it were a specially made rolling collar.

Lady Norreys on Knickerbockers.

Lady Norreys in the London Telegraph gives her opinion on the great knickerbocker question. She asserts that the only lady cyclists who have any rude remarks addressed to them are those who wear what is sometimes called "rational dress," and she adds: "I hate it. I think it perfectly horrible, and I have never met any one yet who either liked or wore it. I hear a great many opinions on the subject, and I think there is a strong feeling against it. Lady Dudley, Lady Wolverton, Lady Lurgan all cycle, but I am sure not one of them would appear on her machine without a skirt over her knickerbockers.

"The skirt is not at all dangerous. I wear mine short. It is not made full, and I have it stiffened with horsehair to just above the knees, which keeps it out of the way and prevents it clogging. It is lined, but in order that it shall not catch it is stitched in places all the way round, and I find it most successful and have never experienced the slightest accident or inconvenience from it. I wear no skirts underneath—only knickerbockers and gaiters to the knees." She concludes, "Though I believe all objections to cycling itself will gradually die away, I do not think English ladies will ever quite reconcile themselves to the divided skirt."

Girls In New York.

A correspondent of the New York World asks:

Kindly inform me at what age a girl is marriagable in the state of New York and whether a girl's husband can pay the girl's parents so much a month until she is 16 years of age? J. G. R.

The New York World replied:

A girl is marriagable in this state at 12 years. That is the only age for marriage that the law of this state knows. Between 12 and 16 the girl is the property of the parents. What bargain the man makes with the parents, whether he buys her with a lump sum or on the installment plan, is a private matter between him and the girl's parents. You can doubtless buy a wife on either plan if you are not particular as to the girl. But a wife under 16 is hardly such a one as any decent man would care to have, and parents who sell their daughters in marriage on the installment plan are not looked upon with favor by society. The law should forbid the marriage and not make any marriage legal before a girl is 16 at least. While it remains as it does of course you have the right to buy a girl under that age from her parents if you care to. But when she is 16 she can have it set aside as invalid on petition.

Woman's Place In a Republic.

Mrs. Annie L. Diggs of Kansas has been giving lectures in New Jersey. "Woman's Place In a Republic" was the theme of a fine address that she delivered before the Woman's club of Orange. She claimed that in the state, as in the home, woman's place was beside man. She thought it much more "womanly" to express a silent opinion through the ballot box than to circulate petitions and lobby and try to "influence" all sorts of men, and it did not take women away from their homes nearly as much. Experience in Kansas had shown that women did not care to hold office after they had demonstrated that they were capable of doing so successfully. The only offices they continued to fill were those of county superintendent of education and school commissioner, in which positions they had given general satisfaction. In fact, all the objections urged against the entrance of women into political life had disappeared in actual practice.

A Wonderful Piece of Work.

During the last suffrage campaign there was sent from Brooklyn to the headquarters of the state organization a compiled list of the property owned by women in the city of Brooklyn and standing in their names upon the tax lists of that city. The names were to be estimated among the thousands and the property among the millions.

The task was a herculean one, demanding iron patience and perseverance, quickness at writing and figures and familiarity with the rules and regulations of the city offices. It was conducted by Miss Jessie J. Cassidy of the Kings County Political Equality league, one of the new champions of woman's enfranchisement in the City of Churches. She was aided in her labors by volunteers from time to time, but the chief credit of the great feat is due entirely to herself.—Margherita Arlina Hamm.

Courageous Resolutions.

The wheelwomen of Grand Rapids to the number of 125 held an enthusiastic meeting the other day and adopted the following resolutions: "Whereas, our Heavenly Father, with divine love and infinite wisdom in our creation, has made us bipeds and endowed us with wisdom, and, whereas, we believe the most convenient and the most truly modest dress is the one which clothes each leg in separate coverings, and true modesty requires a reform in clothing our legs; therefore, be it resolved that in all cases where, in our best judgment, the regulation skirt is unhealthful, impracticable, uncleanly and inconvenient, we will have the moral courage to renounce our prejudices and adopt such other costume as will eliminate these objections as nearly as may be."—New York Tribune.

Oxford and Women.

The Oxford Association For the Education of Women has decided to apply to the university to open the door to women for the B. A. degree. This decision was come to by an overwhelming majority, but only after a considerable tussle. Strange as it may appear, the advocates at Oxford of the higher education of women are not at one on this subject. It is a good omen, however, that the main resolution was moved by the president of Magdalen and seconded by Miss Smith, the pioneer of the woman's movement at Oxford. The proposal to appeal to the university, although a consequential resolution, was hotly resisted, but the majority for it was eight to one. The battle, however, is not won yet.

School Suffrage.

One of the leading articles in a recent number of The College Folio, a monthly edited and published by the students of the Woman's college of the Western Reserve university at Cleveland, is on "School Suffrage as a Privilege and a Duty." The writer urges college girls of legal age to take an interest in public school matters and to vote at the school election. In conclusion she says:

"First of all, take pains to learn the routine of your new duty, then do it. Do not let college girls, who should stand for advanced thought among women, fail at the first test."

Miss Frances Willard.

Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens of Portland, Me., vice president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, makes the following declaration: "The statement which is being extensively circulated that Miss Willard is to be married is without foundation. She is with Lady Henry Somerset at the present time at Reigate, England, and they are busily engaged in making preparations for the convention for the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union, which is to be held in London June 14-21."

Invading Germany.

As in England, so in Germany, the "new woman" movement is advancing with rapid strides. It is about to have a paper all to itself, and it will be known as Frauenbewegung. There will be summaries of native and foreign writings on the woman question and other interesting matter from the pen of woman.

Strong Minded and Domestic.

The notion that the strong minded woman is not domestic in her tastes and instincts seems to be disturbed by the congratulations that have been called out by the completion of Mrs. Livermore's 50 years of wedded bliss.—Boston Herald.

The Chicago Women's club has obliterated the color line. The decision to admit colored women was largely due to one of the members, Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson. The question will now be brought up at the next meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miss Annette Rankin of the class of '95 of the University of Buffalo, who graduated recently, is the first woman to complete the course in dentistry at that university.

The governor of New Hampshire has vetoed the bill passed by the legislature to raise the age of protection for girls to 16 years.

Some young women are wearing their watches set like a large button on the lapel of their jackets.

"Dan's place" means McKinnon's restaurant, every time. The place where you can get one of the best meals in the city for very little wealth.

10 CENTS
BATTLE AX
PLUG
The largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents.

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans,
Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.☜
Office o Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Cured Diabetes,
March 14th, 1895.
The Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co.,
St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen: I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to you for my marvelous restoration to health. I was sick for many years with a bad case of diabetes which made me very thin and weak. I also suffered much loss of sleep, having to get up so many times at night to pass urine, and also great annoyance from thirst that water would not satisfy. A few months ago I began to follow your instructions in regard to diet and to use
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM.
It is a grand medicine. I used three bottles, and, thanks be to God, am a well man again. You are at liberty to publish this if you desire, as I would be glad to be the means of calling the attention of victims of diabetes to a remedy that will give them a blessed relief. LOUIS PHILLIPS,
Columbus, Neb.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

THE cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis are talking of getting up a great International Exposition that shall rival the World's Fair. Judging by the dailies of the twin cities the encouragments are numerous.

W. T. CARLYLE, the expert dairyman from the experimental farm, was in the county last week arranging for holding a dairy school down Neby way—some time in October, about the 20th, we believe. He said he would post us up in time for us to give a definite notice of the time and place later on. He has been very successful in his work in Polk county this summer.

JUST now our good old Uncle Sam is busy pulling the narrative of the British Lion in the Venezuelan affair and if the old fellow don't watch out he is liable to kick up a bit of unpleasantness. After all we can't just see how this government can do less and preserve its dignity as the greatest nation under the sun. If the matter keeps on in its present direction England will either have to declare war or back down from her position.

WE always like to get an opportunity to admire something that a southern state does, and the action of the Texas legislature in promptly passing an act to prevent such brutal exhibitions as prize-fighting, meets with our unqualified approval. It seems that Gov. Culberson properly gauged the popular sentiment of his state when he summoned the legislature to act in this matter, for it did not take that body very long to pass the bill to abolish prize-fighting. Good for Texas.

IN the death of ex-Senator Wm. Mahone, Virginia loses one of her leading minds—one of her greatest statesmen. He might, however, be more properly called a great genius rather than a great statesman. He was an ardent confederate during the war, but after that was over he was one of the first to grasp the situation and adapt himself to the circumstances. A life-long Democrat, he, by means of fusing with the Republicans, was elected to the U. S. Senate, and by acting and voting with the Republicans he aroused the bitter opposition of the Democrats of Virginia and was not returned.

SOME crank or other started the story that the wife of Gov. Culberson remarked that she did not see "why poor Charlee should bother his brain to call the legislature together to prevent an exhibition that the public sentiment of Texas approves of." The lady emphatically denies having said it, but all the same every penny-a-liner in the country has been loud in the abuse of her, especially since the legislators of Texas so promptly endorsed the governor's views. Well, suppose the lady did say it? How far was she out of the way?. But whether it was right or whether it was wrong, whether she said it or whether she didn't, to be true to their own natures, these despisable little whiffets must larrup the lady all the same! She is ONLY a WOMAN, anyhow.

THE State Editorial Association—or that portion of it that were favored enough to make the Atlanta trip—arrived in St. Paul early this week, on their return trip, having made the entire trip without an accident, (except that to Dowling) and report having had a splendid time. M. J. Dowling, of the Renville Star-Farmer, surprised the party, while at the hotel in Atlanta, by calling in a number and having a marriage service performed, whereby Miss Jennie L. Bordewick, of Granite Falls, became Mrs. M. J. Dowling, and no one of the party, except President C. C. Whitney, knew a breath about what was going to transpire until it did. Mr. and Mrs. Dowling will make their home at the Hotel Wellington, in Chicago, as long as M. J. is busy with his duties as secretary of the National League of Republican Clubs. The JOURNAL adds its blessing with best wishes for a long and happy life for Mr. and Mrs. Dowling.

IN 1871 the first settlers in Polk county began to arrive and in 1872 a few hundred had commenced to make homes in the territory now composed of Norman, Polk, Marshall and Kittson counties. In 1873 the financial panic, that almost swamped the Northern Pacific railroad and that did wreck this road (then the old St. Paul and Pacific line) had a disastrous effect upon the settlement of this country that effectually checked its progress until 1877, when it took new lease of life and made rapid progress. A few years ago the territory that is now Norman county was cut off of the south part of Polk county. In 1890 the census showed that Polk county had 30,192 inhabitants and the last census shows 39,171, a gain of 8,976 in the past five years, which are years that have been among the hardest this county has seen since its settlement. If the present indications count for anything our gain within the next five years will be far greater than in the past five years.

CURFEW.

As many of the smaller cities in Minnesota and adjacent states have lately passed what is called a "curfew" ordinance, by which persons under say sixteen years, are liable to arrest if found on the streets after nine o'clock at night, unless accompanied by some person of full legal age, it will be of interest to know what "curfew" really is, or was. About the time of the conquest of England by William of Normandy, the house-fire was in a hole in the middle of the floor of earth, under an opening in the roof by which the smoke escaped. This was universal in Europe as well as England, among the common people at least. The "curfew bell" was a signal to the people to "couvre feu" (cover the fire) and retire to rest. Originally it seems to have been a sensible precaution against conflagrations in towns built chiefly of thatch-covered wooden huts, but its severe enforcement in England by the Conqueror is said to have been to prevent secret seditious assemblages of the people. The absolute prohibition of all lights was removed in 1100 A. D., by Henry I. The hours varied from 7 to 9 o'clock at night, and in Scotland ten was not an unusual hour. It seems, therefore, that a revival of "curfew" is a step backward of several hundred years, to a day when our ancestors were little better than ignorant savages. It may become quite the thing in our country, but in one thing at least our people will not be content to retrace their steps. They will never exchange the splendid railroad service of this day for the ancient stage-coach or the canal-boat. Among the railroads of America there is none to excel in completeness of equipment, or extent of territory covered, the great Burlington Route. Always asked your home agent for a ticket by this line when about to travel, or write for information to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

"77" For Colds.

Dr. Humphreys' Specific "77" will "break up" a cold that "hangs on." Price 25c. at all drug stores.

Those Awful Telegrams.

"What is it, Mamie?"

"It's a boy, mum, with a telegraft."

"A telegram? Oh, ask him if James is killed!"

"He says he doesn't know, mum."

"Ask him what he does know about it."

"He says all he knows about it is that its marked 'collect,' and he wants his money."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! What shall I do? Here, Mamie, here's the purse. Pay him. Pay him whatever he asks. Oh, my poor James! I just knew something would happen to him before he went away this morning! Will they bring him home in an ambulance, Mamie?"

"I s'pose so, mum. Maybe you'd better read the telegraft."

"I can't! I can't! Oh, it serves me right for not kissing him three times when he left. And we've been married such a short time too!"

"Why don't you open the telegraft, mum?"

"Well, I suppose I must; but, oh, I can't tell you how I dread it!"

Reads telegram:

Will bring friend home to dinner. JAMES.

"The heartless beast!"—New York Journal.

Sunlight.

Seek the sunlight is the advice of all present day hygienists. Patients on the sunny side of the hospital ward recover soonest. The person who always walks on the sunny side of the street outlives his shade seeking brother by ten years. Sleep in rooms where the sun has shed its rays all day. Bask in the sun all you can, and your druggist's and doctor's notes will go to protest.—New York

A BIRTHDAY.

My heart is like a singing bird
Whose nest is in a watered shoot;
My heart is like an apple tree
Whose boughs are bent with thickset fruit;
My heart is like a rainbow shell
That paddles in a halcyon sea;
My heart is gladder than all these
Because my love is come to me.

Raise me a dais of silk and down;
Hang it with vair and purple dyes;
Carve it in doves and pomegranates
And peacocks with a hundred eyes;
Work it in gold and silver grapes,
In leaves and silver fleurs-de-lis,
Because the birthday of my life
Is come; my love is come to me.
—Christina G. Rossetti.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, for nearly a year. It is feared that he has been killed.

The regular Democratic organization of Brooklyn has nominated Edward M. Grant for mayor. The Reform Democracy nominated Edward M. Shep-

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

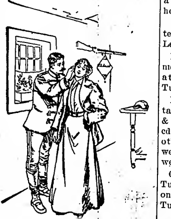
He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

Now being printed in this paper. It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers



A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.
[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

If you are in the city about meal-time, after repairs, don't forget that you can get the best meal in town at McKinnon's restaurant on Second street.

EUCLID ITEMS.

Chas. E. Harrington and C. O. A. Anderson were among other Euclidites who visited Crookston Thursday.

A fire originating near the N. P. crossing swept up the prairie Friday afternoon and destroyed twelve stacks of barley and oats belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Nelson, on the outskirts of the town. A strong south wind aided the flames and it was with difficulty that the citizens who turned out in full force succeeded in saving the buildings. Had the fire gained a footing among these buildings there would have been great danger of the entire village being destroyed. The burned grain is covered by $500 insurance in the Farmer's Fire Co., of Montevideo, Minn.

A. H. Pitkin spent Friday night in Crookston.

Mrs. E. B. Ballou and son Chas. drove to Crookston Friday returning in the evening.

Miss Belle Borril of Warren is spending a couple of weeks in our village.

Miss Eunice Abbet of Mentor came up Saturday morning to assist Mrs. L. S. Hancock the remainder of the fall.

Chas. Ballou departed for Warren Saturday morning to accept a position in Chaplin's drug store.

Miss Nettie Stevens of Warren spent the Sabbath in Euclid.

Miss Lillie Losey came down from her school near Warren and spent the Sabbath with her parents.

L. L. C. Brooks of St. Paul stopped off Saturday on his monthly trip to Keystone.

Mr. Geo. Messick returned to his home at Duluth Saturday last.

Services were held at Euclid church last Sabbath by the Rev. J. B. Astwood who returned last week from a three months visit to his native home in the Bermuda Isles.

H. C. Misner and A. H. Pitkin attended the funeral of the late Judge Lewis, at Crookston Sunday.

Rev. J. B. Astwood attended the meeting of the Red River Presbytery at the Bethel church at the Marius Tuesday.

Mr. Geo. Easby brought two potatoes into the store of H. C. Misner & Co. last week one of which weighed two pounds four ounces and the other two pounds eight ounces. They were of the Delaware variety and were smooth and perfect.

Chas. Teal, V. S. came in town Tuesday afternoon to "set 'em up" on that new boy which arrived on Tuesday morning.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

☞Sold by druggists 75c. Toledo, O.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING Co., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

Will Leave Gray Gables.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., Oct. 8.—President Cleveland will probably leave Gray Gables for Washington some time during the present week, after one of the longest sojourns at his summer home here ever made by him. Mrs. Cleveland and the three children will remain for a week or two longer.

Has Slender Grip on Life.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The condition of ex-Senator William Mahone of Virginia shows no particular change. He is simply clinging to life by a slender thread, which his physicians think may be severed at any time.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 4, 1895.

Secretary Herbert has gone to Alabama, in obedience to Mr. Cleveland's orders, to make stump speeches against silver, and incidentally to look after the control of the delegation which that state will send to the next Democratic national convention. The program as to the stump speeches can be carried out easy enough, but when it comes to controlling the delegation Secretary Herbert is likely to find that Senator Morgan will have something to say about it. Senator Morgan is a red hot silver man and he knows more about the inside tricks of Alabama politics than Herbert will ever know. Still, it is probable that Herbert's missionary efforts in Alabama will be quite as productive of results as those of Hoke Smith in Georgia.

Secretary Carlisle returned from Buzzard's Bay this week, but no one seems to know whether the ten days he spent there were devoted to the study of acting, with Joe Jefferson for teacher, or to discussing finance with Mr. Cleveland between nibbles and rebaiting. One thing can be stated on the authority of one of Mr. Carlisle's personal friends, and that is that Mr. Cleveland did not say that he would not be a candidate for another nomination, although it would have greatly pleased Mr. Carlisle for him to have done so, as that would have given him a chance to feel the Democratic pulse as to his own boom, in a little more direct manner than he feels at liberty to do under present circumstances. Secretary Carlisle isn't the only prominent Democrat who feels resentful towards Mr. Cleveland because of his continued silence on the subject of a third term. Of course these men do not speak their resentment openly, but some of their friends do; that's how its existence is known.

Ex-Congressman Kilgore, who kicked himself into notoriety while a member of the House, and who at the expiration of the last Congress was appointed one of the judges of the new Federal Court has had serious charges filed against him by a lawyer named Davis who practices before him. The first charge is that Kilgore lacks the legal knowledge a judge ought to have, which doubtless agrees with the opinion of many of those who served in congress with him. He was next charged with originating some inexcusable methods of court procedure, and paying a lawyer named Edy for legal advice given the court by throwing judicial favors in his way and allowing him exhorbitant fees for what he does. The Department of Justice has forwarded a copy of the charges to Kilgore, and asked him for an explanation.

It seems a little hard that along with the gossip about the intention of the administration to notify Great Britain that the Monroe doctrine will be violated at her peril in the dispute with Venezuela about the boundary line between that country and British Guiana, comes that also which says that a number of prominent Democrats are financially interested in the syndicate which has obtained valuable concessions from Venezuela in the territory embraced in the dispute. Should this prove true it would be a desire to put money in the pockets of his friends, and not patriotism, that would cause Mr. Cleveland to use the power of this government to prevent England interfering with the concessions granted to that syndicate by Venezuela. Representative Livingston, of Georgia, who has already been widely advertised as the friend of Venezuela, and who proposes, so he says, to advertise himself some more along the same lines as soon as congress meets, is credited with having a finger in those syndicate concessions. These things are unfortunate.

The withholding of the official order designating Gen. Nelson A. Miles to be commander of the army for four days after that announcing Gen. Schofield's retirement seems corroborative of the rumor that Mr. Cleveland made the assignment unwillingly.

People in Washington smiled at the announcement that Attorney General Harmon was preparing to attack the beef trust. Such announcements were quite frequent when Mr. Olney was at the head of the Department of Justice, but if any trust was ever seriously attacked by him he succeeded in keeping the facts from the public.

The Liberty Bell passed through Washington to-day, en route from Philadelphia to the Atlanta exposition. It was given a patriotic reception by officials, citizens and school children, and the several associations of descendants of the Revolution were out in force to do honor to the bell that rang out the independent defiance of the young republic, which has already grown to be a giant among the world's nations and is still growing.

A MARTYR
—TO—INDIGESTION
Cured by Using
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Words of Comfort to All who Suffer from Dyspepsia.

"For years, I was a martyr to indigestion, and had about given up all hope of ever finding relief, as the complaint only seemed to grow worse instead of better, under ordinary treatment. At last, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I hereby testify that after using only three bottles, I was cured. I can, therefore, confidently recommend this medicine to all similarly afflicted."—FRANKLIN BECK, Avoca, Ia.

"I am personally acquainted with Mr. Beck and believe any statement he may make to be true."—W. J. MAXWELL, Druggist and Pharmacist, Avoca, Ia.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla for general debility and, as a blood-purifier, find it does exactly as is claimed for it."—S. J. ADAMS, Ezzell, Texas.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla
Admitted for Exhibition
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

S.S.S.
S. Heals Running Sores.
S. Cures the Serpent's Sting.
S.
CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON In all its stages completely eradicated by S. S. S. Obstinate sores and ulcers yield to its healing powers. It removes the poison and builds up the system. A valuable treatise on the disease and its treatment mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

WARM shoes at the Fair store.

Women's felt shoes at The Fair.

Erick N. Hoff was in from St. Hilaire this week.

Frank Steelman was in from Mentor, last week.

K. K. Austin went out to McIntosh, last Friday.

Dr. J. H. Warninger was out at Fosston last week.

A. E. Kribs was down from Thief River Falls, this week.

J. F. Montgomery was down from Angus, Friday evening.

Ole L. Hamery went out on the Fosston line this week.

Geo. Denulston was down from Maple Lake on Saturday.

Felix Fournet went north on the Flyer on Monday morning.

C. E. Boughton was in from Red Lake Falls on Wednesday.

Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Halvor Steenerson was in Grand Forks, this week, on law business.

Concord grapes are selling in this market for only 30 cents per basket.

J. N. Crawford goes to Superior, this week, on a matter of business.

Mayor A. C. Rhiaehart was over from East Grand Forks this week.

Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Judge Ives opened court, on Monday morning, in the new county of Roseau.

J. E. O'Brien bought a team of S. L. Collins, last Friday, for the Russin farm.

Conductor Casper Sands was in from Warren, chatting with the boys last week.

Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, with her father, Mr. Hill are visiting friends in Fisher this week.

C. N. McLaughlin, representing the Winona Manufacturing Co., is in the city, this week.

Charlie Heidrich arrived on Saturday for a few days visit with the old folks at home.

J. W. Vanetta, of River Falls, Wis., came up to look after the fall work on his farm.

Notice the auction sale at the Fisher farm in Norman county, elsewhere in this issue.

Wesley Morris was one of the residents of Grove Park, who was in the city on Saturday.

For work in his line, wait for Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

Mrs. P. J. McGuire went below, this week, for a visit with relatives and friends at the old home.

The Fair has just received a large invoice of fall and winter shoes that will be sold at lowest prices.

Rev. Mr. Hanson, who has been located at Moorhead, is the new M. E. pastor assigned to this charge.

Geo F. Carpenter attended the M. E. conference meeting as a delegate from the Crookston M. E. church.

Don't forget that Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, will be in the city Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

A. A. Tofte and Thomas Erwin came up from Fisher, on Sunday, to go out with the Masons in the evening.

Before you buy your shoes be sure and look over the large stock at the Fair store and let us quote you our prices.

M. I. Ringdal started for Denver, Colorado last week where he expects to spend the winter for the benefit of his health.

Miss Nellie Simmons, who has been away at school in Wisconsin for the past two years, has returned to her home in this city.

Rev. Lee W. Squier departs this week for his new field of labor at Sauk Centre. His many friends will regret to see him go.

Mrs. H. T. Murray, wife of Conducter Henry Murray, who has been visiting with relatives in the city returned to her home this week.

Every man having a beard should keep it an even and natural color, and if it is not so already, use Buckingham's Dye and apper tidy.

C. H. Misner and A. H. Pitkin came down from Euclid on Sunday to go out with the Masonic lodge to escort the body of Judge Lewis to the train.

Mrs. S. L. Dobson went to Rockford Ills., this week to see about her suit against the street railway company on account of the accident that resulted in the death of Mr. Dobson.

A Firemens' Relief Association is to be formed in this city having for its object the relieving of sick and disabled firemen who may become seriously injured in the line of duty.

WARM shoes at the Fair store.

It is whispered about that the Walker saw-mill will soon shut down for the season.

Don't forget that Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, will be in the city Oct. 11th to 21st inclusive.

The plans for the experiment farm buildings have been received and work on the buildings will be commenced at once.

Gent's felt shoes at the Fair store.

W. F. Zwiekey, a Crookston oldtimer arrived in the city on Tuesday morning for a few days visit with old-time friends.

Mrs. Webb, mother of Mrs. Wm. Watts, died of typhoid fever on Tuesday. Mr. Webb has also been very sick with the same disease.

Now is your chance to get bargains at your own price—at the auction sale on the Fisher farm in Norman county, on Wednesday next.

Monday morning dawned as cold as a November morning, with great promise of a storm to wind up on. Let's see, seems like Hicks predicted something like that.

Maj. C. H. Mix went to St. Paul on Sunday evening as escort for the late Geo. W. Lewis. He is also a delegate to the Masonic convention that meets there this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watts are having quite a siege of typhoid fever in their family—and now their little daughter, Annie, and the hired girl are both down with the fever.

John Ristow was in last Saturday to procure lumber with which to build more granary room. The big crop bothers the best of 'em to care for.

Mr. J. H. Hill, who has been visiting with his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Wheeler, started for his home at Jacksonville, Ills., on Wednesday evening.

Jacob Sievertson was married to Miss Hilda Jensen on Saturday last at the residence of John Amundson, about 5 miles out in the country, Rev. Burseth officiating. Miss Jensen is a niece of John Amundson.

Tuesday was somewhat warmer—and notwithstanding a "storm period" was advertised it was a bright, lovely day. However we are admonished that winter is not many weeks away in the natural order of things.

Dr. Howard Lankestsr, of Fisher, was out in all that Tornado, on Friday evening at the opera house "but it never touched him," judging from his looks which were as child-like and bland as those of a Yankee school master.

Somebody lifted a pile of blankets from in front of Fontains & Anglim's store, on Monday evening and succeeded in getting away with them. It is thought to be the work of hoboes, of which the city has a liberal supply for this time of the year.

"What shall we do with all these 'taters?" is a question that interests the farmers nowadays. Well they make pretty good hog fattening timber when properly boiled, if there is no other market. Beats throwing 'em away.

To remove the constipated habit, the only safe treatment is a course of Ayer's Pills, followed by a laxative diet. Most other cathartics do more harm than good, therefore leading physicians recommend Ayer's Pills, especially as a family physic.

Confusion as to the choice of a blood-purifier is unnecessary. There is but one BEST Sarsaprilla, and that is Ayer's. This important fact was recognized at the World's Fair, Chicago, 1893, being the only blood-purifier admitted to be placed on exhibition.

Geo. Ralph was called in from the survey last week on account of the serious illness of his brother Wm., at Red Lake Falls. George was in the city on Monday and reports his brother as doing very nicely, though his case was considered very critical on Saturday and Sunday.

The game of ball that was to have been played on Monday between the Belmont Terrors and the Jolly Rovers was put off on account of the bad weather. It will occur later—providing Hicks, through Charlie Misner, orders up the right kind of weather.

K. D. Chase, after a few days visit with old-time friends in the city, returned to Faribault, Sunday evening. He said to a JOURNAL reporter: "Crookston now has a hotel that she may well feel proud of and it will be of great benefit to your city."

Roy Baker, son of J. A. Baker, of Hotel Crookston who entered Beloit college recently was badly injured in a game of foot ball by being struck in the face by one of the players. While his injuries are painful it is thought that they are not necessarily fatal.

Felix Fournet is fixing up the building on Robert street recently vacated by Mrs. I. U. Jennings and when it is completed Louis Gonyea will move his cigar and confectionery business into it. He hopes to be in and ready for business inside of ten days.

Your Neighbor's Wife Likes

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

Says it saves time—saves money—makes overwork unnecessary. Tell your wife about it. Your grocer sells it.

Made only by

The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago.

T. A. Harris completed his house-moving operations at Fertile, last week, and came home and tackled the old reading room building and is moving it to a site down in the woods, where it will be used for church purposes by the Unitarians, who have bought it.

Dr. H. J. Riesland, the celebrated optician, of Brainerd, Minn., will be in the city from Oct. 11th to the 21st inclusive, and will receive patients at his office, room 6, Commercial Hotel. Call and be convinced of his ability as a specialist. Consultation free. Office hours, 8 to 10 a. m.; 12 to 3 and 6 to 8 p. m.

A team belonging to Mr. Reopelle and driven by his boy got frightened while coming down the hill on Main street and ran away, throwing the boy out. The wagon, a light democrat, passed over the boy, but did not seriously injure him and after a brisk run of a few minutes the team was captured with but very little damage.

Iver A. Krohn has moved his cigar factory from Peake's building on Main St. to the McKinnon block into the rooms recently occupied by Col. A. B. Gorgas. When you want to enjoy a real old-fashioned home-made smoke, or one of the very latest up-to-date cigars made at home from imported material just call on Krohn.

Travelling men stopping at the Hotel Crookston were pleased to greet the pleasant countenance of P. L. Johnson behind the desk. Mr. Johnson was the genial clerk at the Grand Pacific, in Moorhead, until that institution was closed up, when he came to act in that capacity here. All the travelling men know Johnson and like him.

Geo. Vine came near having a lively conflagration on Saturday. His slaughter house took fire during the absence of the men and only for the presence of J. M. Stevens' crew, who were digging potatoes near by, it would have been entirely consumed. The impromptu fire department, however, got away with the fire in great shape and saved the slaughter house with very slight damage.

Some of the neighbors of the Stone family deemed it advisable that the little girls of that family should be provided with a different home—under different influence than the father is said to provide, entered a complaint and the case came up before Judge Benson, on Saturday. The testimony taken did not seem to warrant the interference of the judge and the case was dismissed.

Smith and Jones—two very uncommon names, by the way—met at the Hotel Crookston for over Sunday and having nothing better to do celebrated the unusual event by attending church at the Presbyterian house. Smith represents one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in Duluth and Jones—well "Jones he pays the freight" for the Minneapolis Paper Co.

* * *

We are continually receiving good dry lumber and are selling at right prices. Sun-seasoned stock is dear at any price, and if used at all should be purchased in a tropical climate where plenty of ventilation is sought. We are selling considerable Compo-Board and if your house is unfinished or plaster falling off, try this BOARD. It supplants plaster, and is guaranteed 30 per cent warmer besides making a smoother and tighter wall.

We are always pleased to give estimates and solicit correspondence.

We have just received a car of straight grain fir flooring which is the best manufactured that has come to town, also just received a car of Clear Cedar Shingles.

These are going fast, which speaks volumes for their merits.

Come and see us when in need of a $1.00 or $1,000.00 worth.

Yard near N. P. depot.

26-28] STEWART LUMBER CO.

* * *

If any of our lady friends did not see Miss Halvorson's display of millinery on Tuesday they missed an elegant and tasty display that does great credit to her taste and and the skill of her accomplished trimmer. She has everything in the lovely fall styles and those hats are really poetic dreams—enough to turn the heads of the ladies who will yet possess them—and every lady's head who meets one on the street (if she has not one of them on her own head) will be turned to get a look at the fairy creations and they are sure to turn her mind a pale green—with envy of the fortunate possessor of such a stylish hat. And they are not so awfully expensive, either—but Miss Halvorson invites our lady readers to call and she will tell them all about that part of it.

Patrick McGrath died in the hospital on Monday at 10:30 of dropsy and was buried on Tuesday from St. Mary's church. He had a brother and sister near Drayton in Pembina county N. D. who came over on Sunday and one sister arrived from Canada on Sunday morning. He had been employed during the summer on the farm of F. J. Williams; was a stranger here. He was about 47 years old.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jewele .

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

"One Price and That Right."

KEEP WATCH OF US!

GREAT and Good stocks of fine Woolen Dress Goods, Cloaks, Carpets, Underwear, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, Crockery and Glassware—and all such Comfort-giving things to have are here—each respectively possessing the modern make of its kind, and with these myriads of now needed things we shall make the next ninety days the most exceptionally "Great Value-Giving Period" in the history of this store.

Do you wear the right priced good things?

Do you make much of opportunities?

Do you keep track of our special weekly sales offerings?

Do you know that a postal card directed to us will bring you a price list or any samples you may want to see?

Do you know that you can come to this store and get about everything you need without going out from under the roof?

Do you know that you can Save 25 per cent.

on your fall purchases by trading at Fontaine, & Anglim's, Crookston Minn., the leading and largest Store in the Red River Valley.

The Only

Great and thoroughly reliable building-up medicine, nerve tonic, vitalizer and Blood Purifier

Before the people today, and which stands preeminently above all other medicines, is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

It has won its hold upon the hearts of the people by its own absolute intrinsic merit. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story:—

Hood's Cures

Even when all other preparations and prescriptions fail.

"My boy had scarlet fever two years ago, which left him weak and his kidneys in bad condition. I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has done him very much good. It is an excellent blood purifying medicine." MRS. M. M. D'LAMATTER, 218 Barnard St., Waukesha, Wis.

Get HOOD'S

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

The concert for tomorrow evening is said to be one of the best on the road. An enjoyable evening for all who attend is sure.

It is said that A. W. Foss, of the Thirteen Towns has gone to Canada after a partner. The "partner" will preside over the household.

Funeral services were held over the remains of the late Judge Lewis at the residence, on Sabbath, at three o'clock, the Rev. S. Currie, of Euclid, officiating.

A bird peddler was very much in evidence on the streets last week—somehow he seems to be frozen up this week—or else he has departed south with the other wild geese.

The new daily train on the St. Vincent branch was put on Monday morning and carried out a large crowd for points along the line. If the first trip is any criterion to judge by it will be a paying institution.

E. C. Jones, the genial rustler for the Minneapolis Paper Co., was in the "Tornado" on Friday evening, but "it never touched him." We don't wonder at that either, if his pleasant surroundings were more'n he could resist, and he had no earthly time for the fierce tornado that raged around him—on the stage. "There are moments when one wants to be alone—this was one of them." By the way, that same Jones is one of the best of the jolly lot of good fellows whose pleasant countenances illumine this neck of the woods periodically.

The M. E. conference has decreed that the Rev. Lee W. Squier is to go to Sauk Centre for the coming year and while we, in common with a host of his friends, are sorry to see him leave this city, we can assure the good people of that thriving village that what is Crookston's loss is the gain of Sauk Centre, for no more earnest, sincere or talented minister exists in the M. E. church today, than is Mr. Squier. They will find him a good citizen, a good neighbor and a most excellent preacher, and they will be hard, indeed, to suit, if they are not immensely pleased with their acquisition.

Auction Sale!!!

The Red River Valley Farming Co., will sell all their Personal Property on their Farm in

LOCKHART TOWNSHIP, NORMAN CO.,
Known as the "Fisher Farm"

At 10 o,clock on - - -

Wednesday, Oct. 16, '95

Work Horses, Mares and Colts, One full blooded Imported Percheron Stallion, 8 McCormick Reapers and Twine Binders, 1-14-Horse-Power Traction Engine, (Steam Thresher.) 10-4-Horse Harrows, 3-6 Horse Drills, 12 Gang Plows, 3 Mowing Machines, 1 Bag Truck, 3-4-Horse Seeders, 2-2-Horse Rakes, 1 Sulky, 2 sets of Bob Sleds, 14 Farm Wagons, 3½ in. tire, 1 Pitts Separator, 1 Minnesota Chief Separator, 1 Racine Fanning Mill, 1 Set of Blacksmith Tools, 1 Spring Wagon, 2 Water Boxes, (on Wagons.) A lot of Double Harness, Grain Sacks, A large Charter Oak Cook Range, One Coal Stove and 2 Wood Stoves, Lot of Household Furniture, consisting of Bedding, Cooking Utensils, etc.

Terms: Notes with approved Security due in One year, bearing 10 per cent Interest; 5 per cent off for all cash down.

M. R. BROWN, Auctioneer.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side'

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

☞ NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver - Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

For Sale Cheap

If you want a good farm, right adjoining the experimental farm at first price call at the JOURNAL office for particulars. This farm has good artesian well, 15 acres natural timber and balance in crop. Will sell it with or without half interest in the crop now growing thereon. A snap for somebody. [15tf]

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.
Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

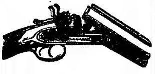
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,



PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

NEW LIFE

BEFORE AFTER

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.........
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.......
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods..........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.........
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding...............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes.......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough,..................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing.........
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases,..................
28	Nervous Debility,................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker...............
30	Urinary Weakness,..................
31	Painful Periods.....................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions....

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

II.

It is not necessary that every woman should make up her mind today with regard to the abstract desirability of woman suffrage. But there is a danger that, if they do not think the matter out now, many women will remain in a state of vague interest and uncertainty, distressed perhaps by the thought that they should have asked for their "rights," and perchance made discontented by the idea that, had we all done so, woman's lot would have been improved and our country as a whole would have been benefited.

"I have taken the suffrage side," one of my friends recently told me, "not because I am convinced that woman suffrage is desirable, but because I think that it is bound to come some day, and therefore it is best not to fight against it." But no events dependent upon human action are bound to come, like earthquakes or comets, or the changes of the seasons. We may say that some such events are bound to come, if existing conditions do not change. But who can predict positively that any human conditions will not change? And we may say that some things are all but certain to come—like greater freedom in Russia, for example. But even then, if we disapprove of them, it is better to fight against them. If we do not stave them off, we shall profit the world by helping the growth of courage, constancy, public spirit and the reasoning power.

Far from believing that woman suffrage is bound to come because of the present increase of interest in it, many of us hope that just this increase will give it its deathblow. Opposition to it has hitherto been passive, and to a great degree merely instinctive. No one has strongly felt the need to give her reasons against it. Therefore no one still uncertain upon the subject has had the chance to hear both sides and intelligently make up her mind, and few have even been prompted to think about it at all. But if the negative side is now faithfully presented, the current excitement, we feel, is likely in the end to do more to hurt than to help the "cause."

Therefore it is well to ask ourselves a second question: Upon what grounds do its advocates base their demand for woman suffrage?

Many of them do not explain how they think that its possession by the whole of our sex would affect the welfare of the community. They simply declare that we have "a right" to it, and state or imply that the securing and active exercise of any right must result for good.

Even the latter proposition is, however, far from logical. It is not a proposition which conscientious people act upon in private life. When a woman or a man perpetually insists upon personal rights, without considering the expediency of their assertion, she or he is recognized as a discordant element in family life, as a member of society whose influence is pernicious. All family life, all social life, is a system of compromises between the rights of different individuals. And civic life, political life, is a system of compromises between the rights of different individuals and those of different sexes, classes, and communities of people.

The most indisputable personal rights may be infringed for the benefit of a community as a whole. A man may be forced to sell his house if the people need a railroad or a park. That great bulwark of personal liberty, the habeas corpus act, may be thrown down in troublous times. And even the right to safeguard one's life is done away with in times of war. Men are then righteously called upon to face certain death itself. If the power to vote could be proved the indisputable right of every woman, nevertheless no woman should demand it without a firm belief, based upon definite reasons, that its exercise by her sex as a whole would benefit her country as a whole.

But the power to take direct active part in political life is not a right in the true sense of the word. It is not on a par with the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Our present laws do not recognize it as such with regard to men. The corporate intelligence of the country does not interpret it thus. The instant a child, male or female, is born, the law undertakes to protect it in its life, its liberty and its pursuit of happiness. It is protected even against its own parents, should need rise, and the murder of a day old infant is counted a crime as much as the murder of a Lincoln or a Garfield. Of course what the law thus professes and attempts to do it does not perfectly accomplish. It never can perfectly accomplish it as long as individual human beings are imperfect in so many ways. But its theory is clear, and its practice steadily improves. Men and women, adults and children, all are to be equally well protected by the government in so far as the recognized rights of humanity are concerned.

The question whether progress might be swifter, details of legislation and practice might be more rapidly improved, if women could vote, may be left aside for the moment. What I want to show now is that our constitutions, our systems of law, our political beliefs, do not include the power to vote among the indisputable rights even of masculine humanity. If they did, boys would be born with the right of suffrage. They would not have to wait until they were 21 to get it. They would vote by deputy until they had reached years of discretion, just as now, if they are born to an inheritance, they own their property from birth and control it by deputy until they come of age.

Expediency, not right, is the basis of the suffrage. It is inexpedient, our legislators think, that all men should vote before they are 21. Surely the well trained, educated, intelligent boys of New York city, even though they be not more than 10 years old, would make better voters than vicious tramps or stupid foreigners all but wholly ignorant of the English language. But it is felt that more harm than good would result if the suffrage were universally granted to boys or youths, and therefore the most intelligent contentedly stand aside until they come of age.

And thus should we contentedly stand aside all our lives, unless the most careful examination of a most complicated problem, to which past history affords not the slightest guide, seems to assure us that it would be for the greatest good of the greatest number of Americans that all women should vote. Expediency must here again be consulted—upon different grounds, of course. Immaturity is the ground in one case, feminality in the other. But in the one case, as in the other, no fundamental human "right" is involved except the right of the greatest number of Americans to the greatest possible measure of life, liberty, and happiness.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

III.

The possession of the suffrage and the possession of freedom are too often confounded in popular thought. An individual is free when he is checked in his pursuit of personal happiness as little as is consistent with the existence of a like freedom for all his countrymen. Universal masculine suffrage has been established in this country because our legislators have thought that by its means this state of things might most surely be brought about. The innovation was a practical expedient, a business experiment, so to say—not a recognition of inborn personal rights. Nor was it everywhere adopted. In Massachusetts utter illiteracy is still excluded from the polls. Yet the illiterate man is surely as free in Massachusetts as here—nay, freer, since he is free from the interference of the political "boss." The time may come when masculine suffrage will be limited in New York. If so, the change will be made in the interests of the truest freedom of the greatest number—in the interests of real liberty, as against the interests of license in some directions, of oppression in others. Today the suffrage is denied to women—on different grounds, I repeat, but with the same great and righteous end in view. We who conscientiously and thoughtfully oppose its granting, believe that the majority of Americans, women and men, are more truly free today than they would be were it granted; that they are less painfully checked in the enjoyment of life and liberty, and in the pursuit of happiness. It is not in the name of the subjection of our sex, it is in the name of the true freedom of our sex, that we demand that men shall continue to do the work of governing our country, themselves, and ourselves.

Why we take this ground I shall try to show in another place. Now I may add that our general attitude with regard to the ballot being an expedient, not a "right," would be more often understood were it remembered that governments themselves are nothing but expedients. Were human beings perfect no governments would be needed. And until they become perfect they do not live that governments may exist. Governments exist that they may live as comfortably and happily as possible. Life is the sacred thing, not government, which is merely the safeguard of life. There is nothing sacred about governments except in so far that they are needful engines for the protection of individual life, family life, social life. When these are protected, the race has a chance to advance, the world has a chance to improve. But the mere fact of protection does not assure improvement. The real work of furthering it is done outside of politics.

It is the duty of every man and woman in our country to help the world grow better. But it is not the duty, still less the right, of every one to help it by actually assisting to protect individual, family, and social life. Even if it could be proved that American women in the mass are more intelligent than American men in the mass, still we ought not to ask for the ballot unless we are sure that if any measure of our energy is given to political life, the loss in other directions will not be greater than the gain in this direction. It was recently said by a prominent woman that "the state has a right to regulate suffrage, but it has no right to refuse it to any American citizen." But what can confer it upon any American citizen except the state? Public opinion—the voice of the people—lies behind the state in some countries, but in ours public opinion is the state. Not merely the men who vote, but every man, woman, and child in the United States plays a part in molding public opinion; and the part that women collectively play, without possessing votes, is shown by the fervid declaration of the woman suffragists themselves, "Whenever we all ask for votes, we shall get them."

But until at least a determinant majority of us do ask for them, and until a majority of men are willing to give them to us, until public opinion favors the innovation, it is grossly illogical, misleading, disingenuous, to talk of our "right" to them—to talk of anything except the expediency of our getting them. Those have a right to vote whose votes public opinion thinks likely to advance the public welfare. Other people have no rights in the matter at all.

What stands behind and above public opinion except the moral law? And does the moral law prescribe direct participation in active political work for all members of both sexes, or of either sex? It prescribes no more than that the greatest good of the greatest number shall be secured, no more than that public opinion shall carefully, conscientiously concern itself with questions of political expediency. Look at the condition of most of the South American republics if you think the moral law—which must be the same for all men everywhere—prescribes universal masculine suffrage, or look even at the negro vote of our southern states, or at the voting record of New York city. I do not say that universal masculine suffrage has proved itself a hopeless failure anywhere in our country, but I do say that in many places it gives a bold lie to the statement that the moral law prescribes anything whatever with regard to the voting power.

The constitution leaves the power to extend or limit the suffrage to the several states, saying only, in its fifteenth amendment, that no state shall make a difference between colored people and white people. Yet it is careful to secure and protect the genuine inborn rights of human beings as such. Each state acts in the matter of suffrage just as it sees fit, and has legal and moral power to do so. If a genuine human "right" is in question, why is there no outcry over the voteless illiterate men of Massachusetts? Why none about voteless youths of 19 or 20? Why none about the adult male citizens of territories?

As a more sparsely populated, less experienced region than its neighbors, a territory is not thought entitled to full self control. Consequently the franchise of its citizens is limited. To vote for their local officers, but not for their own governor, and to send no full tale of senators and representatives to Washington—is this equal suffrage for the men of a territory?

Again, a state deprives a man of his right to a vote if he has recently changed his residence, and each state enforces such a term of residence as it prefers. For the moment a newcomer is everywhere disfranchised, and if any moral principle underlies the matter this is as true a grievance, although not as great a one, as that a woman should be deprived of the franchise all through her life. In short, there cannot possibly be any such thing as state regulation of the suffrage without full power on the part of the state to give it or take it away, just as it may think expedient.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

IV.

The first warcry of the still unborn republic, "No taxation without representation," is falsely quoted now as a warcry for woman suffrage. There is no true connection, historical or ethical, between representation as our forefathers then meant it and universal suffrage. Their cry had no reference to individual powers or privileges. It was a collective cry from an oppressed people, practically enslaved because their interests—not themselves individually—were not represented in the British parliament. If the interests of the women of America, collectively considered, are not represented at the polls, then they too may consider themselves oppressed and enslaved and refuse to pay their taxes.

The true basis of the justice of taxation is not the permission to take active part in the government. "The protection of the government," says Judge Cooley in his "Law of Taxation," "being the consideration for which taxes are demanded, all parties who receive, or are entitled to that protection, may be called upon to render the equivalent." If our government does not recognize the equal claims of men and women to receive its protection, or if, when it fails to give equal protection in certain respects, we can show that only woman suffrage is likely to induce it to, then, and then only, we may rightly raise the old cry, "No taxation without representation," and give it a new meaning.

This would be more generally understood if certain people had not got into the habit of calling women a separate "class" of citizens. They are not a special, distinct class of citizens, with corporate interests unembraced in the corporate interests of the community as a whole. Physiologically they differ from men, and this fact has brought about certain differences in legislative action with regard to the two sexes, notably as affects participation in the work of running our government. But as social factors, as children of the state, they are inextricably mingled with men—as inextricably as they are in family and business life. And the great majority of legislative acts must hurt or help men and women in equal measure. When negroes are legislated for, or farmers, or bankers, or fishermen, are not the women of the class as nearly, as directly affected as the men? Women do not go to sea for codfish or whales or seals. But the wives and daughters of the men who do are as keenly interested as themselves in the laws which protect their lives and labors. And, conversely, American men are as deeply concerned as American women in legislation which affects the property rights of women, the moral safety of young girls, the welfare of the children of the poor.

Are we prepared to say that this is not so? Or do we desire to say that it ought not to be so—that women must specially care for their own interests, which implies, of course, that men may specially care for their own? Do we wish to evolve into separate "classes," saying, "The best interests of American women are not identical with those of American men?" Is this what we do in our families, in society, in the church or in business?

To my mind nothing more dangerous could be said to American women today than that they need, as women, specially to care for the interests of women. These cannot be separated, except in certain minor points, from the interests of men. Our men have never desired to separate them. And the blood of the happiness of our country will be upon our own heads if we set them the example and they are tempted to follow it. The ruin of our country will lie at our doors if we do aught to cultivate this, the most horrible and pernicious kind of selfishness—antagonism between the sexes—for from the growth of woman's love and respect for man and of man's love and respect for woman, resulting in the consciousness that their best interests are indeed and in truth identical, all the progress, all the happiness of the world have grown.

I do not pretend to say in how far these feelings might be fostered or injured by the establishment of woman suffrage. But I do say that the tenor of the propaganda in favor of woman suffrage has often done much and is now doing very much to injure them, at least among our own sex.

An advocate of woman's suffrage writes to me that, nevertheless, "it is a mockery to call those free who have no voice in framing the laws they are forced to obey." Of course this statement is true. But the manner in which the writer construes it is typical, I am sorry to say, of the manner in which a great many true statements are being construed just now. When we pronounce axioms, we should be careful to respect the genuine sense of the words which compose them.

Is it needful that in this connection "a voice" should be understood as meaning "a vote?" Every person has a voice in the making of our laws who plays a part in influencing any individual voter, or in helping to form that deep and strong voice called public opinion which influences all voters, and the collective result of which is the collective vote of a community.

By their fruits ye shall know them—ye shall know those who visibly act and also those who mold the course of their action.

Have women really had "no voice" in the making of laws like those of New York and Massachusetts? Are they justified in feeling that they must "protect their own interests" by means of the ballot box? May they not believe that, if further legislation specially favoring them is needed, it will come in the established way—through the votes cast by men whose conscientiousness it lies so largely in their own power to develop, whose thoughts and actions are so largely determined by their own influence, consciously or unconsciously exerted? And should they not see that their task, which no man can take away from them and in which no man can replace them, is to mold public opinion, to form and train, inspire and reward the executive sex?

It has been said that only ignoble minds can be content with indirect action in the political field—with power at second instead of first hand, with influence instead of a share in control. But why is this true of politics more than of other things? And if it were true of everything, could any good work ever be done? No one works to himself or herself alone, and no one's mind and life are trained or guided by himself or herself alone. Behind all people who do worthy things stand others to whose help their power of action is due. In some noble tasks it is men who thus stand behind a woman; in others it is women who stand behind a man. And in both cases the rôle of the Aaron and the Hur is as important as the rôle of the Moses.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.
have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT

The Choicest Cuts

At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New

MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway, CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

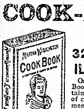
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON.........................President
L. ELLINGTON.........................Vice President
J. W. WHEELER.........................Cashier
A. P. HANSON.........................Assistant Cashier

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK

FREE!



320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also [illegible] ments on Medicine, [illegible] quette, and Toilet [illegible]. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE.

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a [illegible] etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture [illegible] every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. [illegible] TOLEDO, O.

A TIMELY REMINDER

Each season forces upon our consideration its own peculiar perils to health. The advent of fall finds many reduced in strength and vigor, poorly prepared to continue the business of life. The stomach and bowels, the great highway of animal economy, is especially liable to disorder in the fall. The nervous system has also suffered in the struggle. Typhoid fever and malaria in particular find in the fall that combination of earth, air and water that mark this season as especially dangerous. The falling leaves, the decaying vegetables contribute their share of contamination. Hood's Sarsaparilla furnishes a most valuable safeguard at these important points, and should be used in the fall before serious sickness has laid you low.

H. STEENERSON,
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law.
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

ICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor .... David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor........ Frank A. Da
Secretary of State........ F. P. Brown
Attorney General........ H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist.. Frank M. Eddy

Senator 51st Sen. dist........ P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist... John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice .... Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court........ Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist .... Frank Ives
Clerk of Court........ John Vig

County.

Auditor........ John Oleason
Treasurer........ J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds........ A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney........ L. E. Gossmeu
Sheriff........ Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate........ C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools........ O. McCrillis
Surveyor .... O. L. Hemery
Coroner........ John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First district........ John E. Oppegaard
Second district........ Anton Lindem
Third District........ M. E. Kirsch
urth district........ Henry Norland
ifth District........ A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor .... John McKinnon
Clerk........ W. A. Leuctol
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer........ Ole O. Christienson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller........ August Georg
Assessor........ C. H. Mix
City Attorney........ Martin O'Brien
City Engineer........ George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables........ A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom.
Chief of Police........ Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large........ C. E. Sawyer
First Ward ...... A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Buhn
Second " .... J. E. Morrisey, E. C. Davis
Third " .... Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth " .... N. S. Gervels, C. W. Motz
Fifth " .... A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Pelmer	Angus
Black River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
Bray	C,C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savairnd	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belginm	Heury Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....	....
Crookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lenctot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay.
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fanny	J O McWeters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.,	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city	....	....
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondrou	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D P Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Hanne	Crookston
Hickdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syeverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Neilsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	O H Froats	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Beaolt	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Gloeen	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Matteson	Ovetia
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Mersger	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Albue	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marin	Melvin
Parnell	S W Bleau	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Houkom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Iidaig Barii	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rocksburg	P Eagestad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisber
Rosecnd	John E Juverud	Fosston
Ruseia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Heury Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cernousek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
Tynsd	....	....
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
T R Falls	Lars Baoke	T R Falls.

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Your Watch Insured Free.

A perfect insurance against theft or accident is the now famous

Non-pull-out

BOW,

the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled or wrenched from the case. Can only be had on cases containing this trade mark.

—MADE BY—

Keystone Watch Case Company, of Philadelphia.

the oldest, largest, and most complete Watch Case factory in the world—1500 employees; 2000 Watch Cases daily.

One of its products is the celebrated

Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases which are just as good as solid cases, and cost about one half less.

Sold by all jewelers, without extra charge for Non-pull-out bow. The manufacturers will send you a watch case opener free.

DR. PEFFER'S

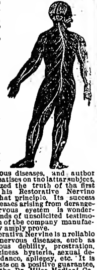
FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 30,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.



Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE

It's a Prize Winner

Read what the World's Fair Judges said when granting the Highest Award to

LORILLARD'S Climax Plug

"A bright, sweet navy plug chewing tobacco, containing finest quality of Burley Leaf. Has a fine, rich flavor and excellent chewing qualities, combining all points necessary to rate this product of the highest order of excellence in its class."

Everybody who tries CLIMAX PLUG says it's the best.

For sale everywhere.

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lyune's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.
[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

First Publication Aug. 29, 1895.
Last Publication Oct. 10, 1895.

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made and executed by Henry M. Secord and Mabel A. Secord, his wife, mortgagors, to MINNESOTA SAVING FUND & INVESTMENT COMPANY, mortgagee, dated March first 1890, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the county of Polk, on the 15th day of April. A. D. 1890, at 10:50 o'clock A. M. in Book 52 of Mortgages on Page 110, conveying and mortgaging the following described land and premises, situate in the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: Lot Twenty-eight (28) in Block Four (4) Traill's Addition to East Grand Forks according to the plat of said Addition now on file or of record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said Polk county.

And whereas, by reason of said default, the power in said mortgage has become operative, and the mortgagee has paid out the sum of Thirty and 32-100 Dollars ($30.32) for taxes past due on said premises, and there is now claimed to be due and is due at the date hereof on said mortgage and the debt secured thereby and for taxes, the sum of Six hundred and twelve & 97-100 Dollars ($612.97) and no action or proceeding at law has been instituted to recover said mortgage indebtedness or any part thereof

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale therein contained and pursuant to the statutes in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of said above described premises by the sheriff of said Polk county at public auction, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, county of Polk, state of Minnesota, on Saturday the 12th day of October A. D. 1895, at ten o'clock in the forenoon to satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt secured thereby, together with the amount paid for said taxes and the costs and charges of foreclosure and Fifty Dollars ($50) attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage.

Dated at Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 26th A. D. 1895.

MINNESOTA SAVING FUND & INVESTMENT CO.
Mortgagee.
Fred B. Snyder,
Attorney for Mortgagee.
120-261 Minneapolis, Minn.

THE PUZZLER

No. 100.—Transpositions.

When the following words are transposed, their initials, read downward, will form the name of a cathedral town in England:
AWWARS—A town of Poland.
ROAN—A river of Italy.
IHENR—A river of Germany.
LKCWWOI—A town of Ireland.
VERSESNNI—A county of Scotland.
ELLIRSAC—A town of England.
REKITSDDNIERM—A town of Worcestershire.

No. 101.—Beheaded Words.

I am at the very edge; behead me, and I am a place for skating; again, and I am a useful liquid.

I am something to sit on; behead me, and I belong to the head; again, and I am the atmosphere.

No. 102.—Hidden Proverbs.

1. "Ffaaaaatttthlleheaedrrbboonni."
2. "Mmsarpeeeeeeyttttveealesskhdonng."
3. "Ooeeekttttrrliiiiiwnsebbh."
4. "Ssa'skkfpwuayoooocaaaaseeerrlinnmt."

No. 103.—Historic Homes.

71 letters.

8, 2, 81, 32, 37—64, 65, 66, 70, 68, 27, the country seat of Washington.

13, 30, 21, 16, 48, 7, 9, 54, 54, 63, the country seat of Jefferson.

17, 18, 20—35, 23, 25, 41, 26, 37, 36, 28, 14, the home of Andrew Jackson.

6, 5, 50, 54, 56, 11, 10, the estate of Henry Clay.

7, 4, 22, 24, 40, 7, 8, 43, 44, 17, the estate which Bayard Taylor established in Pennsylvania.

34, 46, 54, 71, 60, 33, David Thoreau's "hermitage."

49, 69, 27, 21, 19, 29, 48, 52, 55, the home of Washington Irving.

38, 39, 45, 52, 62, 56, 41, the cottage in which died the child wife of Edgar Allan Poe.

59, 12, 47, 51, 70, 57, 34, 43, 67, 16, 1, the present home of the Lee family.

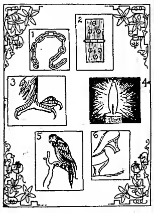
53, 65, 70—54, 58, 7, 19, the home of Richard M. Johnston after the war.

59, 60, 01, 37—7, 2, 16, 17, 12, 28, 23, the home of Frances Willard.

30, 54, 33—3, 15, 11, 42, 4, at one time the home of Hawthorne.

The whole is an appropriate quotation.—Examiner.

No. 104.—Illustrated Central Acrostic.



All the words pictured contain the same number of letters. When rightly guessed and placed one below the other in the order in which they are numbered, the central letters will spell the name of a broad dagger which was formerly worn at the girdle.—St. Nicholas.

No. 105.—Tangle.

Ho, htaw a dgtneei ewh ew vaeew
Nhew rifst ew tparicce ot edveel.

No. 106.—Geographical Anagrams.

Go sail, mufl!
Can tilt a canoe,
No earth, S,
Tere visit A. D.,
'Tis a cable,
Can't I cart canoe?
A mariner needs tea,
In a cap of C ice,
Boat Laff, in fog, H.,
Brig Sary Dean,
Beley, Marial
Is a sea cap'n,
Reef eung, P. L. C.,
Is any barbor?
Icebound R. P. L. astern,
Din in a canoe,
Of fun by dey,
C ice on a cart,
A. B. C. lakes,
It's to a rock,
Trio tars rest,
Lo! see yawl,
I tar ten brigs, H.,
Roh T. sail by,
Y. R. ye boatmen?
O dive to raft, a'r!
Bo'son, yawl,
Dump coon! sail!
Cap'n Tebo'a hoy.

Key to the Puzzler.

No. 88.—Alphabetical Puzzle: King Philip.

No. 89.—Numerical Enigma: Birmingham.

No. 90.—Card Pancake: No answer required.

No. 91.—Two Easy Diamonds:

L
T I N
L I L A C
N A B
C

C
T A R
C A N A L
R A T
L

No. 92.—Double Acrostic:

L a t i n i s M
I n c o g n i t O
T u N
T r e a T
L o a G
E o h O
R e a l M
O r i f i c E
C l e a R
K n a v e r Y

No. 93.—Hidden Proverbs: 1. "A burnt child dreads the fire." 2. "A stitch in time saves nine."

No. 94.—Crossword: Hastings.

No. 95.—Geographical Anagrams: 1. Antwerp. 2. Acre.

No. 96.—A Charade: Kind-red.

No. 97.—Transposition: Pier, ripe, peri.

No. 98.—Concealed Bible Children: 1. Moses. 2. Rhoda. 3. Joseph. 4. Gad.

No. 99.—Decapitations: D-raft, C-ant, B-race, A-back, A-base.

THE PUZZLER

No. 81.—Proverb Making.

Form a proverb which gives encouragement from the letters composing the following words:

Thanet. Brev.
Reel. Tent.

No. 82.—Double Acrostic.

The center of fashion,
Of commerce the mart.
The sculptor's work bearing
Of noble birth boasting.
Whose story more mournful.
Of tongues the most musical.
Fates, muses and graces.

No. 83.—A Biblical Mountain.

O
o O o
o o O o o
o o o O o o o
o o o o O o o o o
o o o o o O o o o o o
o o o o o o O o o o o o o

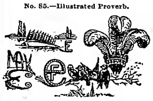
The 13 circles of the base represent the names of a mountain and of a city. The first 11, a ridge east of Jerusalem: Gethsemane is at the foot. The last two, "a heap of ruins," the second city taken by Israel after the passage of the Jordan; it was "utterly destroyed."

The row of 11, the cities of this mount formed one of the landmarks on the northern boundary of the tribe of Judah. The row of nine, that which Mount Lebanon is called because of the snow on its summit and the color of its limestone cliffs and peaks. The row of seven, a mountain range in the north of Palestine. Two distinct ranges bear this name. The western range abounds in olives, figs and mulberries. The row of five, a celebrated mountain. The commandments were given upon this mountain. The row of three, a mountain marked far and near by its double top. The single circle, the initial of the famous mount in the land of Moab. The centre vertical, distinguished for its cedars. Its main ridge is composed of pure limestone and abounds in fossils.

No. 84.—Enigmatical Flowers.

A carriage and a people.
A bird and an article used in riding.
A wild animal and a part of dress.
A word of endearment and a thorn.

No. 85.—Illustrated Proverb.



No. 86.—A Naval Question.

What war vessel whose name contains four syllables and only one vowel did immense damage to Union commerce?

No. 87.—Shakespearean Anagrams.

1. Moist rubies abound.
2. Got here in June.
3. If a Turk had our aces.
4. Oreelo tap.
5. Mug or ele.
6. Sin's ear.
7. Lost such dogs free.
8. Oh, call pale June!
9. Fan on hot jug.
10. Scorn e lion.
11. Harp is to let.
12. A vittle mixer, sorr!
13. Not a rebhi.
14. Le, I slice arms by wit!
15. Scene for scarfpin.
16. I grow Sundey.
17. Thus we help India.
18. Rear logman.
19. Our cash vails aix.
20. Vines desert rooms.

Tongue Twisters.

It is a sheme, Sam; these are the same, Sam. 'Tis all a sham, Sam, and a shame it is to sham so, Sam.

A haddock, a haddock, a black spotted haddock, a black spot on the black back of a black spotted haddock.

Susan shineth shoes and socks; socks and shoes shine Susan. She ceaseth shining shoes and socks, for shoes and socks shock Susan.

Curious Advertisements.

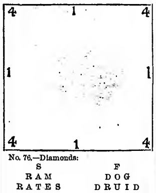
Among startling advertisements is one declaring that "two young women want washing," and another cheerful advertisement says: "Try our coffins. You will never use any other."

Key to the Puzzler.

No. 74.—A Flower:

D
S A I
A T V
P Y
U L E E O L A
P T
O E U
H R N
T

No. 75.—The Corn Puzzle:



No. 76.—Diamonds:

S
R A M
R A T E S
S A T I R I C
M E R I T
S I T
C

F
D O G
D R U I D
F O U N D R Y
G I D D Y
D R Y
Y

No. 77.—Word Building: A, am, man, main, matin, inmate, miniate, intimate, intimated, intimidate.

No. 78.—Numerical Enigma: Barleycorn.

No. 79.—Double Acrostic: Primals, Whittier; finals, Tennyson. Crosswords: 1. Wainscot. 2. Harangue. 3. Incision. 4. Trillion. 5. Topheavy. 6. Inspects. 7. Eldorado. 8. Rogation.

No. 80.—Curtailments: Ada-m, pea-r, boa-t, bee-r, chin-e, wen-t.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via,

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Anine Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 30 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1895, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 566, duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olaf O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, situated, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE,
Assignee of said Mortgage.
Moritz Heim,
Attorney for Assignee.
Bank of Minnesota Building.
St. Paul, Minnesota.
23-29

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at.............. 7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at......... 7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust
Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
6:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls. Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address .

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
5th DAY
15th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Awarded
HighestHonor-World'sFair

·DR·
PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

TO MAINTAIN PEACE.

Powers Declare That Adequate Means Have Not Been Taken.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9.—The representatives of the six powers have sent a collective note to the Turkish government calling attention to the inadequate measures taken by the police authorities to maintain public tranquility in Constantinople and its suburbs, and demanding the prompt institution of a rigorous inquiry into the recent riots, bloodshed and wholesale imprisonment of Armenians here. In addition the powers demand the release of all prisoners who are innocent of wrong doing, and a cessation of arrests.

Said Pasha, the new Turkish minister for foreign affairs, has called at the different embassies and has presented to the representatives of the powers a communication from the Turkish government, repeating the assurance that a plan for reform in Armenia has been accepted by the porte. It is not believed, however, that this will satisfy the powers. There have been no further excesses, although a feeling of great disquiet still prevails and fresh aggressions on the part of the Armenians are feared.

CHURCHES ARE CROWDED.

Armenians Still Taking Refuge in Them at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 5.—The Armenian church at Constantinople and the other churches situated in different parts of the Turkish capital are still crowded with refugees. There are nearly 500 Armenians in the Patriarchate church alone. The scenes in the churches are heartrending in the extreme. Many women and children are bewailing the loss of their husbands and fathers.

The Armenians declare that the Turkish mob committed the most terrible excesses in the Karaghiomkuk quarter of Constantinople during the night of Monday last, the date when the rioting first broke out.

According to the Armenians, about 200 persons have been killed during the rioting.

AGAINST SETTLERS.

Secretary Smith Renders a Decision Involving Wisconsin Lands.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Smith has rendered a decision involving about 75 entries of land in the Ashland (Wis.) district which are valuable for pine. The decision is in accordance with an opinion of the supreme court which settled a conflict of land grants between the Chicago, Minneapolis and Omaha railway and the Wisconsin Central railroad, holding that the lands belonged to the latter road. The beneficiary of the present case is John H. Knight, the settlers being required to show cause why their entries should not be cancelled. Knight was a purchaser from the Wisconsin Central, but a decision of the commissioner of the general land office and a decision by Secretary Noble and another by Secretary Smith was against him. The position of the department previous to the supreme court decision favored the settlers.

Greenhalge Renominated.

BOSTON, Oct. .—Governor Greenhalge was renominated on first ballot by the Republican convention. Hon. Roger Wolcott of Boston was nominated for lieutenant governor, and William G. Olin for secretary of state; Edward B. Shaw, Newburyport, treasurer, and General John M. Kimball, Fitchburg, auditor.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7, 1895.

FLOUR—Dull.

WHEAT—No. 2 spring, 57½c; No. 1 Northern; 59¼c; December, 58⅜c.

CORN—No. 3, 32½c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 20c; No. 3 white, 19@20c.

BARLEY—No. 2, 40½c; sample on track 28@42½c.

RYE—No. 1, 41

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Oct. 7, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 58½c; No 1 Northern, 56½c; No. 2 Northern, 53½c; No. 3 spring, 50¾c; rejected, 45½c; No. 1 Northern, 56½c; October, 58½c; December No. 1 hard, 58½c; No. 1 Northern, 56½c; May, 60¾c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7, 1895.

WHEAT—October, 53½c; December, 54⅜c; May, 5[illegible]⅝c On Track — No 1 hard, 55c; No. 1 Northern, 54c; No 2 Northern, 52½c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Oct. 7, 1895.

HOGS—Not enough hogs to make a market; one load of ho.dovers sold at $3.75.

CATTLE—Receipts of cattle liberal, but there were few buyers on the market, and but little trading was done.

SHEEP—Market steady and unchanged.

Receipts: Hogs, 15; cattle, 914; calves, 31; sheep, 321.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7, 1895.

HOGS—Market rather slow, prices 5c lower

Sales ranged at $3.70@4.30 for light; $3.80@4.30 for mixed; $3.75@4.30 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.55@3.70 for rough

CATTLE—Best native steers shade higher, others steady to 5c lower.

Beeves, $3.35@5.45; cows and heifers, $1.30@3.65; Texas steers, $2.80@3.35; Westerns, $2.90@4.20, stockers and feeders, $2.25@3.85

SHEEP—Market quiet but generally steady.

Receipts: Hogs, 36,000; cattle, 22,000; sheep, 20,000.

Chicago Grain and Provision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—October, 57⅜c; December, 58⅜@59c; May, 63¼c.

CORN — October, 29¼c; November, 29c; December, 27⅜c; May, 28⅝c.

OATS—October, 17½c; December, 17½c; May, 20¼c.

PORK—October, $8.40; December, $8.40 Jan[illegible] 7½; May, $9.83¼.

L[illegible]tober, $5.85; January, $5.82½ May, [illegible]

M. R. Brown was as busy as a nailer all last week, caring for the trainloads of stock that arrived at the stock yards. Not a day passed that did not see one train load at least and some days as high as three train loads were fed, watered and permitted to rest before proceeding on to their destination at Chicago. This week opened out with two train loads and one on Monday.

The "Tornado" that occurred at the opera house on Friday evening was well put on and very highly enjoyed by the large audience that listened to it. It was one of the best productions that Crookston has seen for some time—but that might not be saying much. The scenic effects would no doubt have been better had the stage been larger. The company was as good, probably, as managers can afford to carry about the country with them where experience and talent don't pay first cost.

THE STATE'S CASE.

Attorney General Childs Argues Against Railroad Consolidation.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 7.—The State of Minnesota, by Attorney General Childs, has applied to Judge Kelly of the Ramsey county district court for an injunction, pending the suit restraining the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways from consolidating. The action is entirely separate from and independent of the recent move in the federal courts, and is brought by the attorney general on the grounds that in entering into such consolidation the Great Northern is exceeding its corporate powers, and moving contrary to the policy of the state in destroying competition. Attorney General Childs made the argument for the State of Minnesota and the two roads interested were represented by Davis, Kellogg & Severance. In opening the case Attorney General Childs said:

"We contend that the law of 1894 positively contains the same provisions and that the laws of 1881 are practically the same. These privileges can only be conveyed by lines so connected and so situated as to become one continuous line; but to consolidate with a parallel line or competing line of road, the law is explicit in its provisions against it. The vice of such consolidation was as manifest in 1874 as it is now. The right to consolidate does not carry with it the right to act against the manifest, if unexpressed, policy of the state. Wherever in the charter of this company there may be general terms allowing consolidation, it cannot be consolidation of parallel or competing lines."

Miles Assumes Command.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Secretary Lamont has issued an order detailing General Miles to duty in Washington as general of the army, and General Ruger, now on special duty in Washington, to command of the department of the East with headquarters in New York.

Mahone's Condition Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. — Ex-Senator Mahone's condition is unchanged. He is very low and his physicians can offer no hope.

Boyeson Is Dead.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Professor Halmar H. Boyeson died in this city of rheumatism of the heart.

Chinese Cooking.

This knowledge of what we are pleased to call artificial digestion runs largely through all Chinese cooking. Whenever meats, especially the heavy and indigestible class, are to be employed as food, the cook increases their assimilative character by the use of peptoniferous tripe and vinegar. I have often out of curiosity examined the numerous made dishes of the Mongolian cuisine with a view to ascertaining their constitution. Whether it was soups or stews, ragouts or fricassees, pot roasts or boiled, I have found tripe finely shredded or thinly sliced in three dishes out of every five. The ratio was largest in households of wealth, where well paid cooks were the rule, and smallest in those where the conditions were otherwise. As they discovered the peptic virtue of tripe in all food animals, they likewise found the same quality in the gizzard of the bird kingdom. They have employed the gizzard even more liberally in their cooking than they have the tripe, and they regard it, as is the scientific truth, as the most valuable of all animal tissues. —"An Ex-Consul to Amoy" in Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

Want Wool Protection.

GREAT FALLS, Mon., Oct. 9.—Sheep men held their first meeting in this state to discuss the matter of representation at Washington at the next session of congress to obtain protection on wool. Senator Power presided. A convention to be held at Helena, Nov. 11 was called and delegates from Cascade county selected.

Rev. Barnes Acquitted.

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 8.—In the United States court the case of Rev. G. B. Barnes of Wahpeton, indicted on the charge of opening a letter, was given to the jury, which, after being out less than an hour brought in a verdict of acquittal. The verdict met the approval of those who heard the testimony in the case.

WANTED SALESMEN. Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes.

A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple is warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Our Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.

NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN. L. L. MAY & CO. St. Paul, Minn.

[23-30]

WANTED:—Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed stamped envelope. The Dominion Company, Third Floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago. [23-38]

BUSY AT REVISION.

Bishops and Deputies Discuss the Report of the Commission.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—Revision was the absorbing theme before the Episcopal general convention during the day. The house of deputies devoted the whole of their second day's session, with the exception of an hour spent in receiving the deputation from the Canadian provincial synod, to considering the report of the joint commission on revision of the constitution and canons of the church. The house sat in committee of the whole, to facilitate business, but so vast and far reaching were the questions involved, that only three points of importance were decided.

The elaborate declaration framed by the commission to precede the constitution, was stricken out entirely, and with little opposition.

The title, "Constitution," by which the code has hitherto been known, was changed to "Constitutions," the term in vogue in the Anglican church, on the ground of conformity. This was not adopted without opposition, the vote standing 174 to 104.

The third and last important change made in the work of the commission was in the title "General Synod" given by them to the two deliberate bodies now known as the "General Convention." The word "synod" awakened a storm of opposition and the old name remained.

WORK OF MISSIONS.

The Topic of Discussion in the Episcopal Convention.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Almost the entire day was devoted by the Episcopal convention to the opening session of the board of missions. The two houses sat together under the presidency of Bishop Whipple, the bishops occupying seats on the rostrum, as at the opening service. They took an active part in the proceedings of the day, and the spectators who thronged the gallery for the first time saw the dignitaries of the church measuring swords in forensic contest. The proceedings consisted in the main of reports of the work in the different mission fields, which were briefly and eloquently presented by the bishop in charge of each field, or by prominent divines who had particular knowledge of the subject. The proceedings were conducted with considerably less formality than the business sessions of the two houses, and were in the nature of a mass meeting.

LITTLE PROGRESS.

Bishops and Deputies Wrestling With Constitutional Revision.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—At the end of the day's work in the Episcopal convention the committee of the whole reported progress and asked to sit again. With one exception, all that had been done was to vote down amendments to the commission's report. The only alteration made in the draft was the one proposed by Judge E. H. Bennett of Massachusetts, which includes the missionary bishops within the United states in counting quorums in the house of bishops. Ten other amendments were voted down, and each vote was a negative indorsement of the commission. Not a single action was disposed of finally.

IT MEANS A CRISIS.

Venezuelan Question Promises to Cause Trouble for John Bull.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A special to The Times-Herald from Washington says: Secretary Olney has prepared a dispatch to Ambassador Bayard which will soon bring to an issue the long mooted question of the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana. The dispatch is of such a positive and unequivocal nature that it threatens disruption of the harmonious relations between the two great English speaking countries. As soon as it shall have been placed before the British government, it will raise an issue which can be settled only by the retreat of one or the other, or by the severance of friendly relations—perhaps by war.

Secretary Olney's dispatch is a declaration in the most positive language that the United States will never consent to British occupation of the disputed territory in Venezuela, unless that nation's right thereto is first determined by arbitration.

England Will Not Arbitrate.

LONDON, Oct. .—The Venezuelan consul at Cardiff has written a letter to the press giving the history of the boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain. He says Venezuela has repeatedly proposed to settle the matter by reference, but that the Marquis of Salisbury, Earl Granville and Lord Rosebery have persistently declined to do so.

NO DIVORCES THERE.

South Carolina Neither Grants Them Nor Recognizes Those of Other States.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 5.—South Caroline occupies the unique position among the states of the Union of being the only one which has no divorce law, nor ever has had. The constitutional convention, after a hard fight, by a vote of 86 to 49, has adopted a section of the constitution forbidding the granting of divorces for any cause whatever, and not allowing recognition of divorces granted in other states.

Taylor May Go Free.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 5.—Arguments were closed on the writ of error in the Taylor case at noon. The attorney for Taylor claimed that his client had plead guilty to embezzlement; that the penalty fixed for the crime was two years, and that the three additional has been added on general principles. The case is now under advisement.

The Next Consistory.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The Figaro says that the next consistory will be the occasion of creating the following cardinals: Mgr. Ferrata, the papal nuncio at Paris; Mgr. Agliardi, the papal nuncio at Vienna and Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to the church in the United States.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wood Paving.

A nonslipping wood pavement has been recently devised which is claimed to be simple, inexpensive and efficient. It consists in preparing the wooden blocks before they are laid by boring a few holes in them and filling the same with a hard setting substance composed of crushed stone, bitumen and Portland cement. The compound is cleared off even with the surface, and when they are laid the roadway is thus covered with a series of rough spots which arrest the foot of the horse in all conditions of weather, and prevent the animal from slipping. Wood paving is extensively used in England and France. —Northeastern Lumberman.

Realistic.

Critic—Has that painting of yours, "At Work in the Fields," received any favorable comments?

Artist—A rather seedy looking man stopped to look at it today, and he said it made him tired.—Philadelphia Record.

Division of the Sexes.

One of the most remarkable churches is to be found at Freudenthal, in the Black Forest. It is built on such a plan that the men are unable to see the women, and vice versa, for it is composed of two wings, which meet at an angle where the pulpit stands. The right wing is allotted to men, and the left one to the women of the congregation.—Berlin Letter.

Right He Was.

"Now," began the orator, "in considering the money question, let us avoid false issues."

"Right you air," shouted Mr. Fallwheat. "I thort I was buyin $3,000 of 'em once, and it turned out to be sawdust."—Indianapolis Journal.

Man is the merriest, the most joyous of all the species of creation. Above and below him all are serious.—Addison.

The Catawissa river, in Pennsylvania, was named from an Indian word that means "getting fat."

IVORY SOAP

IVORY

99 44/100 % PURE

DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,

GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.

COMMISSION.

504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

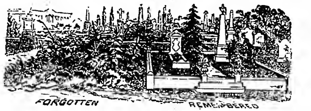
IF YOU WANT

Photographs!

WHY NOT GET THE BEST?

MURI MAKES THEM

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.

Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.

REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE

E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 17, 1895. NO 27.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

AN ALARM,

With Little to be Alarmed About.

About ten o'clock on Friday night when everybody but newspaper fiends had quit work and were beginning to think of "turning in," the fire bell rang its wild alarums announcing that a fire had been discovered somewhere. In a jiff every hackman in the city got a move on himself in order to be the first team at the engine house, so as to capture the capital prize, and Eben Lancaster fell all over himself when he got out where his team was (or where he had just a moment before left them) and found that they "were not where they were now, they had moved," and when a few moments later he did find them further up the street, calmly grazing on ox-eyed daisies, he also found that those few moments were absolutely fatal to his hopes for first prize, for just at this moment Nick dashed by as though his Satanic Majesty had impelled him from the toe of his boot, and springing into the driver's seat of his hack, Eben lit out at breakneck speed, arriving a close second. The light infantry had already taken up the line of march for the old McMunue & Farley elevator in Jerome's addition, where on top of that structure a pillar of fire a mile high, (more or less) could be seen clearly outlined against the eastern sky, showing that the smoke-stack was burning out and was red-hot about it, or getting warmed up to business pretty well. Soon the light artillery was attached to the hacks and were on the way to the scene of the anticipated contest, where they arrived in time to find that their hose lines were too short and were not needed, anyhow, because Uncle Bradshaw had put out the small blaze that had caught in the roof, with his wife's tea-pot, which fortunately retained enough grounds of complaint to discourage a little blaze like that. No damage was done to the building, but some of the boys have been feeling pretty sore over being obliged to demonstrate how fast they could run if obliged to and the dwellers on the addition are now seriously thinking of having the water main extended so as to give them better fire protection.

Dairy Schools.

W. T. Carlyle notifies the JOURNAL that dairy schools will be held at the following named places as follows: Nehy. on Oct. 22d and 23d; at Gentilly on Oct 25th and 26th; at Erskine, on Nov. 15th and 16th and at Fosston the date is not yet announced, but will probably be in the latter part of November. These schools have proved of great value to farmers in the county during the past summer, and all should avail themselves of these opportunities to post up in dairy matters.

New Place! New Goods!

And Lots of Them.

A call at the new store of Mrs. F. U. Jennings, during her reception on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, revealed to the reporter one of the neatest and most complete millinery shops and stocks it was ever his pleasure to see. She has the large rooms on Broadway, recently occupied by the Crawford bakery, nicely fixed up, in which she has ample room to store her large stock so that one may get something of an idea of the extensive stock she carries. Besides a cosy little work room she has an ample pattern room where the finished article is displayed without the fear of any dust to soil its beauty and attractions. She has also a fine line of Japanese goods and has recently added a fine line of musical instruments. With a full and complete stock of all of the latest styles and an experienced trimmer from the leading house in Chicago, she feels fully competent to supply the wants of her lady customers and invites a call. Mrs. Jennings is one of, if indeed not the pioneer milliner of the city, and during a long residence here she has made many warm friends and built up a business second to none in the city. Her aim has always been to suit her customers, both in style and price and when once she sells to a customer, she is always sure to retain that customer.

HE MEANS BUSINESS

GOVERNOR CLARKE PREPARING TO CALL OUT TROOPS

To Prevent the Fight — Commander of the State National Guard Summoned to Conference—Services of Ten Thousand Men Offered to Assist in Keeping the Peace.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 16.—Governor Clarke has furnished evidence of his determination to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons' fight at Hot Springs or in Arkansas. A telegram was sent by the governor to Brigadier General Taylor of Forest City of the Arkansas state guard summoning him to a conference immediately. The meaning of the conference is that the governor desires to acquaint himself with the available strength of the state militia so that he may act knowingly if the situation at Hot Springs reaches a crisis where the services of the militia may be required. According to the offers contained in telegrams and letters received at the executive office Governor Clarke estimates that the Services of Ten Thousand Men

are at his disposal for the purpose of putting down the fight if needed. These offers come from all parts of the state.

A vigorous determination to prevent the fight is plainly discernible in the significant proceedings at the executive office. Indeed Governor Clarke is more emphatic than ever in saying that the fight would not be allowed to come off in Arkansas. He goes so far as to say that if the affair occurs as advertised at Hot Springs he would resign and try to find an office he could run. The governor says Corbett and Fitzsimmons have been warned, and if they now arrive at Hot Springs bent on fighting, their presence in that city or county will be construed as an overt act and treated accordingly.

TO LIMIT THE CONTEST.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Will Not Fight to a Finish.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 16.—Everybody is hopeful that the fight will take place and preparations for the mill are being pushed rapidly. Brady arrived Saturday evening from San Antonio and does not appear in the least disconcerted by the attitude of the governor. Public setiment here is in favor of the fight and the people seem determined to have it.

The attempt to pull off the fight will be made at Whittington park and not and not Spring lake. The contest will be limited to a stated number of rounds with soft gloves.

Julian Is Wary.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Oct. 16.—Martin Julian wired the mayor of Hot Springs that he would not leave here with Fitzsimmons for that place until a sufficient sum of money was raised by the citizens of that place and deposited in some responsible man's hands to defray all legal expenses that may arise by their going to Arkansas.

HAZZARD'S RESOLUTION.

Would Admit Confederate Veterans to Soldiers' Homes.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 16.—George Hazzard, a well known politician and a member of Custer Post, G. A. R., of this city, at a regular meeting of the post gave notice that he would Saturday next offer a resolution providing that Custer Post appoint a committee of five to memorialize congress for the passage of a law doing away with the distinction between Federal and Confederate veterans, so far as relates to their admission to national soldiers' homes; in short that disabled ex-Confederates be admitted to the national soldiers' homes on exactly the same basis as ex-Union soldiers. The proposed resolution has stirred up much feeling in the post, many members being outspoken against its passage.

GET A GATLING.

Cuban Revolutionists Capture Ammunition From the Enemy.

HAVANA, Oct. 16.—The insurgents at Aserradero bay, near Santiago de Cuba, have captured a pilot boat, commanded by a lieutenant in the Spanish navy and having 12 marines on board, which was doing cruiser duty along the coast. This small warship was attacked by a number of insurgents, who seized the crew, the latter being compelled to surrender in the face of the overwhelming number of the enemy. The insurgents carried away the armament of the cruiser, consisting of a Gatling gun and all the ammunition, stores, etc., which they found on board, together with the weapons of the Spanish marines.

This One Was a Draw.

TAMPA, Fla, Oct. 16.—General Surez Valdez, with 1,600 men, on Thursday engaged 1,300 insurgents, under Layas and Nunez, near Santa Clara. The conflict resulted in a drawn battle.

SUICIDE.

August Sundstone, who was suffering with a mild attack of typhoid fever, shot himself through the head on Sunday evening and expired immediately. He had no relatives here that anyone knows of but has an uncle at Tacoma, who was notified at once, and pending an answer the body was taken to Chesterman's undertaking rooms.

TO PROTECT LEGATIONS

American and Russian Marines Landed in the Korean Capital.

Presence Necessary to Guard Foreigners During the Disorders.

Downfall of the Queen Due to Her Opposition to Civilization.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Information of the formidable uprising in Korea, resulting in the disappearance and probable death of the queen and the landing of military forces by the United States and European powers has been received by Minister Kurino of Japan from the foreign office at Tokio. It is quite sensational, indicating the landing of marines by Russia, the United States and probably Great Britain.

The latest dispatch to Minister Kurino states that a force of Russian marines, 40 in number, has been landed. Thus far they have confined themselves to guarding the Russian legation at Seoul. United States marines were landed from the Yorktown to the number of 16. It is believed also that British marines have been landed. Besides these, the Japanese have a considerable force of soldiers at Seoul who have been preserving order.

Objected to Modern Soldiers.

The dispatches come from Tokio and communicate the substance of dispatches received from General Muira, the Japanese envoy at Seoul. They are dated from the 9th to the 12th inst. It appears from these dispatches that the trouble had its inception through the queen's dislike of the newly organized soldiers of Korea. The old soldiers had the primitive equipment of the far East, but with the progress of Japanese influence in Korea two battalions of Korean troops were organized on modern methods. Each battalion numbered 600 men, armed with modern weapons. They were well drilled and officered. When the queen showed her disfavor toward these new troops they appealed to Tai Won Kun, a powerful chief, who has long been at enmity with the queen. He accepted the leadership of the new troops and at the head of one battalion

Entered the Queen's Palace.

The native soldiers fled from the palace. The Tokio dispatches do not state specifically what became of the queen, further than that she disappeared and cannot be located. General Muira's report also covers the work of Japanese troops in preserving order. These troops were stationed opposite the palace, having secured this point of vantage some time since through the Korean government. They took no part in the attack on the palace, but after it had occurred, when the native troops were fleeing and the new batallions were enforcing their success in capturing the palace, the Japanese troops aided in preventing bloodshed and disorder. It is probable that some deaths occurred during the melee. Following this came the landing of United States and Russian marines, and, as is believed, the landing of the British.

WANT CONFISCATED ARMS.

Counsel for Cuban Patriots Make a Demand on Officials.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 15.—United States Senator Gray and H. H. Ward, counsel for the Cuban patriots, recently acquitted of a charge of aiding and setting on foot a military expedition against Spain and in aid of Cuba, have made a formal demand upon Collector of Customs Townsend for the 27 cases of arms seized by United States Marshal Lannan. The demand is made on behalf of the Salem and Philadelphia Navigation company, in whose possession the goods were at the time of the seizure, and of whom demand has been made by the consignees, De Soto Bros. of Philadelphia. Collector Townsend at once notified the department of the demand made on him. He will retain possession of the boxes until he receives word from Washington.

THIS IS ENTERPRISE.

THE NORTHWEST STILL LEADS.

The publishers of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch have just favored us with a copy of their annual premium supplement. Some of the offers which they make are simply wonderful. Articles which usually cost more than the subscription price of the paper are given free with a year's subscription. There is something of interest in it for every member of every family.

It is hard to understand how they can afford to make such offers. The subscription price of the WEEKLY DISPATCH is 75 cents per annum, and the paper is the largest weekly published in Minnesota, consisting of from ten to sixteen pages a week.

Send postal card for sample copies of paper and premium supplement to "WEEKLY DISPATCH," St. Paul Minn.

HIS SCHEME FAILED

HARRY HAYWARD'S DESPERATE PLOT TO ESCAPE FROM JAIL.

Plans for the Affair Cunningly Laid, but Nicely Defeated — Over $2,000 Found on the Prisoner and Hidden in His Cell.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—Through the efforts of the sheriff and Mike Kierce, assistant janitor at the court house, a plan to liberate Harry Hayward and secure his escape from the gallows has been frustrated. The duplicate keys which had been prepared to open the locks to the cell and the jail were brought to the sheriff Friday and found to be keys which would accomplish the end for which they were designed. The break for liberty was to have been attempted Friday night.

The sheriff and his assistants have known for three weeks of Hayward's latest plans to escape and he was allowed to nurse the delusive hope that he would escape. Arrangements were made to nab the conspirators, but a premature publication in an evening paper spoiled the programme.

Sheriff Holmberg's statement of the plot is that two of the conspirators were to enter the jail and sandbag the jailor. Hayward was to be released and concealed by a friend, who was to keep him hidden a month or so, and then he was to make his way to Africa or some other distant country.

Details of the Scheme.

About three weeks ago it was apparent that Hayward was carefully nurturing plans to escape, and increasing vigilance was the sheriff's instructions to his men. Mike Kierce, who has had much experience with prisoners in the county jail, was taken into the matter, and he was intrusted with gaining the confidence of the prisoner that more might be learned. Hayward was wanting a trusted aid among the men employed about him, and he was caught by the alluring manner in which Kierce talked of the possibility of escape. Kierce worked upon the feelings of the prisoner to such an extent that he trusted him as he would his own mother, and permitted him to have charge of the key with which it was proposed to unlock the lever box which holds Hayward in his cell and by means of the unlocking of which he would be permitted to escape.

Mrs. Hayward Had the Key.

Mike Kierce secured the commission of getting a duplicate key from Mrs. Hayward. On Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock he met Mrs. Hayward on Seventh street. There he delivered a note to her and made arrangements to meet her again at 2 o'clock the same afternoon at a restaurant on Washington avenue north. The appointment was kept, and Mrs. Hayward delivered at that time to Kierce a key which will unlock the lever, leaving the gates to the cells in place. This key was tried by Kierce in presence of Hayward, and it fitted nicely.

The impression of the key was secured in a novel manner. The sheriff permits each prisoner to have a candle in his cell. Hayward, it is supposed, took his candle and worked it in his hands until the tallow was made into a dough. The key was then taken from the box, which is near Hayward's cell, and where it was left carelessly a portion of the time. It was inserted in this waxy, greasy substance and an exact impression was obtained.

A Surprise for Harry.

By the premature publication of the affair the sheriff's original plan of nabbing the conspirators was frustrated and instead a little surprise party for Harry was decided upon. About 7:45 p. m. Deputies Megaarden, Langum, Maish and Bright entered the cell and without a word began to search the prisoner. First they searched his pockets. All they found was $36 in bills and silver. The prisoner was told to strip, and he stripped. Next to his flesh, was found a belt. There were three compartments in this belt. One contained $720 in cash and the other $500 in cash. There was another article in the canvas belt, and it was a secret cipher. From its appearance it is evident that there are two ciphers in existence, and it is supposed that it was prearranged so that Hayward might communicate with friends after making his escape.

After the thorough search of Hayward's clothing had been made he was taken to another cell and a further ransacking of his old cell revealed a roll of bills.

"The Common People,"

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

If you are in the city about meal-time, after repairs, don't forget that you can get the best meal in town at McKinnon's restaurant on Second street.

TAYLOR IS LUCKY.

Supreme Court Cuts His Five Year Sentence to Two Years.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 14—Justice Fuller read the opinion of the court on the Taylor case. The decision holds that section 1665, the 21 year sentence, is invalid in form, a skeleton in subject and inanimate; that sections 6797, 6799 and 6807, the general embezzlement laws, apply only to officers of corporations, public or private, and that the state is neither, but a body politic. He states that the accused had the money in his possession not as an agent, executor, etc., but as a portion of the sovereign government of the state; that a state treasurer is custodian. The offense must come under section 6698, against the revenue laws of the state, and not under general embezzlement laws, and under that section it can only be for two years. As no new sentence has been pronounced, the sentence will begin at 12 noon Aug. 14, and as there will be four months' good time, it will be only for eighteen months.

Spain Must Be Speedy.

MADRID, Oct. 13.—It is said on the best of authority that the government of the United States has notified the Spanish minister at Washington, Senor Dupuy de Lome, that there is a necessity that Spain should act promptly in her efforts to crush the insurrection in Cuba. The news has caused quite a sensation here.

Turks to Use Turpin's Devices.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—The Figaro announces that Turpin, the inventor of melanite, and whose recent claim that he had invented a number of deadly instruments of war, caused for a time quite a sensation in military circles, has been summoned to Constantinople on behalf of the Turkish government which, it is claimed, proposes to utilize certain of his inventions for the defense of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles.

New British Peers.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — Sir Algernon Borthwick, Bart., M. P., proprietor of The Morning Post; Rt. Hon. Baron Henry de Worms, formerly under secretary of state for the colonies, and Hon. Horace Curzon Plunkett, have been raised to the peerage.

Advice to Travelors.

In an article on the life and duties of railroad trainmen, published lately in a leading magazine, we note this: "It is astonishing what a number of people education and intelligence (unless they have traveled a great deal) leave all their common-sense at home whenever they take a railroad journey." In our own experience we have seen the patience of conductors most sorely tried by people whose one idea seemed to be that the utmost vigilance was necessary against being imposed on by railroad men. For the information of our readers we give a few extracts from "suggestions to passengers" issued by one of the great eastern railroads, remarking that the same apply to almost all roads.

"Passengers upon buying Through Tickets should make a memorandum of the "Destination"—By what R.R. issued"—"Form, Number"—Consecutive Number" and "Date." They should make a memorandum also of the "number" and "destination" of their baggage checks. This will aid in the recovery of tickets or checks if lost or lost or stolen.

Personal Baggage, when not exceeding 150 pounds in weight, will be checked to and from all stations upon presentation of one full passage ticket; 75 pounds on half ticket.

"Local or coupon tickets not used or only a portion of such tickets or only a portion of such tickets having been used, when of any value, will be redeemed through General Passenger and Ticket office, in accordance with established rules.

"Passengers purchasing tickets or mileage books which for any reason they do not use in their entirety, should not attempt to dispose of them to unauthorized dealers, as this Company will fully protect original purchasers from loss in cases where for satisfactory reasons the tickets are not used, giving the full value of the unused portion of such tickets on proper basis.

"In event of any disagreement with the conductor relative to tickets required, privileges allowed, etc., passengers should pay conductor's claim, take his receipt, and refer case for adjustment to general passenger and ticket agent, who will promptly refund any overcharges."

Compliance with the above suggestions, and the purchase of your ticket reading "via Burlington Route," when going to Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha or Denver, will be certain to insure a comfortable journey. If your home agent cannot fix you with a ticket via the Burlington, then write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent. St. Paul, Minn., who will promptly inform you as to the rates of f[illegible] and send you time tables, etc.

THE JURORS

Drawn to Serve at the December Term of District Court In Polk County.

The following is a list of the Grand and Petit jurors that have been drawn to serve at the coming December term of District court, viz:

GRAND JURY.

Iver Ingebretson, Garfield.
Lewis Giese, Keystone.
Hans Hankom, Queen.
Wm. Himmelebach, Fairfax.
Louis Marchaud, Lambert.
Gilbert Huvea, North.
John McCoy, East Grand Forks.
Arne Grundyeen, Bygland.
A. C. Merrill, Fisher.
Charles Sampson, Gervais.
Emil Pitcher, Huntsville.
Charles McCarthy, King.
Alex Buraam, Andover.
Thos. Driscoll, Sullivan.
Julius Voelker, Fanay.
M. M. Davis, Euclid.
John Gilbert, Roome.
A. Braley, Crookston.
J. T. Cliffgaard, Rocksbury.
Chas. Nelson, Vineland.
R. E. White, Fisher.

PETIT JURY.

O. J. Matson, Chester.
Haas J. Johanneon, Hill River.
Thos. A. Berlund, Bygland.
O. Noel, Louisville.
A. Stortroea, Vineland.
H. J. Castle, Crookston.
A. E. Helmick, Andover.
Mat Doyle, Esther.
Thos. Casey, Parnell.
Andrew Nelson, Wyandotte.
F. W. Lemen, Angus.
Ed. Wurdberg, King.
Simon Greenash, Huntsville.
E. S. Peterson, Bray.
Denais Connolly, Rocksbury.
G. C. Wilde, Crookston.
O. H. Dale, Knute.
Robert Kerr, Grand Forks.
Wm. Pease, Huntsville.
Brown A. Horvick, Garfield.
Nic A. Olson, Lessor.
Simon Paul, Red Lake Falls.
John Peterson, Fisher.

Salvation Army.

Mrs. Major Stilwell of Minneapolis will visit Crookston in behalf of the Army work in this city, Thursday and Friday Oct 17 and 18.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

ED. ROBENTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.

We are continually receiving good dry lumber and are selling at right prices. Sun-seasoned stock is dear at any price, and if used at all should be purchased in a tropical climate where plenty of ventilation is sought. We are selling considerable Compo-Board and if your house is unfinished or plaster falling off, try this BOARD. It supplants plaster, and is guaranteed 30 per cent warmer besides making a smoother and tighter wall.

We are always pleased to give estimates and solicit correspondence.

We have just received a car of straight grain fir flooring which is the best manufactured that has come to town, also just received a car of Char Cedar Shingles.

These are going fast, which speaks volumes for their merits.

Come and see us when in need of a $1.00 or $1,000.00 worth.

Yard near N. P. depot.

26-28] STEWART LUMBER CO.

Maple Bay Items.

But little stack threshing has been done here yet.

Mrs. W. H. Godfrey and son of Oregon City, Ore., are visiting the family of Mr. V. Godfrey.

A family re-union was held at the residence of P. W. Horton last week the occasion being his sixty-fifth birth-day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Gronvold have a son two weeks old.

Miss Randy Lee commenced teaching a five months term of school in the Lee district last Monday.

Miss Hunter spent Saturday and Sunday at home returning to Goseen in time for her school on Monday.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

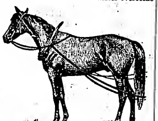
THE HARNESS HORSES.

Already Thundering to the Wire With Phenomenal Speed.

THE TWO MINUTE PACER IS NEAR.

He Will Probably Arrive This Season, but the Two Minute Trotter Is Not Yet In Sight—Alix, Robert J and Their Numerous Swift Rivals.

The long looked for two minute trotter still seems to be an "iridescent dream" of the future, as a certain eminent statesman out of a job would remark, but the two minute pacer will probably thunder to the wire before Robert J, John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen, Directly, Rubinstein, Hal Pointer and Mascot go into winter quarters. Since the bicycle sulky came into use for harness racing, just about three years ago, the average speed of both trotters and pacers has improved to an extent that has broken all the bonds of conservatism. Close students like Robert Bonner, who had been of the opinion that no horse would ever be able to do the mile in 2:05, were amazed to find that barrier overcome and an advance of a full second made over it by both Nancy Hanks and Mascot within four months from the date when the bicycle sulky was first tried in public.



AZOTE, 2:07¼.

Other skeptics regarding the feasibility of the record at either gait being placed at two minutes are now forced to acknowledge that this crowning feat is likely to be seen before the close of the century, and the New York Times declares that the more sanguine spirits are hopeful that the hitherto unapproachable goal will be reached during the present season.

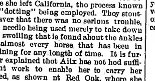
In selecting the most likely candidates for this great honor the trotters must be rejected. Not Alix herself or any of the younger stars that give promise of reaching a high place in the firmament that bounds the diagonal gait have even a remote chance to improve the present speed limit at the trot by the 3¾ seconds that stand between it and even time. Monroe Salisbury will be satisfied if his famous protegee gets down to 2:02 in her 7-year-old form. She has not made a very brilliant beginning, though her mile in 2:07¾ at St. Joseph is considerably faster than she could go during the first week in July last season.

The apprehension that Alix was on the verge of a breakdown when she made her debut at Red Oak last month is not shared by Salisbury or his trainer, McDowell. Both admit that the mare was treated before she left California, the process known as "dotting" being employed. They stoutly aver that there was no serious trouble, the needle being used merely to take down the swelling that is found about the ankles of almost every horse that has been in training for any length of time. It is further explained that Alix has not had sufficient work to enable her to carry her speed, as shown at Red Oak, where she stepped the first quarter in 80½, but could only do the mile in 2:11. As the season advances those who have charge of the trotting champion are confident that she will improve and be able to hold her own against all comers.

The challenge issued on behalf of the queen for a match with any other trotter up to $5,000 a side was doubtless sent out to show that the mare is ready to defend her title in spite of the reports that she is lame or sore.

There are two other trotters whose form entitles them to be considered in a contest with Alix. Of these Directum has measured swords with her on two occasions, the first time late in 1893, when he was at his best, and she had been practically out of training for a month. The race, which was really a hippodrome, came off at Fleetwood park, New York, and merely showed how a trotter of the highest class like Alix, when out of condition, can be made to look very cheap beside one that was up to the form Directum had reached after his brilliant campaign in the south and west. On the renewal of the rivalry last October at Boston the conditions were reversed, and it was the black giant's armor that proved so vulnerable. As both of these cracks seem to be doing well at present, a third meeting between them should result in a fairer test of their respective merits than has yet been obtained. Directum has already trotted in 2:06 and seems approaching his 1893 form. His owners have offered to trot him against the turf queen for $5,000 a side.

C. J. Hamlin gives no sign that he thinks Fantasy equal to trying conclusions with the present mistress of the sulky. After her victory over Directum at Minneapolis greater things were expected from the mare that has the record for age at both 3 and 4 years. She fell a comparatively easy victim to Azote at La Crosse, though the big gelding had to lower the record for unsexed trotters in the first heat. Judged by the test of race ability, the pride of Buffalo has not yet done anything which would warrant her owner in pitting her against Alix for a money consideration, if the latter is in the form she carried last year.



KLAMATH, 2:08½.

Among the newer stars of the trotting turf are William Penn, the brown stallion by Santa Claus, and Klamath, the California gelding, by Morookus. Penn is good for a mile in 2:07¼ or better, and Klamath has trotted in 2:08½. In speaking of the comparative merits of Azote and Fantasy Turf, Field and Farm says: "Although Azote has defeated Fantasy in a race, we adhere to the opinion that the big and slashing daughter of Chimes and Homora will pass to the 2:08¾ line in advance of the tall and powerful gelding by Whips. The public will look forward with much interest to a race between Azote and William Penn."

The number of candidates for the pacing championship is larger than ever before. C. J. Hamlin has not only a doughty defender of the record he now holds in Robert J, 2:01½, but the old warrior, Hal Pointer, is out again, after a season's rest, and apparently faster than in 1892, when he scored 2:04½. It will be nothing short of a marvel, however, if the "P'inter hoss," as his Tennessee worshipers call him, should be able to outdo the feats of his younger rivals. He was foaled in 1884, and therefore must be considered a veteran in these days of early development, when 2-year-olds are able to beat 2:10 at the pace.

It is from John R. Gentry, Joe Patchen and Rubinstein that the sensations of the season are expected, outside of those furnished by Robert J. The first of this fleet trio has never made what deserves to be called a full campaign. He started as a 8-year-old in 1892, won a few engagements without losing a heat, and retired with a record of 2:18. The next season Gentry did not appear in public, and it was not until well along in July of last year that he was again regularly on the turf. After sustaining the first defeat of his life at Buffalo in August Gentry recovered his form the next week at Chicago, and thereafter did not lose one of his regular engagements. His second heat in 2:08¾ at Terre Haute in September gave him the stallion record, which he still holds. Later in the season he met Robert J twice, and at Nashville fairly outfooted the gelding in the first heat, though the decision was a tie, in 2:04. There was another match at Philadelphia in November, when Gentry was short of work and was beaten. This year, after passing the winter under the personal supervision of his new tutor, M. E. McHenry, Gentry shows marked improvement, and is a magnificent specimen of a well bred pacer. More than one expert declares him to have the world's record at his mercy.

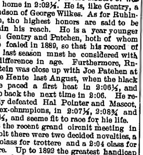
Joe Patchen, while he did not get the credit of as fast a mile as the champion stallion, actually paced below 2:08 in the heat at Indianapolis, where Robert J. was first home in 2:02½. He is, like Gentry, a grandson of George Wilkes. As for Rubinstein, the highest honors are said to be within his reach. He is a year younger than Gentry and Patchen, both of whom were foaled in 1889, so that his record of 2:08 last season must be considered with the difference in age. Furthermore, Rubinstein was close up with Joe Patchen at Terre Haute last August, when the black horse paced a first heat in 2:06½, and came back the next time in 2:06. He recently defeated Hal Pointer and Mascot, the ex-champions, in 2:07½, 2:08¾ and 2:06½, and seems fit to race for his life.

At the recent grand circuit meeting in Detroit there were two decided novelties, a 2:06 class for trotters and a 2:04 class for pacers. Up to 1892 the greatest handicap put on the horses at either of the harness gaits was 2:15, and these startling innovations serve to show what inroads have been made on Father Time's fortress since the new sulky came into use.

BICYCLIST ARTHUR GARDINER.

The Young Chicagoan Becoming One of the Crack Riders of America.

One of the most promising riders in the class B ranks is Arthur Gardiner, the young Chicago cyclist, who seems to develop into better form each week. In the one mile open race in Steubenville, O., recently Gardiner succeeded in defeating Eddie Bald, the fastest amateur on the track today, and also showed his rear wheel to such swift men as C. M. Murphy and L. C. Johnson. The same day Gardiner won the half mile open, defeating Harry Maddox, L. C. Johnson, Julian P. Bliss and Tom Cooper, nearly all men who have done wonderful work on the track.



ARTHUR GARDINER.

At Williamsport, Pa., July 23, Gardiner competed against such stars as Murphy, Ziegler, Jenny, Coulter, Monte Scott and Decardy and won three events, the half mile open, the one mile open and the one-third mile. Gardiner has ridden half a mile in 57 minutes 2-5 seconds, and is looming up as a very formidable competitor in all the open races on the circuit, no matter who happens to be opposed to him. He and Bald have become rivals, and while the honors are mainly with the Buffalo wonder at present Gardiner usually succeeds in making it very interesting for him in every race in which they meet.

He Knocked Out the Blaze.

A New Yorker well known for the rapidity with which he works and for his strength a few nights ago gave a novel test of speed, says The Sun. He lighted six candles and placed them on a stand. He then stood off a few feet, and with both fists feinted at the lighted candles so rapidly that the current of air created by the speed with which his fists moved extinguished the lights in every case. It will be understood, of course, that the candles were not touched in any way. The other men present, three in number, tried to do likewise, but failed. If any man thinks that he has plenty of speed at bag punching or boxing, all he has to do to satisfy himself that he is not wrong is to try the candle trick. If he can put out the lights he is a good one.

"Mme. Sans-Gene" as an Opera.

"Mme. Sans-Gene" is to be made into an opera, and Miss Florence St. John is to sing the role of the washerwoman. The opera is being especially written and composed for her. It is said that French history will be drawn upon very freely, and the operatic "Mme. Sans-Gene" will have material in it that is lacking in the comedy. The names of the librettist and composer are to be kept secret for the present, but the composer is said to be one of the very best of our time.

Amusing Slips of the Tongue.

A young clergyman in giving out the hymn, "Conquering Kings," merely stumbled over the first syllable, but being unable to save himself startled his congregation with the announcement, "The hymn tonight will be 'Kinquering Congs'—'Kinquering Congs.'"

Much the same was the pitfall into which a reverend gentleman walked when in place of saying, "Behold the fig tree, how it withereth away!" by a simple transposition of two or three letters asked his audience to "Behold the wig tree, how it fithereth away!"

But perhaps one of the most comical instances of slips of this kind is the case of the preacher who, describing conscience and desiring to get his listeners to recognize the promptings of its inward voice in the half formed wishes of the mind, appealed to them whether there was one there who at one time or another "had not felt within him the effect of a half warmed fish."

After this, the instance of a person who, devoutly reading the lessons in solemn tones, announced, "He spake the word, and cattlshoppers came and grassipillars innumerable," seems almost commonplace. So, too, does the mistake of the priest who assured his congregation that "it was easier for a rich man to pass through the eye of a needle than for a camel to enter the kingdom of God."—Boston Herald.

Stopped the Squeak.

It is an old saying that the person who makes jokes should be prepared to take them, but we all know that the practical joker is very obtuse when the joke is at his expense, although others enjoy it hugely. One of these jokers, who was also an amateur ventriloquist, was recently a passenger on a steamer, and having a slight acquaintance with the engineer was allowed to enter the engine room. He took a seat in the corner, pulled his hat down over his eyes and appeared to be lost in reverie. Presently a certain part of the machinery began to squeak. The engineer oiled it and went about his usual duties.

In the course of a few minutes the squeaking was heard again, and the engineer rushed out, can in hand, to lubricate the same spindle. Again he returned to his post, but it was only a few minutes until the same old spindle was squeaking louder than ever. "Confound the thing!" he cried. "It is bewitched." More oil was applied, but the engineer began to be more suspicious as to its cause. Soon the spindle squeaked for the fourth time, and on this occasion the engineer slipped up behind the ventriloquist and squirted half a pint of oil down his back. "There," said he quietly, "that spindle won't squeak any more!" It didn't.—Atlanta Constitution.

His Mission.

To promote the increase of natural knowledge and to forward the application of scientific methods of investigation to all the problems of life to the best of my ability in the conviction (which has grown with my growth and strengthened with my strength) that there is no alleviation for the sufferings of mankind except veracity of thought and action and the resolute facing of the world as it is when the garment of make believe by which pious hands have hidden its uglier features is stripped off.

It is with this intent that I have subordinated any reasonable or unreasonable ambition for scientific fame which I may have permitted myself to entertain to other tends; to the popularization of science; to the development and organization of scientific education; to the endless series of battles and skirmishes over evolution, and to untiring opposition to that ecclesiastical spirit, that clericalism which in England, as everywhere else, and to whatever denomination it may belong, is the deadly enemy of science.—The Late Professor Huxley.

The Salvation of St. Sophia.

On the morrow, at the first capture of the city, the janizaries rushed to the great church, which they conceived was filled with gold, silver and precious stones. They found the doors fastened, but broke them open and at once began to pillage. The sultan, as soon as possible, rode to St. Sophia. Dismounting on the threshold, he stooped down, and collecting some earth let it fall on his turbaned head as an act of humiliation. Then he entered the edifice, but stopped in the doorway some moments and gazed in silence around him. He saw a Turk breaking the floor with an ax. "Wherefore dost thou do that?" inquired the conqueror. "For the faith," replied the soldier. Mohammed in an impulse of anger struck him, saying, "Ye have got enough by pillage and enslaving the city; the buildings are mine."—"The Church of St. Sophia," Lethaby and Swainson.

Brooding.

Brooding over trials and difficulties and disappointments is one of the most prominent and sure characteristics of fretfulness. The mind seems to fasten itself on life's troubles. It thinks of little else from morning till night, and then in the nighttime sleep departs and the time that should be spent in sleep is spent in fret and worry until it festers and becomes more and more absorbing, so much so that the mind becomes wholly occupied with the thought of trouble. In many cases this state of things continues till its victim finds a home in the insane asylum.—Selected.

"The World Is Mine."

"What's the matter?" asked the policeman; "haven't you any place to go?"

"Any place tar go?" replied Meandering Mike, with contempt. "I've got the whole United States before me. I've got so many places ter go ter dat it's worryin me dizzy makin up me mind which way ter start."—Washington Star.

Cheaper.

Minnie—Dear me! It costs $31,000 to kill a man in battle nowadays.

Mamie—I wonder why they don't use trolley cars.—Indianapolis Journal.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

V.

Turn now from the "right" of woman suffrage, which is no right at all, to the question of its expediency. This is the true problem, and of course the best way to approach it is at the very foundation.

Is there indeed good reason why women, simply because they are women, should not take active part in political life?

Women are physically much weaker than men. It matters nothing that here and there a woman may say, "Lo, I am physically as vigorous as a man." Averages must rule when millions of men and women are concerned. No sane person believes that the average woman equals the average man in vigor, any more than that the exceptionally strong woman equals a Corbett or a Sandow.

Nature has made us weaker than men, not merely by giving us smaller skeletons and tenderer muscles, but by fitting us for the rôle of motherhood. Of course in being fitted for this rôle a special kind of strength has been conferred upon us, and no kind could be more valuable to ourselves or to the world. But we have to pay for it in weakness in other directions—not only in lesser muscular power, but in lesser ability to withstand strains and exertions of many kinds.

Man's greater physical strength is not merely a reason why he has hitherto done all the work of government. It is also a sign and proof that this is part of his natural work. By nature he is the protector of his family, whether it be attacked by wolves, by human individuals, by the fear of poverty or by the dread of public calamities. And by nature a woman is a being to be protected. Her physical weakness is a sign of this. So is the great fact which necessitates it—the fact of her motherhood. So are the domestic and social cares which the probability of motherhood, and the absence of the working males from their homes, make the business of our sex as a whole. And so is the fact that while man needs to safeguard his life and property only, she needs to safeguard her chastity as well.

Woman is the homemaker, the homekeeper; man is the home supporter, the home protector, and government is only one form of home protection. Often today a woman must assume part of a man's work of protection. But this is a misfortune, not an "opportunity." We must make the best of it by educating our girls better, and by teaching our men to realize, even more thoroughly than they do now, that it is their business to protect all women in so far as they can. But it is as foolish, as against nature, which means common sense, to think that it would be well if women should share equally in the hard outside work of money making and of organizing and protecting society as it would be to think that the world would be improved if men could bear and rear half the children. Any doctrine which tends toward a general reversal of the great rôles of the two sexes, or toward their confusion, or toward the growth of the idea that they may be confused without danger to society, must be distinctly pernicious.

Woman needs more liberty, truly—at least in intellectual directions. She needs to know more, to think more, to have a deeper sense of responsibility. But she needs this to do her own work more thoroughly, to teach her what had better be left to man to do, and to teach man how he may do it well. She is the world's educator. He is the world's executive. Her work is really more important than his, for it is the making and molding of human character and of social characteristics—which means the making and molding of public opinion—while man's work is to support and protect her as she does this, and to give public opinion shape in that practical form which we call government.

I have actually heard women say, and with much decision and fervor: "Certainly we should not hold office. The men ought certainly to do the work of governing. But it is our duty to see that good men are put into office. It is our duty to vote, because this is the best way to show what we think ought to be done by the men who govern."

Surely this would be very unequal suffrage—half the controlling power to be ours, all the work and responsibility to fall upon the men. It would be interference—not influence. It would be irresponsible dictation—not education, direction, help and counsel.

And of course it would be impracticable. How could we vote for good men unless good men were always nominated? And how are men nominated except through difficult, exacting work, which is heaviest just before an election, but must be persisted in more or less all the time? Going to primaries, pulling wires, and influencing voters in favor of the nomination of good men is not very hard work in little country places. But it is work that needs time even there, and needs knowledge of a particular kind—special knowledge with regard to the qualifications of special men. And in big cities the work is so difficult, disagreeable, and harassing that, just because of it, very many men lose their interest in politics altogether. Yet in this work at least we should positively be obliged to share if we wished to vote those whom we might consider the best men into office.

No one can simply vote for "the best man" without regard to anything but his personal trustworthiness and ability. Behind every man who stands for an office lies a principle of one kind or another—legal, financial or economic. Choice must be made between principles, and choice must be made between men, and then the claims of the one and the other must be balanced against each other. No problem is more frequent or more difficult than that which confronts the voter obliged to choose between a "good man" representing principles or expedients of which he disapproves, and a less good one representing principles or expedients he thinks right. Thus no intelligent vote can be cast without a knowledge and consideration of abstract political, financial or economic ideas. The best man, when political office is in question, is the one who will have the most power to legislate for us toward the best result, and this necessitates considerations with regard to his ideas and beliefs, his wisdom and tact, his influence with other politicians and with the people, as well as with regard to his knowledge and conscientiousness.

And this all means that women would have to take an earnest part in political thought, an active part in political life, if they wished simply "to see that the best men are put into office." Otherwise they could only vote with blind eyes for men whom they had had no share in selecting, or else duplicate the votes of men whom they esteemed intelligent. I think no woman need ask for the suffrage who desires to be an ignorant voter or a mere echo.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

VI.

Men have made our laws wholly of their own motion, as some declare, or largely influenced by women's expressed or implied wishes, as I and many others believe. What solid ground have we for saying that, given political responsibilities, our women would bear them more conscientiously than men? A very large proportion of our political questions today are financial or economic questions. Is it probable that women would be more generally stirred than men to think seriously and vigorously about these? Did my friend really show cause why the suffrage should be given to women when she said that only direct personal political activity could awaken their real interest in political things? Do good women thus dissassociate themselves from the duties and responsibilities of their husbands and sons in other directions? Do they not feel a personal concern in the progress of their sons' college education, even though they may have had none themselves? Or in their athletic education? Or in the professional success, the business rectitude and diligence of their husbands? Or in the councils and affairs of their churches? Is it true that we feel we cannot take an active interest in public affairs unless we take an active personal part in them? And, if so, is this indeed a proof that we are well fitted to serve the public good? Or is it a proof that we are vain and proud and selfish—that we must audibly "have our say" in the same manner as men, or else will sulk in our corners and declare that we wash our hands of the nation's interests, of our men's interests, of our own interests? I have already said that I cannot believe it is so. I cannot believe so badly of the women of America. They are not generally interested in public affairs today because their true education has only just begun. But they will gradually grow interested without the bribe or the lure of votes, and then we shall see what woman's influence may mean for good.

If it is indeed true that the work of the world must be divided, and that nature, experience and a sane philosophy unite in showing that the labor of government is part of man's proper share, it is hardly needful to consider any such minor arguments as that if women could vote "there would be no more wars." But I may say that most of them are on a par with this one as regards any basis of demonstrated or probable truth.

Does the history of the female sovereigns of Europe or of India show that women hate war more than men, or does it show that when their emotions are excited they are apt to be more recklessly bellicose than men? How was it with the women of France in the days of the great revolution? And do recent instances differ from those of earlier date? Was not the terrible Franco-German war of 1870 called by the French empress "my war?" Was it not recognized as such by the French people? Do not the investigations of historians and memoir writers show it to have been such? And which were recognized as the most bitter opponents of the Union in our southern states during the war of the rebellion and long after its close—the women or the men?

But the worst of all the fallacies now being used as persuasive arguments is the declaration that if American working women could vote their wages would be equalized with men's. Those who promise this do not give their reasons, and they could not base them upon past facts with regard to rises in the value of men's labor. Even today women are paid much more nearly the same as men for really equal work than the makers of this promise would have us believe. But often what is called equal work shows some inequality, if not in the perfection of its performance, then in the probability that the worker will continue permanently at her task. Although certain agitators have declared that the "law of supply and demand" is a foolish fetich, it nevertheless affects the pay of every laboring individual in the world. Amid social and commercial conditions like ours, the slightest inequality in working power, the slightest difference in the relations of a supply to a demand, tell in financial results; and no laws can possibly obviate this fact. No legislation, but organization, has raised the wages of men during the past two generations. And the most successful result of labor organization—the great strike of the dock laborers in London a few years ago—was accomplished by men a very small proportion of whom had votes. Thus there are many things to think about, many serious questions to decide, before we can conscientiously say that we believe woman suffrage should be established. And, be it noted, the burden of proof lies with those who advocate an innovation. We are not obliged to prove that woman suffrage is undesirable. They are obliged to prove that it is so clearly desirable that, for its sake, the country should run the enormous risk involved in a political and social revolution of the most radical and far-reaching sort. This is law and justice all the world over: The status quo, like the human individual, must be considered in the right until we have good evidence that it is in the wrong. Otherwise there would never be any security for individuals, never any peace or safety for the state.

Therefore all I desire to do is to bid you pause—pause, and think, and consider the arguments of the advocates of the "movement," without passion, without prepossession, and especially without that foolish vanity of would be imitation of men which means a great lack of true feminine pride. But above all do not be tempted to say, "We women must look out for ourselves and our own interests." It is a slander upon the men of America to say this—upon those men who have so cordially helped us to become the freest and most highly considered women in the world. And it is a defiance of the laws of nature and of common sense to declare that the best interests of the sexes are separable. To declare this is to give men an excuse, a temptation—nay, a veritable right—to say, "Then we also must look out for ourselves and our own special interests." Do you think that the country would fare better if our men said this or that its women would fare better? Do you not think rather that the best way to serve our country and to serve ourselves is to do our own work as well as we can—which means a great deal better than in the past? And do you really believe that part of this work should consist in a half share in the actual immediate power to make those laws which deal chiefly with matters that men's daily occupations fit them to understand better than we do, and in the execution of which, strive as we might, we could take but a very small share?

CUPID HAS AN ENEMY

PERSISTENT SOLICITORS WHO DETER WOULD BE BENEDICTS.

Matrimonial Ventures Made Extra Hazardous by the Hunt For Business—A Hair Raising Warning From a Life Insurance Man.

When the young man walked into the newspaper office and timidly asked the society editor if she would kindly insert a notice of his approaching marriage, he little thought of the trouble he was bringing down upon his head.

The announcement was printed Sunday. When he reached his office Monday, he found a stack of letters waiting for him, every one addressed in a handwriting he did not know. He whistled when he opened the first, ditto the second, looked a bit surprised at the contents of the third and swore fluently through the balance of the pile. At noon there were more. At night there were others.

Despite the evident curiosity of his fellow laborers in the office he did not take a soul into his confidence until the third day. Then he remarked to his deskmates:

"Say, the great American life insurance man isn't overlooking any bets these days, is he?"

"Wherefore this outburst?"

For answer the groom to be went to a drawer and produced a stack containing 147 letters—he said that was the exact number, though his friend did not count them—the accumulation since that fateful Sunday morning.

"Every blamed one of them is from some agent for some life insurance company who wants to insure my life. Each one represents the best company on the face of the earth. Each pays the largest dividends. Each invests the money of its patrons to the very best advantage. Each moralizes on the uncertainty of life and seeks to impress upon me the solemn duty I owe to my wife that is to be to get my life insured for a million or two of dollars. And each blessed one has come since the announcement of my approaching wedding was printed."

The young man paused a moment, then he dug into the pile and after a few moments' search produced a document which he shoved at his friend, simply saying:

"Just look at the devilish ingenuity displayed in the construction of that thing."

The "thing" was about the size of a theatrical poster known as a three sheet, in other words, three of them will paper the side of a barn. Down the center, at regular intervals, were a lot of mottoes and warning exhortation printed in type three times the size of the context, and in red ink. Here is one choice extract from the document: "In the midst of life we are in death."

"Let us call your attention that it is every husband's duty—his solemn duty—to provide for those dependent upon him. No one knoweth when the angel of death may knock at the door of hovel or mansion and how can one be prepared for his coming unless time is taken by the financial forelock? Think of the ray of hope which breaks through the clouds of bitter bereavement when the sorrowing ones reflect that by the careful forethought of the dear departed poverty has been prevented from adding its horrors to those of the grave. It is your duty to provide for your loved ones. Do not put it off until tomorrow, for in the language of the poet, 'Tomorrow never comes.'"

There was another paragraph in the document that showed the touch of a master hand. It ran something like this:

"Our policies are devised and designed to meet the wants and needs of all people desiring insurance. They are liberal. They are honest. They bring the very best returns. We have ideal policies which we can safely recommend. We can and will guarantee endowment results at much less than endowment rates. And again we pledge ourselves to furnish paid up policies at far below the usual cost. Our dividends are often five times as large as those of other companies on similar policies. We also make a specialty of making liberal loans to our clients on their policies. We are in the field for business and we mean to get it. And don't you forget it."

"Do not leave your wife and babies dependent on charity."

The elocutionary effect the benedict to be threw into the reading of these extracts gained him a round of applause from his companions. It also brought to him the knowledge that every other man in the office who was married—in Chicago—had been similarly afflicted. But that brought no balm to his soul, and he continued to kick. He didn't think it the proper thing to do and he announced his intention of writing a circular letter to the various individuals who had importuned him to "take a risk" and informing them of his feelings.

"Don't do it, my boy," said the head bookkeeper. "Wait until after you are married. You will get forty of these things then to one now, and then you'll have to get out another letter. Wait till then, and then you can address yourself at one and the same time to the life insurance agent, the furniture dealer, the grocer, the man who has a second hand sewing machine to sell, the philanthropist who wants to see young people get along and who offers you a lot way out in the suburbs that will make you rich in five years, the rental agent, the iceman, the milkman, the cockroach exterminator, and all their kith and kin. You'll hear from them all, for they all read the society columns of the daily papers and the newly married are their legitimate prey."—Chicago Tribune.

The Remedy.

"Anna, your lover was again in the kitchen till 10 o'clock last night. I cannot allow that any more."

"I, too, have been thinking if we couldn't have supper a little earlier."—Fliegende Blatter

DEFECTIVE PAGE

MRS. ROSE'S

RESTAURANT

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.

Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.

TRY US.

NELS SWANSON

ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.

A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.

Wells Drilled or Bored.

Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.

Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,

ATTY'S-AT-LAW,

McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,

Attorney-at-Law,

No. 2 Fournet Block. CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.

Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon

OFFICE IN

McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

CANNOT BE MADE FOR

$1 per Dozen

And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,

Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

A Big Flywheel of Wire.

Among the most recent and novel applications of wire, perhaps none has greater interest to the mechanical world than that presented by the wire flywheel lately erected at the Mannesmann Tube company's works, Germany. Heavy flywheels, driven at high velocities, obviously present dangers of breaking asunder from the great centrifugal force developed. The wheel at the factory mentioned consists of a cast iron hub or boss, to which two steel plate disks or checks, about 20 feet in diameter, are bolted. The peripheral space between the disks is filled in with some 70 tons of No. 5 steel wire, completely wound round the hub, and the tensile resistance thus obtained is far superior to any casting.

This huge flywheel is driven at a speed of 240 revolutions per minute, or a peripheral velocity of about 2.8 miles per minute (250 feet per second approximately), which is nearly three times the average speed of any express train in the world. The length of wire upon such a constructed flywheel would be about 250 miles. The use of paper is also regarded with favor as a face for large flywheels, the tensile strength of paper being enormous, and it is quite possible that some of the new big flywheels will be built up with a peper rim.—Hardware.

Why He Didn't Know.

It was at a spiritualistic seance in Philadelphia that this incident took place. Captain Morrell of the steamship British Prince was engaged to Miss Sonley, who at a former seance met a "spirit lover," said to be Harry Montague, the actor. "I'll tell you what we'll do," said the captain on his last voyage here; "we'll get married and then we'll go to the seance and see whether this dead actor fellow knows how he has been cut out."

This was agreed to, and sure enough at the next seance Harry proceeded to make love to Miss Sonley, just as though she was not already another man's possession. Finally Mrs. Morrell exclaimed:

"Why, Harry, don't you know what has taken place?"

Harry didn't.

Then Mrs. Morrell announced her marriage and asked Harry how, if he loved her so, he didn't know it? This was a staggerer for the spirit, but whoever took the part of Montague came to the scratch in great form with the explanation:

"Why, you see, we don't have marriages in heaven, and so of course I couldn't know anything about it."—Philadelphia Times.

How Do You Pronounce It?

The ability to pronounce "Dorchester" in the native way is as much a test of New England bringing up as the ability to say acht-und-achtzig is of Germanic breeding. The southerners pronounce it in their way and the westerners in their way, and either is far from the way of the native. Here are the three pronunciations—approximately, be it understood:

Southern—Dongh-ches-tah.

Western—Dorr-chess-turr.

Native—Doi-chus-tuh (feminine) and Daw-chus-tuh (masculine).

For that substitution of the vowel sound of short "i" for the ordinary New England vowel sound of "r" seems to be peculiar to women and to certain young boys who have learned their speech from women. The western pronunciation is preferable to either of the others. It is somewhat broad and open, but is a frank and honest use of the letters in the word.—Boston Transcript.

Garden Opportunities Neglected.

The absence of fences is killing the love of flowers in this country. When we have no fences, we plant shrubs, if we plant anything, and the old fashioned garden that our mothers and grandmothers cultivated to such perfection is a thing of the past. We buy our flowers of an itinerant vender in Broadway, those of us who cannot afford the luxury of the florists' shops, and we know nothing of the pleasure of our own gardens. Look at the gardens of England. In London or in the country it is the same. Wherever there is a bit of earth, be it on the ground or in a window box, there you find flowers in profusion. I should be very sorry to think that we had less love for the beautiful or that we had less sentiment than our English cousins, but the facts are against us in the matter of flowers.—Critic.

The Fire Cure.

The native doctors of India practice a peculiar system known as "firing." Afflicted persons, no odds what the disease may be, are, immediately upon the arrival of the family physician, subjected to the tortures of the fire. At the beginning of the present century it was used chiefly for aches and pains, but at present it is said that it threatens to become the universal remedy for all afflictions. A late report by a medical authority declares that there is not one to the thousand of total population in Bombay and the larger cities generally who does not bear trace of the application of the "fire cure" in the shape of hideous scars on head, back, stomach, feet or limbs.—St. Louis Republic.

Not the Correct Color.

Mrs. Newed—I have brought three of these eggs back to change them.

Grocer—They are quite fresh, ma'am.

Mrs. Newed—No doubt, but the shells are brown, while my new egg cups are blue.—New Haven Union.

Squalls.

"Were you ever caught in a squall?" asked an old yachtsman of a worthy citizen.

"Rather," responded the good man. "I have helped to bring up eight babies."—London Tit-Bits.

Proof Positive.

"Wilkes has removed to Brooklyn."

"What makes you think so?"

"He is signing his letters 'Yours, Trolley.'"—Comic Weekly.

Explosives and Motive Power.

According to the opinion of Superintendent Barker of the arms factory at Sparkbrook, England, and a prominent expert in that line, the possibilities of the industrial use of high explosives for generating motive power are a fit subject of study. Of the gunpowder engine he thinks only slightly, as such an explosive merely develops in combustion about 280 volumes of permanent gases, while the solid residues are very considerable, soon clogging any machine. Nevertheless one pound of gunpowder is capable of developing 170,280 foot pounds of energy. The new smokeless powders are capable of developing still higher energy and are also more under control, while giving off nearly 1,000 volumes of permanent gases and leaving no solid residue. Though the temperatures developed by all these propellants are high, he thinks it very possible to overcome this difficulty in the same way as it is done with gas engines, or even by making use of the energy of the water so employed when converted into steam. As English "cordite" develops 1,250 calories per gram the possibilities of its employment in some form of "powder gas" engine is remarked upon as not without attractiveness to engineers of a speculative turn. The temperature of gunpowder on explosion is about 4,000 degrees F., and that of the smokeless powder is believed to be considerably higher, though this has not yet been fully determined.—New York Sun.

An Odd Custom.

The oldest temperance society in the world is the abstaining commune in Achlyka, in Siberia, all of whose members are strict teetotalers every day in the year except one. Regularly on the first day of September, year after year, all the adlut members of the commune assemble in the parish church, and every one takes a solemn vow before the altar to drink no wine, beer or spirits "from the morrow" of the following day for the whole year. The clause "from the morrow" is introduced in order to give them a reward for their virtues in the shape of a whole day of drunken carnival. As soon as they leave the church they begin to indulge in a horrible bacchanalian drinking, which continues throughout the day, until neither man nor woman in the village is sober. This is naturally followed by considerable physical suffering, and then by mental remorse, whereupon the penitent parish enters upon its twelvemonth of model sobriety, and all live like the Rechabites. Some students imagine that this queer proceeding may be a prehistoric tribal custom.

Animal Humbugs.

In military stables horses are known to have pretended to be lame in order to avoid going to a military exercise. A chimpanzee had been fed on cake when sick. After his recovery he often feigned coughing in order to procure dainties. The cuckoo, as is well known, lays its eggs in another bird's nest, and to make the deception surer it takes away one of the other bird's eggs. Animals are conscious of their deceit, as shown by the fact that they try to act secretly and noiselessly. They show a sense of guilt if detected. They take precautions in advance to avoid discovery. In some cases they manifest regret and repentance. Thus bees which steal hesitate often before and after their exploits, as if they feared punishment. A naturalist describes how his monkey committed theft. While he pretended to sleep the animal regarded him with hesitation and stopped every time his master moved or seemed on the point of awakening.—London Exchange.

Turkish and Russian Soldiers.

The Turkish army is perhaps the only one in the world which has invariably behaved better in the field than the peace conditions of both nation and army led critics to anticipate. The Russian army, so far as the war of 1877-8 is concerned, belongs undoubtedly to the category of armies which have not fulfilled expectations.

The average Turkish soldier is physically, morally and intellectually superior to the average Russian soldier, for three reasons—first, because he is a total abstainer; secondly, because he is religious—that is, intellectually religious, whereas the Russian is ignorantly religious, i. e., superstitious; thirdly, because elementary education is better in Turkey than in Russia. These plain facts should be borne in mind when the next campaign becomes imminent.—"The Defense of Plevna," by W. V Herbert.

Professor Huxley.

Professor Huxley was a man of very simple and direct manner. In the classroom he made his lectures graphic by finding illustrations for scientific truths in everyday examples, as when, in treating of animals that change their color, he referred to the fact that when he was tired or nervous he fancied he was grayer than usual. He was gallant to the fair sex. One of them, who attended his South Kensington lectures, asked him to introduce her to Herbert Spencer and was amused by his mock serious response, "I thought I was your first love." To this same lady he said, in talking about the death of Agassiz, the news of which he had just heard, "I wonder where he is?" He made the remark in a tone of profound sadness.

Trouble In the Menagerie.

"You look as if you needed a hair cut," said the elephant, nosing about the lion's cage.

"Before you go around making remarks about other people's appearance you'd better trim down your ears," retorted the lion, shaking his mane. "You show your ivories too much when you talk anyhow."—Chicago Tribune.

How Greensboro Was Named.

General Nathaniel Greene, during his retreat before the British in 1781, fought a battle at a settlement in North Carolina, ever since called Greensboro.—Boston Budget.

CROMWELL'S FIRST STATUE.

An Image of Wood and Wax Carried Through London In 1658.

When Edward Burrough, the Quaker "Apostle of London," whom George Fox called his "Son of Thunder," was passing through Charing Cross on his way to the city, upon the "22d day of the ninth month," 1658, he found the streets crowded with people. "The guards of soldiers, horse and foot," says he, "stayed me and stopped my horse and said I might not pass that way. Neither, indeed, I will," adds he, "by reason of the throng of people."

When he inquired the reason of "this thronging and pressing of multitudes," he was told that they all came out "only to see a dead image and invented feature, without life or breath, which would be carried this way." It was not the great Protector's body, but a dead image of wood or wax, arrayed and decked with foolish inventions, and it "was to be carried from place to place that day between Somerset House and Westminster, as was usual in the time of popery, for multitudes of foolish people to gaze upon and wonder after and admire."

The zealous Quaker thought the statue of Oliver Cromwell all the more an insult to his memory because "he was once a great instrument in the hands of the Lord to break down many idolatrous images and grievous idols. And have they now, said my spirit, made a costly image of him? And are such as were once his soldiers, who pulled down images and crosses, and all such popish-like stuff wherever they met with it, now guarding his image and watching over it, and his children and officers following it, multitudes of the inhabitants of London gazing after it? This is sad, said I, and a great pity. Is this the end and final farewell of once noble Oliver?"

Edward Burrough concluded that it was "a judgement" upon Cromwell to be thus wronged after his death, because he had suffered the servants of the Lord (the Quakers) to be persecuted and imprisoned for crying against such things as were popish. He says that Cromwell himself would have been angry at it. "I knew the man when he was living and had the knowledge of his spirit. And I am perswaded if it had been asked him in his lifetime if such an image should be made like him, and then set up in such a place, I believe he would have denied, I say, and said, 'It shall not be there for me, when I am dead.' If it had been his bones," added the Quaker, "I should not have hed aught against it, whereas it was but an image made by hands." So Burrough went home and wrote his "Testimony Against Great Idolatry."—Westminster Gazette.

Heat Value of Coal.

The important fact has over and over again been stated by those wo have investigated the subject with scientific exectness that only about 6 or 8 per cent of the total heat value of coal is utilized in an engine by heating transformed into power. In tracing up this loss it is stated that there are required some 1,202 degrees of heat, or heat units—not degrees of temperature—to change one pound of water into steam, while during the absorption of this amount of heat the temperature of the water remains at 212 degrees. This immense amount of steam is rendered latent and does not sensibly affect the thermometer. Scientific authorities explain the cause of this loss in the steam engine as due to the fact that the 990 degrees absorbed by water in being transferred into steam—212 degrees are apparent upon a thermometer, and which, added to 990, make up the 1,202 degrees above mentioned—go into the engine unindicated by the thermometer, leave in the same manner and go to waste.—New York Sun.

How to Clean Old Book Plates.

To restore old book plates that have been injured by age and damp proceed as follows: Place upon a flat surface a sheet of white paper, somewhat larger than the print to be cleaned. Carefully dampen the print on both sides with a soft, wet sponge, and then saturate it with a mixture of chloride of lime and oxalic acid dissolved in about equal proportions in a pint of cold water. You can tell when the mixture is right by its turning magenta color. Continue to apply it until every stain or spot has disappeared, and then with a cleen sponge wash the print freely with cold water.—Art American.

Planty of Room.

Australia has a population of less than 5,000,000, but economists declare it could support 100,000,000 with ease. As a means of showing how far the world is from being overpopulated they assert that the entire population of the United States could live comfortably in the single state of Texas.

I dislike an eye that twinkles like a star. Those only are beautiful which, like the planets, have a steady lambent light, are luminous, not sparkling.—Longfellow.

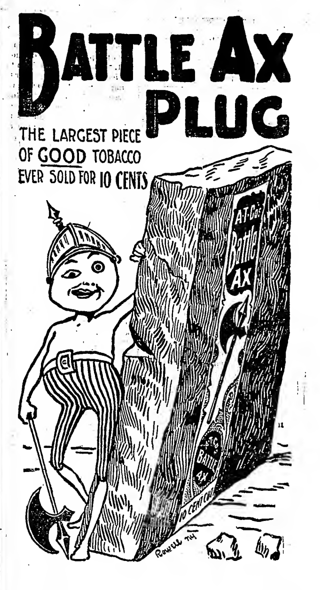
At the end of life we discover that we have passed nearly one-half of it in being happy without realizing it, and the other in imagining that we were miserable.

The heaviest rainfall is near the equator and diminishes steadily as the latitude rises.

Leeches and the Weather.

If you follow the movements of a leech in a bottle containing about a pint of water covered with a piece of muslin, you can have a pretty good barometer. The leech lies rolled together at the bottom of the bottle—fair. It comes to the surface of the water—variable or rainy. It rushes pretty rapidly about the bottle—strong wind. It rolls over and over convulsively—storm.—Journal of Hygiene.

H. Freeman of Toombsboro, Ga., once kept a moccasin snake tightly sealed up in a bottle for two years without food or water, "yet it lived and grew



Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom

Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.

FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.

We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.

FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.

CROOKSTON, - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,

Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,

McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.

BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,

Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.

N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.

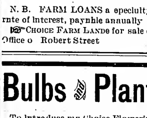
☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜

Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.



Liver and Kidney Diseases

Are manifested by BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM, LOSS OF APPETITE, FOUL TONGUE, BAD BREATH, WEAKNESS, LOSS OF ENERGY and CHRONIC CATARRH OF THE THROAT.

DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM

is the remedy you need, of equal service in all mild or chronic LIVER, KIDNEY and FEMALE TROUBLES.

For sale everywhere at $1.00 per bottle.

THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement; and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

THE Floyd boys, who were accomplices with Phil Scheig in the bank defalcation in Minneapolis have been pardoned out of States prison by Gov. Clough.

THE rumor that president Cleveland had been assassinated was too ridiculous for any use and was denied before it had time to get cold. Nobody wants to kill Grover now—not till he runs for president again and then not with the bullet but the ballot.

THE editor of a splendid little local paper in New York says: "How swift will fly time to the close of 1895." Well what's the matter with that? And what good housekeeper in the land will regret how "swift" "fly-time" does go? Judging from expressions we have heard they could manage to endure it somehow if "fly-time" never came.

IT is possible that much of Harry Hayward's bravado has come from the expectation of escaping, providing the supreme court decision in his case is adverse. It is reported that concealed upon his person he had a money belt containing $2,500 and that he was in possession of false keys that would unlock every door between him and liberty. The discovery of his plans may put a different aspect on his case.

THE Minneapolis Evening Journal has discovered "a rumor to take Mose Clapp by force and make him governor." There are only two things out of whack with that "rumor" that we can see. First, Governor Clough's term has not yet expired and second, Mose Clapp has a mind of his own and is not in the habit of lending himself to be used as an ointment to soothe any man's political grievances. If the people want Mr. Clapp for governor that's different.

AT the meeting of the Farmers' National Congress held at Atlanta on Monday a resolution was offered to petition Congress to enact laws preserving the parity of gold and silver, and providing for an international conference. An amendment was offered providing that congress be asked to consider how to preserve a rate not higher than 16 to 1 which was lost by a vote of over 2 to 1. Thus the farmer goes on record as opposed to the 16 to 1 doctrine.

AND Minnesota, too, goes on record as opposed to the brutal spectacle of two men facing each other in the ring and pounding each other out of all semblance to humanity and to Governor Clough every law abiding citizen of the State owes a debt of gratitude for his promptness and his firmness in taking steps to prevent the contemplated fight between Needham and Moore on Sunday last. The Governor seems to have more backbone than some have given him credit for.

THE city council of Moorhead seems to have put its foot in it by passing an ordinance calculated to prohibit the salvation army beating drums or carrying flags while marching along the streets. The gallant army paid no attention to the ordinance and the result was that some of the leaders were arrested and put into jail. They gave bail however and were released. Great excitement prevailed and the general opinion is that the ordinance will not hold water when tested.

AND Minnesota is all right. At any rate she has a governor who is not afraid to do his duty. Upon learning of the proposed Needham-Moore fight, that was to have been "pulled off" near St. Paul, Governor Clough promptly issued a proclamation to prevent it. All honor to Governor Clough! Who says he is not a business governor? This shows that he has a proper respect for the dignity of the state he represents anyhow and the back-bone to enforce the laws as he finds them.

A. JAY BLETHEN, of the Minneapolis Penny Press, (by permission of H. Kohlsaat, of Chicago) has made a great play and worked up a subscription list of a million or so (more or less) on the ground of being the alter ego of Ignatius Donnelly in "the friend of the common people business." and now, having raked in all the "common people" seems to be making a grand play for the balance of mankind by advocating the swallowing up of the Northern Pacific railroad by the Great Northern road. He has "discovered" that this movement would be in the interests of the common people living along the lines of both roads and is trying to show wherein it would be so. He has succeeded——in raising a doubt in the minds of the "common people" aforesaid.

From the Wrong Standpoint.

Little Falls Transcript: Senator Davis began a three-days argument in the St. Paul courts on Tuesday against the injunction to prevent the Great Northern controlling the Northern Pacific. One of his very emphatic points was that it would be of great public benefit to have the road controlled by Hill, he being a St. Paul man. That is the same old point of calling St. Paul the Northwest, and assuming that the Northwest would be benefited by having one St. Paul man control all the railroads and influence the growth and industries of all towns.

CONGRESSIONAL COMPLEXION.

St. Paul Dispatch.

It may gratify the curiosity of many in view of the fact that the next congress is expected to do something in a substantial way toward settling the currency question, to know something of the present attitude of the members of the house of representatives. The New York chamber of commerce has polled the next house, and finds that it will be overwhelmingly against the free coinage of silver. The method of ascertaining the fact is not disclosed, but it is not to be supposed that a body of such respectability would venture upon such an important official statement unless it was based upon the utmost possible accuracy. The chamber of commerce, coming down to details, says that the next house will contain only 88 outspoken free silver men, while 216 members are ready to declare themselves as utterly opposed to the free coinage of silver., and only 52 refuses to declare themselves either way. Of those who are for free silver, 30 are classed as Republicans, 51 Democrats and 7 Populists. This is a pretty fair showing of how the tide of silver sentiment among members of congress has ebbed since the passage of the Bland-Allison act on the 5th of November, 1877, when the bill was passed by a vote in the house of 164 to 34 against. As to the senate, there is a small majority in favor of passing a free silver bill, but the house and the president being so adverse to any such a proposal there is not the least possibility of any free silver measure passing during the life of the congress elected last fall, and for the next two years. This fact has not only been recognized among business men in the United but it has already made a strong impression upon the minds of capitalists abroad, who are interested in American investments, and who are rapidly regaining a confidence in the stability of our financial conditions and the dissipation of the fear that we are rapidly drifting toward unsoundness and instability.

BLUNDER BY MONOPOLY.

St. Paul Dispatch.

No more striking illustration of the dangers and abuses of monopoly could have been selected by the Pioneer Press than when it unwittingly chose the case of the New Haven road and offered it as a parallel to the proposed consolidation of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern and as an argument in support of that proposition. The facile Pioneer Press twists the absorption of the New England road by the New Haven into a deal by which the public is to be benefitted, and leaves the reader to infer how greatly the public would be similarly benefitted by the consolidation of the two Northwestern roads. Unfortunately for the Pioneer Press and the interest it would serve, that very New England deal stands out conspicuously as a warning of what would inevitably follow the proposed scheme in our own section. The history of the New Haven road, now known as "the consolidated system," is one long story of monopoly and tyranny over the shipping interests of New England. One by one it has bought up and controlled the competing lines within its territory until it held that great section within the hollow of its hand, and its control of the New York and New England line is the crowning act of its monopolistic career. But one road has escaped it, the Boston & Maine, and that was only because its business did not run along the sharp lines of competition. One example, the facts of which may be readily substantiated, serves to fully set forth with what absolute sway this new railroad consolidation controls all lower New England.

The business men of Meriden, Conn., writhing beneath the heel of oppressive rates, the results of the absence of a competing line, constructed a short-line from Meriden to Waterbury and known as the Meriden & Cromwell road. The effort to obtain relief from the legislatures had been in vain, as the controlling roads held them in their clutches, so the manufacturers of Meriden built this road, which connected with the New England road and afforded them relief from the extortions of the New Haven, by producing competition. This is one of similar cases and offers the illustration. The consolidated system did not meddle with the little line upon which the hopes of Meriden rested, but it finally secured the New England line, which offered the sole outlet, and now the Meriden men are thrown back to the old condition from which they sought relief, with the useless railroad on their hands. The New York New Haven & Hartford company absolutely controls the country between New York and Boston, having destroyed the last link of the opposition.

The Pioneer Press is very unfortunate in having selected this case as an illustration. If, in old New England, where no law opposes, the people find such combinations burdensome, how much less acceptable will one be in the Northwest, where both law and sentiment are arrayed in opposition to it.

WANTED:—Several trustworthy gentemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed stamped envelope. The Dominion Company, Third Floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago. [23-35]

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

WASHINGTON LETTE .

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 10, 1895.

Secretary Olney, the one man who has been widely advertised by Democrats as the originator of the "vigorous foreign policy," which is to be put into effect—accent on the is TO BE—has made a bad start by pleading the baby act. He was asked this week what, if anything, the administration proposed to do about the Cuban revolutionists. The man who asked the question occupies a position which entitled him to a reply, otherwise Mr. Olney would have given the usual silent bluff with which he parries the questions of newspaper men and other inquisitive individuals. Not daring to do that he fell back on the baby act, and said that the reports were so conflicting that he had up to this time found it impossible to ascertain the true status of affairs in Cuba; that the Spanish minister insisted that the revolt was a mere nothing and would soon be stamped out, and that the rosy pictures of the revolutionists' successes which appear from time to time in the newspapers were manufactured in this country. He intimated that it might be necessary to send a confidential agent to Cuba to investigate before the administration decided what position it would take. It is significant that state department officials cite two precedents for the idea of sending a confidential agent to Cuba. In 1816, before acknowledging the independence of the revolting Spanish colonies in South America, President Monroe sent three commissioners in a U. S. man-of-war to investigate the situation, and in 1848, when Daniel Webster was Secretary of State, President Taylor secretly commissioned a confidential agent to go to Hungary and ascertain the chances the Hungarians had for success in their revolt against Austrian rule an act which caused strained relations between this country and Austria, although the revolt was put down before the agent got to Hungary, and gave Mr. Webster an opportunity to write one of his strongest state papers. There is reasonable ground for the suspicion that Mr. Cleveland has already appointed a confidential agent, and that the man is now in Cuba.

Some very ludicrous suggestions have been made as to who will be given that vacancy in the supreme court, but the most ludicrous of them all is that which came this week from some Southern Democrats in favor of Representative Thomas C. Catchings, of Mississippi—"Shoe-string Tom," one of the originators and principal beneficiaries of crooked election methods in the South. In the eyes of most people "Shoe-string Tom" has not a single qualification for a seat upon the bench of our highest court, but he has one trait which in Mr. Cleveland's eyes may make up for all that he lacks—he is a cuckoo of the most pronounced breed.

Secretary Morton is the one member of the administration who is open in his advocacy of free trade. That's why he has been so anxious that Mexican cattle should be admitted free, under the pretense of injuring the beef trust. He has been loud in his claims that this was in the interests of the farmers, particularly. Just now the mail of the Department of Agriculture is burdened with protests from farmers who raise cattle, against the free admission of Mexican cattle. Evidently the American farmers think they know what is to their interest better than the free trade secretary of Agriculture does.

Mr. Castle, the new Hawaiian minister, who has been in Washington for ten days, but who has not yet been officially received as such by the administration, denies in the most positive terms the sensational statements contained in a Hawaiian publication brought to the United States on the last steamer, to the effect that the Hawaiian republic was on the verge of dissolution. He says the editor of the publication in question has always been opposed to the republic, and that what he prints is treated with ridicule by the intelligent people on the island. Mr. Castle declines to discuss the reports concerning Japan's desire to obtain possession of the islands, but from other sources it is learned that the members of the Hawaiian government are uneasy concerning what they have learned of Japan's intentions, and that their uneasiness is being constantly added to, by the unruly action of the Japanese on the islands, who appear to be trying to raise a row of some kind in order that the Japanese government may have a reasonable excuse for making demands which could not be complied with, upon Hawaii, and in default seizing the islands, as the English at Corinto a few months ago. According to these stories the Japanese government is counting upon the known hostility of Mr. Cleveland to the present Hawaiian government to prevent any interference with its plans, notwithstanding the resolution adopted by congress saying that the United States would tolerate no interference with Hawaiian affairs by any foreign government. If this be true Japan is making a mistake. Congress will again be in session in a few weeks, and, if necessary, it will compel the administration to make good that resolution.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR.
NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

☞Sold by druggists 75c. Toledo, O.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From The Courier.]

The First National Bank will build a brick building adjoining the bank.

Deputy Revenue Collector, T. B. McManus, of Crookston, was in town on Wednesday.

Bob Slaughter has sold his half section in Huntsville township for $7,500 to the Enright brothers.

John Wyatt, of Crookston, is here to act as secretary of the race meeting which opened yesterday and will continue today.

Three grading outfits came in from the Warren extension yesterday. The injunction proceedings stopped the work short.

An occasional load of potatoes is seen in the market, but present prices are not an incentive to bother with them on an extensive scale.

The work of excavating for the new block will be finished tomorrow evening. Owing to the great number of stumps encountered the work was delayed somewhat.

The construction train which has been in charge of Conductor Donner will probably be laid up for a few days at least, until the injunction case is settled by Judge Ives. Track-laying on the Warren branch was progressing very well.

Weather prophets predict rain. There is a growing suspicion that they keep an eye on the dates of East Forks race meetings and figure their prognostications accordingly. If a horse race here don't bring rain a protracted drought may surely be expected.

Information has been lodged at the probate court charging John Sanders a brother of Thomas Sanders, with being insane. Saturday last a deputy sheriff was dispatched from Crookston to this city with orders to at once seize Mr. Sanders and remove him to the county seat for inspection by the insanity board. Mr. Sanders got wind of the deputy's presence and left the city on a late train for other points.

But four weeks yet remain in which to do the plowing, and many farmers are away behind in their work, owing in great measure to the unusually large crop, which requires much attention.

From 40 acres Martin Meranger threshed 775 bushels of flax, which he sold for 85 cents per bushel, amounting to $628.75, which evidently is better than raising wheat at 45 cents per bushel. But if a majority of the farmers should go into the flax raising business the demand would react against the price.

Human life is held too cheaply when the individual who needs a tonic for his system, seeks to cover his wants by purchasing every new mixture that is recommended to him. Remember that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a well-earned reputation of fifty year's standing.

[From the Advocate.]

Geese and ducks are getting more plentiful on the sloughs and inland lakes.

Blind Pigs have been squealing unusually loud throughout N. D. the last few weeks. Some of the owners will be obliged to confess that prohibition does prohibit when they are brought in guilty at the district court.

Prof. O, McCrillis, our popular superintendent of schools, was in the city yesterday, and as usual made our office a friendly call. Such gentlemen as Mr. McCrillis are always well received in East Grand Forks as well as elsewhere.

A most distressing accident occured about 14 miles east from here at the beginning of the week. A man named R. Scott while oiling the cylinder of a threshing machine got his arm caught between the belt and the pulley which broke and lacerated it very badly. The injured member was dressed by Dr. Campbell of Grand Forks.

McINTOSH ITEMS.

[From The Tribune.

Mabel Hunt, the 4-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hunt, died at 11 o'clock this forenoon. The little one had suffered from typhoid fever a number of days, and a week ago seemed to be recovering, but later, in spite of the best medical skill, and careful nursing, she passed away.

L. Gjere, the local agent for the Andrews & Gage elevator, has been transferred to a larger elevator at Hatton, N. D., and H. Helgeson has been engaged as agent for the elevator at McIntosh. This comes in the shape of a promotion to Mr. Gjere, and though his many friends would like to have him stay, they are pleased to hear that he can do better. A better man than Mr. Helgeson could not have been found to take Mr. Gjere's place. Past experience shows that he gives thorough satisfaction to the farmers. Mr. Gage was here Tuesday to make the transfer.

EUCLID ITEMS.

Miss Florence Nelson spent Wednesday, of last week, in Crookston.

Mrs. Robert Casmey visited friends in Crookston, last week.

G. N. Land Collector, Otto Synnestvedt, was in town last Wednesday.

Miss Fannie Casmey entertained a party of young friends at her home, Friday evening, in honor of her eighteenth birthday.

A separator belonging to Robt. Casmey, together with a part of two stacks of wheat belonging to H. Wiedeman, in whose field the machine was at work, were destroyed by fire, last Saturday. It occurred at the noon hour while the crew were at dinner and the fireman was left alone in charge of the engine. The fire originated from a pile of ashes left from a previous setting, and aided by the strong wind, rapidly spread to the separator and stacks before the fireman could check it.

Prof. Williams, now with Stone & Columbus, Crookston, was in town Saturday.

M. Z. Epperson, of Grand Forks, was over the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Misner drove over to Grand Forks, Saturday.

Chas. W. Latta, of Crookston, wheeled up, Monday, and spent an hour or so in town mending a broken wheel.

Fire destroyed between twenty and twenty-five acres of wheat in the shock, belonging to Henry Willers, about noon, Tuesday last. It was with difficulty that Mr. Willers, with the aid of neighbors, succeeded in saving his buildings from destruction.

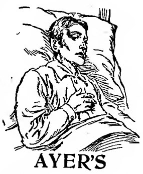
Deputy Sheriff Johnson was in town, Monday.

Constable Bloom and N. J. Nelson, of Crookston, were up the fore part of the week.

Miss Maggie Kingston came down from Warren, Monday night, with a full line of fashionable millinery and will be found in the rooms over H. C. Misner & Co's. store. Miss Kingston will spend a week in our vicinity.

Fred Tiedt came down from Argyle, Monday, and returned in the evening.

Mr. Strander, of the firm of Christianson & Strander, of Crookston, was a pleasant caller in town, Tuesday.



AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
SAVED HIS LIFE

So says Mr. T. M. Read, a highly-respected Merchant of Middletown, Ill., of a Young Man who was supposed to be in Consumption.

"One of my customers, some years ago, had a son who had all the symptoms of consumption. The usual medicines afforded him no relief, and he steadily failed until he was unable to leave his bed. His mother applied to me for some remedy and I recommended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The young man took it according to directions, and soon began to improve until he became well and strong."—T. M. REED, Middletown, Ill.

"Some time ago, I caught a severe cold, my throat and lungs were badly inflamed, and I had a terrible cough. It was supposed that I was a victim of consumption, and my friends had little hope of recovery. But I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, took it, and was entirely cured. No doubt, it saved my life."—I. JONES, Emerts Cove, Tenn.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
Received Highest Awards
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Your Heart's Blood
Is the most important part of your organism. Three-fourths of the complaints to which the system is subject are due to impurities in the blood. You can, therefore, realize how vital it is to Keep It Pure

For which purpose nothing can equal S.S.S. It effectually removes all impurities, cleanses the blood thoroughly and builds up the general health.

Our Treatise on Blood and Skin diseases mailed Free to any address.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

WARM shoes at the Fair store.

Women's felt shoes at The Fair.

Dan Sully is booked for Oct. 24th.

Gent's felt shoes at the Fair store.

Jailor Lawrence was up to Erskine Sunday.

Geo. Winne was in the city on Wednesday.

H. B. Laughlin was up from Fisher on Sunday.

G. F. Carpenter went out to Fosston this week.

C. C. Strander went north on the flyer on Tuesday.

Frank Ceruousek was in from Tabor, on Monday,

Judge C. M. Benson spent Sundy at the town of Knute.

J. S. Broslngton, of Fargo was in the city on Wednesday.

Chas. Borden was in from Red Lake Falls on Sunday.

Hugh Robertson took a ride on Sunday, as far as Fisher.

Gomer Evans and wife came down from Angus on Wednesday.

Surveyor W. F. Arnold is up north this week on a surveying trip.

Geo. Brunelle was in the city from Red Lake Falls on Wednesday.

Joris C. Norby, of the Ada Herald, was in the city on Sabbath day.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Wees were down from Warren shopping last week.

Louis Bergquist drove a drummer to Fisher on Wednesday afternoon.

E. J. Haseltine was one of the Euclid farmers in the city on Monday.

Dr. Putnam was up from Superior, Wis., this week looking for a location.

Pat Soard, living near Wylie lost two settings of wheat by fire last week.

Wheat at elevator 46 cents this week. Track-buyers pay 2 cents more.

R. A. Wilkinson and wife, St. Paul, are registered at Hotel Crookston this week.

O. L. Larson passed through here on Wednesday morning on his way home from St. Paul.

The Fair has just received a large invoice of fall and winter shoes that will be sold at lowest prices.

Lewis Ellington took a drive out in the country on Wednesday behind one of Collins' light steppers.

Before you buy your shoes be sure and look over the large stock at the Fair store and let us quote you our prices.

In the case of Engseth vs. the Great Northern argued by Atty. Steenerson on Saturday the motion for a new trial was denied.

Rember that Dr. H. J. Riesland, the eye specialist, is now at the Commercial Hotel and will only remain over Monday Oct. 21st.

Mrs. Carrie Netland died at the hospital on Monday. She has been a county charge for some time and recently suffered an amputation of one limb on account of disease.

Geo. Ralph was summoned to his brother's bed-side in Red Lake Falls on Monday by a dispatch announcing a change for the worse in his brother's condition and left immediately.

Lovely Indian summer weather these days. There hasn't been much of a chance to grumble about the weather this fall. Hardly a day has passed that threshing or plowing could not be done and yet there's lot's of plowing to do.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, which has outlived and superseded hundreds of similar preparations, is undoubtedly the most fashionable as well as economical hair-dressing in the market. By its use, the poorest head of hair soon becomes luxuriant and beautiful.

The man Evans, who shot his wife and then himself at Alexandria last week was a resident of this city for awhile, running as a brakesman on the Great Northern road. They were married in Dakota but did not live happily together and a divorce suit resulted.

A big time was had over at the residence of A. Viau, in the 5th ward on Tuesday evening. During the evening a horse was raffled off and won by Louis Filardeau of the town of Lambert. Dancing engaged the attention of the guests till an early hour on Wednesday morning.

Reports of losses by fire seem more numerous this fall than ever before. Not long since the JOURNAL had a report from Euclid that a Mr. Nelson lost nearly all his stacks and his house and now comes the report that he has lost more stacks in the town of Fanny. John O'Brecht in the same town also had some stacks burned and hardly a day passes that some case is not reported.

WARM shoes at the Fair store.

H. L. Gaylord was up from Fertile on Monday.

Geo. Q. Erskine went out along the Fosston line, last week.

Capt. Compton came in on the morning train on Tuesday and went north to Warren.

The Judge of Probate of Otter Tail county was visiting with Judge Benson on Monday.

Hubert Plowman has been busy this week stringing more wire for the telephone people.

Sheriff Eckman, of Renville county was up last week visiting with sheriff Steenerson.

Charlie Duval is said to have lost four stacks of wheat by fire, on his farm in Russia, on Saturday.

The new Edison machines for the power house have arrived and are being put in place this week.

S. B. Palmer let the light of his genial countenance shine on change during the day on Wednesday.

Gilbert M. Walker came up from Minneapolis last week to settle up the season's business at the big saw-mill.

Mrs. I. U. Jennings makes a specialty of human hair goods—the only establishment in the city that does.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Silver came over from Grand Forks, on Sunday, to bury their infant child that died on Saturday.

The Rebeca McKenzie concert company was greeted by a small house on Monday evening and well deserved a very much larger.

Mrs. Geo. W. Lewis returned this week from Bellevue, Iowa where she went last week with the remains of her husband for burial.

Comrade L. Loughridge of Warren was in the city this week. Says the crops are so big it will bother most farmers to save them all.

Rev. Wm. Hansen will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church next Sabbath for the first time and thus enter upon his work with this people.

A stimulant is often needed to nourish and strengthen the roots and to keep the hair a natural color. Hall's Hair Renewer is the best tonic for the hair.

Ole Bjoin last week bought 75 feet fronting on Robert street (in front of the old St. Louis hotel) and intends to excavate for the cellar this fall and erect a large livery barn next spring.

There should be a large attendance at the Post meeting on Friday evening next, as the plans for dedication are to be discussed and arrangments made. All who are interested should turn out.

On Monday afternoon G. S. Chesterman received a dispatch from John Sandsten at Tacoma instructing him to bury the body of his nephew August Sandsten who shot himself Sunday and he would settle the bill.

L. H. Filiatrault, Felix Fournet, Frank Gruvel and Alex Thompson were a jolly quartette that started for Roseau county on Tuesday to hunt Indians and wild geese. They will look after business on the side.

As the new pastor of the M. E. church could not be here last Sabbath Rev. L. W. Squier was invited to occupy the pulpit and he preached two very excellent sermons, which were listened to by very large audiences.

Mrs. Toupin, a lady nearly seventy years of age was brought before Judge Benson on Tuesday on information of insanity. She was committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls.

J. M. Palmer was in from Angus on Saturday and did not neglect to run in and set that subscription ahead a peg—says he couldn't keep house without the JOURNAL—and so say they all of 'em.

The Jolly Rovers met the Belmont Terrors on the diamond on Monday for the last game of the season and lost by a score of 10 to 6. Darkness put an end to the sport before the game was completed.

Great danger of fires from thresher engines exist these windy days and fires are very frequent this fall. Too much care can not be exercised in handling the engines as an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Comrade B. Rackliff, who has the contract for carrying the mail between this city and Thief River Falls has a lot of hay put up near the old Huzzy place and recently has missed some of it from his stacks. Saturday he found an individual in the neighborhood of the hay with a hay-rigging and appearances seeming to warrant it, the comrade proceeded to read the riot act vigorously. Whereat the party of the first part pulled his coat and made some vigorous demonstrations but comrade Rackliff was not so easily bluffed even if he has only got one arm and off came his coat also. The man subsided and drove off with his team.

An Early Lesson

It's all right to let the little girls have an early introduction to

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

It will not only make their clothes clean but when in late years the cares of the household come they will know best how to meet them. There are a great many women who have learned a lesson of economy and cleanliness by the use of Santa Claus. Sold everywhere. Made only by

The N. K. Fairbank Company, - Chicago.

The building occupied by M. E. Kirsch is being moved to a site adjoining Dr. Thomas' dental rooms and will be occupied by the Great Northern land agent.

The remains of the late Mrs. Carrie Netland were laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery, on Wednesday, the ladies of the United Lutheran society defraying the expense.

Mrs. Ed. Schreader received the sad news that her father had been stricken with apoplexy and was not expected to live. She left on Tuesday evening for her old home in Wisconsin.

James Way was run in on Monday night and on Tuesday was brought before the justice who assessed him $10 on a charge of attempting to pick a pocket and then resisting arrest.

Comrade W. D. Carlton spent the Sabbath with his family in the city, returning Monday morning. G. C. Winchester is about to build a new house and W. D. expects to play an important part in the construction thereof.

The case of Chas. Lusbler, charged with attempt to defraud in that he hired a horse of Martin, the liveryman, and failed to return with it quite on time came up before Judge Holt on Saturday. The evidence failed to convict and he was discharged.

Chris Houston intended to commence threshing on Monday morning, but the weather looked so threatening that he concluded to wait a day or so, especially as Mat Cornelius had some threshing at his barn in Jerome's addition that didn't make a dif o' bitterence if whether it rain or shine, so Chris gave way and Mat got threshed—i. e., his grain did, and Chris will proceed to pound out the golden, (weather permitting,) next week.

John Nelson was brought before Judge Benson, on Saturday, for examination as to his sanity. He had been found cruelly beating a poor horse that was unable to get upon its feet and on examination it was found that the horse was fearfully burned, probably purposely done to make him get up. Nelson was brought to town and the examination began on Saturday and was continued until Monday. Upon the testimony given the judge did not feel warranted in committing Nelson, who seems to be only a weak-minded man. The horse that had been so cruelly maltreated, died.

-H. B. Budd was up from Beltrami last week and reported that the elevator capacity at that place was tested beyond its capacity to respond and that the crying need of the hour was for more cars.

No more for this season will the big whistle at the saw mill wake the echoes at morn, at noon and dewy eve for on Friday the last log of last winter's cut was sawed up and on Saturday the men were paid off and discharged for the season. Crookston would miss that institution if for any reason it should fail to start up again.

Dr. Q. A. Low is up from Wabasha looking after his farming operations here. Doc is one of our old settlers, even he does live in Wabasha county. He came here in the early day and took a claim near what was then only the future site of Crookston and in due time proved up and went back, but he has always kept his land and farmed it, coming up in the fall of each year to look after it. He now has a very valuable farm and (probably) would not take $50 per acre for it.

The Great Northern employes will all be dressed in "unicorns," (as we heard one brakey say to another yesterday: "Say, Jack, have you heerd the latest? The Great Nothing is a puttin' on of great lugs an' all the fellers on that line will hev to wear unicorns hereafter!") One of the new rules requires all in the employ of that road to be dressed in uniforms and prescribes what they shall wear. The road will furnish the clothes at cost price and the men must buy and wear them when on duty. The brakesmen will be required to have badges.

WANTED SALESMEN. Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes.

A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple is warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Our Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.

NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN. L. L. MAY & CO. St. Paul, Minn.

[23-30]

Prof. McCrillis gives notice of teachers' examination that is to occur at Crookston on Oct. 25 and Red Lake Falls on Oct. 26.

Henry Steege showed up in good form on Thursday morning—as handsome as ever. Intends to stay a fortnight or so looking up old business matters.

M. E. Kirsch has moved his office into the Reckitt block.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jeweler.

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

"One Price and That Right."

SOME TIME
SOME PLACE
SOME ONE

MAY make you as good an offer as one of our Men's All Wool Suits at $9.00 or a Ladies' Sheared Astrachan Fur Jacket at $25.00—Prints at 4c. a yard—and Unbleached Muslin at 3c. We dont deny the possibility, but we think it's far from probable. Holding up here and there an article as a bargain is one thing and keeping up an entire stock on the highest level of quality and lowest level of prices is quite another.

Here, you always get the the biggest variety to choose from, and the largest best and foremost firm in Red River Valley gives you it's guarantee that everything will be right.

For instance:

27c. a yard for All-Wool 38-inch Dress Flannel that have never sold for less than 40c.

59c. Impossible Henrietta, that is, Henrietta that seems impossible at the price. Fine Twill—close grain—silk finish and 48 inches of width. 85c. seems a small price for so good material.

At 79c.

We have 180 pairs of Women's Kid Gloves—a traveler's sample line—$1.00—$1.25 and $1.50 a pair if bought in the ordinary way. They are here—while they last 79c. all sizes no blacks.

At $5.75.

We have bunched together Four Broken Lots of Ladies' Newest Cloaks—our best sellers—the $7.00—$7.50 and $8.00 kind and are selling them at $5.75. They have the newest sleeve—two button box front and ripple back.

Don't think that we havn't all that's necessary to meet the coming cold weather just because we don't mention it in our Ads.

Every Department is full of seasonable Bargain Goods—Bargains in Dry Goods—Bargains in Clothing—Bargains in Crockery—Bargains in Groceries and Bargains in Boots & Shoes.

All orders by mail promptly and conscientiously attended to.

Fontaine & Anglim, Crookston Minn., the leading and largest Store in the Red River Valley.

Mrs H. Thompson
Essex, Minn.

Pains in the Side

Could Not Eat or Sleep

Hood's Gave Perfect Relief—Cannot Praise it too Much.

"I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla and what it has done for me. Last spring I was taken sick and when I recovered from my illness I had a dreadful pain in my right side which was greatly swollen. Pains in my stomach also caused me so much suffering that I could not eat or sleep. I became and life was a burden to me. After a few doses of Hood's Sarsaparilla I realized it was helping me. I have now taken four bottles and am no longer troubled with pains in my side and stomach. I can eat heartily and sleep well at night. I feel better in every way than for years previous. I never tire of praising Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. THOMPSON, Essex, Minnesota.

Like a Skeleton

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25c.

Conductor Ditty had an experience with a hobo at Stephen on Friday that lays him up for awhile. As the train was pulling out he discovered a man snugly ensconsed on a brake beam and ordered him out. The man showed fight, then Ditty put in the best kind of a remonstrance handy at the time which was a blow from his fist which broke a finger that Ditty had hitherto been rather proud of. He is now enjoying a furlough while he nurses his broken finger—and his wrath against every member of the hobo fraternity. He will try a club next time he has occasion to expel a hobo from his train.

Intelligence was received here on Saturday of the sudden death at Tacoma, of Jos. Laurence, a former resident of this city. He was at one time engaged in the clothing business and built the building on Main street known as Laurence hall, that was later moved further up the street to a point that is now opposite M. R. Brown's livery stable and was occupied by D. N. Taylor in his elevator business. He was later connected with the late A. M. Stewart, in the hardware business, then in the lumber business and a few years ago went to Tacoma. He was a comparatively young man, not being over 45 or 47 years old.

A call at the millinery parlors of Miss Helen Halvorsen, on Wednesday evening, found that lady busy showing the pretty hats to several customers. To the inquiry as to the state of trade she replied that it had been very good since the opening event, "and," said she, "we are selling more goods than ever before at this time of year." As our reporter looked over the tasty array of dainty hats he did not wonder that such fairy-like creations would sell "like hot cakes," especially when they are not so awfully high priced this fall.

On Tuesday afternoon as Mr. Bradshaw was delivering a load of coal at the Boston One Price Clothing house his team took fright at something, jumped sideways and upset the apple cart quicker'n you could say Jack Robinson or any other man. The driver got the leathers in his possession just as quick, however, and by the time the team had kicked loose from the dray, he was right on deck with a handful of tramps. One of the horses played a lone hand with his hind heels for the space of several minutes and the way that horse did jump and kick would have made the wildest kind of a wild broncho just furious with envy. But the driver hung to him like cuckleburr till the matinee closed and when the "game" was finally called the only damage done was summed up in an overturned dray and about one-half ton of coal scattered about the streets promiscuously, which damage was very soon repaired.

Roseau County Times:—Messrs. Ben Clements, A. G. Anderson, T. G. Thompson, A. C. Smith, of Crookston and Mike Holm made up a hunting party to Roseau Lake. They left for the lake Sunday afternoon, well equipped for ducks and geese. Monday evening Sheriff Durham drove Judge Ives to their camp, where the Judge put in the evening and morning shooting, returning in time to open court at 10 a m. The hunting party returned Wednesday noon, bringing with them the spoils of their sport, six geese, a big pile of ducks and a few partridges. The boys were jubilant of their sport and the good time they had. They all left on the Wednesday stage for Crookston.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

☞NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.
The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

For Sale Cheap

If you want a good farm, right adjoining the experimental farm at first price call at the JOURNAL office for particulars. This farm has good artesian well, 15 acres natural timber and balance in crop. Will sell it with or without half interest in the crop now growing thereon. A snap for somebody. [15tf]

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.
Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

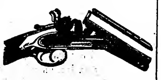
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,



PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Choke-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5, with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis...........
8	Neuralgia Toothache, Faceache.....
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods..........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding...............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough,...................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing.......
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases,.................
28	Nervous Debility.....................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker...............
30	Urinary Weakness,..................
31	Painful Periods........................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

LIGHT AND AIRY.

An Old Time Novel.

A pretty girl
With wavy curl,
An evening party somewhat late,
A homeward walk,
A loving talk,
A kissing tableau at the gate.
A moonlight night,
A hand squeezed tight,
A little reference to papa,
A little kiss,
A little bliss,
A consultation with mamma.
A little church,
"For bad or worse
You take this maid your wife to be!"
A trembling yes,
A loving press,
A little wife to live with me.
—Williams' Weekly.

Tales of Terror.

They were telling war stories.

Brown—I ate mule meat once for three days.

Smith—I was seven months a prisoner at Andersonville.

Jones—Well, gentlemen, I wasn't in the war, but I've spent 19 years in boarding houses.—Chicago Record.

The Mournful Consideration.

Ah, this dolce far niente, with its leisure hours a-plenty,
When the mercury is rising in the glass,
All life's torrid griefs forgetting in the oscillating netting
Of the hammock as it sweeps the waving grass!

How we generously pity those who summer in the city
While we quaff the breezes from the hill or hay!
Oh, this dolce far niente! But, alas, it costs you twenty
Every day the gentle landlord lets you stay!
—Washington Star.

Anticipated His Readers.

"My hero dies in the middle of my last story," said the young author.

"That's a grave mistake," replied the editor. "He should not die before the reader does. I've heard of three men who actually finished your book before they gave in."—Atlanta Constitution.

What Did It.

His eyes had a dull, unintelligent stare.
He staggered and turned from the desk in a daze.
Bewilderingly through his disordered hair
His fingers he ran, while he uttered such phrase
As only a tottering mind would invent.
Was he drunk? Had he rashly and recklessly tried
Some knockout concoction, with deadly intent?
Oh, no! He'd been reading a Traveler's Guide.
—Richmond Dispatch.

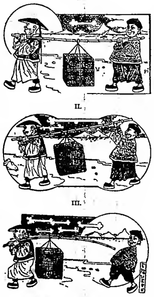
Unfair.

Lawyer For the Defense—I charge the prosecution with attempting to intimidate our witness, Mr. Enpec.

Lawyer For the Prosecution—What have we done?

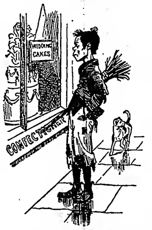
Lawyer For the Defense—Allowed his wife to visit him.—Exchange.

Behind His Back.



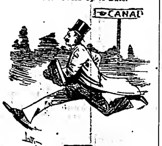
—From the German.

Bliss!



"Lor, fancy eatin' a cake like that and gettin married both on the same day!"
—Judy.

Mother Goose Up to Date.



Tom, Tom, the swiper's son,
Stole some cash, and away he run.
He struck a gait
For Canada straight,
And he hasn't been heard from up to date.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

[illegible] It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled . . . . .

Sinners Twain

And, it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may . .

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

MINNESOTA CENSUS

INCREASE OF NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION IN POPULATION

During the Past Five Years—Every County Contributes to the Total Increase, None Showing Loss—North Half Gained Most Rapidly.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30.—The state census bureau has issued a bulletin showing the population of the entire state by counties. The aggregate gain during the past five years is 271,524. The growth in the Sixth congressional district, embracing the new mining districts and the lumber region is 44 per cent, while that in the western portion, comprising the Second and Seventh congressional districts, show a gain of 25 per cent. The southeastern portion of the state, the oldest section, shows a strong gain. Some of the oldest counties, which had shown a decrease during the preceding five years have regained all that they had lost and more. Following are the figures for the state:

	1895.	Gain
Aitkin	5,224	2,7.2
Anoka	11,181	1,297
Becker	11,052	1,6.1
Beltrami	1,3.4	1,032
Benton	7,693	1,509
Big Stone	7,530	1,808
Blue Earth	32,303	3,0.3
Brown	18,431	2,814
Carlton	7,458	2,186
Carver	17,567	1,03.
Cass	8,425	2,178
Chippewa	10,895	2,250
Chisago	13,118	2,759
Clay	15,154	6,637
Cook	427	39
Cottonwood	10,167	2,7.5
Crow Wing	11,561	2,709
Dakota	21,345	1,10.
Dodge	12,753	1,889
Douglas	16,942	2,336
Faribault	20,189	3,431
Fillmore	28,599	2,683
Freeborn	21,138	3,176
Goodhue	32,268	3,462
Grant	7,987	1,112
Hennepin	217,796	32,504
Houston	15,640	993
Hubbard	2,447	1,035
Isanti	10,195	2,588
Itasca	3,967	3,224
Jackson	12,416	3,492
Kanabec	2,714	1,135
Kandiyohi	16,402	2,405
Kittson	6,288	901
Lac qui Parle	12,634	2,3.2
Lake	2,211	912
Le Sueur	20,915	1,858
Lincoln	7,196	1,505
Lyon	12,425	2,9..
McLeod	19,136	2,11.
Marshall	12,072	2,942
Martin	13,933	4,580
Meeker	17,389	1,933
Mille Lacs	5,129	2,284
Morrison	19,163	5,835
Mower	21,516	3,527
Murray	9,322	2,630
Nicollet	14,299	917
Nobles	11,905	3,947
Norman	13,470	2,852
Olmsted	21,316	1,510
Otter Tail	40,003	5,770
Pine	6,631	4,5.9
Pipestone	7,115	1,983
Polk	39,171	6,979
Pope	11,627	1,595
Ramsey	147,537	7,741
Redwood	13,632	4,246
Renville	21,816	4,719
Rice	26,838	2,870
Rock	8,597	1,750
*Roseau	3,493	3,493
St. Louis	77,487	32,025
Scott	16,494	2,663
Sherburne	6,357	449
Sibley	10,438	1,237
Stearns	41,612	6,768
Steele	15,618	2,586
Stevens	6,543	1,292
Swift	11,846	1,685
Todd	17,674	4,744
Traverse	6,064	1,548
Wabasha	18,587	1,615
Wadena	6,078	2,023
Waseca	14,713	1,400
Washington	27,417	1,425
Watonwan	10,203	2,516
Wilkin	6,400	2,054
Winona	37,134	3,3.7
Wright	27,858	3,489
Yellow Medicine	12,581	2,727
Totals	1,573,350	271,524

MINNESOTA NEWS NOTES

Typhoid fever is raging at Sandstone.

Fire damaged the Fountain House at Grand Rapids to the extent of $1,000.

The triennial Episcopal convention of the United States has convened at Minneapolis.

An addition to the Amboy elevator burst, letting out 10,000 bushels of grain.

Fire damaged the Minneapolis chamber of commerce building to the amount of $30,000.

Free Baptists of the country are holding their triennial conference at Winnebago City.

An Old Settlers' association has been formed at Worthington. Dan Shell was elected president.

The Minnesota Methodist conference voted in favor of admitting women to the general conference.

Receipts of wheat at Duluth for September were about 10,000,000 bushels. Nearly double the receipts for September last year.

George McCoy from Kandiyohi county has been returned to the state reformatory for breaking his parole. He was caught in Wisconsin.

Three barns were burned at Mankato Sunday night. Twenty-one horses were cremated. A fourth fire was started, but gained little headway. Mankato people are busy looking for the firebug.

The normal temperature for October according to the St. Paul weather bureau, has averaged 47 degrees for 24 years. The highest average was 58 degrees in 1894 and the lowest 42 degrees in 1887.

*Judge Kerr of the Ramsey county district court has decided the "Steenerson wheat rate case," reversing the order of the state railroad and warehouse commission, establishing certain freight rates on grain. This is a victory for the Great Northern road.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS
THROUGH CARS
TO
St. Paul,
Minneapoli
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Fork
and winnipe

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CA
ELEGANT DINING CA
TOURIST SLEEPING CA

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, ma and tickets, call on write Tick Agent. N. P. R. R. at Crookston, o

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Min

Hi, There!

DO YOU WAN

The Choicest Cut

At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's Ne

MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of eve kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway CROOKST

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-La

Practices in all the courts. Office over F taine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Ban

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,00
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,00

Transacts a General Banking Busine

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collection

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON............Preside
L. ELLINGTON............Vice Preside
J. W. WHEELER............Cash
A. P. HANSON............Assistant Cash

THE PIONEER

HARNES SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the tra
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOT

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.

Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

FREE!

320 PAGE ILLUSTRATE

One of the best Co Books published. It co tains recipes for all kin of cooking. Also depa ments on Medicine, quette, and Toilet recip Indexed for handy re ence.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LI HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrapp and a 2-cent Stamp.
Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Ga etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. Huron & Stree TOLEDO, O

I. STEENERSON,

Attorney-at-Law.

rookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,

Attorney-at-Law

eckitt B ock, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

RADUATE——

McGill University, Montreal.

Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.

Office in McKinnon Block.

F ICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

overnor .... David M. Clough eutenant Governor........ Frank A. Da cretary of State........ F. P. Brown torney General........ H. W. Childs

Congressional.

ember of Congress, 7th dist... Frank M. Eddy

nator 51st Sen. dist........ P. M. Ringdal presentatives 51st Sen. dist... John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

ief Justice .... Charles M Start sociate Justices Supreme Court........ Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
dge 14th Jud. Dist .... Frank Ives erk of Court........ John Vig

County.

ditor........ John Oleason
easurer........ J. T. Beaudry gister of Deeds........ A. N. Wickstrom torney........ L. E. Oossman eriff........ Andrew Steenerson dge of Probate........ C. M. Benson pt. of Schools........ O. McCrillis rveyor .... O. L. Hamery roner........ John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

rst District........ John E. Oppegaard cond District........ Anton Lindem ird District........ M. E. Kirsch
urth District........ Henry Norland
fth District........ A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

ayor .... John McKinnon
erk........ W. A. Lanctot
Office in McKinnon Block.
easurer........ Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
mptroller........ August Ocorg sessor........ C. H. Mix ty Attorney........ Martin O'Brien ty Engineer........ George Ralph ty Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
nstables........ A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom.
ief of Police........ Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

Large........ C. E. Sawyer
rst Ward........ A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Buhn cond " .... J. E. Morrisey, R. C. Davis ird " .... Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch urth " .... N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz fth " .... A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town erks for the several towns in Polk ounty:

adover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
agus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
ack River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
ay	C C Ecklund	Wylie
adger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
andsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
elgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
islet	A P Frank	Warren
ygland	....	....
rookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
rookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
olumbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
hester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
enardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
uclid	H C Misner	Euclid
len	Neri A Skefe	Olga
sther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
airfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
arley	W A Lambert	Warren
aony	J O McWaters	Euclid
isher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
isher, vil	....	....
ertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
. Forks, city	....	....
arfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
arden	John Hanson	Ringdal
entilly	H T Gondrou	Gentilly
ervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
rand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
odfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
ammond	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
igdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
ill River	Fred S Syverson	Lindsay
ubbard	Andrew Moreson	Neilsville
eystone	D M Geddes	Beckersville
untsville	G H Frosts	G Forks
ertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
ing	....	....
nute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
ake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
ambert	Samuel Olsean	Lambert
iberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
essor	Chas Matteson	Ovetla
owell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
oulsville	A D Berry	Huot
esbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
orth	Henry Bye	T R Falls
orden	H D Baerdson	T R Falls
orthland	M S Merager	E G Forks
umedal	Hesmer E Albue	Twedt
nstad	W A Marin	Melvin
arnell	S W Bleau	Huot
oplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
olk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
ucen	Hens S Houkom	Fosston
L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
ed Lake Falls	Ildafg Sarll	R L Falls
els	D C Hallock	Edna
lver Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
ocksburg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
oome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
osecud	John E Juverud	Fosston
ussia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	OE
anders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
andsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
t. Hilaire	....	....
etten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
ullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
abor	F J Cernousek	Tabor
errebonne	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
ilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale,
nd	....	....
inland	....	....
inger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
oodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
yandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
R Falls	Lars Backe	T R Falls

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynae's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

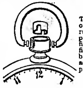
Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 0, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

Here's the Idea

Of the Non-pull-out Bow

The great watch saver. Saves the watch from thieves and falls—cannot be pulled off the case—costs nothing extra.



The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

Can only be had with cases stamped with this trade mark.

Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases are now fitted with this great bow (ring). They look and wear like solid gold cases. Cost only about half as much, and are guaranteed for twenty years. Sold only through watch dealers. Remember the name

Non-pull-out

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S

FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS. A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

THIS BRAND

IS AN ABSOLUTE

Guarantee

OF Excellence

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG CO
Established 1835.

EVERY GENUINE

HUNT'S AXE

IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

It sets people chewing— Lorillard's Climax Plug.

It is prepared with the utmost care and skill from the choicest leaf grown; possessing a flavor and substance that makes it dear to the heart of every tobacco chewer. It is made by the oldest tobacco manufacturers in America, and the largest in the world, and cannot be excelled. Try it. You'll agree with the many thousand discriminating chewers who use it exclusively, and pronounce it much the best. It's Lorillard's.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

GOVERNOR CLOUGH STOPPED THE NEEDHAM-MOORE FIGHT.

Business in Mineral Land Leases Lively. New Capitol Commission Will Meet Oct. 22 to Select Plans—Sons of the Revolution High School Contest.

Minneapolis flour mill employes have had a raise in wages.

The Presbyterian state synod, which met at Winona, has adjourned.

The state auditor's office has sent out cruisers to examine lands to fill state grants.

A New Paynesville farmer threshed 86 acres of oats that averaged 70 bushels per acre.

The Minnesota University foot ball team defeated the St. Paul Boat club eleven 6 to 0.

The repairing shop of the Minnesota Railway Transfer company, at St. Paul, were completely destroyed by fire.

The St. Paul Commercial club has issued a call for a Northwestern irrigation conference Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

M. Schrunke went hunting on the river near Winona. He was robbed of his gun and boat, being badly beaten.

Comptroller of the currency Eckels has asked for information about state banks which failed during the panic.

The state investment board has ratified Treasurer Koerner's purchase of $200,000 worth of government bonds.

At West Concord burglars attempted to blow open the safe in the Great Western depot but were not successful.

Stock raising has become quite an industry around New Paynesville. One day last week 10 cars of young cattle were shipped out.

The Temple opera house at Duluth was destroyed by fire, together with several thousand dollars worth of Masonic Paraphernalia.

Considerable interest is being evinced in the proposed mid-continent fair now being agitated by St. Paul and Minneapolis commercial bodies.

The total enrollment of the Catholic parochial schools of St. Paul is 6,021. It is expected that by Nov. 1 this total will have been increased 300 or 400.

Attorney General Childs has gone to Washington to argue the case of the state against the Winona and St. Peter Land company in the supreme court.

Since Aug. 1, 70 mineral leases have been granted by the state auditor's office, and with the exception of three they are all in the Vermillion country.

A threshing engine near Minnesota Lake blew up, killing four men. The dead are Joseph Schumacher, Jasper Malatte and two others, names unknown.

The contest between Dick Moore and Danny Needham, advertised to occur on Sunday afternoon, did not take place, owing to the interference of Governor Clough.

Governor Clough has pardoned the Floyd brothers, who were companions of Phil Scheig, and who were convicted of having assisted in the embezzlement of funds.

The Red River valley drainage commission approved the bond of McDonald and Kennedy, the contractors who have engaged to construct ditches in Clay, Wilkin and Marshall counties.

Harry Hayward the convicted murderer of Catherine Ging had planned a trip to Africa. He was too confidential and was betrayed to to the jail officials. A large sum of money was found on his person and in his cell.

Harry Hayward has assigned all his interest in the Ging insurance policies to his father. It is thought that that step was taken that the father might prosecute the claim in case Harry's fate should overtake him.

The state census bureau has completed the enumeration of St. Paul as to the legal voters, soldiers and sailors, of whom it is found that the city has 39,549 votes, 762 old soldiers, 23 sailors and 1 Indian. The returns show that there are 70,385 males and 69,907 females, 138,758 white people, 1,492 colored, 37 Chinese, 1 Japanese and 4 Indians.

The new capitol commission will meet on the 22d inst., and go over the plans for the last time. The meeting may last for several days, and before it is over the chances are that a plan will be agreed upon. The people of St. Paul are very anxious that the matter be settled soon, so that the work on the building may be commenced, and the commission, there being no object in delay, is pushing things.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

Sons of the Revolution Issue a Proclamation.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 15.—The Sons of the Revolution have issued their annual proclamation announcing the subject of the prize essay, open for competition to the pupils of high schools in Minnesota. The subject is the Declaration of Independence, and competing essays must contain between 1,776 and 1896 words, written on one side only of 8x10½ paper, with 1½ inches margin on the left, and signed by a nom de plume. A sealed envelope with the nom de plume on the outside and to contain the writer's real name, address, school and a certificate from the principal that the essay is original, must accompany each essay.

All essays must be mailed to the secretary of the society before Feb. 5, 1896. A committee will receive the essays and the secretary will retain the envelopes containing the writers' real names until the committee has reached a decision, when they will be opened in the presence of the society. The prizes will be awarded at the annual meeting of the society in St. Paul on Washington's birthday. 1896.

Wood Paving.

A nonslipping wood pavement has been recently devised which is claimed to be simple, inexpensive and efficient. It consists in preparing the wooden blocks before they are laid by boring a few holes in them and filling the same with a hard setting substance composed of crushed stone, bitumen and Portland cement. The compound is cleared off even with the surface, and when they are laid the roadway is thus covered with a series of rough spots which arrest the foot of the horse in all conditions of weather, and prevent the animal from slipping. Wood paving is extensively used in England and France.—Northeastern Lumberman.

Realistic.

Critic—Has that painting of yours, "At Work in the Fields," received any favorable comments?

Artist—A rather seedy looking man stopped to look at it today, and he said it made him tired.—Philadelphia Record.

Division of the Sexes.

One of the most remarkable churches is to be found at Frendenthal, in the Black Forest. It is built on such a plan that the men are unable to see the women, and vice versa, for it is composed of two wings, which meet at an angle where the pulpit stands. The right wing is allotted to men, and the left one to the women of the congregation.—Berlin Letter.

Right He Was.

"Now," began the orator, "in considering the money question, let us avoid false issues."

"Right you air," shouted Mr. Fallwheat. "I thort I was buyin $3,000 of 'em once, and it turned out to be sawdust."—Indianapolis Journal.

Man is the merriest, the most joyous of all the species of creation. Above and below him all are serious.—Addison.

The Catawissa river, in Pennsylvania, was named from an Indian word that means "getting fat."

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate. Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

Worthy of Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor strength and health restored to the body.

"Dan's place" means McKinnon's restaurant, every time. The place where you can get one of the best meals in the city for very little wealth.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,

SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skillfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.

Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 0:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.

Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm

Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Anine Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 30 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1895, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 560 duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olaf O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, situated, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November, 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE.
Assignee of said Mortgage.

Moritz Heim.
Attorney for Assignee.
Bank of Minnesota Building.
St. Paul, Minnesota.

[23-29]

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily	For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at	7:25 p. m
	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at	7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust
Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake. Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back sealed day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake. Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humbolt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61. For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	0:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.
Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.
One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

·DR·
PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Prof. Hetler spent Sunday in Crookston.

Miss Lizzie Zarracher spent Sunday with her parents in Crookston.

Will Zutz and Hubert Plowman of Crookston, came down on their bikes Sunday.

Hugh Thompson and A. D. Stephens, of Crookston were perambulating about our streets on Tuesday.

Miss Berry Lankester visited with Gertie and Nettie Gleason at Crookston Sunday.

Will Wagoner's team made things lively by running away Sunday. They were stopped before any damage was done.

FOSSTON ITEMS

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

Owen Nelson of Crookston is in the city.

Sheriff Steenerson was up from Crookston on Thursday.

P. W. Carpenter transacted business at Crookston the first of the week.

W. F. Kelsey, of Crookston, is transacting business in Fosston this week.

T. H. Bjoin, the Crookston hardware merchant, was in the city the first of the week.

Thos. Sweeney, government blacksmith at Rice River, was in town on Monday, and reported everybody making a hustle on the reservation to get the grain in.

Mrs. K. K. Austin, who has been visiting with friends and relatives here for the past two weeks left for her home at Crookston yesterday morning.

J. W. Wheeler, cashier of the First National Bank of Crookston was in Fosston on business yesterday.

Three "matches" have been recently rumored in Fosston, but Fred Wynn and Miss Annie Lee, both well known young people, gave no time for such rumors to circulate about them, and on Thursday at 8:45 p. m., at the residence of Mr. Wm. Cameron they were united in the bonds of matrimony. Rev. Lee W. Squier, officiating. After the ceremony a ball was given in their honor in Larson's hall, and quite a large number of friends tripped the fantastic toe until midnight. Everybody wishes them joy and a life full of happiness, and a good many are wondering whose turn comes next.

Grand Forks Herald: Alex. McKenzie is a staunch advocate of sound money, and argues truly that the 16 to 1 doctrine would prove ruinous to the country, and precipitate the most disastrous financial panic the world has ever known. As Alex. had a mild attack of "silver rabies" less than a year ago, it is a pleasure to note that the healing balm of time has brought about a permanent cure.

The reorganization plan of the Green Bay, Winona and St. Paul railroad has been declared operative.

The navy department announces that the report that all warships would be withdrawn from Hawaii is false.

Under a recent order of the Lackawanna management no card playing of any kind will be permitted on any of its trains hereafter.

Electricity will be employed as the motive power on the Stamford branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, about to be constructed.

Express cars on the through trains of the Wabash are now equipped with "Flock" guns for cases of emergency. This gun shoots a large shell, each of which is loaded with small shot.

A new state armory was dedicated at Decatur, Ills.

Young Griffo and "Kid" Lavigne fought 20 rounds to a draw.

Spain is arming merchant steamers for service in the Cuban war.

Fraud orders have been issued by the postoffice department against the Wonder Stone company of New York.

Secretary Herbert has returned to Washington from Alabama, where he has been making speeches on the financial question.

The Mormon priesthood in Utah has taken its stand in favor of the Republicans, and the Democrats may work to defeat the constitution for the new state.

Wisconsin game wardens seized 5,000 pounds of fish belonging to Oshkosh parties Monday.

Louis Stern will not serve his sentence for insulting a German official, but will forfeit his bail bond.

The Rev. Richard Durnford, bishop of Chichester, died suddenly at Balse, Switzerland, aged 93 years.

The fourth annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes is in session at Detroit.

The German steamer Emma collided with the Pacifique off Spurn Head and the Pacifique sank in 15 minutes. Twelve persons were drowned.

Secretary Herbert has signed the contracts with the Herresoffs for the building of the new torpedo boats recently awarded them after public bidding.

Eastbound shipments from Chicago last week aggregated 88,398 tons, as compared with 79,908 tons for the previous week and 47,388 tons for the corresponding week last year.

AN ENDEAVOR MONTHLY.

Four Great Movements for Which the New Journal Will Stand.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—It is announced that the Christian Endeavor societies will start a monthly in Chicago, to be known as The Christian Endeavorer. The four great forward movements for which this paper will stand will be:

First—Missionary extension.
Second—Christian citizenship.
Third—Evangelistic endeavor.

This is a movement to carry the gospel among the people not ordinarily reached by church services.

Fourth—The rescue of the Sabbath.

This last is the newest movement in Christian Endeavor ranks. It means the upbuilding of the Christain Sabbath in the affections, the habits and the laws of the people. The movement aims to acquaint the Christian Endeavorers with the history, the value, the absolute necessity of the Sabbath to the people.

The plan is first to bring the Christians up to what is considered the proper stand for them to take on the subject before the work is carried on among those outside of the churches.

WILL VISIT CUBA.

Representatives of the State Department to Study the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—There is a highly significant report current which confirms in a measure the numerous rumors recently current with Cuban affairs. It is said that early next week a confidential agent of the secretary of state will sail for Cuba to make a personal investigation of the existing state of affairs of the island. He will, of course, travel incognito. Secretary Olney is extremely well disposed toward the Cuban insurgents, but he feels the administration cannot afford to grant belligerent rights to the rebels until it is definitely known that they have some prospects of carrying the war to a successful issue.

TO PROTECT LEGATIONS.

American and Russian Marines Landed in the Korean Capital.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Information of the formidable uprising in Korea, resulting in the disappearance and probable death of the queen and the landing of military forces by the United States and European powers has been received by Minister Kurino of Japan from the foreign office at Tokio. It is quite sensational, indicating the landing of marines by Russia, the United States and probably Great Britain.

The latest dispatch to Minister Kurino states that a force of Russian marines, 40 in number, has been landed. Thus far they have confined themselves to guarding the Russian legation at Seoul. United States marines were landed from the Yorktown to the number of 16. It is believed also that British marines have been landed. Besides these, the Japanese have a considerable force of soldiers at Seoul who have been preserving order.

To Protect Missions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—By request of Minister Terrell for the protection of American missionaries in Turkey, and at the instance of the state department, the navy department has ordered the Marblehead to the Gulf of Iskenderoon (Gulf of Alexandretta). Minister Terrell also telegraphs that orders have been issued for all provinces to protect Americans.

Another Massacre.

TREBIZONDE, Armenia, Oct. 11.—Serious conflicts between Turks and Armenians have occurred here. Many Armenians were killed. The Turks were armed and the number of troops present here is few. No attempt was made to stop the massacre of the Armenians.

The Sultan Is Uneasy.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—The resolution of the Marquis of Salisbury to secure the adoption of the reforms proposed by the powers and to use coercive measures if necessary, is causing the sultan great uneasiness.

The Defense Concludes.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 10.—The attorneys for the defense in the Great Northern injunction case completed their arguments at 4:30 o'clock after occupying the attention of the court two whole days in presenting their side of the case. When M. D. Grover finished his argument, E. P. Sanborn addressed the court for about two hours, and then C. A. Severance spoke for about an hour and a half, concluding the arguments on that side of the case. Attorney General Childs asked the court for a little time in which to prepare himself to answer the arguments advanced by the defense. Judge Kelly granted the request.

Childs Closes the Arguments.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 11.—The hearing in the Great Northern injunction case has been completed, Attorney General Childs occupying about two hours in summing up the state's side of the case in his closing argument. No decision has yet been made.

Cleveland Leaves New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—President Cleveland left New York for Washington during the day. His departure, like his arrival, was unheralded, for he sailed out of the harbor before the sun had risen, on E. C. Benedict's yacht Oneida.

A Hundred Million Bushels Shy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The general conclusion in the British cereal trade that the world's wheat harvest for 1895 is about 100,000,000 bushels less than that of 1894, is announced in the report of the agricultural department's European agent for Europe.

State Treasurer Taylor Remitted.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 16.—The supreme court handed down a remittitur in the case of the defaulting state treasurer, Taylor. Sheriff Price will start for Sioux Falls with his prisoner in the morning if nothing happens.

AN INCREASED TARIFF.

Senator Sherman Thinks Such a Change Would Improve the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Senator Sherman arrived in Washington this morning and expects to return to Ohio tomorrow. In an interview he said:

"Times are better than they were. The business conditions have improved over what they have been but in it there is no substantial revival and no promise of return of general prosperity under the present circumstances. In some branches of business there has been material improvement, but the revival is not general."

"Do you expect congress to do anything this winter to improve the situation?"

"That depends on the president. The Republicans have complete power in the house, but uncertain power in the senate. I think something can be done but it will depend on the president."

An Increased Tariff.

"You mean in the way of increasing tariff revenue?"

"Yes; something could probably be done in that direction. Whatever is done must be on protective lines, however, and if there is any tariff legislation it will include a duty on wool."

He would not discuss the outlook for financial legislation. To the question, "Will the Republicans reorganize the senate?" he replied:

"We have a strong plurality in the senate. One vote would give us the organization. I do not think, however, that there will be any struggle over the small offices. I do not think there will be any combinations to get the organization. The most probable thing is a settlement between the Republicans and Democrats—a compromise."

"SEE COLONEL NEW."

Harrison's Advice Concerning His Presidential Aspirations.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 14.—When ex-President Harrison was in this city the other day attending a meeting of the board of trustees of Purdue university, of which he is a member, he made a statement concerning his position with reference to the presidential nomination, which is probably as nearly a definite expression as can be had from him. The story has just leaked out, and is well authenticated. Asked by a friend in this city if he was a candidate, General Harrison said:

"See Colonel New; he appears to know all about it."

The general then disclaimed any responsibility for published articles, and declined in positive terms to make known his intentions, ending with the words:

"When you see my signature to any statement, then you will know it is the —er—well, the genuine sarsaparilla."

MRS. STANFORD WINS.

Decision in Her Favor in the Suit of the Government.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Leland Stanford has won another victory from the United States government, this time in the United States circuit court of appeals. This last decision was signed by United States Circuit Judge Gilbert and by United States District Judges Morrow and Hawley. It is given on the appeal taken from a previous order of Judge Ross sustaining the demurrer of Mrs. Stanford to the suit brought against her to recover $15,337,000 alleged to be due to the government from her husband's estate on account of Central Pacific bonds. It is understood that the case will be appealed to the supreme court.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14, 1895.

FLOUR—Firm.

WHEAT—No. 2 spring. 57¼c; No. 1 Northern, 60¼c; December, 59¼c.

CORN—No. 3, 31c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 18¾c; No. 3 white. 18@19c.

BARLEY—No. 2, 40½c; sample on track, 27 41½c.

RYE—No. 1, 40c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Oct. 14, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 58c; No. 1 Northern, 56½c; No. 2 Northern, 53½c; No. 3 spring, 50¼c; rejected, 45½c; No. 1 Northern, 56½c; October, 58c; December No. 1 hard, 58c; No. 1 Northern, 56½c; May, 61c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 14, 1895.

WHEAT—October, 55c; December, 55⅛c; May, 59¼c. On Track — No. 1 hard, 56⅛c; No. 1 Northern, 55¼c; No 2 Northern, 53⅜c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Oct. 14, 1895.

HOGS—Market about steady on best grades. Range of prices, $3.65@3.75.

CATTLE—Good butcher stuff, stockers and feeders firm; light stockers slow.

SHEEP—Market steady; good sheep and lambs steady; common dull.

Receipts: Hogs, 200; cattle, 400; calves, 10; sheep, 4,000.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14, 1895.

HOGS—Market active and prices strong to 5c higher.

Sales ranged at $3.65@4.25 for light; $3.70@4.2 for mixed; $3.50@4.20 for heavy packing and shipping lots; 3.50@3.70 for rough.

CATTLE—Market for most grades generally 10c lower.

Beeves, 3.30@5.45; cows and heifers, $1.40@4.60; Texas steers, $2.80@3.50. Westerns, $3.00@4.30. stockers and feeders, $2 2 @3.85.

SHEEP—Market weak to 10c lower.

Receipts: Hogs, 33,000; cattle, 25,000; sheep, 30,000.

Chicago Grain and Provision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—October, 59⅛c; December, 60⅛c; May, 64½c.

CORN—October, 9⅛c November, 28⅝c; December, 27⅝c; January, 27c; May, 29½c.

OATS—October, 17⅝c; December, 17⅝c; May, 20⅝c.

PORK—October, $8.50; December, $8.60, January, $9.60; May, $9.85.

LARD—October, $5.77½; January, $5.85 May, $5.90.

SHORT RIBS—October, $5.25; November, $4.77½; January, $4.85.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Augurs for the Iron Range Road.

TWO HARBORS, Minn., Oct. 15.—The Duluth and Iron Range road has placed order for 10 locomotives with the Baldwin locomotive works of Philadelphia. The engines are to be duplicates of the 70's built this summer at the Scenectady works.

Sioux Falls' New Enterprise.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 15.—Articles of Incorporation have been filed for the Union stockyards at Sioux Falls in connection with the new packing house. The capital stock is put at $1,000,000.

Converter Exploded.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 15.—An explosion of a converter occurred at the Frankstown mill of Jones & Laughlin early in the morning. Ten men were injured, three, it is feared, being fatally burned.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, for nearly a year. It is feared that he has been killed.

The regular Democratic organization of Brooklyn has nominated Edward M. Grant for mayor. The Reform Democracy nominated Edward M. Shep-

CAUSED A SENSATION.

Farmers National Congress Votes Down a 16 to 1 Resolution.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16.—The meeting of the Farmers National congress furnished a sensation in the vote on an amendment to a resolution petitioning congress to enact laws preserving the parity of gold and silver and providing for an international conference. The amendment provided that congress be invited to consider how to preserve a ratio not higher than 16 to 1, and it was lost by a vote of 251 to 104. The delegates from the western silver states voted for the amendment.

Supreme Court Meets.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—After a recess covering about four and a half months, the United States supreme court reconvened at noon with all the members of the court present. The proceedings of the day were brief, consisting of the hearing of unimportant motions, the admission of a dozen attorneys to the bar, and the introduction of Attorney General Harmon to the court, by his predecessor, Secretary Olney.

IVORY SOAP

IVORY

99 44/100 % PURE

DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,

GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS,

COMMISSION.

504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
DULUTH, MINN.

12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

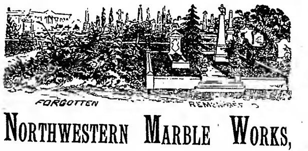
IF YOU WANT

Photographs!

WHY NOT GET THE BEST?

MURI MAKES THEM

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.

Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.

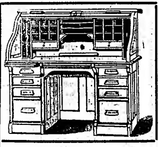
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE

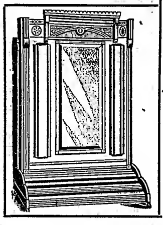
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.
Historical Society

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 24, 1895. NO 28.





CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

Folding Beds, Oak Polished, 5 ft. - - $30.00
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00

Best All-Wool Carpet Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper 5c. to 35c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES $2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:
We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

MR. SHERMAN'S BOOK

PUBLICATION OF THE SENATOR'S RECOLLECTIONS SENSATIONAL.

Secrets Long Kept From the Public Now Shown the Light of Day—Prominent Party Leaders in the Role of Scheming Politicians—Some Replies Already Given.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The intrigues, the jealousies and the traitorous knife thrusts of the last half century of American statecraft are revealed in the fierce light of stern criticism in "John Sherman's Recollections of Forty Years in the House, Senate and Cabinet," just published in this city. The fear that the venerable senator would reveal secrets long kept from the public in his forthcoming work has been to an extent realized. Grant, Garfield, Blaine, Arthur, Harrison and other Republican leaders are spoken of with unstinted praise for their high personal worth or statesmanship, but each is, in guarded and covert language, shown in the less commendable light of scheming politicians. The criticism is almost invariably implied rather than direct, but it stands out clearly in the work as a whole. The work is marked by clear cut sentences and blunt expressions of opinion and but little attempt at literary grace is made.

Garfield and Sherman.

Owing to the close association of Mr. Sherman and James A. Garfield the criticism of the nomination of the latter for president of the United States is perhaps one of the most striking features of the book. The author, while carefully avoiding a direct charge of treachery on the part of the ex-president, very significantly makes it plain that Mr. Garfield was nominated at a convention to which he had gone as the trusted leader of the Sherman forces.

Something of the political scheming that again resulted in the defeat of the Ohio statesman in the national convention of 1888 and brought about the nomination of ex-President Harrison can easily be read between the lines in that part of the work devoted to this struggle. In discussing the result Mr. Sherman says he became satisfied that one delegate from New York from that state, and between Saturday night, when the nomination seemed certain to go to Sherman, and Monday morning, when the tide turned in favor of Harrison, a corrupt bargain was made in the interest of the latter which secured him the support of the New York delegation and gave him the nomination.

Controlled the Entire Delegation

Of Grant's administration, he says it was a period of scandal and slander. Perhaps the severest criticism of General Grant's statesmanship is found in the following extract from Mr. Sherman's work:

"During the entire period of Grant's administration I was chairman of the committee on finance of the senate and had to act upon all questions of taxation, debt, banking or finance, and had occasion to talk with the president upon such measures, but he rarely expressed any opinion or took any interest in them."

AIKENS THINKS NOT.

The Veteran Milwaukee Editor Talks About Sherman's Accusations.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19.—To an Associated Press reporter, A. J. Aikens, of the Evening Wisconsin said:

"I attended the national Republican convention that nominated James A. Garfield for president in 1880, and was present at all sessions. I heard all the nominating speeches, and remember particularly the speech of Mr. Garfield nominating John Sherman in behalf of the Ohio delegation. The opening of this speech was such that no man who heard it can forget it, not only the words but manner of Mr. Garfield in the opening of the speech indicating great zeal, truthfulness and earnestness in his nomination of Senator Sherman. There was no sentence in any of the speeches comparable in my idea to the opening sentence of that speech.

Taken Up by the Whirlwind.

The balloting went on from day to day until the 36th ballot, when Mr. Garfield was nominated with a whoop and a hurrah, as everyone knows. The night before his nomination I called upon Mr. Garfield with a view to securing his assent to accept the nomination if tendered to him. Mr. Garfield's manner in rejecting all overtures could not be mistaken by any man who heard such an interview as I had with him. It is due to the truth of history and the memory of Mr. Garfield that he made no trade or arrangement by which he should receive that nomination. He was taken up by the whirlwind as autumn leaves, and carried into the presidential chair."

WALLER WAS A SPY.

State Department Makes a Startling Discovery in the Case.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A special from Washington to The Times-Herald states that the state department has arrived at the determination to take no further action toward securing the release of ex-Consul Waller from a French prison. The cause of this decision is said to be the confirmation of the charge that Waller, while representing the United States in Madagascar, acted as a spy for the Hovas, this being the principal reason for his arrest by the French.

FAIRCHILD'S FIRE.

Business Portion of a Wisconsin Town Destroyed.

FAIRCHILD, Wis., Oct. 22.—This town was visited by a most destructive fire during the day, causing a loss of over $200,000. The entire business portion of the town, with the exception of one store, was wiped out. It is thought the fire is of incendiary origin.

DALLAS SENSATION.

Prominent Physician Killed by a Well Known Resident.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 23.—Dr. J. J. Ray, a prominent physician of Dallas, was shot and almost instantly killed by Marion Hardcastle, a well known resident of Dallas. The tragedy took place on Main street in the presence of a crowd of local people and visitors to the state fair.

Hardcastle was arrested and lodged in jail. The only statement he would make to newspaper representatives was, "Ray has been my family physician for six years, and domestic affairs was the cause of the killing." The tragedy caused an immense sensation.

Durrant Defense Concludes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—The defense in the Durrant case has practically closed. Another witness may be examined briefly and then the prosecution will begin the introduction of testimony in rebuttal. Although much important evidence is yet to be submitted the case will probably go to the jury at the close of next week.

THE BIG FIGHT IS OFF

Manager Julian Opposed Postponement and the Mill Will Not Occur.

Hot Springs People Mad Over the Outcome and Fitz Is Blamed for It.

Corbett Threatens to Visit Bob and "Send Him to the Hospital."

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 23.—Unless Robert Fitzsimmons recants and, through his manager, Martin Julian, accepts the extraordinary condition which confronts the fight situation here there will be no contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons unless it be an impromptu one, shorn of purse offerings, ring rules, referee and seconds; for Corbett says that unless Fitzsimmons acts the man and accommodates himself to come here "he will send him to the hospital" the first time he meets him and that he will go quite a way out of his scheduled theatrical route to meet the attenuated Cornishman.

Julian Was Contrary.

There was a conference during the day between Dan Stuart, Jos Vendig and the fighters, the latter by proxies, Brady representing Corbett and Martin Julian appearing for Fitzsimmons. The ruling of Chancellor Leatherman is to be taken before the supreme court by the attorney general and the tribunal of last appeal may consume several days in handing down a final decision. In view of this fact and anticipating a favorable decision Dan Stuart called the parties interested together and stated the conditions. Mr. Stuart wanted a postponement until Nov. 15. He argued that even if the court of final resort sustained the decision of the chancellor it would take that long and get the crowd to Hot Springs. Brady for Corbett was willing. Julian was not. Despite the fact that Corbett went into training a week before his prospective opponent Julian contended that his man was "too fine" and that to train for several days after the original time would mitigate against the physical condition of Fitzsimmons. The proposition was then made to have the men fight in private for the main stake, $10,000 a side. Here Stuart interjected an offer of an added $10,000. Brady was again willing, but Julian demurred. As matters stand at this moment, to use the words of Howard B. Hackett, the highest pugilistic authority in America, Corbett wants to fight, Fitz does not.

To Restore Confidence

THE PEOPLE HOT.

Threatened to Ride Julian Out of Town on a Rail.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 23.—The Hot Springs hotel owner, the holder of street railway stock, the merchant and the boy who sells newspapers on the street is excoriating Robert Fitzsimmons for his refusal to comply with Corbett's terms. There are some threats afloat of riding Martin Julian, Fitzsimmons' manager, out of town on a rail. The populace is up in arms and Julian is clinging close to the confines of his room. The impression prevails in some quarters that Fitzsimmons may personally repudiate Julian's actions and fight. The proposition to have Maher take Fitzsimmons' corner against Corbett and to replace Maher with Choynski against O'Donnell is also said to be losing weight. Aside from this the club declares its hands washed of the whole matter.

Armenian Reforms Published.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 23.—An official communication, embodying the Armenian reforms, has been made public through the Turkish press. It is carefully worded in order to show that the reforms are in perfect harmony with the existing laws, so as to avoid exciting the Turks.

Strikers Leave Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The striking garment workers of this city, after a war of 10 weeks, have packed up all household effects and left the city for New York and Chicago. Leaders of the garment workers in the above named cities have secured places for the strikers.

Barry Defeats Madden.

MASPETH, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Jimmy Barry completely outclassed Jack Madden in the Empire Athletic club arena, and was awarded the decision in the fourth round, although the fight was to have been 20 rounds.

WANTED SALESMEN. Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes.
A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple is warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Our Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.
NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN. L. L. MAY & CO: St. Paul, Minn.
[23-30]

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

A New Industry.

Several of our citizens are interested in a new venture for this part of the country—cranberry raising, and it is said that there are "millions in it." Several years ago Lem Loughbridge, of Warren, while up in the Thief Lake country conceived the idea that the big marshes in that vicinity ought to produce good cranberries, and the more he examined them the more the idea became fixed in his mind, and he at once took steps to demonstrate the feasibility of his ideas. Others became interested and a survey was made, but nothing definite resulted until last summer, when a stock company was formed, 1,000 acres secured, and a thorough survey made. Last week N. P. Stone and Capt. Compton went up with A. C. Mills, of Madison, an expert in cranberry culture, who looked the ground over carefully and pronounced the soil just what was needed and all the conditions so far as he knew, favorable to successful cranberry raising. It is the intention of the company to go on with the necessary preliminary work and as soon as possible make a practical test by putting out some plants.

HYMENIAL.

A. W. Foss, the genial proprietor of the Fosston Thirteen Towns, took unto himself a better half last week in Ontario, Canada. The lady in question is Miss Eva Sutor, who has a brother in Fosston with whom she has been visiting and where she met with Mr. Foss, who lost his heart at the first shot of Cupid's arrow. As a suitor he seemed to suit'er also, so—well it's the same old story, yet ever new. The JOURNAL has nothing but good words to say for Mr. Foss, who was in our employ for two years or such a matter—long enough for us to thoroughly demonstrate that he was one of the finest young men we ever employed. The lady we have not the pleasure of knowing but Arthur's choice is a good guaranty for her. We extend our most hearty congratulations and wishes for the happy couple and a long and prosperous journey in life.

"Didn't Need A Janitor."

The Sons of Vets had a dance at G. A. R. hall on Friday evening of last week and concluded that they could dispense with the services of the janitor at "five cents per service." They "dispensed" and during the evening a number of valuable overcoats were stolen from the cloakroom while the owners were tripping the light fantastic in the ballroom. They can now realize where the janitor would have been handy in their business.

Labor's Triumphs.

The wonders of the world are all triumps of labor, sometimes of compelled and unpaid toilers, but always it is the labor that has created them. The seven wonders of the ancient world—the Pyramids; the tomb of Mausoleus; the temple of Diana at Ephesus; the hanging gardens of Babylon; the Colossus of Rhodes; the ivory and golden statute of Jupiter; and the Pharos (or lighthouse) of Eggypt, were all the work of forgotten workmen. Such are also the present nine wonders of the world—the Pyramids of Egypt, the largest of which took 350,000 men twenty years to build; the Taj Mahal, the marble tomb of Queen Noor Jshel at Agra, India, cost $15,000,000; the temple of Baolbec, in which are stones 62 feet long, 20 feet broad and 15 feet thick; the temple of Karnack, covering twice the area of St. Peters at Rome; the great wall of China, 1230 miles long, 20 feet high and 25 feet thick; the Eiffel Tower at Paris, 884 feet high; the Suez Canal, connecting the Mediterranean and Red Sea, costing $85,000,000; the railroad bridge over the Forth, Scotland, with two spans of 1700 feet each, costing $20,000.000; the leaning tower of Pisa, which deviates 13 feet from the perpendicular. Several of these, like the ancient wonders, are of no practical benefit to mankind. The real wonders of the present century, that have spread civilization and comfort wherever they have come, that have not been built by unpaid labor—the most splendid triumps of the workman's toil—are the great railroads of the world—and the greatest are in the United States—like the Burlington Route, conveying millions of people safely, swiftly and luxuriously between the great cities. To reach any of the principal cities of the west, buy your ticket from your home agent over the Burlington, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

SALISBURY GRUMPY

TONE OF THE NOTE FROM SECRETARY OLNEY DISPLEASES HIM.

He Declines to Recognize the Monroe Doctrine as Applicable—Official Statement of the Situation From a British Standpoint.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The London correspondent of The World cables the following:

In conversation with an official of high standing and intimately acquainted with the inside facts of the Venezuelan dispute, I learned that the ministerial contention here is that the present decisive action of the British government was provoked by the recent dispatch from the American state department enforcing in strenuous terms the Monroe doctrine in connection with the question.

My informant told me that to his positive knowledge, at an interview at which Ambassador Bayard was communicating the terms of a dispatch to Lord Salisbury, the latter interrupted him midway with the remark that he need not proceed further, as the British government could not even entertain the arguments put forward, and absolutely declined to recognize such an application of the Monroe doctrine.

Complained of the Tone Used.

The terms of Lord Salisbury's written reply were practically the same and included a complaint of the tone in which the question had been dealt with in the dispatch of the American government as increasing the difficulties of the situation.

In the same document the state department was invited to remember that England was an American power before the existence of the United States, and her rights on the American continent consequently are anterior to those of the United States.

Ambassador Bayard, in further communication to the British foreign office, pointed out that there is no certainty that England is right about the Venezuelan frontier, as in the British Colonial Office List, the authorized publication of the colonial department, it is stated that the boundaries of British Guiana have never been clearly defined in regard to the parts now in dispute.

AN OFFICAL STATEMENT.

The Attitude of Great Britain Regarding Venezuela.

LONDON, Oct. 22—In view of the many reports in circulation regarding the attitude of Great Britain towards Venezuela, the following official announcement was made:

"In consequence of Venezuela not offering an apology or reparation for the Yournan incident, the Marquis of Salisbury has taken steps to inform her as to what reparation Great Britain requires. But, as relations between the two countries have been broken off for years, the communication was not sent through the direct diplomatic channel. As the document has not reached its destination, it is not considered desirable to give details of its contents. But it is couched in forcible terms, and points out that Great Britain will not permit Venezuela to overstep the boundaries marked by the courses of the rivers Cuyuni and Acmurasa, but is willing that the question of the other disputed territory should be submitted to arbitration."

Bayard Interviewed.

LONDON, Oct. 2 .—The Exchange Telegraph company has sent out a report of an interview which one of its representatives has had with the United States ambassador, Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, who is quoted as saying that he will probably receive an immediate answer from the Marquis of Salisbury on the Venezuelan question and that the United States will be quite satisfied if its overtures lead to negotiations for the resumption of the consideration of the frontier dispute. The United States ambassador is also said to have informed the representative of the Exchange Telegraph company that the United States can do nothing regarding the Marquis of Salisbury's demand for an indemnity from Venezuela.

A high official of the British foreign office said that Great Britain had not sent an ultimatum to Venezuela but that a dispatch on the subject of the misunderstanding between Great Britain and Venezuela had been forwarded to President Crespo. This, added the informant, is a very different thing, as all persons acquainted with the principles of diplomacy will recognize.

France Follows England.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Le Soir, speaking of the Venezuelan question, says: "There is a tendency on the part of America to abuse the Monroe doctrine. England is right, and France will be compelled to imitate her in order to secure an equitable settlement of several questions."

Menace to General Peace.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—The Figaro, commenting on the Venezuelan situation, remarks: "The ultimatum that Great Britain is transmitting may be prejudicial to the cause of general peace."

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

THIRTY THOUSAND

BUSHELS OF WHEAT.

Looks Like a Big Pile of Wheat For the Ordinary Granger Even of Polk County to Raise, But THAT'S WHAT ONE OF 'EM DID.

A few years ago Ole H. Bang was a business man of this city and well known to every business man here. He commenced in a small way in a little place on Fletcher street and soon was obliged to move into larger and more commodious quarters. Becoming tired with his line of business, although he made lots of money in it, he decided to make a change and began looking about him to see what he should tackle next. At this time wheat raising was popularly supposed to be "not in it" as a money making avocation, and farmers some way did not seem to see any other earthly use for a farm, but Ole had a notion strong within him that a farm in the fertile county of Polk (properly handled) was a bonanza good enough for any man, and so it was one fine morning that the rumor got abroad on our streets: "Ole Bang has sold out and bought a farm." and everybody "winked the other eye" and very "wisely" remarked: "Ole was a good deal of a —— phool to sell a business that was yielding him so much money and go farming!" The first thing he did in the matter, when he began to consider the project, was to secure the right kind of a farm, one that had plenty of woodland and hay land and plough land and all exceptionally fertile land, capable of responding to good management, and when he had found that kind of a farm he sold his business here, bought it, moved his family thereon and settled down to the quiet pursuits of granger life. He put some stock on it—not too much, and handled the stock judiciously, never allowing his herd to get too large and unwieldy. Winter seasons he got out cord-wood, thus giving his teams a chance to earn their board. Every year he has raised good crops of wheat, oats, barley and all kinds of grain and vegetables that are grown in this climate and needed on every farm, and this fall he has, besides plenty of other grain, thirty thousand bushels of wheat to sell, an average yield of 38 bushels per acre! While this is an exceptional case there is no reason why it should be, for "what man has done, man can do," and the same soil will respond to the same judicious management from others, just the same as it has for Ole. This is no fairy tale and anyone who desires to do so can verify it by going down to the farm of O. H. Bang, in the town of Higdem, and looking over a model farm, which Mr. Bang will be pleased to show him. Mr. Bang's success also shows what Polk county soil can do when it is properly and judiciously managed.

We are continually receiving good dry lumber and are selling at right prices. Sun-seasoned stock is dear at any price, and if used at all should be purchased in a tropical climate where plenty of ventilation is sought. We are selling considerable Compo-Board and if your house is unfinished or plaster falling off, try this board. It supplants plaster, and is guaranteed 30 per cent warmer besides making a smoother and tighter wall.

We are always pleased to give estimates and solicit correspondence.

We have just received a car of straight grain fir flooring which is the best manufactured that has come to town, also just received a car of Clear Cedar Shingles.

These are going fast, which speaks volumes for their merits.

Come and see us when in need of a $1.00 or $1,000.00 worth.

Yard near N. P. depot.
26-28] STEWART LUMBER CO.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.
[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE, Opera Block.

Referring to that big tater the E. G. F. Advocate mentioned as weighing four pounds, lacking one ounce, Geo. Vine says he has one that just supplies the deficiency—weighs the four pounds to a notch. Next.

THE GRAND VIZIER.

HOW HE IS SELECTED BY THE SULTAN AND INSTALLED.

One of the Most Striking Scenes Connected With the Turkish Court—No One Knows Who Is to Be Named Until the Last Moment—An Impressive Prayer.

The ceremony of "naming" the new grand vizier is one of the most impressive sights imaginable, and as it has seldom if ever been described an attempt to convey some idea of it may not be without interest. It was toward 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon that the servants commenced to carry out from Djevad Pasha's rooms at the sublime porte his books, papers, pens and other private paraphernalia. This was the first intimation given to the world that the grand vizier had fallen. Shortly afterward troops filed up the hill and lined both sides of the road from the landing stage at Sirkidjy to the doors of the porte. The news spread like fire under a wind, and by 5 o'clock all preparations were completed for the reception of the new occupant of the principal office in the empire. In the great council chamber the scene was unique in its quiet dignity. The room was crowded with all the high officials present and past, and though an hour or two previously none there had even guessed what was about to happen each one took his place silently and regularly, without confusion or mistake, awaiting the advent of the still unknown chief.

At the head of the hall a small vacant space was left, around which grouped the present ministers and those who had previously held portfolios. As each came in he paced slowly up the carpet with one short salute. As soon as he reached the end all present returned the temena'a with a sweep of the hand to the ground, breast and forehead. This rhythmical greeting, accentuated by the movement of scarlet fezes in unison with open hands, given in silence, and in the dim, curtained light of the council chamber, defies adequate description by the pen.

And then the newcomer returned the salutes separately, beginning at the left hand side, round the square of his colleagues, subordinates and superiors, and one more candidate for the vizierate was effaced, for nobody knew upon whom the choice of the sultan had fallen. Many names were whispered round, but as their owners entered the circle of greeting their chances were seen to be extinguished. One after another they followed on, till by a process of reduction it became a question of only two or three, all the rest of Turkey's statesmen and all her greatest pashas having already trodden the carpet and taken their seats of expectation. Then from the windows could be seen a small procession winding up the ascent. In front were two horsemen, he on the left a little man well known to all the watchers in the chamber, and on the right the Sheikh ul Islam, shining in the sunlight with his robes of pure white and gold.

In the passing of a breath the name of Ketchuk Said fluttered round the room, and a few moments later the new grand vizier, who had already thrice gone through the same ceremony, was standing in the center of the ministerial group. There he drew from his breast a green silk bag, and extracting from it the imperial hatt he pressed the parchment to his lips and forehead. The dark bearded sheikh repeated this homage to the words of his imperial master, and the hatt was handed to the evrak mudiri, or keeper of the archives, who read aloud that his imperial majesty the sultan, knowing the devotion, well proved, of Said Pasha, intrusted to him the duties of grand vizier, and that, having full confidence in the piety of the Sheikh ul Islam, he prolonged his term of office, being anxious in all things for the best welfare of his people, and might Almighty God bless their efforts toward that end. Then again a wave of sweeping hands and bending heads went round, and the sheikh, in full, deep tones, offered up a prayer for the sultan and the empire. In a moment the council chamber was transformed into a holy place, and the politicians, pashas and scribes, with upturned palms, seemed to have forgotten for a space the world and its vanities. It would be hard to imagine anything more striking than this prayer, amid such surroundings and on such an occasion.

With it terminated the investiture. The new grand vizier adjourned to his room with his ministry for coffee and a perfunctory cabinet council, and later on the old and new viziers and ministers repaired to Yildiz to pay their first or last respects to their lord. Meanwhile another hatt had arrived, changing the occupant of the western wing of the porte, for Said Pasha, who has been minister for foreign affairs for nine years, was bidden to vacate his familiar chair in favor of Turkhan Pasha.—Constantinople Letter.

Irving and Stoker.

Not many know how that talented Irishman, Mr. Bram Stoker, came to be associated with the fortunes of Sir Henry Irving. It was in this wise. Sir Henry, when on a visit to Dublin, was invited to a supper party, and during the course of the evening was induced to recite in his thrilling way "The Dream of Eugene Aram." One of his auditors, a young man with a brilliant reputation at Trinity college, was so affected by the tragedian's delivery that he burst into tears. Henry Irving asked the young man to call on him the next morning, and then and there made him an offer, which was accepted to the mutual advantage of both. The young man was Mr. Bram Stoker.—London Correspondent.

One Good Deed.

Mrs. De Ruffe—If you ever did any good in this wide world, I'd like to know what it is.

Mr. De Ruffle—Well, for one thing. I saved you from dying an old maid.—London Quiver.

Firemakers.

One of the Kaffirs had two sticks for making fire, and he showed us how he did it. One of the sticks was about 15 inches long and about half an inch in diameter. The other was flatter and had already in it several shallow round holes made by setting fire on former occasions. He took the latter piece, and having cut a smaller, irregular shaped hole in it he squatted on the ground, holding it firmly down at each end by his two feet. He then took the first piece of stick and held it upright between his two palms, with the point of the lower end resting in the hole he had just made in the horizontal stick.

He twirled the upright stick rapidly between his hands, and in less than a minute it had bored a round hole in the other, and the dust so produced began to smoke, and then ignited like tinder. A companion brought a handful of fine, dry grass, which caught a spark from this, and which he held half inclosed in the palms of his hands, gently blowing on it till it flamed up. It is perfectly marvelous how little the natives mind being burned by a fire. They will stand over one while the flames are licking up their bare legs and never move, and will keep their hands and feet in redhot ashes with the utmost indifference for several seconds.—National Review.

The Conquests of Silence.

Washington never made a speech. In the zenith of his fame he once attempted it, failed and gave it up, confused and abashed. In framing the constitution of the United States the labor was almost wholly performed in committee of the whole, of which George Washington was, day after day, chairman, and he made but two speeches during the convention, of a very few words each, something like one of Grant's speeches. The convention, however, acknowledged the master spirit, and historians affirm that had it not been for his personal popularity and the 30 words of his first speech, pronouncing it the best that could be united upon, the constitution would have been rejected by the people.

Thomas Jefferson never made a speech. He couldn't do it.

Napoleon, whose executive ability is almost without a parallel, said that his difficulty was in finding men of deeds rather than words. When asked how he maintained his influence over his superiors in age and experience when commander in chief of an army in Italy, he said, "By reserve." The greatness of a man is not measured by the length of his speeches and their number.—Chicago Times-Herald.

What He Liked.

Speaking of "A Milk White Flag" makes me think of another of Hoyt's plays, "A Texas Steer," which brings Tim Murphy to my mind, so that I am reminded of a story a newspaper man tells of Tim Murphy's father. The newspaper man—I have really no reason for concealing his name; it was Winfield S. Larner—met old Murphy one day, and the old gentleman volunteered to drive him to the capitol. Now the Murphy horse is one of those animals in which you have instinctively implicit confidence. He jogged off down the avenue, as the result of constant and emphatic urging on the part of Mr. Murphy, and turned in to the Academy of Music Here Mr. Murphy stopped, and a little boy dashed out to offer his services.

"Hold your horse, mister?" he asked

"No, me boy," replied Mr. Murphy as he climbed down from the buggy and looked affectionately at the horse. "He'll stand. He'll like it."

And the horse stood.—Washington Post.

A White Cat's Eyes.

On Columbus avenue a white cat keeps the mice out of the store of its owner. There is nothing remarkable in a white cat per se, but the owner of this particular animal declares that it is a feline curiosity—a freak, in fact.

"Look at that cat's eyes," he said yesterday. "Ever see anything like them? Why, don't you see anything remarkable? Don't know much about white cats, then. Now, that cat, you see, has two blue eyes—I never saw or heard of the like before. Cats usually have gray eyes, but white cats, as a rule, have only one gray eye—the other is blue. Every white cat that I ever saw but this one had one blue eye and one gray eye. Both the eyes of my cat are blue. It is a wonderful freak of nature, I think. Go to any man who knows much about cats—white cats especially—and see if he doesn't tell you that I am right."—New York World.

A Question of Age.

"You wheelmen will have to pay a city tax on your bicycles now," said one Pittsburger to another.

"Indeed?"

"Yes, the new ordinance says that all owners of bicycles and tricycles over the age of 14 years using the public highways shall pay 50 cents for each machine."

"That doesn't include me."

"What's the reason it doesn't, I'd like to know?"

"My bicycle isn't 14 years old. I only bought it last spring."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Good Imitation.

Dick—I played a great joke on a blind man a little while ago. You know they say that in compensation for one's loss of vision the remaining senses are abnormally acute?

Bob—So I've always heard.

Dick—Well, I handed him an article, and after feeling it over for 10 or 15 minutes he had to give it up. He couldn't tell whether it was a collar just from the laundry or only a buzzsaw.—Boston Transcript.

It Will Last.

The wonder still grows that the green goods men can still find victims despite the exposures that the papers are constantly giving of the swindle. The game will probably continue as long as the green goods appeal to the avarice of the green bads.—Boston Herald.

WARMAN'S CAT STORY.

Pussy Liked the Poet Well Enough, but She Stuck to the Locomotive.

"You have heard of the railroad dog, of course," said Cy Warman. "Everybody has, but I'll venture to say that you never heard of a railway cat. Well, I used to have one. You know I used to fire on the Rio Grande Western. I got mixed up with one of those big mountain climbers in a wreck one time, and after that I quit the business cold and turned poet. Well, now for the tabby.

"You know the exploits of the railroad dog have been recounted in divers places—how he saved a train and the lives of the passengers from a fathomless pit or a dark yawning abyss and all that. Those are all stories of the railroader, of which the dog is the hero of the hour. My yarn is not like those old stories, for pussy was too well trained to do anything so rash as to save a train and thereby endanger her own life. In the first place, puss was a pet of the landlady where most of the railroad men boarded, and in consequence the cat took a liking to railroading.

"She was a remarkable traveler, and she preferred the tender of a freight locomotive to a Pullman palace car. When the train would have a long wait at a side track or station, Miss Puss would descend from her perch on the pile of coal, or if the weather was inclement from the seat of the engineer, where she would sit looking out on the track beyond and go in hunt of mice, and if it was lunch hour would hunt up the kitchen door of the depot eating house. She was a great favorite and always had the best the house afforded. She was a beautiful cat. Her fur was jet black, and when the engine was running down the steep grades of the mountains she would hold her place on the top of the tender with all the grace and dignity imaginable, and if the wind was blowing she would ruffle up her black coat of fur as though entering a protest. Puss never missed a trip all the time I was on the road after she took the railroad fever.

"When I left the Western, puss had to choose between her owner and the big black monster that had carried her so many miles. I remember the day I went out to bid the big inanimate object goodby. I was very much attached to it. Why not? We had gone through a wreck together, and it had received the brunt of a collision with a big rock. I looked at the engine, which was steamed up ready to start on its trip, and soon saw puss mount to her perch on the coal. I spoke tenderly to her, and she arched her back and purred knowingly. When I bid the boys goodby and called her, she came part way, looked up at me in an undecided manner and finally gave a pitiful meow and walked off toward the engine again. She kept up her habit for several years after that and finally was crushed to death in a wreck. She was found curled up on the box by the side of the inanimate form of the engineer. Both had died at the post of duty."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Evading the Press Gang.

It was not an easy matter to get married in press gang times. Robert Miller, a Kirkwall man, found this to be the case. He returned from the whalefishing one autumn, fully resolved that he should take unto himself a wife. But the press gang got on his track, and he soon saw that if he was to get his heart's desire he would require to exert both pluck and perseverance. At length the fateful night arrived. The company had gathered, and the minister was in the house of the bride, prepared to proceed with the ceremony, when the dreaded press gang made its appearance.

Ladies are not unusually of a belligerent disposition, but when they saw, as in this instance, the likelihood of a marriage being spoiled by interlopers they rose up in wrath against them. They assailed the members of the press gang both with tongue and missiles, so that these gentlemen were glad to beat a hasty retreat. After this little episode a back window of the house was lifted, and the bridegroom, dressed in woman's clothes, bounded into the room. The doors having been barricaded to prevent a surprise, the clergyman proceeded to perform the ceremony, and surely no bridegroom was ever married in such a strange garb! Miller was never captured. He lived to a ripe old age and was the first beadle of the Kirkwall Free church.—Chambers' Journal.

Breathing.

Learn to breathe properly and systematically and rhythmically and you may overcome insomnia, weak lungs, indigestion and even seasickness. This at least is the theory, as well as the successful practice of the patients of the famous Dr. Oertel of Munich, who has elaborated a system of breathing that he has set forth in a large work on the subject. The breathing is done by count, or rather by steps—so many full deep breaths to a step, the number being regulated by the nature of the place where the walk is taken, whether it be level or an ascent or descent. The speed is regulated by the ailment and condition of the patient.

Fishermen's Queer Ways.

Fishermen have queer customs. A few years ago the fishermen of Preston, Lancashire, used actually to go fishing on Sunday. It seems incredible, but they did. A clergyman of the town used to preach against this Sabbath desecration and pray that they might catch no fish. And they did not! But they found out how to make his prayers of no avail. The fishermen used to make a little effigy of the parson in rags and put this small "guy" up their chimneys. While his reverence was slowly smoked and consumed the fish bit—like anything!—London Fishing Gazette.

Logwood is the marrow of a peculiar tree in the West Indies. It is chipped in long, thick pieces of firm, heavy, dark red wood. It is split up and moistened by water or acid for use.

ON THE PLAINS.

During our overland journey to California in 1850 we were attacked at daybreak one morning by a strong band of Apaches. After a lively skirmish we beat the marauders off, but three of our men received arrow wounds, and a fine boy of 17, named Frank, the son of our guide, Joe Martin, was captured and borne away by the savages in spite of our utmost exertions.

The scrimmage occurred in central Arizona, not more than a mile from the foothills of San Francisco mountains, whose fastnesses were gained by the retreating Indians before we could saddle up and give effective chase.

Notwithstanding his almost frantic grief, the bereaved father was forced to admit that to follow the enemy into the mountain defiles would be an act of wanton folly, certain to result in the slaughter of the whole pursuing force. We must, he agreed, bide our time and endeavor, by assumed carelessness, to provoke another attack in some position where we might interrupt the flight of our wily foes and thus rescue the captive.

When asked if the bloodthirsty Apaches would not probably torture their prisoner to death at once, Joe, profoundly versed in Indian ways, replied: "I think not. The boy's so young that they'll likely want to adopt him into the tribe, and meantime they won't hurt him. He's sharp enough to pretend to humor them, and I've great hopes that, if our plans fail, he'll manage to escape somehow. But, oh, wouldn't I like to be just for one minute within reach of that red brute—I'd know him anywhere—that lassoed and dragged poor Frank off!"

The guide was a tremendously powerful fellow, in the prime of life, and as he spoke his dark gray eyes flashed with an ominous light, which the fiercest warrior of the plains might well have quailed under.

Our party consisted of 30 men, all armed with muzzle loading rifles and Colt's revolvers, the latter quite a new weapon then. Hence we did not fear to meet in fair fight any number of these far west Indians, very few of whom at that early day possessed firearms. Our only real danger lay in falling into an ambuscade, and that we took every precaution to avoid.

After our fruitless pursuit of the hostiles, Joe proposed that we should continue our route along the mountain's base until we reached a certain pass he knew of, one we must necessarily traverse in order to escape a 50 mile detour.

"The redskins are sure to be waiting for us there, boys," he said. "They can get to it without showing themselves at all. They'll think that we suppose them to be far away and will walk right into the trap. If we were green enough to do that, not one of us would come out alive. If this heavy wind keeps up we'll show the murdering hounds a trick or two and get a chance at them on the open plain. When we get through with it, I reckon this band won't go on the warpath again in a hurry."

In about three hours we came opposite the mouth of the pass, the bottom of which was, as Joe had hoped, overgrown by stunted bushes and long, coarse grass, now dry as tinder, while its sides were composed—for two miles up, Joe said—of vertical rock.

"Now, boys," ordered the guide, "don't corral the wagons as usual, but leave them around, kind of carelesslike. 300 yards or so out on the plain. Let the horses graze while we get dinner. Then we'll likely have some fun, for the wind's exactly right."

"Why, Joe," observed one of the party, "I don't believe there's a blessed Indian in that gulch. They'd be sure to scoot off in some other direction after the licking we gave them."

"Maybe so," dryly rejoined the veteran. "But all the same I wouldn't try to lead you fellows through now for all the gold in California. I know the red cusses too well."

When our meal was finished and all were anxious to learn Joe's plans, he abruptly said: "Men, I want a volunteer for what may be a mighty risky piece of business. Who offers?"

"I," and "I," and "I," promptly responded a dozen or more of us.

The old Indian fighter smiled grimly as he said: "You give me lots of good stuff to choose from, boys, but I think Tom Graydon better go. He's the fastest runner among us, and that may count before he gets through."

"All right, Joe. Let's have your orders," cheerily replied Tom, a wiry, active fellow barely out of his teens, but swift of foot as a deer and a wonderful rifle shot.

"It's this way, Tom. The wind's blowing a hurricane down the pass; the bottom's covered with dry grass and dead bushes, and the walls, for two miles, as I've said, are perpendicular. Every living thing that can't fly now in that pass must, if driven from above, come right through, for a goat couldn't climb the rocks.

"Now, I want you to go on foot over the mountain till you come to the trail made by the reds while riding to the gulch. It's sure not to be much more than a couple of miles from here. Then creep, quiet as a panther, down into the pass itself and set fire to the grass. That's all. We'll do the rest. Most likely the Indians won't see you, for they're certain to be ambushed in an ugly, stony gorge some distance below where they went in. If they do spot you, no harm will be done, unless it's before the fire is set. They're all mounted and can't catch you if you're careful.

"Once start a blaze, and everything'll be all right. You can come back through the pass after the fire goes down. That'll be easier than scaling the hills again. So away you go, and good luck to you!"

When the daring scout had gone, Joe said: "Now you 12 men that I name post yourselves behind that little bluff at the west side of the pass. I needn't tell you what to do when the time comes. The rest of us'll loaf round here, innocent as can be, but we'll have the riding horses all saddled up, and whether the reds charge or not they'll find themselves in a bad fix, I reckon."

For an hour and a half we waited; then far up the pass there appeared high in the air a wreath of dark smoke. A few seconds afterward we heard the faint report of a rifle, and Joe jubilantly exclaimed: "There! Tom's all right! He's taken a long shot at the reds as they began to run. See that your tools are all in working order, boys. The circus'll begin soon."

In ten minutes the smoke had drifted down to the mouth of the ravine, driving before it a number of deer, coyotes, gray wolves and one huge grizzly bear, at none of which we dared to shoot, for fear of betraying our whereabouts.

More and more dense grew the smoke, and presently we could hear the roar of flames rushing through the fluelike passageway. We heard something else, too, for now arose a wild chorus of Indian yells, blended with the sound of trampling ponies, and in half a minute thereafter we saw, riding for dear life, a panic stricken crowd of war painted Apaches, behind whom raged a sea of fire, in advance of which their utmost speed barely enabled them to keep.

As the weird scene unfolded I said to myself, "Well, that canopy of black smoke and the darting tongues of fire below present a fair picture of what the infernal regions are supposed to be, and that swarm of hideous savages will do for demons flying from everlasting torment!"

But now, choking, gasping, furious with rage, the warriors—about 70 in all—emerged upon the plain and drew up to recover breath and clear their half blinded eyes. Though they had not yet noticed us, we keenly scanned their ranks, but could nowhere see a sign of Frank Martin.

"My boy is lost! Those red villains have killed him!" hoarsely whispered Joe, and his face took on a look of concentrated ferocity that made me shiver.

The next moment the Indians caught sight of us, apparently wholly unprepared for an attack. In an instant every bow was strung, and raising the terrible Apache warwhoop the band opened out a little and came straight at us.

"Mount, men, mount!" shouted Joe, "but leave that tall fellow with the eagle plume to me. He's the one that lassoed Frank."

In order to reach us the redskins had to traverse about 250 yards of level ground, and when one-half that distance had been covered they sent, while at full speed, a shower of futile arrows in our direction. We, however, did not fire a shot until the howling crew had come within 50 yards and their missiles were becoming troublesome, when our leader quietly said: "Give them a volley, boys; then drop your rifles and charge with revolvers. Now!"

Seventeen shots rang out at the word, and several of the foremost braves went headlong down. The others halted, wavered and seemed about to fly, but at this moment the 12 men, rushing from behind the bluff, attacked them furiously in flank, while we, in full career, thundered down upon their front, our heavier horses rolling ponies and riders over like tenpins.

Thus caught between two fires, the bewildered survivors broke away to the east, their only avenue of escape, north, south and west being barred by foes or flames.

In rear of the fugitives rode the still untouched wearer of the eagle plume, a gigantic warrior, who had tried in vain to stem the torrent of flight, and like a maddened tiger straight upon him charged Joe Martin, whose mount was the swiftest horse of our lot.

Desperately the savage lashed his pony, but seeing that he must speedily be overtaken he twice half turned in his rude saddle and each time launched an arrow at his relentless pursuer, who, all unhurt, still pressed on without firing, while this vain defense somewhat delayed the brave, whose comrades had now left him behind.

Nearer and nearer came the avenger, and we, far in the rear, watched the chase with intense interest, greatly wondering why Joe did not end it by a pistol shot. In less than a half mile race, however, he overhauled his quarry, yet even then did not shoot, but when the Indian drew his knife and aimed a mighty blow at his breast he caught the tawny wrist in his right hand, broke it by one fierce wrench, threw his left arm around the warrior's waist and dragged him to the front of his own saddle, as an ordinary man might have done an infant.

The astonished redskin struggled frantically, but as well might a dove expect to escape the falcon's claws as he to shake off that iron grip or unseat his captor.

In a few seconds we came up, and one of us said, "Let me put a bullet through that rascal's head, Joe."

"Not for the world," savagely replied Martin. "By whatever torture my boy died that death, and worse if possible, he shall suffer."

As nothing more could be said, we tied the prisoner fast to his own pony and took him back with us to the wagons, near which lay the lifeless bodies of those Indians and ponies killed in the fight.

Joe knew something of the Apache language and now by a series of ingeniously cruel taunts sought to provoke the chief—for so it seemed he was—into boasting of how his white captive had been put to death. All such efforts were useless. Not one word would the red man answer. With stoical composure and without a trace of pain on his dusky countenance he began to chant his death song, while ever and anon his snaky eyes glittered in contemptuous triumph as he saw several of our men wince under the operation of extracting arrowheads from their persons.

"We'll wait till Tom Graydon comes in. Perhaps he may be able to tell us what we want to know," gloomily remarked the guide. "Then we'll turn Indians for awhile and amuse ourselves with this treacherous dog. Maybe we can improve a little on the Apache mode of torture."

Yet steadily on droned the monotonous death song. Two or three of us, seeing that Joe was half crazed by grief, consulted privately together and agreed that if he did really attempt reprisals in this barbarous manner we would shoot the prisoner through the brain, for no sane white man could brook such treatment of even a remorseless foe.

In a short time the lightly fed fire in the pass died away, and although the ground might be hot in places a well shod man could incur no risk in walking over it. Therefore we began to look eagerly for the return of Graydon, though dreading to hear the harrowing details he would probably bring. But when, gliding out close to the nearest wall of the ravine, the young man finally appeared, a simultaneous groan went through our ranks, and one of us cried aloud: "Good gracious! Tom knows nothing of the boy! He thinks he's with us!" For the youth came jauntily along, his face wreathed in smiles.

Savagely as a wild beast robbed of its young Joe Martin dashed forward, and confronting the scout roared out, "Tom Graydon, do you dare to say that you haven't even found the remains of my murdered son?"

"Not a remain," flippantly replied Tom, whereat, if we had not quickly interposed, the outraged father would have laid the young fellow dead at his feet.

The whole 28 of us gathered watchfully about the pair, while Tom innocently continued: "Why, isn't Frank with you? He's not killed, surely, or I would have seen some signs of it."

Still, changelessly on, the Indian's mournful dirge floated out through the evening air.

All of us were so preoccupied that nothing outside our circle was noticed; hence we were fairly electrified when presently a light form broke through the ring, threw itself upon the guide's breast, and a voice joyfully shouted, "All alive and kicking yet, dear old dad!"

Then great, stalwart Joe broke down and cried like a baby, and all those of us whose throats were not too husky burst into such a storm of wild cheers as Onaniche (Wayneesh) pass had never before heard, though not for a moment did they interrupt the prisoner's doleful cry.

Roguish Tom was now rolling on the ground in an ecstasy of delight over his successful ruse, and poor, happy, choleric Joe looked rather sheepish as he said: "How was it, Frank? Tell us your story."

"You may thank Tom's good shooting for it all, father. The Indians had tied me to a sapling, some way behind where they were waiting to catch this party. At the very first sign of fire one of the braves ran back toward me with his tomahawk and scalping knife all ready for business, and in two seconds more I should have been a dead boy, but just as the wicked beast was going to strike I heard a rifle crack, and he tumbled down dead almost on top of me."

"Yes," put in Tom, "I was more than 200 yards away, but (patting his rifle) I knew old Betty here and had to risk it. My bullet went through the redskin's heart, and under the circumstances it was a pretty fair shot. By that time the fire had started up in earnest, the Indians scrambled on their ponies and put out like lightning, but we, being to windward of where I'd kindled the blaze, were quite safe, and we came along as soon as we could."

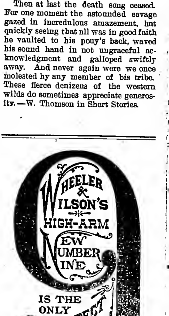
At this Joe stepped gravely over to Tom, took off his hat and half sobbingly said, "Tom Graydon, I humbly ask your pardon, and may God Almighty forever bless you!"

Then the two friends shook hands for ten minutes more or less, and we once again woke the echoes by such cheers as only men with overcharged hearts can utter. But on, ever on, without break or pause, pealed the warrior's death song.

"Joe," laughingly said our oldest comrade, "maybe you'll just shoot this miserable wretch now instead of skinning him alive."

For all answer Joe walked over to the prisoner, stooped down, cut his bonds, placed bow, tomahawk and knife beside him, pointed to his pony and said in Apache: "Go, chief! Go free!"

Then at last the death song ceased. For one moment the astounded savage gazed in incredulous amazement, but quickly seeing that all was in good faith he vaulted to his pony's back, waved his sound hand in not ungraceful acknowledgment and galloped swiftly away. And never again were we once molested by any member of his tribe. These fierce denizens of the western wilds do sometimes appreciate generosity.—W. Thomson in Short Stories.



WHEELER & WILSON'S HIGH-ARM NEW NUMBER NINE IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,

Crookston, Minnesota.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block. } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

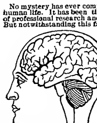
My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

MADE IN CONGRESS.

CATCHY PHRASES THAT HAVE COME INTO COMMON USE.

The First Buncombe Speech Was Delivered In 1820—Blaine and Conkling In Debate. Famous Sentences Pronounced by Statesmen When Not In Congress.

Many of the best known and most quoted phrases with which the American people are familiar originate in congress.

There is no reason why, if a good thing is said upon the floor of the senate or house, the country should not know it in 24 hours. With a press gallery thronged with correspondents who are always ready and eager to pick up the novel phrase or the apt description, with the great press associations distributing the debates from one end of the country to the other, and with newspapers only too anxious to give currency to the latest expression, a man who says a good thing in congress one afternoon may wake up the next morning and find his saying in everybody's mouth. There is something in the atmosphere of congress, too, that develops the latent wit and inspires to repartee. If a senator or a representative has anything in him at all, it is bound to come out in a rough and tumble debate with a political opponent. Many of the congressmen have already had their genius in this direction tested upon the stump and know how to hold their own in the face of all comers. It does not always follow, however, that a statesman who is good in debate will achieve fame by uttering a phrase that becomes popular.

To go back to the beginning of congressional history is to discover many phrases uttered in congress which are still current. It was as far back as 1820, for instance, that Felix Walker, a member of the North Carolina district which included Buncombe county, apologized for the emptiness of his remarks by stating that he had to make a speech "just for Buncombe." This is a saying which has come down through the years as a byword. "Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever," was uttered by Webster in his famous reply to Hayne. Lincoln's "with malice toward none and charity toward all" was first heard in the halls of congress when his second inaugural address was read to the assembled representatives. In later years Senator Ingalls contributed a number of epigrammatic sentences, the best known of which perhaps was uttered in his wordy duel with Senator Brown of Georgia. The latter had a habit of rubbing his hands together as he talked, and Ingalls, with bitter emphasis, described him as "washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water." Another remark by Ingalls was much quoted at the time. He was discussing the oleomargarine bill and said regarding certain dairy products that he stood "in awe at their strength and reverence for their antiquity." In Proctor Knott's widely copied Duluth speech occurs that phrase, "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," a title which Duluth has always proudly kept.

Blaine and Conkling, with all their greatness, left no single phrase as a legacy of their participation in congressional debates. "Burn these letters" was often quoted after the Mulligan affair; but this sentence was not first uttered in congress. The famous debate between the two men, which estranged their whole lives, occurred in April, 1866, over a very trivial matter—the continuance of the bureau of the provost marshal general. It gave Blaine, however, a chance to satirize Conkling in a single sentence. An article written by Theodore Tilton had appeared in which Conkling had been likened to Winter Davis. "The resemblance is great," exclaimed Blaine, with pungent satire. "It is striking! Hyperion to a satyr, Thersites to Hercules, mud to marble, a dunghill to a diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion."

Another debate in which Conkling, then in the senate, was a conspicuous figure, resulted in a sentence which has not been forgotten. Senator Lamar of Mississippi had resented as a falsehood a charge of broken faith made by Mr. Conkling, and the latter retorted that Lamar was a coward, a blackguard and a liar. The Mississippi senator, who had never been accused of cowardice, looked over to his opponent and sarcastically apologized for his first remark. "It was one," he said, "such as no good man would deserve and no brave man would wear." Then he waited for Conkling to reply, but the New York senator was silent.

Many of the sharp things said in congress are left out of The Record. Cobb's "Where was I at?" does not appear in official print, and Senator Wolcott's quotation of the Spanish proverb to Senator Carey, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass," has also been cut out. A few famous sentences came very near having their origin in congress. Davy Crockett, the author of "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," was a member of the house of representatives for two years, but it does not appear that this oft quoted advice was originated with him there. Henry Clay's "I would rather be right than president" was said to some friends at the capitol, but not in public debate. Senator Sherman, too, is the author of the "mending fences" phrase, although he waited until he was at his home in Mansfield before he uttered it. While Hayes was still president and Mr. Sherman was secretary of the treasury he entertained hopes of a presidential nomination. Just before the Republican national convention met he went to Mansfield, and while there was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. Sherman denied having traveled to Ohio to promote his presidential aspirations. "I have simply come," he said, "to mend my fences, which are greatly in need of repair."—Washington Post.

Some Late Moon Theories.

Have you seen the latest scientific treatise on the probable cause of the moon's rugged surface? It is a well known fact that every mile of lunar surface compares very favorably with the most mountainous portions of Switzerland, being a succession of high pinnacles, deep holes and seemingly bottomless chasms.

The best existing maps of the moon's surface show 132,856 of these craterlike holes and over 100,000 mountain peaks, or projections, which compare favorably with what we know to be mountain peaks. Not longer since than last summer the astronomers gave it as their opinion that these craterlike holes and mountain peaks had been caused by a prodigious shower of aerolites, or meteorites. That theory has been recently knocked out by a noted European astronomer, M. Verde, who gives it as his opinion that the moon was originally a vast aggregation of miniature planets which have amalgamated, or coalesced, into one. According to his theory, the openings and projections are the interstices which were left when the separate fragments came together to form the ball which all now recognize as the Queen of Night. He says that in all probability there are several holes which reach entirely through the lunar world.—St. Louis Republic.

The Changed Rubies.

There seems no end to the curious stories about jewels lost and stolen. One of the latest is that of Mrs. A., who recently took a pair of large ruby solitaires to be reset at ——'s, where they had been purchased. The morning after the maid brought her the card of the firm, saying a gentleman wished to see her, and on going down to the drawing room she found one of the clerks, who told her that the stones, which were apparently of great value, were in reality false and worthless. Very much agitated over the intelligence, Mrs. A. asserted that the jewels had never left her possession since their purchase, and claimed that the fraud must have been perpetrated before she received them. This of course the firm denied, but the feeling on the subject became very bitter on both sides, and detectives were employed by both to ferret out the mystery. When a former butler of Mrs. A. was proved to be a discharged clerk of the well known jewelers, the inference was obvious, although no proof against the man has been found, and the jewels have never been recovered.—Boston Gazette.

Our Small Devotee.

My first evening, or night in fact, in Ponta Delgado—as well as many thereafter—was spent in the society of the most affectionately demonstrative, untiringly attentive of the inhabitants of the Azores, the very merriest, happiest of creatures, who enjoys life with a zest that is seldom equaled, who hails with delight each newcomer to the isles, and welcomes them with the most flattering warmth. We had a lively time together. A more energetic, aggressive, industrious creature I never met. Infinitesimally small, yet marvelously active, he is, I believe, the one and only native Azorean who can boast of that so common American quality, extreme nervous energy. Not even the most energetic, tireless Chicagoan, in his grand rush after the mighty dollars, could be more indefatigable, more alert and alive to anything and everything, or rather to any one and every one, than this selfsame ubiquitous Azorean flea.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"Collar" Is Old English.

Justices in New York are ignorantly fastidious in matters of English. When Mr. O'Hara, a policeman, said, "We collared him," Justice Tuintor replied: "You 'arrested' him, and you ought to be ashamed for not saying so at once. Such language as you used is not fit language to use to a magistrate in a public courtroom." But Mr. O'Hara did not employ slang. The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele, in The Guardian, No. 84, wrote, "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are: Gentleman's Magazine, 1762, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."—Boston Journal.

The Pacific Slope Style of Poker.

"The terror of a one card draw is unknown to San Francisco devotees of the game immortalized by General Schenck," said Mr. William R. Brewester of that city at the Hotel Page.

"The reason is that out on the slope we do not play sequences, or 'straights,' at all, and flushes only before the draw. A flush, therefore, is of no account except when held 'pat.'

"This, to my mind, is a better system than the eastern method, for it gives the man who holds the best pair the natural advantage that belongs to him. It is needless to say that those abominations known as 'big' and 'little dogs,' that go with the game in Kentucky, are absolutely unknown in California."—Washington Post.

His Enjoyment Marred.

"My enjoyment of the 5 cent cigar," said the man of moderate means, "is sometimes marred by the breaking away of the wrapper. The fine, smooth Sumatra leaf is cut in strips that are rather narrow. They wrap without much lap, and as the cigar burns the wrapper sometimes creeps out. As I have before remarked, it is now quite possible to get a good cigar for 5 cents, but there isn't much fun smoking it unless it will stay together."—New York Sun.

Tobacco.

Tobacco is grown in 42 states and territories, but nearly half the crop comes from Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

A REVOLTING SIGHT.

SO SAYS PROFESSOR ANTHONY OF DEATH BY ELECTRICAL EXECUTION.

He Says That the Chief Claim For This Method of Capital Punishment Has Been Disproved—Other Means That Are by Far Superior to the Chair.

It is difficult to conceive of a much more revolting spectacle under the old regime than is presented at electrical executions. A number of eminent physicians are gathered in the death chamber not only to witness, but to take official part in the execution. The condemned man is brought in, strapped securely by strong leather straps into the death chair and the electrodes fitted to the head and legs. At a given signal the current is turned on, there is a most violent muscular contraction that would, except for the secure bindings, have thrown the man from the chair. Then follow a smoke and smell of burning flesh. The current is turned off, the body becomes limp, one of the physicians tears open the shirt and listens for the heart beats. He exclaims that the heart is still beating. The wires are again hastily connected, and the current turned on a second time. There is more muscular contraction, more burning flesh. This time the several physicians in turn listen for the heart beats and pronounce the man dead. The body is taken from the chair, laid upon a rough table and cut up, according to law.

These are the details as given in the daily papers, in one of which the reporter writes over his own signature. They may be exaggerated, but there can be no doubt that death by electricity is anything but the calm and peaceful death that the authors of the law were seeking to provide for the condemned murderer.

Why was electricity chosen as the agent? Why not any one of several other means of causing death? I can conceive of no reason except that the effects of electricity were least understood and there was the least actual knowledge of how best to set about it to kill a man by this means. No one even now knows exactly how electricity kills. Recent experiments by Dr. Bleile of Columbus, O., remarkable for the ingenious and thoroughly scientific methods by which all the effects have been studied, have thrown new light upon the subject, but even today we are very far from knowing, with the precision with which other causes of death are known, just how death is caused by the electric shock. Neither do we know how to apply the current. Certainly if there is no less cumbersome apparatus and no less clumsy method available than that in use at Sing Sing this of itself is sufficient reason for abandoning this mode of executing criminals.

It is often claimed in behalf of electrical executions that death is instantaneous and painless. In no report that I have ever seen is there any evidence of instantaneous death. All the evidence that can be gathered from reports of accidental shocks goes to show that resuscitation is possible if the exposure to the current is of short duration.

Painless no doubt it is, but so would be the effect of a pistol shot through the brain. And why not use a pistol shot for executing a criminal? He might be strapped to a mattress, a semicircle of pistols arranged around his head terminating at the temples, and, if desirable, another group could be placed over the region of the heart. If electricity must be used, arrange to fire the pistols simultaneously by pressing a button. Why not? Would it be more uncertain? Would it be less humane? Would it be more blood curdling? Would it be less "instantaneous?" But perhaps there would be too little mystery about it and too little complicated apparatus required. There would be no need of cutting a man up to see what killed him or whether he was really dead.

If we must inflict the death penalty and wish to be really humane about it, there are surely many ways by which death can be brought swiftly and certainly without inducing muscular contortions, or burning the flesh, or mutilating the body. The criminal could be given a sleeping draft and then laid out in a glass case, which could then be filled with the fumes of burning charcoal.

I see no reason why we should seek to make death particularly easy to the criminal. I look upon the whole scheme of capital punishment as a hideous blot upon our civilization, but if a man must be punished with death it is certainly not upon the theory that he must be put out of the way in the easiest possible manner for him. It is assumed that the dread of the death penalty will prevent crimes that otherwise might be committed. The penalty, if it is to be inflicted, should come in a form to be dreaded, yet there is no excuse for torture or for the semblance of torture. The criminal should come to his fate with a full knowledge of what awaits him. The execution of the sentence should be by a method that is swift and sure, without mystery, and about the effect of which there is no uncertainty. There should be no opportunity for doubt as to the result, and no reason for excuse for a repetition of an operation. Electricity does not fulfill these requirements and never can until we know far more than we do at present of its effects in the human organism. If we knew all we ought to know to warrant its use, I believe an instrument that could be carried in the pocket would accomplish the results as surely as the hundred horse power engine and dynamo now employed.—Professor W. A. Anthony in Chicago Electrical Journal.

Austrian Crown Treasures.

Among the treasures of the Austrian crown are some religious relics that would make the fortune of a church. They include a nail from the cross, a fragment of the cross itself, a piece of wood from the manger at Bethlehem, fragments of the apron worn by the Virgin and a tooth of John the Baptist

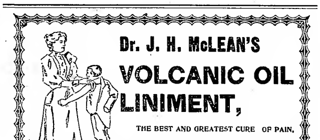
A GREAT BIG PIECE OF
A·T·Co's Battle AX
BATTLE AX
10 CENT CUT
BATTLE AX PLUG
FOR 10 CENTS

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.



Dr. J. H. McLEAN'S
VOLCANIC OIL LINIMENT,
THE BEST AND GREATEST CURE OF PAIN.
Affords a quick relief from the accidents and ailments common to human or animal flesh.
In constant use for half a century.
Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement, and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

REPUBLICAN League headquarters are to be moved from Chicago to Washington.

CONGRESSMAN Eddy is by no means a free silver republican, has good reasons for the faith that is in him and knows how to express them intelligibly.

IT is said that "the great fight" between Corbett and Fitzsimmons has been declared "off" and no good citizen in these United States will mourn because that is so. Public sentiment in this direction, at least, is changing encouragingly.

WHY don't the Democrats have another howl? The president is off for the fair at Atlanta! Whenever Gov. Clough visited a fair this fall a prolonged Democratic howl went up from Democrats and their sympathizers throughout the length and breadth of the state, and now Grover is in the same line—but—"that's different."

Gov. Clough has called a meeting of Northwestern governors to consider the matter of a Great Northwestern Expo, which is proposed to be held in 1897. If carried out it would be the means of giving us the most valuable advertisement we have ever yet had, and if the other states interested manifest half the enthusiasm that Minnesota has so far, it will be carried out successfully.

SOME of the good friends of the JOURNAL have been speaking good words for this paper during the past fall and the result begins to be apparent in the receipt of several letters from parties of whom we have never heard before, ordering the JOURNAL sent to their address and containing remittance for one year in advance. Such evidences of appreciation are truly gratifying to the heart of the average publisher.

WE see by the Index that an Ada man, who has evidently tried the "Pingree plan," offers ten bushels of potatoes per day per man for men to pick up potatoes. Says he thinks he has 8,000 bushels to harvest and that he raised them in the village. If he is correct in his estimate he must have planted every vacant lot in the village. But just think of such high wages as ten bushels of potatoes per day! That's $5 a day—sometimes.

THE JOURNAL is under obligations to many of its friends during the past week for paid up subscriptions, many of which have come to us before the statements we are sending out as fast as possible, had reached them. At this rate we will enter upon the coming new year with few if any delinquents upon our list. Let the good work go on, meanwhile, we will use the means thus provided to make the people's paper better than ever.

THE Clay County Herald, published at Hawley, gives the views of one Clay county farmer, on cheap grain and cheap potatoes. This farmer says: "I intend to feed a good many of my potatoes to my cows this winter, which will increase my yield of milk and butter; will feed my stock on barley and oat straw, giving them a little cheap oats and barley to keep them in good heart and will sell my hay which is bringing a good price, will sell my wheat also; the hay and wheat are good money crops, and by using cheap potatoes and cheap barley and oats for feed, I can use my straw and sell my hay." This farmer's head is level.

LUMBER dealers tell us that they have sold more lumber to farmers to build granaries with this fall than ever before, the heaviest sales being in the latter part of September and first of October. This means one of two things; either that farmers have very much more grain to care for than they expected, or that they did not intend to rush the grain right upon the market the first thing after threshing, and they have concluded that the proper way to hold their wheat is to "hold it." If they store it in elevators they are not holding it.

NOTWITHSTANDING prices for farm produce generally are low this fall, the farmers of Polk county have every reason to take courage and be hopeful for the future. The crops have been abundant and prospects good that wheat, the great staple, will bring a better price for several years to come than it has during the past few years as the surplus, that you read so much about, will be an unknown quantity for the next few years. Added to this is the fact that farmers are beginning to pay more attention to dairy interests, and when this interest becomes fairly established, you will see Polk county become one of the richest counties in the state. Our cheese industry may be said to be just fairly begun during the past summer, and that product took first premium at the state fair and has already established a good market in Montana. To-day two pounds of butter will bring almost as much in this market as one bushel of No. 1 Hard wheat and when we get more in the habit of having winter cows this industry will be more profitable than ever. It is a fact, clearly demonstrated, that Polk county soil cannot be beat anywhere on the foot-stool, and is adapted both to the successful raising of grain and dairying.

An Independent Press.

Alexandria Post-News.

The Midway News has by recent articles aroused no little discussion as to the independence of newspapers. It insists that the city press is dominated by corporate influences and that the country papers must cut loose from local political bossisms and so hold true to the people. There is not much doubt that the Midway News is right as to the city press. In the larger cities those newspapers which are not owned outright by the big corporations are in the main dominated by corporate influences. The few that are owned and controlled by their ostensible proprietors are, moreover, about in the same box. To own and run a big daily a man must be a millionaire and as a rule millionaires are human, they sympathize chiefly with themselves, they look at affairs from the point of view of their own financial interest, and that of their associates, and they easily satisfy their consciences with the handy argument "supply and demand." It is a fact, too, that the country weekly, like the country school, is closest to the people. It knows best their needs and best appreciates their sympathies and possibilities. It is true, too, that to be honest with the people a paper must be independent, but as Judge Russell said, independence and prosperity must go together. To be independent does not mean that a paper should not be a party paper but that it should be free in its party. This it cannot be if its editor is forced to take appointive office or other political support, for so soon as he becomes an office-holder, common decency and gratitude force him to follow the fortunes of the man or faction that gave him the office, as thanks to the growth of personal politics, offices now come from the man, not from the party. If the office is an elective one, the result is nearly as unfortunate—the bosses will control. To prevent this the people must support their newspapers. No editor who loves his profession, will accept political office except from financial necessity and to keep the country press in this ideal state of independence two things are necessary. First, the country editors of Minnesota must combine to place themselves where they belong, with the professions, and not be satisfied where they are, with the trades. They must demand that a man who would enter the editorial field, shall be an editor as well as a mechanic, shall know as much of the English language as of a Washington hand press, and as much of history, civics and political economy, as of ink, type and rollers. Then, and then only, will the title of editor carry with it the respect of the people, and then only will the number of papers be so limited as to make possible that prosperity that will insure independence. For the second prerequisite is adequate support. The people must so appreciate an independent press, so realize its incalculable value to them, be so impressed with its necessity as their only safeguard against the deceit of political bosses, the greed of corporate power, the wicked selfishness of demagogues that they will give it such support as will insure that independence.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE OLD RELIABLE

SWEET CAPORAL

CIGARETTE

Has stood the Test of Time

MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

SWEET

CAPORAL

TRADE MARK

MILD & EXTRA FINE

Kinney Bros

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

Euclid Items.

C. Stuhr spent Wednesday in Crookston.

John Tiedemnn is very seriously ill with typhoid fever and the chances for his recovery are very doubtful.

Robt. Casmey has purchased another separator and is again at work.

Mr. J. P. Foote, of Crookston, was up on business, Friday, and again on Monday.

Henry Wiedeman and R. D. Casmey were at Crookston, last Thursday, purchasing lumber for enlarging their granaries.

M. E. Kirsch passed through on the Flyer, Friday.

Charlie Misner came up from Crookston, Friday, to see how the weather around here was behaving. He was accompanied by his wife and little daughter.

Mrs. H. C. Misner and son, Harvey, visited friends in Crookston, Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Maggie Kingston returned to her home at Warren, Monday morning, after closing a successful week's business in the millinery line.

H. C. Misner spent Sunday in Crookston.

Michael Tracy is in possession of an estray broncho, which he will deliver to the owner upon application. The animal is black and weighs about 750 pounds.

The high winds of last Friday blew one of the tall chimneys off from H. C. Misner's new dwelling. Andrew Anderson, who was working on the building, had just climbed down from that part of the building on which the whole mass of brick fell.

Some mischievous youngsters are in the habit of ringing the school bell at a very early hour in the morning whenever the principal is absent from town, thus causing many an angry word to escape from the lips of those who enjoy a morning nap.

An itinerant barber alighted from the "Flyer" Tuesday morning, arranged his chair in a corner of H. C. Misner & Co's. store and nailed his pole to a hitching post outside. Business not being brisk he packed up his razors and departed on the 3:30 freight.

Mr. Hilger, Ass't. Supt. of the M. & N. Elevator Co., spent a few hours in the city, Tuesday.

P. Fairweather unloaded two car-loads of lumber and a car-load of brick, which which will be used in constructing new buildings, dwellings, barns, granaries and machine sheds on sections 15 and 16.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

☞Sold by druggists 75c. Toledo, O.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

Jas. Power took Monday's train for Morton, Minn., his former home, where he will visit a short time.

A painful operation was performed upon Freddy Maxwell's diseased hip last week and his recovery is doubtful.

Word was received here the first of the week that Pat Soards, formerly of this place, had lost a large amount of grain by being burned in the stack on his farm in the vicinity of Wylie.

Mayor Kretzschmar, C. A. Robhecke and Phil Zeh have returned from an enjoyable hunting trip to the mouth of Red Lake river. They were absent a number of days and found plenty of hunting but little game.

THIS IS ENTERPRISE.

THE NORTHWEST STILL LEADS.

The publishers of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch have just favored us with a copy of their annual premium supplement. Some of the offers which they make are simply wonderful. Articles which usually cost more than the subscription price of the paper are given free with a year's subscription. There is something of interest in it for every member of every family.

It is hard to understand how they can afford to make such offers. The subscription price of the WEEKLY DISPATCH is 75 cents per annum, and the paper is the largest weekly published in Minnesota, consisting of from ten to sixteen pages a week.

Send postal card for sample copies of paper and premium supplement to "WEEKLY DISPATCH," St. Paul Minn.

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

Mrs. Pallen, of Crookston, is visiting acquaintances in Fertile this week.

Will Vannet came down from Crookston Saturday night, returning Monday morning.

The Fertile House is being treated to a fresh coat of paint. Gus Schmidt, of Crookston is the artist.

L. A. Gooler, assistant county superintendent of schools, has been visiting the schools in this neighborhood this week.

Steve Gulseth has purchased the Smalley house in the south part of town and is having the same fixed up preparatory to moving in.

The Ada Herald says that there is evidence that some one is raising a blind pig in Ada. Bro. Norby must have been blind or he would have discovered this long ago.

Fertile would be a good place for a starch factory and there is an excellent opening here for a man with some capital and a good knowledge of the business. The soil is well adapted to raising potatoes and 200 bushels per acre is an average crop.

Ole Viking a prominent farmer of the town of Garfield, died Tuesday night of typhoid fever. Deceased was about 45 years old and leaves a wife and several grown up children.

A farmer by the name of Smith, living on Section 18, in the town of Lockhart, had his entire crop burned up Saturday. His son while plowing set fire to the stubble, the fire spread fast and soon got beyond his control and set fire to eight stacks of grain—all the farmer had to his name.

Potatoes are selling for a good price in the eastern markets. When the early supply is exhausted there will also be a good demand for potatoes in the southeast. We advise farmers to dig their potatoes and store them as the price is bound to go up before spring.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From The Courier.]

John P. Bray left Tuesday evening for a southern trip, and will go south as far as the gulf.

Hiram Newman, of Prescott, Wis., reached the city yesterday morning to look after his landed interests.

County Attorney Gossman was in town on Tuesday, called here by the gambling case at Rood & Ildstad's.

T. J. McAdam received a telegram on Wednesday that his brother's wife had died at Duluth. The couple had been married but one year.

Thomas Patterson has purchased three lots in Lake Park addition and will at once commence the erection of a dwelling house which he and his family will occupy.

The race meeting of last week was not a success financially, and the presumption is quite strong that the race track will be converted into a farm for the production of wheat.

W. A. Gordon found in his cabbage patch on the Point a cabbage weighing 50 pounds. As cabbages are only worth 3 cents per head we fail to see any advantage in raising them so large.

We know whereof we affirm when we state that Ayer's Pills, taken promptly, at the first symptoms of colds and fevers, arrest further progress of these disorders, and speedily restore the stomach, liver, and bowels, to their normal and regular action.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 16, 1895.

As soon as Mr. Cleveland returned to Washington the force of detectives which form a cordon around the White House day and night went on duty again, and it is presumed that the sentry boxes, which were removed when Mr. Cleveland left last May, will soon disfigure the pretty grounds again. President Lincoln went through the exciting times of war without such careful guarding, but there is only one Grover Cleveland, and he thinks too many precautions cannot possibly be taken to ensure his safety. The people think—but Mr. Cleveland doesn't care what the people think.

It was given out that the cabinet meeting held this week was devoted entirely to arranging the trip to the Atlanta Exposition, but that was merely a blind. Matters of more importance than a presidential vote-catching junket was discussed. Among them being what recommendations shall be made to congress for legislation for the raising of additional revenue, it being now conceded, even by Mr. Cleveland and all the members of the cabinet, that more money will be needed by the government than the present tariff will ever bring in. Secretary Carlisle would like to get the money or part of it, by adding $1 a barrel to the tax on beer, but the attitude of the great brewers, who practically control what is known as the liquor vote of the country, has frightened him and the other members of the administration, and it is not probable that the recommendation will be made. It is certain that whatever recommendations in this line are made will be confined to internal revenue taxes. Those which were received with most favor at the cabinet meeting were a tax on bank checks, mortgages, conveyances of real estate, proprietary medicines and articles, and domestic wines. Notice has already been served on the administration by leading Republicans that the additional revenue will be raised by a revision of the tariff, regardless of the recommendations made to congress.

Gen. Horace Porter, New York's favorite after-dinner speaker, was in Washington, this week, to attend the annual meeting of the Loyal Legion, of which he is a popular officer. The general knows a thing or two about the politics of his city and state, of which he said: "There is every reason to believe that the union or fusion ticket will carry the city of New York. Tammany hall has not yet had time to rally from the crushing blow that the lovers of good municipal government inflicted upon it last year. The people do not mean to turn back after having made such a brave start toward inaugurating a better local administration, and they will give Tammany lesson number two in November. So far as concerns the state ticket the Republicans are perfectly satisfied. The opposition hasn't a ghost of a show of carrying the state."

It is a real pleasure to be able to commend the official utterances of a prominent Democratic official. The annual report of Mr. John L. Thomas, assistant attorney general for the post-office department hits a deserved blow at the growing evil—the adoption of lottery methods by business establishments—in a manner that deserves universal commendation. The report of Mr. Thomas after reciting the successes of the anti-lottery law, which, by the way, was like so many other good laws, of Republican origin, in shutting the lotteries out of the mail, says: "But many business men think they must, in order to succeed, resort to schemes that appeal to the gambling spirit of the people, and they accordingly sugar-coat their legitimate enterprises with lottery advertisements. These fascinating and apparently innocent schemes reach the boys and girls of the land and tend to make them gamblers."

The Maryland campaign has excited an even keener interest in Washington since it assumed such a personal aspect than it did in its earliest stages. Calling a man a liar usually means fight, but within ten days Senator Gorman has twice been publicly called a liar—first by Editor Abell, of the Baltimore Sun, and last by Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, who this week made a speech in Baltimore—and there has been no fight, and is not likely to be one; Mr. Gorman contenting himself with the chestnutty cry "you're another." Your correspondent has no means of knowing how this strikes the Democratic voters throughout the state of Maryland, but more than one of those who live in the vicinity of Washington have shown their disgust by such expressions as "Well, I didn't think Gorman was a coward!" and "Gorman ought to fight Abell and Roosevelt if he expects to be respected in Maryland." If that sort of feeling exists all over the state Mr. Gorman may find his failure to resent being called a liar harder to get around than his bad record as boss of the Democratic party of Maryland.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

The champion wheat yield thus far reported in Polk county is an acre belonging to J. O. Paradis of Red Lake Falls, which threshed out an even 55 bushels.

Andrew Anderson left on Tuesday for his home in Norway, where he will spend the winter.

The farmers in the vicinity of Fosston are now actually making a business of hauling wheat to town, but not in the wholesale way that will be the case in November.

S. C. Bagley has been making a trip up the Red Lake river in the interest of T. B. Walker, to find out what improvement is necessary to be made to enable him to drive logs from Red lake to Crookston. This probably means that a new and more powerful element than any now at work at Thief River Falls will commence operations at and above that place the coming year, and that the Jones-Meehan suit will fade into the dim past and be forgotten.

The well known farm machinery house of Larsen & Carpenter has now become a permanent fixture in Fosston, and has shown its confidence in the future by purchasing from Lewis Lohn the lot and building now occupied by them at the corner of Stephens avenue and Second street. Consideration said to be about $1200. This place of business was formerly occupied by Mr. Lohn when in the hardware trade, but has been used by Larsen & Carpenter for the past two years.

On Saturday last a destructive prairie fire swept across the northern part of the White Earth reservation, burning haystacks, stubble-fields and unprotected grain stacks in short order, coming into the southern part of Sletten and Rosebud towns at twenty-foot jumps. Some men were quite badly burned while trying to stop the flames by back-setting and plowing, and Olaf O. Staalan was so seriously scorched that he was brought to town senseless and taken to the Central House to die. Dr. McEachern took immediate charge of him, however, and he is now in a fair way to recover, though presenting a very bad face and hands to visitors. John A. Flesch lost a setting of wheat and oats on a place rented by him on the reservation.

AYER'S

The only

SARSAPARILLA

Admitted at the

WORLD'S FAIR

CHICAGO

1893

Why Was It

that Ayer's Sarsaparilla, out of the great number of similar preparations manufactured throughout the world, was the only medicine of the kind admitted at the World's Fair, Chicago? And why was it that, in spite of the united efforts of the manufacturers of other preparations, the decision of the World's Fair Directors was not reversed?

BECAUSE

According to RULE 15—"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition," and, therefore—

Because Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, and not a secret preparation.

Because its proprietors had nothing to conceal when questioned as to the formula from which it is compounded.

Because it is all that it is claimed to be—a Compound Concentrated Extract of Sarsaparilla, and in every sense, worthy the indorsement of this most important committee, called together for passing upon the manufactured products of the entire world.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla

Admitted for Exhibition

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Skin Eruptions

and similar annoyances are caused by an impure blood, which will result in a more dreaded disease. Unless removed, slight impurities will develop into Scrofula, Eczema, Salt Rheum and other serious results of

Bad Blood

I have for some time been a sufferer from a severe blood trouble, for which I took many remedies that did me no good. I have now taken four bottles of S.S.S. with the most wonderful results. Am enjoying the best health I ever knew, have gained twenty pounds and my friends say they never saw me as well. I am feeling quite like a new man. JOHN S. EDELIN, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Our Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free to any address.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Harry Ives was in from St. Hilaire on Monday.

Thomas Erwin was up from Fisher, on Monday.

Wheat opened the week a shade off—47 for I hard.

W. H. Mathews, of Ada, was in the city on Sunday.

Frank Kratka came down from Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

See Dan Sully to-night in his new play entitled "A Social Lion."

Charlie Kops, the northwestern music dealer, was in the city on Saturday.

A. F. LePage went to St. Paul last week for examination for railway postal clerk.

On Tuesday morning everybody said to everybody else: "Is it cold enough," etc.

Wm. Marin went up to Thief River Falls on Monday to look after some carpenter work.

Miss Martha Crookshanks was up from her school at Fargo for a Sunday visit at home.

A. G. Gnllash came up from St. Paul last week to look after business interests.

Frank Hawkins went down to Fisher, on Monday to run the engine at the flouring mills.

John Tiedeman was reported very ill with the typhoid fever at his home near Euclid, on Sunday.

Lars J. Rude, of the town of Knute was taken to the hospital last week —a victim of typhoid fever.

T. A. Hurris took his house-moving outfit to Red Lake Falls last week where he has a big job on hand.

Geo. Ralph's brother, William, who was so ill with typhoid fever, died on Friday and was buried at Red Lake Falls on Sunday.

Mrs. A. J. Ellingho and the children started for Wisconsin on Sunday evening for a visit at the old home to be gone until Christmas time.

If all signs do not fail there will not be as much wheat sown next year as this, for there will not be as much fall plowing done as usual.

Brakesman McNiel came over from Grand Forks on Saturday to sit down by Charlie Misner's stove for a visit with that weather prophet.

Frank Steelman, of Mentor, was examined on information of insanity. He was discharged on the opinion of the physician that he was not insane.

H. C. Misner, wife and son Harvey, and his nephew, Harrold, spent the Sabbath in the city, guests of C. E. Misner and family. H. C. is building a fine residence at Euclid this fall.

In many cases, the first work of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is to expel the effects of the other medicines that have been tried in vain. It would be a saving of time and money if experimenters took Ayer's Sarsaparilla AT FIRST instead of at last.

The Fair has a large line of 25c neckwear that beats the world.

Wesley Morris was one of the prominent farmers of Mentor who came in on Monday and set his subscription to the JOURNAL ahead one year. Mr. Morris says they labor under the disadvantage of having only one road at Mentor which cuts quite a figure in the marketing of wheat. Not long ago an opportunity was offered them to get the Duluth & Winnipeg road in there but they could not see what good it would do them—now they can see it just as easy! He says that some of the wheat raised in that vicinity was affected with smut and some so bad that it only goes rejected, while little if any is graded No. I hard. He thinks most of the farmers would haul to Tilden on the N. P. road if there was an elevator in operation there; but there isn't even a track-buyer there.

While the past fall has been the finest for good weather it is said to be the kind of weather that typhoid fever thrives on. People should be extremely careful what they eat and drink, especially avoiding river water. An ounce of prevention—(and quinine) is worth a pound of cure. We know the quinine is effectual anyhow.

The weather, since last Friday has been anything but settled. Thursday was an extremely hot day but Friday morning opened out to the queen's taste (if the queen likes the taste of cold weather.) Saturday was like unto that only not as windy, Sunday cold and quiet, Monday morning not so very cold but followed by a rain in the afternoon that was afterward succeded by a snow storm—a sort of a squaw winter. These premonitory symptoms admonish us that old winter is once more preparing to lock the earth in icy fetters, and we may as well prepare for it.

J. P. Foots took the flyer north on Monday morning.

The Ralph party returned from the survey on Saturday night.

Judge Ives took the train on the St. Hilaire branch on Wednesday.

Dr. Dampier was up at Euclid, last Friday, to visit a typhoid patient.

Miss Minnie Martin was in from her school near Warren to spend Sunday with her friends.

Chas. Borden, of Red Lake Falls, passed through the city on Sunday on his way to the twin cities.

County Attorney L. E. Gossman went over to East Grand Forks on gambling cases on Saturday.

Three or four patients have been admitted to the hospital within the week—victims of typoid fever.

Mrs. Fred Mix went north on the Flyer on Monday morning, for a visit with her brother's family at Stephen.

Will Greenhnigh and bride returned to Brainerd this week after a pleasant visit with his relatives in the city.

Guuder Krostue was up from Fisher, Friday evening, of last week, and met Congressman Eddy at Hotel Crookston.

Will Cleary, a former-known resident of this city was married at Stillwater on Tuesday to Miss Katherine McGrath of that city.

Rev. W. Hanson preached his first sermon at the Methodist church on Sunday. He is said to be an eloquent and earnest speaker.

Rev. and Mrs. Hanscom arrived on Friday, of last week, to make their home among us one year, at least. The JOURNAL bids them a cordial welcome.

A. E. Kribs, of Minneapolis was a passenger on the St. Hilaire branch on Monday morning bound for Thief River Falls to look after his lumbering interests.

Jack McPhee, of the Lockhart farm was over to Grand Forks last week to see his brother who is in the hospital there with typhoid fever. Reports prospects favorable for recovery at an early day.

Olof O. Stunlan, the man mentioned in the Fosston items elsewhere in this issue, is a cousin to the Steenerson Bros. It is said that he is rapidly recovering from his burns.

C. N. Lindsil was too busy on Saturday selling clothing at the Boston One Price Clothing House to go and get shaved, as is his universal custom on Saturday.

Dan Sully at the opera house tonight, in the "Social Lion." Theatre-goers will welcome Dan's return to our city. He is a good actor and deserves a full house.

Will Olds is indulging in a bit of a vaction visit south. He may take in Atlanta and his going at this time suggests that he may have had an understanding with Grover to go with the presidential party.

Two train-loads of cattle and one train-load of sheep were unloaded and fed at the stock yards on Saturday. Business has been pretty lively at the yards all the fall, it being considered a cold day when no train load of stock arrived.

Geo. M. Swift and wife were in from Mentor on Monday. Says he thinks that our farmers should manage in some way to save their surplus potatoes awhile and later on they will realize a good price for them. He does not think fifteen cents a bushel much of a price.

Congressman F. M. Eddy arrived on Friday in the gale and remained that day in the city. In the evening he visited the G. A. R. Post, before the regular excercises opened and afterward met a number of our citizens at the Hotel Crookston lobby. Saturday he spent at East Grand Forks, Sunday at Crookston and on Monday he went to Thief River Falls, spending Monday and Tuesday along the St. Hilaire branch, on Wednesday morning he went north to Hallock. The necessity of the addition of the Red Lake Reservation to the Crookston land district was presented to him and he is favorable to the plan. Mr. Eddy a is plain, unassuming man, does not try to seem more than he is and shows his belief in the theory of patronizing home industries by wearing a suit of clothes, the wool for which grew on Minnesota sheep, was woven in Minnesota mills and made up by Minnesota tailors. He will start for Washington about Nov. 11th.

A call at Mrs. I. U. Jennings' millinery store, on Monday morning, found that lady and her trimmers busy as bees trimming the pretty hats that are destined to adorn some fair ladies' knowledge box, but she had time to inform our reporter that business is on the increase. Besides the millinery goods, the Jap goods and the musical instruments, she carries the only extensive stock of human hair goods in the city and in this line any fancy can be suited, from a chestnut-sorrel, to an iron grey. She carries a full and complete stock in every line.

White Washing Done Everywhere

with

SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

All washing is not white washing, as all soap is not Santa Claus. That bath-brick tint when seen in clothes, always proves that they are strangers to Santa Claus Soap. Try it. Sold everywhere. Made by

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - CHICAGO.

T. H. Bjoin was out at Mentor, this week.

Lambs' wool slipper soles 25c a pair. The Fair.

Ladies' black double knit mittens for 25c at The Fair.

C. Stuhr and wife were down from Euclid, on Monday.

Dept. U. S. Marshall Morrison was in the city on Tuesday.

Chas. Netzer has gone to Argyle to work on the new hotel.

G. N. Kivel and Albert Jeuce were up from Fisher on Tuesday.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Miss Kittie Stuhr came down from Red Lake Falls, on Monday.

Atty. C. E. Boughton, of Red Lake Falls, was in the city on Tuesday.

Mrs. Judge Reynolds has gone to St. Cloud to visit her son, George H.

Wild geese have been winging their way southward during the past week.

Landlord J. A. Baker has rented Mr. Sawyer's residence and takes possession this week.

Mike Kavenagh was up from Fisher, on Monday, chatting with friends and acquaintances.

Otto Burkhardt arrived from Wabasha on Tuesday morning for a visit with his folks and brother.

Dr. Dunlop, has returned from Pembroke, Ont., where he was called by the serious illness of his mother.

Mrs. Sadie Childs went up to Warren on Tuesday summoned to attend the sick bed of her brother.

Mrs. Robert Stanton has gone to her old home in Iowa summoned by news of the serious illness of her mother.

Geo. H. Ralph and family went to Red Lake Falls on Sunday to attend the funeral of Mr. Ralph's brother.

See the new ad of the Crookston Furniture Co. on our first page and try them for bargains in furniture.

People with hair that is continually falling out, or those that are bald, can stop the falling, and get a good growth of hair by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Mrs. T. E. Adams, who has been intending to go to Great Falls on a visit, has given up the idea of going before spring and will then extend the trip to the coast.

T. G. Thompson, J. E. Morrisey and A. Dufresne went to Dakota this week to get a whack at wild geese before they all go south. They are said to be very plentiful over there, over there."

Remember the adjourned post meeting tomorrow evening, comrades.

E. B. Himmelsbach was in from the farm near Marin station, on Tuesday.

A. C. Cowing went out west of Stephen, last week to hunt the festive wild goose.

The work of flushing the hydrants that is going on this week is a timely precaution.

Oc Sargeant spent the Sabbath with his family in the city returning to his work at Himmelsbach's new farm house in the town of Fairfax Monday. Expects to be through in about two weeks.

Al. Sargeant was down from Marshall county, where he is threshing this fall, for a business visit this week. He expects to go back to Rainy Lake country when the threshing season ends.

S. L. Collins has been shipping potatoes to Ire—no,—Iowa, by the carload lot. The Iowans have had a taste of Polk county potatoes and recognize a good thing when they see it.

J. B. Sauve lost a pocket-book containing quite a sum of money and some wheat checks and fortunately an honest boy found it and Mr. Sauve recovered it after a good bit of worry.

Chas. E. Sawyer and family left this week for a six weeks' visit to his folks in Chicago from whence Mr. S. may extend his visit south. On his return the family will be domiciled at Hotel Crookston until spring.

Monday morning opened up bright and beautiful and very much warmer, succeeding a freezing night. In the afternoon it began to rain and grow warmer. Hicks says it will be warm until about the 24th, when we may look for quite cold weather.

Will Wilkins, the hustling Becker county machine man, complained of "being off his feed" a good bit last week. When Will grumbles you can wager he is not feeling purty gude think you. He would not feel very good this week, either, if he was not so busy selling hay presses.

The prisoners at the county jail (some of them) have been put on a bread-and-water diet in the effort to tame them. The hoboes who were sent there for the brewery raid have been very boisterous nights, with their shouting and singing, and all remonstrances failing they will now be subjected to a little mild discipline and see how that works.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jewele .

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT.
WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT.
J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

"One Price and That Right."

Fontaine and Anglim.

The Leading and and Largest Store in the Red River Valley.

AN absolute Clearance of the Stock of Infants' Cloaks is ordered. The stock consists of some 250 garments—ranging in size from one to four years old. We expect the low prices to force these goods out quickly. Only a few of the many can find mention in detail.

At 79c.

Infants' Flannel Cloaks —heavy cotton flannel lined—extra large sleeves —braid trimming—Reduced from $1.10. Sizes 1 to 4 years.

At $1.07.

Infants' Grey or Tan Eiderdown Cloaks—fine sateen lined—braid trimming. Sizes from 1 to 4 years. Reduced from $1.50.

At $1.29.

Infants' all-wool Eiderdown Cloaks—Tan—Red —White—fine sateen lined. Reduced from $2.00.

At $1.47.

Infants' all-wool Eiderdown Cloaks—cotton flannel lined. Angora wool trimmed. Colors: White, Gray and Tan. Price reduced from $2.10

$2.25	CLOAKS	AT	$1.59
$2.80	"	"	$1.97
$3.15	"	"	$2.09
$3.90	"	"	$2.69
$4.50	"	"	$3.39
$5.50	"	"	$4.29

Underwear.

Extraordinary—direct from underwear builders of reliability and renown at from 25c. to one dollar under ruling prices.

If there's a person within reach of us who has need of anything in Clothing, Dry Goods, Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, now is their money saving opportunity.

A postal card directed to us will bring you a new Fall Price List.

Mail orders promptly and conscientiously attended to.

Nervous

People should realize that the only true and permanent cure for their condition is to be found in having

Pure Blood

Because the health of every organ and tissue of the body depends upon the purity of the blood. The whole world knows the standard blood purifier is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

And therefore it is the only true and reliable medicine for nervous people. It makes the blood pure and healthy, and thus cures nervousness, makes the nerves firm and strong, gives sweet sleep, mental vigor, a good appetite, perfect digestion. It does all this, and cures Scrofula, Eczema, or Salt Rheum and all other blood diseases, because it

Makes

Pure Blood

Results prove every word we have said. Thousands of voluntary testimonials fully establish the fact that

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Be Sure to Get Hood's

"I have had scrofula for five years. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and it cured me." LYDIA JACOBSON, Luverne, Minn.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness. headache. 25c.

The train on the St. Hilaire branch failed to arrive on time Monday night—in fact did not get here until Tuesday afternoon all on account of an accident at St. Hilaire by which the engine ran off the track, requiring a long time to get it back.

Barney Tiedeman and Lewis Giese were in from Tabor on Tuesday. Mr. Tiedeman said that his brother John, who is so ill with typhoid fever, had a good rest Monday night and the conditions seem favorable for an early recovery.

W. C. Andrew, the accomplished travelling man for the Wright, Barrett & Stilwell Co., of St. Paul, spent the Sabbath at Hotel Crookston and attended services at the Congregational church in the evening.

LOST.

Strayed from my premises at Crookston, a large white spotted cow. Return to

ERICKSON & ANDERSON.

Chris Hoch, DeForest Bucklen and A. G. Anderson went over into Dakota, last week, after wild geese. The reports they sent back set all the boys crazy to go forth and help slay them (the geese) and the result was several parties from here went over this week.

A hunting party consisting of A. C. Schmidt, Dr. Dunlop, Will Hoch and possibly one or two more will take to the woods out east, next week, after deer and other large game. They expect to be gone a week or more and get lots of exercise anyway whether they bag any game or not.

W. L. Carlyle came up this week and went down to Neby to hold the first of the series of dairy schools that will be held in this county this fall. These schools have been of great benefit to the farmers of Polk county giving them many valuable hints in an important industry.

F. C. Saugstad, a former resident of this city, stopped off a few minutes on Saturday evening to blow his bugle with old-time friends. All of his immediate neighbors will remember that cornet he used to blow when he lived here.

The hint from the weather clerk, last week, should be heeded by all who have potatoes in the ground, for it is now not impossible that we may have nights severe enough to freeze potatoes in the ground. We have had a remarkably fine fall for all out-door work, but it would be more remarkable if it should continue like that until late in the fall.

Charlie Lindell and Frank Hawkins drove out to Lalande's on Sunday to see Frank's bicycle—or the colt that Frank traded a bike for. While Frank has a good one all right enough, Charlie thought he would not trade his stepper for it even if he had a chance, as he thinks he has something good in the one he drives—and that seems to be the opinion of good horsemen also.

Prof. Woodworth, of Grand Forks, preached two excellent sermons at the Congregational house in this city, on Sunday last, having good sized audiences both times. Alluding to labor troubles and the various agitations and reforms now engaging the attention of people, in his evening sermon, he said that the only true reform that would remedy existing troubles must begin in the heart of mankind and must be carried out there. Prof. W. is a powerful speaker as well as earnest and sincere in all his utterances.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.
The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H. BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.
Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental. PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

BEFORE AFTER NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis............
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.......
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods......
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness........
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions..
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes.......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough....................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing.........
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases....................
28	Nervous Debility....................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30	Urinary Weakness...................
31	Painful Periods......................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria.....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER.

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 35, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

DULUTH BANK FAILS ON ACCOUNT OF DEFAULTING CASHIER.

St. Paul's Population Classified as to Nationality and Occupation—Burglars Do a Thriving Business at Fairfax. Great Northern Brakemen Let Out For Allowing Hobos to Ride.

Winona is supporting a night school this year.

Mapleton Odd Fellows dedicated their new hall.

Duluth is working for the '96 meeting of the National Education association.

Half a million bushels of potatoes in Isanti county are said to have been frozen.

The next annual convention of the German Catholic societies will be held at St. Cloud.

Sleepy Eye has sold $20,000 of 5 per cent bonds for the purpose of completing her new schoolhouse.

A St. Paul man has been declared insane. He imagined he had an even hundred children, all 4 years of age.

Lamberton will have a Lutheran church dedication Sunday. A contract for a new Catholic church has also been let.

At Renville, Charles Clyde, a brakeman, was blown from the top of a car and had his head nearly severed by the wheels.

A Jackson photographer has been arrested for fraudulent use of the mails. He professed to possess a love powder that was a "wonder."

Judge Gilfillan celebrated the 40th anniversary of his advent in Minneapolis by the entertainment of a notable company of old residents.

Governor Clough has appointed ex-Senator W. B. Dean of St. Paul, and J. E. E. Johnson of Minneapolis, as members of the state board of arbitration.

Twelve Great Northern brakemen on the Fergus Falls division have been discharged for failing to comply with the regulations relative to carrying hoboes.

At Princeton George Goff, 20 years old, was fatally injured by a wood saw. His right arm was cut off and he was cut through the chest and abdominal cavity.

The Great Northern is putting in a sidetrack at St. Vincent to accommodate the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company, which is building a new 80,000-bushel elevator.

Frank Kaawitz, a German farmer residing near Ortonville, brutally kicked and pounded his wife to death. He had been drinking and, going home, quarreled with his wife.

The Snow Church company, a mercantile, law and collection agency, operating in St. Paul and Minneapolis, made a voluntary assignment for the benefit of its creditors to Matt Clark.

The big saw mills of E. W. Backus & Co., at Minneapolis, were totally destroyed by fire Friday night, entailing a loss of $125,000. The efforts of the firemen saved the lumber yards surrounding the mill.

R. B. Bashford of Winona, well known in insurance circles in Southern Minnesota, has voluntarily resigned the position of inspector for the Southern Minnesota bureau, a position which he has held since the establishment of the bureau 12 years ago.

The State bank of Duluth, of which Charles Stucky, who fled last week with $15,000, was the cashier, has gone up. There is considerable county and state money in the bank and a large amount in individual deposits, but the directors say that every dollar will be paid.

The business sessions of the convention of the Minnesota Christian Endeavorers at Duluth ended Saturday evening, when Minneapolis was selected as the next meeting place and the following officers were selected: President, C. H. Hunt, Minneapolis; secretary, Carrie A. Holbrook, St. Paul.

The grand lodge, Sons of Hermann, wound up the annual session with a typical German social. All the old officers were re-elected. It was decided to raise the initiation fee to a minimum of $5, and annual dues from $4 to $6. The time for the grand lodge meeting was changed from October to January.

Twenty-three saloonkeepers of St. Paul appeared before Judge Kelly of the district court to plead to indictments charging them with keeping disorderly houses. Alderman Murphy was among the lot. All of them said "not guilty," when asked about the matter by the court, and each gave bonds for appearance in the sum of $250.

Burglars entered the offices of the Norton Milling company at Fairfax, blew open the safe and took the contents, which were quite large. They also broke into the saloon of John Palmer, and, after blowing the safe, got $17 for their trouble. The hardware store of Bregie & Frank was also visited, the safe opened and rifled to the tune of $400.

The state census bureau has issued a report on the nativity of the St. Paul population, showing that of the 140,292 people in this city, 91,606 are native born; 2,266 natives of England, 5,341 of Ireland, 755 of Scotland, 73 of Wales, 15,623 of Germany, 268 of France, 1,350 of Denmark, 10,190 of Sweden, 2,966 of Norway, 2,359 of Russia and 7,496 of all other countries.

The state census bureau has issued another bulletin classifying the people of St. Paul by occupation as follows: Farmers, 274; common laborers, 9,071; mechanics and engineers, 4,914; miners, 11; lumbermen and woodmen, 62; professional men, 1,676; clerks, 4,184; dealers, supply men and agents, 4,789; railway men, 1,882; cooks, porters, bartenders, etc., 1,420; merchants and store keepers, 1,493; retired, 195; manufacturers, 322, unclassified, 5,981.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

SUMMARY OF WEEK'S NEWS.

Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Mrs. Bedell of New York grew a pearl in one of her teeth.

About 200 of the leading architects of the American Institute of Architects are in annual session at St. Louis.

The annual convention of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' association of the United States is in convention at Washington.

The third annual convention of the National Spiritualists' association is in session at Washington and will continue three days.

The trial of Theodore Durrant has been continued until Monday next owing to the illness of Attorney Denprey, leading counsel of the defense.

Judge Ingraham of New York city has resentenced Thomas Kerrigan to die in the electric chair during the week beginning Dec. 2 for the murder of Aaron Alexander.

Thursday, Oct. 17.

Judge Joseph M. Bailey of the Illinois supreme court, is dead.

It is reported that Brazil has recognized the Cuban insurgents as belligerents.

M. Boique, chief inspector of the water supply of Brussels, was murdered by a discharged subordinate.

The state department has received from Ambassador Patenotre of France the invitation of the French republic to take part in the French exposition of 1900.

The Wallow Springs (Neb.) distillery, one of the largest plants of the kind in the country, will shortly resume operations after having been idle several months.

The Stanford case has been appealed to the United States supreme court. The order allowing the appeal was signed in the United States court of appeals Wednesday.

While a new oil motor street car, crowded with Glasgow town councillors and others, was making a trial the oil tank caught fire and the car was burned in the middle of the street. All the passengers escaped.

Friday, Oct. 18.

It is reported that Brazil has recognized the Cubans as belligerents.

As election draws near the fight on German in Maryland grows more bitter.

Preparations for the production of anti-toxine at the Missouri state university are almost complete.

Canadian banks are worried by the circulation of American silver coins and certificates in their country.

From the howl that is going up about liability of congress to raise the beer tax it is supposed the brewers have cut off the funds of the lobbyists.

The immense shoe factory of Selz, Schwab & Co. in Chicago has been closed because of the erratic course of the leather market.

Saturday, Oct. 19.

A constitution of 23 articles has been adopted by the Cuban revolutionary government.

American National university trustees have decided to begin work on the Hall of History.

The Union Veteran Legion has elected Colonel George C. James of Cincinnati national commander.

Morris Schoenholz, the convicted New York firebug, was sentenced to 48 years in states prison.

There is a good deal of kicking over the work of the Dawes Indian commission on account of its slowness.

Bandits used dynamite on a Missouri, Kansas and Texas express car near Belton, Tex., but were frightened away.

Jim Burris was sentenced to be hanged at Fort Worth, Tex., Friday, Dec. 13, for the murder of Officer Waller.

The annual report of the quartermaster general shows that the army is better cared for than any time since the civil war.

At San Francisco Mamie Scott, a California bred horse, broke the world's record for seven and a half furlongs going the distance in 1:33¼.

Monday, Oct. 21.

Secretary Carlisle has decided to give the sugar bounty claimants a hearing.

Wellhouse & Sons' big paper mills, at Atlanta, Ga., have been burned. Loss, $90,000.

Warrants have been issued for 133 out of 533 judges of election of Louisville, Ky.

Joseph Bartlett of Vevinville, Ia., had so many family troubles that he blew his brains out.

Agent Beck has reported the arrest of the chief leader of the Flournoy Land company frauds.

The surgeon general's annual report shows less alcoholism in the army than ever before in its history.

Tuesday, Oct. 22.

J. J. Wreun, ex-champion cross-country runner of America, is dead.

Cashier Van Bokkein of a Chicago bank returned $5,000 of the $35,000 he stole.

An active volcano has been found in the Olympic mountains, Washington state.

Don M. Dickinson was defeated for nomination for mayor of Detroit in the Democratic city convention.

William Miller, a well known St. Paul newsdealer, died suddenly at an early hour Tuesday morning.

A dispatch from Vienna says that Field Marshal Dunst-Adelsholm and his wife committed suicide. Their self destruction is attributed to financial troubles.

Eastbound shipments from Chicago last week amounted to 86,023 tons against 88,898 for the previous week and 45,594 tons for the corresponding week of last year.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA,
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior. 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent. N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates? Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON.......President
L. ELLINGTON.......Vice President
J. W. WHEELER.......Cashier
A. P. HANSON.......Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts..
CROOKSTON. - - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.

Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK-BOOK FREE! 320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Game, etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. Huron & Oak Streets, TOLEDO, OHIO.

H. STEENERSON,

Attorney-at-Law,
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,

Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE——
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor .... David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor .... Frank A. Day
Secretary of State .... F. P. Brown
Attorney General .... H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist .... Frank M. Eddy

Senator 51st Sen. dist .... P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist ... John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice .... Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court .... Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist .... Frank Ives
Clerk of Court .... John Vig

County.

Auditor .... John Gleason
Treasurer .... J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds .... A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney .... L. E. Gossman
Sheriff .... Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate .... C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools .... O. McCrillis
Surveyor .... O. L. Hamery
Coroner .... John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District .... John E. Oppegaard
Second District .... Anton Lindem
Third District .... M. E. Kirsch
Fourth District .... Henry Norland
Fifth District .... A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor .... John McKinnon
Clerk .... W. A. Lanctot
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer .... Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller .... August Oeorg
Assessor .... C. H. Mix
City Attorney .... Martin O'Brien
City Engineer .... George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables .... A. A. Olenn, Wm. Bloom.
Chief of Police .... Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large .... C. E. Sawyer
First Ward .... A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Bohn
Second " .... J. E. Morrisey, E. C. Davis
Third " .... Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth " .... N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth " .... A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
Black River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
Bray	C C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....
Crookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fanny	J O McWaters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondron	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Bendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Nellsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	O H Froats	O Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Olbean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Matteson	Ovetla
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Merager	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Albue	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marin	Melvin
Parnell	S W Blean	Huot
Poplar River	J S Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Houkom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildaig Baril	R L Falls
Reis	D C Halleck	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rockshurg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
Roseaud	John E Juverud	Fosston
Russia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cerousek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Perrass	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
[illegible]	....	....
Vineland
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Baldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
T R Fall	Lars Backe	T R Falls

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timberland. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston, [15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

What Can't Pull Out?

Why the Non-pull-out Bow on the Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases, made by the Keystone Watch Case Company, Philadelphia. It protects the Watch from the pickpocket, and prevents it from dropping. Can only be had with cases stamped with this trade mark.

Sold, without extra charge for this bow (ring), through Watch dealers only.

Lots of watch cases are spoiled in the opening. An opener to obviate this sent free

DR. PEFFER'S FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence

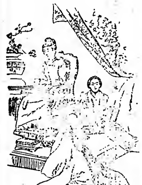
EVERY GENUINE HUNT'S AXE IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE EMPRESS OF JAPAN AND HER DOWDY COSTUMES.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor—Woman, Religion and Law—Novelties In Jewelry—The Dainty Mull Gown—Lady Norreys on Knickerbockers—Girls In New York.

This quaint sketch of the Japanese empress was made by a native artist, who loses every idea of grace when he deals with European costume. It is not much to be wondered at in the case of this fair sovereign, whose foreign clothes are of the ugliest fashion of 17 years ago. What ignorant and vulgar person furnishes these garments it would be interesting to know. Probably the unsalable costumes of London dressmakers, costumes put together in the late seventies, are unloaded upon trusting oriental palace officials by some ingenious introducer of civilization.



EMPRESS OF JAPAN.

It is a pity to so spoil the really charming personality of the empress, who used to be bewitching in the pretty clothes of her own land. This drawing represents the sovereign and her ladies engaged in preparing lint for the Japanese wounded—a most womanly occupation.—New York Tribune.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor.

The liveliest piece of recent news from Michigan university was set forth in a newspaper dispatch which tells of the brave stand made by certain of the women students at Ann Arbor in defense of one of woman's newest rights.

Miss Dey, a junior, wears bloomers when she rides a bicycle, as all women do who choose. But she can't ride a bicycle all the time, and finding it an inconvenience to change her raiment from hour to hour she fell into the habit of wearing bloomers around her boarding house. Mrs. Eames, who keeps the boarding house, is not a "new woman," but one of the older fashioned sort who believe in skirts. She told Miss Dey that bloomers did not "go" in her house, so Miss Dey compromised and agreed to wear bloomers only when she rode her bicycle. But Miss Brown of the Medical school cried "Tyranny!" when she heard of it and put her bloomers right on and sallied forth into the street and declared war. Some of the professors' wives who ride bicycles sided with her and declared it to be the constitutional right of every woman to wear bloomers with or without bicycles whenever she would. Then Mrs. Eames rose up and declared that she would have no bloomers worn about her house if she lost every bloomering boarder she had! Now there is war in Ann Arbor. But of course the bloomers will win. The town has been a stronghold of women's rights ever since its university started, and if women want a new right at any time there is no better place to seize it in.

A place for bloomers and every bloomer in its place may be a good rule, but there is small chance for it to be enforced in Ann Arbor. Certainly this presents a grave question of casuistry, and women will do well to consider it. The Bachelor's opinion is that only pretty women should wear bloomers at any time.—Bachelor of Arts.

Woman, Religion and Law.

Among unused manuscripts accumulated in the office of The Woman's Tribune is one by the late lamented Dr. Grace Danforth. The following part of it is still timely, and especially so in view of the present comments by women on the Bible:

"Had the religious scientists or political worthies of 2,000 years ago received their education in a modern college, their views would have been modified in many respects. What could they know of woman's condition in an age of invention, where machinery has relieved her in large measure from constant attendance upon household necessities? Where she can pass alone with perfect freedom around the globe? There would be no freedom for man, if, like woman, he persisted in wasting his time sifting the religious ashes of the past. What woman needs is not the study of the Bible and creed, but history and law. Law does not teach that woman brought sin into the world, but it does reflect the consequences of such teaching. As long as woman has not self respect enough to spurn such slander, she will never win her freedom, neither is she worthy of it. We cannot advance with our faces to the past. The future contains hope for woman, and all the inspiration needed to grasp its possibilities is an earnest purpose and confidence in her powers. This she can never acquire so long as she bows the knee to the opinions of an age that regarded her merely as man's handmaiden. We refuse the opinions of that age on every other subject. Why should they still be used to enforce woman's inferiority, and most wonderful still, why should woman hug the chains that bind her, and by every sophistry try to prove they are not chains? Is it not the natural outcome of the slavery in which she has been held for ages?"

Novelties In Jewelry.

The desire to meet the tastes of those who have gratified themselves with the

LIGHT AND AIRY.

An Old Time Novel.

A pretty girl
With wavy curl,
An evening party somewhat late,
A homeward walk,
A loving talk,
A kissing tableau at the gate.
A moonlight night,
A hand squeezed tight,
A little reference to papa,
A little kiss,
A little bliss,
A consultation with mamma.
A little church,
"For bad or worse
You take this maid your wife to be?"
A trembling yes,
A loving press,
A little wife to live with me.
—Williams' Weekly.

Tales of Terror.

They were telling war stories.

Brown—I ate mule meat once for three days.

Smith—I was seven months a prisoner at Andersonville.

Jones—Well, gentlemen, I wasn't in the war, but I've spent 19 years in boarding houses.—Chicago Record.

The Mournful Consideration.

Ah, this dolce far niente, with its leisure hours a-plenty,
When the mercury is rising in the glass,
All life's torrid griefs forgetting in the oscillating netting
Of the hammock as it sweeps the waving grass!

How we generously pity those who summer in the city
While we quaff the breezes from the hill or bay!
Oh, this dolce far niente! But, alas, it costs you twenty Every day the gentle landlord lets you stay!
—Washington Star.

Anticipated His Readers.

"My hero dies in the middle of my last story," said the young author.

"That's a grave mistake," replied the editor. "He should not die before the reader does. I've heard of three men who actually finished your book before they gave in."—Atlanta Constitution.

What Did It.

His eyes had a dull, unintelligent stare.
He staggered and turned from the desk in a daze.
Bewilderingly through his disordered hair
His fingers he ran, while he uttered such phrase
As only a tottering mind would invent.
Was he drunk? Had he rashly and recklessly tried
Some knockout concoction, with deadly intent?
Oh, no! He'd been reading a Traveler's Guide.
—Richmond Dispatch.

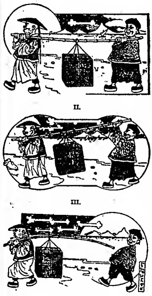
Unfair.

Lawyer For the Defense—I charge the prosecution with attempting to intimidate our witness, Mr. Enpec.

Lawyer For the Prosecution—What have we done?

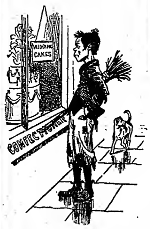
Lawyer For the Defense—Allowed his wife to visit him.—Exchange.

Behind His Back.



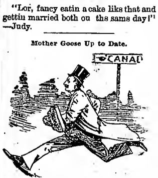
—From the German.

Bliss!



"Lor, fancy eatin a cake like that and gettin married both on the same day!"—Judy.

Mother Goose Up to Date.



Tom, Tom, the swiper's son,
Stole some cash, and away he run.
He's struck a gait
For Canada straight,
And he hasn't been heard from up to date.

Judgment!

From every tobacco chewer is wanted as to the merits of LORILLARD'S Climax PLUG.

All good judges of chewing tobacco have thus far been unanimous in pronouncing it the best in quality, the most delicious in flavor, the best in every way. It's Lorillard's.
Ask the dealer for it.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

Worthy of Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor strength and health restored to the body.

LOST.

Strayed from my premises at Crookston, a large white spotted cow. Return to ERICKSON & ANDERSON.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET. - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 0:00pm; St. Paul 8:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent.
St. Paul.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Anine Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 30 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were, by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1895, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 566, duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olaf O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, situated, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November, 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE,
Assignee of said Mortgage.
Moritz Heim,
Attorney for Assignee.
Bank of Minnesota Building,
St. Paul, Minnesota.
[23-29]

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at .... 7:25 p. m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at .... 7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry, Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.
Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.
Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.
Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.
Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.
Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.
Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8.50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9.00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
9th DAY
18th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant,
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

CUBA LIBRE.

Fargo will hold a grand mass meeting on the evening of Oct. 31, to act on the question whether Uncle Sam should recognize the Cubans as belligerents. There seems to be a general opinion among the masses in favor of this course. The position of the Cubans seems to be about that occupied by the Americans previous to and during the Revolutionary war—a desperate struggle for liberty and every true American heart beats in sympathy with the patriotic Cubans. Everywhere all over the United States these meetings are being held. What's the matter with Crookston? Has not the spirit of '76 a home here?

Rev. H. P. Fisher is expected home in time to occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church on Sunday.

T. G. Thompson, J. E. Morrisey and A. Dufresne returned from the Dakota hunt Tuesday night reporting that they found Chris Hoch and 42 geese all of which they brought home with them.

O. H. Bjoin commenced on the excavation for the cellar to his new barn this week. Does not intend to do anything more than get the cellar ready this fall.

Col. Cobham Post, at its last regular meeting, discussed the matter of the dedication of the new Grand Army Hall and decided to try and arrange it so as to have it some evening in November, probably November 21st. The meeting was adjourned until Friday evening Oct. 25, at which time it is hoped there will be a full attendance so that final arrangements can be made. Every comrade who can do so should arrange to be present at the adjourned meeting to-morrow evening.

"And potatoes they grow small, in Maumee, in Maumee, and they eat them tops and all in Maumee," but they dont in Polk county nor do they dispose of them that way. The crop has been so abundant that it is a serious question what to do with all of 'em as the present market price—when one can find a market, is not very encouraging. But they will all be needed somewhere on this great footstool and later on those who have potatoes to sell will be glad he line.

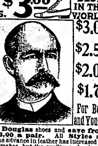
Always Gives Satisfaction.

"The children are greatly pleased with the paper dolls which were sent for one trade mark from Hood's Pills and ten cents in stamps. I have used Hood's Pills in my family and can truthfully say that they have always given the best satisfaction." F. C. Neumeier, Pub. "Post," Stillwater, Minn.

Hood's Pills cure indigestion.

On Friday night officer Aaron Eck was conducting a hobo to the lock-up when all of a sudden the hobo broke away from him and lit out at a rate that defied the officer's best paces, so that individual pulled his gun and fired two shots—into the ground. The hobo was evidently "onto the combination" and did not stop just a little bit, and would no doubt have gotten away but just at this time Barnes, the athlete, appeared and "catching on" to the situation asked the officer if he wanted that man caught. Receiving an affirmative reply he started in pursuit and very soon he had the hobo rounded up and Aaron marched him to the cooler and safely locked him in. Barnes' prowess as a sprinter came in good play for once anyway.

1,000,000 People Wear
W.L.Douglas Shoes
HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.



$5.00
$4.00
$3.50
$2.50
$2.25
For Men
$3.00
$2.50
$2.00
$1.75
For Boys and Youths
Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by

SILVER SENATORS TO BOLT.

Must Have the Vacancy on the Finance Committee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Senator Teller, who has just arrived in Washington for the winter, says that the silver Republicans in the senate will not agree to the reorganization of the senate by the Republicans when congress reconvenes except upon condition that they be allowed to fill the vacancy on the finance committee caused by the retirement of Senator McPherson. He also expressed the opinion that the president in his annual message would recommend the retirement of the greenbacks, and predicted that if he should do so the recommendation would have the effect of opening up the entire financial question.

BIG FIGHT DECLARED OFF.

Fitzsimmons Refused to Agree to Postponement.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 21.—The fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons is declared off by the Florida Athletic club at a conference between the managers of Corbett and Fitzsimmons. The club asked that the contest be postponed until Nov. 11. Brady acquiesced, but Julian would not.

The contest was then declared off, Brady then said his last say, that Corbett would meet any man in the world, Fitzsimmons preferred, on Nov. 11, the man to be named within 24 hours. Vendig announced he would match Maher against Corbett, and find some one to take his place against O'Donnell.

Glove Contests Not Prohibited.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 22.—Judge Leatherman has released Corbett on a writ of habeas corpus. The case terminated just as everybody here expected it would. Even those who are bitterly opposed to the contemplated glove contest coming off in Hot Springs or any other section of Arkansas felt that where there seemed to be such a slight foundation for operation under the law, when it came to a test a decision would be forthcoming that would be unsatisfactory to them. Governor Clarke was apparently the first to discover that there was no statutory prohibition to prize fighting or glove contests; that the act of 1891 had not passed the house as amended by the senate; that instead of the bill as amended passing as constitutionally provided, by roll call, it simply passed by a viva voce vote, hence, was not legally passed.

SPAIN OBJECTS TO IT.

Will Not Allow Secretary Olney to Investigate Matters in Cuba.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The Times-Herald's Washington correspondent sends the following: Haughty Spain declines to permit the United States to conduct an investigation into the condition of affairs in Cuba. The project of sending a commission of inquiry to Cuba has therefore been abandoned. Secretary Olney did not make a formal proposal of this nature, but instructed the United States minister at Madrid, Mr. Taylor, to sound the Spanish foreign office as to its views. To this end inquiry was orally made and an oral reply was given thereto by the Spanish premier.

Senor Canovas informed Mr. Taylor that Spain could not entertain such a proposal; that the rebellion in Cuba was a small affair, with which Spain was abundantly able to deal without assistance from any other power. That Spain could not for one moment consider any proposal on the part of a foreign power to conduct an investigation into the domestic affairs of his majesty's government. Minister Taylor communicated this reply to Secretary Olney by telegraph, the dispatch was before the cabinet at its meeting on Friday and the president and his advisers agreed to abide by Spain's decision.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Twenty-Second Annual Meeting in Session at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20.—The 22nd annual convention of the National W. C. T. U. has begun here. The morning prayer meeting was led by Miss Elizabeth W. Greenwood, national evangelistic superintendent. The delegates to the convention took seats by states in Music hall. The stage was festooned with evergreen and the national flag is everywhere displayed.

At 10 o'clock, Miss Frances E. Willard called the convention to order. Mrs. Monroe of the Ohio W. C. T. U. offered a prayer. Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman of Missouri, the recording secretary, began the calling of the roll. At the conclusion of the roll call, the minutes of the executive committe were read. Committees were then appointed on credentials, on telegrams and on courtesies. Miss Willard then read her annual address.

FAVOR THE SETTLERS.

Sioux City Road Beaten in a Case Before the Federal Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—In the United States supreme court opinions were rendered in a number of cases argued at the last term of court. Justice Harlan read the court's opinion in the suits over lands embraced in the grant to the Sioux City and St. Paul Railroad company in O'Brien and Dickinson counties, Ia., to which the Sioux City road, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, the United States and the settlers on the lands were parties. It was claimed by the government and the settlers that the Sioux City road had failed to earn about 21,000 acres of these lands, and the decision of the court sustained this contention. The court failed to take cognizance of the claim of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road that it was entitled to the lands at the intersection of the two lines which the Sioux City company had failed to earn.

GIVEN MORE TIME.

Judge Lacombe Postpones Northern Pacific Matters for a Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The hearing on the application for the removal of Thomas F. Oakes, Henry C. Payne and Henry C. Rouse, receivers of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, appointed August, 1893, which was to have been continued before Judge Lacombe in the United States circuit court, was adjourned for one week on request of Counsel Herbert Turner, who stated that he thought the interested parties would have settled matters between themselves by that time.

Typhoid and Diphtheria.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The health department declared both diphtheria and typhoid fever epidemic in Chicago. The department reported 330 new cases of diphtheria last week, 49.4 per cent of which were fatal. The epidemics are charged to impure water, and the health commissioner has issued a warning against the drinking of unboiled water.

WORK OF EPISCOPALIANS.

What Has Been Accomplished by the Minneapolis Convention.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—The national convention of the Episcopal church has closed, as far as actual work is concerned. The actual work accomplished has not been great. Those whose main idea has been to prevent any great amount of legislation seem to have won a signal victory at this convention, for when the work is summed up it will be found to be comparatively small in extent, and, what is more, the members of the convention seem perfectly satisfied that it should be as it is.

There is a little comment in some directions at the way in which matters have been referred to the next convention, and the question has been asked, if it is not peculiar to refer everything to future gatherings? This remark was brought particularly Saturday, when the house of bishops referred the new canon on marriage and divorce to the next convention, practically declaring that there would be no legislation in this direction this year. This is an important matter and has been discussed at great length in the religious press, until it was confidently expected by many that this convention would be prepared to settle the subject for good. It looks now, though, as if it would be something that the convention would always have before it.

Legislation Accomplished.

What has the convention done? In the first place, it has provided for several new dioceses in California, Kentucky, Northern Michigan, Northern Minnesota. It has elected a bishop of Alaska and refused to elect another bishop of Japan. It has decided that the assistant bishop in any diocese shall hereafter be known as the bishop-coadjutor. It has adopted resolutions and looked after a number of necessary details, and before the windup will probably have decided to place the house of bishops on a legislative equality with the house of deputies. Both houses are agreed on this point, and it is something that has failed to go through at past conventions. Of course the proposed change will have to go down to the diocese and cannot go into effect until the next convention adopts it. The point in this portion of the constitution is this:

In the past the bishops have been compelled to act on all legislation coming from the house of deputies within three days, or else such legislation would go into effect without the bishops' sanction. Now the bishops are not handicapped by any limit.

REMAINS AT CHICAGO.

That City Headquarters of the Republican League for Two Years More.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The headquarters of the Republican League will continue in Chicago for the next two years. The Chicago men won a decisive victory at the meeting of the executive committee despite the fact that the general officers of the committee favored a removal to Washington.

European Sugar Trust.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—A Vienna dispatch to The Chronicle says that a sugar trust, comprising all but two of the Austro-Hungarian refineries, has been formed, to limit the yearly output of sugar for two years to 250,000 tons.

Judge Long's Pension Case.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The supreme court has set the hearing of the case of Judge Long, of the Michigan supreme court, who seeks to prevent reduction of his pension from $72 to $50 a month, for the third Monday in January.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21, 1895.

FLOUR—Steady.

WHEAT—No 2 spring, 57¾c; No. 1 Northern, 59¼c; December, 59¼c.

CORN—No. 3, 30¼c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 20½c; No. 3 white, 19@20c.

BARLEY—No. 2, 40½c; sample on track, 24 4.c

RYE—No. 1, 40c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Oct. 21, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 58¾c; No. 1 Northern, 56¾c; No. 2 Northern, 52¾c; No. 3 spring, 52½c; rejected, 45c; No. 1 Northern, 57½c; October, 56¾c; December No. 1 hard, 58¾c; No. 1 Northern, 57½c; May, 61¼c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 21, 1895.

WHEAT — October, 54¾c; December, 55c; May, 59¼c. On Track — No. 1 hard, 56¼c; No. 1 Northern, 55c, No. 2 Northern, 53½c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Oct. 21, 1895.

HOGS—Market steady with Saturday. Range of prices, $3.15@3.55.

CATTLE—Market steady; good supply of fat cattle.

SHEEP—Market steady on good stuff canners unsalable; several loads sold late Saturday to local dealers.

Receipts: Hogs, 200; cattle, 400; calves, 10; sheep, 2,600.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21, 1895.

HOGS—Market generally 5c lower; trade rather slow.

Sales ranged at $3.40@3.90 for light; $3.30@3.90 for mixed; $3.30@3.90 for heavy packing and shipping lots; 3.30@3.50 for rough.

CATTLE—Market strong; good grades 10c higher.

Beeves, $3.20@5.30; cows and heifers, $1.30@3.60; Texas steers, $2.70@3.40 Westerns, $2.85@4.10; stockers and feeders, $2.20@3.90.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Receipts: Hogs, 42,000; cattle, 16,000 sheep, 26,000.

Chicago Grain and Provision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—October, 59¼c; December, 60½c; May, 6.¾c.

CORN—October, 29⅝c; November, 29⅝c; December, 27½c; January, 27½c; May, 29⅝c.

OATS—October, 17⅝c; December, 17½c; May, 20½c.

PORK—October, $8.12½; December, $8.22½; January, $9.12½; May, $9.40.

LARD — October, $5.47½; January, $5.57½; May, $5.75.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Wheat still holds its own in the 45 cent notch with slight variation up and down. Track-buyers pay above the going market price.

Miss Helen Halvorsen reports an excellent business in millinery for the past week, she still has bargains in the natty fall styles and invites all her lady friends to call and see her goods—and she has a lovely display for a fact.

A number of our citizens went out Red Lake Falls on Sunday to attend the funeral of Wm. Ralph, brother of city engineer Geo. Ralph. He was one of the leading citizens of Red Lake Falls, a man highly respected by all who knew him and his funeral was one of the largest ever held there. The catholic priest dismissed his own congregation to enable as many as desired to do so the opportunity of attending.

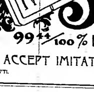
Friday was one of those days that you read about—but seldom like to see. It was not only a very cold day, but the wind was extremely high and the dust blew about the city in a way that made life a burden to all who had to be out doors much. It was so windy that little if any threshing could be done, so the farmers generally employed themselves plowing or hauling wheat, as the case might be.

R. A. Wilkinson, right-of-way agent for the Great Northern road does not think much of the idea of flax raising up here. He says it gets the land too foul, is too exhaustive to the soil and does not yield enough to pay for these extras. He says if he wanted to rot the sod on a piece of breaking, quickly, he thinks he would sow flax, but aside from this he has no earthly use for flax. He has sold $2,000 bushels of barley this fall at 15 cents per bushel.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

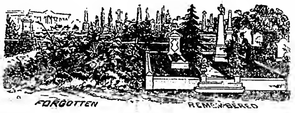
Ed. ROBERTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.



IVORY SOAP
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.
ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT, BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
—o—
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

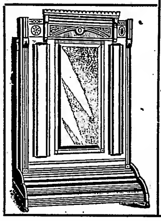
VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY OCTOBER 31, 1895. NO 29.

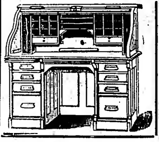
MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

Folding Beds, Oak Polished, 5 ft. - - $30.00
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00





Best All-Wool Carpet Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper 5c. to 35c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES $2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:
We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

SUITS NOT ENGLAND

RUSSIA'S LATEST MOVE IN THE FAR EAST ROUSES THE LION.

Venezuelan Situation Forgotten in the Alarm of the Moment—Greatest Activity Displayed Among the Government Officials.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The foreign office declares that it has no confirmation of the news reported in the Hong Kong dispatch to The Times to the effect that Russia has obtained the right to anchor her fleet at Port Arthur and to construct railroads on the Liao Tung peninsula. It is admitted here that the situation is so grave that should the news prove true it will probably cause a war involving several nations. There is every reason to believe that the story from Hong Kong is authentic, and all unofficial sources of information agree that the powers interested in the far East will find themselves confronted by a condition of seriousness which cannot be overestimated.

The impression is general in the official world, and it is re-echoed by the press, that neither America nor Germany can allow the Pacific to become a "Franco-Russian lake," as The Globe puts it, and it is generally thought that the diplomats will be sufficiently strong to combine to Resist Russian Aggression.

The Pall Mall Gazette sums up the startling news from the far East with the statement that "Russia has annexed China," and in the course of a long article on the subject says: "If this treaty is to stand, roll up the map of Asia." The Pall Mall Gazette urges the reoccupation of Port Hamilton by the British, and the immediate strengthening of the British fleet in Chinese waters, "lest Japan lose her fleet at the first blow."

The greatest activity is displayed in the government offices here, and the coming and going of messengers was continuous throughout the morning and afternoon. At the different clubs the "war scare" was thoroughly discussed, the grave situation of affairs in Venezuela having almost completely dropped out of sight in the alarm of the moment.

CHAMBERLAIN SAT ON.

The Secretary's Policy Rejected by the High Council of British Guiana.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The state department is in possession of the full text of the dispatches sent by Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies in the British cabinet, to Sir Charles Lees, governor general of British Guiana, concerning the strengthening of the frontier, the increase of police, and the purchase of Maxim guns in the British Guiana territory. The department has been furnished also with the detailed action of the high council of British Guiana upon the recommendations of Minister Chamberlain. The proceedings give the full resolution, offered by the governor general, for the purchase of a Maxim gun and ammunition, uniform, arms and accontrements. They also make the surprising disclosure that the high council of British Guiana, after its members had for his precipitate action in recommending Maxim guns, defeated the resolution for their purchase by a vote of 10 to 8, thus rejecting the policy laid down by the British cabinet.

Severely Arraigned Chamberlain

The state department was put in possession of this information on Wednesday last in an official communication from a high member of the diplomatic corps, who regarded the subject as of such importance that Secretary Olney should be in possession of the facts.

Besides the foregoing important developments translations from the Venezuelan yellow book were made public, covering the demand of Great Britain upon Venezuela one year ago. These have already been given in substance, and in view of the much more interesting dispatches of Minister Chamberlain during the present month, the events of a year ago received little attention.

CLAIMS WAR IS INEVITABLE.

Senator Chandler Predicts Trouble Between United States and England.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 29.—An editorial appears in The Evening Monitor, Senator Chandler's paper, written by the senator and headed "Our Coming War with England." It says in part:

"War between the United States and England is inevitable. It will arise on account of British disregard for our direct interests. It will be forced by British encroachments upon other nations all over the world. It will be fought by us, having Russia as our European ally. As a war offensive on our part, it may not happen within 20 years. As a defensive war it may come sooner and should be welcomed. One sure result will be the capture and permanent acquisition of Canada by the United States."

MISS WILLARD RE-ELECTED.

She Had No Opposition for President of the W. C. T. U.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—Miss Frances Willard was again elected president of the W. C. T. U. at the annual election with practically no opposition, although complimentary votes were cast for several other prominent workers. Other officers were elected as follows:

Vice president at large, Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Katharine Lente Stevenson of Massachusetts; recording secretary, Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman of Kansas City; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. F. J. Beachamp, Kentucky; treasurer, Mrs. Helen M. Barker.

To Test the Chinese Act.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The solicitor general has submitted a motion to the supreme court to advance a test case of Chen Ynen Sing, involving the constitutionality of the Chinese prohibition act.

FOSSTON ITEMS

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

C. O. Christianson, of Crookston, was transacting business here on Thursday.

Misses Ada Hartley and Mary Dudley went to Crookston this morning to go through their annual examination as teachers.

Lewis Larson's new dwelling is so far completed that it presents a very handsome appearance, and the friends of the family are looking forward to a house-warming.

B. S. Bennett went up to Crookston this morning to appear as counsel for Thos. Newby, who was before U. S. Commissioner Christianson on the charge of selling liquor to Indians at Fertile on July 4th.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

ARE AFTER FITZSIMMONS.

Warrant Out for His Arrest as Soon as He Steps on Arkansas Soil.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 29.—Matters pugilistic took a sensational turn during the day when Attorney General Kinsworthy filed information in the second division of the Pulaski county circuit court asking for a warrant for the arrest of Robert Fitzsimmons and Martin Julian. It develops that the governor has had a detective or confidential agent at Hot Springs all the time and has been kept thoroughly posted on every move made by the promoters of the fight. This detective advised the governor that arrangements had been completed to bring the fight off and as a result of this information Attorney General Kinsworthy secured the warrants for Fitzsimmons and Julian. Deputy Sheriff Heard was given charge of the matter and at once started for Texarkana, where Fitzsimmons and Julian are expected to enter the state.

Says the Fight Will Come Off.

Attorney General Kinsworthy returned from Hot Springs during the evening. When asked what he thought of the situation at Hot Springs he replied that he believed there was going to be a fight. Asked if Governor Clarke would stop it, the attorney general said he did not see how he could. The Hot Hot Springs Athletic club under whose auspices the fight will ostensibly be pulled off, has sent cipher letters to every sporting club in the United States notifying them of the arrangements for the fight.

The Iron Mountain railroad has put a large force of men men at work in North Little Rock building temporary side tracks. When it was asked what it was for the railroad folks said that they expected a large number of special trains in a few days.

Will Be in Private.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Private telegrams were received in this city during the evening from both Brady and Julian, saying that the fight will positively come off on Thursday. Brady says it will be in private for a side bet of $5,000 or $10,000 and that Fitzsimmons will put up his money as soon as he reaches Hot Springs.

Western Union Expects It.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 29.—In anticipation of the possibility of a fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons being pulled off the Western Union Telegraph company sent nine operators to Hot Springs, Ark., to handle any press matter that may be filed.

MOIR WILL CHALLENGE.

Withdrawal of Rose Will Not Affect the Chances of a Race.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—It has been learned by the Associated Press that the withdrawal of the challenge of Mr. Charles D. Rose, for the America's cup will not affect the intentions of Mr. Herbert Moir, the wealthy Australian merchant, regarding the yacht Westphalia, which he intends to build with a syndicate for the purpose of challenging for the America's cup in '96. The Western Australians are to hold a big banquet in November, which will be presided over by a distinguished sporting peer, and it is expected that the pronouncement in re Westralia will then be made. It is virtually settled that Westralia will be built on the Clyde.

PRUSSIA'S POPULATION.

Shows an Increase of Over 1,500,000 in Five Years.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Prussia has just completed a census and some of the results are given in a report to the state department by United States Consul Dekay, at Berlin. The entire population June 14 last, was 34,481,001, an increase of 1,585,928, or 5.18 per cent since December, 1890. The males increased 773,051 and the females 752,877.

The French Madagascar Treaty.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The treaty between France and Madagascar has been published. In brief the queen accepts the protectorate of France. The latter represents Madagascar in all foreign relations, questions concerning foreigners will be in the hands of the French resident general and the republic undertakes to defend Madagascar against all dangers.

They Met Olney.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Sir Mackenzie Bowell, premier of Canada, and Sir Charles Tupper, minister of justice, who are here to attend the Behring sea convention, were presented to Secretary Olney during the afternoon. They were accompanied by Sir Julian Pauncefote and the staff of the British embassy.

Pingree for President.

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—According to The Evening Press, a local newspaper which was started during the present city campaign in the interest of Mayor Pingree, the mayor may be a candidate for the nomination for president of the United States in 1900.

French Cabinet Resigns.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The cabinet has resigned as a result of a government defeat in the chamber of deputies during the debate on the Southern railway scandal.

Mrs. Eustis Dead.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Mrs. James B. Eustis, wife of the United States ambassador, James B. Eustis, died suddenly at Rotoath, Ireland. She had been ill for

FIGHTING IT ALONE

H. H. Holmes, on Trial for His Life, Acting as His Own Attorney.

Pleads for a Continuance but the Judge Refuses the Request.

First Day of the Noted Criminal's Trial Full of Sensations.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—H. H. Holmes, or Herman W. Mudgett, which, he says, is his baptismal name, was put on trial in the court of oyer and terminer for the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel in this city on Sept. 2, 1894, and the developments of the first day verified, better perhaps than ever before, the force of the maxim that truth is stranger than fiction. From the nature of the case and the startling stories concerning it which have gained currency during the past year, sensational revelations were naturally to be expected when he who has come to be regarded as the most skilful and audacious criminal of modern times, was placed on trial for his life. Yet what did occur in court so far surpassed all expectations that the most vivid flights of imagination could scarcely have conceived the day's events.

Holmes' Attorneys Withdraw.

The day's proceedings began when Messrs. Shoemaker and Protan moved for a 60 days' continuance on the ground of lately discovered evidence. This was promptly refused, as was also their motion for a continuance for a day. Finding the judge inexorable, they, as a last resort, declared that they would withdraw from the case. Judge Arnold warned them that if they did so they would lay themselves open to disbarment. Thereupon Holmes declared from the dock, that, under the circumstances he would not permit them to defend him. He therefore dismissed them from his service and the lawyers left the room, in spite of the court's threats. Judge Arnold then appointed E. M. Schofield and J. M. Fahy to but again Holmes interposed. He declared that he would not place his life in the hands of the two young men who knew the case only by hearsay, and, eventually, when his personal entreaties for a postponement were refused, he declared that he would himself try the case. Meanwhile he expressed a desire to secure the services of Attorney R. O. Moon, but that gentleman, after learning from the judge that he could not obtain a continuance, declined to accept the grave responsibility. The selection of a jury consumed several hours, Holmes freely exercising his prerogative of challenge, and after 12 men had been secured a recess was taken.

Assume Charge of the Defense,

Graham Addresses the Jury.

The afternoon session was devoted largely to District Attorney Graham's opening address to the jury in which he outlined the case in detail and subjected the prisoner to a scathing denunciation. Holmes, however, was imperturbable and sat with his legs crossed, calmly taking notes.

At the conclusion of the address, Holmes accused Mr. Graham of trying to keep his wife from him and of having intercepted letters which he had written to her. The woman he meant, he said, was "she whom the district attorney saw fit to designate as Miss Yoke."

He was granted permission to have light and writing materials in his cell, to aid him in the preparation of his defense and to write to the woman, whom Mr. Graham promised to have in court in the morning.

Shows the Effect of Confinement.

Holmes, who, at the time of his arrest in Boston on Nov. 17 last, was a stockily built man of middle height, has, since his long confinement, grown gaunt and hollow chested. The prison bleach has brought his peaked face to a death-like pallor, heightened by the dark, closely cropped beard. In appearance, as he sat in the dock, he was neatness itself. The beard was carefully trimmed, the hair smoothly parted, and the black cheviot suit he wore betrayed no spot or blemish. His demeanor throughout, save on one or two occasions when he gave way to slight bursts of anger, directed at the district attorney, was characterized by that marvelous display of nerve which has become associated with his name.

HIRED TO MAKE EVIDENCE.

Another Sensation Comes to Light in the Durrant Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The coroner has received a letter signed George M. Reynolds, saying the writer's body would be found in the bay and confessing that he had been employed by the attorneys of Theodore Durrant to manufacture testimony in the murder cases of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. The letter says five other men were also employed by the defense to make false statements. The object was to convict Rev. J. George Gibson, pastor of Emanuel church, of the murder of both girls.

NORTHERN PACIFIC AFFAIRS.

Receivership Matters Being Patched Up by the Lawyers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The Northern Pacific forces on all sides are resting after the battles of last week, and harmony has taken the place of strife. The lawyers are still busily engaged on the details of the settlement, which necessarily involve some work. It is their aim to render matters easy for the courts along the whole line. It is expected that the receivership will be submitted to them in such good shape that they will all, from Judge Hanford, on the Pacific, to Judge Sanborn in St. Paul, accept it readily, without any questions as to precedence. Judge Lacombe is ready to act whenever the lawyers call him. The Adams committee, which was such a formidable opponent of the Ives interests last summer, now agrees to act cordially with them in all matters concerning the welfare of the railway.

ARE DEMANDING EIGHT HOURS.

Trade Unionists All Over the Country to Vote on It.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 29.—Members of trades unions affiliated with the federated metal trades are discussing the question of making a demand on May 1. 1896, for an 8-hour work day. All over the United States during the next 30 days a vote will be taken in every union of machinists, moulders, boilermakers and iron shipbuilders, tin and sheet iron workers, brass workers and blacksmiths, as to whether the recommendation of the federated metal trades convention, favoring a general demand for eight hours, shall be indorsed.

AT WASHINGTON, DEC. 10.

Call Issued for a Meeting of the Republican National Committee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, chairman of the Republican national committee, has issued the following call:

"The Republican national committee is hereby called to meet at the Arlington hotel, Washington, at 2 o'clock p. m., Dec. 10, 1895, to designate a time and place for the meeting of the national convention in 1896, and to transact such other business as may demand consideration."

SANK THEM AT SEA.

Fifty Revolutionary Young Turks Put to Death.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Standard has further details from its correspondent at Constantinople regarding the execution of the 50 young Turks who were arrested on Saturday on a charge of excesses during the recent Armenian riots. The 50 culprits after a trial, were conveyed by night aboard a Turkish man of war, whose boats took them into the swiftest current and dropped overboard.

Reinstated Students.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—The faculty of the university has decided to reinstate the three students who were recently suspended for interfering with the freshman military drill. Representatives of all the classes were present at the meeting and presented a petition 15 feet long signed by the students.

Senator Van Wyck Dead.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Ex-United States Senator Charles H. Van Wyck of Nebraska died at 4:30 p. m. in his apartments at the Portland flats. He was stricken with apoplexy Monday afternoon, and his condition since has been very critical.

ANOTHER ARMENIAN MASSACRE.

Turkish Troops Slaughter a Few Hundred More Christians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 29.—Another terrible massacre of Armenians, accompanied by the outraging of women, is reported to have occurred quite recently in the Baiburt district between Erzeroum and Trebizond.

The Turkish officials, it is claimed, know the ringleaders of the outbreak, but apparently no steps have been taken to arrest them.

The number of Armenians massacred at Erzinjan is now said to be several hundreds.

Worthy of Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor strength and health restored to the body.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

FIGHTING IT ALONE

H. H. HOLMES ACTING AS HIS OWN ATTORNEY.

Pleads For a Continuance But the Judge Refuses the Request—First Day of the Noted Criminal's Trial Full of Sensation.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—H. H. Holmes, or Herman W. Mudgett, which, he says, is his baptismal name, was put on trial in the court of oyer and terminer for the murder of Benjamin F. Pietzel in this city on Sept. 2, 1894, and the developments of the first day verified, better perhaps than ever before, the force of the maxim that truth is stranger than fiction. From the nature of the case and the startling stories concerning it which have gained currency during the past year, sensational revelations were naturally to be expected when he who has come to be regarded as the most skilful and audacious criminal of modern times, was placed on trial for his life. Yet what did occur in court so far surpassed all expectations that the most vivid flights of imagination could scarcely have conceived the day's events.

Holmes' Attorneys Withdraw.

The day's proceedings began when Messrs. Shoemaker and Protan moved for a 60 days' continuance on the ground of lately discovered evidence. This was promptly refused, as was also their motion for a continuance for a day. Finding the judge inexorable, they, as a last resort, declared that they would withdraw from the case. Judge Arnold warned them that if they did so they would lay themselves open to disbarment. Thereupon Holmes declared from the dock, that, under the circumstances he would not permit them to defend him. He therefore dismissed them from his service and the lawyers left the room, in spite of the court's threats. Judge Arnold then appointed E. M. Schofield and J. M. Fahy to but again Holmes interposed. He declared that he would not place his life in the hands of the two young men who knew the case only by hearsay, and, eventually, when his personal entreaties for a postponement were refused, he declared that he would himself try the case. Meanwhile he expressed a desire to secure the services of Attorney R. O. Moon, but that gentleman, after learning from the judge that he could not obtain a continuance, declined to accept the grave responsibility. The selection of a jury consumed several hours, Holmes freely exercising his prerogative of challenge, and after 12 men had been secured a recess was taken.

Assume Charge of the Defense,

Graham Addresses the Jury.

The afternoon session was devoted largely to District Attorney Graham's opening address to the jury in which he outlined the case in detail and subjected the prisoner to a scathing denunciation. Holmes, however, was imperturbable and sat with his legs crossed, calmly taking notes.

At the conclusion of the address, Holmes accused Mr. Graham of trying to keep his wife from him and of having intercepted letters which he had written to her. The woman he meant, he said, was "she whom the district attorney saw fit to designate as Miss Yoke."

He was granted permission to have light and writing materials in his cell, to aid him in the preparation of his defense and to write to the woman, whom Mr. Graham promised to have in court in the morning.

Shows the Effect of Confinement.

Holmes, who, at the time of his arrest in Boston on Nov. 17 last, was a stockily built man of middle height, has, since his long confinement, grown gaunt and hollow chested. The prison bleach has brought his peaked face to a death-like pallor, heightened by the dark, closely cropped beard. In appearance, as he sat in the dock, he was neatness itself. The beard was carefully trimmed, the hair smoothly parted, and the black cheviot suit he wore betrayed no spot or blemish. His demeanor throughout, save on one or two occasions when he gave way to slight bursts of anger, directed at the district attorney, was characterized by that marvelous display of nerve which has become associated with his name.

ANOTHER DURRANT SENSATION.

George M. Reynolds Says He Was Hired to Manufature Testimony.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The coroner has received a letter signed George M. Reynolds, saying the writer's body would be found in the bay and confessing that he had been employed by the attorneys of Theodore Durrant to manufacture testimony in the murder cases of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams. The letter says five other men were also employed by the defense to make false statements. The object was to convict Rev. J. George Gibson, pastor of Emanuel church, of the murder of both girls.

Banker Coffin Sentenced.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—Judge Baker of the federal court sentenced Francis A. Coffin, the former president of the Indianapolis Cabinet company, found guilty of aiding in the wrecking of the Indianapolis National bank, to eight years in the penitentiary.

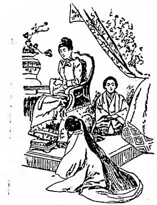
DEFECTIVE PAGE

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE EMPRESS OF JAPAN AND HER DOWDY COSTUMES.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor—Woman, Religion and Law—Novelties In Jewelry—The Dainty Mull Gown—Lady Norreys on Knickerbockers—Girls In New York.

This quaint sketch of the Japanese empress was made by a native artist, who loses every idea of grace when he deals with European costume. It is not much to be wondered at in the case of this fair sovereign, whose foreign clothes are of the ugliest fashion of 17 years ago. What ignorant and vulgar person furnishes these garments it would be interesting to know. Probably the unsalable costumes of London dressmakers, costumes put together in the late seventies, are unloaded upon trusting oriental palace officials by some ingenious introducer of civilization.



EMPRESS OF JAPAN.

It is a pity to so spoil the really charming personality of the empress, who used to be bewitching in the pretty clothes of her own land. This drawing represents the sovereign and her ladies engaged in preparing lint for the Japanese wounded—a most womanly occupation.—New York Tribune.

Bloomers In Ann Arbor.

The liveliest piece of recent news from Michigan university was set forth in a newspaper dispatch which tells of the brave stand made by certain of the women students at Ann Arbor in defense of one of woman's newest rights.

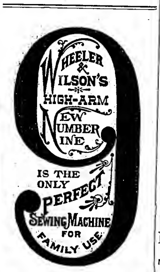
Miss Day, a junior, wears bloomers when she rides a bicycle, as all women do who choose. But she can't ride a bicycle all the time, and finding it an inconvenience to change her raiment from hour to hour she fell into the habit of wearing bloomers around her boarding house. Mrs. Eames, who keeps the boarding house, is not a "new woman," but one of the older fashioned sort who believe in skirts. She told Miss Day that bloomers did not "go" in her house, so Miss Day compromised and agreed to wear bloomers only when she rode her bicycle. But Miss Brown of the Medical school cried "Tyranny!" when she heard of it and put her bloomers right on and sallied forth into the street and declared war. Some of the professors' wives who ride bicycles sided with her and declared it to be the constitutional right of every woman to wear bloomers with or without bicycles whenever she would. Then Mrs. Eames rose up and declared that she would have no bloomers worn about her house if she lost every bloomering boarder she had! Now there is war in Ann Arbor. But of course the bloomers will win. The town has been a stronghold of women's rights ever since its university started, and if women want a new right at any time there is no better place to seize it in.

A place for bloomers and every bloomer in its place may be a good rule, but there is small chance for it to be enforced in Ann Arbor. Certainly this presents a grave question of casuistry, and women will do well to consider it. The Bachelor's opinion is that only pretty

H. STEENERSON,
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.



WHEELER & WILSON'S HIGH-ARM NEW NUMBER NINE IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

1,000,000 People Wear
W. L. Douglas Shoes

HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.
$5.00
$4.00
$3.50
$2.50
$2.25
For Men
$3.00
$2.50
$2.00
$1.75
For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY 5th DAY 14th DAY 27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

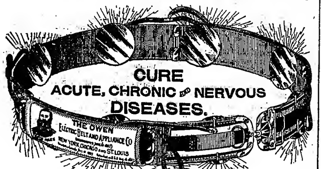
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

DR. A. OWEN'S ELECTRIC APPLIANCES



CURE
ACUTE, CHRONIC AND NERVOUS
DISEASES.
THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO
NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS

99 TIMES OUT OF 100

Mrs. A. J. Stearns, of West Stockholm, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., under date of July 31, 1895, says: "Words fail me to express my gratitude to Dr. A. Owen for the benefit I have had from using his Electric Appliances. Before using the appliance I was so weak I could scarcely stand alone; had been confined to my bed since last October. After the third day's use of the appliance I could walk several steps; one week later I walked around the house, and in less than one month I was able to ride out, and now I can walk a mile or more without feeling tired. May God bless and spare you to your many friends for years to come."

Mr. Axel J. Ekblade, of Walsburg, Kan., under date of July 20th, 1895, says: "Having used the Dr. Owen Electric Appliances for Nervousness for the past few months, must say they are ahead of any treatment. I am cured of the worst form of Nervous Disease."

Mr. A. Nibek, of Middlefield, Iowa, writing us on June 27, 1895, says: "This is to certify that I have derived more benefit from using the Owen Electric Appliances for a severe case of kidney complaint and nervous prostration than from hundreds of dollars spent for doctor's bills and medicine."

Our Large Illustrated Catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cost of appliances, and much valuable information for the afflicted. Send 6 cents in stamps for it at once.

When writing parties about their testimonials enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope to insure a reply. We have been before the public many years, and our Electrical Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
205 TO 211 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

THE CLIMAX of enjoyment is found by every lover of good chewing tobacco in LORILLARD'S famous

Climax Plug

This tobacco represents the result of 134 year's experience in blending and preparing tobacco to suit a universal taste. A delicious flavor has been imparted to it without the addition of any harmful element. In substance it is unequalled by any chewing tobacco ever prepared. When you want a delicious satisfying chew, try CLIMAX PLUG.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

NEW RAILROAD FROM DULUTH TO WINNIPEG.

State University Faculty Will Drop Lazy Students—Fire Destroys Considerable Property at Bird Island—Some Census Statistics.

St. Paul has completed five miles of asphalt paving the past season.

Duluth will sell valuable franchises hereafter, instead of giving them away.

The Minnesota supreme court has decided that petit jurors are entitled to $2 a day.

The preliminary steps have been taken to incorporate Biwabik on the Mesaba range as a city.

C. G. Jennings, aged 88, and Mrs. Fredrika Klinga, aged 76, were married at New Richland.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the immigration convention at St. Paul Nov. 19 to 21.

The constitutionality of the state game law is being tested in a suit by St. Paul commission men.

The $30,000 of Le Sueur court house bonds, bearing 5 per cent interest, were sold at a premium of $1,960.

Fire at Bird Island destroyed the Western hotel and adjoining buildings. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $8,000.

Charles Sorenson, a blind ex-soldier of Minneapolis, has just been notified that he is entitled to a pension of $72 per month.

The last stone has been laid on the Minneapolis city hall and courthouse. Work on the building was begun seven years ago.

C. A. Pillsbury of Minneapolis predicts a blockade of traffic unless railroads meet the demands for cars with more alacrity.

Articles of incorporation of the Duluth and Northwestern railroad, to run from Duluth to Winnipeg, have been filed at St. Paul.

Ruth King or Ruth Flatmouth, queen of the Pillager band of Chippewa Indians, died at Cass Lake. She was a daughter of Chief Flatmouth.

In a report to the Minneapolis board of trade A. B. Choate says Minnesota is full of natural materials for good roads, and tells how they should be used.

Rev. J. H. Ranger of Indianapolis, a delegate to the recent Episcopal convention at Minneapolis, died in the latter city Thursday of pneumonia.

The Minnesota Boat club defeated the Duluth boat club at foot ball by a score of 10 to 0. Minnesota University team defeated the Chicago University 10 to 6.

John E. Bell, who was one of the first men that ran locomotives in England, died at Minneapolis Friday. He was born in Northumberland 88 years ago, and was well acquainted with Watts and Stephenson.

A runaway horse at Minneapolis jumped off a bridge and landed on top of a moving freight train. The horse was killed and the driver badly injured.

Mrs. Bridget Sullivan, aged 100 years, died at Minneapolis Wednesday. She was never sick a day in her life and passed away while taking her regular afternoon nap.

Conductor King of the Chicago Great Western road was held up by a gang of young fellows while riding on the rear platform of a St. Paul street car. They secured $40.

The law making it a misdemeanor for retail provision dealers to sell plucked, undrawn poultry has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Kerr of the Ramsey county district court.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the state educational association Dec. 31 was fixed as the time for the meeting of each section and also for the annual declamatory contest.

The sales of state lands by State Auditor Dunn in Houston county amounted to 1,858.95 acres, the amount bid for the land being $18,794.77. In Sherburne county 716.62 acres were sold for $3,794.77.

The state university faculty has decided that students carelessly doing poor work will be required to mend their ways or leave the institution. The attendance this year is 2,192, as against 2,171 last year.

Ninian Waerner, associate editor of Svenska Amerikanska Posten of Minneapolis, has been elected editor of Motala Posten, the leading paper in the province of Ostergotland, Sweden, and has accepted the call.

Articles of incorporation for a new railroad company, to be known as the Duluth and Northwestern, have been filed with the secretary of state. The line of road to be built is to run from Duluth to Winnipeg, crossing the Mesabe iron range.

According to the state census bureau Duluth has 18,612 legal voters; Minneapolis 57,946, Winona 5,177. The male population of Minneapolis is 100,106, female, 92,727; of Duluth 34,162 males, 25,234 females; Winona 10,269 males and 10,880 females.

The United States army officers at St. Paul have received instructions to proceed with the preliminary work connected with the locks and dams at Meeker island, between St. Paul and Minneapolis. The work is estimated to cost $600,000, and will require three years to complete it.

Rev. J. C. Hull, the St. Paul Methodist minister whose views regarding Catholics were rather liberal for a portion of his congregation, and who was tried by a committee and suspended for a year, announces that he will preach just the same as ever, except that services will be held in Conover Music hall, and that his sermons will be upon live topics of the day, in their relation to morality, religion and humanity ks' Great Works.

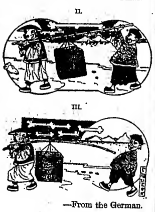
Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

Wood Paving.

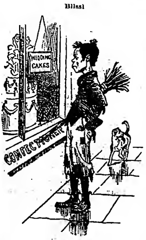
A nonslipping wood pavement has been recently devised which is claimed to be simple, inexpensive and efficient. It consists in preparing the wooden blocks before they are laid by boring a few holes in them and filling the same with a hard setting substance composed of crushed stone, bitumen and Portland cement. The compound is cleared off even with the surface, and when they are laid the roadway is thus covered with a series of rough spots which arrest the foot of the horse in all conditions of weather, and prevent the animal from slipping. Wood paving is extensively used in England and France.—Northeastern Lumberman.

Behind His Back.



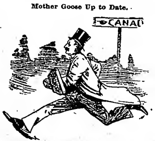
—From the German.

Bliss!



"Lor, fancy eatin a cake like that and gettin married both on the same day!"—Judy.

Mother Goose Up to Date.



Tom, Tom, the swiper's son,
Stole some cash, and away he run.
He struck a gait
For Canada straight.
And he hasn't been heard from up to date.

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timberland. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

Every Man whose watch has been rung out of the bow (ring), by a pickpocket,

Every Man whose watch has been damaged by dropping out of the bow, and

Every Man of sense who merely compares the old pull-out bow and the new

Non-pull-out

will exclaim: "Ought to have been made long ago!"

It can't be twisted off the case. Can only be had with Jas. Boss Filled and other cases stamped with this trade mark——

Send for a watch case opener (free).

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
Philadelphia.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS. A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 50,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY DOUGLAS AXE MFG CO
Established 1835

EVERY GENUINE HUNT'S AXE IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block. } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

A STRANGE CASE.
How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing O) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER MCKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO
OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent, St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW&CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Notice of Mortgage Sale.

(First pub. Sept. 19, '95.)
(Last pub. Oct. 31, '95.)

NOTICE is hereby given that Charles L. Hoff and Anine Hoff, his wife, did execute and deliver to J. W. Smith their mortgage, dated the 22nd day of April, 1887, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of April, 1887, at 9 o'clock A. M., in book 30 of Mortgages, on pages 471 to 475, which said mortgage and the debt thereby secured were by assignment, dated the third day of June, 1892, and duly recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds on the 29th day of June, 1895, at 8:45 o'clock A. M. in Book 67 of Mortgages, on page 566, duly sold and transferred by said J. W. Smith to the undersigned, Olaf O. Searle, who has ever since been and now is the owner and holder thereof. And default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the nonpayment of the sum of Three Hundred ($300.00) Dollars, and interest thereon at 8 per cent per annum, from April 3rd, 1892, secured thereby, and the amount now actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice is the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty-three ($383.00) Dollars; and no action at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, lying and being in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: The East half of the Southeast quarter of Section twenty-three, and West half of the Southwest quarter of Section twenty-four, in Township one hundred and forty-seven, Range forty-two, West of the fifth principal meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres, more or less, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the court house in the City of Crookston, County of Polk, State of Minnesota, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Saturday the 2nd day of November, 1895, to satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, and $25.00 attorney's fees provided for in said mortgage, and the costs and charges of notice and sale.

Dated Sept. 19th, 1895.

OLAF O. SEARLE,
Assignee of said Mortgage.
Moritz Heim, Attorney for Assignee,
Bank of Minnesota Building,
St. Paul, Minnesota. [23-29]

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

VI.

Men have made our laws wholly of their own motion, as some declare, or largely influenced by women's expressed or implied wishes, as I and many others believe. What solid ground have we for saying that, given political responsibilities, our women would bear them more conscientiously than men? A very large proportion of our political questions today are financial or economic questions. Is it probable that women would be more generally stirred than men to think seriously and vigorously about these? Did my friend really show cause why the suffrage should be given to women when she said that only direct personal political activity could awaken their real interest in political things? Do good women thus disassociate themselves from the duties and responsibilities of their husbands and sons in other directions? Do they not feel a personal concern in the progress of their sons' college education, even though they may have had none themselves? Or in their athletic education? Or in the professional success, the business rectitude and diligence of their husbands? Or in the councils and affairs of their churches? Is it true that we feel we cannot take an active interest in public affairs unless we take an active personal part in them? And, if so, is this indeed a proof that we are well fitted to serve the public good? Or is it a proof that we are vain and proud and selfish—that we must audibly "have our say" in the same manner as men, or else will sulk in our corners and declare that we wash our hands of the nation's interests, of our men's interests, of our own interests? I have already said that I cannot believe it is so. I cannot believe so badly of the women of America. They are not generally interested in public affairs today because their true education has only just begun. But they will gradually grow interested without the bribe or the lure of votes, and then we shall see what woman's influence may mean for good.

If it is indeed true that the work of the world must be divided, and that nature, experience and a sane philosophy unite in showing that the labor of government is part of man's proper share, it is hardly needful to consider any such minor arguments as that if women could vote "there would be no more wars." But I may say that most of them are on a par with this one as regards any basis of demonstrated or probable truth.

Does the history of the female sovereigns of Europe or of India show that women hate war more than men, or does it show that when their emotions are excited they are apt to be more recklessly bellicose than men? How was it with the women of France in the days of the great revolution? And do recent instances differ from those of earlier date? Was not the terrible Franco-German war of 1870 called by the French empress "my war?" Was it not recognized as such by the French people? Do not the investigations of historians and memoir writers show it to have been such? And which were recognized as the most bitter opponents of the Union in our southern states during the war of the rebellion and long after its close—the women or the men?

But the worst of all the fallacies now being used as persuasive arguments is the declaration that if American working women could vote their wages would be equalized with men's. Those who promise this do not give their reasons, and they could not base them upon past facts with regard to rises in the value of men's labor. Even today women are paid much more nearly the same as men for really equal work than the makers of this promise would have us believe. But often what is called equal work shows some inequality, if not in the perfection of its performance, then in the probability that the worker will continue permanently at her task. Although certain agitators have declared that the "law of supply and demand" is a foolish fetich, it nevertheless affects the pay of every laboring individual in the world. Amid social and commercial conditions like ours, the slightest inequality in working power, the slightest difference in the relations of a supply to a demand, tell in financial results; and no laws can possibly obviate this fact. Not legislation, but organization, has raised the wages of men during the past two generations. And the most successful result of labor organization—the famous strike of the dock laborers in London a few years ago—was accomplished by men, a very small proportion of whom had votes. Thus there are many things to think about, many serious questions to decide, before we can conscientiously say that we believe woman suffrage should be established. And, be it noted, the burden of proof lies with those who advocate the innovation. We are not obliged to prove that woman suffrage is undesirable. They are obliged to prove that it is so clearly desirable that, for its sake, the country should run the enormous risk involved in a political and social revolution of the most radical and far-reaching sort. This is law and justice all the world over: The status quo, like the human individual, must be considered in the right until we have good evidence that it is in the wrong. Otherwise there would never be any security for individuals, never any peace or safety for the state.

Therefore all I desire to do is to bid you pause—pause, and think, and consider the arguments of the advocates of the "movement," without passion, without prepossession, and especially without that foolish vanity of would be imitation of men which means a great lack of true feminine pride. But above all do not be tempted to say, "We women must look out for ourselves and our own interests." It is a slander upon the men of America to say this—upon those men who have so cordially helped us to become the freest and most highly considered women in the world. And it is a defiance of the laws of nature and of common sense to declare that the best interests of the sexes are separable. To declare this is to give men an excuse, a temptation—nay, a veritable right—to say, "Then we also must look out for ourselves and our own special interests." Do you think that the country would fare better if our men said this or that its women would fare better? Do you not think rather that the best way to serve our country and to serve ourselves is to do our own work as well as we can—which means a great deal better than in the past? And do you really believe that part of this work should consist in a half share in the actual immediate power to make those laws which deal chiefly with matters that men's daily occupations fit them to understand better than we do, and in the execution of which, strive as we might, we could take but a very small share?

THE GRAND VIZIER.

HOW HE IS SELECTED BY THE SULTAN AND INSTALLED.

One of the Most Striking Scenes Connected With the Turkish Court—No One Knows Who Is to Be Named Until the Last Moment—An Impressive Prayer.

The ceremony of "naming" the new grand vizier is one of the most impressive sights imaginable, and as it has seldom if ever been described an attempt to convey some idea of it may not be without interest. It was toward 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon that the servants commenced to carry out from Djevad Pasha's rooms at the sublime porte his books, papers, pens and other private paraphernalia. This was the first intimation given to the world that the grand vizier had fallen. Shortly afterward troops filed up the hill and lined both sides of the road from the landing stage at Sirkidjy to the doors of the porte. The news spread like fire under a wind, and by 5 o'clock all preparations were completed for the reception of the new occupant of the principal office in the empire. In the great council chamber the scene was unique in its quiet dignity. The room was crowded with all the high officials present and past, and though an hour or two previously none there had even guessed what was about to happen each one took his place silently and regularly, without confusion or mistake, awaiting the advent of the still unknown chief.

At the head of the hall a small vacant space was left, around which grouped the present ministers and those who had previously held portfolios. As each came in he paced slowly up the carpet with one short salute. As soon as he reached the end all present returned the temena's with a sweep of the hand to the ground, breast and forehead. This rhythmical greeting, accentuated by the movement of scarlet fezes in unison with open hands, given in silence, and in the dim, curtained light of the council chamber, defies adequate description by the pen.

And then the newcomer returned the salutes separately, beginning at the left hand side, round the square of his colleagues, subordinates and superiors, and one more candidate for the vizierate was effaced, for nobody knew upon whom the choice of the sultan had fallen. Many names were whispered round, but as their owners entered the circle of greeting their chances were seen to be extinguished. One after another they followed on, till by a process of reduction it became a question of only two or three, all the rest of Turkey's statesmen and all her greatest pashas having already trodden the carpet and taken their seats of expectation. Then from the windows could be seen a small procession winding up the ascent. In front were two horsemen, he on the left a little man well known to all the watchers in the chamber, and on the right the Sheikh ul Islam, shining in the sunlight with his robes of pure white and gold.

In the passing of a breath the name of Ketchuk Said fluttered round the room, and a few moments later the new grand vizier, who had already thrice gone through the same ceremony, was standing in the center of the ministerial group. There he drew from his breast a green silk bag, and extracting from it the imperial hatt he pressed the parchment to his lips and forehead. The dark bearded sheikh repeated this homage to the words of his imperial master, and the hatt was handed to the evrak mudiri, or keeper of the archives, who read aloud that his imperial majesty the sultan, knowing the devotion, well proved, of Said Pasha, intrusted to him the duties of grand vizier, and that, having full confidence in the piety of the Sheikh ul Islam, he prolonged his term of office, being anxious in all things for the best welfare of his people, and might Almighty God bless their efforts toward that end. Then again a wave of sweeping hands and bending heads went round, and the sheikh, in full, deep tones, offered up a prayer for the sultan and the empire. In a moment the council chamber was transformed into a holy place, and the politicians, pashas and scribes, with upturned palms, seemed to have forgotten for a space the world and its vanities. It would be hard to imagine anything more striking than this prayer, amid such surroundings and on such an occasion.

With it terminated the investiture. The new grand vizier adjourned to his room with his ministry for coffee and a perfunctory cabinet council, and later on the old and new viziers and ministers repaired to Yildiz to pay their first or last respects to their lord. Meanwhile another hatt had arrived, changing the occupant of the western wing of the porte, for Said Pasha, who has been minister for foreign affairs for nine years, was bidden to vacate his familiar chair in favor of Turkhan Pasha.—Constantinople Letter.

Irving and Stoker.

Not many know how that talented Irishman, Mr. Bram Stoker, came to be associated with the fortunes of Sir Henry Irving. It was in this wise. Sir Henry, when on a visit to Dublin, was invited to a supper party, and during the course of the evening was induced to recite in his thrilling way "The Dream of Eugene Aram." One of his auditors, a young man with a brilliant reputation at Trinity college, was so affected by the tragedian's delivery that he burst into tears. Henry Irving asked the young man to call on him the next morning, and then and there made him an offer, which was accepted to the mutual advantage of both. The young man was Mr. Bram Stoker.—London Correspondent.

One Good Deed.

Mrs. De Ruffe—If you ever did any good in this wide world, I'd like to know what it is.

Mr. De Ruffe—Well, for one thing, I saved you from dying an old maid.—London Quiver.

A GOOD THING - PUSH IT ALONG

BATTLE AX
Plug Tobacco
A Great Big Piece for 10 Cents.

Aug. Miller, O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans,
Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN.

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Dr. J. H. McLEAN'S
VOLCANIC OIL
LINIMENT,
THE BEST AND GREATEST CURE OF PAIN,
Affords a quick relief from the accidents and ailments common to human or animal flesh.
In constant use for half a century.
Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement, and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

IT has been said during the past week that the big fight would be "pulled off" at Hot Springs today in spite of the governor and the supreme court. If Dave Clough was governor of Arkansas it would not, and now we will see how much sand the governor of Arkansas has in his craw.

THE habit of offering premiums for subscriptions is so much of a fraud that the JOURNAL has not been swift to accept the many catch-penny offers that we get every fall. We like to give value received for their money to our subscribers and it is our aim to accomplish that in the JOURNAL by making it worth more than its cost. We are not averse however to making our subscribers a present, however when we can make them one of value and hence it is that we have accepted the proposition of the Hub Photo Co. to furnish our subscribers with an enlarged picture at a cost barely covering cost to us. The company guarantee these pictures to be first-class work as good as can be had at from $8.00 to $10.00 a piece.

Evans and Van Sant.

Minneapolis Evening Journal.

The Journal is a little surprised at the comment of that usually fair and dignified paper, the Winona Republican, with regard to Mr. Evans and the governorship. Speaking of the pledge Mr. Evans gave to Capt. Van Sant of his support and of the statement in the Journal that this pledge was given months ago, when there was no likelihood that Mr. Evans would wish to be a candidate, and that Van Sant is now holding Evans to his agreement, rather unfavorably to Van Sant's chances in Hennepin county, the Republican says that "this is sheer stuff and buncombe. Capt. Van Sant never exacted any pledge from Mr. Evans to support him as a candidate for governor," although the Republican thinks that it is probably true that Evans did pledge himself voluntarily; but that as this pledge was voluntary it in nowise compromises Capt. Van Sant. And, then, the Republican continues as follows:

"We don't know how far Mr. Evans regards his pledge to support Van Sant as binding upon his honor and conscience, but we do assume that, if Mr. Evans for any reason desires to become a candidate on h's own account, he will in no way be restrained by Capt. Van Sant, who, however much he might prize the gubernatorial nomination as a free-will gift of the Republican party of the state, will, we feel authorized to say, take no steps and enter into no combination to secure that prize in any way that would reflect upon his honor as a man and a politician. Hennepin county, therefore, can "settle its own hash" in accordance with its natural predictions, undisturbed by any real or supposed ambition or machination of Capt. Van Sant."

In view of the facts, which the Republican possibly does not know, this is unfair and not in good spirit. Nobody claims that Capt. Van Sant "exacted" any pledge of Mr. Evans. He couldn't do that. But Evans did assure Van Sant that if he was a candidate he would be glad to help him get the nomination, which was a matter purely of personal friendship. Afterward, when strong pressure was brought to bear upon Evans to be a candidate, he declined on account of his promise to Capt. Van Sant, but he did not explain his reasons until finally it became necessary to do so. Under the pressure of still further solicitation from many prominent Republicans, Evans asked Van Sant if he would release him from that pledge, but the captain declined to do so, after taking several days to consider it. And yet the Republican says that if Mr. Evans wishes to be a candidate he will in no way be restrained by Capt. Van Sant.

The Republican, evidently, is not posted with regard to the facts. Neither the publication or the public knowledge of this agreement between Evans and Van Sant was brought about by what Mr. Evans said or did, but through Capt. Van Sant's announcement to various politicians that Evans could not be a candidate because he was pledged to him. It, therefore, comes with very poor grace from the Winona Republican that Capt. Van Sant is indifferent to Mr. Evan's candidacy, has laid no obstacles in his way.

It is certainly creditable to Mr. Evans that he should have been governed in this matter by what he regards as his inviolable pledge. It is a very different attitude to assume from one recently taken by some very conspicuous men in Republican state politics, and for that reason all the more gratifying. But the question is, after all, not purely a personal matter between these two gentlemen, and whether Capt. Van Sant may yet decide to be as magnanimous as the Republican Inudvisedly claims he has been, or not, the Republican party of the state may yet conclude that it is not bound by any agreements between these two men, but may take the matter out of their hands. The Journal is prompted to say this much on account of the manifest unfairness and probably unintentional unkindness of the Republican's remarks.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE OLD RELIABLE

SWEET CAPORAL

CIGARETTE

Has stood the Test of Time

MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

☞Sold by druggists 75c. Toledo, O.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Jas. McDonald, of the Marais was in town Thursday. He says they have just finished threshing, having put in over forty days with their machine.

Wm. Skinner lost a house by fire on Sec. 2 in the town of Fisher last Sunday. The fire originated by a spark from an engine. The house was empty. Loss about $300. No insurance.

Married in this village on Monday Oct. 21, Rev. Skyberg officiating, Mr. Ole Hovet of Reynolds, N. D. and Miss Anna Johnson of Fisher. The happy couple will make their future residence at Reynolds.

Married, at Neby on Wednesday Oct. 23, Mr. John Saugstad and Miss Josephine Bangen. The young couple were the recipients of many handsome presents and good wishes for their future happiness from scores of friends.

Mrs. Chris. and Mrs. Carl Widenhoffer are in Duluth, called there by the illness of Chris. Widenhoffer's sister.

J. B. Nichols, who ran the Fay Cummings farm near East Grand Forks has left for parts unknown leaving numerous creditors to mourn the deep damnation of his taking off.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From the Advocate.]

A baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hunt beginning of the week. Friends congratulate.

Rev. G. G. Matheson preached two eloquent sermons in Mendenhall Memorial church on Sunday to fair congregations. He left for his home in Fergus Falls on Tuesday evening.

Rev. W. H. Hunter returned from Ardoch Monday evening where he had been conducting preaching services the Sabbath previous. Mr Hunter has a great many friends in that city and vicinity.

Hon. F. M. Eddy of Glenwood congressman for this district was in the city on Saturday, and whilst here spent part of the afternoon in our company. Mr. Eddy is a gentleman of pleasing address and a man from whom considerable information can be obtained by conversation. This was Mr. Eddy's first visit to this city and seemed to be well pleased with its possibilities and probabilities.

Alderman Strong returned from his old haunts at the hay meadow the end of last week, presenting quite an aboriginal appearance. After mingling in the good society of this city for several days his appearance gradually became more natural until now he is easily recognized as the old, original and only D. P. R. Strong.

Mr. John S. Danger took an imbecile named Brady to Crookston on Wednesday evening. This is the same old gentleman who was injured a few months ago on the N. P. The local authorities here do not seem to know whether he is really insane or if his present indisposition has been brought on by the excessive use of intoxicating liquors.

The following cases were up for a hearing before John S. Dwyer, City Justice, on Saturday: Rood and Ilstad were charged with allowing gambling on their premises and violating the Sunday law by keeping their saloon open on that day. The defendants waived examination and were held under bonds to appear for trial at the district court. The case against Ole Lukkason was dismissed there not being sufficient evidence to convict on the charge of allowing gambling on his premises.

[From The Courier.]

Not near the acreage will be prepared for cropping this season that was plowed last fall. The immense crop this year and the disposition of farmers not to employ any help which could be possibly spared, but rather exchanging work with their neighbors, is the principal reason why so little land has been turned over, and the time for doing much more will soon expire. If we have an early spring an attempt will be made to plow then, but the prospects under existing circumstances are not bright for a large acreage. Such being the case farmers will have a chance to summer fallow.

Monday evening about 8 o'clock Barney Gigstad was held up at the race track by two men, but as Barney didn't have any money he simply laughed at the highwaymen when one of them struck Barney with a board. The next evening at about the same hour Fredrick Dangerfield was held up at the same place by two men who demanded his money or his life. Previous to starting for home Mr. Dangerfield handed Geo. H. Barlow several hundred dollars to keep for him until he returned to the city, but did have about $8.00 in his pockets, which they made him disgorge. Mr. Dangerfield does not feel his loss as keenly as he does the insult offered him by these strangers ordering him to throw up his hands and remain quiet while they made free with his person. The attention of the police has been called to the matter and the presumption is strong that the robbers will be soon apprehended.

THIS IS ENTERPRISE.

THE NORTHWEST STILL LEADS.

The publishers of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch have just favored us with a copy of their annual premium supplement. Some of the offers which they make are simply wonderful. Articles which usually cost more than the subscription price of the paper are given free with a year's subscription. There is something of interest in it for every member of every family.

It is hard to understand how they can afford to make such offers. The subscription price of the WEEKLY DISPATCH is 75 cents per annum, and the paper is the largest weekly published in Minnesota, consisting of from ten to sixteen pages a week.

Send postal card for sample copies of paper and premium supplement to "WEEKLY DISPATCH," St. Paul Minn.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

The city council have purchased a number of new street lamps and the same will be placed at the corners of the principal streets to be a lamp unto the feet of evening pedestrians.

Monday's train was delayed at Red Lake Falls until Tuesday morning by the engine running off the turn-table into the ditch. No damage done except to the feelings of the passengers who were obliged to wait over a day or drive to Crookston.

Death came last Friday night to end the long and patient sufferings of little Freddie Maxwell. His remains were buried yesterday afternoon from the M. E. church, Rev. Keniston officiating. All departments of the city schools were closed in order that his associates might offer their last tribute of love to the little boy.

Little Carl Kretzschmar has been ill for a number of days with the prevailing malady.

Otto Olson sustained a painful fracture to his left arm last Thursday by a kick from one of his horses.

A. G. Gallusch, president of the Polk County bank of this city came up from St. Paul on Monday and took a look at his interests here.

Congressman Frank M. Eddy spent Monday in the city getting acquainted with his constituents and looking after their necessities.

Eighteen Hundred Million Miles.

In Milton's great poem of "Paradise Lost" we find these lines:

> "Thence, full of anguish driven,
> The space of seven continued nights he rode
> With darkness: thrice the equinoctial line
> He circled; four times across the car of night
> From pole to pole, traversing each colure;
> On the eight returned, and on the coast averse,
> From enterance of cherubic watch by stealth
> Found unsuspected sway."

The reference is, of course, to the fall of "lost spirits," and the distance they must have traveled, according to the hints and allusions in the lines quoted, is exactly 1,832,308,363 miles, 1,120 rods! Quite a tumble, wasn't it? By what process the result was reached, we have not space here to say. Can any of our readers figure it out, and give steps used to "get the answer?" In the meantime, for some interesting figures as to distances between prominent cities by rail, and the cost of tickets via the Burlington Route, address W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Euclid Items.

Euclid was well represented at Crookston, Wednesday, by John Biever, John P. Georgen, Henry Myers, Casper and Fred Tiedeman.

John Tiedeman, who for the past four weeks has been seriously ill with typhoid fever, died on Thursday last at his home north of town. Mr. Tiedeman has always been numbered as one of our large farmers and over work brought on the disease. At the time of his taking sick he was operating two threshing machines, and although of a hardy constitution his body could not stand the strain and he gave way. His death will be keenly felt by his wife and six children, as well as by the entire community. The funeral services were held from his home, the remains being interred in Prairie-view cemetery. A large number of friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

Messrs. J. W. Wheeler and A. A. Miller, of Crookston, attended the John Tiedeman funeral.

Dr. Chapin and wife were at Warren, last week, visiting.

Capt. Van Etten will lecture upon the subject of temperance at the I. O. G. T. hall Thursday and Friday evenings.

A. J. McRae, of the Twohy Mercantile Co., of West Superior, spent Monday night in town.

B. F. Horn will start for Chicago, Thursday evening. He will make the trip to St. Paul on his wheel, weather permitting, from whence he will take the train to Red Wing. After a short visit here he will push on to enter the Armour Institute.

Dr. and Mrs. Chapin were at Crookston, Tuesday.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 25, 1895.

Secretary Olney has, according to one of his talkative friends, sent an ultimatum, not to England, but to Mr. Cleveland. And that is why Mr. Olney went to Boston instead of accompanying Mr. Cleveland to Atlanta. The foreign policy of the administration is at the bottom of the trouble. Mr. Cleveland has been somewhat displeased ever since the friends of Mr. Olney caused it to be widely published that Mr. Olney had declined to become Secretary of state until assured that he would be allowed to inaugurate a more vigorous foreign policy, particularly as to the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, than had prevailed under the late Secretary Gresham, and has given indications of a disposition to repudiate the stand in favor of the Monroe doctrine which Secretary Olney has taken in his communications to the British government concerning the Venezuela boundary dispute. This made Secretary Olney mad, and after ineffectually trying to get Mr. Cleveland to say that the Monroe doctrine should be lived up to by the British in their dealings with Venezuela, he presented his ultimatum to Mr. Cleveland. The substance of that ultimatum, according to the aforesaid talkative friends of Secretary Olney, is that Mr. Cleveland is given his choice between backing up the policy in favor of the Monroe doctrine, which has been very clearly outlined in Secretary Olney's dispatches to the British foreign office, and of accepting the resignation of Secretary Olney. It is not probable that anything decisive will be made public until after the state elections, but the impression is strong in Washington that what Great Britain was allowed to do to Nicaragua she will be allowed to do to Venezuela—compel compliance with her demands—without regard to the Monroe doctrine.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, who has been in Washington for a few days, said just before returning home: "There is no question about the sentiment in congress being in favor of upholding the Monroe doctrine. It is a right doctrine and should be upheld. I presume the doctrine will be declared in some more or less formal manner by congress and if the situation demands that anything be done to enforce its observance, congress, I think, can be depended upon to act promptly. Great Britain does not seem to care very much for our opinions or our wishes and we must maintain our own dignity and uphold our own rights. It looks as if most of the foreign powers had begun to feel that the United States is getting too powerful to maintain the old attitude of indifference towards the affairs of the world, and as if they saw in our increasing strength some imagined danger to themselves. They seem to be bridling up and displaying a disposition to press us back, forestalling any possible aggressiveness on our part."

Those Republicans who will publicly talk about Senator Sherman's book, express regret that he should have seen fit to publish it just at this time, as it is calculated to breed dissension in the party. The Democrats, on the contrary, are delighted with the appearance of the book on the eve of the presidential campaign, and say they propose to do their utmost toward disseminating the criticisms, actual and implied, contained therein.

Secretary Carlisle has ordered that no more silver dollars be coined, and that the U. S. mint at New Orleans be closed entirely and the employes be indefinitely furloughed without pay. Those who claim to enjoy the confidence of the administration say that no more silver will be coined, unless congress shall order it, and that the San Francisco and Philadelphia mints will work exclusively on gold. The silver men charge that this is intended by the administration as another blow at the white metal, and they say the matter will be heard from as soon as congress meets, and that it is likely to make new trouble for the administration.

Expert accountants, both in and out of the government service, who protested against the radical changes made in the system of government book-keeping by the law which was enacted by congress as one of the results of the Dockery commission, which spent a portion of several years investigating the government's method of doing business, are not surprised to learn that the changes made have in nearly every important instance proved to be failures outright and in the rest to be no improvement upon the old ways of working. The saving about which the Democratic papers had so much to say when those five hundred odd clerks were dismissed as useless under the new order of business, will in the end prove to be a loss, as it will eventually be necessary to employ double as many clerks for a long period to get the work up as it ought to be done. How soon this will be done is problematical, as there has been no official acknowledgement of the failure of the Dockery system, although in cases where it could be done the old system has been restored. The facts will get before congress early in the coming session; also a bill repealing every change provided for by the Dockery reorganization, and providing for the employment of a sufficient number of clerks to get the work up to date under the old system.

New York Fashion Letter.

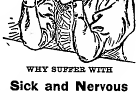
The new winter gowns represent costumes worn under three reigns: Louis XIV, Louis XV and Louis XVI.

Some of the imported gowns carry out every detail of these styles, particularly of those worn by Marie Antoinette. Others have modern features and are finished with the present fancy of voluminous sleeves. Coats of every style are the most popular form of waist. Habit corsages, pleated skirts, jacket fronts and full vests are some of the favorite models. Round and pointed waists are also seen on simple woolen gowns. All collars and collarettes are very much trimmed.

The combination of black and white is in great vogue in imported toilettes for evening wear and some exquisite plaids are shown in dainty designs of black and white. New plaids in bright colors are constantly appearing. The capes of the winter season are circular in shape and longer than those previously worn. The linings are of plaid and Marie Antoinette silks in bright colors and the collars are of Persian lamb and otter. For theatre and evening capes, brocade velvet in bright colors is popular with chameleon linings. Jackets on the contrary are short with box fronts and are cut rather low in the neck. The sleeves are large and drooping with scarcely any fullness on the top or are gored like the melon sleeve of tailor gowns.

One sees in the new fashion magazines published by A. McDowell & Co. a large variety of these latest styles. These periodicals are always very attractive and are constantly increasing in popularity. "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashions" cost $3.50 per year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. The "French Dressmaker" is $3.00 per annum or 30 cents a copy and "La Mode" $1.50 a year or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure either of these journals from your newsdealer do not take any substitute, but apply by mail to Messrs. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York.

The McDowell schools for dress cutting are the largest and most practical in the country. In the finishing school a dress may be cut and made while the pupil is learning. The proof of the superiority of the method of cutting they teach is found in the fact that the McDowell drafting machine is acknowledged to be the standard system of dresscutting. It offers the simplest method to learn, the most rapid to use and a perfect fit for all forms. This machine has received the two highest rewards at the World's Columbian Exposition, as the most perfect in existence.



WHY SUFFER WITH

Sick and Nervous

HEADACHE?

You may be easily and quickly cured by taking

AYER'S PILLS

"I have been a victim of terrible headaches, and have never found anything to relieve them so quickly as Ayer's Pills. Since I began taking this medicine, the attacks have become less and less frequent, until, at present, months have passed since I have had one."—C. F. NEWMAN, Dug Spur, Va.

"Having used Ayer's Pills with great success for dyspepsia, from which I suffered for years, I resolved never to be without them in my household. They are indeed effective." — Mrs. SALLIE MORRIS, 125 Willow St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"I always use Ayer's Pills, and think them excellent."—Mrs. G. P. WATROUS, Jackson, Fla.

Ayer's Pills

Received Highest Awards

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Those—

—Pimples

Are tell-tale symptoms that your blood is not right—full of impurities, causing a sluggish and unsightly complexion. A few bottles of S. S. S. will remove all foreign and impure matter, cleanse the blood thoroughly, and give a clear and rosy complexion. It is most effectual, and entirely harmless.

Chas. Heaton, 73 Laurel Street, Phila., says: "I have had for years a humor in my blood which made me dread to shave, as small boils or pimples would be cut, thus causing shaving to be a great annoyance. After taking three bottles S.S.S. my face is all clear and smooth as it should be—appetite splendid, sleep well and feel like running a foot race all for the use of S. S. S.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free. SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Lamhs' wool slipper soles 25c a pair. The Fair.

Ladies' black double knit mittens for 25c at The Fair.

See our premium offer and drop in and take advantage of it.

H. B. Laughlin came up from Fisher on Friday to see Dan Sully.

A. A. Miller and J. P. Foote went north on the flyer on Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Slocum left for their home in Iowa, on Thursday evening.

Max Ericsson was up from St. Paul looking after his business interests here.

T. G. Thompson entertained his uncle, a Mr. Olson from Grand Forks, over Sunday.

Ex policeman Hulvor Twedten reports the arrival of the first hoy at his home last week.

Robert Watson was down from Red Lake Falls, last week, to attend the teachers' examination.

Dr. Robertson went to Fosston, on Monday, to put everybody's teeth in order for winter's work.

Julius Wentzel was one of the prosperous farmers near Fisher who was in the city on Tuesday.

A. G. Galiasch, after a few day's business visit in the county. left for St. Paul on Friday evening.

Sam Wallace has sold the Kermott drug stock to A. H. Hilliard, a druggist of Verndale who will take possession the 1st of November.

Hall's Hair Renewer renders the hair lustrous and silken, gives it an even color, and enables women to put it up in a great variety of styles.

County Attorney Gossman went over to East Grand Forks on Monday morning the better to see that the laws are duly observed in that burg.

Will Barnes, who has been driving the Crookston laundry wagon, sprained his foot while getting out of the wagon on Monday and is laid up for repairs.

John E. Ostrum came down from Warren on Monday evening to sample the fare at Hotel Crookston, returning home on Tuesday morning.

Atty. C. E. Boughton and Miss Rosa Zeh were married in this city by Rev. R. L. Frazer, on Monday. They took the evening train to St. Paul for a brief wedding trip.

Mrs. Dr. Grandy, of Thief River Falls, arrived on Monday morning on her way home from a visit to the old home in Canada. She remained in this city over night, the guest of Mrs. J. W. Wheeler.

Supt. W. D. Scott tendered his resignation last Saturday, to take effect on November 1st. The JOURNAL is informed that he will return with his family to this city to engage in business here. Everybody will he pleased to welcome the Scots back again.

Editor J. L. Montgomery, of Marshall, (Ill.) Democrat, states that for many years he suffered untold agony from Dyspepsia. At last he began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and by the time he used six hottles, he was as well as ever. Cures others, will cure you.

Mrs. Wm. Skinner was up from Fisher, last week, to do some trading and she dropped in to cheer the printer's heart hy a paid up subscription. She reports that in addition to a generous corn-field Mr. Skinner had 18 acres planted to potatoes which yielded over 3,000 bushels. The market not being satisfactory Mr. S. decided to pit the potatoes and keep them until the market will allow a fair profit on them. Says he can keep them better in pits than most people do in cellars.

On Sunday, among the tramps who had sought shelter in the police station was one who, appearing to he sick, was questioned by the chief who, finding that appearances in this case were not deceiving called in a physician who found a system almost totally destroyed by liquor. Some medicine was procured which seemed to have so good an effect that on Monday morning he appeared quite bright and the chief procured him a breakfast at a restaurant. During this time the chief had inquired of the man, who did not hesitate to talk of himself, his history, and was told that his name was Martin Bergman, and his home Cambridge, Ohio, where he still had a father living, that he had two married daughters and that he was fifty years old. After breakfast on Monday morning the chief lost sight of his man and thought no more about him until about 7 o'clock, on Monday evening he was called in haste up town where, stretched out upon an ash pile, apparently in the death struggle, lay the subject of this sketch and in a few minutes he did breath his last. The body was taken in charge by Chesterman and the address at Cambridge that Bergman had given as his father's, was wired and a reply received asking for particulars, which showed that part of Bergman's story was true, at least.

Rev. H. P. Fisher returned on Sunday morning's delayed Great Northern train, too late for services at the Congregational church. He was in his place for Sunday morning however.

Eli Austin was thrown from a buggy in Fosston on Sunday suffering severe bruises and breaking several fingers. The horses became unmanagable; ran away and threw him out.

County Attorney Gossman went down to Edna, on Thursday, to prosecute a case against A. Boddy, charged with selling liquor without a license. Mr. Boddy was bound over to the Grand jury.

While thorough in action, Ayer's Pills strengthen rather than stimulate the excretory organs. Leading physicians recommend them because they are free from calomel or other injurious drugs, being composed entirely of the best vegetable aperients.

Hugh Thompson went to St. Paul, last week, to attend a meeting of the creditors of the N. D. Milling Association, when an effort was made to come to some agreement whereby a settlement could be effected. No definite conclusion was arrived at, but it is thought there will be soon.

Have you a photo of a departed father or mother or husband or wife or sister or brother, that you would like to have enlarged? See our unequaled premium offer elsewhere in this issue, and bring it or send it to this office with the money required, to enlarge.

See our premium offer on the seventh page of this issue. We shall have a sample picture to exhibit in a few days. This is an excellent opportunity to secure a fine first-class portrait at a trifling cost. Parties desiring more than one picture can obtain it by subscribing for the JOURNAL for some absent relative or friend. Now is the time to subscribe for the JOURNAL.

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

Wm. Skinner, one of Fisher's prominent farmers, was in the city on Tuesday. He is one of the kind who do not confine their attention to one kind of farm produce wholly, but who always have a little hutter, a few eggs, a fat hog now and then, or some poultry when it is selling at its best, plenty of barley and oats to consume on the place and maybe some to sell when the price is high. He also makes something of a specialty of corn, which has proved very profitable. This fall he happens to have a large quantity of potatoes; not being satisfied with the price he is pitting them and will have potatoes to sell when potatoes are in demand—as they will be before next planting time.

The city council met on Tuesday evening and gave its attention to street grading mostly. They also made provision for the purchase of fur overcoats for the police force.

Rudyard Kipling's new story, which the Ladies' Home Journal is about to begin, is a romance of India—really strong love story— and has for its title "William the Conqueror.

James Whitcomb Riley has completed a new series of poems in which he varies the treatment of each one to such an extent that they are said to show the Hoosier poet's versatility to a marked degree. He has given the series to the Ladies' Home Journal, in which the first is about to be published. A. B. Frost has been engaged by the magazine to illustrate the poems.

Not long before his death the poet Longfellow told Hezekiah Butterworth one evening in his library how he came to write "The Psalm of Life," "The hridge," "Excelsior," "Hiawatha," "The Old Clock on the Stairs," and some of his other great poems. Mr. Butterworth has now embodied the evening's talk in an article on "How Longfellow Wrote His Best-known Poems," which the Ladies' Home Journal will publish in its next number.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

ED. ROBERTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.

Served Him Right

"You can take that soap right back and change it for SANTA CLAUS SOAP. I would not use any other kind."

Every woman who has ever used

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

knows it is without an equal. Sold everywhere. Made only by

The N. K. Fairbank Company, - Chicago.

Geo. A. Ralph went to Duluth last week.

Fac McLennan was in from Angus on Friday.

Geo. O'Reilly was up from Fisher on Friday.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Atty. B. S. Bennett was in the city on Friday on legal business.

The Fair has a large line of 25c neckwear that beats the world.

Conductor "Hank" Murray was visiting friends in the city on Monday.

The Chautauqua Club met with Mrs. A. A. Miller on Monday evening.

H. F. Brown went up along the St. Hilaire branch on Friday of last week.

Master Mechanic T. E. Adams was in the city on Friday to see Dan Sully.

J. W. Wheeler went up to Euclid Friday to attend the funeral of John Tiedeman.

W. E. Rows entertained a friend from Minneapolis on Sunday—a Mr. E. R. Bradley.

Dr. Watson came down from Red Lake Falls with his brother on Friday of last week.

Mrs. John Tiedeman came down from Euclid on Tuesday with John Ghoosen and wife.

Marcus Johnson was up from Atwater Friday looking after his business interests in Polk county.

Dave Vanuett, N. P. roadmaster, was in the city on Friday looking after the interests of that line.

A rain-storm on Saturday was succeded by snow and on Sunday morning a good bit of 'the beautiful' covered the ground.

Brakesman McNeil has heen laid up with that base ball knee for a week past and trying to mollify his feeling by jawing with Charlie Misner.

Dan Sully—the irrepressible and only Dan, appeared before a large audience at the Grand on Friday night of last week. Dan is a great favorite here-

Appearances now indicate the "squaw winter" was a bluff and that there will yet he open weather enough to permit of a good deal of plowing being done yet this fall. The cause of so many farmers heing so far behind with their work is found in a desire to work more within their means and hire as little help as possible resulting in "changing work" a great deal, more than ever with the inevitable result, of neglected plowing.

Wheat seems inclined to brace up a little at the end of the month, hut may not quite reach the half-dollar mark.

W. J. Peterson went up on the St. Hilaire branch, on Friday, looking after business for Ericsson & Brady, St. Paul.

Tuesday afternoon was bright and warm, Not a good deal like the weather for the few days previous to that.

Mr. P. McKercher of Minneapolis has purchased a farm near Wylie. He is a brother-in-law to R. G. Woodham.

The ground was frozen quite hard on Sunday morning but farmers could plow in stubble ground on Monday morning.

Among the improvments for the immediate future which we note is a base-ball league composed of teams from Northwestern towns and cities.

Lillian Lewis will appear before a Crookston audience at the Grand tomorrow evening in Cleopatria. The company carries the finest costumes for this opera ever seen in this city.

Miss Abbie Walsh and Mr. H. P. Melnken were married in Grand Forks, last week. Miss Walsh is a daughter of Hon. Geo. H. Walsh and enjoys the distinction of being the first white girl born in Grand Forks.

Tom Newby, the Fosston horseman, was brought before Judge Christianson on Friday on a charge of selling whiskey to Indians. The character of the testimony was sufficent to hold him for trial at the next term of the U. S. court.

Tommy Johnstone returned last week from a trip in Dakota, up Grafton way where he disposed of two of those fine English Couch horses. One of the horses be sold for $1400 and the other for a trifle less. Mr. Johnstone not only knows a good horse when he sees it but knows how to sell them.

W. T. Carlyle has finished his October sessions of dairy schools and went below on Monday. He has two more in Polk county for next month, one at Fosston and one at Erskine.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb.

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jewele .

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

"One Price and That Right."

Fontaine and Anglim.

The Leading and and Largest Store in the Red River Valley.

AN absolute Clearance of the Stock of Infants' Cloaks is ordered. The stock consists of some 250 garments—ranging in size from one to four years old. We expect the low prices to force these goods out quickly. Only a few of the many can find mention in detail.

At 79c.

Infants' Flannel Cloaks—heavy cotton flannel lined—extra large sleeves—braid trimming—Reduced from $1.10. Sizes 1 to 4 years.

At $1.07.

Infants' Grey or Tan Eiderdown Cloaks—fine sateen lined—braid trimming. Sizes from 1 to 4 years. Reduced from $1.50.

At $1.29.

Infants' all-wool Eiderdown Cloaks—Tan—Red—White—fine sateen lined. Reduced from $2.00.

At $1.47.

Infants' all-wool Eiderdown Cloaks—cotton flannel lined. Angora wool trimmed. Colors: White, Gray and Tan. Price reduced from $2.10

$2.25 CLOAKS AT $1.59
$2.80 " " $1.97
$3.15 " " $2.09
$3.90 " " $2.69
$4.50 " " $3.39
$5.50 " " $4.29

Underwear.

Extraordinary—direct from underwear builders of reliability and renown at from 25c. to one dollar under ruling prices.

If there's a person within reach of us who has need of anything in Clothing, Dry Goods, Groceries, Crockery, Boots and Shoes, now is their money saving opportunity.

A postal card directed to us will bring you a new Fall Price List.

Mail orders promptly and conscientiously attended to.

Malaria

Sinking Spells, Headache, Impure Blood

Whole Family Helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Augusta E. Grant
Big Bend, Wis.

"About a year ago, when we lived in a low, swampy locality, I commenced to feel very miserable. I had frequent sinking spells, sick headaches, and was troubled with neuralgia and also

Fluttering of the Heart

I became completely run down and could not do much of anything. At the request of a neighbor I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and before the first bottle had been taken it had benefited me so much that all the rest of the family were taking it, and we are greatly pleased with the results." MRS. AUGUSTA E. GRANT, Big Bend, Wisconsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills, Biliousness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Sick Headache. 25c.

AN ADDITION

To the Bella Coola Colony.

On Sunday morning a number of people started to join the Norwegian colony established at Bella Coola, British Columbia, by Rev. C. Saugstad, last year, and among these last was Mrs. Saugstad, who has been with some of the children since he left. They were about town all day Saturday laying in supplies and bidding their friends farewell. The most of them can't get back here before seeding time next spring.

Will Peterson went north along the St. Vincent line on Tuesday.

C. H. Tiedeman was up from Red Wing last week to attend the funeral of his brother John at Euclid. He returned to his home this week.

Judge C. M. Benson on Tuesday tied the knot that united for life a happy couple from Neilsville, John Swenson and Maria Tonneson.

Max Ericsson went up to Argyle on Tuesday on the flyer.

Crookston Nimrods are calculating to be in the field just as soon as deer are ripe enough to pick. They anticipate lots of fun.

Frank Bivens went up to Warren to look after the farm there, Tuesday.

Mr. Milligen was summoned to Mason City, Iowa on Monday by a dispatch announcing the serious illness of his wife who is there visiting relatives.

Louis Gonyea takes possession of his new stand on Robert street this week.

C. F. Horton came all the way from Michigan to hunt deer in Northern Minnesota. His wife will remain in the city until her husband returns.

The close weather for the past week made the "Innocents Abroad" hunt the hot side of buildings and even induced many of them to seek shelter in the cooler nights. These unfortunate waifs upon the sea of humanity "who could not find" work enough in the great harvest now nearly threshed in the Valley to buy a box of Hood's for "that tired feeling" seem to have been caught a little off on their calculations this fall and they are now getting anxious to get along further south.

Make Yourself Strong

If you would resist pneumonia, bronchitis, typhoid fever, and persistent coughs and colds. These ills attack the weak and run down system. They can find no foothold where the blood is kept pure, rich and full of vitality, the appetite good and digestion vigorous, with Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache.

If this cold snap should prove the beginning of the freeze up and prevent very much more plowing being done it might not he such an unmixed evil to the country after all for it would necessarily curtail an overgrown crop of wheat next year and would necessitate more summer fallowing than ever. Much of the land now in cultivation absolutely need to be summer fallowed but will not be until some such occasion compels.

The contractor is up this week arranging for putting in the new cells at the jail.

BROWN,
The Cigar Man.
Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.
Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.
DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.
H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,
Proprietor of Main Street
LIVERY AND FEED STABLES
Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side
CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.
Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE
Good Working Pants!
At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.
TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business
We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.
NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.
Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM
Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.
VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.
The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.
CLEVELAND HOUSE
CROOKSTON, MINN.
THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.
No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.
On Main St. C. E. MISNER. Prop
Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.
RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.
Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.
Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.
ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.
ALL WORK WARRANTED.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,
Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,
PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.
Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.
Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE
Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by
Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES.
Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting.........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.........
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding.............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough..................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases..................
28	Nervous Debility..................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30	Urinary Weakness.................
31	Painful Periods..................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria...
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER
Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised) MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."
For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

Firemakers.

One of the Kaffirs had two sticks for making fire, and he showed us how he did it. One of the sticks was about 15 inches long and about half an inch in diameter. The other was flatter and had already in it several shallow round holes made by setting fire on former occasions. He took the latter piece, and having cut a smaller, irregular shaped hole in it he squatted on the ground, holding it firmly down at each end by his two feet. He then took the first piece of stick and held it upright between his two palms, with the point of the lower end resting in the hole he had just made in the horizontal stick.

He twirled the upright stick rapidly between his hands, and in less than a minute it had bored a round hole in the other, and the dust so produced began to smoke, and then ignited like tinder. A companion brought a handful of fine, dry grass, which caught a spark from this, and which he held half inclosed in the palms of his hands, gently blowing on it till it flamed up. It is perfectly marvelous how little the natives mind being burned by a fire. They will stand over one while the flames are licking up their bare legs and never move, and will keep their hands and feet in redhot ashes with the utmost indifference for several seconds.—National Review.

The Conquests of Silence.

Washington never made a speech. In the zenith of his fame he once attempted it, failed and gave it up, confused and abashed. In framing the constitution of the United States the labor was almost wholly performed in committee of the whole, of which George Washington was, day after day, chairman, and he made but two speeches during the convention, of a very few words each, something like one of Grant's speeches. The convention, however, acknowledged the master spirit, and historians affirm that had it not been for his personal popularity and the 30 words of his first speech, pronouncing it the best that could be united upon, the constitution would have been rejected by the people.

Thomas Jefferson never made a speech. He couldn't do it.

Napoleon, whose executive ability is almost without a parallel, said that his difficulty was in finding men of deeds rather than words. When asked how he maintained his influence over his superiors in age and experience when commander in chief of an army in Italy, he said, "By reserve." The greatness of a man is not measured by the length of his speeches and their number.—Chicago Times-Herald.

What He Liked.

Speaking of "A Milk White Flag" makes me think of another of Hoyt's plays, "A Texas Steer," which brings Tim Murphy to my mind, so that I am reminded of a story a newspaper man tells of Tim Murphy's father. The newspaper man—I have really no reason for concealing his name; it was Winfield S. Larner—met old Murphy one day, and the old gentleman volunteered to drive him to the capitol. Now the Murphy horse is one of those animals in which you have instinctively implicit confidence. He jogged off down the avenue as the result of constant and emphatic urging on the part of Mr. Murphy, and turned in to the Academy of Music. Here Mr. Murphy stopped, and a little boy dashed out to offer his services.

"Hold your horse, mister?" he asked.

"No, me boy," replied Mr. Murphy as he climbed down from the buggy and looked affectionately at the horse. "He'll stand. He'll like it."

And the horse stood.—Washington Post.

A White Cat's Eyes.

On Columbus avenue a white cat keeps the mice out of the store of its owner. There is nothing remarkable in a white cat per se, but the owner of this particular animal declares that it is a feline curiosity—a freak, in fact.

"Look at that cat's eyes," he said yesterday. "Ever see anything like them? Why, don't you see anything remarkable? Don't know much about white cats, then. Now, that cat, you see, has two blue eyes—I never saw or heard of the like before. Cats usually have gray eyes, but white cats, as a rule, have only one gray eye—the other is blue. Every white cat that I ever saw but this one had one blue eye and one gray eye. Both the eyes of my cat are blue. It is a wonderful freak of nature, I think. Go to any man who knows much about cats—white cats especially—and see if he doesn't tell you that I am right."—New York World.

A Question of Age.

"You wheelmen will have to pay a city tax on your bicycles now," said one Pittsburger to another.

"Indeed?"

"Yes, the new ordinance says that all owners of bicycles and tricycles over the age of 14 years using the public highways shall pay 50 cents for each machine."

"That doesn't include me."

"What's the reason it doesn't, I'd like to know?"

"My bicycle isn't 14 years old. I only bought it last spring."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Good Imitation.

Dick—I played a great joke on a blind man a little while ago. You know they say that in compensation for one's loss of vision the remaining senses are abnormally acute?

Bob—So I've always heard.

Dick—Well, I handed him an article, and after feeling it over for 10 or 15 minutes he had to give it up. He couldn't tell whether it was a collar just from the laundry or only a buzzsaw.—Boston Transcript.

It Will Last.

The wonder still grows that the green goods men can still find victims despite the exposures that the papers are constantly giving of the swindle. The game will probably continue as long as the green goods appeal to the avarice of the green bads.—Boston Herald.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

By John Mackie. It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

Some Late Moon Theories.

Have you seen the latest scientific treatise on the probable cause of the moon's rugged surface? It is a well known fact that every mile of lunar surface compares very favorably with the most mountainous portions of Switzerland, being a succession of high pinnacles, deep holes and seemingly bottomless chasms.

The best existing maps of the moon's surface show 132,856 of these craterlike holes and over 100,000 mountain peaks, or projections, which compare favorably with what we know to be mountain peaks. Not longer since than last summer the astronomers gave it as their opinion that these craterlike holes and mountain peaks had been caused by a prodigious shower of aerolites, or meteorites. That theory has been recently knocked out by a noted European astronomer, M. Verde, who gives it as his opinion that the moon was originally a vast aggregation of miniature planets which have amalgamated, or coalesced, into one. According to his theory, the openings and projections are the interstices which were left when the separate fragments came together to form the ball which all now recognize as the Queen of Night. He says that in all probability there are several holes which reach entirely through the lunar world.—St. Louis Republic.

The Changed Rubies.

There seems no end to the curious stories about jewels lost and stolen. One of the latest is that of Mrs. A., who recently took a pair of large ruby solitaires to be reset at ——'s, where they had been purchased. The morning after the maid brought her the card of the firm, saying a gentleman wished to see her, and on going down to the drawing room she found one of the clerks, who told her that the stones, which were apparently of great value, were in reality false and worthless. Very much agitated over the intelligence, Mrs. A. asserted that the jewels had never left her possession since their purchase, and claimed that the fraud must have been perpetrated before she received them. This of course the firm denied, but the feeling on the subject became very bitter on both sides, and detectives were employed by both to ferret out the mystery. When a former butler of Mrs. A. was proved to be a discharged clerk of the well known jewelers, the inference was obvious, although no proof against the man has been found, and the jewels have never been recovered.—Boston Gazette.

Our Small Devotee.

My first evening, or night in fact, in Ponta Delgado—as well as many thereafter—was spent in the society of the most affectionately demonstrative, untiringly attentive of the inhabitants of the Azores, the very merriest, happiest of creatures, who enjoys life with a zest that is seldom equaled, who hails with delight each newcomer to the isles, and welcomes them with the most flattering warmth. We had a lively time together. A more energetic, aggressive, industrious creature I never met. Infinitesimally small, yet marvelously active, he is, I believe, the one and only native Azorean who can boast of that so common American quality, extreme nervous energy. Not even the most energetic, tireless Chicagoan, in his grand rush after the mighty dollars, could be more indefatigable, more alert and alive to anything and everything, or rather to any one and every one, than this selfsame ubiquitous Azorean flea.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"Collar" Is Old English.

Justices in New York are ignorantly fastidious in matters of English. When Mr. O'Hara, a policeman, said, "We collared him," Justice Taintor replied: "You 'arrested' him, and you ought to be ashamed for not saying so at once. Such language as you used is not fit language to use to a magistrate in a public courtroom." But Mr. O'Hara did not employ slang. The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele, in The Guardian, No. 84, wrote, "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are: Gentleman's Magazine, 1702, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."—Boston Journal.

The Pacific Slope Style of Poker.

"The terror of a one card draw is unknown to San Francisco devotees of the game immortalized by General Schenck," said Mr. William R. Brewster of that city at the Hotel Page.

"The reason is that out on the slope we do not play sequences, or 'straights,' at all, and flushes only before the draw. A flush, therefore, is of no account except when held 'pat.'

"This, to my mind, is a better system than the eastern method, for it gives the man who holds the best pair the natural advantage that belongs to him. It is needless to say that those abominations known as 'big' and 'little dogs,' that go with the game in Kentucky, are absolutely unknown in California."—Washington Post.

His Enjoyment Marred.

"My enjoyment of the 5 cent cigar," said the man of moderate means, "is sometimes marred by the breaking away of the wrapper. The fine, smooth Sumatra leaf is cut in strips that are rather narrow. They wrap without much lap, and as the cigar burns the wrapper sometimes creeps out. As I have before remarked, it is now quite possible to get a good cigar for 5 cents, but there isn't much fun smoking it unless it will stay together."—New York Sun.

Tobacco.

Tobacco is grown in 42 states and territories, but nearly half the crop comes from Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.
RUNS
THROUGH CARS
TO
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg
TO—
HELENA, BUTTE, SPOKANE, TACOMA, SEATTLE, PORTLAND
PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS, ELEGANT DINING CARS, TOURIST SLEEPING CARS
TIME SCHEDULE.
Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.
have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.
For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on or write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or
CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!
DO YOU WANT
The Choicest Cuts
At Lowest Rates?
Try George Vine's New
MEAT MARKET.
Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.
Vine Block, Broadway. CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.
Transacts a General Banking Business
Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.
Special Attention to Collections.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.
C. HENDRICKSON............President
L. ELLINGTON............Vice President
J. W. WHEELER............Cashier
A. P. HANSON............Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.
A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.
CROOKSTON. - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK BOOK

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK-BOOK FREE!
320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.
One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes, indexed for handy reference.
MAILED FREE.
In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.
Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Game, etc. to give away. A beautiful Picture Card in every package of LION COFFEE.
WOOLSON SPICE CO. TOLEDO, OHIO.

Our Premium Offer ! ! !

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-Class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn.. and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at..........7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at.........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust
Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake. Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell. Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.
Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back sealed day coaches especially adapted for long distance travelling.
Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.
Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.
Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.
Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west. with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.
Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3. For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake. Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13. For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls. Monday, Wednesday and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.
Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.
One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

RECOGNITION FOR CUBA.

Campos Says Uncle Sam Will Probably Grant It.

MADRID, Oct. 28.—A dispatch to The Imperial from Havana contains an interview with General Campos, in which he opines that the United States will recognize the insurgents as belligerents when it suits her internal policy. The prospect has not alarmed him, he says, for Spain would then know exactly how matters stood.

Royalty Betrothed.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 30.—It is officially announced that Princess Maud of Wales, youngest daughter of the Prince and Princess of Wales, is betrothed to Prince Charles of Denmark.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant,
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

SUMMARY OF WEEK'S NEWS.

Wednesday, Oct. 22.

Pierre's cattle shipments this year amounted to 12,000 head.

The house of bishops at Minneapolis presented a handsome silver vase to Bishop Whipple of Minnesota.

Near Lidgerwood, N. D., three teams of horses were burned to death by prairie fires while hitched to plows in the field.

Miss Jean Miner's bronze statue representing the motto of the Badger state was unveiled at Madison, Wis., Tuesday.

Superior, Wis., has secured an injunction to prevent the La Belle wagon works removing to Clinton, Ia. The concern had been given a bonus to locate at Superior.

A recent hearing before the Minnesota railroad commissioner at Duluth developed the fact that the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railroad had run its passenger trains the past year at an actual loss of $17,000.

Thursday, Oct. 24.

The entire holdings of the Western Land and Horse company were sold at auction at Rapid City, S. D.

At Tiffin, O., City Marshal August Shultz was shot and killed by a farmer named Lee Martin, whom he was trying to arrest.

A fire originating in the Grand Central hotel at Ceres, Pa., destroyed that structure and the entire business portion of the town.

The death of H. B. Cotton, president of the Oxford University Boat club and bow of the university eight for the last six years, is announced.

Two freight trains on the Wabash railroad collided at Martinsburg, Mo., killing Dan Kehoe, pump foreman, and Edward Thompson of Tulip, Mo.

Judge Vinje has appointed Robert Kelly as receiver of the West Superior Iron and Steel company on application of the Central Trust company of New York, which holds a mortgage of $1,300,000.

Friday, Oct. 25.

Lieutenant Governor Millard of California is dead at Los Angeles.

The striking miners in the Fort Dodge (Ia.) district have returned to work.

Five persons who took part in a charivari at Waconta, Minn., have been arrested.

Henry of Navarre captured the Municipal handicap at Morris Park Thursday. Rey El Santa Anita was second and Clifford third.

Fully 400,000 bushels of potatoes have been frozen in the ground in the vicinity of Plainfield, Wis., by the sharp frosts of the past few nights.

Elmer Waldron, aged 20, was sentenced to 15 years at McArthur, O., for horsestealing. Six months ago he was sent to the penitentiary for life for killing his uncle, but was granted a new trial.

Saturday, Oct. 20.

Sir Joseph Renals, lord mayor of London, has been made a baronet.

Oklahoma's banks have an average reserve of 43 per cent of liabilities.

The Australian ballot law has been upheld by a Massachusetts court.

The treasury statement shows available cash balance, $182,183,698; gold reserve, $93,291,087.

The Chickasaw legislature appointed five delegates to confer with the Dawes commission on allotment.

Advices to the Cuban junta at New York state that 1,500 Spaniards in Uruguay have volunteered for service in Cuba.

The United States steamer Marblehead has arrived at Marsina, Asia Minor, to protect the missionaries of that district.

The president has appointed Yancey Lewis of Ardmore, I. T., United States judge of the Central district of that territory, to succeed Judge Stuart.

Hon. John Little of Xenia, member of the state board of arbitration, has been selected to arbitrate the differences between the Ohio miners and operators on the wage question.

Monday, Oct. 28.

Samoan public funds are low, as both rebels and the loyal party refuse to pay taxes.

Two persons were killed and two injured, one fatally, in a runaway accident near Troy, Mo.

Fraud orders have been issued against the Eureka Endowment company of Baxter Springs, Kan.

Owing to treaty obligations Secretary Herbert refuses to allow the building of gunboats on the great lakes.

It is announced that Rey El Santa Anita, owned by Lucky Baldwin, has been sold to Richard Croker for $25,000.

A destructive prairie fire near Perry, O. T., destroyed many thousands of bushels of corn and many tons of hay.

Tuesday, Oct. 29.

Omaha has put in a bid for the Republican national convention.

The body of William Boeck of Amboy, Minn., missing Since Oct. 8, has been found in the woods near Good Thunder.

Oshkosh, Wis., is to have a public library. Fifty thousand dollars has been donated and another $50,000 voted by the city council.

At Chicago James Bell, a printer, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife and then fired a bullet into his own brain, dying almost instantly.

A disastrous fire is raging on Welch mountain in the vicinity of Scruffleton and Blueball, Pa., and thousands of acres of timber land have been burned.

Eastbound shipments from Chicago last week amounted to 82,220 tons against 86,023 for the preceding week and 47,526 for the same week last year.

Those Awful Telegrams.

"What is it, Mamie?"

"It's a boy, mum, with a telegraft."

"A telegram? Oh, ask him if James is killed!"

"He says he doesn't know, mum."

"Ask him what he does know about it."

"He says all he knows about it is that its marked 'collect,' and he wants his money."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! What shall I do? Here, Mamie, here's the purse. Pay him. Pay him whatever he asks. Oh, my poor James! I just knew something would happen to him before he went away this morning! Will they bring him home in an ambulance, Mamie?"

"I s'pose so, mum. Maybe you'd better read the telegraft."

"I can't! I can't! Oh, it serves me right for not kissing him three times when he left. And we've been married such a short time too!"

"Why don't you open the telegraft, mum?"

"Well, I suppose I must; but, oh, I can't tell you how I dread it!"

Reads telegram:

Will bring friend home to dinner. JAMES.

"The heartless beast!"—New York Journal.

Altogether Too Honest.

Hotel Clerk—That lawyer stopping with us is the most honest man I ever heard of.

Landlord—Why?

Clerk—He sits up in a chair and sleeps at night.

Landlord—What's that got to do with it?

Clerk—He says after his day's work is over he doesn't think he ought to lie in bed.—Detroit Free Press.

The First Safety Lamp.

The first claim as an inventor of a safety lamp for use in mines was made by Dr. Clanny of Newcastle, who, in 1813, contrived a ponderous and complicated machine, requiring a boy to work it. This apparatus never became popular. It was found to be too unwieldy.

The Families Were Out.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Oct. 30.—Burglars made a rich haul from the homes of Mrs. Daniel Curran, Dr. Burton Clark and Mrs. Elizabeth Doe while the families were away. Jewelry and diamonds valued at over $900 were taken.

LATEST MARKET REPORT.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 28, 1895.

FLOUR—Steady and quiet.

WHEAT—No 2 spring, 58¼c; No. 1 Northern, 60¾c; December, 59¾c.

CORN—No. 3, 30½c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 20½c; No. 3 white, 18½@19½c.

BARLEY—No. 2, 40c; sample on track, 23@40½c.

RYE—No. 1, 40½c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 28, 1895.

WHEAT — October, 55c; December, 55c; May, 59⅜c. On Track — No. 1 hard, 56½c; No. 1 Northern, 55¼c. No. 2 Northern, 53¾c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Oct. 28, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 58½c: No. 1 Northern, 57c; No. 2 Northern, 53@55c; No. 3 spring, 53½c; rejected, 40c; No. 1 Northern, 57c; October, 57c; December No. 1 hard, 57¾c: No. 1 Northern, 56¼c; May, 60¾c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Oct. 28, 1895.

HOGS—Market about 5c lower. Range of prices, $3.20@3.30.

CATTLE—Market steady; good demand for good stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Good sheep and lambs strong; common dull.

Receipts: Hogs, 900; cattle, 225; calves, 900; sheep, 235.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28, 1895.

HOGS—Market active, steady to 5c lower.

Sales ranged at $3.40@3.82½ for light; $3.40@3.85 for mixed; $3.25@3.80 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.30@3.45 for rough.

CATTLE—Market for best steady; others 5@10c lower.

Beeves, $3.10@5.25; cows and heifers, $1.25@3.40; Texas steers, $2.65@3.30 Westerns, $2.85@4.10. stockers and feeders, $2.2 @3.90.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Receipts: Hogs, 50,000; cattle, 19,000; sheep, 24,000.

Chicago Grain and Provision.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—October, 59¼c; December, 40½c; May, 64¼@64⅜c.

CORN—October, 30c: November, 29¼c; December, 27⅝@27¾c; January, 27¼c; May, 29½c.

OATS—October, 18c; December, 18¼c; May, 20½c.

PORK—October, $8.00; November, $8.07½; January, $9.07½; May, $9.42½.

LARD—October, $5.52; December, $5.55; January, $5.6 ; May, $5.85.

The Mournful Consideration.

Ah, this dolce far niente, with its leisure hours a-plenty,
When the mercury is rising in the glass,
All life's torrid griefs forgetting in the oscillating netting
Of the hammock as it sweeps the waving grass!
How we generously pity those who summer in the city
While we quaff the breezes from the hill or bay!
Oh, this dolce far niente! But, alas, it costs you twenty
Every day the gentle landlord lets you stay!

WANTED SALESMEN.
Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes.
A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.
NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN.
L. L. MAY & CO.
St. Paul, Minn.
[23-30]

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections. and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

[illegible] It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled . . . .

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may . .

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

LIGHT AND AIRY.

An Old Time Novel.

A pretty girl
With wavy curl,
An evening party somewhat late,
A homeward walk,
A loving talk,
A kissing tableau at the gate.
A moonlight night,
A hand squeezed tight,
A little reference to papa,
A little kiss,
A little bliss,
A consultation with mamma.
A little church,
"For bad or worse
You take this maid your wife to be?"
A trembling yes,
A loving press,
A little wife to live with me.
—Williams' Weekly.

Tales of Terror.

They were telling war stories.

Brown—I ate mule meat once for three days.

Smith—I was seven months a prisoner at Andersonville.

Jones—Well, gentlemen, I wasn't in the war, but I've spent 19 years in boarding houses.—Chicago Record.

Anticipated His Readers.

"My hero dies in the middle of my last story," said the young author.

"That's a grave mistake," replied the editor. "He should not die before the reader does. I've heard of three men who actually finished your book before they gave in."—Atlanta Constitution.

What Did It.

His eyes had a dull, unintelligent stare.
He staggered and turned from the desk in a daze.
Bewilderingly through his disordered hair
His fingers he ran, while he uttered such phrase
As only a tottering mind would invent.
Was he drunk? Had he rashly and recklessly tried
Some knockout concoction, with deadly intent?
Oh, no! He'd been reading a Traveler's Guide.
—Richmond Dispatch.

Unfair.

Lawyer For the Defense—I charge the prosecution with attempting to intimidate our witness, Mr. Enpec.

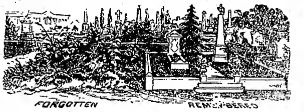
Lawyer For the Prosecution—What have we done?

Lawyer For the Defense—Allowed his wife to visit him.—Exchange.

IVORY IVORY SOAP
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.
ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



FORGOTTEN REMEMBERED

NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

MINNESOTA
HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Historical Society

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY NOVEMBER 7, 1895. NO 30.

CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

Folding Beds, Oak Polished, 5 ft. - - $30.00
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00

Best All-Wool Carpet
Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels
Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper
5c. to 35c. per Roll.

15 SECOND HAND STOVES
$2.00 to $10.00

3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made In Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:

We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

BURNED AS HERETICS

THE AWFUL STORY THAT COMES FROM MEXICO.

Ten Persons in Jail at Texacapa and the Building Fired by Order of a Local Judge—The Natives in a Frenzy of Excitement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A special to The World from Pachuca, Mexico, says: News comes from Texacapa, a small town inhabited by Indians and Mestizos (half-breeds), that 10 persons were burned there as heretics by order of the auxiliary town judge. He claims he was acting according to the will of God, manifested to him in an extraordinary vision, accompanied by certain indications of divine wrath against heretics and people leading immoral lives. The dispatch adds: As soon as the news reached Mollango, the principal town in the district, the municipal president and minor officials, with a escort of over 60 men armed with rifles, went to Texacapa, where they found everybody in the public square, in honor of the virgin of Guadaloupe, around the ruins of the jail, a small building solidly constructed, close to the parish church. In this jail previous to Saturday had been confined Nicolas Hernandez, Martin Santiago, Jose Manuel, Casper Hernandez, Juan Tomas, Juan Tomas, Jr., Maria Juana, Maria Magdalena, Maria Concepcion and an infant child. They had been rudely hustled from their homes at dead of night on the extraordinary charge preferred by the auxiliary town judge that their lives were an evil in the sight of God, and that they were enemies of the faith and heretics whom God had ordered through His holy saint to be consumed by fire. The auxiliary judge related this with the utmost sangfroid to the authorities. He added that God had wrought astonishing miracles to confirm what the saint had told him in the vision.

Executing Grotesque Dances

Obeyed the Divine Command,

Said the judge: "I obeyed the Divine command and ordered out my constables and we took these sinners from their beds and dragged them in the darkness of night, weeping and wailing, to the jail. When they were locked securely in I ordered the constables to set the building on fire."

Twenty-one arrests were made although the fanatical mob threatened death to the authorities. The prisoners securely bound around the arms and chained together, were marched to Mollango, where a judicial investigation will take place.

GENERAL WALKER'S APPOINTMENTS.

Grand Army Commander Names Several Committees.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5.—Commander-in-Chief Ivan N. Walker of the G. A. R., has announced his appointments of the following national committees:

Special aide, in charge of military instruction in public schools, Comrade Henry H. Adams, 177 Broadway, New York; committee on pensions, Benjamin Brooke, Philadelphia, William A. Ketcham, Indianapolis, Albert D. Shaw, Watertown, N. Y., W. W. Dudley, Washington, D. C., T. E. Clarkson, Omaha, Neb.; committee on revision of installation services, W. A. Weatherbee, Newton, Mass., George Edward Allen, Providence, R. I., Frank Seaman, Knoxville, Tenn.

Monument For Loyal Women.

The committee to formulate a plan for the erection of a monument to the loyal women of the war will consist of Eli Torrence, Minneapolis; S. S. Burdette, Washington; A. M. Warner, Cincinnati; Washington Gardner, Lansing, Mich., Ira M. Hedges, Haverstraw, N. Y.

The committee to memorialize congress to provide for the payment of expenses of Memorial day at national cemeteries in the South will consist of C. T. Watson, Atlanta; S. H. Hurst, Chillicothe, O.; J. H. Kidd, Ionia, Mich.

Deficit for the Month.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures issued, shows the receipts during October to have been as follows: Customs $13,773,055, internal revenue $13,216,583, miscellaneous $912,109; total receipts $27,901,748. The expenditures aggregated $34,503,345, which leaves the deficit for the month $6,601,677.

Transcontinental Freight Rates Cut.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 3.—Transcontinental freight officials are disturbed over a rate war between the Northern Pacific and Great Northern on one side and the Southern Pacific on the other. The whole trouble is over the demand of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific for a differential rate on transcontinental business via the lakes.

Deepwater Canal Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The president has appointed James B. Angel of Michigan, John E. Russell of Massachusetts, and Lyman E. Cooley of Illinois, to be commissioners to make inquiry and report upon the feasibility of a deepwater canal, between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic ocean, under the act approved March last.

Cary Appointed Special Master.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 5.—Judge Jenkins has issued an order appointing Alfred L. Cary special master in the Northern Pacific cases, with power to examine into the receivers' reports and to hear objections filed against claims.

Satolli Receives Official Notice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. — Monsignor Satolli received official notice of his elevation to be a cardinal. The first announcement came by letter and this was followed by a cablegram to Cardinal Gibbons from Cardinal Rampola.

Campos Suspends Operation.

MADRID, Nov. 1.—General Campos has informed the government that he must suspend all offensive operations for the present owing to the heavy rains and flood.

The Old Settler's Association of the Red River Valley will hold its annual meeting at Grand Forks, N. D., on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 1895. All members of the association and those who are in sympathy with it are cordially invited to attend this meeting, which will be of unusual interest, as matters of importance are to be acted upon. The citizens of Grand Forks are making special efforts for the entertainment of the visitors and reduced rates on the railroads, which we hope to arrange, and a grand dinner, which will be free to all members of the association will make the expense of attending very light. We hope to see a large crowd in attendance. By order of the executive committee.

N. K. HUBBARD,
President.

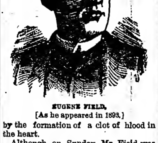
B. F. MACKALL,
Secretary.

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 1, 1895.

EUGENE FIELD IS DEAD.

The Noted Chicago Newspaper Man and Poet Passes Away.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Eugene Field, the poet, died in his bed of heart failure at 5 a. m. For some days Mr. Field has been ailing, but it was supposed he was suffering from his usual stomach troubles, and no serious turn was anticipated. Dr. Frank Reilly, who was summoned, pronounced death to have been caused by the formation of a clot of blood in the heart.



EUGENE FIELD.
[As he appeared in 1893.]

Although on Sunday Mr. Field was feeling so ill that he telegraphed to Kansas City cancelling an engagement which he had there, he sat up until a late hour chatting with Mr. Yenowine of the Milwaukee Illustrated News. Mr. Yenowine was to have accompanied Mr. Field to Kansas City.

Something of Mr. Field's Life.

Mr. Field was born in St. Louis Sept. 2, 1850, and was therefore 45 years old at the time of his death. After finishing his education, he adopted the profession of a newspaper writer, beginning with the St. Louis Journal, in 1872. His next connection was with the St. Joseph (Mo.) Gazette, in 1875, after which he returned to St. Louis to take an editorial position on the Times-Journal. In 1880 he was on the staff of the Kansas City Times, but left that paper in 1881 to become managing editor of the Denver Tribune. He came to Chicago, Aug. 13, 1883, to accept a position on the editorial staff of the Chicago Morning News, now the Record, and his connection with that paper continued without interruption until his death.

A GREAT NORTHERN EXTENSION.

President Hill Credited With a Desire for a Chicago Outlet.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A project is under way for extending the Great Northern railroad to Chicago. It is the outgrowth of a deal whereby a belt line was to have been built around Milwaukee, but which fell through, owing to the scheme of constructing a Great Northern connection to this city. There is every reason to believe that within a couple of years at the latest the through line, now only outlined on paper, will be in operation. Several conferences have already been held with J. J. Hill, president of the Great Northern, and the Eastern capitalists interested. One of the conferences was upon the question of

Extending the Great Northern from Superior to Milwaukee and Chicago, the object being to give the Great Northern an outlet to the lake and rail centers of business and a through all-winter route. As a result of these recent conferences it was found that the great railroad projector and operator had already considered the same scheme and looked favorably upon it. He said frankly, however, that the present was no time to undertake such an enterprise, but he felt that some time in the not distant future the plan would become a possibility and a very practical one.

HASN'T ANY TIME FOR FITZ.

Corbett Says the Australian Purposely Avoided a Meeting.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5.—James J. Corbett has left for New York. He says he will pay no more attention to Fitzsimmons and is contemplating a final retirement from the ring. Corbett has in his possession a letter from Superintendent Rose of the Iron Mountain railroad, to General Passenger Agent Townsend, in which the statement is made that the railroad people could easily have gotten Fitzsimmons into Hot Springs if Fitz had not insisted on running into the arms of Governor Clarke's officers.

ORDERED TO VENEZUELA.

The North Atlantic Squadron May Make a Demonstration.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—A special to The Times-Herald from Washington states that the ships of the North Atlantic squadron have been ordered to depart at once for the Carribean sea. It is believed that a demonstration by the men-of-war off the coast of Venezuela is intended, or at least is not improbable.

Miss Flagler Was Indicted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Miss Flagler, daughter of General Flagler, whose shooting and killing of a negro boy who was stealing fruit, several months ago, created a sensation, was indicted for manslaughter.

President's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. — President Cleveland has issued a proclamation, designating Thursday, Nov. 28, as Thanksgiving day.

SIGNS OF TROUBLE.

Situation on the Great Northern Shows a Very Unsettled Feeling.

Strike on at Several Points and Some Disturbance Reported.

Another Day Will Decide If a General Tie-Up Is Intended.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 6.—Inside of the next 24 hours it is barely possible that a strike may be called on the Great Northern road, or even sooner, although it is regarded as extremely doubtful by conservative men who have kept track of the run of events, if an effort to tie up the road will be successful. There were several premonitory symptoms of trouble along the line Monday, but nothing which can be taken either as an indication of the feelings of a majority of the employes or the strength of the American Railway union. Sylvester Kelliher, who is the practical head of the organization, pending the release of Debs from the Woodstock jail, is guarded in his statements as to and no doubt is ignorant as to what success will attend a call for one until the various local branches vote upon the question. This must be done before a general tie-up can be inaugurated, so that the real situation cannot be clearly defined as yet. With the exception of several trifling interruptions the Great Northern trains are running as usual, while the officials of the road maintain the position taken at the outset that they have had no intimation that any of their regular employes have any grievances to be adjusted.

The Probability of a Strike,

It is conceded in certain quarters that the fact that such a large percentage of Great Northern employes are members of the A. R. U. will make a general tie-up possible providing a majority of the branches favor such action.

Some Trouble Along the Line.

Early Monday morning it was announced here that the telegraph operators on the Montana division of the main line had left their instruments. The telegraphic connection between St. Paul and points like Helena and Butte was cut off, the line being "open" or useless.

Linemen were set out when it was discovered that the wires a few miles on on either side of Havre had been grounded by binding copper wires about them. A meeting was held at Spokane, at which a vote to strike was carried, and a force of 25 men employed in the machine or repair shops, as well as a score of bridge carpenters, quit work. The trainmen, however, stuck to their posts and declared they will not go out.

Set Fire to a Company Bridge.

The westbound transcontinental train came to a burning bridge three miles west of Columbia Falls. As the train approached a man was seen running away. The trainmen extinguished the fire and the train proceeded on its way. General Manager Warren in an interview said:

"While we have a few men out at Spokane," he said, "and two at St. Cloud, with four engines killed for three hours at Kalispell, and two slight interruptions caused by attempted wire tampering and bridge burning, business is going on as usual without any delay in any department."

Although it is somewhat difficult to learn the local sentiment, it is thought that the members of the A. R. U. in the Twin Cities will obey the order to go out.

REPUDIATE STRIKE TALK.

Montana Central Men Will Stand by the Company.

BUTTE, Mon., Nov. 6.—The Great Northern main line employes and those of the Montana Central do not agree on the proposed strike. Employes of the Montana Central, in all branches of the service, have repudiated the strike talk of the main line, and declared they would not stand by the A. R. U. if the strike is declared. The men say they have no grievance and are not represented on the mediation committee. A statement to that effect was prepared and signed by conductors, engineers, firemen, brakemen, etc., and forwarded to Superintendent McLaran and President Hill.

Some Out at St. Cloud.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Nov. 6.—A. R. U. men here claim there will soon be some important developments in the Great Northern strike, which they claim has been practically decided upon. Besides the switchmen who quit here during the morning, an engine crew on the freight from Sandstone left their locomotive here in the afternoon. The engineer is Ben McLain, a prominent member of the local union.

Will Strike at West Superior.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Nov. 6.—Members of the American Railway union in this city, where the order is very strong, have met and voted to stand by the conference committee, to whom President Hill refused an audience. The men indorse the demand of the Great Northern employes for the reinstatement of the four St. Cloud dispatchers.

Immense Blast Exploded.

ROCKLAND, Me., Nov. 6.—The greatest blast ever fired in this section of the country was sent of during the afternoon, when 650 kegs of powder and a large quantity of dynamite were exploded at the Long Cove granite quarry. The explosion cost the company $3,000 and was successful in loosening 800,000 tons of granite.

THE PUGILISTS WERE DISCHARGED.

Proceedings Dropped on Promises They Would Leave Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 2.—The criminal cases against Fitzsimmons and Julian, Brady and Corbett were dismissed at noon on condition that the men leave the state as soon as they can conveniently do so. The restaining order preventing the men from fighting in the State of Arkansas remains in force, and all chance of bringing off the fight in this state is over, even if Fitzsimmons would be willing to fight here, and he stated unmistakably that he would do nothing of the kind.

"A SNAP."

The Times very kindly (and truly) says the JOURNAL offer of a fine large portrait is "a snap" which is the truth, every word of it. Take a look at your "Times Clock" and you will see that it is now time to call at the JOURNAL office and secure one of those portraits of some friend of yours. This offer may last till January 1st but is subject to recall at any time we see fit. Now is the only time you are sure of.

About Shoes.

Notwithstanding the admiration we have for Whittier's poem of "The Barefoot Boy," and the interest we feel in the youngster, mankind in all ages has been proud to shoe its feet. Probably the cave-dwellers had no shoes, but as soon as man began to have an existence worth recording, he invented covering for his feet. The Hebrew Scriptures, as antique as almost any writings contain frequent allusions to foot-gear, making it certain that shoes or sandals were in quite general use. In this connection, it is interesting to note the various shoes worn by various nations.

The Portuguese shoe has a wooden sole and heel, with a vamp made of patent leather, fancifully showing the flesh side of the skin.

The Persian footgear is a raised shoe, often a foot high. It is made of light wood richly inlaid, with a strap extending over the instep.

The Siamese shoe has the form of an ancient canoe, with a gondola bow and an open toe. The sole is made of wood and the upper of inlaid wood and cloth, and the exterior is elaborately ornamented in colors, and with gold and silver.

The sandal worn by the Egytians is composed of a sole made by sticking together three thicknesses of leather. This is held to the foot by passing a band across the instep. The sandal is beautifully stitched with threads of different colors.

The Mussulman's shoe is of heavy leather. It is adjusted to the foot by a wide leather strap, which runs from the heel and buckles over the instep. The only ornamentation is the fastening of two feather plumes on the right side of the toe.

In our own country, shoes are of almost infinite variety in both material and style. There are those for the house, the carriage, and for walking. The wearing of shoes, however, does not imply that you should walk to Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Lincoln St. Paul, Minneapolis or Denver when you can travel so safely, comfortably, swiftly and cheaply by the trains of the Burlington route. Ask your home agent for tickets by this route, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn., for maps and information.

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

EVERYTHING GOES

Republican, Except Perhaps New York City. We Get Ohio and York State as Usual But In the City The Dems Prove Too Tammany For Us.

IT'S OUR'S IN '96.

Maryland—Republican by 15,000. A Republican will succeed Senator Gibson in the United States senate.

Kentucky—A Republican governor is elected by 10,000. The legislature is very close with a possibility that a Republican senator may be chosen.

Ohio—About 100,000 Republican plurality. Senator Brice, (Dem.), will retire in favor of Foraker, (Rep).

New York—New York state is Republican by 50,000 Tammany gets New York city.

Iowa—About 50,000 Republican majority with a legislature that will give Allison, (Rep.), for senator 116 out of 150 votes.

Massachusetts—The state is Republican by 63,000. Female suffrage is defeated.

New Jersey—Republican by a good majority.

Kansas—Republican by 10,000.

Chicago—The city is Republican by 30,000.

Pennsylvania—The Republican plurality is 157,918.

Utah—The state has gone Republican. The legislature is Republican ensuring two more Republican U. S. senators, and the Republican control of the national senate.

G. A. R. DEDICATION.

Col. Cobham Post, No. 90 has selected Wednesday evening, Nov. 20th on which to formally dedicate their new hall and are now arranging an attractive program for the occasion. Among the guests from abroad that are expected are the department commander of the state and staff, the Senior and Junior Vice Commanders, Adj. Gen. J. K. Mertz and many of the members of St. Paul and Minneapolis Posts. Capt. Jas. Compton, Charlie McKay, Eb. Corliss and as many of the good boys as they can persuade to come along are expected. The comrades from every Post in the state are cordially invited to join with Col. Cobham Post in this celebration and help us to have a rousing good time. Every comrade in the county and every old soldier not a comrade is earnestly urged to turn out for roll-call once more. We will have a royal old fashioned camp-fire with baked beans on the side—Oh, yes, and it is confidently expected that Grand Forks will lend us Capt. Brown for to sing us his camp songs, without which the circus could hardly be a blooming success and we are personally going to have Top and Geo. Winship come over to keep comrade Brown in line. This will be the G. A. R. event of the season.

The Fair Store.

This fine, model store celebrates its sixth anniversary on Saturday next, and its genial proprietor, W. D. Wilson, would be pleased to greet everyone of the many friends he has made since he came among us, at the fine, large store on the corner of Main and Robert streets, to give them a cordial hand-shake and to show them the difference between his present store room and stock and what it was when he first opened out for business in a little shop on Robert street six years ago. Then it was opened as a venture to see how such a store would pay here and very soon it was found that the stock was too limited, and large additions had to be made, and after this had been done several times it was found that the store-room was altogether too small, so the present large room was engaged and stocked to its utmost capacity with everything one can imagine and just the largest and finest assortment of shoes one can imagine. A large share of the prosperity of this store is due to the business capacity of its gentlemanly proprietor, ably assisted by his lieutenant, that prince of good fellows—Martin Mossefin—whose untiring good nature and smiling face is ever on deck, ready to respond to every demand that can be made upon him. All are invited to call at the Fair.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

TWO LITTLE GIRLS DROWNED AT JACKSON.

St. Paul Business Men Declare in Favor of a Mid-Continent Exposition—Half the Wheat in the Northwest Out of the Hands of Farmers.

Moorhead now owns its electric plant.

Mankato will have night schools this winter.

Nearly a thousand persons are attending St. Paul night schools.

A. O. U. W. lodges of Winona are organizing a funeral benefit association.

The Catholic church at Graceville was burned. Loss, $15,000; insurance, $10,000.

A contract has been let for a new bridge across the Mississippi at Aitkin.

Faribault county is said to have suffered a loss of $75,000 by the swine plague.

State Auditor Dunn sold 30,000,000 feet of pine stumpage, mostly in the burned district.

The Minneapolis park commission has secured a huge pelican as an attraction for next season.

Rev. Wayland Hoyt of Minneapolis is said to have accepted a call to Epiphany church, Philadelphia.

President Cleveland has appointed P. H. Kerwin of Renville county surveyor general of Minnesota.

Mrs. Priscilla Libby, a resident of Hamline, Minn., for over 40 years, died Friday, aged 86 years.

An association of St. Paul barbers is determined to stop the practice of keeping shops open on Sunday.

Colonel Page of the Third United States infantry, will be tendered a reception by the Loyal Legion.

The flouring mills of W. Carter & Co., at St. Cloud, were burned, together with a large quantity of wheat.

The Minneapolis city council favors buying the exposition grounds in that city and using them for park purposes.

St. Paul attorneys held a meeting Saturday to discuss the question whether Ramsey county juries are manipulated.

The cornerstone of the Fowler Methodist church at Jasper was laid with appropriate ceremonies. The stone was of jasper.

Receipts of the Minneapolis postoffice for October—$52,904—broke all previous records. It shows a gain of $10,775 over Oct. 1894.

August Hanson, at Lake Harriet, Minneapolis, broke the world's bicycle boulevard record, making 375 miles in a trifle under 24 hours.

Considerable opposition to the proposed ice carnival has developed in St. Paul, and the jobbers in particular are trying to head it off.

The fifth annual convention of Southern Minnesota teachers was held at Mankato Friday. Many topics of interest were discussed.

The population of Blue Earth county is officially given as 32,274, of whom 17,056 are male and 15,239 female. There are 9,148 legal voters.

The family of William Shinning, living near Buffalo, were awakened at midnight to find the house in flames. They had a narrow escape in getting out.

The suit by which Wilkin county was trying to get six townships from Otter Tail and one from Grant was decided by Judges Baxter and Searles at Fergus Falls. Wilkin county loses.

The Duluth Masonic Temple association has assigned. The liabilities are about $135,000. The assets are the temple building and insurance on the opera house destroyed a few weeks ago.

At a meeting of representative men at the St. Paul Commercial club a resolution was unanimously adopted favoring the holding of a mid-continent exposition at the Twin Cities not previous to 1897 nor later than 1900.

Judge Brill of the Ramsey county district court has filed a decision holding that county commissioners are not entitled to extra pay for work done on the road and bridge committee, as thought to be the case.

The term of Postmaster Castle of St. Paul expires on Feb. 4, but up to the present time there have been practically no papers filed at the postoffice department in behalf of candidates for appointment to the position.

An 8-year-old daughter of August Cooper, residing near Witoka, was shot in the left temple and instantly killed by her 12-year-old brother, who got a revolver from the bureau drawer and didn't know it was loaded.

Negotiations are about completed for the purchase of one-half of the Crosby farm in the West Seventh street district, St. Paul, by the Weyerhauser Lumber company. The farm contains nearly 500 acres, and the company gets a water front of about two miles.

Ada Potter, aged 10, and Nettie Vagner, aged 9, were drowned in the Des Moines river at Jackson. The little Potter girl broke through the ice and her little friend attempted to rescue her and both were drowned. Two older sisters of the dead girls tried to rescue them and both broke through the ice, narrowly escaping death.

The Minneapolis Journal says: One-half the marketable wheat crop of the Northwest has been sold by the farmers. Minneapolis and Duluth have received since Aug. 1, 48,000,000 bushels, more than half that received last year. Country elevators have 18,000,000 bushels in store. Country mills in the Northwest have ground 10,000,000 bushels since Aug. 1, and probably 5,000,000 bushels have been shipped out of the three states by routes other than through Minneapolis and Duluth. This makes a total of 81,000,000 bushels sold, leaving less than that amount to be marketed in the next nine months.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled . . .

Sinners Twain

And It is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may . .

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Commander William A. Morgan, U. S. N. retired, died at San Francisco of Bright's disease.

The fourth annual Minnesota conference of charities and corrections is in session at Faribault. Many prominent reformers are present.

In trying to save her father from what she thought certain death, Annie Simonson of St. Paul lost her own life. Five cars passed over her.

The Western Building and Loan association of St. Louis has assigned all of its holdings to the St. Louis Trust company as trustee for creditors. The assets are estimated at $100,000.

J. H. Baldwin shipped a barrel of fine onions to Justice Fuller of the supreme court. Last week he shipped a barrel of cabbage to Governor Sheldon. All were raised on his irrigated farm at Miller, S. D.

Thursday, Oct. 31.

Judge Hanford has fixed the salary of Receiver Burleigh of the Northern Pacific at $15,000 a year.

Peter Swenson, a prisoner at the central police station, Minneapolis, was found dead in his cell.

Major Frank Hean of the Pennsylvania state central Republican committee is missing with $10,000.

Charles Dana Gibson, the famous artist, will wed Miss Irene Langborne of Richmond, Va., on Nov. 7.

Mr. J. B. Patterson, formerly prime minister of Victoria, is dead. His ministry resigned Sept. 25, 1894.

The treasury department is having trouble with the Elgin and Ilgen Watch Companies' trade marks.

An effort is being made to have the United States adopt a policy of armed intervention in the case of Cuba.

Four hundred miners struck in Cabel & Co.'s mines at Washington, Ind., because the screen used did not allow pay for nut coal.

Friday, Nov. 1.

Senator Vest of Missouri thinks the Democrats should not organize the senate.

The first volume of the Civil War records is soon to be issued by the government.

Fond du Lac, Wis., is in darkness as a result of a legal fight for possession of the light and power plant.

The 86th anniversary of Mrs. Stevenson, mother of the vice president, was celebrated at Bloomington, Ills.

The statement of the condition of the treasury shows available cash balance, $183,931,461; gold reserve, $93,079,204.

Miss May Hamilton, an 18-year-old school girl, committed suicide at Fostoria, O., by shooting herself through the head with a revolver.

Frank A. Blackmer of Albert Lea, Minn., has been disbarred from practice before the interior department for demanding and receiving illegal fees in a pension case.

Saturday, Nov. 2.

North Carolina has something over 5,000 pensioners on her rolls.

It has been found that anti-toxine will cure lockjaw if treatment is given in time.

Populism, once a formidable factor in Indiana politics, is said to be on the decline in that state.

G. W. Cole, president of the Bankers' and Merchants' association of Chicago, was killed by a cable car.

Mrs. Mary Mahara has sued George Kingall of Guthrie for $10,500 damages for throwing her into the street.

Dr. Orland Bradford, the counterfeiter, has been sentenced to six years' imprisonment in Kings county (N. Y.) penitentiary.

The two islands of Hvahino and Barabora, belonging to the Tahitian group in the South Pacific, have been annexed to France, by consent of the native chiefs.

The cannon which was stolen at Fox Lake, Wis., in 1860, by Democrats, to prevent Republicans celebrating Lincoln's election, was unearthed by Joseph Good while digging a trench.

Monday, Nov. 4.

T. E. Julian, a Wabash engineer, was held to the grand jury on account of the wreck at Martinsburg, Mo.

Representative Bynum is in Washington looking presumably for appointment as minister to Switzerland.

It is said that Congressman Dingley has been selected for ways and means chairman. He is Reed's friend.

An effort is to be made to remove the inequalities existing in the present system of bonding government officials.

Frank A. Deane, consul at Naples says the orange and lemon crop of Southern Italy for this season will be about two thirds that of 1894.

The California limited, over the Santa Fe, made the run from Chicago to Los Angeles in 2 days, 20 hours and 5 minutes, breaking the train record.

Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Sergeant Matthew M. Wolff, U. S. A., died suddenly at Dallas, Tex., from the bite of a cat.

Eastbound freight through the Soo canal for October amounted to 1,365,793 tons; westbound, 424,765 tons.

A dispatch from Shanghai says that the five leaders of the Kucheng massacre were executed at Foo Chow on Monday.

James Haffa of Philadelphia committed suicide by jumping from the Goat Island bridge at Niagara Falls into the rapids.

The rebellion of the Dungans in the northwest portion of China is extending seriously and now embraces the whole of the province of Kansu.

Dispatches received at Paris from Constantinople, report that the Armenians have pillaged the Turks' houses at Zeitoun and have killed Turkish women and children there.

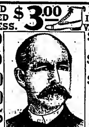
H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE——
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

WHEELER & WILSON'S
HIGH-ARM
NEW NUMBER NINE
IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.



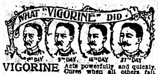
1,000,000 People Wear
W. L. Douglas Shoes

HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.

$5.00 $4.00 $3.50 $2.50 $2.25 For Men

$3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.75 For Boys and Youths

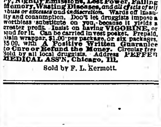
Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by



VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

RUPTURE.



Relieved and cured by the Dr. Owen Electric Truss—our latest invention—Guaranteed most Scientific, Powerful, Durable, Comfortable and Effective method. A mild, continuous current of Galvanic Electricity is applied directly to the seat of the Rupture causing a contraction and strengthening of those parts. No detention from business or work. To those who are Ruptured, it will pay to investigate our mode of treatment.

We are honest in the belief that our genuine Electric Truss will cure any case of Rupture that is at all curable. We warrant that the Electricity can be felt instantly on application. Call at our office. No charge for consultation. Our "Treatise on Rupture" is free.

We have been before the Public many years, and our Electrical appliances have become a recognized standard of merit. The largest establishment of its kind in the world.

Write for our large illustrated catalogue and treatise upon Rupture.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
201 to 207 State St., corner Adams St.,
CHICAGO.

An Experience

of more than 133 years in the manufacture of tobacco enables us to produce the very best article possible. Consumers of tobacco derive the benefit of this experience, and in using the celebrated

Lorillard's
Climax Plug

are assured of the highest quality. 'Tis a rich, lasting and delicious chew.

It's LORILLARD'S
Sold Everywhere.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25 cents. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion, and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING Co., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents. [25-30]

Auditor Dunn in Houston county amounted to 1,858.95 acres, the amount bid for the land being $13,794.77. In Sherburne county 716.62 acres were sold for $3,794.77.

The state university faculty has decided that students carelessly doing poor work will be required to mend their ways or leave the institution. The attendance this year is 2,192, as against 2,171 last year.

Ninian Waerner, associate editor of Svenska Americanska Posten of Minneapolis, has been elected editor of Motala Posten, the leading paper in the province of Ostergotland, Sweden, and has accepted the call.

Articles of incorporation for a new railroad company, to be known as the Duluth and Northwestern, have been filed with the secretary of state. The line of road to be built is to run from Duluth to Winnipeg, crossing the Mesabe iron range.

According to the state census bureau Duluth has 18,612 legal voters; Minneapolis 57,946, Winona. 5,177. The male population of Minneapolis is 100,106, female, 92,727; of Duluth 34,162 males, 25,234 females; Winona 10,269 males and 10,380 females.

The United States army officers at St. Paul have received instructions to proceed with the preliminary work connected with the locks and dams at Meeker island, between St. Paul and Minneapolis. The work is estimated to cost $600,000, and will require three years to complete it.

Rev. J. C. Hull, the St. Paul Methodist minister whose views regarding Catholics were rather liberal for a portion of his congregation, and who was tried by a committee and suspended for a year, announces that he will preach just the same as ever, except that services will be held in Conover Music hall, and that his sermons will be upon live topics of the day, in their relation to morality, religion and humanity

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lyane's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

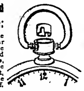
[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

WITHOUT THE
Non-pull-out
BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This Idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the groove, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.



Sold by all watch dealers, without cost, on Jas. Boss Filled and other cases containing this trade mark—

A watch case opener sent free on request

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS. A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.

EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New. Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW.
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law.
No. 2 Fournet Block } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee, by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skillfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER MCKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO
OR ANYWHERE EAST?
If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)
Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent, St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Order to Examine Accounts, etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. In Probate Court.
County of Polk. }

Special term November 6th 1895.

In the matter of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Margarete Dufour, Administratrix of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased, representing among other things that she has fully administered said estate; and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of her administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court, on Thursday the 28th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 6th day of November, A.D. 1895.

By the Court,
C. M. BENSON,
Judge of Probate.
30-32.)

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

MADE IN CONGRESS.

CATCHY PHRASES THAT HAVE COME INTO COMMON USE.

The First Buncombe Speech Was Delivered In 1820—Blaine and Conkling In Debate. Famous Sentences Pronounced by Statesmen When Not In Congress.

Many of the best known and most quoted phrases with which the American people are familiar originate in congress.

There is no reason why, if a good thing is said upon the floor of the senate or house, the country should not know it in 24 hours. With a press gallery thronged with correspondents who are always ready and eager to pick up the novel phrase or the apt description, with the great press associations distributing the debates from one end of the country to the other, and with newspapers only too anxious to give currency to the latest expression, a man who says a good thing in congress one afternoon may wake up the next morning and find his saying in everybody's mouth. There is something in the atmosphere of congress, too, that develops the latent wit and inspires to repartee. If a senator or a representative has anything in him at all, it is bound to come out in a rough and tumble debate with a political opponent. Many of the congressmen have already had their genius in this direction tested upon the stump and know how to hold their own in the face of all comers. It does not always follow, however, that a statesman who is good in debate will achieve fame by uttering a phrase that becomes popular.

To go back to the beginning of congressional history is to discover many phrases uttered in congress which are still current. It was as far back as 1820, for instance, that Felix Walker, a member of the North Carolina district which included Buncombe county, apologized for the emptiness of his remarks by stating that he had to make a speech "just for Buncombe." This is a saying which has come down through the years as a byword. "Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever," was uttered by Webster in his famous reply to Hayne. Lincoln's "with malice toward none and charity toward all" was first heard in the halls of congress when his second inaugural address was read to the assembled representatives. In later years Senator Ingalls contributed a number of epigrammatic sentences, the best known of which perhaps was uttered in his wordy duel with Senator Brown of Georgia. The latter had a habit of rubbing his hands together as he talked, and Ingalls, with bitter emphasis, described him as "washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water." Another remark by Ingalls was much quoted at the time. He was discussing the oleomargarine bill and said regarding certain dairy products that he stood "in awe at their strength and reverence for their antiquity." In Proctor Knott's widely copied Duluth speech occurs that phrase, "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," a title which Duluth has always proudly kept.

Blaine and Conkling, with all their greatness, left no single phrase as a legacy of their participation in congressional debates. "Burn these letters" was often quoted after the Mulligan affair, but this sentence was not first uttered in congress. The famous debate between the two men, which estranged their whole lives, occurred in April, 1866, over a very trivial matter—the continuance of the bureau of the provost marshal general. It gave Blaine, however, a chance to satirize Conkling in a single sentence. An article written by Theodore Tilton had appeared in which Conkling had been likened to Winter Davis. "The resemblance is great," exclaimed Blaine, with pungent satire. "It is striking! Hyperion to a satyr, Thersites to Hercules, mud to marble, a dunghill to a diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion."

Another debate in which Conkling, then in the senate, was a conspicuous figure, resulted in a sentence which has not been forgotten. Senator Lamar of Mississippi had resented as a falsehood a charge of broken faith made by Mr. Conkling, and the latter retorted that Lamar was a coward, a blackguard and a liar. The Mississippi senator, who had never been accused of cowardice, looked over to his opponent and sarcastically apologized for his first remark. "It was one," he said, "such as no good man would deserve and no brave man would wear." Then he waited for Conkling to reply, but the New York senator was silent.

Many of the sharp things said in congress are left out of The Record. Cobb's "Where was I at?" does not appear in official print, and Senator Wolcott's quotation of the Spanish proverb to Senator Carey, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass," has also been cut out. A few famous sentences came very near having their origin in congress. Davy Crockett, the author of "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," was a member of the house of representatives for two years, but it does not appear that this oft quoted advice was originated with him there. Henry Clay's "I would rather be right than president" was said to some friends at the capitol, but not in public debate. Senator Sherman, too, is the author of the "mending fences" phrase, although he waited until he was at his home in Mansfield before he uttered it. While Hayes was still president and Mr. Sherman was secretary of the treasury he entertained hopes of a presidential nomination. Just before the Republican national convention met he went to Mansfield, and while there was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. Sherman denied having traveled to Ohio to promote his presidential aspirations. "I have simply come," he said, "to mend my fences, which are greatly in need of repair."—Washington Post.

THE GRAND VIZIER.

HOW HE IS SELECTED BY THE SULTAN AND INSTALLED.

One of the Most Striking Scenes Connected With the Turkish Court—No One Knows Who Is to Be Named Until the Last Moment—An Impressive Prayer.

The ceremony of "naming" the new grand vizier is one of the most impressive sights imaginable, and as it has seldom if ever been described an attempt to convey some idea of it may not be without interest. It was toward 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon that the servants commenced to carry out from Djevad Pasha's rooms at the sublime porte his books, papers, pens and other private paraphernalia. This was the first intimation given to the world that the grand vizier had fallen. Shortly afterward troops filed up the hill and lined both sides of the road from the landing stage at Sirkidjy to the doors of the porte. The news spread like fire under a wind, and by 5 o'clock all preparations were completed for the reception of the new occupant of the principal office in the empire. In the great council chamber the scene was unique in its quiet dignity. The room was crowded with all the high officials present and past, and though an hour or two previously none there had even guessed what was about to happen each one took his place silently and regularly, without confusion or mistake, awaiting the advent of the still unknown chief.

At the head of the hall a small vacant space was left, around which grouped the present ministers and those who had previously held portfolios. As each came in he paced slowly up the carpet with one short salute. As soon as he reached the end all present returned the temena'a with a sweep of the hand to the ground, breast and forehead. This rhythmical greeting, accentuated by the movement of scarlet fezes in unison with open hands, given in silence, and in the dim, curtained light of the council chamber, defies adequate description by the pen.

And then the newcomer returned the salutes separately, beginning at the left hand side, round the square of his colleagues, subordinates and superiors, and one more candidate for the vizierate was effaced, for nobody knew upon whom the choice of the sultan had fallen. Many names were whispered round, but as their owners entered the circle of greeting their chances were seen to be extinguished. One after another they followed on, till by a process of reduction it became a question of only two or three, all the rest of Turkey's statesmen and all her greatest pashas having already trodden the carpet and taken their seats of expectation. Then from the windows could be seen a small procession winding up the ascent. In front were two horsemen, he on the left a little man well known to all the watchers in the chamber, and on the right the Sheikh ul Islam, shining in the sunlight with his robes of pure white and gold.

In the passing of a breath the name of Ketchuk Said fluttered round the room, and a few moments later the new grand vizier, who had already thrice gone through the same ceremony, was standing in the center of the ministerial group. There he drew from his breast a green silk bag, and extracting from it the imperial hatt he pressed the parchment to his lips and forehead. The dark bearded sheikh repeated this homage to the words of his imperial master, and the hatt was handed to the evrak mudiri, or keeper of the archives, who read aloud that his imperial majesty the sultan, knowing the devotion, well proved, of Said Pasha, intrusted to him the duties of grand vizier, and that, having full confidence in the piety of the Sheikh ul Islam, he prolonged his term of office, being anxious in all things for the best welfare of his people, and might Almighty God bless their efforts toward that end. Then again a wave of sweeping hands and bending heads went round, and the sheikh, in full, deep tones, offered up a prayer for the sultan and the empire. In a moment the council chamber was transformed into a holy place, and the politicians, pashas and scribes, with upturned palms, seemed to have forgotten for a space the world and its vanities. It would be hard to imagine anything more striking than this prayer, amid such surroundings and on such an occasion.

With it terminated the investiture. The new grand vizier adjourned to his room with his ministry for coffee and a perfunctory cabinet council, and later on the old and new viziers and ministers repaired to Yildiz to pay their first or last respects to their lord. Meanwhile another hatt had arrived, changing the occupant of the western wing of the porte, for Said Pasha, who has been minister for foreign affairs for nine years, was bidden to vacate his familiar chair in favor of Turkhan Pasha.—Constantinople Letter.

Irving and Stoker.

Not many know how that talented Irishman, Mr. Bram Stoker, came to be associated with the fortunes of Sir Henry Irving. It was in this wise. Sir Henry, when on a visit to Dublin, was invited to a supper party, and during the course of the evening was induced to recite in his thrilling way "The Dream of Eugene Aram." One of his auditors, a young man with a brilliant reputation at Trinity college, was so affected by the tragedian's delivery that he burst into tears. Henry Irving asked the young man to call on him the next morning, and then and there made him an offer, which was accepted to the mutual advantage of both. The young man was Mr. Bram Stoker.—London Correspondent.

One Good Deed.

Mrs. De Ruffe—If you ever did any good in this wide world, I'd like to know what it is.

Mr. De Ruffe—Well, for one thing, I saved you from dying an old maid.—London Quiver.

SAY! MISTER! YOU'VE DROPPED YOUR Battle Ax
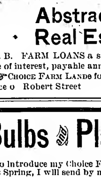
PLUG
A GREAT BIG PIECE FOR 10 CENTS.

Aug. Miller. O. Saudstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans,
Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.



Female Troubles.
Many of the disorders peculiar to women are caused by diseased conditions of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Restore these organs to a healthy state by using
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM,
And the female organs will perform their regular functions, and the sufferer be strengthened and cured. Ladies from all parts of the country testify to its marvelous success in curing them.
For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement, and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

---

SOME uneasiness has been apparent in certain quarters among the Great Northern employes and last week a committee went down to St. Paul to wait on President Hill in relation to alleged grievances on the part of the members of the A. R. U. It is said that the interview was by no means satisfactory to the committee, Mr. Hill positively denying their authority to act in the matter and that the committee left not in the very best of spirits. The object of the conference is said to be the reinstating of some members of the A. R. U. who have been dropped from the employ of the company.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Adherence to the Monroe Doctrine.

Our attitude should be that of unflinching and unfaltering devotion to the principles and practices of this government hitherto, and in so doing we shall not bring war upon the United States; but we shall protect ourselves against war by securing respectful recognition of our national purpose by all the nations of the world.

The attitude of the United States toward the Venezuelan question should be that of determined opposition to any movement of England, the result of which would impair or weaken our ancient declarations of support of the Monroe doctrine. Our construction of the scope of that doctrine should be proclaimed and adhered to. Once proclaimed, a faithful adherence to and recognition of our construction by the nations of the earth should be the conditions upon which alone friendly relations with us can be maintained. From "Our Duty in the Venezuelan Crisis," by Representative Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, in North American Review for November.

Paternal Authority and its Decline.

The decline of paternal authority is widespread, but nowhere has there been so great an abandonment of control as in America. In compensation there is, however, a growing belief that "Le pouvoir paternal est plutot un devoir qu'un pouvoir." In recognition of this principle the cost and care of bringing up a child properly have become so great that there is an increasing sentiment in favor of small families, not only on the part of those who pride themselves upon their enlightened selfishness, but among conscientious people who realize the difficulties of bringing up a child the way he should go. Save in agricultural communities, children seldom render any efficient service to their parents, and a young person adequately fitted for a profession, in most cases, has cost his parents and institutions of learning not less than fifteen or twenty thousand dollars. This excessive tax upon the head of a household and upon the state suggests the possibility of mistaken zeal in inducing young people to abandon the field of manual labor.—From "The Rule of the Mother," by C. P. Selden, in North American Review for November.

The North American Review for November opens with a most unique article on "Quick Transit Between New York and London," by Austin Corbin. An amusing essay on "The Plague of Jocularity," by the late Prof. H. H. Boyesen, illustrates the inability of Americans to consider serious things seriously, and in the "Outlook for Republican Success," the Hon. Charles T. Saxton, lieutenant governor of New York, contributes a thoughtful paper on the possibilities of the next presidential election. "What Becomes of College Women" is ably treated by Charles Thwing, L. L. D., president of Western Reserve University and Adelbert College. Mr. Edward Atkinson writes upon "Jingues and Silverites," while Major-General Nelson A. Miles treats in another chapter from his forthcoming book From New England to the Golden Gate, on "Our Acquisition of Territory." A contribution of commanding interest is that on the "Industrial Development of the South," by the Hon. W. C. Oates, governor of Alabama, who speaks clearly and hopefully of the work of commercial recuperation now going on in that section of the country. A most interesting paper is "The Girlhood of an Actress," by Mary Anderson De Navarro, consisting of three chapters from the advance sheets of her reminiscences, which, under the title of 'A Few Memories," will be published by Harper Bros. early in 1896. The Hon. Robert P. Porter, superintendent of the eleventh census, deftly treats of "The Municipal Spirit in England," and the Hon. W. G. Rice, U. S. Civil Service Commissioner at Washington, D. C., discusses the "Improvement of the Civil Service." A serious and thoughtful article is the "True Source of American Wealth," by the Hon. Ben. F. Clayton, president of the Farmers' National Congress, and the eleventh instalment of A. B. Van Dam's "Personal History of the Second Empire" dwells on "The Warning of Sandowa." A most timely topic is "Our Duty in the Venezuelan Crisis," which is ably considered by Representative Wheeler, of Alabama, and Representative Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio. Other topics dealt with are: "A Practical Use of Verse," by Rowan Stevens; "Regulation of the Liquor Business," by Francis Gottsberger, and "The Rule of the Mother," by C. P. Selden.

Southern People True Bimetallists.

Our Southern people, with few exceptions, are not "gold bugs" nor "silver-loon," but true bimetallists. They all want the silver that can be kept on parity with gold, which the administration is struggling to do by means which the President believes best calculated to accomplish it.

The people, from a careful study of the question, are beginning to doubt and grow distrustful of the experiment of free coinage of silver lest it may, if adopted, beget another panic, or so impair confidence as to roll back the tide of prosperity which is now setting so beautifully towards them.

They are now beginning to lave in la its placid and refreshing waters. Let the tide rise which "taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."—From the Industrial Development of the South, by the Hon. W. C. Oates, Governor of Alabama, in North American Review for November.

The Dainty Mull Gown.

The beauty of mull is something that can never be denied, and while it is not a particularly expensive material it becomes rather costly to make it up, inasmuch as silk or satin is required for its lining, writes Isabel A. Mallon in The Ladies' Home Journal. That girl who is at once fond of pretty clothes and economical has saved the white silk or white satin party dress that has served its time and utilizes it, after it has been thoroughly cleaned, as a foundation for the mull skirt, under which it looks so well. It might be that instead of white it was a pale pink or blue that did service, for this would also be in good taste and make a very effective background for the thin mull.

Instead of being plaited the mull skirt is carefully gathered and falls over its silky lining in fine curves. Its trimming consists of three narrow flounces carefully hemmed by band and beaded by a quills, which is in reality a triple box plait of very narrow pink satin ribbon. Broad pink ribbon, that which is known as the sash width, makes the yoke, and the lower part of the bodice, which is of the mull, is fulled to it. This fullness is evenly laid on the yoke edge, but at the waist it is drawn to the center so that a pointed effect is achieved.

The yoke is overlaid with rather coarse lace, white in color, and the collar, which is of the folded mull, has an edge of lace turned over on it as if it were a specially made rolling collar.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

East Grand Forks Items

[From The Courier.]

A man calling himself Tommy Reagun appeared upon the streets Tuesday afternoon with the left side of his head smashed into a pulp. He claimed that he had been kicked by a mule, but the physicians who attended him gave it as their opinion that a freight train had run over him.

Wednesday evening at seven o'clock Henry Skiffington and Miss Maggie Welsh were married at the home of the bride's parents in Nesbit township.

County Attorney Gossman came over from Crookston on Monday to prosecute J. H. Berg & Co., charged with allowing gambling devices on their premises. There was no evidence to sustain the charge, but the taxpayers of the county will pay the costs just the same.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powers are receiving the congratulations of their friends over the advent of a daughter which came to their home a few days ago. Of course the coming of the little one was a surprise to Jim, as he had no idea of the good fortune which was in store for him until the prize was landed.

Zebina M. Hunt has purchased a ten-acre orchard in Santa Clara county, California, and expects soon to go to the coast. Mr. Hunt still retains part of his real estate holdings here.

Tuesday afternoon Rev. Mr. Hunter married a popular French couple from the Point. The ceremony took place at the parsonage, the bride being Miss Rose Anne Gruvelle, daughter of Theophile Gravelle, and Thos. Flaherty.

Monday last Mrs. C. Madson presented Chris with a bran new daughter, and since the event Mr. Madson walks upon the opposite side of the street to avoid meeting his friends.

John Enright, who has been visiting his mother, sisters and brothers at this point, will shortly return to his home in California. Mr. Enright still pins his faith in Polk county dirt as an investment, and has secured 165 acres of the Z. M. Hunt farm at $25 per acre.

Angus Items.

J. A. Stroble spent Monday in Warren.

W. Lemen and J. F. Montgomery spent Monday night in Crookston.

J. A. Stroble was in Crookston on Tuesday.

F. R. Stevens and son Clarence and Mrs. Ford spent Tuesday evening in Crookston.

M. A. Campina and brother Jessie were in Grand Forks Wednesday.

J. M. Palmer went to Crookston on business on Wednesday.

F. Stroble and sons spent Friday in Warren.

J. M. Palmer and family were in Grand Forks Saturday.

J. F. Montgomery spent Friday in Crookston.

Misses Nellie and Cosy McAvoy spent Friday night in Crookston.

Mr. Carl Tausan of Portland, N. D. spent a few days here visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Tausan. Ex

---

Have you a photo of a departed father or mother or husband or wife or sister or brother, that you would like to have enlarged? See our unequaled premium offer elsewhere in this issue, and bring it or send it to this office with the money required, to enlarge.

See our premium offer on the seventh page of this issue. We shall have a sample picture to exhibit in a few days. This is an excellent opportunity to secure a fine first-class portrait at a trifling cost. Parties desiring more than one picture can obtain it by subscribing for the JOURNAL for some absent relative or friend. Now is the time to subscribe for the JOURNAL.

WASHINGTON LETTE.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 1, 1895.

Had Mr. Cleveland remained at the White House instead of moving out to his suburban residence, he might have heard the enthusiastic cheers of those who attended the big mass meeting held last night, and presided over by Corporal Tanner, to express the sympathy of the citizens of Washington with the efforts of the Cuban revolutionists to throw off the burdensome yoke of Spain. The meeting was a success, the resolutions adopted being conservative, yet plainly expressing the sympathy which is so generally felt by Americans. They were prepared by a committee of which Rev. Dr. J. E. Rankin, president of Howard University, was chairman. Some of the speakers were not so conservative, but freedom of speech is an inalienable American right, and the enthusiasm of the audience was calculated to heat the blood of the orators of the occasion.

Speaking of Cuba, neither Mr. Cleveland nor any member of his cabinet has denied the statements made in Madrid, and cabled to the United States, that a secret agreement or understanding existed between the Spanish minister to the United States and Mr. Cleveland's administration for the suppression of the Cuban revolution. Does such an agreement exist? And if so what are its terms and by what authority was it entered into? These may be regarded by Mr. Cleveland as impertinent questions when asked through the columns of a newspaper, but he cannot so regard them when they are asked on the floor of congress, as they most assuredly will be. The congress which meets next month will not have a majority disposed to cover up, or at least attempt to cover Mr. Cleveland's mistakes, as was notoriously done by the last congress when the Republicans were exposing the infamous policy adopted by him towards the struggling republic of Hawaii. Not much. The fifty-fourth congress will be American to the backbone, and nothing short of an American policy will be tolerated from the administration.

The annual report of the Commissioner of pensions, just made public, contains figures which confirms the complaints made by old soldiers, of slowness in adjudicating their claims both for original and increase of pension. Although there were on the 30th of last June 552,210 cases of all kinds pending, there were only allowed during the fiscal year ending upon that date, 3,185 claims, and for every claim allowed more than three were rejected, the total rejections for the year being 103,355. According to the report, there was a net increase in the pension roll of 860 names during the year. Some surprise was expressed in Washington at Commissioner Lochren's charges against pension attorneys, many of whom he declares to be disreputable and incompetent. If he knows of any such attorneys there was a way for him to much more effectively call attention to them by having the secretary of the Interior disbar them from practice before the pension office. His slurs upon whole communities the citizens of which he charges with throwing obstacles in the way of conviction of fraudulent attorneys and pensioners because of their dislike to lessen the amount of pension money paid in their neighborhoods will be as sturdily repudiated as was his charges made in a previous annual report against the pensioners, charges which stand refuted and which never had any foundation except in the minds of those who dislike the old soldier more for what he did than for what be is.

Hon. Will T. Burnside, editor of the Delta, Buckhannon, W. Va., and a member of the Republican executive committee of that state, passed through Washington this week with the W. Va. Press Association, bound for the Atlanta Exposition. He said of the political situation in his state: "There is today the same bitter dissatisfaction among the working people of West Virginia, with the Cleveland administration, that there was in 1894, and if a general election were held in the state this year, it would go overwhelmingly Republican. The times have not improved in our part of the country. Our timber industry is prostrate and most of our coal mines have been compelled to shut down. With but one or two exceptions where they are in operation, the miners are working at reduced wages. The laboring class can't help but draw the contrast between the good times of Republican ascendancy and the stagnation of business under the present regime. The bulk of the bread-winning element in our state has gone over to the Republican party, and the opposition will not be able to win them back. Nowhere in the country is the belief in protection stronger." Mr. Burnside says most of the W. Va. Republican editors favor McKinley for president, but that he personally favors Allison, of Ohio, and Goff, of W. Va. as the ticket.

After a long delay, much of it entirely unnecessary, Secretary Olney has received a certified copy of the evidence upon which ex-Consul Waller was sentenced to twenty years in prison by a French court-martial, and he will decide what the administration proposes to do about it. Mrs. Waller, who is in Washington, has also placed in Secretary Olney's hands important documents bearing on the case.

THIS IS ENTERPRISE.

THE NORTHWEST STILL LEADS.

The publishers of the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch have just favored us with a copy of their annual premium supplement. Some of the offers which they make are simply wonderful. Articles which usually cost more than the subscription price of the paper are given free with a year's subscription. There is something of interest in it for every member of every family.

It is hard to understand how they can afford to make such offers. The subscription price of the WEEKLY DISPATCH is 75 cents per annum, and the paper is the largest weekly published in Minnesota, consisting of from ten to sixteen pages a week.

Send postal card for sample copies of paper and premium supplement to "WEEKLY DISPATCH," St. Paul Minn.

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

J. Waiseth was in Crookston last Friday attending to some land contest cases in the U. S. land office.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Vanuet are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Nickelson of Grand Forks this week.

Prof. Crippen and F. Sankey rode to Lake Park Saturday on their wheels and returned Sunday morning on the passenger train.

A night's lodging and a fine of $5.00 is what one unfortunate got last Saturday by imbibing too freely of that which intoxicates.

H. L. Gaylord was at Eden last Thursday where he defended Albert Boddy against the charge of selling liquor without a license. Boddy was bound over to the grand jury by Justice Hallock before whom the case was tried. The case will probably come up again before Judge Ives before the grand jury sits on points of law. Atty. Gaylord says the evidence against his client is very poor and he has every reason to believe that he will clear him at the next trial.

St. Hilaire Items.

[From the Spectator.]

The village is filled with farmers bringing in wheat and purchasing their winter supplies.

We learn that two of the children of J. C. Dahl are suffering from an attack of scarlet fever.

Laborers are returning home from their summer's work to spend the winter with their families.

The son of Swan Johnson, of Thief River Falls who died of typhoid fever was brought here for burial last Saturday.

The village of Thief River Falls is suffering from an epidemic of typhoid fever, there being over fifty cases there at present and a number of prominent citizens have already died. It is caused by using river water for drinking and domestic purposes.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

Govt. Estimators Harmon and Bell came down from the Rainy river country Monday.

Mrs. Dr. Grundy returned Monday from a protracted visit with relatives and friends in Brantford, and other Canadian points.

A special train passed through the city Saturday bearing Gen'l Supt., McKenna, Genl. Manager, Warren and Div. Supt. Jenks.

Govt. Land Examiner Connor passed through the city Friday on his way to Arizona where he is subpœnaed as a witness in a land case.

Mrs. W. A. Schrieter, of Red Lake Falls, sister of Mrs. C. Kretzschmar, arrived in the city Wednesday to lend her aid and sympathy to her sister in her hour of need.

Mrs. Phil Zeh returned home Saturday after a protracted visit with friends in Wisconsin. Her visit was cut short somewhat on account of the illness of her two boys left at home but who are now much better.

Doctors Dunlop, of Crookston and Watson, of Red Lake Falls, were called to council with local physicians on Friday last.

City Clerk Backe has been very busy for several days and nights making returns to the county board of delinquent road taxes in the city.

McINTOSH ITEMS.

[From The Tribune.

One Martin Larson, fireman on Benny Newton's threshing engine, while hunting for partridges Tuesday, dragged the gun on the ground behind him with one hand, and a twig caught the hammer, and fired the gun, the charge blowing a hole between two of Larson's fingers, cutting into the bone of each finger. The wound was dressed by Dr. McEachran so that Larson will save both fingers.

T. G. Qualey, living six miles north of Lambert, also tried his luck at hunting last Monday, and as the cartridge did not respond to the force of the gun hammer, he proceeded to dig out the cap with a knife. This ignited the cartridge, and exploded the charge into Qualey's face. He came to McIntosh for treatment by Dr. McEachran. It is understood that he will not lose his eyesight, though he had a narrow escape. The Doctor says he will be all right.

(From the Times.)

Col. West, of the West Hotel reports business booming and fifty boarders on the register.

Work on the new blacksmith shop is being pushed as rapidly as possible and at the present rate it will soon be ready for business.

John Oppegaard, of Knute, hauled several loads of wheat in here last week. He claims that he can do better here than at Erskine.

The Farmer's elevator was blocked last Thursday and Friday for want of cars and present prospects are that the other elevators will soon be likewise.

J. P. Jensen, of Neenah, Wis., a brother of our millers, has been visiting in the city for a week past and has occupied some of his spare time taking snap shot views of portions of our city.

Died, of consumption, at her late home in the town of Knute, at 11 o'clock last Thursday night, Mrs. Hans Hauson, aged 21 years. Deceased has been suffering since February last and leaves a husband and two small children.

Alex Burnham and sons, of Crookston, arrived in the city today and extended their journey to the wilds of the Red Lake reserve where they will enjoy a week with their dogs and guns.

Blood Poison
THE BANE OF HUMAN LIFE,
Driven Out of the System by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I was a great sufferer from a most persistent blood disease, none of the various medicines I took being of any help whatever. Hoping that change of climate would benefit me, I went to Cuba, to Florida, and then to Saratoga Springs, where I remained some time drinking the waters. But all was no use. At last, being advised by several friends to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I began taking it, and very soon favorable results were manifest. To-day I consider myself a perfectly healthy man, with a good appetite and not the least trace of my former complaint. To all my friends, and especially young men like myself, I recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if in need of a perfectly reliable blood-purifier."—JOSE A. ESCOBAR, proprietor Hotel Victoria, Key West, Fla.; residence, 352 W. 16th St., New York.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla
Admitted for Exhibition
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Good Blood IS ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH.
You cannot hope to be well if your BLOOD IS IMPURE.
If you are troubled with
BOILS, ULCERS OR PIMPLES, SORES
your blood is bad. A few bottles of S. S. S. will thoroughly cleanse the system, remove all impurities and build you up. All manner of blemishes are CLEARED AWAY
by its use. It is the best blood remedy on earth. Thousands who have used it say so.
"My blood was badly poisoned last year, which got my whole system out of order—diseased and a constant source of suffering no appetite, no enjoyment of life. Two bottles brought me right out. There is no better remedy for blood diseases.
JOHN GAVIN, Dayton, Ohio.
S.S.S.
Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Dr. Dampier went up to Stephen on Tuesday.

Sam Leppart was in from Wylie on Saturday.

C. T. Lanman was in from McIntosh on Monday.

J. E. Morrisey was up to Red Lake Falls on Saturday.

C. M. Lowe dropped in on a business visit this week.

E. A. Columbus went north on the flyer on Tuesday.

Mrs. Al. Sargeant was down from St. Hilaire, this week.

Attorney Wilkinson took the Flyer North on Monday morning.

T. H. Bjoin went up along the St. Hilaire branch on Monday.

J. R. Clements and wife returned from a visit to Winnipeg, this week.

J. F. Montgomery, of Angus, came down Friday evening to attend Cleopatria.

Miss Nellie McAvoy was down from Angus on Friday to see Cleopatria.

H. B. Laughlin and wife, of Fisher, came up to see Cleopatria on Friday evening.

Andrew Truesdale and wife came up from Fisher on Friday to see Cleopatria.

Mrs. Sam Rosenthal went over to Grand Forks to spend the Sabbath with Mrs. W. D. Scott.

T. G. Thompson's mother arrived last week for a winter's visit with the family of her son.

The county board met on Tuesday for the transaction of such business as should come before it.

Call and see us if you desire to secure a portrait of some friend at a price within the reach of all.

Manager Hoverstad, of the Experimental farm, went out on the Fosston line on Monday evening.

The Presbyterians organized a Y. P. S. C. E. society on Sabbath day, starting in with 33 members.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Slocum take possession of their new residence in Jerome's addition, this week.

See our premium offer on seventh page and call and see what we can do for you or send in your orders.

Oliver McWaters has suffered a severe hemorrhage of the lungs and his condition is said to be very critical.

Rain set in Monday evening and continued nearly all night. We are getting plenty of rain to go into winter on.

John Strausser, of Argyle, was in the city Sunday night, with a car load of horses that went north on Monday morning.

Information of insanity against Henrietta Johnson was filed in probate court on Monday, by Hans Johnson, of Gentilly.

The frequent recent rains have made pretty muddy going so much so that not much wheat is being brought in now days.

Prof. Wisbard was down from Euclid on Friday evening to attend "Cleopatria" at the opera house and pronounced it very fine.

Next Sunday is "Citizens' Day" at the Congregational church. Public Spirited Christianity will be the subject of the morning discourse.

The Ladies' of the Congregational church will give a supper at Mrs. Bugg's tomorrow evening at 5:30 to 9 p. m. Everybody invited.

Peter J. Holan, of Argyle, arrived on Sunday morning with a car load of horses and left for home with them on Monday morning.

Geo. Ralph started out on his expedition to the Rainy Lake country on Saturday. He was accompanied by Will Stone and Will Lowe, Somebody cracked Joe Mercil's till for the sum of $8.50, on Sunday. Could't have been anybody in that saloon last Sunday selling liquor.

Hon. J. P. Nelson passed through the city last week on his way from Duluth to Warren. The Judge will soon return to his home in California.

Don't neglect to look up our portrait plan. It will pay you, if you desire to get a large portrait at small cost. Our offer can't be beat.

Frank Theno was down from Argyle to spend the Sunday with his family. He is employed on the new hotel there and returned on Monday morning.

Barney Horn, of Euclid, started on Saturday to ride from that place to Chicago on his bicycle. He goes there to attend college during the coming winter.

Nearly all women have good hair, though many are gray, and few are bald. Hall's Hair Renewer restores the natural color, and thickens the growth of the hair.

Gov. Clough has appointed Wm. Anglim and Hon. H. Steenerson as delegates to attend the Immigration convention to be held in St. Paul on Nov. 19th, 20th. and 21st.

Halvor Steenerson went to Fargo this week to conduct the defense in the divorce suit of Dr. A. Nelson against his wife. The suit was set to commence on Tuesday.

Carl Anderson Ringer died suddenly at Fisher last Friday and Dr. Lankester, who was called pronounced his death due to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors.

Jim Creighton had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse on Sunday evening. The animal was playing about the stable-yard, slipped and broke a leg and had to be killed.

Will McWaters and his mother arrived on Sunday, called to the bedside of Oliver who, at last accounts, was sinking rapidly, and was not expected to survive Monday night.

M. P. Losey of Euclid was in the city on Friday making final proof in support of a Tree claim in the town of Keystone in favor of Susie McGillies of Chicago. The above claim was taken 11 years ago.

C. A. Tullar was down from Angus, on Monday. Says everybody was plowing up there and all along the route. There will be lots of soil rolled over before Saturday night if it don't freeze up.

The young son of Wm. Welsh had the misfortune to get a leg broken on Sunday evening. He was out in the stables and in some way the cow stepped on the boy's leg, breaking it. The boy is nine years old.

The board of railroad and warehouse commissioners came up on Tuesday morning and went north to Warren to investigate charges of abuses to shippers that have been preferred against the Great Northern road.

John L. Jensen died on Saturday and the funeral was held Monday at the Scandinavian M. E. Church, in this city. The remains were taken to Fisher for burial. He had recently purchased and moved into the A. W. Dawley residence on Ash street.

Lillian Lewis, in Cleopatria, at the Grand on Friday evening was a great big success in every way. The house was well filled and all were delighted with the entertainment. Should Miss Lewis ever return to Crookston she will be sure of a royal welcome.

J. E. Morrisey has bought the W. E. Walker feed mill and on Monday Tom Young loaded the building upon two wagons, hitched on various and sundry teams and carted the whole business down to Morrisey's foundry, where it will be rigged up for further usefulness as a feed mill.

Quite a party of hunters left on Monday night for the Bemidji country to hunt deer and other large game. It consisted of Dr. Dunlop, Will Hoch, A. C. Schmidt and J. S. Manton. Jim Creighton started earlier in the day and was to meet the party at Fosston with the camping outfit, commissary chest, and-so-forth, etc.

The work of rebuilding the McKinnon carriage works was commenced on Monday, of this week, by Contractor W. E. Walker and a large force of men. The work will be rushed to completion as rapidly as men and skill can do it. The boys have shown a commendable fortitude in their great trial and deserve the success they will, without doubt, achieve.

Charlie Lindell had a smile on his face on Tuesday—that dark cloudy day, that lighted up the city in the vicinity brighter than a 100 candle-power arc light—and all because a sweet little baby girl came that morning to claim him as her papa. When a customer asked him the price of a suit, Charlie put on that smile and said absent mindedly: "Yes, it is a girl and she is a daisy, you bet!"

G. O. Gilbertson, a prominent Norman county citizen, was fatally injured on Saturday last by a runaway team. He was driving along in a two-wheeled road-cart when the run-away team dashed up behind him sticking him in the back with the wagon tongue and driving it clear through him, inflicting injuries that it was thought would necessarily prove fatal.

Mrs. Wm. Campian, of Angus, was the first one to take advantage of our premium offer to secure a large portrait at a trifling cost. And since then our orders have been coming in thick and fast. The people know a good thing when they see it and they recognize that the JOURNAL premium portrait is a good thing—hence they are taking hold to "push it along." Don't wait too long and then kick if you are too late; the best way is to come at once then you will be sure of it.

A team owned by a Mr. Elnenger, that was hitched near the Germania house on Saturday evening broke away, and when the owner got ready to go home he discovered that the team had gone without him. Supposing that they had gone on home he trudged along the weary eight miles that lay between, only to find that they had not gone home. He was back in the city on Sunday trying to find out where they had gone at, but at last accounts had not succeeded.

Some few of our subscribers are way way behind on their subscriptions. While we have patiently carried them along in hopes that the times would brighten up sufficiently for them to see their way clear to remember us, we find that we can not always be patient without some signs of life at least. To all such we make the request that they will look over our premium offer and see their opportunity to benefit themselves largely and then call and see us or remit themselves together with a picture for enlargment. Don't delay but see to it now.

Ida Van Cortland will be the next attraction at the Grand on Nov. 15th and 16th.

Judge Ives is moving into the house on Houston avenue recently occupied by the Slocums.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

W. L. Hilliard is one of the new aids-de-camp recently appointed by the department commander.

The Fair is offering bargains in foot wear that you cannot afford to miss.

Col. Liggett, one of the members of the Board of Railroad and Warehouse commissioners, spent the day Wednesday in the city.

A. E. Brush was down from Angus on Wednesday and attended the meeting at the Presbyterian house in the evening, returning to his home Thursday morning.

At the recent national encampment at Louisville, arrangements were made for the establishment of vidette picket posts wherever a half dozen comrades can be found, who will have to pay a sum sufficient to pay department dues and run their own posts. They will belong to the nearest established Grand Army Post.

Thos. Casey, of the town of Parnell, met with a sudden death on Tuesday—supposed to have resulted from a kick by a horse. He went to the granary to drive away a horse that was eating oats and a few moments later was found by his brother lying in a pool of water, and died in a few moments thereafter.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

STRAYED.

From my pasture at Stephen, on Oct. 28th, four bronchos, described as follows, to-wit: One bay mare, one gray mare, one gray gelding and one black gelding with white face, all three and four-year-olds and all branded with a spear-head on left hip. When last seen they were a few miles southeast of Argyle.

[30-32] GEO. H. ROBERTS.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Prof. Hetler and Miss Lizzie Zarracher spent Saturday and Sunday in Crookston visiting friends.

Will Zutz took advantage of the delayed train Sunday and came down from Crookston for the day.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Gakstad has been quite sick but is now better.

Miss Maude Brewster has resigned her position in the Bulletin office to teach a term of school at Erskine.

Talk about going south for the winter! What's the matter with the orange belt of Minnesota? We not only raise more No. 1. hard wheat to the acre than anywhere else on earth but J. B. Merrill has demonstrated that we can raise oranges here. He has a tree with six fine oranges on that are just beginning to ripen. He is thinking of inviting the neighbors in to help pick them.

The school meeting at the school house Monday evening to elect a new school board for the recently created independent district was well attended and quite exciting for a while. A. A. Tofte, E. A. Sweet and Thos. Erv in the old board were re-elected. The other three members elected are: H. B. Haney, Jas. Rosanea and Frank Hamilton. The district has reason to be congratulated on securing such an excellent board.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

YOU Put Your Foot In It

when you buy inferior soap instead of the genuine

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

The favorite of every woman who ever used it either in the laundry or for all around the house cleaning. Sold everywhere. Made only by

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Chicago.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,

The Leading Jewele.

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, President.
WM. ANGLIM, Vice President.
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

—OF—

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

"One Price and That Right."

Fontaine and Anglim.

The Leading and and Largest Store in the Red River Valley.

SPUN AND KNIT

To a perfect fit—Every Garment—every piece—selected because of its peculiar merit. A better yarn—a better finish a better shape—it's better somewhere or we would not have bought it. This applies especially to Underwear and Hosiery. When you buy low grade goods from us don't forget the Low prices you pay.

AT 47 cts. Each

Ladies' grey underwear—Jersey ribbed cuffs and bottoms—silk finished. We shoulder a loss to enlarge your gain—hence the price is reduced from 75 cents.

AT 95 cts. Each

Ladies' flat, fleece lined underwear—very heavy weight—flat finished seams—silk trimmings. Buying these direct from the manufacturer gives us price advantages—hence we say 95c. instead of $1.25.

AT 27 cts. per pair

We show eight kinds of Ladies' and Children's black woolen hosiery. Yes, hose that were always and should always be 35c. and 40c. a pair. Buying from the manufacturer gives us and to you at this small price.

AT 50 cts. Each

Men's natural wool shirts and drawers in all sizes—silk finished—pearl buttons. You guess the price to be $1.00, for that's what most stores are asking.

WE HAVE a great many more good values at higher prices but more we could not give in detail for lack of space.

IF YOU cannot come in person, a postal card directed to us will bring you anything you want at a saving of 10 to 25 per cent.

Agents For Buttrick's Patterns.

Dry Goods,
Groceries,
Clothing,
Crockery,
Carpets,
Boots and Shoes.

That Tired Feeling

Means danger. It is a serious condition and will lead to disastrous results if it is not overcome at once. It is a sure sign that the blood is impoverished and impure. The best remedy is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Which makes rich, healthy blood, and thus gives strength and elasticity to the muscles, vigor to the brain and health and vitality to every part of the body. Hood's Sarsaparilla positively

Makes the Weak Strong

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling. I tried many remedies in vain. I have now taken three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am feeling better every day and shall never be without Hood's." HERMAN SCHIEFELBEIN, 1068 Holton St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Hood's and Only Hood's

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

Somebody stole John Monroe's overcoat one day during the late cold snap and John wasted a whole lot of real nice, genuine sympathy on himself and wondered "how anybody could have swiped the Benny right out of the shop, under his very nose, too!" Not long afterwards a waiter in a restaurant saw a coat hanging up on a peg looking kind o' forlorn, like it had lost its best friend and upon examining the pockets it was discovered to be the "stolen" overcoat and was returned to the owner and now the coat goes about it's daily business on John's back, quietly saying to itself: "Johnnie, my own chum John." But John himself is doing more good, solid, earnest thinking than talking.

Louis Gonyea has got down to business in the new stand and is as snug as a bug in a rug. He has a nice little place and ought to do a good business, as he no doubt will.

CONCERT BY HOME TALENT!

A Grand Concert will be given by home talent at the First M. E. church, Friday evening, Nov. 22nd., at 8 p. m. Those that have the concert in hand have secured the services of the best musical talent in the city and are now arranging a program that will be sure to please those who attend. Tickets now on sale at Tom Morris', only twenty five cts.

Tollef J. Farden and wife came down from Mentor on Saturday and as his unusual custom, Tollef did not forget to drop in and chat with the JOURNAL man and renew that little subscription. He thinks that Populism in Polk county is fast becoming one of the dead issues, if indeed it has not already become so. Says, that Joseph Tagley, at Mentor, is winning many friends among the farmers by his upright methods in all his dealings with them, being content with very small profits on his goods.

You Can Believe

The testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla. They are written by honest people, who have actually found in their own experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, creates an appetite, strengthens the system and absolutely and permanently cures al diseases caused by impure or deficient blood.

Hood's Pills for the liver and bowels, act promptly, easily and effectively.

The report of the death of Fred Fox, at his new home in Missouri, has reached his friends here at his old home, but the JOURNAL has been unable to learn the full particulars.

Tuesday was one of those windy days that you read of but don't like to see very often. Plowing was going on lively throughout the county, and if the freeze-up holds off till the usual time there will be lots of it done after all. Too much "changing work" this fall was the trouble.

John Sanders, of East Grand Forks, against whom information of insanity was recently filed in probate court, but who skipped out to Canada before he could be brought in, has been ordered to appear before the court and show why he is not insane as duly alleged and set forth in the complaint.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50 cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg, Chicago.

H. BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BORKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Darrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.

NEW LIFE
BEFORE
AFTER

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR

1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.........
8—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache....
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods.......
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding..........
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes.....
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough..................
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing.......
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases..................
28—Nervous Debility.................
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30—Urinary Weakness................
31—Painful Periods..................
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

Firemakers.

One of the Kaffirs had two sticks for making fire, and he showed us how he did it. One of the sticks was about 15 inches long and about half an inch in diameter. The other was flatter and had already in it several shallow round holes made by setting fire on former occasions. He took the latter piece, and having cut a smaller, irregular shaped hole in it he squatted on the ground, holding it firmly down at each end by his two feet. He then took the first piece of stick and held it upright between his two palms, with the point of the lower end resting in the hole he had just made in the horizontal stick.

He twirled the upright stick rapidly between his hands, and in less than a minute it had bored a round hole in the other, and the dust so produced began to smoke, and then ignited like tinder. A companion brought a handful of fine, dry grass, which caught a spark from this, and which he held half inclosed in the palms of his hands, gently blowing on it till it flamed up. It is perfectly marvelous how little the natives mind being burned by a fire. They will stand over one while the flames are licking up their bare legs and never move, and will keep their hands and feet in redhot ashes with the utmost indifference for several seconds.—National Review.

The Conquests of Silence.

Washington never made a speech. In the zenith of his fame he once attempted it, failed and gave it up, confused and abashed. In framing the constitution of the United States the labor was almost wholly performed in committee of the whole, of which George Washington was, day after day, chairman, and he made but two speeches during the convention, of a very few words each, something like one of Grant's speeches. The convention, however, acknowledged the master spirit, and historians affirm that had it not been for his personal popularity and the 30 words of his first speech, pronouncing it the best that could be united upon, the constitution would have been rejected by the people.

Thomas Jefferson never made a speech. He couldn't do it.

Napoleon, whose executive ability is almost without a parallel, said that his difficulty was in finding men of deeds rather than words. When asked how he maintained his influence over his superiors in age and experience when commander in chief of an army in Italy, he said, "By reserve." The greatness of a man is not measured by the length of his speeches and their number.—Chicago Times-Herald.

What He Liked.

Speaking of "A Milk White Flag" makes me think of another of Hoyt's plays, "A Texas Steer," which brings Tim Murphy to my mind, so that I am reminded of a story a newspaper man tells of Tim Murphy's father. The newspaper man—I have really no reason for concealing his name; it was Winfield S. Larner—met old Murphy one day, and the old gentleman volunteered to drive him to the capitol. Now the Murphy horse is one of those animals in which you have instinctively implicit confidence. He jogged off down the avenue as the result of constant and emphatic urging on the part of Mr. Murphy, and turned in to the Academy of Music. Here Mr. Murphy stopped, and a little boy dashed out to offer his services.

"Hold your horse, mister?" he asked

"No, me boy," replied Mr. Murphy as he climbed down from the buggy and looked affectionately at the horse. "He'll stand. He'll like it."

And the horse stood.—Washington Post.

A White Cat's Eyes.

On Columbus avenue a white cat keeps the mice out of the store of its owner. There is nothing remarkable in a white cat per se, but the owner of this particular animal declares that it is a feline curiosity—a freak, in fact.

"Look at that cat's eyes," he said yesterday. "Ever see anything like them? Why, don't you see anything remarkable? Don't know much about white cats, then. Now, that cat, you see, has two blue eyes—I never saw or heard of the like before. Cats usually have gray eyes, but white cats, as a rule, have only one gray eye—the other is blue. Every white cat that I ever saw but this one had one blue eye and one gray eye. Both the eyes of my cat are blue. It is a wonderful freak of nature, I think. Go to any man who knows much about cats—white cats especially—and see if he doesn't tell you that I am right."—New York World.

A Question of Age.

"You wheelmen will have to pay a city tax on your bicycles now," said one Pittsburger to another.

"Indeed?"

"Yes, the new ordinance says that all owners of bicycles and tricycles over the age of 14 years using the public highways shall pay 50 cents for each machine."

"That doesn't include me."

"What's the reason it doesn't, I'd like to know?"

"My bicycle isn't 14 years old. I only bought it last spring."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Good Imitation.

Dick—I played a great joke on a blind man a little while ago. You know they say that in compensation for one's loss of vision the remaining senses are abnormally acute?

Bob—So I've always heard.

Dick—Well, I handed him an article, and after feeling it over for 10 or 15 minutes he had to give it up. He couldn't tell whether it was a collar just from the laundry or only a buzz-saw.—Boston Transcript.

It Will Last.

The wonder still grows that the green goods men can still find victims despite the exposures that the papers are constantly giving of the swindle. The game will probably continue as long as the green goods appeal to the avarice of the green bads.—Boston Herald.

Some Late Moon Theories.

Have you seen the latest scientific treatise on the probable cause of the moon's rugged surface? It is a well known fact that every mile of lunar surface compares very favorably with the most mountainous portions of Switzerland, being a succession of high pinnacles, deep holes and seemingly bottomless chasms.

The best existing maps of the moon's surface show 132,856 of these craterlike holes and over 100,000 mountain peaks, or projections, which compare favorably with what we know to be mountain peaks. Not longer since than last summer the astronomers gave it as their opinion that these craterlike holes and mountain peaks had been caused by a prodigious shower of aerolites, or meteorites. That theory has been recently knocked out by a noted European astronomer, M. Verde, who gives it as his opinion that the moon was originally a vast aggregation of miniature planets which have amalgamated, or coalesced, into one. According to his theory, the openings and projections are the interstices which were left when the separate fragments came together to form the ball which all now recognize as the Queen of Night. He says that in all probability there are several holes which reach entirely through the lunar world.—St. Louis Republic.

The Changed Rubies.

There seems no end to the curious stories about jewels lost and stolen. One of the latest is that of Mrs. A., who recently took a pair of large ruby solitaires to be reset at ——'s, where they had been purchased. The morning after the maid brought her the card of the firm, saying a gentleman wished to see her, and on going down to the drawing room she found one of the clerks, who told her that the stones, which were apparently of great value, were in reality false and worthless. Very much agitated over the intelligence, Mrs. A. asserted that the jewels had never left her possession since their purchase, and claimed that the fraud must have been perpetrated before she received them. This of course the firm denied, but the feeling on the subject became very bitter on both sides, and detectives were employed by both to ferret out the mystery. When a former butler of Mrs. A. was proved to be a discharged clerk of the well known jewelers, the inference was obvious, although no proof against the man has been found, and the jewels have never been recovered.—Boston Gazette.

Our Small Devotee.

My first evening, or night in fact, in Ponta Delgado—as well as many thereafter—was spent in the society of the most affectionately demonstrative, untiringly attentive of the inhabitants of the Azores, the very merriest, happiest of creatures, who enjoys life with a zest that is seldom equaled, who hails with delight each newcomer to the isles, and welcomes them with the most flattering warmth. We had a lively time together. A more energetic, aggressive, industrious creature I never met. Infinitesimally small, yet marvelously active, he is, I believe, the one and only native Azorean who can boast of that so common American quality, extreme nervous energy. Not even the most energetic, tireless Chicagoan, in his grand rush after the mighty dollars, could be more indefatigable, more alert and alive to anything and everything, or rather to any one and every one, than this selfsame ubiquitous Azorean flea.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"Collar" Is Old English.

Justices in New York are ignorantly fastidious in matters of English. When Mr. O'Hara, a policeman, said, "We collared him," Justice Taintor replied: "You 'arrested' him, and you ought to be ashamed for not saying so at once. Such language as you used is not fit language to use to a magistrate in a public courtroom." But Mr. O'Hara did not employ slang. The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele, in The Guardian, No. 84, wrote, "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are: Gentleman's Magazine, 1762, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."—Boston Journal.

The Pacific Slope Style of Poker.

"The terror of a one card draw is unknown to San Francisco devotees of the game immortalized by General Schenck," said Mr. William R. Brewster of that city at the Hotel Page.

"The reason is that out on the slope we do not play sequences, or 'straights,' at all, and flushes only before the draw. A flush, therefore, is of no account except when held 'pat.'

"This, to my mind, is a better system than the eastern method, for it gives the man who holds the best pair the natural advantage that belongs to him. It is needless to say that those abominations known as 'big' and 'little dogs,' that go with the game in Kentucky, are absolutely unknown in California."—Washington Post.

His Enjoyment Marred.

"My enjoyment of the 5 cent cigar," said the man of moderate means, "is sometimes marred by the breaking away of the wrapper. The fine, smooth Sumatra leaf is cut in strips that are rather narrow. They wrap without much lap, and as the cigar burns the wrapper sometimes creeps out. As I have before remarked, it is now quite possible to get a good cigar for 5 cents, but there isn't much fun smoking it unless it will stay together."—New York Sun.

Tobacco.

Tobacco is grown in 42 states and territories, but nearly half the crop comes from Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

SHOULD WE ASK FOR THE SUFFRAGE?

BY MRS. SCHUYLER VAN RENSSELEAR.

VI.

Men have made our laws wholly of their own motion, as some declare, or largely influenced by women's expressed or implied wishes, as I and many others believe. What solid ground have we for saying that, given political responsibilities, our women would bear them more conscientiously than men? A very large proportion of our political questions today are financial or economic questions. Is it probable that women would be more generally stirred than men to think seriously and vigorously about these? Did my friend really show cause why the suffrage should be given to women when she said that only direct personal political activity could awaken their real interest in political things? Do good women thus dissassociate themselves from the duties and responsibilities of their husbands and sons in other directions? Do they not feel a personal concern in the progress of their sons' college education, even though they may have had none themselves? Or in their athletic education? Or in the professional success, the business rectitude and diligence of their husbands? Or in the councils and affairs of their churches? Is it true that we feel we cannot take an active interest in public affairs unless we take an active personal part in them? And, if so, is this indeed a proof that we are well fitted to serve the public good? Or is it a proof that we are vain and proud and selfish—that we must audibly "have our say" in the same manner as men, or else will sulk in our corners and declare that we wash our hands of the nation's interests, of our men's interests, of our own interests? I have already said that I cannot believe it is so. I cannot believe so badly of the women of America. They are not generally interested in public affairs today because their true education has only just begun. But they will gradually grow interested without the bribe or the lure of votes, and then we shall see what woman's influence may mean for good.

If it is indeed true that the work of the world must be divided, and that nature, experience and a sane philosophy unite in showing that the labor of government is part of man's proper share, it is hardly needful to consider any such minor arguments as that if women could vote "there would be no more wars." But I may say that most of them are on a par with this one as regards any basis of demonstrated or probable truth.

Does the history of the female sovereigns of Europe or of India show that women hate war more than men, or does it show that when their emotions are excited they are apt to be more recklessly bellicose than men? How was it with the women of France in the days of the great revolution? And do recent instances differ from those of earlier date? Was not the terrible Franco-German war of 1870 called by the French empress "my war?" Was it not recognized as such by the French people? Do not the investigations of historians and memoir writers show it to have been such? And which were recognized as the most bitter opponents of the Union in our southern states during the war of the rebellion and long after its close—the women or the men?

But the worst of all the fallacies now being used as persuasive arguments is the declaration that if American working women could vote their wages would be equalized with men's. Those who promise this do not give their reasons, and they could not base them upon past facts with regard to rises in the value of men's labor. Even today women are paid much more nearly the same as men for really equal work than the makers of this promise would have us believe. But often what is called equal work shows some inequality, if not in the perfection of its performance, then in the probability that the worker will continue permanently at her task. Although certain agitators have declared that the "law of supply and demand" is a foolish fetich, it nevertheless affects the pay of every laboring individual in the world. Amid social and commercial conditions like ours, the slightest inequality in working power, the slightest difference in the relations of a supply to a demand, tell in financial results; and no laws can possibly obviate this fact. Not legislation, but organization, has raised the wages of men during the past two generations. And the most successful result of labor organization—the famous strike of the dock laborers in London a few years ago—was accomplished by men, a very small proportion of whom had votes. Thus there are many things to think about, many serious questions to decide, before we can conscientiously say that we believe woman suffrage should be established. And, be it noted, the burden of proof lies with those who advocate the innovation. We are not obliged to prove that woman suffrage is undesirable. They are obliged to prove that it is so clearly desirable that, for its sake, the country should run the enormous risk involved in a political and social revolution of the most radical and far-reaching sort. This is law and justice all the world over: The status quo, like the human individual, must be considered in the right until we have good evidence that it is in the wrong. Otherwise there would never be any security for individuals, never any peace or safety for the state.

Therefore all I desire to do is to bid you pause—pause, and think, and consider the arguments of the advocates of the "movement," without passion, without prepossession, and especially without that foolish vanity of would be imitation of men which means a great lack of true feminine pride. But above all do not be tempted to say, "We women must look out for ourselves and our own interests." It is a slander upon the men of America to say this—upon those men who have so cordially helped us to become the freest and most highly considered women in the world. And it is a defiance of the laws of nature and of common sense to declare that the best interests of the sexes are separable. To declare this is to give men an excuse, a temptation—nay, a veritable right—to say, "Then we also must look out for ourselves and our own special interests." Do you think that the country would fare better if our men said this or that its women would fare better? Do you not think rather that the best way to serve our country and to serve ourselves is to do our own work as well as we can—which means a great deal better than in the past? And do you really believe that part of this work should consist in a half share in the actual immediate power to make those laws which deal chiefly with matters that men's daily occupations fit them to understand better than we do, and in the execution of which, strive as we might, we could take but a very small share?

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg

TO—
HELENA, BUTTE, SPOKANE, TACOMA, SEATTLE, PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS, ELEGANT DINING CARS, TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily:
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Duluth and West Superior. 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON......President
L. ELLINGTON......Vice President
J. W. WHEELER......Cashier
A. P. HANSON......Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,

CROOKSTON. - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.

Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK-BOOK FREE!

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE.

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO., TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer ! ! !

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-Class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leavea Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at .....7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at.........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo, Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena, Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte, Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane, Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle, Kalispell, Bonners Ferry, Tacoma, Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett, Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria, Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humbolt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

RAPID DISH WASHER

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

RECOGNITION FOR CUBA.

Campos Says Uncle Sam Will Probably Grant It.

MADRID, Oct. 28.—A dispatch to The Imperial from Havana contains an interview with General Campos, in which he opines that the United States will recognize the insurgents as belligerents when it suits her internal policy. The prospect has not alarmed him, he says, for Spain would then know exactly how matters stood.

Royalty Betrothed.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 30.—It is officially announced that Princess Maud of Wales, youngest daughter of the Prince and Princess of Wales, is betrothed to Prince Charles of Denmark.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant,
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

MR. DEBS MAKES A STATEMENT

Policy of the Great Northern Dishonest and Disreputable.

WOODSTOCK, Ills., Nov. 4.—Eugene V. Debs has made the following statement with reference to the threatened strike on the Great Northern railway system:

"The policy of the Great Northern company in relation to its employes is totally dishonest and disreputable. For several months a scheme has been in operation to disrupt the American Railway union, notwithstanding the solemn pledge of President Hill that no employe should be interfered with on account of his connection with the organization. The strike of April, 1894, resulted in an agreement between the company and the union, which was effected May 1, under the auspices of a board of arbitration, composed wholly of merchants and manufacturers. Tremendous reductions, ranging from 10 to 40 per cent, had been made by the company, and these were restored by the board. From that day to this the company has not lived up to its agreement one hour. Competent and trustworthy employes have been discharged again and again for no other reason than that they belonged to the union."

Altogether Too Honest.

Hotel Clerk—That lawyer stopping with us is the most honest man I ever heard of.

Landlord—Why?

Clerk—He sits up in a chair and sleeps at night.

Landlord—What's that got to do with it?

Clerk—He says after his day's work is over he doesn't think he ought to lie in bed.—Detroit Free Press.

The First Safety Lamp.

The first claim as an inventor of a safety lamp for use in mines was made by Dr. Clanny of Newcastle, who, in 1813, contrived a ponderous and complicated machine, requiring a boy to work it. This apparatus never became popular. It was found to be too unwieldy.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, for nearly a year. It is feared that he has been killed.

The regular Democratic organization of Brooklyn has nominated Edward M. [illegible]

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and its functions, it is important that the blood should be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs brings on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

ED. ROBERTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.

Euclid Items.

Mr. Fred Moescher and family departed last week for Buwer, Marion Co. Iowa, which place they will make their future home.

B. Carlsh and wife were at Crookston, last Thursday, transacting business.

H. C. Misner spent Thursday night in Crookston.

A missionary tea was served at the residence of Mrs. E. B. Ballou, Thursday evening, by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Among the Euclidites at Crookston, Tuesday, were C. Stuhr, Paul Nelson, Henry Nelson, G. H. Fargo and G. Vonderbeck.

The Ladies' Aid Society will give an oyster supper at the hall, Thursday evening, of this week.

Mrs. O. Breed and daughter, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are visiting with their niece, Mrs. B. L. Misner. They are on their way to the Pacific coast to spend the winter.

Mr. DeLance, of Cusselton, N. D., was here the greater part of last week repairing the shipping scales at the St. A. & D. elevator.

Capt. Van Elten, of Asthol, S. D., delivered two interesting temperance lectures at Chapin's hall, Thursday and Fridap evenings of last week. The captain has been on the platform fur more than twenty years and his ability as a lecturer is surpassed by few.

James Fairweather departed Monday evening for Crookston, to spend a short time in the city.

Henry C. Stahr visited friends in Crookston, last week, and is spending the present week in Warren.

Tuesday afternoon the heavy wind scattered several large grain doors which stood against the depot, into the ditch, and as Agent Ballou was stooping at the edge of the platform in the act of picking one up, another one blew down, striking him on the hip and head, and as a result he took a few hours rest from duty.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor	David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor	Frank A. Da
Secretary of State	F. P. Brown
Attorney General	H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist.	Frank M. Eddy

Legislative.

Senator 51st Sen. dist.	P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist.	John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice	Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court	Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist	Frank Ives
Clerk of Court	John Vig

County.

Auditor	John Oleason
Treasurer	J. T. Beandry
Register of Deeds	A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney	L. E. Oossman
Sheriff	Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate	C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools	O. McCrillis
Surveyor	O. L. Hamery
Coroner	John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District	John E. Oppegaard
Second District	Anton Lindem
Third District	M. E. Kirsch
[illegible]rth District	Henry Norland
[illegible]fth District	A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor	John McKinnon
Clerk	W. A. Lauctot
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer	Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller	August Georg
Assessor	C. H. Mix
City Attorney	Martin O'Brien
City Engineer	George Ralph
City Justices	John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables	A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom
Chief of Police	Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large	C. E. Sawyer
First Ward	A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Bubn
Second "	J. E. Morrisey, E. C. Davis
Third "	Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth "	N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth "	A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
Black River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
Bray	C C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....	....
Crookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
Colombia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fenny	J O McWaters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city	....	....
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondrou	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammood	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syeverson	Lindsay
Hobbard	Andrew Moreson	Nellsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	O H Frosts	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Olbean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Matteson	Ovelie
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Ollmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Nordeo	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Merager	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Alhue	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marin	Melvin
Parnell	S W Blean	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Honkom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildeig Baril	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Olgstad	St. Hilaire
Rocksborg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elhy	Fisher
Hosecnd	John E Juverod	Fosston
Russia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sollivan	James F Sollivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Ceroonsek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
ypsTud	....	....
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
R F&T	Lars Backe	T R Falls

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

WANTED SALESMEN. Hardy Nursery Stock and Big Yielding Seed Potatoes. A good chance! Don't miss it! You need no capital to represent reliable firm that warrants stock first-class and true to name. Work All the Year, and good pay weekly. Our famous Minnetonka Apple is warranted until it produces a bushel of fruit. Our Seed Potatoes sell everywhere. State age.

NURSERYMEN, FLORISTS AND SEEDSMEN. L. L. MAY & CO. St. Paul, Minn.

[23-30]

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

1895	November.	1895
Su.	Mo.	Tu.	We.	Th.	Fri.	Sat.
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
10	11	12	13	14	15	16
17	18	19	20	21	22	23
24	25	26	27	28	29	30

ENGLAND MAY YET ARBITRATE.

Venezuelan Question Not Likely to Rupture Diplomatic Relations.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—It is ascertained from state department sources that Secretary Olney does not expect a reply to his Venezuelan note to Great Britain within the next 10 days. In this connection it is also stated that the administration officials now seem to be satisfied that the British foreign office will not take as determined a stand as the London papers for the past two or three weeks have indicated. The information is semi-officially given out that neither President Cleveland nor the members of his cabinet now believe that a rupture of diplomatic relations between this country and Great Britain will ensue, growing out of the correspondence lately had between the United States and Great Britain over the Venezuelan boundary dispute. They seem to have an idea that the firm attitude of the United States will result in arbitration.

HOLMES IS DECLARED GUILTY.

Jury Takes But One Ballot, Having Decided Before They Retired.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Henry H. Holmes was convicted of murder in the first degree at 8:51 Saturday night for killing Benjamin F. Pitzel. He coughed slightly when he heard the words. That was the only sign. The jury retired to deliberate at 5:40. According to one of their number, they reached their verdict before the doors of their room closed upon them. For hunger's sake they ate their supper first. Then they took a ballot and without hesitation every man of the 12 answered "guilty of murder in the first degree."

Immediately after the announcement of the verdict the usual application for leave to file a motion for a new trial was made. District Attorney Graham did not oppose the motion, and Judge Arnold fixed the 18th of this month for a hearing. The principal reasons urged will be lack of time for the preparation of the defense.

DURRANT MUST HANG.

San Francisco Jury Finds Him Guilty of the Murder of Blanche Lamont.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—Theodore Durrant, assistant superintendent of Emanuel Baptist church Sunday school, has been convicted of the murder of Blanche Lamont, for which he has been on trial since July 22 last. The jury was out 20 minutes and arrived at the verdict on the first ballot. As there was no recommendation of mercy the punishment was fixed at death.

To Make Malt at Great Falls.

GREAT FALLS, Mon., Nov. 5.—The brewing company here is to erect a great malting plant, not only for its own malt, but to sell to the Eastern market. The barley production of Montana is becoming very large, and a malting plant will be of the greatest help to ranchmen. The company will also double the capacity of its brewery.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4, 1895.

FLOUR—Steady.

WHEAT—No. 2 spring, 57⅝c; No. 1 Northern, 59c; May, 62⅝c.

CORN—No. 3, 28c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 20c; No. 3 white, 18¼@19c.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4, 1895.

WHEAT—November closed at 53⅛c; December, 53⅜c; May, 57⅞@58c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 54⅛c; No. 1 Northern, 53¼c; No. 2 Northern, 51⅝c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Nov. 4, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 56¼c; No. 1 Northern, 55⅛c; No. 2 Northern, 52⅛@51c; No. 3 spring, 50¾@48¼c; rejected, 47@38½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 56⅛c; No. 1 Northern, 55⅛c; November No. 1 hard, 56⅛c; No. 1 Northern, 55⅛c; December No. 1 hard, 55⅝c; No. 1 Northern, 54⅝c; May No. 1 Northern, 59⅛c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Nov. 4, 1895.

HOGS—Market 10c lower than Saturday. Quality fair. Range of prices, $3.20@3.35.

CATTLE—Market slow and weak; light local receipts; fair demand for good stockers and feeders.

SHEEP—Steady. good sheep and wethers strong and in good demand.

Receipts; Hogs, 250, cattle 560; calves, 5; sheep, 1,804.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4, 1895.

HOGS—Market active at 5@10c decline.

Sales ranged at $3.30@3.65 for light; $3.3[illegible]@370 for mixed; $3.25@3.70 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.25@3.40 for rough.

CATTLE—Best steady; others 5@10c lower.

Beeves, $3.00@5.15; cows and heifers, $1.20@3.35; Texas steers, $2.65@3.35; Westerns, $2.85@4.00; stockers and feeders, $2.20@3.80.

SHEEP—Good steady; others 5@10c lower.

Receipts: Hogs, 55,000; cattle, 21,000, sheep, 17,000.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—November, 58c; December, 58⅛c; May, 63⅛c.

CORN—November, 29⅝c; December, 27⅝c; May, 29⅛c.

OATS—November, 18⅝c; December, 18⅝c; May, 20⅛c.

PORK—November, $8.12½; December, $8.20; January, $9.17½; May, $9.45.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

LIGHT AND AIRY.

An Old Time Novel.

A pretty girl
With wavy curl,
An evening party somewhat late,
A homeward walk,
A loving talk,
A kissing tableau at the gate.
A moonlight night,
A hand squeezed tight,
A little reference to papa,
A little kiss,
A little bliss,
A consultation with mamma.
A little church,
"For bed or worse
You take this maid your wife to be!"
A trembling yes,
A loving press,
A little wife to live with me.
—Williams' Weekly.

Tales of Terror.

They were telling war stories.

Brown—I ate mule meat once for three days.

Smith—I was seven months a prisoner at Andersonville.

Jones—Well, gentlemen, I wasn't in the war, but I've spent 19 years in boarding houses.—Chicago Record.

Anticipated His Readers.

"My hero dies in the middle of my last story," said the young author.

"That's a grave mistake," replied the editor. "He should not die before the reader does. I've heard of three men who actually finished your book before they gave in."—Atlanta Constitution.

What Did It.

His eyes had a dull, unintelligent stare.
He staggered and turned from the desk in a daze.
Bewilderingly through his disordered hair
His fingers he ran, while he uttered such phrase
As only a tottering mind would invent.
Was he drunk? Had he rashly and recklessly tried
Some knockout concoction, with deadly intent?
Oh, no! He'd been reading a Traveler's Guide.
—Richmond Dispatch.

Unfair.

Lawyer For the Defense—I charge the prosecution with attempting to intimidate our witness, Mr. Enpec.

Lawyer For the Prosecution—What have we done?

Lawyer For the Defense—Allowed his wife to visit him.—Exchange.

IVORY IVORY SOAP
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.
LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.

FORGOTTEN REMEMBERED

NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
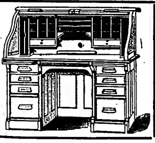
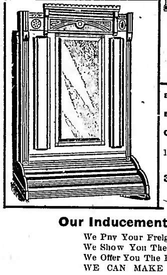
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
—o—
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY NOVEMBER 14, 1895. NO 31.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.





CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

Folding Beds, Oak Polished, 5 ft. - - $30.00
Large Glass 18x40 Polished Oak, - $32.00

Best All-Wool Carpet Sewed and Laid - 65 c.
Extra Grade Brussels Sewed and Laid - 85 c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper 6 c. to 35 c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES $2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:

We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

"The breaking waves dashed high
On a stern and rock-bound coast,"

When the first settlers of this country—the Pilgrim Fathers, landed upon the cold bleak coast of New England, and at once proceeded to boom the country and sell town-lots. What a contrast was this "landing" to that of the first settler in the Red River Valley a few years since. With a fine level prairie of the most fertile soil on earth that only needed plowing to make it ready to produce large yields, with the wealth of the whole United States back of it to provide for any emergencies such as a "loss of crop," with the old home in the east, to which he could easily return if he should fail here, the early settlers of this country had nothing like the chances to take that did our forefathers when they left all these things behind, and taking their lives in their hands embarked in a few frail cockle-shells, that in those days were called "ships" but would now be considered wholly unseaworthy, and venturing upon the briny deep placed the sea between them and all the home-comforts, and went forth to find a country in which to make a home wherein they could worship God in accordance with the dictates of their own conscience. They found this country—or the most sterile, unpromising portion of it. They found it already occupied by a strange, uncivilized people, whom later on they were obliged to subdue before they could have peace. With difficulties that, to us of the present day would seem to be unsurmountable they pressed steadily forward until success crowned their efforts in the birth of the greatest nation on earth, and they gave to this country its greatest national holiday:

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Our oldest settlers, as they gather 'round the bountifully spread table on this great day to discuss the downfall of Turkey, are wont to pat themselves on the back approvingly as they recount the wonderful experiences, the trials and hardships they have undergone in their efforts to "subdue" this Red River Valley country! And the more they tell it the more wonderful it seems to them until they actually come to think that there never was experience quite so "tough" as theirs. Well, this sort of thing is all right; far better than it would be to sit down with long faces and grumble and howl and complain, making life a burden to themselves and everybody else—as the habit of some is. Compare the petty trials we have had in this Red River Valley in its infancy with those encountered by the earliest settlers of America and in this light you will be prepared to enjoy yourself fully and truly on this coming great day. Recognizing the blessings bestowed by the Great Ruler of the Universe, the governor of this great state of Minnesota issues the following

PROCLAMATION:

In the mercy and goodness of Almighty God the seasons of the year now drawing to a close have brought a fair degree of prosperity to the people of the Commonwealth of Minnesota. In the gathering of a bountiful harvest, the blessings of general peace and good health, the advancement of our people in popular education, knowledge and enlightened Christianity, as well as in all the necessaries and comforts of life, do we have great cause to return thanks.

Now, therefore, in recognition of these and other blessings, and that public acknowledgment of our gratitude to Almighty God for his great goodness to us as a state and people may be made, I, D. M. Clough, governor of the state of Minnesota, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 28th day of November, 1895, as a day of public thanksgiving and praise, and I earnestly recommend to all the citizens of this state the observance of the day in accordance with the good customs of our forefathers, and as becomes a Christian people.

Let us gather together in our usual places of worship and return thanks for the innumerable blessings which we enjoy; let us make it a day of family and neighborhood reunions, and for renewing the ties of friendship and love; let us be mindful of the suffering poor, and cause them to be thankful by deeds of charity from generous hearts and open hands.

Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving and into His courts with praise, be thankful unto Him and bless His name."

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state to be hereto affixed, at the capitol, in the city of Saint Paul, this 9th day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five.

(Great Seal.) D. M. Clough,
Attest: Governor.
Albert Berg, Secretary of State.

List of Patents.

Granted to Minnesota inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, opp. U. S. Patent office, Washington, D. C.

R. L. Hunter, Minneapolis, Electrical annunciator. T. G. Lee, Minneapolis, Friction-clutch. N. J. Lindstrom, Evansville, Band-cutter and feeder. B. S. Molyneux, Minneapolis Engraving machine. B. C. Swenson, Bernadotte, Buck-saw. J. E. Woodbridge, Duluth, Printing-telegraph system.

Picket Posts.

Comrades from Angus, Euclid, Fisher, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and Mentor should be sure to come to the dedication next Wednesday, for with the presence of the department officers all day Wednesday would be a good time to organize picket posts in these outlying precincts. Everybody come!

THE PORK PACKING INDUSTRY.

Robert Stanton, who established and has conducted this industry in this city has received a flattering offer from the citizens of Grand Forks to move that institution to that city and is now considering the proposition. It would seem to us a great oversight on the part of our citizens to allow this institution to be removed from our midst, on the other hand it should be fostered and encouraged and helped to become of far greater importance than it has been. While Mr. Stanton has labored faithfully to build it up and make it of great benefit to our city, he has been handicapped in so many ways as to render it impossible for him to accomplish his designs fully and yet, simple as it may seem he has succeeded in making an institution that would be greatly missed if it should be removed. Of late years he has been in the habit of curing pork for farmers at any season of the year they desired it done and has thus saved to them many a dollar by ensuring them a reliable and good market making their pork net them all that there was in it on the existing market. In the fall, if the price did not suit, they could have it cured and held until the price was satisfactory. In the summer they could kill a hog and have it cured for their own use and that they have availed themselves of the opportunity his books will plainly show. If this business goes to Grand Forks every farmer north of the city who has done business with Mr. Stanton will still endeavor to do that business with him and when they go to the Forks to do business with him they will naturally do some trading there, which of course would be lost to our merchants. By a little judicious encouragement this business might be retained here and built into larger proportions as we understand that from personal choice Mr. Stanton would prefer to live in this city. The Commercial union should look the matter up.

A LOST STATE.

The United States, compared with the nations of the old world, is but a creation of yesterday, and it is seldom that one can dig up forgotten facts in its history. How many know that there was once a "State of Franklin" organized, though never admitted to the Union? The present State of Tennessee was originally a part of the grant of lands made by Charles II. to the colony of North Carolina. Subsequent to the Revolutionary War, in the year 1784, the Legislature of North Carolina passed an act ceding to the United States all that part of their state lying west of the mountains. Supposing this would be accepted by congress the people of Washington, Sullivan, Green counties declared themselves independent of North Carolina, and organized the "State of Franklin." In 1785, however, North Carolina repealed the act of cession of the previous year, but these counties remained out until 1788, when they again acknowledged the sovereignty of the "Old North State." This was the first secession that occured in our country, but no fuss was made about it, and it died out quietly. In 1790 North Carolina again ceded the territory to the general government, and shortly after Tennessee was organized and admitted to the Union. Since then many new states have been added in the West and Northwest, and to all the principal cities and towns of eleven of them the Burlington Route is the quickest and best means of communication. For further information about this railroad, inquire of your home ticket agent, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Origin of the Honeymoon.

The Neue Blatt informs us that the term "honeymoon" was not suggested by the sweetness of that period of bliss, but originated through a custom of the Germans of old, which compelled the newly wedded to drink nothing but mead made of honey during the 30 days following the marriage.

A lie should be trampled on and extinguished wherever found. I am for fumigating the atmosphere when I suspect that falsehood, like pestilence, breathes around me.—Carlyle.

To Reopen the Panama Scandals.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—L'Intransigeant asserts that the government is about to reopen the question of the Panama canal scandals, and that it will prosecute a prominent member of parliament in connection with them.

A GENTLEMAN.

(I Guess Not.)

On Tuesday evening an individual went into an express office in the temporary absence of the agent, who was out doing street work, and demanded money on an order that he had. The lady assistant politely informed him that she could not cash orders for strangers, and that it would be necessary for him to get somebody to identify him or wait a few moments until the agent should come in. The man began to bluster and storm about, saying that "he was well acquainted with the agent" and therefore the lady assistant ought to cash the order. The lady still persisted in obeying her instructions not to pay orders to strangers unidentified, whereupon she was treated to such a deluge of abuse, such as no gentleman will ever indulge in to a lady. It does seem singular that some men will allow their choler to make them forget themselves, in the presence of ladies, especially.

Heavy Damages.

The widow of Conductor E. J. Cameron, who was killed in the fall of '94, has brought suit against the Great Northern company in the sum of $25,000. She claims contributory negligence on the part of the company on account of a broken step that is said to have caused Cameron's death. It will be remembered that Conductor Cameron fell from his train and was killed one dark night in November last, about one year ago.

HER FIRST APPEARANCE.

Mary Anderson de Navarro Writes of of Her Strange Debut and of Her Clouding Sorrow.

Mary Anderson de Navarro in her stage career memoirs, which will be published in the Ladies' Home Journal, (the opening chapters in the December issue) gives the public a most interesting and entertaining view of the trials and hardships she successfully combated in following out her conviction that the stage presented to her the opportunity for a splendid career. She exultantly refers to her debut in Louisville, Kentucky, on Saturday evening, Nov. 25, 1875, upon which occasion the "tall, shy and awkward" girl of sixteen interpreted Shakespeare's love-lorn "Juliet." The performance was arranged upon two days' notice—time for but a single rehearsal—and the aspiring Kentucky girl was jubilant when the theatre and a stock company were offered her, upon condition that she play without pay. Her happiness, however, was not unclouded, for of the event she writes with touching pathos: "That Thursday," (the day that her first appearance was arranged) "was one of the happiest days of all my life, filled as it was with the brightest hope and anticipation. Only one black cloud hung over it: the thought of Nonie and my grandparents, who were all very dear to me. Had I known then that I would never see the face of the former, that he would die, my mother and I far away from him, and that almost until his death he would refuse to forgive or see me unless I abandoned the stage-life which he thought so injurious—nay sinful—I would even then have renounced what was within my grasp. This estrangement saddened many years of my life, and has cast a shadow over all the otherwise bright and happy memories of him who was the father, friend and playmate of our childhood days."

Mrs. de Novarro evidently did not suffer from "stage fright," the crushing terror of debutantes, for she writes that she stood patiently waiting for her "cue" to go on. At last it came. "Then in a flash I was on the stage, conscious only of a wall of yellow light before me and a burst of prolonged applause." The performance was filled with rather depressing incidents; one of the players forgot his lines and had to be prompted by the youthful star; "Romeo" neglected to bring his dagger and "Juliet" had to perform her dispatch with a hairpin, while the lamp that hung in "Juliet's" tomb fell and badly burned her hands and arms. "Despite of these," she writes, "the night was a success, and I knew that my stage career had begun in earnest."

Do not fail to attend the Concert Nov. 22nd.

YOUNG MEN.

Last Sunday evening, Nov. 10th, Rev. Herman P. Fisher spoke to young men, taking as his text Job 32:8: "But there is a spirit in man and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding." He said the book of Job is one of the oldest in the bible. Charles Hugo once remarked to Victor Hugo: "Job and the bible are commonplace." "Don't talk about things you know nothing of," was the prompt reply. Know that Job is one of the greatest masterpieces of the mind. Tomorrow if all literature was to be destroyed and it was left to me to retain one work only, I should save Job's."

The words of the text are from the lips of a young man, Elihu, who after listening patiently and respectfully to his elders, spoke with great power and weight of utterance, giving the honor of his understanding to Him who alone can bestow the gift.

The world's interests are in the hands of young men. How shall they be saved for country, God and truth. The Y. M. C. A. is one of the mighty agents through which young men work for young men. A word about its origin and history is fitting. George Williams, a clerk in a London store, invited a fellow-clerk to his room and read God's word with him. The next Sunday each brought another, making four in all. Then and there was founded the Young Men's Christian Association, that was on June 6, 1844. In December, '51, an association was formed in Montreal and twenty years later in New York City. Today there are upwards of 1,600 in our country with a membership of 300,000, and about 4,400 in the world, with an enrollment of 460,000. This is one of the mighty powers which young men use to save their fellows from the insidious pitfalls of the present, such the theatre, dance, smoking, card-playing, Sunday newspapers, drinking, gambling and the like. If any one of these is not as bad as another it is certainly bad enough, as it unfits the young man for, or keeps him from the good influences which the church and the Lord's day were designated to bring him.

This is the age of young men. Said Goethe: "We must be young to do great things." At 32 Alexander found no more to conquer. Hannibal at the age of 30 swept the Roman legions from the plains of Cannae, and Napoleon was but 27 when he met the Austrians at the bridge of Lodi. The younger Pitt at 25 was prime minister of England. Hamilton, our own bright statesman, was 26 when he led congress. Bryant was 19 when he wrote Thanatopsis, and Phillips was 26 when he triumphed over the determined mob in Faneuil hall. Time fails me to speak of Dante, Newton, Raphael, Mozart and Luther, the 412th anniversary of whose birth occurs today, and of whom Carlyle said: "The whole world and its history waited for that man." Truly the history of heroes is the history of youth.

Young men you are to be the ministers, teachers, editors, lawyers and physicians of the future. You are to make laws and administer funds, direct banks and manage railroads. You have greater advantages than any before you; hence greater privileges and responsibilities. Be true to yourselves, to your day and to your youth, for you can do things now which you can never do again. May it be yours to prove that "there is a spirit in man, and the inspiration of the Allmighty giveth them understanding."

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and its functions, it is important that the blood should be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs brings on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

Buy your articles at The Fair.

A BIG TIME.

DEDICATION OF G. A. R. HALL.

EVERYBODY COME.

On Wednesday evening of next week, (Nov. 20th) occurs the dedication of Grand Army Hall and it is hoped that during the day and evening a sum of money sufficient to clear the debt now resting upon it will have been raised so that the home of the Old Vets may be free and clear—absolutely their own property. The boys have worked hard and faithfully during the past summer to build up an institution that would be alike creditable to themselves and the city and with a little encouragement now from an appreciative public their labors will be crowned with abundant success. It only requires about $150 to pay up the debt now incurred and complete the improvements contemplated. The Post room on the ground floor is completed and makes a nice room in which to hold their meetings, while overhead is a nice hall that is designed for entertainments of a social nature, select dancing parties and lectures. There is also a commodious kitchen over which is a little room that the boys intend to fix up for a club room in which to while away the long winter evenings in a social way. There is also a place adjoining the kitchen, at present unenclosed that may be fixed up into a fine dining room and this will be done if the means are forthcoming and then Col. Cobham Post will own one of the finest Grand Army homes in the State. The Department Commander, the Senior and Junior Vice-Commanders, the Adj. Gen. and many other noted Grand Army men are expected and invitations have been extended to every Post and to every comrade whom we can reach in the state and from the nature of the replies we are getting we have reason to expect a grand turn-out. The foraging committee are soliciting supplies for the grand supper that will be given and it is to be hoped that everybody will cheerfully comply when called upon to aid this cause for, although we have a few of "Sherman's bummers" and "Sheridan's jayhawkers" in our Post the commander feels that it would be somewhat awkward to order them out to supply the commissary department in the way we used to do down south, but—"we gotter hab dat possom, honey, an' don' ye forgot dat!" Everybody is cordially invited to take their supper at G. A. R. hall next Wednesday evening and listen to the excercises which will consist of speeches by noted G. A. R. men, songs and war stories. A grand good time is assured to all who attend.

THE PROGRAM.

The program of exercises has not as yet been fully completed but it is the intention to have a parade at 2 o'clock, led by the Ada cornet band after which the dedication ceremonies will be conducted at the hall and an address given by Department Commander Torrance. Supper will probably be served at six and continue through the evening. In the evening a regular old-fashioned camp-fire will be held enlivened with vocal and instrumental music.

COMPLETED.

The new school building, which is an annex to the high school, is at last completed and was used for school purposes for the first time on Monday morning. It is a large, two-story brick building, heated by steam and will furnish sufficient room to accommodate all who desire to attend Crookston schools for some time to come. Crookston has been noted for its educational facilities for some time and seems determined to keep her reputation up in this particular.

That Divorce Suit.

The suit for divorce, brought by Dr. A. Nelson, resulted in a failure to sever the marital bonds at this time. Whether the doctor will now allow the proceedings to drop remains to be seen.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

ELECTIONS OF 1895.

REPUBLICANS AGAIN COME OUT VICTORIOUS.

Ohio Rolls Up a Bigger Majority Than Ever—Maryland Republican—Kentucky Flopped Over—Virginia and New York City Democratic.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The result of Tuesday's election is of considerable general importance, in that through it Republicans gain five senators, one each from Ohio, Maryland and Kentucky, and two from the new state of Utah. The result of the election, briefly epitomized, is as follows:

Kentucky—Full Republican state ticket elected by 15,000 majority. Legislature will elect a successor to United States Senator Blackburn (Dem.)

Utah—Republican governor and congressman elected by not less than 1,000 majority. Legislature is Republican, insuring the election of two United States senators of the Republican faith.

Pennsylvania—Republican plurality, 170,000.

Iowa—Republican plurality, 60,000 to 70,000. Republicans have a majority of 96 out of 150 votes on joint ballot.

Kansas—Swings back solid into the Republican line.

Nebraska—Republican majority of about 10,000.

Mississippi—Goes Democratic by about 30,000.

Virginia—Democratic, as usual.

Maryland—Lowndes (Rep.) elected governor by about 19,000 majority. Republican majority in legislature on joint ballot, 21.

New Jersey—Griggs (Rep.) elected governor by a plurality of 26,690 over McGill (Dem.) and a majority of 20,000 over all. Republican majority of 40 on joint ballot.

Ohio—Bushnell's plurality not less than 100,000. Republican majority on joint ballot in the legislature, 87.

New York—Palmer's majority for secretary of state, 91,000.

Massachusetts—Greenhalge's plurality for governor, 60,000.

DEADLOCKED IN KENTUCKY.

Legislature Said to Be a Tie on Joint Ballot.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 10.—The Evening Post says that the general assembly will be a tie when it meets and the election of a successor to Senator Blackburn is a matter of conjecture, the Democrats having 68 votes and one Democratic Populist vote, making a total of 69. The Republicans will have 68, and one Republican Alliance vote, making a total of 69. The Republicans claim that the lieutenant governor, Worthington, will have the decisive vote, thus insuring them the senatorship. This is an error, however, as the lieutenant governor as presiding officer of the senate cannot vote on joint ballot.

Suffrage Beaten in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The hopes of the friends of female suffrage have been buried beneath an avalanche of ballots. Hardly a town that voted showed a majority in favor of the proposition to grant suffrage to women in municipal affairs. A fair estimate of the result would be three votes against female suffrage to one in its favor.

Pennsylvania Complete Returns.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Complete returns from every county in the state show that a total vote of 738,660 was cast on Tuesday for the Republican and Democratic candidates for state treasurer, Haywood having a plurality of 184,102.

THE SUCCESSOR OF CLEVELAND.

Senator Brice Says Indications Are That He Will Be a Republican.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—"The results of the elections of 1895 makes it most certain that the nominee of the next Republican national convention will be elected president," said Senator Calvin S. Brice to an evening paper reporter at the union depot last evening. Mr. Brice was seated in a Pullman car on the eastern express. The defeated statesman said he was going to New York. The reporter asked him how the election would effect our presidential politics, and Mr. Brice made answer as quoted above. The senator continued: "If the next president is not a Republican the last election has at least added much to the interest that will be felt in the deliberations of the Republican convention. Who will be nominated? Well, Mr. McKinley is a charming gentleman, able, popular, and probably as magnetic as any of the candidates."

The Senator's Explanation.

To the reporter's suggestion that the public would like to know the senator's explanation of the result in Ohio Mr. Brice said:

"Ohio did just what the other states did. The result in Ohio was no different from what it was in New York, Maryland or Kentucky. The people seem dissatisfied with the general policy of the Democratic party, and no local argument has any effect on the national impulse. In Ohio we did our best, but it was useless. Chairman Anderson of the Democratic committee did excellent work, but the odds were too great. General Foraker will be elected to succeed me as senator, and what I shall do does not concern the public."

The reporter asked Mr. Brice if President Cleveland's policy was to blame for the wholesale Democratic disaster. The Ohio senator hesitated a moment, and then said:

"No, I don't think Mr. Cleveland is blamed personally for the tidal wave. Still, he will have to bear his share of the blame, as being part of the national organization and leadership of the Democratic party?"

"How about Gorman?" asked the reporter.

Mr. Brice arched his eyebrows.

"Gorman's all right. Your man Quay was beaten worse than Gorman was last Tuesday, and he seems to be doing pretty well."

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EX-MAYOR EUSTIS OF MINNEAPOLIS A GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE.

Joe Mannix Is Running His Campaign. J. J Hill Will Talk at the St. Paul Immigration Convention—The Northwestern Bonspiel.

Gov. Clough has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation.

Appleton, Minn., is to have a public library and reading room.

The new Minneapolis courthouse was formally opened on Monday.

The Minnesota state labor bureau is taking steps to enforce the child labor law.

The transfer of the St. Paul gas plant to an Eastern syndicate has been completed.

Two young men wanted at Shakopee on the charge of robbery were arrested in Wisconsin.

Coal in paying quantities, it is insisted, is found on the Big Fork river in Northern Minnesota.

Henry E. Briggs, president of the First National bank of Pipestone, died while in England on a visit.

Walter Wilmot of the Chicago National League team will manage the Minneapolis club next season.

Dr. Koehne at New Ulm is exonerated of the charge of complicity in the murder of Policeman Winkelman.

Mankato is assured a new union depot by the city council in voting new right of way through the city for the Omaha.

G. G. Fox of Minneapolis has invented a cycle sleigh. It weighs but 30 pounds and is said to work successfully.

L. M. Curry of Chicago has the contract for the courthouse at Le Sueur Center for $35,000. It will be of Kasota stone.

The Minneapolis job printers' strike is over, both sides making concessions. The new scale is $15 a week for nine hours work.

Five steel bridges will be erected to replace wooden structures on the Duluth and Iron Range, between Two Harbors and Duluth.

Jails and poorhouses of Winona and Houston counties are not approved by Secretary Hart. The buildings are not what they should be.

The date for the bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association at Duluth has been fixed for the week commencing Jan. 18.

Judge Nelson of the Federal court has filed a decision in favor of the Meehans in the case involving Mon-Si-Mah's reservation at Thief River Falls.

Coal is selling for $8 in St. Paul at present and the indications are that the record of 1892, when a ton of anthracite cost $8.75, will be broken before spring.

J. J. Hill will address the coming immigration convention at St. Paul on the past settlement of the Northwest and what may be expected in its future development.

John Victor Bargstrom, a former employe of the Great Northern road in St. Paul, charged with embezzling $10,000 from the company, has been arrested in New York.

Ex-Mayor Eustis of Minneapolis is making a determined fight for the Republican nomination for governor of Minnesota. J. T. Mannix is managing his campaign.

On the farm of Hon. J. H. Burmeister, near Wells, two horses were smothered under 1,400 bushels of oats. The bin was over the horse stable and the floor broke down.

The Hastings school board voted that law regulating and forbidding the employment of children under 16 years of age be enforced; also that the chief of police be requested to secure a list of all children between the ages of 8 and 16 not attending any school.

The supreme court has decided in favor of the state in the case of the Winona and St. Peter Land company against the state of Minnesota. A considerable tract of land in Brown and Redwood counties is involved, and the state will get $54,000 back taxes.

A corps of engineers for the Minneapolis and St. Louis road have commenced the preliminary survey of lines between Chaska and Lake Minnetonka, intending, if possible, to strike the Pacific division line somewhere near Zumbra. This work is all preliminary and several routes will be surveyed before any conclusion is reached.

A bear story comes from Sandstone to the effect that three bears broke into a shed at Marren's place, near Foxboro, and after feasting on some deer hanging there, killed David Falstein and Michael Cunke, woodsmen, and badly injured Frank Burnett and Thomas Grady, also woodsmen, who had heard the noise and gone to see what it was.

The 3-year-old child of Frank Lang of Royalton, was lost in a peculiar manner. She went with her grandfather to Little Falls, and on returning the old gentleman lost his way and left the child sitting in the buggy while he went to search for the road. While trying to find it he lost the child, horse and all. The rig, with the child, was found next delay, having been out 15 hours.

A FEELING OF INDIGNATION.

Remarks at a Dedication Arouse the People of Hinckley.

HINCKLEY, Minn., Nov. 12.—Great indignation is felt here over the remarks of Mr. Saltzer, one of the speakers at the dedication of a Presbyterian church here Sunday. He said:

"The Lord was merciful to other communities by burning the people of Hinckley, thus avoiding contamination."

The church people are up in arms. Saltzer is a Sunday school organizer. A public meeting will be held to demand a retraction. The feelings of the persons who lost relatives and friends in the fire are intense.

If you are posted on Chewing Tobaccos you know that
Climax Plug
Is much the best.
It's made by LORILLARD.

The ever-increasing popularity of CLIMAX PLUG can only be attributed to its high quality, delicious flavor, and satisfying substance—three features which all judges of Chewing Tobacco know to be essential.

Many men ask for a certain brand of tobacco through force of habit, without stopping to think whether there is anything better to be had for the same price. If you want the best, ask for CLIMAX PLUG.

THE REPORT OF GENERAL MILES.

Uncle Sam's Army Shown to Be in Excellent Condition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The annual report of General Miles, commanding the army, has been made public. The personnel is shown to be in excellent condition, well instructed, efficient and attentive to duty. Liberal appropriations are required for public buildings at the posts, many of which are out of repair. General Miles believes that the peaceable conditions now existing among the various Indian tribes is largely attributable to the presence of troops at suitable points, and to the admirable conduct of the experienced army officers who have been placed in charge of the principal agencies. While it is economical and desirable to have the reserve forces of the army near the great centers of communication, General Miles urgently contends that these points should be selected solely for their strategic value.

RAILROAD MUST PAY TAXES.

Supreme Court Decides Against the Winona and St. Peter Company.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The supreme court has decided that the Winona and St. Peter Land company must pay the state of Minnesota taxes on all lands under which it has claimed exemptions since 1881. Justice Brewer holds that D. N. Barney and others cannot maintain that they failed to receive notice of the act of the Minnesota legislature of 1881, directing that the lands be taxed. The state will, therefore, get upwards of $50,000 from the company, or, if the company fails to pay, lands in Brown and Redwood counties.

THE RAILROAD WAS DEFEATED.

Supreme Court Decision Affecting Great Northern Land Interests.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The supreme court has decided the case of C. A. Weeks against Coleman Bridgman, appealed from the Minnesota supreme court. Chief Justice Fuller delivered the opinion and sustains the court below. The Great Northern road, as beneficiary of certain acts of congress, was interested in the case, and opposed the claims of the defendant in error, who acquired title through George F. Brott, a mail contractor. The court holds to the same doctrine as in Barden vs. Northern Pacific, and the railroad company loses.

Stanford Case Set For January.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The supreme court has advanced the arguments of the Stanford case, setting it for the first Monday in January, and giving an hour's additional time to each side for argument.

Wisconsin Reapportionment.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12.—The proposed reapportionment of Wisconsin into senate and assembly districts under the census of '95 has been completed by Secretary Turner of the legislative committee and will be submitted to the committee at its meeting Nov. 25. The city of Milwaukee is not included as an ordinance changing the ward boundaries of that city is now pending before its common council, which makes it necessary to delay apportionment there for a while.

Sawyer-Mann Patents Invalid.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The United States supreme court decided the important case of the Consolidated Electric Light company against the McKeesport Light company, in favor of the defendants. The court holds the Sawyer-Mann patent invalid. The decision was handed down by Justice Brown.

Durrant's Sentence Is Postponed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The sentence of Theodore Durrant has been postponed two weeks.

Milwaukee Grain.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11, 1895.

FLOUR—Steady.

WHEAT—No. 2 spring, 57c; No. 1 Northern, 57¾c; May, 61¼c.

CORN—No. 3, 27½c.

OATS—No. 2 white, 20¼c; No. 3 white, 19@20c.

BARLEY—No. 2, 35½c; sample, 28@36½.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 11, 1895.

WHEAT—November closed at 52¼c: December, 52¼c; May, 56¼@56⅜c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 58⅜c; No. 1 Northern, 52½c; No. 2 Northern, 51c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Nov. 11, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 54⅝c; No. 1 Northern, 58⅜c; No. 2 Northern, 51½@49½c; No. 3 spring, 49¼@46c; rejected, 36@45½c. To arrive—No. 1 hard, 54½c; No. 1 Northern, 53⅜c; November No. 1 hard, 56½c: No. 1 Northern, 55c; December No. 1 hard, 55½c; No. 1 Northern, 54½c; May No. 1 Northern, 59⅝c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Nov. 11, 1895.

HOGS—Market 5c lower. Quality good. Range of prices $3.30@3.35.

CATTLE—Steady; better demand for stockers and feeders; moderate demand.

SHEEP—Slow on butcher stock; good demand for wether feeders.

Receipts: Hogs, 1,325; cattle, 560; sheep, 1000.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11, 1895.

HOGS—Market active; light stronger; others barely steady.

Sales ranged at $3.30@3.60 for light; $3.35@3.70 for mixed; $3.30@3.70 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.30@3.55 for rough.

CATTLE—Market steady to stronger. Beeves, $3.00@5.00; cows and heifers, $1.2 @3.45: Texas steers, $2.60@3.30; Westerns, $2.75@3.95; stockers and feeders, $2.20@3.70.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Receipts: Hogs, 50,000; cattle, 17,000; sheep, 14,400.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—November, 56⅝c; December, 57⅛c; May, 61½c.

CORN—November, 29c; December, 27⅜c; May, 29¼.

OATS—November, 18½c: December, 18⅜c; May, 20⅛c.

PORK—November, $8.10; December, $8.15; January, $9.05; May, $9.37½.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

RHEUMATISM
CURED BY THE
Dr. A. Owen's Electric Appliances.

Mr. Henry Wendt, of Peru, La Salle Co., Ill., under date of July 27, 1895, writes:

"I had Rheumatism all over my system. A few applications of Dr. Owen's Electric Appliances gave relief and after six weeks' use of them I was entirely cured."

Mr. J. H. Matteson, of Morrice, Mich., in a letter Oct. 14, 1894, says:

"I had tried several kinds of medicine and two doctors for my Rheumatism, but could get no relief. I bought one of Dr. Owen's Electric Appliances and experienced relief at once; after two weeks' use I was as limber as an eel and could work all day. Now am entirely cured.

Our large illustrated catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cuts and prices of Appliances and much valuable information for the afflicted. Write for it at once; enclosing six cents in stamps for postage.

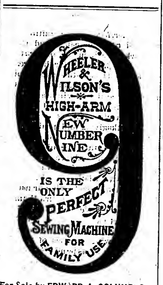
We have been before the public many years, and our Electric Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit, curing thousands of cases of Rheumatism.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.
205 TO 209 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE——
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.



For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

1,000,000 People Wear
W. L. Douglas Shoes
HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.
$5.00 $4.00 $3.50 $2.50 $2.25 For Men
$3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.75 For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, Brockton, Mass. Sold by

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
9th DAY
18th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

WITHOUT THE
Non-pull-out
BOW (RING)

it is easy to steal or ring watches from the pocket. The thief gets the watch in one hand, the chain in the other and gives a short, quick jerk—the ring slips off the watch stem, and away goes the watch, leaving the victim only the chain.

This idea stopped that little game:

The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendant (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendant, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

Sold by all watch dealers, without cost, on Jas. Boss Filled and other cases containing this trade-mark—

A watch case opener sent free on request

Keystone Watch Case Co., PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.
NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block, } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 589 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)
Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent, St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Order to Examine Accounts, etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. In Probate Court.
County of Polk. }
Special term November 6th 1895.

In the matter of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Margarete Dufour, Administratrix of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased, representing among other things that she has fully administered said estate; and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of her administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court, on Thursday the 28th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 6th day of November, A.D. 1895.

By the Court.
C. M. BENSON,
Judge of Probate.
30-32.)

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

He Satisfied His Conscience.

It was under some of the earlier bankrupt laws that this exhibition of rare shrewdness occurred, when it was required that in case of a man's insolvency he must turn over to the proper officer of the law every bit of his property for the benefit of his creditors. The subject of this story was yet a young man and wealthy when misfortune overtook him and failure was inevitable. Some of his property was real estate, some of it was not, the latter consisting of securities easily converted into currency. A nice little bundle of bank bills could be more safely handled than certificates of stocks, etc. When the time came, being an honorable man, he conscientiously surrendered his entire effects, even a tubular cane from which the handle could be disjointed, the gift of an admiring friend. After handing the walking stick to the official, thus satisfying the law, he suggested its return. It was a present from a friend and could be of little value to any one but himself as a memento.

"Certainly," said the officer. "Take it. It's of no value to us."

"Thanks! I'll prize it highly."

Some time afterward in his quiet home the shrewd financier disjointed the handle and removed from his tubular depository several thousand dollars of well crumpled bank bills.—Syracuse Post.

Symbolism.

When you study the vast subject of symbolism, as has Professor D'Arcy Wentworth Thompson, you are just as likely as not to be swamped. In a recent comprehensive study Professor Thompson works in the direction of the heavenly bodies and the condition of the sky at certain periods. Lions, eagles and all animals or birds have, as symbols, something to do with the skies. It is true, as the learned professor states, that the Pleiades are very much mixed up with the names and images of birds. "The Hen and Chickens" is English for the Pleiades, and in many languages expressive of the same constellation there are birds.

Carrying his ideas to their furthest limits, Professor Thompson believes that all coins have their typical animals, birds or fish, derived from the same celestial source, but the queerest conjecture is one in regard to the old ratio existing between silver and gold. That ratio having been 13.3 to 1, the professor calmly asks whether that is not an evidence "that this ratio is precisely identical with the ratio of the solar year to the lunar month—namely, 365 to 27.4." When you make up your mind to go in for symbolism, there is no knowing where it may land you.

Charon's Boat.

On one of the lakes in the north island of New Zealand, near Auckland, there was a hotel much frequented by fishermen. On one occasion, when a gentleman, whom I will call Mr. X., was staying there, he was taken seriously ill, and the landlord, supposing that he could not possibly recover, began to think of making preparations for his visitor's death. Knowing a man who was a pretty fair carpenter and had owed him money for some time and seeing little chance of being repaid, he told him to make a coffin for the sick man. The coffin was duly made, but Mr. X., instead of dying, as he ought, to have done, recovered, and there was therefore no use for the coffin.

The landlord, not caring to beat the expense, included a charge for it in Mr. X.'s bill, who, on seeing it, naturally enough demurred to paying for something which he had not ordered and did not want. The landlord said it was very hard that the loss should fall on him, as he had only done it for the best, and Mr. X. at last agreed to pay for it. Determined to turn it to some account, he had a keel put to it and used it as a fishing punt during the remainder of his stay at the hotel.—Realm.

Others Have Sighed For This Too.

The late Oliver Wendell Holmes, says the London Queen, loved all kinds of knickknacks connected with writing materials. There was a large drawer in his library table in his town house "on" Beacon street, Boston, which contained endless neat little divisions, full of the various articles of stationery which he used. The one which he was most anxious to possess was not invented in his lifetime; and I do not think that it has been invented yet. The great little doctor wanted, and believed in the possibility of a typewriter no bigger than a cigar case, containing so many sheets of paper 4 inches by 2. As soon as the top sheet was full it was to be changed automatically by the machine—which was, in fact, a typewriter notebook. Fancy the luxury of rough notes written with a typewriter instead of in blurred and untidy pencil scrawl.

The Effect of Hills.

A teacher of the Delsarte method says that she has had her attention particularly attracted by the bad carriage of women in all the towns that border on the Hudson river. They are more inclined to stoop, she thinks, than those of any other part of the east which she has visited. She concludes that this must be the result of the hills which border the Hudson, and on which most of its towns are built. So much hill climbing has led to a prevailing round shouldered condition.—Philadelphia Press.

First Use of Platinum.

It is recorded that the first Ural miners were much disgusted with platinum and did not know what to do with the hard, dirty looking metal, says a London contemporary. They thought they had solved the problem of successful utilization when they had made bullets of it for their sporting muskets.

The greatness of the human soul is shown by knowing how to keep within proper bounds. So far from greatness consisting in going beyond its limits, it really consists in keeping within it.—Pascal.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK'S NEWS.

Wednesday, Nov. 6.

The payment of Sibley's Sioux scouts has just been completed at Crow Creek and Lower Brule.

Deer are very plentiful this fall around Baraboo, Wis. As high as 12 have been seen in one herd.

The sixth annual convention of the National Non-Partisan W. C. T. U. is in session at Oberlin, O.

Criminal action against Banker Probert of Washburn, Wis., has been dismissed, he having given security for town funds deposited.

Advance sheets issued by The Orange Judd Farmer show that the potato crop in the United States for this year will be the largest ever known.

In the great race at Reedsville, N. C., between John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen Gentry won in three straight heats. Time, 2:10, 2:09 and 2:09.

Thursday, Nov. 7.

It is reported that £2,500,000 of specie has left London for Constantinople.

The British war office has arranged for an expedition to Ashanti.

Andrew Carnegie has presented to Pittsburg a library, music hall and art gallery.

Charles Dana Gibson, the artist, was married to Miss Irene Langhome at Richmond, Va.

John S. Johnson lowered the mile record, standing start, to 1:50 1-5 at Louisville Thursday.

The Fair will case has been settled out of court, and what promised to be a bitter contest over an estate valued at $40,000,000 has been abandoned.

The Vienna correspondent of The Daily News hears that Emperor Francis Joseph has refused to sanction the election of Mr. Laeger, by the anti-Semites, as burgomaster of Vienna.

Friday, Nov. 8.

Another conspiracy to overthrow the Brazilian republic is alleged to have been discovered at Rio.

San Francisco merchants complain that existing freight rates prevent them from competing with St. Louis and Chicago.

Seventh Day Adventists were acquitted in Rhea county, Tennessee, of the charge of creating a nuisance by working on Sunday.

The remains of the late Mrs. James B. Eustis, wife of the American ambassador to France, have arrived at Louisville from Europe.

J. W. Codman died at Chicago Friday. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that Mr. Codman killed himself while temporarily insane. Deceased was a relative of President Cleveland's wife.

The Kaffir securities have steadied again and financial seers have again commenced conjecturing upon the length of time which will elapse before the speculation therein will wind up with a big crash.

Saturday, Nov. 8.

Mrs. Maybrick has been transferred from Woking prison to Aylesbury jail.

Rear Admiral Robert W. Schufeldt, retired, died at his home in Washington.

Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, has cabled to his friends that he is safe.

Teemer, the St. Louis oarsman won the half-mile dash at the Austin regatta.

Ambassadors of the powers warned the sultan that unless disturbances are immediately stopped the powers will take Turkish affairs into their own hands.

A special dividend of 5 per cent in addition to the regularly quarterly dividend has been declared by the liquidating trustees of the Standard Oil company.

John R. Gentry was ignominously beaten by Joe Patchen at Richmond, Va. Patchen won the first two heats easily in 3:15½ and 2:15. Gentry was distanced in the second heat and withdrawn.

Monday, Nov. 11.

Butts street car company is doubling its tracks.

The new Pabst theater at Milwaukee was formally opened Saturday night. It is perfect in every particular.

The president has appointed Arthur K. Delaney of Alaska, United States district judge for Alaska.

Two Chinese lepers have arrived in New York and the health authorities are on a wild hunt for them.

The British steamer Mineral from Zoaritas, coal laden for San Francisco, has been burned and is a total loss.

At the annual meeting of the Texas Wool Growers' association strong resolutions declaring for a protective tariff on wool were adopted unanimously.

Tuesday, Nov. 12.

A severe earthquake shock has been experienced at Katuna, Greece.

Chicago electric railways are preparing to run funeral trains to the cemeteries.

Fire damp caused an explosion at the Winning colliery at Blackwell, Eng. Seven persons were killed.

J. S. Williams was convicted at Carrollton, Mo., of trying to bribe a talesman in the first Taylor murder trial.

The state department has about ready to issue a volume on highways of commerce compiled from consul's reports.

Will Streigle, a young lawyer of Springfield, Mo., and his wife were arrested on charges of robbery and arson.

Superintendent Frank Levis of the Illinois Glass works at Alton was arrested for alleged violation of the child labor law.

Eastbound shipments from Chicago last week were 80,808 tons, against 83,081 for the preceding week, and 44,965 for the corresponding week of last year.

10 CENT CUT
A.T. Co's BATTLE AX
A.T. Co's Battle AX

EVERYBODY IS ON TO IT
BATTLE AX PLUG
THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR THE MONEY

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Bright's Disease
Is the most dangerous of all kidney diseases. Pains in the back, irregularities in the urine, swelling of the limbs or abdomen are the first symptoms.
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM
Has proved, in thousands of cases and for many years, to be the peerless remedy for this dreaded disease. It relieves promptly and works a permanent cure.
For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement, and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

IT will be McKinley or Reed probably. Anyhow it will be a Republican who is the next president of these United States.

EX-SENATOR Thurman "the old Roman" of the Democratic party seems liable to recover from the effects of the accident that befell him last week and to live for a number of years yet.

THE Populists seem to be as easily suited as the prohibitionists always have been. They now say that they did not expect to make very great gains this year, anyway. When do they expect to commence?

ONE would think by looking over the last issue of the Grand Forks News that Bierly had met with another political flop—and this time into the Republican camp. That issue was doing a lot of good solid crowing over the great Republican victories. What is Byerly, anyhow?

THE Democrats are now trying to find out what hit 'em last week, and endeavoring to explain how it happened, anyhow. Some of 'em seem to have an idea that they are right in it all the same—and they are—in the same sense as the dead men who were buried last week.

IT is said that President Cleveland wears a very bland expression as he contemplates the fact that there is one Gorman-dizer less—in Maryland. The relations between Cleveland and Gorman were very much strained, to say the least, and now the president is not losing much flesh over Gorman's defeat.

THE Times tries to extract consolation from the recent political landslide from the fact that an Iowa relative of our genial chief of police, Frank Creamer, was elected representative on the Democratic ticket. The Times is welcome to all the consolation it can extract from the situation.

THERE seems to be an omission somehow in Gov. Clough's Thanksgiving proclamation. He don't remind the people how thankful they ought to be that the late Republican victory insures the country against further Democratic misrule—and 'pears like he "orto" mentioned that great cause for being thankful!"

SECRETARY Carlisle has discovered that the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill is totally inadequate to supply the needs of the government for revenue and will ask congress to devise ways and means to supply the deficit. There is nothing like the cold solid facts to beat a little common sense into the heads of these tariff tinkerers.

DEMOCRATIC papers are trying to create a boom for Ben Harrison by stating that he is working hard for the nomination and by showing that he will go into the national convention with Vermont and Indiana solidly behind him and many other nations contributing from one to several delegates to make a "jack pot" for Benj. to open. Well, what if Mr. Harrison does desire to be president again? It certainly is a laudable desire.

THE Democrats would awfully like to see Ben Harrison made the Republican nominee for president—thinking that he would be a "soft mark" to beat. Benjamin Harrison is not likely to be the nominee, but if he should be, the Democrats will find out that he will not be so easily beaten as they think. The next president of these United States will be a Republican and don't let that fact escape your memory for a moment!

THE strike on the Great Northern road does not seem to have materialized to a very great extent. Beyond a few days delay in the running of freight trains no trouble was experienced and the company at once put new men on in place of all who had quit work and the only serious result is that some men having families dependent upon them are out of work and a long, cold winter coming on, with the sure prospect of suffering for the innocent ones, as these men will find it difficult to obtain employment with any company right away. A strike, as a rule, is a dangerous experiment and should never be indulged only as a last resort, as not only the interests of the men and company are involved but also the interests of every individual through which this road passes and unless the employes are very clearly in the right the general public will not tolerate the inconvenience caused by a strike and to be wholly successful a strike must have public opinion strongly arrayed on its side.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

St. Peter Tribune: A man and his wife are both liable for the payment of a newspaper which is taken and read in the family. Last week in the district court at Rock Rapids, Iowa, Judge Oliver gave a judgment to the Germania Publishing company against Mr. and Mrs. Dirk Bayling for a subscription bill of $20 on the ground that a newspaper is a household necessity.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 8, 1895.

That the country is impatient for the return to power of the Republican party was shown as plainly by this week's elections as by the congressional elections of last November, although this year's elections were only in a few of the states. It is not surprising that prominent Democrats should privately admit their belief that the election of a Republican president next year is a foregone conclusion. For them to do otherwise would be to indicate their lack of necessary ability to read the signs of the times, which are so plainly put forth by the intelligent voters of the country, who have rallied from the hoodoo under which they elected Mr. Cleveland president, and gave the Democrats a majority in both branches of congress.

The Republican party has won many greater victories than that of the present week, but few of more significance, and this, too, in an off-year, when it is more or less difficult to arouse the interest of voters. It would have been a satisfactory victory to have piled up the great majorities the party received in such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Iowa, but when to those are added the outright capture of three such Democratic strongholds as Maryland, Kentucky and New Jersey it became a great triumph, worthy of the jubilation the Republicans are expressing over it. It is now absolutely certain that the Republicans will after March 4, 1897, have a majority in the senate which, with the Republican president and the Republican house to be elected next November, will put the party in control of all branches of the national government and enable it to undo the mischief done by the Democrats, and to start the country upon another long era of prosperity.

Among the notable personal changes which will result from this week's elections are the following: Ohio will again have two U. S. senators, ex-Gov. Foraker succeeding Mr. Brice, of New York, who has for six years misrepresented Ohio in that body: Senator Hill will be succeeded by a Republican senator from New York and will probably retire permanently from national politics, unless he moves to New York City and gets Tammany to elect him to the House from one of the city districts—whatever he does he is not likely to be again heard of as an aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination; Maryland will have a Republican senator in place of Gorman's dummy—Gibson—who is only known as a "masher," a concoctor of good terrapin stew, and the unquestioning servant of Arthur P. Gorman, and Blackburn, of Kentucky, will be succeeded by a Republican. The country loses nothing by these retirements, while it is likely to be largely benefitted by the advent of the Republicans who will succeed them.

No off-year elections in the recollection of the present generation played such havoc with the candidates for the presidential nomination of any political party as did the one which the which the whole country is now talking. Campbell, of Ohio, Carlisle, of Kentucky, Hill, of New York, and Gorman, of Maryland, were all candidates for the Democratic nomination next year, but there will have to be decided changes from existing conditions if either of them are seriously mentioned in connection with the nomination, forlorn hope though it will be.

No candidate for the Republican presidential nomination had his chances injured by the elections, but the respective friends of Governors Morton and McKinley and Senator Allison declare that the splendid majorities in New York, Ohio and Iowa have added to their chances for obtaining the coveted honor.

The amusing attempts of some of the small fry Democrats to explain their defeat have begun—prominent Democrats are not doing any public talking. Lawrence Gardner, secretary of the Democratic National committee, says it was because people are tired of being dictated to by bosses, and that it does not indicate loss of hope by the Democrats for '96. He also says pathetically that Democratic campaign literature does not accomplish such results as it once did, which is virtually an acknowledgement that the voters doubted the truth of Democratic literature.

A gentleman who isn't a Democrat, but who is on friendly terms with Mr. Cleveland, ventured to ask that gentleman if he wasn't glad he issued his thanksgiving proclamation before election day. The gentleman says Mr. Cleveland smiled and if he didn't actually wink, there was a nervous twitching around the corners of his off eye, which indicated that he was half inclined to. In fact there are the best of reasons for believing that Mr. Cleveland regards the downfall of two such arch enemies as Gorman, of Maryland, and Hill, of New York, as full compensation for the fearful drubbing administered to the Democratic party and that he is more inclined to be pleased than displeased with the result of the elections.

All attempts to get an expression of opinion on the results of the elections from a member of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet have so far failed. Even Secretary Morton, who will usually talk about any subject under the sun, provided he knows that he is to be quoted by name in a newspaper, is silent. Come to think of it, they are not blamable for refusing to talk. There is nothing that any of them could say that would help matters, from a Democratic standpoint, anyhow.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

(From the Press.)

Henry Cook and John Senholt brought in six fine deer the first of the week.

J. E. Morrisey and T. H. Bjola were up from Crookston on business the first of the week.

Henry Tiedt, who has been connected with the Polk County Bank for some time, has resigned his position and left for his his home in Argyle. His friends here regret, exceedingly, the change thus made.

The Farmers' Railroad mass meeting held in the city last Monday evening was well attended and great interest was manifest in the project. The meeting was addressed by D. W. Hines, the president and founder of the enterprise; R. McEldawney, of Duluth, Chairman Ira C. Richardson, F. H. Kratka and others and assurances were given that Thief River Falls would lend all required assistance to the road.

F. H. Kratka returned home Friday. He was accompanied by the other members of his company, Messrs. Geo. W. Mason, W. S. Jamieson and Jas. A. Kellogg, who came up to look after their belongings here. They brought with them Mr. Robert A. Lang, a practical dam builder and engineer, who proceeded to take levels and measurements preliminary to drafting plans and specifications for the company's new dam. He will return in a few days and begin construction and push the work along as far as the weather will permit.

The funeral services over the remains of little Carl Kretzschmar were held at the home of the deceased's parents, on Friday afternoon last and were attended by a large concourse of neighbors and friends. The funeral rites were read by Rev. Kuhring, German Lutheran pastor of Black River, assisted by Rev. Aastad, of this city, and were given in both German and English, as were also the hymns sung. Four little boys acted as pall bearers. The interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Kretzschmar have the tender sympathy of the community in their very sad bereavement.

For a second time within a week the home of Swen Johnson was invaded by the messenger of death and on last Friday another son grown to manhood was called away. John was about 26 years of age and had been ill with typhoid fever for nearly five weeks. The funeral was held on Saturday, Rev. Aastad officiating, and the remains were interred in the St. Hilaire cemetery.

Euclid Items.

Mrs. E. Taylor is suffering from an attack of catarrh of the stomach. Her many friends hope that she may be about again in a short time.

Those who still have grain in the shock are beginning to feel rather blue.

The scarcity of oysters at the supper given by the Ladies' Aid last Thursday evening was by far greater than is usually the case at oyster suppers. They were depending upon Crookston parties to furnish the oysters but none could be obtained in that city.

J. O. McWaters died at his home southwest of town last Friday. He had been suffering with consumption for some years, but his death was not expected. The remains were taken to Zambrota for interment.

C. H. Mix was up from Crookston the fore part of the week.

F. Haseltius was up from Crookston, Monday.

H. C. Misner departed for St. Paul Thursday evening. He will return Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pitkin spent Monday night in Crookston.

East Grand Forks Items.

(From the Advocate.)

Mayor Rhinehart attended the meeting of the county commissioners early in the week at Crookston.

It is rumored that the Windsor house is to change hands this fall but nothing definite is known yet.

Mr. R. B. Smart made a business trip to Fisher, Friday evening. We don't say what his "business" was He formerly resided there.

The heavy rain Tuesday morning reduced the visible supply of wheat coming to town several thousand bushels. A rush is expected again as soon as the roads improve.

A grand reception to Rev. and Mrs. Hunter was held on Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. Phizacklen, when they were presented with a grand lamp and stand by their numerous friends and well-wishers in the city.

When Grover Cleveland was first elected president he was estimated to be worth about $100,000. He is now said to be worth $6,000,000. It seems that he has prospered more under his own administration than the country has.

M. Wilkins, who has been operator for several months past at the N. P. depot in this city, left last week for Twin Valley, where he has been appointed station agent. We congratulate him on his promotion.

The cheapness of the suggestion of an exchange for the care of farm machinery in the absence of a shed, would alone recommend a trial. It says: Go to the store and procure sufficient heavy muslin to cover your machine, soak it thoroughly in boiled oil and tie or nail tightly over machinery. This cover forms a good protection from the sun and is thoroughly waterproof and will save many a penny in the way of repairs. A machine protected in this way will give from two to three more years service than those exposed to sun and rain.

The Future of Japan.

Both the Japanese and the Russians appear to have taken it for granted that the recent war only cleared the stage for the real antagonists to take the field. Russia is said to be straining every nerve to reinforce her army in Vladivostock; artillery and munitions of war are being hurried eastward; and, when the time comes for trying conclusions with the Japanese the Russians hope to have an army of 90,000 men on the spot. The Japanese, on the other hand, are intensely indignant at the intervention of Russia, whom they recognize as the principal in this matter. They are preparing to spend the indemnity they have extorted from China in strengthening their fleet. The electorate will, it is said, enthusiastically support the proposal for increasing the standing army, and, in short, for going into training for the impending conflict. They have as yet shown no indication of any disposition to evacuate the Liaotung peninsula, and Russia and France are said to be taking steps for the purpose of expediting their movements. The action of Germany is not yet certain. Affairs in Corea are the reverse of reassuring. The Coreans are likely to give the Japanese much more trouble than did the Chinese, and every day it seems more certain that here also we are but at the beginning of a new epoch; nor can anyone foresee what the end will be. There was a troublesome little revolution on foot in Corea as this number of the Review went to press, and it promises to involve Japan very unpleasantly and inopportunely.—From "The Progress of the World," in the November Review of Reviews.

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ostby Monday, a boy.

F. Sankey was at the county seat Monday on business.

Peter Reune was down from Crookston the first of the week.

Mrs. J. Walseth, of Lambert, is here on a visit to her husband and daughter.

If the weather is favorable the sidewalk to the school house will be completed this week.

Chris Folstad, of Tildea, and Miss Anna Wick, of Maple Bay, were united in marriage at the home of the bride last Wednesday, Rev. Sorenson officiating.

K. S. Greene, a Liberty farmer, had a leg broken last Thursday while coming to town with a load of wheat. He accidently slipped off the load and the wheel run over his leg. He climbed on the load unaided and drove on to town and had the doctors set the injured member and drove home alone.

Mrs. A. A. Kilen passed away from this earth last Friday morning after an illness extending over several years from that awful disease consumption. Deceased was about 40 years old and leaves a husband and one child to mourn her loss. The funeral services were held Monday at the Lutheran church, Rev. Gjerve officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

Andrew Appisuap, a farmer living two miles northwest of Dugdale, lost his barn and granary and 40 tons of hay last Saturday by fire. The granary contained 1200 bushels of wheat and several hundred bushel of oats and they are nearly a total loss as they were badly damaged by the fire. The fire was set to the hay by his daughter and soon spread to the barn and granary and they were quickly consumed.

Contractor Huglund is putting in the fronts in the new Duckstad and Gustafson block this week.

The boys were out in full force Halloween night. Gates and signs were changed and the usual pranks cut up.

A number from here attended a dance at Tildea Saturday night. Olson & Erickson's orchestra furnished the music.

John Jamae, an old resident of the town of Garfield, died Monday. Deceased was about 50 years old and leaves a family in good circumstances.

John Holten moved his stock of merchandise into the Kronschnabel building on Lincoln avenue the first of the week. He now has one of the best arranged stores in town.

Gus. Christianson is the happiest man we know of nowdays. His wife presented him with a fine new boy Tuesday. The record now stands four girls and one boy.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

E. D. Childs was up from Crookston yesterday.

Work on the St. Anthony & Dakota elevator annex is under way.

Geo. LaBrie was making proof on his Beltrami county home before Judge Christianson at Crookston, yesterday.

Superintendent McCrillis came up from Crookston on Wednesday evening and has been visiting schools in this vicinity since then.

W. A. Hayden, of Detroit, a member of the Chippewa Indian commission, was in town a few days this week on his way to Red Lake agency.

"Judge" Bennett has been carrying colored spectacles on his usually open countenance part of this week, owing to inflammation of the eyes. The "other fellow" escaped unhurt

Attorney W. F. Street was at the county seat last Monday.

The Congregational church at McIntosh now wears a bell.

L. W. Larsen, Wm. Cameron, Geo. Lindley and M. Rivett returned from the hunt on Sunday evening with ten deer as the result of the chase.

J. H. Creighton, W. W. Hoch, A. C. Schmidt, J. S. Manton and Dr. A. Dunlop came up from Crookston on Monday and left for Bemidji on Tuesday, where they will proceed to exterminate the deer.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Grippy Colds.

Grippy colds are epidemic and are promptly "broken up" by "77," Dr. Humphrey's Specific for Colds and Grippe. For sale by all Druggists.

Repudiated the Relationship.

"Lemme out!" yelled the chimpanzee. "Lemme out. I want to get at 'im."

"Why, Jocko," said his mate, "what on earth is the matter?"

"See that dude going along the gravel walk?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'm after him. I heard him say he believed we were his ancestors."
—Washington Star.

Unmodified.

She—Would you say that Miss Corduroy had irregular features?

He—Hardly that. I think it were more correct to speak of them as distinctly plain.—Boston Transcript.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

DON'T WAIT

For a Cold to Run into Bronchitis or Pneumonia.

Check it at Once

—WITH—

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral.

"Early in the Winter, I took a severe cold which developed into an obstinate, hacking cough, very painful to endure and troubling me day and night, for nine weeks, in spite of numerous remedies. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral being recommended me, I began to take it, and inside of 24 hours, I was relieved of the tickling in my throat. Before I finished the bottle, my cough was nearly gone. I cannot speak too highly of its excellence."—Mrs. E. BOSCH, Eaton, Ohio.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Received Highest Awards

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Manifold Disorders

Are occasioned by an impure and impoverished condition of the blood. Slight impurities, if not corrected, develop into serious maladies, such as

SCROFULA,
ECZEMA,
RHEUMATISM

and other troublesome diseases. To cure these is required a safe and reliable remedy free from any harmful ingredients, and purely vegetable. Such is S.S.S. It removes all impurities from the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system. Thousands of cases of the worst forms of blood diseases have been

Cured by S. S. S.

Send for our Treatise mailed free to any address

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Grand Concert Nov. 22d.

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

M. M. Davis was in from Euclid on Saturday.

H. L. Gaylord was up from Fertile on Tuesday.

C. S. Attix was in from Mentor last Thursday.

Judge Ives went up to Warren on Monday to hold court.

Comrade Fontaine went out to his farm at Badger this week.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

A. D. Stephens took a business trip to St. Paul early this week.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

Next Sunday will be "Elderly People's Day" at the Congregational church.

"Fall in," comrades, for a royal good Grand Army time on Wednesday next.

P. L. Renne entertained his mother who came up from Rindal for a visit last week.

Representative Hendricks was down from Kittson county one day last week.

Conductor Casper Sands was shaking hands with his Crookston friends on Saturday.

The Ada Post will come up in a body on Wednesday and bring along the cornet band.

John P. Lundin, of Stephen, was shaking hands with friends in the city on Monday.

Attend the Concert at the M. E. church, Friday evening, Nov. 22nd. Tickets on sale now.

A. A. Miller went up to Warren on Monday to attend the Marshall county district court.

F. J. Haseltine was in from Euclid on Friday, chatting with old-time friends and attending to business.

Mrs. Milligan, who has been very sick in Iowa is reported convalescent and is expected home shortly.

T. A. Harris has returned from Red Lake Falls where he has been moving houses for some time past.

W. B. Dawley was in the city last week and left on Thursday morning for a trip along the St. Vincent line.

Attorney Watte has left the office key with that new pleader and has gone to Warren courting this week.

Dr. Umland, of Fosston, passed through the city last week on his way home from a visit to the twin cities.

As we go to press wheat is quoted at 42 cents for No. 1 Hard, a gain of two cents recently—but not very encouraging.

Mrs. W. E. Thune returned last week from a visit with friends below and intends to remain in the city this winter.

Charlie Kops just dropped in from Grand Forks last week to see how they do business in the leading city of the Northwest.

Atty. A. C. Wilkinson went to Warren on Monday morning to look after some cases in the district court now in session there.

Allen McKinnon is the happy father of a fine little Scotchman, who first saw the light of day on Thursday of last week.

Harry Ives, the millionaire publisher of the St. Hilaire Spectator was an interested visitor on change on Thursday of last week.

W. D. Carlton came down from Angus on Friday to attend Post meeting and remained with his family in the city over Sunday.

T. G. Thompson, A. C. Cowing and E. Johnson went up into the Thief River country, last week, to see if they could find a deer or so.

Messrs. Morberg & Nelson have the contract for building the boarding house at the experiment station, and expect to complete it this fall or early winter.

County Atty. Gossman went over to East Grand Forks on Tuesday to look into a reported case of a breach of the laws "in such case made and provided."

The ladies of St. Mary's church are holding a successful fair and festival at McKinnon's hall, this week. Commencing on Tuesday night it closes tonight.

Ida Van Cortland is to be at the Grand opera house Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. This is said to be one of the finest companies on the road.

Ida Van Cortland will be at the Grand two nights this week. The opening piece on Friday night will be Ingomar. This is an excellent company and well worth a liberal patronage.

"One Price and That Right."

Fontaine
and Anglim.

The Leading and and Largest Store in the Red River Valley.

Suppose
You
Do

Live 15—20 or even 50 miles away! You will save the cost of coming here on a bill of $15, —$20 or $50.

49c. a pair for double Cotton Blankets—grey—white or tan.

8c.—Cotton Batts—that knock out anything we ever saw before in that line, unrolls like a roller top top desk.

47c. for the best Ladies' 75c. Underwear you ever looked at.

20c. for a pair of Ladies' seamless foot woolen hose–fast black.

79c. for an Infant's Cloak made with big sleeves–satin lined and braid trimmed.

9c. for a box of Ice Wool. 8 balls.]

59c. for a pair of kid Gloves.

39c. for a five hook Corset in drabs—white or black.

21c. a yard for fourteen twill Cashmere—38 inches wide.

There's similar Bargains all over this store We've told you in this column a little of all of them--not much of any They're not tellable stories.

Out of town customers can shop by mail and be served as satisfactorily as at the counter in person.

Agents For Buttrick's Patterns.

Dry Goods,
Groceries,
Clothing,
Crockery,
Carpets,
Boots and Shoes.

SANTA CLAUS SOAP
SOAP
SOAP

Above All Others

There is no soap in the world that stands so high in the opinion of thoughtful women as

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

For washing clothes or doing housework, it can't be equalled. Try it. Sold everywhere. Made only by

The N. K. Fairbank Company, - Chicago.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

The work of laying brick for the McKinnon carriage works commenced last week and will be hurled forward as rapidly as possible. They hope to occupy the new shop with the beginning of the new year.

Isaac W. Webb was up from St. Paul this week. When he was a resident of Polk county at Beltramie, we used to expect him regularly at each term of court—and were never disappointed.

The tramp population is thinning out somewhat but a few uneasy spirits still linger about the city seeking whom they may devour. Like the poor, this specimen of the genus homo we have always with us.

Crookston Lodge No. 141 A. F. and A. M. had a bit of a banquet after an interesting meeting on Monday night. Over 100 sat down to the well-filled tables. Brothers Wheeler and Dawley are bragging about that coffee—they built it themselves.

Hubert Plowman starts this week for Marshalltown, Iowa, where he will superintend putting in a telephone system. Mr. Plowman has made many warm friends while here and it is hoped that he will return later on to make his home here.

E. J. Highworden was sentenced on Monday in Justice McLean's court to pay a fine of $50 or take 60 days in jail for obtaining money under false pretenses. He was compelled by circumstances over which he has no control to take the latter horn of the dilemma.

If the foraging committee should happen to miss you and you have a stray chicken or turkey or anything that would lend attractiveness to the commissary department next Wednesday don't be bashful about offering it. Call on John McLean or Louis Fontaine who will relieve you of any such burden on your mind.

The city council met on Tuesday evening. The most important business transacted was in the question of grading Houston avenue. A large number of residents appeared and made so vigorous protest against the proposed "improvement (?)" that the whole matter was referred back to the aldermen from the fourth ward and it is probable that the project will be abandoned. President Kirsch stated that he would select delegates to the immigration convention in St. Paul next week and announce the names as soon as he had decided. The mayor and E. D. Childs will be two of them.

Geo. W. Mason, who has been at Thief River Falls in the interests of a lumber company was in the city last week and said that the work of erecting a sawmill having a capacity for sawing 100,000 feet per day would commence at once and the mill made ready to commence sawing at the opening of the next season's work.

The policemen now appear in fine fur overcoats that were bought by the city of Fontaine & Anglim in competition with other dealers in this city. Each dealer furnished a sample of his goods and the party who made the selection did not know where any sample was from until after the decision was made.

Tom Wallace had a raffle one night last week and Dan McKinnon won the horse and now Dan don't know whether to start a livery stable or shoot the horse and sell the pelt to get back his investment. Its a horse on Dan, all right, as he can't eat him and has no other use for a horse in a restaurant.

A Grand Concert will be given by home talent at the M. E. church, Friday evening, Nov. 22nd. This will be the musical event of the season and you cannot afford to miss it. Already the advance sale of tickets guarantees a full house. Tickets twenty five cents at Tom Morris'. Children ten cents.

W. J. Murphy, managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune made this office a fraternal call one day last week while up on business connected with the electric light plant. The company expects to get the new system in perfect working order very soon now. The tests so far made are perfectly satisfactory both to the company and its patrons.

It is hoped that every old soldier in the county, whether a Grand Army man or not, will attend the dedication of the new hall on Wednesday and meet the department officers. We especially would like to see all who are not members of the G. A. R. and take their applications for membership. Let every old soldier come and have one good time in reviewing old-time memories.

Benj. A. Strawbridge returned on Monday morning from a trip to Baltimore to see his parents and reports having had a royal good time. Seys the recent campaign in Maryland was red hot and he thinks that if he had not been there Gorman might have pulled through all right—but he dassent "pull" while he saw that Ben was on deck. Ben looks as rosy and fresh as a Maryland peach, which indicates that his trip did do him much good.

Lawyer Watts introduces a new candidate for the bar into this world of law-suits and happiness. The young counsellor-at-law will be ready to vote the Republican ticket in just 21 years from last Thursday morning. It is said that the first words he said when he saw Watts' face for the first time were: "How did the wheat crop pan out this year, pa?" The youngster gives evidence of becoming a good farmer in that he is already an expert at milking.

Since our write-up of the excercises for next Wednesday which appears on the front page, the program of exercises for the evening has been partially arranged and handed to us for publication. It is as follows:

PROGRAM FOR EVENING EXERCISES.

Song, ...AMERICA.......Everybody.

Prayer .... By———

Address of Welcome,......By the Post Commander.

Music, Quartette,............By Mrs. T. E. Adams, Mrs. Van Arnam, Mrs. Slocum and Mrs. Bliss.

Recitation.......“GRAND ARMY BOYS,” By Ruth Spendley.

Flag Presentation,............By Mrs. Phœbe J. Streeter, President of the W. R. C.

Solo,..........................By Miss Gertrude Gleason.

Recitation, “PLEDGE TO THE DEAD,” By Miss Margaret Arnold.

Music, Quartette ....By Mrs. T. E. Adams, Mrs. Van Arnam, Mrs. Mrs. Slocum and Mrs. Bliss.

Speech, ...By Past Department Commander S. R. Van Saut.

Speech,...........................By Department Commander, Judge Eli Torrance.

Speech,.......................... By Ass't Adj't Gen. J. K. Mertz.

Supper from 6 till 11 p. m.

If the weather permits there will be a parade at two o'clock in the afternoon.

THEY KNEW ALL THE SECRETS.

Officials of the Great Northern Were Posted on A. R. U. Movements.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 9.—There appears no longer to be any doubt that the strike on the Great Northern is a thing, not that is over, but that will not materialize. There is no evidence wanting to show the truth of this statement, and the most natural explanation is that even if the members of the A. R. U. have at any time thought it possible to secure a vote to strike from a majority of their lodges, the prompt decisive action of the Great Northern management forestalled such a possibility by making the first move. In the general offices of the Great Northern road advices have been received for some time back of the every action taken by every lodge along the entire system.

Warren's Significant Reply.

"It is the other man who is having the trouble now," replied General Manager Warren of the Great Northern road, when asked if his strike troubles were over.

The reply is significant, in view of all the circumstances. Several hundred men have been brought to this city within the past few days and squads are arriving on almost every incoming train from the East. They are being sent out along the line of the road and are being given the places of the old employes. They come from various places, and have responded to advertisements in the papers of New York, Chicago and elsewhere for experienced trainmen to work on the Great Northern road.

Many of the Men Sent Out.

Over 100 men arrived in the city during the day, some of whom were sent out along the line in addition to over 100 the day before.

An employe of the road was asked where he supposed all the new men are to be placed?

"That is easy," said he.

"But there are several hundred of them, and they are still coming in large numbers. You don't expect there are places for all of them?"

Places Will Be Made for Them.

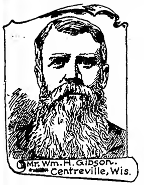
"Can't you see a barn door?" retorted the employe, with some impatience. "Room will be made for them. I have no doubt that there will be wholesale discharges of A. R. U. men, whether they have shown their hand or not. A man belonging to the union is not safe in his position, whether he refused to work or not. I think the Great Northern has determined to end the union on its line. It may be possible that the road incited the present trouble for the very purpose of having an excuse to rid it of the A. R. U. plague.

None Will be Taken Back.

A prominent official of the road said: "That telegram that was sent out from Devils Lake to the effect that word had been sent to the men to return to work, emanated from the men, and not from the officials of the road. You can state—and make it as strong as you like—that no striker will be taken back, now, next summer or at any time. No man that refused to work or failed to report for duty will ever work for this road again. The notice that was posted on the bulletin boards several days ago will be rigidly adhered to, it being to the effect that no striker or sympathizer can remain in the employ of the company."

Declared the Strike Off.

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., Nov. 12.—At a meeting during the afternoon the railroad employes and ex-employes passed a resolution declaring the strike off.



Mr. Wm. H. Gibson. Centreville, Wis.

Renewed in Strength

After the Grip—Liver Troubles, Acute Rheumatism

"For a long time I was suffering from the grip, which terminated with a severe attack of congestion of the liver. I also had rheumatism, being so lame as to be unable to do any hard work, and could only walk short distances. My attention was called to Hood's Sarsaparilla by the druggists and after taking some seven or eight bottles I found myself quite renewed in strength, my rheumatism was gone entirely and I have never had serious trouble with my liver since. My physician also advised the continuance of Hood's Sarsaparilla." WILLIAM H. GIBSON, Centreville, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

His Way.

Personal abuse seems always to have been the accompaniment of public life, and those who are "old stagers," or who are endowed with invincible good humor, are able to receive it serenely.

O'Connell, the Irish patriot, was called the "Big Beggarman" when he was loving tribute from "the finest pisantry in the world," to bring about what he considered their lasting benefit. Yet with O'Connell abuse was a question of give and take. Prodigal of it himself, he could resent it. It was he who called the Duke of Wellington a "stunted corporal," and in the house of commons described Lord Alvanley as "a creature half idiot, half maniac" and "a bloated buffoon."

The person vexed by such billingsgate should possess the philosophy of Paul Louis Courier, who, when similarly assailed by a French professor, quietly remarked:

"I fancy he must be vexed. He calls me jacobin, rebel, plagiarist, thief, poisoner, forger, leper, madman, impostor, calumniator, libeler, a horrible, filthy grimacing rag picker. I gather what he wants to say. He means that he and I are not of the same opinion, and this is his only way of putting it."
—Youth's Companion.

STRAYED.

From my pasture at Stephen, on Oct. 28th, four bronchos, described as follows, to-wit: One bay mare, one gray mare, one gray gelding and one black gelding with white face, all three and four-year-olds and all branded with a spear-head on left hip. When last seen they were a few miles southeast of Argyle.

[30-32] GEO. H. ROBERTS.

Scenery at the Rangeley Lakes.

The wildest scenery of the Rangeley lakes is undoubtedly that seen at Lake Mooselookmeguntic. Particularly where the water has risen above the original shore, leaving the stumps of trees standing as mournful sentinels, it appears savage. It is, in fact, so, for with the exception of shore strips, the woods, which crowd to the very limit of the water, are primeval. They are far wilder than the forests of the Adirondacks, for there are very few places in the latter where there are not good trails for woodsmen and hunter, while around the Rangeleys, and especially Mooselookmeguntic, there are miles upon miles of woods which can be penetrated only by using the ax. Not even a woodman's trail crosses them, and their interior is as unknown to the guides as to the visitors. They have not changed in the slightest degree since the days when the Indians were in possession, and white men were unknown.

Many of the mountains to be seen from Mooselookmeguntic are also unexplored. The portions in which trails of any kind have been made are very insignificant as compared with the rest. On some days the highest peaks of the White mountains are visible from the Rangeleys, and these add to the grandeur of the scene. On cloudy days, when the wind is blowing, the waters of the lakes look very much like those of the sea, and a very pronounced surf, all flecked with foam, beats upon the shore. On such days even the venturesome do not go out in rowboats, and the somber coloring of woods and water makes the scene weird as well as savage.—New York Sun.

Rheumatism Runs Riot

When there is lactic acid in the blood. Liniments and lotions will be of no permanent benefit. A cure can be accomplished only by naturalizing this acid and for this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye.

Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and effectively, on the liver and bowels. 25c.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb.

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jewele.

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER, CASHIER.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side
CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON
ONE-PRICE
CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

☞ NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.
The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg, Chicago.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.
No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.
On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop
Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED.

If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.
Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.
Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.
ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.
ALL WORK WARRANTED.
ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,
Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by
Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES
Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO.	SPECIFIC FOR
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5	Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic.....
6	Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.........
8	Neuralgia Toothache, Faceache.....
9	Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10	Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.......
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness......
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15	Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17	Piles, Blind or Bleeding...............
18	Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20	Whooping Cough,....................
21	Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22	Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23	Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24	General Debility, Physical Weakness
25	Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26	Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27	Kidney Diseases,....................
28	Nervous Debility..................
29	Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30	Urinary Weakness,................
31	Painful Periods..................
32	Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33	Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34	Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35	Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."
For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

When the Battalion Charges.

The battalion has been on its feet since daybreak. There was a scanty breakfast, and while the men ate it in the distance are sounds of the coming battle. The files on the march are closed up, every sense is alive, dust everywhere, then smoke, the galloping of horses, hoarse shouts, orders and counter orders. The battle grows apace, men here and there go down, but the eight companies are there; the captains march close by the men. Sometimes through the smoke they catch a glimpse of the colonel leading on in front. Each man knows his right hand man. No one looks behind him. Somewhere quite close is Tom or Dick or Harry, the good men they have chosen as the best, and as long as they go on the rest will follow.

So the din increases, the earth is reeling underfoot, shells burst beside them with a horrid shriek and fling out quick death. Can anything alive come out of this hideous turmoil? Still they press on. A captain picks up the rifle of a man who has fallen and speaks a cheery word—all can't be lost when an old friend can make a joke. Another instant, and a cool voice they've heard before rings out an order. It is easy to obey what they have learned to obey for years. A clash of bayonets as they fix them in smart time together, a pause, a gasp for breath. "Charge!" And the long, thin line cleaves through the smoke and din and is out upon the other side and in the sunshine once again, cheering its lungs away. The battle and dear life are won.—Blackwood's Magazine.

From Oral to Written Story.

Herbert Spencer in The Contemporary Review works up that long past period whence by transition there came biographers, historians, poets and novelists. The remote ancestors of Macaulay, Tennyson, Hawthorne, Prescott, the primitive orators, poets or musicians, sat around the campfire after the chase or the fight was over, and they chatted. There was not any introspection nor retrospection, as we use the latter term today. It was present human action which interested them. The hunter told of the herd fight he had had with toothed bear or the elephant; another, a warrior, told how he had brained his foe with his stone ax or mace, and unquestionably there were much bragging and boasting. This was the first state. Then came reference to the deeds of a man's father or his great-grandfather, and the group around the fire heard something like biography. Man naturally takes an easy subject to talk about, and the audience understands it. These are matters comprehensible by the lowest intelligence. It was the stories of adventures which excited and pleased listeners, just as we like Stevenson today. Unquestionably the old women spun their yarns. Then came in time the further development, and the priest poets had their say.

First Burning of Heresy In England.

It is quite certain that there were several cases of burning for heresy in England before 1401. This question is discussed in the preface of Arnold's edition of Wyclif's "Works," and (if I remember rightly, for I have no present means of reference) in the preface to my edition of the third text (C text) of "Piers the Plowman." William Sautre was the first person burned for heresy under the new act passed in the beginning of the reign of Henry IV. All that this act did was to facilitate the process.

Before it was passed the ecclesiastics who condemned the heretics were powerless to carry out the sentence themselves. They had to hand over the criminal to the secular arm. The new act did away with this necessity, and so rendered the criminal's fate the more swift and certain. And that was all the difference; hence the popular notion that no one was burned before 1401 is a mere delusion.—Notes and Queries.

Queen Victoria's Taste In Plays.

I suspect that the queen would be a much more frequent patron of the drama were it not that so few plays produced in recent years have been suitable for presentation at court. To obtain the entree, a play has to have as clean a record as a debutante, and it must be admitted that plays have very rarely come up to that description of late. Of plays with a purpose, the queen has a wholesome horror. Her majesty has almost as great an objection to make the acquaintance of women with a past on the stage as in real life. The kind of play most to her majesty's liking is a broad comedy, with a good dah of sentiment in it. All the Guelphs have a big vein of sentiment in their composition, and if anything Queen Victoria has more than her proper share.—London Figaro.

Schlegel's Conceit.

"Here is a pleasant trait of amour propre applied me by Schlegel. One day he read me a letter he had addressed to one of his friends Shortly afterward I happened to see that the friend had died. I spoke of it to Schlegel, who replied, 'Yes, he is dead; but, however, he had time to receive my letter before dying.' As if, comments Constant, the destination of the friend had been above all to read Schlegel's letter, and that, having read the letter, he might depart in peace."—Letters of Benjamin Constant.

An Interruption.

I had daily service also at St. George's, but when I began it at St. Philip's (where I now am), not a soul attended, and once my colleague was stopped by a stranger, who came in for private meditation, and said it interrupted him.—"Fifty Years," by Rev. H. Jones.

Followed Orders.

Caller—Is your mistress in?

Maid—Did you see her at the window as you came up the walk?

Caller—No.

Maid—Well, she said if you hadn't seen her to say that she was out.—Pick Me Up.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

[illegible] It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

The Singing Children of Horning.

A row of children suddenly filled the river front. They seemed to come forth, as if at a preconcerted signal, through the low doorways and over the narrow doorsteps of the Horning cottages. Without further delay they burst into a song. They were in excellent practice, for the words of the song were made quite clear:

Ho, John Barleycorn!
Ho, John Barleycorn!
All day long I raise my song
To old John Barleycorn!

When the song was done, some 24 childish eyes were fixed on the strangers in the boat.

"They always sings—Hornin's famed for that. Two hundred years, they say, the children o' Hornin have sung to the passin boats. But it's the yachts that they makes their money off of," was Mills' unblushing introduction of the waiting choir. Something of the youth and freshness of those clear, high voices that only a moment ago had mingled so deliciously with the pinks and the rose scents in the homely, old fashioned gardens had gone. The children, after pocketing their pennies, had turned unnaturally incurious backs on us and the river. They had learned already apparently to take a strictly professional view of the world as it passed.—"A Cruise on the Norfolk Broads," by Anna Bowman Dodd, in Century.

The Ingenious King.

Apropos of Queen Margherita's devotion to her husband, a little anecdote is told which I believe to be perfectly true. The locks of King Humbert, be it told, were formerly as black as a raven's wing, and the pride of his charming consort's heart. Almost suddenly these locks turned white, and the queen, like the fond wife she is, quite fretted over the fact. A certain little delicacy of feeling prevented her from referring to the matter with her husband. So, without saying a word, she purchased a bottle of black hair dye, and one morning placed it on the king's dressing table.

The day wore on and King Humbert appeared at luncheon as usual with his own white hair, greatly to the queen's secret disappointment. Now, the queen owned a pet in a little dog, white as snow, and the dog, as the afternoon wore on, failed to come, as usual, to his mistress' side. What was her surprise when the door opened and he bounded in with a coat as black as ink. The king followed, smiling broadly. "You see," he said, "the use to which I have put the hair dye!" From that day Queen Margherita resigned herself to the fact that her lord preferred to leave his locks to nature's own discretion.—Woman at Home.

A Use For the Shark.

Probably few people who have read the countless stories of the savage shark, the "bandit of the seas," as he is called, know that he is a very useful creature for man. The liver is found to contain an oil of a beautiful color, which never becomes turbid and possesses medicinal qualities of a very valuable character. The skin, after being dried, takes the polish and hardness of mother of pearl, and on being marbled bears a resemblance to fossil coral, so that it is employed by jewelers for the manufacture of fancy objects, by binders for making shagreen and by cabinet makers for polishing wood. The fins, independent of use by some as an article of food, are superior for conversion into fish glue, competing in this line with the well known sturgeon glue prepared in Russia, and are used for clarifying beer, wine and other liquors, also for the preparation of English taffetas and as reagents in chemistry, etc. The flesh, too, despite its oily taste, is in some places eaten as food, and, along with the bones, is converted into a fertilizer.—Revue Scientifique.

A Narrow Shave.

"I was making for a place where the parapet had been worn down by men running over it in order to avoid the exertion of mounting up even four feet, when a young soldier passed me on my left side, and doubtless not noticing I was wounded knocked my arm heavily, saying, 'Move on, sir, please.' As he passed over the parapet with his rifle at the trail, I caught it by the small of the butt to pull myself up. He turned round angrily, asking, 'What are you doing?' and while his face was bent on mine, a round shot, passing my ear, struck him full between the shoulders, and I stepped over his body, so exhausted as to be strangely indifferent to the preservation of my own life, saved by the soldier having jostled me out of my turn at the gap."—"The Crimea In 1854," by Sir E. Wood.

Human Sympathy.

"What has become of Miss Blank, who was always such a favorite in your set?"

"Her father failed some weeks ago, and all they had was sold by auction."

"Poor thing!"

"And now they have to live in a little rented house down town."

"What a change. How she must grieve!"

"Yes; she is so much changed that even her best friends would not recognize her. I met her on the street today and did not know her at all, poor thing!"—New York Journal.

Surely Not.

Customer—Can't you wait upon me? I've been here for nearly an hour. Two pounds of liver, please.

Butcher—Sorry, but there're three or four ahead of you. Surely you don't want your liver out of order?—San Francisco Chronicle.

The bishop of Carlisle boasts that he "can sew a button on better than any woman." The late bishop of Worcester learned to knit, so as to be able to take up his wife's dropped stitches when she grew old.

In France it is believed that when a white pigeon settles upon a chimney the incident betokens speedy death for some inmate of the house.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS
THROUGH CARS
TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—

HELENA.	PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.	ELEGANT DINING CARS
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,	TOURIST SLEEPING CARS
PORTLAND

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston	For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior,	7:54 p.m.
Daily	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg,	8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or
CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT
The Choicest Cuts
At Lowest Rates?
Try George Vine's New
MEAT MARKET.
Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.
Vine Block—Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store. Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business
Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.
Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON	President
L. ELLINGTON	Vice President
J. W. WHEELER	Cashier
A. P. HENSON	Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.
M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.
A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK-BOOK FREE!

COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet [illegible]. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE
In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.
Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a [illegible], etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture [illegible] every package of Lion Coffee.
WOOLSON SPICE CO. [illegible] TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer !!!

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-Class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞ This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at .... 7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at .... 7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul Minneapolis Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo, Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena, Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte, Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane, Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle, Kalispell, Bonners Ferry, Tacoma, Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett, Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria, Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humbolt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,

or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.

Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.

One . a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

Suspicious Praise.

"A good wife is heaven's greatest gift to man and the rarest gem the earth holds," remarked Mr. Jarphly the other morning.

He continued:

"She is his joy, his inspiration and his very soul."

He seemed to be thoroughly in sympathy with his subject. He added:

"Through her he learns to reach the pure and the true, and her loving hands lead him softly over the rough places?"

That he had not yet exhausted himself was evident, for he began again:

"She is"—

"Jeremiah," said Mrs. Jarphly solemnly. "Jeremiah, what mischief have you been up to now?"—Philadelphia Item.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
·DR·
PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

HIS TROUBLES GROW.

Present Critical State of Affairs is Disturbing the Turkish Ruler.

Outbreak in Arabia Now Adds to the Seriousness of the Situation.

Ambassadors of the Powers Renew Demands Previously Made.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that the sultan is alarmed because of the present critical state of affairs. From Arabia, the most vulnerable point of the Turkish empire, news has arrived of a conflict between the Turkish troops and the Arabs near Sonha, in which 80 persons were killed. Despite the reports of trouble in the Arabian provinces, the last detachment of troops sent to Arabia was detained five days at Port Said for lack of money to pay canal dues.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that the reports have been received there of the new disturbances at Mush. The British embassy at Constantinople is in possession of these reports, but so far no details have been received.

The Government Responsible.

The Times publishes a letter from Constantinople explaining the situation throughout the Turkish empire. The writer says that, owing to the rigid censorship exercised by Turkish officials, the lower class among the Turks are quite ignorant. They believe that the sultan inaugurated the policy of oppression, but to some extent it is stated that the Armenians believe the contrary. The government officials, according to this letter, are directly responsible for disseminating the idea that it is the duty of the people to kill and plunder the Armenians. There is no reasonable hope that any improvement will take place through a change of public opinion. Turks and Christians alike seem doomed to endure such scenes of unspeakable suffering as marked the Roman empire.

Powers Renew Their Demand.

As a result of the exchange of numerous telegrams between the representatives of the powers and their respective governments, an important meeting of the ambassadors was held here and the situation was thoroughly discussed. It was decided to send fresh representations to the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, renewing in much stronger language the demand of Nov. 5, and insisting on being informed without further delay as to what measures the porte contemplated taking in order to restore order in Armenia.

English Mission Near Jerusalem Attacked.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 13.—The English mission near Jerusalem has been attacked by a riotous mob. The missionaries escaped, but some of the servants of the mission were killed.

UNWORTHY A SPORTSMAN.

Dunraven's Latest Utterances Condemned by English Newspapers.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The St. James Gazette says it is not surprising that Lord Dunraven's pamphlet has raised a storm of indignation in America, adding: "His charge of foul play is entirely gratuitous. It is totally unworthy of any good sportsman to make such a charge now, when no inquiry is possible, and it is exceedingly discreditable.

"The officials of the New York Yacht club have behaved throughout like gentlemen and sportsmen. If the accusations are untrue, and we decline to credit them without further proof, this manner of making them will not only stop all cup contests, but will make it very difficult for any yachtsman with a particle of self respect to race against accuser in the future."

May Expel Lord Dunraven.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—There is much talk among members of the New York Yacht club of expelling Lord Dunraven from the club, of which he is an honorary member, for his course in imputing knowledge of fraud to Messrs. Iselin and Smith in the matter of the official measurement of the yacht Defender prior to the recent races for the America's cup.

THE VENEZUELA BOUNDARY.

Minister Andrade Will Publish Exhaustive Information.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Minister Andrade is about to publish a 900-page pamphlet giving exhaustive information on the British-Venezuelan boundary question, in which the United States has taken a hand. The pamphlet is intended for use in the United States and will make its appearance about the end of the present month, a day or two before congress meets. The book is now in press at Atlanta, Ga., where the contract for printing was awarded. It will contain the complete official correspondence on the subject, with all the historical maps, and complete data from the inception of the controversy.

Called For Fresh Re-enforcements.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—The Vladivostock correspondent of the Novoe Vremya telegraphs that the Japanese on the island of Formosa have established their headquarters at Tai Wan, and have called for fresh re-enforcements. From the fact that the natives are continuing their resistance to the occupation of that island by the troops of Japan.

Severe Storm in Great Britain.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A severe storm is raging over Scotland, the northern part of England and Ireland. Telegraphic communication and railroad traffic are seriously interfered with.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor .... David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor .... Frank A. Da
Secretary of State .... F. P. Brown
Attorney General .... H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist. .. Frank M. Eddy

Legislative.

Senator 51st Sen. dist .... P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist ... John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice .... Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court .... Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist .... Frank Ives
Clerk of Court .... John Vig

County.

Auditor .... John Gleason
Treasurer .... J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds .... A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney .... L. E. Gossman
Sheriff .... Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate .... C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools .... O. McCrillis
Surveyor .... O. L. Hamery
Coroner .... John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District .... John E. Oppegaard
Second District .... Anton Lindem
Third District .... M. E. Kirsch
urth District .... Henry Norland
ifth District .... A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor .... John McKinnon
Clerk .... W. A. Lanctot
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer .... Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller .... August Georg
Assessor .... C. H. Mix
City Attorney .... Martin O'Brien
City Engineer .... George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables .... A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom
Chief of Police .... Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large .... C. E. Sawyer
First Ward .... A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Buhn
Second " .... J. E. Morrissey, R. C. Davis
Third " .... Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth " .... N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth " .... A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Pelmer	Angus
Black River	P A Eckstrom	Wylie
Bray	C C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland		....
Crookston	L. C. Couvrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanctot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Nerl A Skeie	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambert	Warren
Fanny	J O McWaters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robert Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondron	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Ahbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Ranna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syoverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Neilsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	G H Frosts	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Gibean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Matteson	Ovetia
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Gilmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	H D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Merager	E G Forks
Numedal	Hesmer E Albue	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marin	Melvin
Parnell	S W Bleau	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Haukom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildaig Baril	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rocksburg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
Roseaud	John E Juverud	Fosston
Russia	....	....
	Oscar Wiek	GE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cernousek	Tabor
Terrebonne	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Camps	Dugdale
ypsTud	....	....
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	O J Johnson	St. Hilaire
R FaT	Lars Backe	T R Falls

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

ED. ROBERTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Intererest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

DETROIT'S DISASTER

SEVENTEEN BODIES TAKEN FROM THE JOURNAL BUILDING.

Score of Others Injured and as Many More Reported Missing—Explosion of Boilers Is Said to Have Caused the Accident.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—A gaping rent nearly 40 feet wide from top to bottom of a 5-story business block, 17 dead bodies recovered, a score of persons injured, and more than that number missing, with a certainty that many more dead bodies are beneath the ruins—such are the results of the explosion which startled the city and totally wrecked about a third of the building at the corner of Larned and Shelby streets occupied by the Detroit Evening Journal and several other tenants.

At 9 a. m. the whole neighborhood was terrified by a fearful shock, caused by the exploding of the boilers in the basement of The Journal building. At the same instant the five floors and roof of that section of the building collapsed and fell to the basement, carrying with it at least 50 persons who had not the Slightest Warning of Their Danger.

The cloud of dust which blinded the eyes of the amazed spectators of the horror was quickly succeeded by smoke from the fires which started in the ruins. The work of rescue has been rushed to the utmost ever since, but progress has necessarily been very slow. The debris and brick are dumped into an almost solid mass upon which quantities of water have been poured and into which comparatively little headway has been made.

In addition to the bodies recovered nearly a score of persons have been taken from the ruins, seriously injured.

Thirty Persons Still Missing.

Some 30 tenants and employes in the building are still missing and there can be no doubt that most of these are lying dead under the debris.

The wrecked portion of the building was separated from the rest of the structure by a fire wall. The first floor of that section was occupied by the John Davis company, dealers in druggists' specialties, and by The Journal mailing department. The second, third and fourth floors were occupied by the Davis company, W. W. Dunlap & Co., machinists, and the Hillier bookbindery. The editorial rooms of The Journal are on the fourth floor, but situated beyond the fire wall, and the staff escaped injury.

The Journal stereotyping room on the fifth floor was directly in the path of the explosion and went down in the wreck. A few had miraculous escapes and came staggering from the ruins after the awful shock, scarcely knowing what had befallen them.

Carelessness Caused It.

Carelessness is undoubtedly the cause of the disaster, but where the responsibility rests is as yet problematical.

The property loss will be entire for the owners of the building and tenants. It is not believed that the ordinary insurance policies cover the loss by explosion. The loss on the ruined part of the building is about $20,000. The Evening Journal loses about $10,000 by the destruction of its machinery, etc. The total loss on the other tenants is placed at something over $30,000.

SEVERAL ARE STILL MISSING.

Work in the Ruins of Detroit's Collapsed Building Continues.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 9.—The walls adjoining the wrecked portion of The Journal building have been braced, and the work of digging in the ruins progresses rapidly, and with a greater degree of safety. Two more bodies have been taken out. They were those of Lizzie Weidbusch, employed in Hiller's book bindery, and Charles Lind, aged 20, also an employe of the bindery. Several persons are still missing, but it is expected that all will be recovered before night. A mass meeting has been called to take steps for the relief of the families of the dead.

Several popular subscriptions have also been started and a generous response is being made.

The engineer of the building has been arrested.

FOREIGNERS ARE IN DANGER.

European Powers Will Employe Energetic Measures to Defend Them.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Vienna correspondent of The Telegraph says that news from Constantinople indicates that even the foreigners are in danger and that the Central European powers have decided to employe energetic measures to defend the lives and the property of their subjects:

The Constantinople correspondent of The Times says: The diplomatic corps consider the lives of the Christians endangered throughout all the Asiatic provinces, but it is not believed that they are in any especial danger at Constantinople, because the members of the palace clique are not likely to initiate any anti-Christian movements, and the members of the Mahommedan constitutional party advocate the adoption of a policy giving Christians a share in the government. The natural tendency in consequence is the coalition of the Mahommedan constitutional party with the Armenians, and in fact there are signs indicating that such a coalition would be likely to occur under circumstances in any degree favorable.

English Mission Near Jerusalem Attacked.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 12.—The English mission near Jerusalem has been attacked by a riotous mob. The missionaries escaped, but some of the servants of the mission were killed.

Judge Thurman Much Better.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11.—Allan W. Thurman says of ex-Senator Thurman's illness: "Father is very much better. It is perfectly astonishing to see his improvement. If he does not have a relapse, I would not be surprised to see him get up."

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Think Cuba Should Be Free.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The following resolution was passed Sunday at a patriotic mass meeting in People's Temple: "Resolved, That we, as citizens of Boston and New England, unite in asking President Grover Cleveland to do for Cuba all things in his power by granting belligerent rights. It is our faith that Cuba should be free."

Honored Joseph Jefferson.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Nearly all of the prominent actors and theatrical managers in New York were included in the company of 800 which assembled at the Garden Theater during the afternoon to present to Joseph Jefferson a massive silver cup, the gift of more than 1,000 members of the dramatic profession.

Probert Again Arrested.

WASHBURN, Wis., Nov. 10.—Banker A. C. Probert was arrested during the morning—a second time within two weeks—this time on a charge of embezzlement. Mr. Probert owes depositors nearly $150,000, and the state bank examiner a few days ago made a report showing that the cash resources of his three institutions aggregated only $550.

WAS BOARDED BY SPANIARDS.

The American Brig Harriet G Searched in Cuban Waters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The American brig Harriet G arrived at Quarantine from Nuevitas, Cuba. The Harriet G is owned by Mosle Bros. of this city, and trades regularly between New York and Nuevitas. She sailed from this port on Aug. 29 last, and reached Nuevitas on Sept. 19, where she discharged her cargo. On Oct. 3 a Spanish officer, with several soldiers, boarded the brig and made a through search for a large quantity of arms which the Spanish officers had been informed were on board the vessel. The brig was ransacked from stem to stern, but no arms were found.

The Spanish officers went so far as to demand that Captain Miller remove from below all his anchor chains. This the captain refused to do and the officers were reluctantly forced to leave the vessel. The United States consul was on board at the time, but could do nothing.

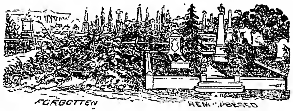
A tablespoonful of powdered alum sprinkled in a barrel of water will precipitate all impurities to the bottom.

IVORY SOAP
IVORY
99 44/100 % PURE
DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
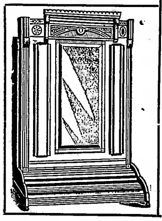
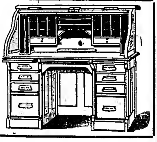
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
—o—
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY NOVEMBER 21, 1895. NO 32.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.





CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

Folding Beds, Oak Polished, 5 ft. - - $30.00
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00

Best All-Wool Carpet Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper 5c. to 35c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES $2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:
We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

THE DUNRAVEN CHARGES.

New York Yacht Club Appoints a Committee to Investigate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The New York Yacht club meeting, held to take action concerning the charges made by Lord Dunraven, was crowded with interest. A vigorous refutation of the Englishman's statements, written by Mr. C. Oliver Iselin, head of the Defender syndicate, was read; also a letter from H. Maitland Kersey, conveying an offer from Lord Dunraven to come to this country for an investigation, which was a complete surprise. Charge of the whole matter was delegated to a committee of three gentlemen—J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier. William C Whitney, ex-secretary of the navy and George L. Rives.

PREVIOUS RECORDS BROKEN

Ore Shipments the Past Year Something Phenomenal.

MILWAUKEE, Nov 20.—More iron ore has been shipped during the present year from the ranges in the Lake Superior district, including the Gogebic Bessemer, Menominee, Marquette, Mesaba and Vermillion, than during any other entire year in the history of ore mining in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. The shipments up to Nov 1, this year, amounted to 0,346,741 tons, and before the close of navigation, which will not be until early in December, the total shipments will, it is said, reach the 10,000,000 point.

PECULIAR ENTERTAINMENT.

Row in an Iowa Theater in Which Ripe Fruit Was Prominent.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 20.—The four Cherry sisters are unsophisticated country girls who run a farm near this city, and who in the past four years have gained much notoriety by reason of the unique entertainments which they give. They attempted to give one of these entertainments in the Daniels Opera House at Marion, but it was brought to a sensational close in less than half an hour, amidst the most intense excitement. Scores of fellows were in the audience with baskets and bags of decayed fruit, and when the sisters appeared on the stage they were made the target of these fellows, who soon drove them back behind the wings.

When their manager appeared on the stage and sought to put a stop to this, he was so roughly handled that he was rendered unconscious.

The audience was then dismissed, the officers present making no attempt to put a stop to the disgraceful proceedings. It is feared the manager's injuries may result seriously. Suits for damages will probably be instituted against the city of Marion and the manager of the opera house.

Indicted on Four Counts.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., Nov. 20.—O. B. Turrell, cashier of the insolvent Citizens' bank, was arraigned in court at noon on four indictments, three of which charged him with receiving deposits after the bank was insolvent, and the fourth with grand larceny in the first degree for having taken $14,550 of money belonging to the bank on Nov. 1, 1894.

Farmers Favor Hines' Railroad.

ARGYLE, Minn., Nov. 20.—Mr. Hines, of Hines railroad fame, is completing arrangements for putting in a large crew of men to cut ties for his road this winter. It looks now as if his road was a go. Nearly all the right of way and grading has been promised this road through this (Marshall) county. The farmers all favor it.

PASSED OFF PEACEFULLY.

Nez Perces Indian Reservation Thrown Open to Settlement.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 20.—The Nez Perces Indian reservation in Idaho was opened at noon. There was no firing of guns or any other signals given. No excitement or disturbance of a serious character have been reported. Probably not over 8,000 locations will be made this fall. There was no lining up for a grand rush, but the people at noon were all over the reservation, each on his chosen quarter section. A large number of people were at the land office during the morning, but they were informed that they must locate before they could file claims.

CLAIMED AS SWAMP LAND.

State of Minnesota Wants Part of the Famous "Sec. 30."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The famous "Sec. 30" case in the Duluth land district took a new turn Monday. This section contains the valuable iron lands that have long been in dispute and would have been patented under the last decision of the secretary within a week, had not the state filed a claim for three 40-acre tracts, alleging the land is swamp and passed to the state under the swamp land grant. The commssioner of the general land office will order a hearing to determine the quality of the land.

DESCRIBING AN AMATEUR.

Stringent Legislation Adopted by the Athletic Union.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, which was held at the Astor House during the day, adopted stringent resolutions to govern the relations of amateurs to professionals which are decidedly more radical than any legislation ever considered on the subject and will create a stir in athletic circles. The legislation passed in detail was: That no amateur can race for a purse as a testimonial without becoming ineligible; that no amateur baseball team can play against a professional team or maintain a professional battery; that no football team can have a professional coach play with it; that the maintainence of training tables by clubs should be abolished and that training and traveling expenses should not be allowed; also that an athlete who has no visible means of support is not an amateur.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and its functions, it is important that the blood should be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs brings on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

NOT READY TO ACT

MASSACRES IN ARMENIA CONTINUE WHILE POWERS WAVER.

England Decides That the Time to Interfere Has Not Yet Arrived—Reported Wholesale Killing of Christians in Syria Confirmed.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Sir Phillip Currie, British ambassador to Turkey, who has been in England during the past month in consultation with Lord Salisbury in reference to the troubles between the Turks and Armenians, has started for Constantinople, via Vienna. His journey back to Turkey will be made in as short a time as possible, and he will resume his post at Constantinople without loss of time.

Lord Salisbury, accompanied by his wife, went to visit the queen at Windsor castle Saturday. It is evident that important decisions have been arrived at regarding Eastern affairs, since The Post publishes an article evidently inspired by the foreign office. The article is understood to indicate that the prime minister has decided that the utmost effort must be made to maintain the integrity of the Turkish empire, and therefore efforts must, in the first place, be directed to restoring order in the disturbed district.

Give the Sultan More Time.

Continuing, the article says:

"For the moment all thought of coercing the sultan should be laid aside. He has already given evidence of a desire to introduce reforms. It cannot be doubted that he will defer to the wishes of the powers as soon as circumstances permit him to do so. It is difficult to apportion the blame between the Turks and the Christians. Sir Philip Currie's instructions are such as to justify him in delaying the execution of reforms until the authority by which they are to be carried out has recovered from temporary weakness. At the present moment any naval demonstration in the Turkish waters, or undue pressure on the Turkish government, can only help precipitate a crisis from which Turkey's friends can hope to gain nothing and her enemies everything."

Missionaries Went an Escort.

A Constantinople dispatch to The Daily News says that the Armenian missionaries at Bitlis have wired the English and American representatives asking that the government provide an escort to Van for them and their families.

This correspondent makes the astounding announcement that fully 20,000 Armenians have been killed during the recent massacres.

The Vienna correspondent of The Daily News also announces that the sultan has been so upset by the recent turn which affairs have taken that a nervous fever has set in and that he is now so sick that he only devotes two hours daily to public affairs.

THE SOLDIERS WERE SPECTATORS

Accounts of Massacre of Christians at Alexandretta Confirmed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—Later advices received here from Alexandrette, Northern Syria, confirm the accounts of a massacre of Christians in that town in the presence of 300 Turkish soldiers, who did not render any assistance in the suppression of the disorder. Armenians and Mussulmans accuse each other of burning the villages and of other outrages, which have occurred in Northern Syria.

The sultan has prohibited the entry into Turkey of all papers containing accounts of Lord Salisbury's speech at the lord mayor's dinner at London a week ago.

THEY DEFEATED THE TURKS.

Arabs Drive the Sultan's Soldiers Into a Walled City.

ADEN, Nov. 19.—The Imen of Sana, the capital city of Yemen, Arabia, at the head of 45,000 Arabs, armed with Martini-Henry rifles, has defeated the Turks in three fights. The latter are now confined to Sana, which is a walled city about five and a half miles in circumference.

Olney Receives Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Secretary Olney has received a cablegram from United States Minister Terrell, confirming the Associated Press reports from Constantinople concerning the massacre of 800 persons by the Mussulmans at Harpoot and the destruction of a large amount of American mission property.

San Francisco Sailed for Turkey.

MARSEILLES, France, Nov. 18.—The United States cruiser San Francisco sailed Saturday evening, according to programme, for Turkish waters.

WAS THE AUTHOR OF "AMERICA"

Rev. Dr. Samuel Smith Dies Suddenly in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Rev. Dr. Samuel Francis Smith, the venerable author of the national hymn, "America," and of the missionary song, "The Morning Light is Breaking," died suddenly in the New England railroad station in this city at 4:30 o'clock. With a friend he had started for Readville, where he was to address a meeting. Just after boarding the train Dr. Smith complained of a sharp pain in his heart, and instantly sank to the floor of the car. He was 87 years of age.

THEY DIDN'T GET A CENT.

Great Northern Overland Held Up by Masked Man Near St. Cloud.

ST CLOUD, Minn., Nov. 19.—The overland train on the Great Northern road, which is due to arrive here at 10:20 p. m., was stopped by masked men eight miles east of St. Cloud. The train was crowded with passengers and was running along at the usual rate. The first intimation that anything of the kind was about to be attempted was received by William Carley, the fireman. Carley was starting to shovel in some coal, and as he turned to the coal box a revolver in the hands of a masked man was stuck in his face. The robber ordered him to tell the engineer to stop or he would kill him. The engineer turned and saw the robber and instantly reversed the lever. Just as the train came to a standstill another masked man came up alongside of the engine, and, presenting a rifle, ordered the engineer and fireman to get off and uncouple the engine and baggage car from the rest of the train. The engineer

Did as He Was Ordered, and the engine and single car proceeded in the direction of St. Cloud. When within several miles of the city, however, the engineer was ordered to stop, but before the robbers could make any headway they were frightened away and made good their escape.

When the two robbers left the engine and car the engineer proceeded to St. Cloud, where a posse of men was taken on board and the engine proceeded back to the balance of the train. The passengers were badly frightened by pistol shots, which gave them their first intimation that their train was being held up, but they were not molested. The conductor, C. H. Craveson, and a special detective, who happened to be on board, exchanged shots with the robbers, but nobody was injured. The train was taken to St. Cloud and proceeded on its way west between two and three hours late.

Detectives Leave for the Scene.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 19.—A special train was made up in the yards here and left at an early hour for the scene of the attempted Great Northern robbery with Chief of Detectives John O'Connor and half a dozen of his detectives. The opinion was freely expressed that the work was that of green hands, and there is little doubt that they will be speedily apprehended.

IN AID OF IMMIGRATION.

First Meeting of the Big Convention in Session at the Capitol, St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 19.—The first session of the Northwestern immigration convention was called to order at 10 a. m. by Chairman Theodore Schurmeier of the committee on arrangements and organization. The attendance was about as large as expected, nearly 1,000 delegates being present from that part of the United States in the interest of which the convention is being held. After the convention was called to order the opening prayer was made by Bishop Gilbert. Governor Clough followed with an address of welcome on behalf of the state of Minnesota and Mayor Smith did a like duty for the city of St. Paul. A statement of the origin and purpose of the convention was then made by President Footner of the Commercial club.

Each State Has Its Own Riches.

The fish and fruit of Washington and Oregon, the mines and grazing lands of Montana, Wyoming and Idaho and the farms and factories of Minnesota and the Dakotas speak for themselves and present inducements to the inhabitants of the overcrowded and overworked East, advantages which need only to be seen to be grasped.

It will be the aim of this convention through committees it shall appoint, or through such other agencies as it may create, to present these advantages and exploit the resources of this country in their most attractive form, exaggerating nothing, but simply holding up the picture as it is.

There will be two days of constant and systematic work, after which, no doubt, there will be committee work to perfect and carry out the plans which wisdom and experience will suggest in the convention.

AN HEIR TO RUSSIA'S THRONE.

Daughter Born to Czar Nicholas and Wife.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 16.—The accouchement of the czarina occurred Friday evening. At 9 o'clock a daughter was born. Both mother and child are doing well.

To Retire the Greenbacks.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—It is stated on what is considered good authority that Cleveland will recommend the retirement of the greenbacks in his next message and favor long term bonds at a low rate of interest.

What Next?

Two wrecks have occurred upon the Great Northern road within a short period of time and now a genuine hold-up has been experienced: On Monday night, near St. Cloud, a desperate attempt was made to rob the express car, but after trying in vain for two hours or more the would-be robbers were obliged to give it up as a bad job and skip. Nothing more serious than a three hours' delay resulted.

CLEVELAND HORROR

A SCORE KILLED BY THE DRAW BRIDGE DISASTER.

Drop Was a Hundred Feet and Not a Soul on the Car Escaped—The Motorman Arrested and Held on Charge of Manslaughter.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—The people of this city are appalled by the horror of the terrible accident which occurred Saturday evening on the big Central viaduct. It was the worst accident that had ever happened in this city, and the story of how the motor car loaded with men, women and children had plunged through an open draw, straight down 100 feet into the river, was told over and over again. The first reports of the disaster have been verified in every particular, with the possible exception of the number of victims, which is a trifle smaller than was at first supposed. The work of rescuing the bodies of the victims has gone on steadily and so far 15 have been found, with four persons still reported missing. The identified dead are: James McLaughlin, baseball player; Henry W. Mecklenburg, merchant tailor; Edward Hoffman, conductor; Mrs. John A. Sauerheimer, Miss Bessie Davis, school teacher; Harry W. Foster, Mrs. Minnie C. Brown, Curt Lepehne, Harvey Hoffman, Mrs. Martha Palmer, Marie Mitchen, Augusta Sarinski, Gertie Hoffman, Louis F. Huletz.

The Conductor to Blame.

First reports from the scene of the disaster seemed to place the blame on the conductor. They were that the ill-fated motor car, containing between 20 and 30 people, approached the draw just as a vessel was nearing it, and the bridge attendants had closed the big iron gates and were preparing to swing the draw. As is the rule, the car stopped and the conductor went forward to release the switch in case the way was clear. He must have been blinded by the electric lights, for an eye witness declares that although the gates were closed and the draw was already in motion, the conductor raised the switch handle. The motorman applied the current and the car shot forward and struck the gates with a crash. There was only a moment's pause and then the heavy car ground its way through the wreckage and into the black abyss, amid the screams and frantic struggles of the passengers, who at the first intimation of danger rushed to the rear door. The car struck the water with a great splash and then there was silence. Soon men began to rush shouting about, and police patrol wagons and ambulances were soon flying to the spot in response to telephone calls. In an incredibly short space of time the work of rescue had begun. As the car went over the brink of the abyss the motorman jumped from the vestibuled front. All the other occupants of the car, with the exception of the few who had managed to jump as it toppled over, went down to certain death. The car disappeared from sight as soon as it struck the water and all on board were drowned.

Plunged Over the Brink

August Rogers, the motorman, who has been held as a witness, has been charged with manslaughter. This action was taken by Chief of Police Hoehn after he had investigated the accident.

Seventeenth Body Recovered.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—The body of the 17th and probably the last victim of the motor accident was recovered from the river during the afternoon. It was that of Matthew Callihan, and it was buried in the mud directly where the tracks of the motor had been. The search for bodies has now been abandoned.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From The Courier.]

Work has been commenced on Geo. Snulleburys's livery barn. The building will be the most complete structure of its kind in the Red River Valley.

Walter Wilmot, a resident of this city in 1883, at which time he was engaged in the manufacture of brick on Traill's addition, has been appointed manager of the Minneapolis base ball team.

Miss Jessie Davis, who had charge of the school in Huntsville township, known as the Sproat district, has finished her term and has returned to her home near Angus. Miss Mary Hunt, eldest daughter of Mrs. Julia A. Hunt, has completed her term in Northland township.

John Nicol's absence is still a mystery and his creditors have finally decided to accept the inevitable.

The presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Enright, who were married Wednesday morning were many.

Just four days before M. Graham met with his recent accident he placed upon himself $5,000 accidental insurance, and all the time he was laid up he had to think that he was at home when fortune called at his door.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

STOLE A TABLE.

The Grand Army boys have been straining every nerve to save up enough to build up a nice little home that would be alike creditable to them and the city. They have scrimped and saved and toiled hard early and late all summer and at last they saw the new building standing complete—with a debt of about $150 upon it which they hope to raise at the dedication. Seeing their brave and earnest efforts to help themselves and benefit the city the large majority of our citizens have encouraged their efforts in every way possible, giving as freely of their means as possible and cheerfully, putting up their dollar for a ball ticket, but—as we take a genuine pride in the good name of our city we are ashamed to say that it apparently harbors one of the lowest specimens of humanity that the Good Father ever put breath of life into and allowed to draw it to curse himself and all with whom the despicable specimen comes in contact with. Just think of any human being so utterly devoid of patriotism as to be capable of STEALING from the boys who once risked THEIR LIVES to save this country! One would hardly think it but that is just what some poor miserable blot on the name of manhood did do on Sunday night—stole a table—a pine table that the boys had built to fill this disreputable skunk up on—probably. For a curiosity we would like to see that specimen; would like to know his name so that we could give it to our readers. It will be well for whoever did this mean act if he can succeed in hiding his meanness from the public. Such a being, if he stole the table to eat off from has made a mistake—hogs don't need tables to eat from, but he is even lower than a hog, he is a human hyena!

About Bells.

There is scarcely anything with which we are more familiar than bells and yet they are a product of the Christian era, the first authentic mention of bells with date being about 400 A. D. It is true that in Exodus xxviii 32, bells are spoken of, but they were probably only small tinkling ornaments attached to the high priest's robe. Layard, in his explorations of the ruins of Ninevah, found some objects which he believed to be small bronze bells. Church bells were introduced into France about 550 A. D., and imported from Italy to England about 680. In the eleventh century a bell weighing 2600 pounds was looked upon as a monster and it was not until the sixteenth century that the Amboise bell at Rouen, France, was cast, weighing 36,000 pounds. The great bells of the world are. The great bell of Moscow, (cast in 1733 but left in the earth 103 years) height 19 feet 3 inches, circumference 60 feet 60 inches, thickness 2 feet, weight 440,000 pounds; the second Moscow bell, (the largest in use in the world) 256,000 pounds; the Pekin (China) bell, 106,000 pounds; the Nanking bell, 44,000; the Vienna bell, 34,000; the Notre Dame (Paris) bell, 34,000; The Cologne Cathedral bell, 50,000. The name is derived from the Anglo Saxon, bellan, to resound, and is closely akin to peal. The first peal or chime of bells in England was the gift of Pope Calixtus III to King's College, Cambridge, in 1456. To ring all the changes possible on a chime of twelve bells, at two strokes per second, would take ninety-one years. The history of the world has been rung in and out by bells; its great victories have been thus celebrated; its great massacres have been began to the sound of bells and its insurrections that toppled thrones have been ushered in by bells. In fact, to-day the world's life and work are attuned to the sound of bells. We have the dinner bell, the school bell, the factory bell, the door bell. We go to our long homes to the funeral bell. We start on our journeys to the sound of the locomotive bells. "Look out for the engine when the bell rings" is familiar to us, and if we attend to the signal, and always be sure that your railroad agent gives you a ticket via the Burlington route when we start for Chicago, St. Louis, or any of the great cities, our journey will be safe and pleasant. For maps and time-tables, or any special information, write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes.

JUDGE KELLY'S DECISION.

Great Northern and Northern Pacific Cannot Consolidate.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 18.—Judge Kelly has filed his decision in the important case of the State of Minnesota against the Great Northern Railway Company, and the state wins. The Great Northern and Northern Pacific may not enter into their traffic arrangement, and Judge Kelly grants the writ of injunction as prayed.

While the case swings on what appears to be a preliminary motion, that for an injunction, the decision virtually determines the whole subject, since it goes thoroughly into the matter, discussing the whole body of the argument for and against the legality and propriety of the proposed arrangement.

The Points of the Decision.

The points of his decision are:

The proposed traffic arrangement is a consolidation.

Under the laws of the State of Minnesota the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific roads are parallel and competing lines.

The traffic arrangement is, therefore, contrary to the public policy of the state and the general laws of 1874 and 1881.

The defendant's charter does not contain either in express terms or by necessary implication the right to make such agreement or consolidation.

That if any such power was ever given the charter was subject to amendment by the legislature and the laws referred to.

The Case Will Be Appealed.

President James J. Hill is in New York. He will, of course, insist on its being carried with all possible speed to the court of last resort to set at rest the question as to whether his company has the right to make a traffic arrangement with a parallel road and competing line. The matter of consolidation, however, is in any event dead. If it is not, the tremendous earnings of the Northern Pacific during the past three months have themselves settled the question. It is the general belief that the Northern Pacific will be out of the hands of a receiver and back in the hands of its officers by the beginning of the new year. The road is now paying all fixed charges and accumulating a surplus.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC LOSES.

Decision by Secretary Smith Costs the Road 800,000 Acres of Land.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Secretary Smith has decided a very important case, holding that the Eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific is at either Thompson, Minn., or Superior, Wis., instead of Ashland, Wis., as has always been claimed by the company. About 800,000 acres of land is involved, which is lost by the company. The secretary does not undertake to say whether the grant begins at Thompson or Superior City, but directs all selections for indemnity between these points held up for further consideration. He does declare that the grant of the Northern Pacific does not extend east of Superior City.

He also says that he is aware that the lands east of Superior were the basis for the selection of a large quantity of lands from the indemnity belt of the company's grant in North Dakota. These selections having been made some time ago, many if not all have perhaps been sold by the company. The secretary has directed that the company be allowed 60 days from the notice of this decision, within which to specify a new basis for any of its indemnity selections avoided by this decision, and that during that period no contracts against such selections, where the charge is that the basis was made of lands east of Superior City, or against applications to enter under the settlement laws will be received.

PIETZEL NOT DEAD.

Holmes' Alleged Victim Said to Have Been Seen by Chicago Parties.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—The Daily News publishes the following story:

James McNeary, conductor on the Sixty-third street electric line, has sprung a new sensation in the Holmes case by stating that Benjamin F. Pietzel is alive, and that he recently talked with him on his car. Mr. McNeary claims there can be no mistake, as he worked nine months for Pietzel and knows the peculiarities of his voice. According to McNeary, Pietzel boarded his car a few days previous to Holmes' trial. Pietzel's beard had grown around the greater part of his face, so that he was completely disguised. When addressed, however, he admitted his identity and asked as a friend that McNeary keep silence.

Mr. Robert Corbett, who has been following the case for months in behalf of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National bank, Fort Worth, Tex., also claims that he has seen Pietzel.

"I never believed that Pietzel was dead," he declared. "I believe that if Holmes is not granted a new trial Pietzel will declare himself to the governor of Pennsylvania when all other means are exhausted, and Isaac R. Hitt, Jr., and myself both have his address in Philadelphia. Minnie Williams is stopping at the same place under the name of Mrs. E. M. Gardener, while Pietzel is known as G. D. Hall."

Two Expeditions Safe in Cuba.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—President Palma of the Cuban revolutionist party in this country, has received word of the safe arrival in Cuba of two expeditions sent out by the party. One of the parties is headed by General Francisco Carrillo and Tomazo Collazo, and the other under the leadership of Colonel Jose Maria Aguirro.

Grand Jury Will Investigate.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 18.—The grand jury has definitely decided to investigate the Hayward bribery affair. The matter was discussed and there appeared to be some members of the jury who thought the dignity of the courts had been trifled with, and they propose the investigation of the matter.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Nov. 13.

Chairman Hinckley says that mugwumps caused the defeat of the Democrats in New York.

The Kansas corn crop is estimated to have been 201,457,000 bushels, or an average crop of 24 bushels per acre.

Peter Maher, who defeated Steve O'Donnell Monday night, challenges any man in the world to fight for the championship.

Mrs. Hannah Gozinski and Joseph Koboski, were married at La Crosse, Wis. Each has 17 children, making a united family of 36 persons.

The 18th annual Baptist congress opened at Providence, R. I., Tuesday, with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the country.

Based on the sales for the past two months, the wages of the 20,000 sheet mill workers of the United States have been advanced 2 per cent for November and December.

Thursday, Nov. 14.

The battlefield of Bull Run is to be cut up into town lots and truck gardens.

Dr. Fraker is confined to his bed in jail at Richmond, Mo., with Bright's disease.

The Cambria and Lillie mines at Negaunee, Mich., idle since July 15, have started up.

William Lamoreaux of Grand Rapids, Mich., known as the "Bean King," committed suicide.

Smallpox is reported spreading in Mississippi county, Ark., where six deaths have occurred.

Cattlemen along the Little Missouri in South Dakota are greatly annoyed by rustlers. Organizations of regulators are being formed and a few lynchings are likely to occur.

Thomas Treadwell Stone, D. D., the oldest graduate of Bowdoin college and one of the oldest ministers in the country, is dead at the age of 95.

Friday, Nov. 16.

New York cabmen are on strike.

The Green Bay, Winona and St. Paul railway property is to be foreclosed again.

An attempt will be made to secure the removal of Banker Probert as mayor of Washburn, Wis.

Arch Eaton, nephew of ex-President Harrison, died at St. Luke's, Denver, Colo., of consumption.

Articles of incorporation of the Erie railroad, under the new reorganization plan, have been filed at Albany.

Herr Leibknecht, the Breslau socialist leader and editor, was sentenced to four months imprisonment for lese majeste.

Dan Stuart is said to have secured a concession from Mexico where he will have prize fights and other sporting diversions.

Twenty-seven political prisoners were shot in Brazil for sympathizing with the monarchial movement, which contemplates the placing of a German prince upon the throne.

Saturday, Nov. 16.

Senator Mills of Texas favors Morrison for president.

General Fitzhugh Lee says that Virginia is for sound money.

A Kansas City gripman who killed a negro who would not remove his feet from a car seat was acquitted.

Vice President Stevenson denies having said that Cleveland could secure a renomination if he desired it.

Frederick Romero and Judge Montagu fought a duel at Bisbee, A. T., in which each received injuries that will probably prove fatal.

The battleship Indiana has been completed so far as the builders are concerned. She lies at the dock at Cramps all ready to be transferred to the navy department.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough were among the guests at the New York horse show Wednesday night. They arrived when the jam was at its height and were the observed of all observers.

Monday, Nov. 18.

R. L. Gault, the Canadian cotton king, died of Bright's disease at Montreal.

Six incendiary fires occurred at Hurley, Wis., in one day. All the buildings were unoccupied.

The Lake Pepin Yacht club proposes to have an ice yacht regatta this winter. A handsome cup will be put up.

The British steamer Leo, from Odessa for Copenhagen, has foundered off the coast of Denmark. Fifteen out of 22 persons on board were drowned.

William Furlong, the first white child born in Galena, died at his home near Sinsinnawa Mound, Wis. He was born in 1834, and always lived in that neighborhood.

Tuesday, Nov. 19.

At Louisville, Pete Berlo lowered the 2-mile, flying start, record to 3:43 1-5.

It is estimated that $300,000 has been dropped into Northern Montana this season for stock shipped out.

A son has been born to Prince Ferdinand, ruler of Bulgaria, and his wife, Princess Marie Louise of Bulgaria.

Charles O. Hoffman, assistant cashier of the New Orleans Brewing association, is reported to be about $20,000 short.

John Swan, alias John Mitchell, of Columbus, Wis., aged 60 years, was arrested at Worcester, Mass., for polygamy.

The Henry O. Sheppard company, one of the largest printing firms in Chicago, has made an assignment. The assets are placed at $65,000, and liabilities, $100,000.

C. R. Meeker, assistant resident engineer of the Southern Pacific company, committed suicide at Oakland, Cal., by morphine poisoning. He formerly resided at La Crosse, Wis.

Some Late Moon Theories.

Have you seen the latest scientific treatise on the probable cause of the moon's rugged surface? It is a well known fact that every mile of lunar surface compares very favorably with the most mountainous portions of Switzerland, being a succession of high pinnacles, deep holes and seemingly bottomless chasms.

The best existing maps of the moon's surface show 132,856 of these craterlike holes and over 100,000 mountain peaks, or projections, which compare favorably with what we know to be mountain peaks. Not longer since than last summer the astronomers gave it as their opinion that these craterlike holes and mountain peaks had been caused by a prodigious shower of aerolites, or meteorites. That theory has been recently knocked out by a noted European astronomer, M. Verde, who gives it as his opinion that the moon was originally a vast aggregation of miniature planets which have amalgamated, or coalesced, into one. According to his theory, the openings and projections are the interstices which were left when the separate fragments came together to form the ball which all now recognize as the Queen of Night. He says that in all probability there are several holes which reach entirely through the lunar world.—St. Louis Republic.

The Changed Rubies.

There seems no end to the curious stories about jewels lost and stolen. One of the latest is that of Mrs. A., who recently took a pair of large ruby solitaires to be reset at ——'s, where they had been purchased. The morning after the maid brought her the card of the firm, saying a gentleman wished to see her, and on going down to the drawing room she found one of the clerks, who told her that the stones, which were apparently of great value, were in reality false and worthless. Very much agitated over the intelligence, Mrs. A. asserted that the jewels had never left her possession since their purchase, and claimed that the fraud must have been perpetrated before she received them. This of course the firm denied, but the feeling on the subject became very bitter on both sides, and detectives were employed by both to ferret out the mystery. When a former butler of Mrs. A. was proved to be a discharged clerk of the well known jewelers, the inference was obvious, although no proof against the man has been found, and the jewels have never been recovered.—Boston Gazette.

Our Small Devotee.

My first evening, or night in fact, in Ponta Delgado—as well as many thereafter—was spent in the society of the most affectionately demonstrative, untiringly attentive of the inhabitants of the Azores, the very merriest, happiest of creatures, who enjoys life with a zest that is seldom equaled, who hails with delight each newcomer to the isles, and welcomes them with the most flattering warmth. We had a lively time together. A more energetic, aggressive, industrious creature I never met. Infinitesimally small, yet marvelously active, he is, I believe, the one and only native Azorean who can boast of that so common American quality, extreme nervous energy. Not even the most energetic, tireless Chicagoan, in his grand rush after the mighty dollars, could be more indefatigable, more alert and alive to anything and everything, or rather to any one and every one, than this selfsame ubiquitous Azorean flea.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"Collar" Is Old English.

Justices in New York are ignorantly fastidious in matters of English. When Mr. O'Hara, a policeman, said, "We collared him," Justice Taintor replied: "You 'arrested' him, and you ought to be ashamed for not saying so at once. Such language as you used is not fit language to use to a magistrate in a public courtroom." But Mr. O'Hara did not employ slang. The verb "collar" has long been used transitively, meaning to "seize or take hold of a person by the collar; more loosely, to capture." The verb was thus employed early in the seventeenth century. Steele, in The Guardian, No. 84, wrote, "If you advised him not to collar any man." Other instances are: Gentleman's Magazine, 1762, "His lordship collared the footman who threw it," and Marryat's sentence in "Peter Simple," "He was collared by two French soldiers."—Boston Journal.

The Pacific Slope Style of Poker.

"The terror of a one card draw is unknown to San Francisco devotees of the game immortalized by General Schenck," said Mr. William R. Brewster of that city at the Hotel Page.

"The reason is that out on the slope we do not play sequences, or 'straights,' at all, and flushes only before the draw. A flush, therefore, is of no account except when held 'pat.'

"This, to my mind, is a better system than the eastern method, for it gives the man who holds the best pair the natural advantage that belongs to him. It is needless to say that those abominations known as 'big' and 'little dogs,' that go with the game in Kentucky, are absolutely unknown in California."—Washington Post.

His Enjoyment Marred.

"My enjoyment of the 5 cent cigar," said the man of moderate means, "is sometimes marred by the breaking away of the wrapper. The fine, smooth Sumatra leaf is cut in strips that are rather narrow. They wrap without much lap, and as the cigar burns the wrapper sometimes creeps out. As I have before remarked, it is now quite possible to get a good cigar for 5 cents, but there isn't much fun smoking it unless it will stay together."—New York Sun.

Tobacco.

Tobacco is grown in 42 states and territories, but nearly half the crop comes from Kentucky, Virginia, Ohio, North Carolina, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

A White Cat's Eyes.

On Columbus avenue a white cat keeps the mice out of the store of its owner. There is nothing remarkable in a white cat per se, but the owner of this particular animal declares that it is a feline curiosity—a freak, in fact.

"Look at that cat's eyes," he said yesterday. "Ever see anything like them? Why, don't you see anything remarkable? Don't know much about white cats, then. Now, that cat, you see, has two blue eyes—I never saw or heard of the like before. Cats usually have gray eyes, but white cats, as a rule, have only one gray eye—the other is blue. Every white cat that I ever saw but this one had one blue eye and one gray eye. Both the eyes of my cat are blue. It is a wonderful freak of nature, I think. Go to any man who knows much about cats—white cats especially—and see if he doesn't tell you that I am right."—New York World.

A Question of Age.

"You wheelmen will have to pay a city tax on your bicycles now," said one Pittsburger to another.

"Indeed?"

"Yes, the new ordinance says that all owners of bicycles and tricycles over the age of 14 years using the public highways shall pay 50 cents for each machine."

"That doesn't include me."

"What's the reason it doesn't, I'd like to know?"

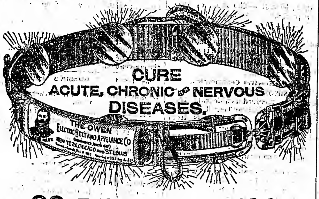
"My bicycle isn't 14 years old. I only bought it last spring."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Good Imitation.

Dick—I played a great joke on a blind man a little while ago. You know they say that in compensation for one's loss of vision the remaining senses are abnormally acute?

Bob—So I've always heard.

Dick—Well, I handed him an article, and after feeling it over for 10 or 15 minutes he had to give it up. He couldn't tell whether it was a collar just from the laundry or only a buzz saw.—Boston Transcript.



THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO
NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND ST LOUIS

DR. A. OWEN'S ELECTRIC APPLIANCES

CURE ACUTE, CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

99 TIMES OUT OF 100

Mrs. A. J. Stearns, of West Stockholm, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., under date of July 31, 1895, says: "Words fail me to express my gratitude to Dr. A. Owen for the benefit I have had from using his Electric Appliances. Before using the appliance I was so weak I could scarcely stand alone; had been confined to my bed since last October. After the third day's use of the appliance I could walk several steps; one week later I walked around the house, and in less than one month I was able to ride out, and now I can walk a mile or more without feeling tired. May God [illegible] and spare you to your many friends for years to come."

Mr. Axel J. Ekblade, of Walsburg, Kan., under date of July 20th, 1895, says: "Having used the Dr. Owen Electric Appliances for Nervousness for the past few months, must say they are ahead of any treatment. I am cured of the worst form of Nervous Disease."

Mr. A. Nibok, of Middlefield, Iowa, writing us on June 27, 1895, says: "This is to certify that I have derived more benefit from using the Owen Electric Appliances for a severe case of kidney complaint and nervous prostration than from hundreds of dollars spent for doctor's bills and medicine."

Our Large Illustrated Catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cost of appliances, and much valuable information for the afflicted. Send 6 cents in stamps for it at once.

When writing parties about their testimonials enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope to insure a reply. We have been before the public many years, and our Electrical Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
205 TO 211 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

Many men of many minds say that

CLIMAX

Beats all other kinds

Climax Plug is much the best chewing tobacco made. It's Lorillard's.

H. STEENERSON,
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

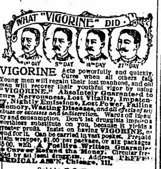
P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.
GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

WHEELER & WILSON'S
HIGH-ARM
NEW NUMBER NINE
9
IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

1,000,000 People Wear
W. L. Douglas Shoes
HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.
$5.00 $4.00 $3.50 $2.50 $2.25 For Men
$3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.75 For Boys and Youths
Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by



VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county, 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timber land. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn. [6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

The County Fair

affords an excellent opportunity for the pick-pocket to get your watch. If you would be proof against his skill, be sure that the bow (or ring) is a

Non-pull-out

This wonderful bow is now fitted to the
Jas. Boss
Filled Watch Cases, which are made of two plates of gold soldered to a plate of composition metal. Look equally as well as solid gold cases, and cost about half as much.
Guaranteed to wear 20 years.
Always look for this trade mark.
None genuine without it.
Sold only through watch dealers.
A watch case opener which makes a handsome charm sent free on request.
Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.
NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstruation. Now used by over 30,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW.
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law.
No. 2 Fournet Block. } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

W. A. ROBERTSON,
D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical
DENTIST.
Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,
PRACTICAL DENTIST
Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.
All work in my line promptly and skillfully performed.

Money to Loan.
I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.
[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO
OR ANYWHERE EAST?
If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via
"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)
Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from
CROOKSTON,
as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,
T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Order to Examine Accounts, etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, }
County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.

Special term November 6th 1895.

In the matter of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Margarete Dufour, Administratrix of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased, representing among other things that she has fully administered said estate; and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of her administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate in the parties entitled thereto by law.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court, on Saturday, the 30th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 6th day of November, A.D. 1895.

By the Court.
C. M. BENSON,
30-32.) Judge of Probate.

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

He Satisfied His Conscience.

It was under some of the earlier bankrupt laws that this exhibition of rare shrewdness occurred, when it was required that in case of a man's insolvency he must turn over to the proper officer of the law every bit of his property for the benefit of his creditors. The subject of this story was yet a young man and wealthy when misfortune overtook him and failure was inevitable. Some of his property was real estate, some of it was not, the latter consisting of securities easily converted into currency. A nice little bundle of bank bills could be more safely handled than certificates of stocks, etc. When the time came, being an honorable man, he conscientiously surrendered his entire effects, even a tubular cane from which the handle could be disjointed, the gift of an admiring friend. After handing the walking stick to the official, thus satisfying the law, he suggested its return. It was a present from a friend and could be of little value to any one but himself as a memento.

"Certainly," said the officer. "Take it. It's of no value to us."

"Thanks! I'll prize it highly."

Some time afterward in his quiet home the shrewd financier disjointed the handle and removed from his tubular depository several thousand dollars of well crumpled bank bills.—Syracuse Post.

Symbolism.

When you study the vast subject of symbolism, as has Professor D'Arcy Wentworth Thompson, you are just as likely as not to be swamped. In a recent comprehensive study Professor Thompson works in the direction of the heavenly bodies and the condition of the sky at certain periods. Lions, eagles and all animals or birds have, as symbols, something to do with the skies. It is true, as the learned professor states, that the Pleiades are very much mixed up with the names and images of birds. "The Hen and Chickens" is English for the Pleiades, and in many languages expressive of the same constellation there are birds.

Carrying his ideas to their furthest limits, Professor Thompson believes that all coins have their typical animals, birds or fish, derived from the same celestial source, but the queerest conjecture is one in regard to the old ratio existing between silver and gold. That ratio having been 13.3 to 1, the professor calmly asks whether that is not an evidence "that this ratio is precisely identical with the ratio of the solar year to the lunar month—namely, 365 to 27.4." When you make up your mind to go in for symbolism, there is no knowing where it may land you.

Charon's Boat.

On one of the lakes in the north island of New Zealand, near Auckland, there was a hotel much frequented by fishermen. On one occasion, when a gentleman, whom I will call Mr. X., was staying there, he was taken seriously ill, and the landlord, supposing that he could not possibly recover, began to think of making preparations for his visitor's death. Knowing a man who was a pretty fair carpenter and had owed him money for some time and seeing little chance of being repaid, he told him to make a coffin for the sick man. The coffin was duly made, but Mr. X., instead of dying, as he ought to have done, recovered, and there was therefore no use for the coffin.

The landlord, not caring to bear the expense, included a charge for it in Mr. X.'s bill, who, on seeing it, naturally enough demurred to paying for something which he had not ordered and did not want. The landlord said it was very hard that the loss should fall on him, as he had only done it for the best, and Mr. X. at last agreed to pay for it. Determined to turn it to some account, he had a keel put to it and used it as a fishing punt during the remainder of his stay at the hotel.—Realm.

Others Have Sighed For This Too.

The late Oliver Wendell Holmes, says the London Queen, loved all kinds of knickknacks connected with writing materials. There was a large drawer in his library table in his town house "on" Beacon street, Boston, which contained endless neat little divisions, full of the various articles of stationery which he used. The one which he was most anxious to possess was not invented in his lifetime, and I do not think that it has been invented yet. The great little doctor wanted, and believed in the possibility of a typewriter no bigger than a cigar case, containing so many sheets of paper 4 inches by 2. As soon as the top sheet was full it was to be changed automatically by the machine—which was, in fact, a typewriter notebook. Fancy the luxury of rough notes written with a typewriter instead of in blurred and untidy pencil scrawl.

The Effect of Hills.

A teacher of the Delsarte method says that she has had her attention particularly attracted by the bad carriage of women in all the towns that border on the Hudson river. They are more inclined to stoop, she thinks, than those of any other part of the east which she has visited. She concludes that this must be the result of the hills which border the Hudson, and on which most of its towns are built. So much hill climbing has led to a prevailing round shouldered condition.—Philadelphia Press.

First Use of Platinum.

It is recorded that the first Ural miners were much disgusted with platinum and did not know what to do with the hard, dirty looking metal, says a London contemporary. They thought they had solved the problem of successful utilization when they had made bullets of it for their sporting muskets.

The greatness of the human soul is shown by knowing how to keep within proper bounds. So far from greatness consisting in going beyond its limits, it really consists in keeping within it.—Pascal.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

GOV. CLOUGH ASKED TO PARDON PHIL SCHEIG.

St. Cloud Wants to Furnish Granite For the New Capitol Building—New Paynesville Farmers Threshing Corn—An Interesting Supreme Court Decision.

Mankato Knights of Pythis have dedicated their new hall.

The question of owning its own lighting plant is being agitated at St. Paul.

The cornerstone of the Itasca county court house was laid with Masonic honors.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin university foot ball game was won by Minnesota, 14 to 10.

David B. Hill will speak in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth the latter part of November.

Melha Hagerty, aged 10, was fined $10 in the Minneapolis police court for drunkenness.

The Minneapolis park board has concluded to buy the Exposition building and grounds.

The State Federation of Labor will meet at Winona in annual session on Sunday, the 8th of December.

The village council of Renville, Minn., has offered $500 for the person who caused the American House fire.

John Strange, the paper manufacturer, announces that he will build a $250,000 paper mill at Sauk Rapids.

A Minneapolis lawyer is accused of eloping with two married women whom he left after getting what money they had.

St. Paul and Minneapolis humane societies are moving against the practice of crowding live chickens into crates for shipment.

The reason given for small attendance of a womans society at St. Paul, is that 14 women of the 20 members are mothers of 15 infants.

Andrew L. Dibbell, 15-year-old son of Andrew Dibbell of Duluth, while hunting, was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun.

A "senate" has been organized at Madison, in which all professional or business men may once a week discuss with each other in debate the topics of the times.

Fortune has smiled on George L. Travis, a Minneapolis mail carrier, in the shape of a $90,000 inheritance. Part of the property is in this country and part in England.

Governor Clough has received a petition for the pardon of Phil Scheig. The petition was signed by President Kirby of the Bank of Minneapolis, from whom Scheig stole the money, and by County Attorney Nye.

Moses Cook, wanted at Duluth for defrauding 64 firms, all over the Northwest, by purchasing $17,000 worth of goods, hiding them in a brother's store, and then failing with no assets, has been arrested at Wabash, Ind.

Thomas Lucy, a farmer living near Henning, while feeding a threshing machine, got his hand caught in the cylinder and was forced into the machine head first, the machine literally beating his head and shoulders into jelly. He leaves a wife and several children.

Captain Van Sant, speaker of the Minnesota legislature, asked whether he should be a candidate for governor, replied in substance, that it was too early to say anything definite. He might conclude to come out as an active candidate later.

The postoffice department has made a decision regarding St. Paul letter carriers reported by spotters. The excuses offered by three of them have been accepted, six have been suspended 2 days, one 5 days, four 10 days, one 15 days and two 30 days.

Cyrus H. Kellogg of the firm of Kellogg, Johnson & Co., St. Paul, who was appointed on the board of arbitration by Governor Clough to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of Senator W. B. Dean to act on the board, has accepted. Mr. Kellogg is appointed to represent the employes of labor.

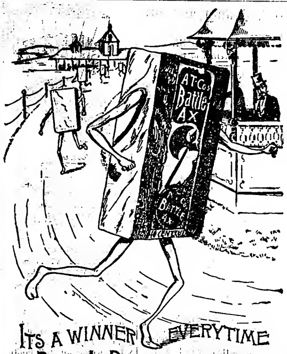
At a meeting of the St. Cloud Business Men's association, the president was instructed to appoint a committee of nine to go to St. Paul and urge upon the business men there to use their influence in securing the adoption of granite, and particularly St. Cloud granite, in the capitol building.

Commissioner Lamoreaux has telegraphed the chief examiner of Chippewa pine lands in Minnesota, suspending all further work in examinations and appraisements, owing to the appropriation being exhausted. The commissioner will recommend that the law be changed so that the appraised lands may be sold.

St. Paul Carnival association officers and directors selected Jan. 21 to 31 as the time for holding the carnival. Major Wilkinson of Fort Snelling suggested that the river was the proper place for the ice fort, and a band of Fort Totten Indians should be secured to man it. Several other details were discussed.

W. H. Phipps, a wealthy farmer near New Paynesville, has successfully shelled corn in a common grain threshing machine. His cobs and stalk was all chopped up, but his stock greedily ate the mixture. He obtained about 200 bushels of the shelled product. Several other farmers are to try the experiment.

The supreme court has decided that a notice posted by the Great Western Railroad company charging John Wilkes with being "a dangerous, able and seditious agitator, and responsible for a great deal of trouble at South St. Paul," is actionable. The case grew out of the A. R. U. strike of 1894, and was brought to the supreme court on a demurrer from a decision of Judge Otis, who is affirmed.



ITS A WINNER EVERYTIME
BATTLE AX PLUG IN THE LEAD
BATTLE AX PLUG
HAS JUMPED INTO PUBLIC FAVOR ON ACCOUNT OF ITS SIZE AND QUALITY. ITS A GREAT BIG PIECE OF HIGH GRADE TOBACCO FOR
10 CENTS

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.☜
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Dr. J. H. McLEAN'S
VOLCANIC OIL LINIMENT,
THE BEST AND GREATEST CURE OF PAIN,
Affords a quick relief from the accidents and ailments common to human or animal flesh.
In constant use for half a century.
Price, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers:

In common with all newspapers the JOURNAL has upon its subscription list the names of some who for various reasons have been unable to respond to our annual statements, and these we have cheerfully managed to carry along with the hope that this fall would enable them to respond as cheerfully to the subscription statement, and with an unusually bountiful crop this year we trust that there are none on our list who will be unable to respond. The extraordinary expenses to which we have been subjected within the year that is so nearly past, and with which our readers are already familiar renders it necessary for us to get all those arrear subscriptions settled up. We only ask our friends to do by us as they would be done by and this can in nowise be considered unreasonable. Let us hear from you friends, at your earliest convenience. [26tf

THE Pops will hold the balance of power in the organization of the Senate, but appearances seem to indicate that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans will seek to form an alliance with them.

IT is said that the friends of Cleveland are again urging him to accept renomination and that he is seriously considering the matter. The Dems are in a boat—they can't win without Cleveland and they are not sure they can win with him—had better try a new man but could not win in that way.

YOU may confidently expect our congressman from the seventh district placed upon some very important committee—if Tom Reed is made speaker of the House—which is almost a foregone conclusion, as Mr. Eddy although a new member is a bright capable man, just the kind that Reed likes.

OUR member of congress from the Fifth District, your uncle Loren Fletcher wants to be chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and when your uncle Loren greatly desires to have anything he sometimes most always gets there. He has the advantage of being a great friend to speaker Reed also.

THE Times suggests a ratification meeting in honor of the election of of C. C. Whitney, of the Marshall News-Messenger, to the office of state expert printer. C. C. is a good man all right enough, but we don't really see why we should "rat" for a southern Minnesota man. If he belonged in Northern Minnesota it would be different.

THE project of holding a "World's Fair" between St. Paul and Minneapolis in '97 is gaining headway and it begins to look like it would be carried out. Representatives from ten states meet at St. Paul this week to consider the matter and make preliminary arrangements if decided upon. It is to be called the "Mid-Continent Exposition."

AND even Kentucky, "the land of the thoroughbred trotter" begins to see the error of her ways and will send a Republican United States senator to take Blackburn's seat in congress. We thought something would happen when we allowed our whilom Democratic mayor, Jas. W. Lilly, to go to Kentucky to live and publish a paper. We knew that if Lilly could not fix 'em it could not be did.

IT seems to be the concensus opinion that a late convention and a short campaign will be about the proper caper for next year and Republicans generally are expecting the national convention some time in September. The dominant party will probably set the pace with a convention some time late in August. The people are becoming tired with Democratic misrule and demand a change.

JUDGING from Judge Kelley's opinion, just handed down, in the case wherein the consolidation of the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific railroads are in question, it would seem that the consolidation would never take place. This movement has been regarded with a great deal of anxiety by many ever since it has been under contemplation as they have the opinion that the best interests of this country would not be subserved by such consolidation.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR. NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE OLD RELIABLE

SWEET CAPORAL

CIGARETTE

Has stood the Test of Time

MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

AT Milbank, S. D., the other day, a Globe correspondent interviewed Hon. Knuta Nelson and expressed great disappointment because Mr. Nelson would not talk politics with him a little bit. Mr. Nelson told why it was, about ten years ago, that he gave up the use of tobacco, but when asked for his views upon the political situation Mr. Nelson froze up solid—became as dumb as an oyster and all the correspondent got he had to guess. As he was not good at guessing that was not much. Mr. Nelson said he should start for Washington next week.

MANY of the state papers have mentioned the name of the Hon. S. G. Comstoock for next governor of Minnesota. In noticing that fact the News, of Moorhead, says it is flattering to have a fellow townsman thus spoken of—just as though it made no difference what particular fellow-townsman was spoken of one as well as another. This looks like a sort of "damning with faint praise," for if the News was hearty in its endorsement of its talented fellow-townsman it should have heartily endorsed the nomination and given something of Mr. Comstock's public career to show him capable and well worthy of such an honor. The fact is that Mr. Comstock is one of the leading statesmen of Minnesota, a man who would not only be an honor to the state as its governor, but a credit as well to this portion of it, and the News, of all papers, ought to not only heartily second the motion but off with its jacket and work like a beaver to see that desired result attained. And of all the names that so far have been mentioned not one has been suggested that would go into the convention with as much strength from all over the state as the Hon. S. G. Comstock, of Clay county. There is no question but that he could be nominated and elected.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Euclid items.

Henry Tiedt was over from Thief River Falls the fore part of the week, visiting friends.

A missionary tea will be served at the residence of Dr. J. S. Chapin, Thursday evening.

Miss Belle Borrill, of Warren, is down visiting friends..

H. O. Fritts, president of the Farmers' Fire Co., of Montevideo, was up the fore part of the week to adjust the loss sustained by Chris Nelson, through fire, early in the fall.

Robert Teal and family spent Saturday at Crookston.

D. E. Fairweather is suffering with a painful knee caused by its slipping out of joint a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Pitkin spent Monday night at Crookston.

Monday evening as Mr. P. Fairweather drove into his yard on his return from town, his horse fell. Mr. Fairweather rose in the cart to jump out and at the same time the horse made an effort to regain his feet, jerking the cart in such a manner as to throw Mr. Fairweather violently to the ground. He received a severe gash in the forehead, a sprained wrist and a very badly injured knee, which will probably confine him to the house for some time.

Mrs. J. S. Chapin boarded the Flyer for Warren, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Walter Kelso and wife were down from Hallock the fore part of the week.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson was up on official business, Tuesday.

November Literary Notes.

A complete and immediate revolution of transportation methods, involving a reduction of freight charges on grain from the west to New York of from 50 to 60 per cent., is what is predicted in the November Cosmopolitan. The plan proposes using light and inexpensive corrugated iron cylinders hung on a slight rail supported on poles from a cross-arm—the whole system involving an expense of not more than fifteen hundred dollars a mile for construction. The rolling stock is equally simple and comparativsvely inexpensive. Continuous lines of cylinders, moving with no interval to speak of, would carry more grain in a day than a quadruple track railway. This would constitute a sort of grain-pipe line. The Cosmopolitan also points out the probable abolition of street cars before the coming horseless carriage, which can be operated by a boy on asphalt pavements at a total expense for labor, oil and interest, of not more than one dollar a day.

Foreign affairs naturally have more than usual prominence in the November Review of Reviews. In the "Progress of the World," the department of that periodical in which the editor rapidly reviews the events of the preceding month, the possibilities of war in the far East are pointedly set forth. Another theme suggested in the same connection is the progress of Christian missions in the Orient. The prospects of Japan and Russia as Eastern powers are tersely discussed. The editor also comments briefly on the relations of Russia and France, the Italian celebrations, the French victory in Madagascar, the Cuban situation, and British policy in Venezuela. Among home topics of the month, the coming elections, the condition of New York politics, the anti-prize fight campaign in the Southwest, and the educational outlook are selected for treatment.

Angus items.

J. F. Montgomery and W. Lemen spent Monday night in Crookston.

D. H. Miller and family and Mrs. W. L. Davies were in Grand Forks last week.

Miss Jessie Davis is home from school.

W. L. Davies and F. McLeanan were in Warren on Wednesday.

There was surprise party at J. M. Palmer on Friday evening everybody had a good time.

J. F. Montgomery was in Crookston Friday night.

Mrs. Palmer was in Warren on Saturday.

Fred Strobie and son J. E. were in Grand Forks on Saturday. Ex.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

The marriage of Mr. Ed. Warring, of this city and Miss Mary Severson, of Tweet took place at the bride's home last Saturday evening, Rev. Moudy, of St. Hiliare, officiating.

While superintending the moving of his safe last Tuesday F. H. Kratka came near having his leg crushed. In some manner the safe slipped from its rollway and landed upon Mr. K. He was laid up for a day or two but is about again, a proof of the saying that a good man is hard to kill.

Rev. Aastad has just returned from Thief Lake where he has organized a stong congregation of his church. The people there are deserving of much praise in the attempt to sustain a church organization in a community practically in the wilderness.

Estimators Wall left for his home in Connecticut Wednesday, to spend the winter.

A. C. Cowing headed a party of deer hunters who came up from Crookston for a taste of venison.

Jas. Powers and his bride arrived here Friday according to expectation and his friends made them welcome by a pleasant dancing party during the evening.

Government Estimators, Budkin, Conway, Bell, Wall, Allen McQuillan, Miller, Chiles, Reed, Chase, and Stevens came down during the week from the Rainy river country.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

W. B. Dawley and W. D. Scott, of Crookston, were registered at the Commercial last Saturday.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the sum of Three hundred and twelve and 22-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Andreas J. Mensen, unmarried, mortgagor, to United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, mortgagee, bearing date the sixth day of October, A. D. 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of October, A. D. 1891, at two o'clock P. M., in Book 57 of Mortgages, on pages 281 and 282, and there are no other payments to become due upon said mortgage.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America mortgagee, to J. Jorgenson by written assignment dated the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1895, and recorded in the office of the said Register of Deeds on the 16th day of November, A. D, 1895, at 11:20 o'clock A. M., in Book 76 of Mortgages, on pages 12 and 13 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Northwest Quarter of Section Two (2), in Township One Hundred and Forty Eight (148) Range Forty-five (45), in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, said lands being also described as the South Half of said quarter section and lots three (3) and four (4) of the same, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the third day of January, A. D. 1896, at ten o'clock A. M. of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 18th, 1895.

J. JORGENSON,
Assignee of Mortgage.

Wm. Watts, attorney for assignee of mortgage.

W. D. Stevens, of the Chippewa timber examining corps, was a guest at the Commercial yesterday.

A. McKinnon and S. C. Johnson were up from Crookston on Monday.

Hon. B. Sampson was up from Crookston on Tuesday evening.

John Meley is proving up before U. S. Commissioner Christianson at Crookston today.

W. R. Spears came from Redlake on Wednesday, continuing on his way to Crookston the following morning.

Hendrick Hendrickson, of Columbia, broke the wheat record for that town this season by raising an acre which yielded 61 bushels when threshed last week.

Miss May Umlaud spent a few days of the past week with friends in Crookston, returning home Monday evening.

Jacub Trausdahl, the noted religious author and editor, of Bergen, Norway, addressed a large audience in Kingo church on Tuesday.

The case of Charles A. Weeks vs. Coleman Bridgman, decided by the U. S. Supreme court on Monday, adversely to Weeks, was one originally brought by Attorney W. F. Street of this place while practicing in St. Cloud ten years ago. The Great Northern railway took up the case, tried it twice in the district and twice in the supreme court in this state, and now lose in the court of final resort. It concerned a large part of the townsite of St. Cloud.

Art of Taking Pains.

Dr. Conan Doyle, the author, says of "The White Company," from which the story "With Knightly Valor" is taken, that he read 200 books in order to make sure of the accuracy of his details. An English sculptor, whose status of "Elijah" was the talk of art lovers everywhere, once told the writer that he spent $300 in endeavoring to find out what the texture of Elijah's garment should be and what should be the appearance of the ground on which he stood. It was for this same status that he consulted a celebrated anatomist and accepted most humbly his criticism concerning the muscles of an uplifted arm. It is well to remember that geniuses are willing to admit that they do not know everything and are never in such a hurry that they overlook the necessity for taking pains.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Easily Identified.

A certain farmer who was by no means noted for his resemblance to Apollo had a son of 6 or 7 who had more wit than pedigree.

One day a stranger came to the farm, and, seeing the lad, asked, "Sonny, where's your father?"

"In the pigpen," was the reply.

"In the pigpen? Thanks!" and as the man moved in the direction indicated l'enfant terrible shouted: "I say! You'll know him 'cause he's got his hat on!"—Boston Budget.

Maple Bay Items.

The lake has been frozen four weeks.

There is yet a great deal of threshing to be done here.

The deputy county surveyor is here this week surveying some county roads.

P. C. Moe is building a neat and substantial cottage.

P. W. Horton has been quite sick for several days.

F. G. Horton will move, next week, to Woodside.

Rev. N. E. Wikre returned, last week, from Gossen, where he had been attending a convention of ministers.

Confirmation last Sunday in the Lutheran church, by Rev. Sorensun, the number being seven.

School closes this week.

AHEAD OF ALL MAGAZINES

this country has seen.—Albany Argus.

IN THE

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW

are always found

The Right Topics,
By the Right Men,
At the Right Time.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as the foremost Review in the English language, and no expenditure is spared in maintaining it in its unrivalled position.

The Review is the mouthpiece of the men and women who know most about the great topics on which Americans require and desire to be informed from month to month. Its list of contributors forms a roll of the representative men and women of the age.

Subjects that concern the interests of - - AMERICAN WOMEN receive constant and special attention

Among special features of extraordinary importance which THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW has in preparation for 1896, is a series of articles by the Rt Hon.

W. E. GLADSTONE

—ON—

THE FUTURE STATE

And The Condition of Man in it.

The series will begin in the January number.

50 Cents a Copy; $5.00 a Year.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW,
3 East 14th St., New York.

WASHINGTON LETTE.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 15, 1895.

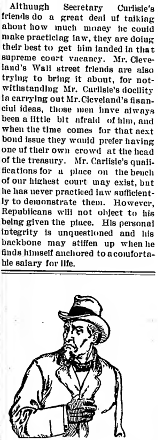
Here is an opening for another congressional investigation. The charge is openly made that bids for the iron work on government buildings are juggled within the office of the supervising architect of the treasury department for the purpose of giving the contracts to iron manufacturers located in the southern states, in order to make it appear that iron manufacturing is as prosperous in the free trade states under the Democratic tariff as it was in the protective states under the McKinley law. It is charged that it was because of his refusal to do, or to sanction the required juggling that Mr. O'Rourke was asked to resign the position of architect of the treasury a few months ago. This is a very serious charge and it is probable that congress will look into it. The plan followed, according to those who make the charge, is to reject all bids and advertise for new ones when favored contractors do not have the lowest. Logan Carlisle, son of the secretary, is credited with being the juggler-in-chief, the present supervising architect of the treasury having no authority over the letting of contracts.

Senator Chandler has steadily maintained that the Republicans would organize the senate with the votes of the Populist senators, not through any bargain for those votes but simply because the Populists will vote for the Republican candidate for president pro tem of the senate in preference to the Democratic candidate for that position, and he still holds to that opinion. Some of the shrewdest members of the senate hold a different opinion as to what the Populists will do, believing that their vote will depend largely upon the financial status of the candidates for president pro tem of the senate. There is one thing, however, about which Senator Chandler has changed his opinion. He was until the recent elections inclined to favor the idea of issuing short and temporary loans to meet the deficit in the treasury receipts, but he isn't now. He said since his arrival in Washington: "I think we ought, in view of the way in which the people have spoken, to provide revenue by duties on wool, woolen manufactures, lumber and agricultural products. It seems to me that President Cleveland, if he can appreciate the meaning of the elections, ought to yield somewhat in his position and meet us in our efforts to aid the treasury and the country. If he will not we ought to let the matter rest. We ought to present to him what we think is right, and if he chooses not to accept it, the misfortune is his. We can say we have done our duty, pass the appropriation bills and adjourn congress as early as next May; and the Republicans will carry nearly forty states for their presidential candidate."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, who has with the exception of a single term, been one of the Republican wheelhorses of the house since he began his service in the forty-third congress, was in Washington this week. He thinks the tariff will be the issue in 1896, so far as there will be any need for an issue, and says: "I don't believe the Democrats could elect St. Paul if they were to nominate him on their ticket." Speaking of what congress will probably do at the coming session Mr. Cannon said: "In an unguarded moment the people placed the Democrats in power, and there the Democrats will remain—or at least the president will—until March 4, 1897. It's pretty rough on the people, but we cannot help it. They are swinging back again as soon as they can. In the meantime let the president go on and borrow money as he has done. Suppose we go to work to plan methods of increasing the revenue according to Republican ideas how can we know that he will approve our work? When we get back into full possession of the government, as we will in due time, we will show that we are capable of administering affairs, but the Democrats have made their bed—let them lie in it. We are not in control yet, and I, for one, do not believe in trying to accomplish anything unless I know that I can achieve results. For that reason I cannot see what the house has to do with the revenues, especially when the Republicans lack the necessary majority in the senate to co-operate with us.

Gov-elect Lowndes, of Maryland, has been in Washington several days. He is the guest of Hon. John A. Kassun, ex-minister to Austria, who served with him as a member of the house a few years ago. Gov. Lowndes says he will not be a candidate for senator.

Although Secretary Carlisle's friends do a great deal of talking about how much money he could make practicing law, they are doing their best to get him landed in that supreme court vacancy. Mr. Cleveland's Wall street friends are also trying to bring it about, for notwithstanding Mr. Carlisle's docility in carrying out Mr. Cleveland's financial ideas, those men have always been a little bit afraid of him, and when the time comes for that next bond issue they would prefer having one of their own crowd at the head of the treasury. Mr. Carlisle's qualifications for a place on the bench of our highest court may exist, but he has never practiced law sufficiently to demonstrate them. However, Republicans will not object to his being given the place. His personal integrity is unquestioned and his backbone may stiffen up when he finds himself anchored to a comfortable salary for life.



A MARTYR

—TO—

INDIGESTION

Cured by Using

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Words of Comfort to All who Suffer from Dyspepsia.

"For years, I was a martyr to indigestion, and had about given up all hope of ever finding relief, as the complaint only seemed to grow worse instead of better, under ordinary treatment. At last, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I hereby testify that after using only three bottles, I was cured. I can, therefore, confidently recommend this medicine to all similarly afflicted."—FRANKLIN BECK, Avoca, Ia.

"I am personally acquainted with Mr. Beck and believe any statement he may make to be true."—W. J. MAXWELL, Druggist and Pharmacist, Avoca, Ia.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla for general debility and, as a blood-purifier, find it does exactly as is claimed for it."—S. J. ADAMS, Ezzell, Texas.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla

Admitted for Exhibition

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

S. Heals Running Sores. S.S.S.

S. Cures the Serpent's Sting. S.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON In all its stages completely eradicated by S. S. S. Obstinate sores and ulcers yield to its healing powers. It removes the poison and builds up the system. A valuable treatise on the disease and its treatment mailed free.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

See those artics at the Fair store.

S. A. Hofto was in from McIntosh on Monday.

Marcus Johnson was in the city on business on Friday.

Geo. Marchildon was in from Red Lake Falls, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. LaDue were up from Fertile on Tuesday.

A. M. Ecklund and wife of Hallock were in the city on Sunday.

W. D. Wilson went to Fargo for a brief visit Saturday evening.

J. W. Wheeler went to St. Paul, last week, on a business trip.

W. C. Kelso and bride, of Hallock visited friends in the city Sunday.

The Commercial Union has engaged a room in the Odd Fellows block.

Maurice Darigan last week received news of the illness of his father and left for Wabasha to see him.

Dr. Watts, who is at the county hospital sick with typhoid fever is reported doing nicely this week.

Hon. Henry Burkhardt and wife left last week for the old home at Wabasha to spend the winter.

Senator Cronkhite, of Argyle, passed through the city on Monday on his way home from a visit below.

A. Solberg has rented a part of J. Jorgensen's store on Robert street and will put in a stock of groceries.

The committee appointed to attend the Immigration convention in St. Paul left on Thursday evening.

Hugh Thompson was over at Grand Forks last Friday on business connected with the N. D. Milling Association.

A genuine old Minnesota snowstorm on Monday afternoon reminded one of the rigors of old winter, now close at hand.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Schmank have been called upon to part with their little daughter, who died on Monday at the age of one year.

Judge Holt has been confined to the house by illness during the past week. He has been a very sick man but is reported better.

Wm. Anglim was the winner of the cane voted to the most popular merchant at the Catholic fair last week. N. S. Gervais was next.

Felt as Good as New.

Lakeland' Minn., Oct. 30, 1895. "In the Spring of 1893 I had an attack of eczema. My hands and face were badly broken out. I took three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and one box of Hood's Pills and after using them for three weeks I felt as good as new. I was well for two years afterwards." Harriet A. Palmer.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache, indigestion.

John N. Whitman and Miss Kate Warring, of Thief River Falls, were united for life on Saturday last, the Rev. Mr. Hanscom officiating.

Dr. A. Gilmour was down from McIntosh on Friday chatting with friends and sampling the wares at Dan McKinnon's hash factory.

Eugene Besse, who a few years ago owned and operated successfully a fine farm in Andover, has been visiting friends in the city for a few days.

Wm. Kruger was arrested on Monday night and confined in the bastile until Tuesday, when he appeared before Hizzoner Jno. McLean and was assessed for damages.

Monday night the mercury hovered about zero lovingly and will be recorded as the coldest yet. Tuesday was a bright, pleasant day, though cool around the edges.

Genial Lew Freeman was over from Grand Forks last Friday greeting his many friends here. A sight of Lew's countenance is enough to cure a fit of blues any day.

Chas. Brown was arrested on Monday on the complaint of the Chinese laundry man for assault. He was released upon his own recognizance, after which he put up "leg bail."

JUDGE Frank Ives has called for a special grand jury for Marshall county to investigate gamblers, also to look into the methods of handling wheat now in vogue up that way.

Several lads skating on the river on Saturday evening came near furnishing us an item that we would not like to have. The ice gave way precipitating three of them into the drink but they were rescued before they forgot to breathe. Skating is nice fun, boys, but be a little careful how you crowd matters; the river is a very good place—to keep out of at this time of the year. Better go a little slow and live longer to enjoy the good solid skating later on.

REDUCTION

Merchants, generally, will till January and February, after most people have bought to make reductions in prices to move goods. We're going to reverse the usual order of things and commence right now by fixing prices that will interest you when have need. Its a mutual benefit movement helping us to reduce surplus stocks, and saving money for you on winter purchases.

Cloth Cloaks
Dress Goods
Fur Capes
-- And --
Hosiery.

Are included in the mutual benefit movement. More in detail we could not give for lack of space. Let these items speak for many.

AT 17 Cents

25 dozen Childrens assorted rib black woolen hose, double heel and toe, all sizes, qualities as high as 35c included in this

AT 20 Cents

Children's double fleeced cotton hose; double knees, improved French foot, Onyx black. Regular value 30c.

AT 19 Cents

Children's Assorted rib woolen hose, double knee toughened with a knitting of linen thread re-enforced heels and toes. All sizes, regular values 30c.

AT 27 Cents

Children's pure worsted hose assorted, ribbed, high spliced heels and full fashioned, all sizes. Values as high as 60c included in the lot.

AT 34 cents

Ladies extra heavy Cashmere hose, very fine gauge, full fashioned French foot. All sizes, values as high as 75c.

AT 31 cents

Ladies black cashmere hose high spliced heel, extra heavy Hemsdorf Dye, Regular values 60c.

FONTAINE
&
ANGLIM

The Cat Came Back

Because there was no place like the home where they used

Santa Claus Soap

This Great Soap makes home, home indeed. Keeps everything clean. Keeps the housewife and everybody happy. Try it. Sold everywhere. Made only by
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Chicago.

Frank Robinson and Miss Mary Edgar were married on Monday, Rev. Mr. Hanscom performing the ceremony.

A case of violent insanity was reported from East Grand Forks on Monday and on Tuesday morning Judge Benson went over to hold an examination.

The ticket sellers for the G. A. R. hall met with great success having sold over 150 tickets before Saturday evening. Almost everybody who was asked cheerfully took a ticket and put up his dollar.

Next Sunday is "Home Mission Rally Day" at the Congregational church. The pastor—Rev. Herman P. Fisher—will give an address in the morning; and a Home Missionary Concert will be held in the evening.

Simon C. Rice of Rindal, left for Norway last week for a visit at the old home and before he left called at and ordered the JOURNAL sent to his address while there so as to keep posted on affairs here while he is away.

Thor Halderson was in from Maple Bay, on Saturday, and did not forget to drop in and set that subscription ahead a peg. Says that threshing about his neighborhood is not all done yet and not likely to be all completed this fall.

Comrade Burnam and son returned from his hunt, on Saturday, laden with the spoils of the chase. He did not tell us exactly how many deer he "slewed" but "we reckon" he got about 'steen or such a business. His appearance shows that he got lots of good health out of the deal anyhow.

Atty. Lee, of Thief River Falls, was in the city on Tuesday.

Ed. Schreader was called to Ada on Monday, on business in the veterinary line.

Mr. Haverstad, manager of the experimental farm, went to Fargo on Monday night.

W. F. Kelso, of Hallock, went through on Monday evening on a trip to the Twin cities.

While we have no reason to find fault with the way in which subscriptions are being paid up this fall, we see some names on our list that are behind so far that we should very much like some kind of a settlement this fall and we MUST have it.

Otto Wing, who has been a resident of Dakota for a year or so, dropped in on Friday evening. Mr. Wing was once in the painting and paper-hanging business in this city and is said to be one of the best workmen in the business.

A. M. Childs commenced threshing on Friday of last week and remarked to us that he never before saw so much mud to the square acre as we are having this fall. Thinks perhaps it would not be quite so noticeable if he did not have to paddle around in it so much.

Who said anything about killing the fatted prodigal—John Paterson returned last week from wandering about in the dreary wilderness of the far, far West—and he says he has his sufficiency plum full of "going west, young man." This is plenty far enough to suit him. John says he knows when he has enough of a good thing—so he came back—as the song says.

Make a Pie

Shorten it with Cottolene instead of lard and see what a crisp crust it will have; how delicious and wholesome it will be. Pie made with Cottolene will do a dyspeptic good. Do everybody good because it is good. There is only one secret in cooking with Cottolene—use but two-thirds as much as you would naturally use of lard. Follow this rule and Cottolene will do the rest. Genuine is sold everywhere in tins with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin. Made only by
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY CHICAGO.

REV. IRL R. HICKS' Weather Predictions IS NOT ALL WIND,

But a careful Study of the Solar System and its influence on our Orb. : : :

I WILL GIVE AWAY FREE!!!

ONE YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION to IRL R. HICKS' ALMANAC, to every Customer, purchasing any kind of my Goods to the amount of $10.00 from now to Jan. 1, 1896.

My usual Low Prices will prevail; not a Penny added to the Cost of Goods.

C. H. SAAKE,
The Leading Jewele .

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, PRESIDENT. WM. ANGLIM, VICE PRESIDENT. J. W. WHEELER CASHIER'

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms

Frank Asheiman was calling on old friends in the city on Friday.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

Capt. L. S. Hancock came down from Euclid to attend the Grand Army Rally.

K. S. Aker was in from the west side to take in the dedication services and renew for the JOURNAL.

J. S. Stroble and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Evans and W. L. Davies came down from Angus to attend the G. A. R. doings on Wednesday.

The dedication services for the new G. A. R. Hall passed off very pleasantly on Wednesday. As we go to press too soon thereafter for an extended notice this appears in our next issue.

Ex-sheriff Grandyson was up from Fisher last week with that same pleasant smile of greeting that he used to wear whenever he had any specially unpleasant duty to perform.

The ladies of St. Mary's church society gave a very successful entertainment three nights last week. The proceeds climbed way up towards the $1,000 notch and the ladies have reason to feel proud of their success.

P. J. Carey was up from Eden on Saturday, and took home with him one of the finest hunting dogs he could find in the city. He may be too late for chickens this year but can fry 'em plenty next season—if the dog lives.

A. O. Busterud, who has for some time conducted a tin-shop over Alderman & Sylveter's hardware store finding his quarters too limited has rented the store formerly occupied by that firm and moved into it where he will keep a full stock of everything in his line.

A. C. Loring, who in the early day was interested with his brother-in-law Loren Fletcher in an addition to the city of Crookston, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors last week. It is said that he became involved through signing notes for friends.

Fosston is talking up the project of a creamery, and has organized a company with that well-known agitator and rustler, J. W. Galloway as president, who is now pushing things all along the line getting subscription to stock. They will no doubt make it a great success.

Frederick Myers, of Euclid, was one of the JOURNAL readers who dropped into our den on Saturday to renew his subscription and speak a hearty "God speed" to us. Mr. Myers is one of Polk county's thrifty farmers and, as a matter of course, is not doing much grumbling over the "hard times." He always makes the most of the times as he finds them.

Most Popular of Scientists.

"What scientist is that who is so popular that hundreds of people repeat his name and thousands of newspapers print it every day?" asked a gentleman seated last night out on the sidewalk in front of the Hanover hotel and talking to a group of friends sitting around him in the hearing of a reporter. "Edison," answered one. "Tesla," said another. "Huxley," cried a third. "Bell," ventured a fourth. "No," said the first speaker, "it is none of those. This popular scientist was born and died long before any of these were heard of. The man I refer to is Fahrenheit. Whenever you see a thermometer or a barometer or a weather report or prediction, there is Fahrenheit. All of the people speak his name, all the papers print it. Blow it hot or blow it cold, it is always Fahrenheit."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 18, 1895.

WHEAT—November closed at 52¾c; December, 52¾c; May, 57⅛c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 54¾c; No. 1 Northern, 53⅝c; No. 2 Northern, [illegible]c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Nov. 18, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 55¼c; No. 1 Northern, 54¼c; No. 2 Northern, 51⅞@50½c; No. 3 spring, 49⅞@50c; rejected, 37@46½c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Nov. 18, 1895.

HOGS—Market about steady with Saturday; yards cleared early to local packers. Range of prices $3.25@3.40.

CATTLE—Market steady; good demand for fat cattle and good heavy feeders. not many of receipts offered; mostly Westers going East.

SHEEP—Market slow, too many sheep on the market.

Receipts: Hogs, 200; cattle, 450; calves, 5; sheep, 1,300.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18, 1895.

HOGS — Market rather slow, prices weak to [illegible]c lower.

Sales ranged at $3.40@3.70 for light; $3.40@3.70 for mixed; $3.40@3.75 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.40@3.50 for rough.

CATTLE—Market steady to stronger.

Beeves, $3.15@4.95; cows and heifers, $1.40@3.60; Texas steers, $2.70@3.35; Westerns, $2.90@3.95; stockers and feeders, $2.25@3.65.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

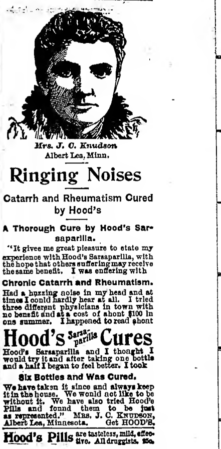
CHICAGO, Nov. 18, 1895.
CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—November, 56⅜c; December, 57½c; May, 61⅜c.

CORN — November, 28c; December, 27⅜c; May, 29⅜c.

OATS — November, 17⅜c. December, 17⅛c; May, 20⅜c.

PORK—November, $7.90; December, $7.97½; January, $9.02½; May, $9.35.



Mrs. J. C. Knudson
Albert Lea, Minn.

Ringing Noises

Catarrh and Rheumatism Cured by Hood's

A Thorough Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"It gives me great pleasure to state my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the hope that others suffering may receive the same benefit. I was suffering with Chronic Catarrh and Rheumatism.

Had a buzzing noise in my head and at times I could hardly hear at all. I tried three different physicians in town with no benefit and at a cost of about $100 in one summer. I happened to read about

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Sarsaparilla and I thought I would try it and after taking one bottle and a half I began to feel better. I took Six Bottles and Was Cured.

We have taken it since and always keep it in the house. We would not like to be without it. We have also tried Hood's Pills and found them to be just as represented." MRS. J. C. KNUDSON, Albert Lea, Minnesota. Get HOOD'S.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

S. C. Bagley was in from Fosston, on Saturday.

John McPhee was up from Lockhart on Tuesday.

M. R. Brown went out to McIntosh on Saturday.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Gunder Krostue was up from Fisher, on Saturday.

W. G. Hunt was down from McIntosh, on Monday, chatting with old-time friends.

Reports indicate that deer are quite plentiful this fall and the hunters that are out are said to be getting great fun.

Miss Ida VanCortland closed two evenings' entertainment at the Grand on Saturday evening, playing "Ingomar." Miss Van Cortland is a clever little actress and a great favorite with Crookston theatre-goers.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

An indefinable air of something good coming pervades the air, preceeding the advent of Henry Simon's military comedy drama, "At Fort Bliss," which will make its presence manifest at the opera house, Monday evening, Nov. 25th. The play bears the "well done" impress in unmistakable words of praise by critics generally. Newspapers have been lavish in their praise, not only of the play but of the cast engaged in its representation. This young man, Henry Simon, is quite as energetic as talented. One success must succeed another with startling rapidity to satisfy his ambition. Not more than two weeks ago, when that adroit manager as well as known exploiter and excellent judge of comedy-drama. Mr. Jacob Litt, who is now managing "In Old Kentucky," and the "War of Wealth" saw a performance of "At Fort Bliss" he went to the author's dressing room and did not leave it until he had secured a contract for a play by the same pen, and Mr. Simon has agreed to furnish it within sixty days, and it is highly probable that Mr. Litt will send it into this section. "At Fort Bliss" is not a war play; its scenes are laid at a military post in times of peace, and it is written on lines which teem with human interest and sparkle with rich comedy. The cast engaged in its representation is well worth serious attention; it comprises among others Rose Anthon, late leading lady with Louis James, the tragedian; Georgie Welles, a charming ingenue direct from a triumphant engagement at Hoyt's Madison Square Garden Theatre, New York; Caryl Wilbur, a leading man of metropolitan reputation, who has achieved a series of successes and Henry Simon, the author, who was until recently a comedian in the employ of Charles Frohman.

STRAYED.

From my pasture at Stephen, on Oct. 28th, four bronchos, described as follows, to-wit: One bay mare, one gray mare, one gray gelding and one black gelding with white face, all three and four-year-olds and all branded with a spear-head on left hip. When last seen they were a few miles southeast of Argyle.

[30-32] GEO. H. ROBERTS.

Horse Found.

Came to my place on Sec. 32 in the town of Russia, on Saturday, Nov. 16, 1895, one roan mare. Owner can recover same by paying charges.

[32-34] PHILIP ST. GEORGE.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

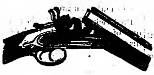
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,



PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c, size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR
1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Billious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting.........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis...........
8—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Billousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding...........
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough...................
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases,...................
28—Nervous Debility....................
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker..............
30—Urinary Weakness,..................
31—Painful Periods.....................
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance...
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."
For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

When the Battalion Charges.

The battalion has been on its feet since daybreak. There was a scanty breakfast, and while the men ate it in the distance are sounds of the coming battle. The files on the march are closed up, every sense is alive, dust everywhere, then smoke, the galloping of horses, hoarse shouts, orders and counter orders. The battle grows apace, men here and there go down, but the eight companies are there; the captains march close by the men. Sometimes through the smoke they catch a glimpse of the colonel leading on in front. Each man knows his right hand man. No one looks behind him. Somewhere quite close is Tom or Dick or Harry, the good men they have chosen as the best, and as long as they go on the rest will follow.

So the din increases, the earth is reeling underfoot, shells burst beside them with a horrid shriek and fling out quick death. Can anything alive come out of this hideous turmoil? Still they press on. A captain picks up the rifle of a man who has fallen and speaks a cheery word—all can't be lost when an old friend can make a joke. Another instant, and a cool voice they've heard before rings out an order. It is easy to obey what they have learned to obey for years. A clash of bayonets as they fix them in smart time together, a pause, a gasp for breath. "Charge!" And the long, thin line cleaves through the smoke and din and is out upon the other side and in the sunshine once again, cheering its lungs away. The battle and dear life are won.—Blackwood's Magazine.

From Oral to Written Story.

Herbert Spencer in The Contemporary Review works up that long past period whence by transition there came biographers, historians, poets and novelists. The remote ancestors of Macaulay, Tennyson, Hawthorne, Prescott, the primitive orators, poets or musicians, sat around the campfire after the chase or the fight was over, and they chatted. There was not any introspection nor retrospection, as we use the latter term today. It was present human action which interested them. The hunter told of the hard fight he had had with toothed bear or the elephant; another, a warrior, told how he had brained his foe with his stone ax or mace, and unquestionably there were much bragging and boasting. This was the first state. Then came reference to the deeds of a man's father or his great-grandfather, and the group around the fire heard something like biography. Man naturally takes an easy subject to talk about, and the audience understands it. These are matters comprehensible by the lowest intelligence. It was the stories of adventures which excited and pleased listeners, just as wa like Stevenson today. Unquestionably the old women spun their yarns. Then came in time the further development, and the priest poets had their say.

First Burning of Heresy In England.

It is quite certain that there were several cases of burning for heresy in England before 1401. This question is discussed in the preface of Arnold's edition of Wyclif's "Works," and (if I remember rightly, for I have no present means of reference) in the preface to my edition of the third text (C text) of "Piers the Plowman." William Santre was the first person burned for heresy under the new act passed in the beginning of the reign of Henry IV. All that this act did was to facilitate the process.

Before it was passed the ecclesiastics who condemned the heretics were powerless to carry out the sentence themselves. They had to hand over the criminal to the secular arm. The new act did away with this necessity, and so rendered the criminal's fate the more swift and certain. And that was all the difference; hence the popular notion that no one was burned before 1401 is a mere delusion.—Notes and Queries.

Queen Victoria's Taste In Plays.

I suspect that the queen would be a much more frequent patron of the drama were it not that so few plays produced in recent years have been suitable for presentation at court. To obtain the entree, a play has to have as clean a record as a debutante, and it must be admitted that plays have very rarely come up to that description of late. Of plays with a purpose, the queen has a wholesome horror. Her majesty has almost as great an objection to make the acquaintance of women with a past on the stage as in real life. The kind of play most to her majesty's liking is a broad comedy, with a good dab of sentiment in it. All the Guelphs have a big vein of sentiment in their composition, and if anything Queen Victoria has more than her proper share.—London Figaro.

Schlegel's Conceit.

"Here is a pleasant trait of amour propre supplied me by Schlegel. One day he read me a letter he had addressed to one of his friends. Shortly afterward I happened to see that the friend had died. I spoke of it to Schlegel, who replied, 'Yes, he is dead; but, however, he had time to receive my letter before dying.' As if," comments Constant, "the destination of the friend had been above all to read Schlegel's letter, and that, having read the letter, he might depart in peace."—Letters of Benjamin Constant.

An Interruption.

I had daily service also at St. George's, but when I began it at St. Philip's (where I now am), not a soul attended, and once my colleague was stopped by a stranger, who came in for private meditation, and said it interrupted him.—"Fifty Years," by Rev. H. Jones.

Followed Orders.

Caller—Is your mistress in?

Maid—Did you see her at the window as you came up the walk?

Caller—No.

Maid—Well, she said if you hadn't seen her to say that she was out.—Pick Me Up.

A Northwestern Blizzard

Is a dangerous place for a lone girl and it came near costing Marie St. Denis her life. If it had, that charming story

SINNERS TWAIN

Would never have been written and our readers would have missed one of the most exciting Serials we ever printed.

It Will Interest You

He Told His Love

He had sacrificed much for the object of his affections, and she—well, if you would know her answer, read the new Serial

Sinners Twain

It is a thrilling tale of life and adventure in the Canadian northwest and deals with

Blizzards and Smugglers

A Frozen Ear

Is a serious matter where two young persons are concerned. It was serious in this case, and thereby hangs a tale. The tale is entitled

Sinners Twain

And it is a Serial of most absorbing interest from the pen of John Mackie. You may [illegible]

READ IT IN THIS PAPER

Criticism by General Dragomiroff.

General Dragomiroff has expressed his dissent from the views of some English officers who praised the French regiments of the line, but thought less of the cavalry. Fine, big horses, says the general, may be no good at all for cavalry purposes. It is a mistake to require big men and massive horses. Both want plenty of food and at regular times. Mettlesome little men and horses are incomparably better for all present day purposes. Who wants them now to charge squares? They are chiefly good as advanced guards and as scouts in a strange country. The Cossack horse, which is not much bigger than a pony, is worth a dozen less spirited big cavalry horses such as the English admire.

The general has also had his say about balloons. They are very little good in his opinion, unless to the enemy. A balloon is a traitor in the sense that it reveals the whereabouts of an army, which might without it remain concealed. Those in it get a deceptive notion of the surface of the country, which looks, unless where there are high hills, quite flat. A church tower or a tall tree on an eminence is a better point of observation. The general declares the enduring little French linesman, who marches 14 hours at a stretch, to be "the most delightful being that ever was." Tears often sprang to his eyes as he saw with what spirit and cheerful temper be bore up against most trying hardships.—London News.

Russia, England, India.

India is admittedly the brightest jewel in Queen Victoria's crown, but it is not the only one. The possessions of Great Britain are found in every quarter of the globe. Her commerce, on which her home population is increasingly dependent, enters every sea and threads every important river. Her influence, if not supreme, is yet powerful among all civilized nations, and among some that are not civilized. In all that pertains to the real progress of mankind, England still leads the van. Her interests, therefore, are those of civilization itself. The same cannot be said of Russia. In all that is most precious to the statesman and philanthropist, Russia is centuries behind, and her aggrandizement, whatever it may mean for the tribes of central Asia, cannot mean progress to the world at large.

Russia seated at Constantinople would mean Russia dominant in the councils of Europe. It would mean her attainment of that ascendency to prevent which we poured out so much blood and treasure 40 years ago. This would be a danger, political, social and commercial, were India nonexistent. But the existence of India as a British dependency of course increases the peril.—Quarterly Review.

"God Save the King" With Variations.

The whirligig of time has brought changes of its own into the national anthem. In 1745 it began:

God save great George, our king!

The king's name was again inserted in that second verse, which has been used as an argument to prove that the words were written by Ben Jonson as early as 1607 to celebrate King James I's escape from the gunpowder plot:

Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On George our hopes we fix—
God save the king!

The change to the present form is:

On thee our hopes we fix, where deity has been substituted for majesty. There is another rendering, which the exigencies of the times no longer demand:

Oh, grant that Marshal Wade
Moy by thy mighty aid
Victory bring.
May he sedition hush,
And like a torrent rush,
Rebellious Scots to crush,
God save the king!

—Westminster Review.

Lombroso's Criminal Through Passion.

I was one day in a printing office correcting the proofs of my "Delinquent Man" with the chief reader. I came to a page which spoke of a young man in the diplomatic service who, impelled by jealousy only too well justified, had stabbed his fiancee with a knife and afterward stabbed himself. Sentenced to a light punishment, he had disappeared. The proofreader was this man. Suddenly he threw himself at my feet, declaring that he would commit suicide if I published this story with his name. His face, before very gentle, was completely altered and almost terrifying, and I was really afraid that he would kill himself or me upon the spot. I tore up the proofs, and for several editions omitted his story, but I had discovered the criminal through passion.—Westminster Gazette.

A Seventeen Mile Swim.

The longest swim on record as having been made by a human being in the rough sea, without any swimming or life saving apparatus whatever, was one of 17½ miles by Samuel Brock, a Yarmouth (England) fisherman, on Oct. 14, 1885. The vessel upon which he sailed was wrecked at what is known as Breeder's rock. Knowing the direction to shore, Brock struck out manfully, and finally reached it in seven hours, the distance being a fraction over 17½ miles, as given above.—St. Louis Republic.

No Business Sense.

Timmins—You remember that little book I got out called "How to Become Beautiful?" I thought it would go all right, but I have sold only two copies in eight months.

Simmons—You haven't any business sense. Call them in from the booksellers' and change the title to "How to Become More Beautiful," and the women will make a regular bargain counter rush for them.—Indianapolis Journal.

A Wrecked Life.

Winks—Old Grimes appears to be all broke up.

Jinks—No wonder. His only son plays the races, and his only daughter plays the banjo.—New York Weekly.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS
THROUGH CARS
TO
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—
HELENA, BUTTE, SPOKANE, TACOMA, SEATTLE, PORTLAND
PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS, ELEGANT DINING CARS, TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Duluth and West Superior. 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.
have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent. N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT
The Choicest Cuts
At Lowest Rates?
Try George Vine's New
MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block—Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,
Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON............President
L. ELLINGTON............Vice President
J. W. WHEELER............Cashier
A. P. HANSON............Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER
HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.

Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK-BOOK FREE!

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook-Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE.

In Exchange for 20 LARGE [illegible] HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, [illegible] etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture [illegible] in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. [illegible] TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer !!!

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-Class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily

For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at............7:25 p.m.

For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at........7:23 a.m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust

Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE.

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake. Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell. Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back sealed day coaches especially adapted for long distance travelling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p.m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a.m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p.m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,

or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

RAPID DISHWASHER

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.

W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

Repudiated the Relationship.

"Lemme out!" yelled the chimpanzee. "Lemme out. I want to get at 'im."

"Why, Jocko," said his mate, "what on earth is the matter?"

"See that dude going along the gravel walk?"

"Yes."

"Well, I'm after him. I heard him say he believed we were his ancestors."—Washington Star.

Unmodified.

She—Would you say that Miss Corduroy had irregular features?

He—Hardly that. I think it were more correct to speak of them as distinctly plain.—Boston Transcript.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Do You Want a Home?

Or to Invest in Lands?

The following Lands in Polk County are offered for sale at $250 per Quarter Section and upward—Easy terms to reliable parties:

T 148, R 44
SW ¼ 28....................A. Nephew
T 148, R 45
SE ¼ 6....................J. Sylvesterson
T 148, R 46
SE ¼ 6....................J. Montague
T 149, R 44
S ½ SW¼ 4, N ½ NW ¼ 9 J. Bombardier
T 149, R 45
NW ¼ 8....................O. Langvin
NE ¼ 30....................J. Moore
E½E½32....................S. Johnson
T 140, R 46
SW¼ 20....................L. Haher
T 150, R 41
NE¼ 29....................L. Stone
T 150, R 42
NE¼ 10....................I. Dagneau
T 150, R 43
NW¼ 17....................H. Desotelle
NE¼ 33....................N. Gaudette
NE¼ 23....................A. Besson
T 150, R 44
NW¼ 8....................N. Bell
SE¼SW¼Lot 4 of 30, NE¼NW¼Lot 1 of 31....................D. Vaudrin
T 150, R 45
SW¼ 12....................P. Lemieux
SW¼ 24....................M. Desantells
W½ SE¼ E½ SW¼ 26........G. Beauvais
T 150, R 46
NW¼ 12....................H. Pare
T 151, R 42
NE–8....................J. R. Chinquay
NE¼NW¼9, N½NE¼9, NW¼ NW¼10 ....L. Vincent
T 151, R 43
SE¼ 15....................H. D. McIntyre
NE¼ 18....................C. Linde
T 151, R 44
N½SE¼ 34....................C. J. Gervais
T 151, R 45
W½ SE and NE of SE....................
SE¼ 4....................John Jones
E½E¼ 12....................J. W. Berry
NE¼ 18....................I. Goyette
T 151, R 46
SW¼ 10....................F. Benoit
NE¼ 24....................L. Gauthier
SE¼ 24....................A. Lollberti
T152, R 43
W½ of E¼ 28....................J. Beaulieu
T 152, R 44
N½ SE¼ SW SE¼ 10............B. O. Loe
NE¼ 25....................S. H. Kennedy
SW¼ 25....................L. C. Comstock
T 152, R 45
NW¼ 25....................G. T. Carroll
SW¼ 34....................Edwin Neill
T 152, R 49
NE¼ 24....................Jas. Browalee
T 153, R 44
NW¼ 25....................J. F. Ives
T 153, R 45
E½ SW¼. Lots 3 and 4, of 18.....J. Labounta.
T 154, R 45
SE¼ 28....................L. C. Gooler
S½ of N½ 32....................H. Boatalu

I will be at the Commercial Hotel, Crookston until further notice. Now is the time to buy Cheap Land.

H. P. BOLLES.

WHITNEY IS NOT A CANDIDATE

Would Not Accept Presidential Nomination Under Any Consideration.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—William O. Whitney's rumored candidacy for president is positively denied by one of Philadelphia's most prominent financiers who is closely connected with Mr. Whitney in the traction syndicate and other enterprises. He says that it is true when President Cleveland visited Mr. Whitney on the occasion of Miss Whitney's marriage he and his ex-secretary of the navy did discuss national politics at the meeting between them, but it is true also that Mr. Whitney's name was not mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination, nor did Mr. Cleveland express a desire that Mr. Whitney should become the Democratic standard bearer in next year's presidential struggle.

The Philadelphian asked Mr. Whitney a day or two ago to define his position on the question of his becoming the Democratic nominee for president. "I have denied that report so often," Mr. Whitney said, "that I do not intend paying any more intention to it. But to you I will repeat, under no consideration will I accept the nomination for president."

Oklahoma Statehood Convention.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Nov. 19.—Hon. Sidney Clarke, chairman of Oklahoma's statehood executive committee, has called a statehood convention to meet at Shawnee Dec. 4. The convention promises to be the largest and most important statehood meeting ever held in the territory. A strong delegation will be sent to Washington from Oklahoma and the Chickasaw Nation to push the claims for statehood.

Currie to Succeed Dufferin.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Chronicle says that it is understood that Sir Philip Currie will succeed the Marquis of Dufferin, formerly British ambassador to France, when the Turkish troubles are settled.

Terrific Explosion of Naphtha.

WHITING, Ind., Nov. 16.—A tank containing 500,000 gallons of naphtha, owned by the Standard Oil company, exploded shortly after 11 o'clock. It is not thought that any lives have been lost.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY.

State.

Governor....................David M. Clough
Lieutenant Governor....................Frank A. Da
Secretary of State....................F. P. Brown
Attorney General....................H. W. Childs

Congressional.

Member of Congress, 7th dist...Frank M. Eddy

Legislative.

Senator 51st Sen. dist....................P. M. Ringdal
Representatives 51st Sen. dist...John D. Knuteson, S. J. Lee and N. L. Nelson.

Judicial.

Chief Justice....................Charles M Start
Associate Justices Supreme Court.......Thomas Canty, Daniel Buck, Wm. Mitchell and Loren W. Collins.
Judge 14th Jud. Dist....................Frank Ives
Clerk of Court....................John Vig

County.

Auditor....................John Oleason
Treasurer....................J. T. Beaudry
Register of Deeds....................A. N. Wickstrom
Attorney....................L. E. Gossman
Sheriff....................Andrew Steenerson
Judge of Probate....................C. M. Benson
Supt. of Schools....................O. McCrillis
Surveyor....................G. L. Hamery
Coroner....................John S. Dwyer

County Commissioners.

First District....................John E. Oppegaard
Second District....................Anton Lindem
Third District....................M. E. Kirsch
urth District....................Henry Norland
fifth District....................A. C. Rhinehart

THE CITY.

Mayor....................John McKinnon
Clerk....................W. A. Lauetot
Office in McKinnon Block.
Treasurer....................Ole O. Christianson
Office in Anderson block.
Comptroller....................August Georg
Assessor....................C. D. Mix
City Attorney....................Martin O'Brian
City Engineer....................George Ralph
City Justices—John McLean, Geo. H. Holt McKinnon Block.
Constables....................A. A. Glenn, Wm. Bloom
Chief of Police....................Frank Creamer

ALDERMEN.

At Large....................C. E. Sawyer
First Ward.......A. G. Anderson, Geo. O. Buhn
Second "............J. E. Morrisay, E. C. Davis
Third "............Wm. Watts, M. E. Kirsch
Fourth "............N. S. Gervais, C. W. Motz
Fifth "............A. McGregore, E. D. Childs

TOWN CLERKS.

The following is a list of the Town clerks for the several towns in Polk county:

Andover,	E. M. Bivins,	Crookston
Angus,	J. M. Palmer	Angus
Black River	P A Eckstrom,	Wylie
Bray	C C Ecklund	Wylie
Badger,	P N Savalrud,	Erskine
Brandsvold	Ole Nelson	Fosston
Belgium	Henry Biever,	Euclid
Brislet	A P Frank	Warren
Bygland	....	....
Crookston	L. C. Convrette	Crookston
Crookston, city	W A Lanetot	Crookston
Columbia	John O Johnson	Fosston
Chester	E L Wichterman	Lindsay
Emardville	Charlie Asp	Brooks
Euclid	H C Misner	Euclid
Eden	Neri A Skele	Olga
Esther	Carl M Lindgren	E G Forks
Fairfax	Wm Himmelsbach	Crookston
Farley	W A Lambart	Warren
Fanny	J O McWaters	Euclid
Fisher	Peter L Tofte	Fisher
Fisher, vil	....	....
Fertile, vil.	L E George	Fertile
Gd. Forks	Robart Anderson	E G Forks
Gd. Forks, city	....	....
Garfield	Iver J Ingebretson,	Fertile
Garden	John Hanson	Ringdal
Gentilly	H T Gondrou	Gentilly
Gervais	Alex Patnode	R L Falls
Grand Park	E E Abbot	Mentor
Godfrey	D T Mitchell	Maple Bay
Hammond	Ernest Hanna	Crookston
Higdem	Ole Hendrickson	Northland
Hill River	Fred S Syverson	Lindsay
Hubbard	Andrew Moreson	Nellsville
Keystone	D M Geddes	Bockersville
Huntsville	G H Froats	G Forks
Kertsonville	Fred Benoit	Gentilly
King	....	....
Knute	Lars E Nelson	Erskine
Lake Pleasant,	John Perrault	R L Falls
Lambert	Samuel Gibean	Lambert
Liberty	Nelson Clementson	Fertile
Lessor	Chas Matteson	Ovelia
Lowell	Ole Christianson	Crookston
Louisville	A D Berry	Huot
Nesbit	James Ollmore	Mallory
North	Henry Bye	T R Falls
Norden	B D Baardson	T R Falls
Northland	M S Merager	E G Forks
Nunmedal	Hesmar E Albna	Twedt
Onstad	W A Marin	Melvin
Parnell	S W Bleau	Huot
Poplar River	J B Hebert	Brooks
Polk Centre	Chas. Peterson	Wylie
Queen	Hans S Honkom	Fosston
R L F, village	Simon Paul	R L Falls
Red Lake Falls	Ildalg Baril	R L Falls
Reis	D C Hallock	Edna
River Falls	K O Gigstad	St. Hilaire
Rockshurg	P Engelstad	T R Falls
Roome	Andrew Elby	Fisher
Rosecnd	John E Jnvernd	Fosston
Russia	....	....
	Oscar Wick	OE
Sanders	Nils K Anderson	St. Hilaire
Sandsville	Henry Nelson	Northland
St. Hilaire	....	....
Sletten	Ingebret Larson	Winger
Sullivan	James F Sullivan	E G Forks
Tabor	F J Cernousek	Tabor
Terrebonna	Edonor Perruse	Terrebonne
Tilden	Otto H. Cemps	Dugdale
ytsTud	....	....
Vineland	....	....
Winger	Albert Johnson	Rindal
Woodside	Thos Haldorson	Maple Bay
Wyandotte	G J Johnson	St. Hilaire
R FaT	Lars Backa	T R Falls

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

FOUND.

Came on my premises, a Holstein cow, about four years old, a week ago. Owner can recover same by applying to

ED. ROBERTS,
Sec. 18, Town of Fairfax.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co. Milwaukee, Wis.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

MADE IN CONGRESS.

CATCHY PHRASES THAT HAVE COME INTO COMMON USE.

The First Buncombe Speech Was Delivered In 1820—Blaine and Conkling In Debate. Famous Sentences Pronounced by Statesman When Not In Congress.

Many of the best known and most quoted phrases with which the American people are familiar originate in congress.

There is no reason why, if a good thing is said upon the floor of the senate or house, the country should not know it in 24 hours. With a press gallery thronged with correspondents who are always ready and eager to pick up the novel phrase or the apt description, with the great press associations distributing the debates from one end of the country to the other, and with newspapers only too anxious to give currency to the latest expression, a man who says a good thing in congress one afternoon may wake up the next morning and find his saying in everybody's mouth. There is something in the atmosphere of congress, too, that develops the latent wit and inspires to repartee. If a senator or a representative has anything in him at all, it is bound to come out in a rough and tumble debate with a political opponent. Many of the congressmen have already had their genius in this direction tested upon the stump and know how to hold their own in the face of all comers. It does not always follow, however, that a statesman who is good in debate will achieve fame by uttering a phrase that becomes popular.

To go back to the beginning of congressional history is to discover many phrases uttered in congress which are still current. It was as far back as 1820, for instance, that Felix Walker, a member of the North Carolina district which included Buncombe county, apologized for the emptiness of his remarks by stating that he had to make a speech "just for Buncombe." This is a saying which has come down through the years as a byword. "Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever," was uttered by Webster in his famous reply to Hayne. Lincoln's "with malice toward none and charity toward all" was first heard in the halls of congress when his second inaugural address was read to the assembled representatives. In later years Senator Ingalls contributed a number of epigrammatic sentences, the best known of which perhaps was uttered in his wordy duel with Senator Brown of Georgia. The latter had a habit of rubbing his hands together as he talked, and Ingalls, with bitter emphasis, described him as "washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water." Another remark by Ingalls was much quoted at the time. He was discussing the oleomargarine bill and said regarding certain dairy products that he stood "in awe at their strength and reverence for their antiquity." In Proctor Knott's widely copied Duluth speech occurs that phrase, "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," a title which Duluth has always proudly kept.

Blaine and Conkling, with all their greatness, left no single phrase as a legacy of their participation in congressional debates. "Burn these letters" was often quoted after the Mulligan affair, but this sentence was not first uttered in congress. The famous debate between the two men, which estranged their whole lives, occurred in April, 1866, over a very trivial matter—the continuance of the bureau of the provost marshal general. It gave Blaine, however, a chance to satirize Conkling in a single sentence. An article written by Theodore Tilton had appeared in which Conkling had been likened to Winter Davis. "The resemblance is great," exclaimed Blaine, with pungent satire. "It is striking! Hyperion to a satyr, Thersites to Hercules, mud to marble, a dunghill to a diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion."

Another debate in which Conkling, then in the senate, was a conspicuous figure, resulted in a sentence which has not been forgotten. Senator Lamar of Mississippi had resented as a falsehood a charge of broken faith made by Mr. Conkling, and the latter retorted that Lamar was a coward, a blackguard and a liar. The Mississippi senator, who had never been accused of cowardice, looked over to his opponent and sarcastically apologized for his first remark. "It was one," he said, "such as no good man would deserve and no brave man would wear." Then he waited for Conkling to reply, but the New York senator was silent.

Many of the sharp things said in congress are left out of The Record. Cobb's "Where was I at?" does not appear in official print, and Senator Wolcott's quotation of the Spanish proverb to Senator Carey, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass," has also been cut out. A few famous sentences came very near having their origin in congress. Davy Crockett, the author of "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," was a member of the house of representatives for two years, but it does not appear that this oft quoted advice was originated with him there. Henry Clay's "I would rather be right than president" was said to some friends at the capitol, but not in public debate. Senator Sherman, too, is the author of the "mending fences" phrase, although he waited until he was at his home in Mansfield before he uttered it. While Hayes was still president and Mr. Sherman was secretary of the treasury he entertained hopes of a presidential nomination. Just before the Republican national convention met he went to Mansfield, and while there was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. Sherman denied having traveled to Ohio to promote his presidential aspirations. "I have simply come," he said, "to mend my fences, which are greatly in need of repair."—Washington Post.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U.S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Think Cuba Should Be Free.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The following resolution was passed Sunday at a patriotic mass meeting in People's Temple: "Resolved, That we, as citizens of Boston and New England, unite in asking President Grover Cleveland to do for Cuba all things in his power by granting belligerent rights. It is our faith that Cuba should be free."

Honored Joseph Jefferson.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Nearly all of the prominent actors and theatrical managers in New York were included in the company of 300 which assembled at the Garden Theater during the afternoon to present to Joseph Jefferson a massive silver cup, the gift of more than 1,000 members of the dramatic profession.

Probert Again Arrested.

WASHBURN, Wis., Nov. 10.—Banker A. C. Probert was arrested during the morning—a second time within two weeks—this time on a charge of embezzlement. Mr. Probert owes depositors nearly $150,000, and the state bank examiner a few days ago made a report showing that the cash resources of his three institutions aggregated only $550.

WAS BOARDED BY SPANIARDS.

The American Brig Harriet G Searched in Cuban Waters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The American brig Harriet G arrived at Quarantine from Nuevitas, Cuba. The Harriet G is owned by Mosle Bros. of this city, and trades regularly between New York and Nuevitas. She sailed from this port on Aug. 29 last, and reached Nuevitas on Sept. 19, where she discharged her cargo. On Oct. 3 a Spanish officer, with several soldiers, boarded the brig and made a through search for a large quantity of arms which the Spanish officers had been informed were on board the vessel. The brig was ransacked from stem to stern, but no arms were found.

The Spanish officers went so far as to demand that Captain Miller remove from below all his anchor chains. This the captain refused to do and the officers were reluctantly forced to leave the vessel. The United States consul was on board at the time, but could do nothing.

A tablespoonful of powdered alum sprinkled in a barrel of water will precipitate all impurities to the bottom.

IVORY SOAP

IVORY

99 44/100 % PURE

DON'T ACCEPT IMITATIONS.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,

GRAIN WHEAT. BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.

COMMISSION.

504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

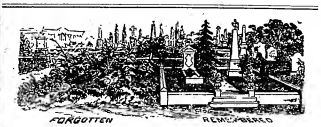
IF YOU WANT

Photographs!

WHY NOT GET THE BEST?

MURI MAKES THEM

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.

Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.

REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE

E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

MISSING ISSUE

Place of Publication: (Crookston)

Title: POLK COUNTY JOURNAL

Date: Nov 28, 1895

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY DECEMBER 5 ~~28,~~ 1895. NO 34.

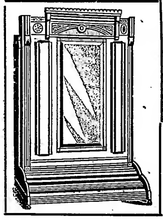
MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Historical Soc

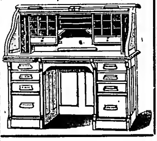
CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

FOLDING BEDS,
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00



OFFICE DESK.
Oak Polished, 5 ft. - $30.00



Best All-Wool Carpet
Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels
Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper
5 c. to 35 c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES
$2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:
We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

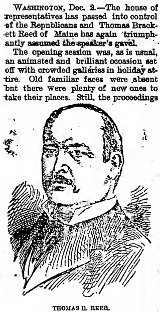
MR. REED IS SPEAKER

THE MAN FROM MAINE ELECTED TO HIS OLD POSITION.

The First Days Business Confined to the Election and Drawing Seats—But Little Will Be Done in Either House Till Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The house of representatives has passed into control of the Republicans and Thomas Brackett Reed of Maine has again triumphantly assumed the speaker's gavel.

The opening session was, as is usual, an animated and brilliant occasion set off with crowded galleries in holiday attire. Old familiar faces were absent but there were plenty of new ones to take their places. Still, the proceedings themselves as is usual with the opening sessions were of a routine character and devoid of interesting or sensational features. The house simply organized adopted the usual resolutions to notify the president and the senate that the house was ready for business and wound up by indulging in the biennial lottery, or seat-drawing contest.



THOMAS B. REED.
[Speaker of the house.]

Speaker Reed the Star.

Speaker Reed was beyond question the star of the occasion. His appearance was the signal for a most flattering and enthusiastic demonstration. His inaugural was modest and full of good feeling, but non-committal as to policies. However, it was not expected that the speaker would touch the questions to be dealt with by the house. Ex-Speaker Crisp assumed the leadership of the minority, and it was significant that Mr. Payne of New York made the motion which usually devolves upon the leader of the majority. This is taken to mean that he is to be chairman of the ways and means committee and the recognized leader of the Republicans on the floor.

THE USUAL ROUTINE.

The Proceedings in the Senate Not Marked by Anything Unusual.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Nothing happened in the senate on the first day that had not been expected. The body was called to order by Vice President Stevenson. The new senators and those who had been re-elected were sworn in. A committee was appointed to notify the president and the usual resolutions incident to the beginning of a session were introduced. The senate took a recess of an hour at 12:28 p. m., and at at 1:30 adjourned after an absolutely uneventful session. The new senators and those re-elected were sworn in groups. In the first group were Messrs. Bacon, Baker, Berry and Butler. Then came Messrs. Caffery, Carter, Chandler and Chilton. Following them were Elkins, Frye, Cullom, Gear, and after them Hoar, Lindsay, McBride, McMillan, Burrows, Martin, Morgan, Nelson, Pettigrew, Sewell, Shoupe, Thurston, Tillman, Walthall, Warren and Wetmore.

The last group attracted special attention, being led by ex-Governor Tillman of South Carolina dispensary fame, arm in arm with Mr. George of Mississippi, behind whom came Mr. Walthall of Mississippi and Mr. Blackburn of Kentucky.

Democrats Will Continue in Control.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Senator Faulkner of West Virginia said concerning the organization of the senate: "We cannot turn the senate over to the Republicans until they have the votes. Even with the two senators from Utah they will not have a majority unless Nevada votes with them, which is expected. Until that time we will have to continue in control."

Republican Caucus Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Republican senators were in caucus for half an hour after the senate adjourned, but adjourned until Wednesday without taking any action on reorganization.

NOT MUCH BUSINESS

Little Will Be Done by Congress the First Week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The first week of the Fifty-fourth congress promises nothing at either end of the Capitol in the way of actual legislation. The time before the Christmas holidays is usually devoted to preliminary matters and the work of the session does not begin until after the recess. The new congress will probably not be an exception to this rule. The senate proceedings may be enlivened by an attempt at reorganization but in the house nothing can be done until the committees are appointed. Speaker Reed says that the committees will not be announced this week with, perhaps, a single exception—the committee on rules. This committee formulates the rules which are to govern the house during its session and it is customary for the speaker to name it during the first week in order that it can immediately begin its labors. While it is believed that the rules of the Fifty-first congress over which Mr. Reed presided will be reported for the guidance of the present house, it is understood that a few changes will be made as a result of the experience which are to still further facilitate the business of the house.

HARRY HAYWARD'S SUSPENSION

Believed It Will Occur on Friday, December 13

ST. PAUL, Nov. 30.—The Daily Globe says: Harry T. Hayward will doubtless be executed on Friday, Dec. 13—one week from next Friday. Governor Clough has not yet named the day of the hanging, but the conditions justify the conclusion that upon the day named will occur the terrible sequel to the most sensational and atrocious murder in the history of the Northwest. County Attorney Frank M. Nye is known to favor the 13th. That fact has been no special secret for some days. The governor has expressed a desire to consult with the county prosecutor before finally determining in regard to this matter. Mr. Nye will on Monday next visit his excellency, and immediately after that conference the governor will issue the order designating the date of the hanging. There has been a great feeling that while the governor would not care to have any great length of time elapse before the execu- [illegible]

CHILDS INTERVENES

MINNESOTA ATTORNEY GENERAL GETS INTO THE PEARSALL CASE.

He Declined to Do So When the Case Was on Trial Before Judge Sanborn, but Now Appears on the Appeal by Consent of All Parties.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 29.—Attorney General Childs has intervened on behalf of the state in the appeal of the injunction suit of Thomas W. Pearsall against the Great Northern Railway company. This is the case in which Mr. Pearsall, a stockholder in the Great Northern, applied to the United States court for an injunction to prevent that company from consolidating with the Northern Pacific. When the hearing came up before Judge Sanborn, General Childs was given an opportunity to intervene on behalf of the state, but he declined to do so. The case was decided by Judge Sanborn in favor of the company. General Childs then, on behalf of the state, began a action of a similar nature in the district court, and a few days ago Judge Kelly granted the injunction asked for, his decision being directly contradictory of that of Judge Sanborn. Mr. Pearsall has taken an appeal from the decision of Judge Sanborn to the supreme court of the United States, and by consent of all parties to the record, General Childs has been allowed to intervene. He has accordingly prepared a brief, a copy of which was furnished to the Various Parties Interested.

In his brief General Childs reviews the act of the legislature granting the original charter on the terms of which the company claims the right to consolidate. He also reviews the various succeeding acts by which that right, he contends, was taken away, if the legislature had ever intended to grant it. He then goes on to argue that it has always been the policy of the state to prevent such consolidations as the one contemplated, quoting from the laws of 1874 and 1881 to bear out this view, and also from decisions of the supreme court to show that actual consolidation was what was aimed at in this case. He urges that the permission to consolidate granted by the charter refers to lines lying in the same general direction, but not competing, the acquisition of which might merely act as an extension of the lines of the defendant.

General Childs next argues as to the right of the legislature to amend the charter of the company so as to take away this right, if it had ever been intended to permit it to consolidate with parallel or competing lines.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON TALKS.

Cleveland's Fishing Companion Says He Doesn't Want a Third Term.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 3.—The Pioneer Press has the following regarding Mr. Cleveland and a third term:

Grover Cleveland will not be a candidate for a third term. He would not accept the nomination if it were offered him by unanimous vote of the Democratic convention. The closest friend that President Cleveland has, aside from his political associates, perhaps the closest personal friend he has outside of his family, said that President Cleveland was finishing his last term in the White House, and after the 4th of March, 1897, he would become an ex-president and would remain that way.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson is very fully informed as to what the president's plans, political as well as private, are, and he says that there will never be any question about the advisability of a third term so far as the present occupant of the White House is concerned. Mr. Jefferson does not ordinarily talk much about the companion of his summer fishing trips, but he made no sort of secrecy about the statement he made. He stated it as a self evident fact that all the world ought to know.

Will Not Be Bothered Any More.

The statement was made in conversation at the Ryan hotel.

"I suppose that the president enjoys getting out on the water, where he is quite certain that he can't be got at by politicians," suggested one of the gentlemen.

"So glad," said the old actor, turning away from his easel and speaking very deliberately, "that he will never be bothered with them again after his present term expires. Mr. Cleveland will never accept another nomination and would not have become a candidate in 1892 but for Mrs. Cleveland. She desired it so earnestly that he went into it himself with the idea of winning. But nothing can change his present determination not to run again."

The conversation became general again and it transpired that during the past summer an arrangement was made that will be carried out when the president retires. He will make a trip around the world and his companions on the journey will be Mr. Benedict, who no one knows except as the owner of the yacht upon which Mr. Cleveland makes his fishing excursions, and Charles Jefferson, the fisherman, who taught him what he knows of the gentle art.

To Subscribers.

Where you send money to us on subscription see that the address on your copy of the JOURNAL is changed to correspond with your payment. Should it fail to be so changed in two weeks please notify this office at once. A change in the figures on your copy is a receipt for money.

RUSSELL SAGE WINS.

New York Millionaire Defeats the Manitoba Road in the Court of Appeals.

A Final Decision in the Famous Hastings and Dakota Land Case.

Decision Means $280,000 to Winner—Costs Aggregate $100,000.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4.—Judge Sanborn of the United States circuit court of appeals has handed down an opinion in the case of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway company, appellant, vs. Russell Sage, trustee, affirming with costs the opinion of the United States circuit court, district of Minnesota, which was in favor of Mr. Sage. The suit involves 26,000 acres of land and has been in the state and federal courts since 1866.

While Minnesota was yet a territory in 1857, a railroad company, since absorbed by the present plaintiff, was granted rich concessions which were not taken advantage of promptly. Meantime the Hastings and Dakota railroad, in which Russell Sage has a controlling interest, was granted territory overlapping the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba grant.

The final decision of the appellate court affirming the circuit court's decree is that the latter company was dilatory, and, in consequence, its concession remained in the market.

Mr. Sage is ahead about $280,000, while the costs have aggregated nearly $100,000.

SUSTAINED THE VERDICT.

Keepers of Vicious Animals Responsible for Damages.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The general term of the court of common pleas sustained the verdict of $2,500 obtained by Mrs. Kate Lawler against Theatrical Manager T. H. French. The plaintiff's husband was employed by French at the American theater as a stage hand and was kicked by a horse last June in the play "The Prodigal Daughter," from the effects of which he died.

The court finds that in action for injury by a vicious animal the keeper of the animal is the responsible party.

Fastest Regular Train in the World.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 3.—The New York Central railroad demonstrated its ability to run the fastest regular train in the world. The entire run of 440 miles, from New York to Buffalo, including three stops and exclusive of delay of 26 minutes, was made in 494 minutes.

The Report Was False.

HAVANA, Dec. 3.—The report which was cabled to the United States to the effect that the insurgent leader Rego had surrendered with 250 followers, at Cifuentes, has been proved false by subsequent events, but the report was received from reliable sources.

Introduced the First Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Representative Linton of Michigan has the distinction of having introduced the first bill in the house of the Fifty-fourth congress. It is in the interest of the railway postal clerks.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and its functions, it is important that the blood should be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs brings on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

Arrangements have just been completed whereby the greatest success of the age, Paul M. Potter's adaptation of DuMaurier's famous novel, "Trilby," with all its magnificent scenery, customs, music and stage furniture, together with A. M. Palmer's great dramatic company, will visit this city, and appear at the opera house on next Tuesday evening. This will be the only engagement here of Trilby, as the company have engagements to visit all the larger Northwestern cities. Trilby is said to be a strange, weird, powerful, intensely interesting play, admirably noted at every point, beautifully staged, and received with the greatest possible favor everywhere.

DISTRICT COURT.

Monday, Dec. 2, at 10 o'clock, district court for Polk county convened; Hon. Judge Ives on the bench. The other officers of the court, clerk, sheriff and his deputies, county attorney and stenographer on hand to perform their respective duties. The usual number of attorneys were present; those from out of town being Messrs. Bennett and Hendricks, of Fosston; Messrs. Grady and Lee, of Thief River Falls and Mr. McDermont, from Grand Forks.

The call of the Grand Jurors was the first order of business. Twenty-two answered, one was excused and twenty-one sworn for duty.

The judge gave the usual charge, closing with instructions to look after the wheat-buyers and their reported methods of beating down the grades of wheat on the plea that the higher grade bins were full and nothing but a lower grade could be given. The Court told the jury they had a right to investigate this matter, and to require summons to be issued for each witnesses as they deemed necessary. "It goes to a vital part of our existence," said the Court, "when you take from the farmer that which he has worked hard for, without a just equivalent. If their action is unlawful the sooner you act in the matter the better it will be for the country." Arny Grundysen was appointed foreman.

A preliminary call of the calendar showed 94 civil and 7 criminal cases. After the preliminary call cases were set for a week or more ahead. The first case to be tried is that of Rosaaen Bros. vs. H. O. Koppang; A. A. Miller, Esq., attorney for plaintiff and H. Steenerson for defendant. Set for Tuesday morning.

2 P. M. DEC. 2.

After convening the Court heard several motions for dismissal, continuance, judgment on the pleadings, etc., taking up most of the time in the afternoon.

A matter which caused no little interest came up in the afternoon. Mr. H. W. Lee wanted the judge to punish H. Steenerson for contempt of court. This matter started some weeks ago when the two gentlemen were arguing a motion before the judge at chambers. Mr. Steenerson felt justified in answer to some of Mr. Lee's abusive language, as he termed it, to refute it a la Corbett style. The judge interposed and prevented Steenerson carrying out his design to "punch" Lee's face. Upon this ground of assault Mr. L. thought Mr. S. was in contempt. The matter was presented to the Court today and His Honor, being aware of all the circumstances, said if Mr. Steenerson was willing to apologize to the Court for the affrontery shown there, that would be the last of it. Mr. Steenerson promptly apologized to the court, saying that he had no intention to show any disrespect, and that the assault was provoked by the abusive language of the other attorney. (First round—honors easy.)

A motion to strike out demurrer in the case of H. Steenerson vs. Great Northern R. R. Co. and P. & J. Meehan, intervenors, was argued and submitted. A motion on the part of the intervenors for judgment on pleadings was argued and denied.

Case of school district No. 103 vs. Jos. Lajumbe, A. C. Wilkinson and H. Steenerson, attorneys, continued by consent.

Mary E. McAvoy, vs. A. E. Brush, continued. Wm. Watts and H. Steenerson, attorneys.

Johannu Lindfors vs. Axel Thorson, et al, continued. O. J. Vaule and J. A. Hendricks, attorneys.

C. J. Knox vs. P. & J. Meehan, continued. I. C. Richardson, Lee & Grady, attorneys.

Ole Cligaard vs. A. G. Ness, settled. I. C. Richardson and Wm. Watts, attorneys.

Martin Swenson vs. Realization and Debenture Corporation and Andrew Steenerson, continued. H. Steenerson and A. A. Miller, attorneys.

John Pateaude vs. Archibald McKinnon stricken from calendar on motion of defendant's counsel. Wm. Watts and Martin O'Brien, attorneys.

Several appeal cases were placed on the calendar.

The case of State of Minnesota vs. Casper Hanson, found last term against defendant for selling liquors without a license at Erskine was disposed of by defendant pleading guilty. The Court passed sentence to the effect that he pay a fine of $50 and in addition stand committed to the county jail for thirty days.

There are now 26 prisoners in charge at the county jail; seven serving sentence and 19 whose cases are to be looked into by the Grand jury.

A BIG FIGHT.

The merchants and elevator men are involved in the biggest kind of a fight and an interesting time is promised. Not long since the board trade took action on the wheat situation and furnished cars and facilities for shipping wheat for all farmers who desired to ship that way, whereupon the elevator men threatened, if that state of things continued, to put in a general store and cut the life out of prices and thus "bring the business men to their senses," they said. The board of trade paid no attention to the threat but kept right on with their shipping wheat, and now a store building has been rented and a large general stock will be put in "to teach the merchants a healthy lesson." In response to this bid the board of trade will at once take steps to build two elevators to go into the wheat handling business in due and ancient form, and if the farmers know which side their bread is buttered on they will stand by their home merchants and the board of trade that have shown such a commendable to help them get their rights in the wheat market. If the farmers are true-blue and stand by their friends it will teach the elevator men a much-needed and salutory lesson, but if the farmers, for the sake of a few cheap bargains this winter, patronize the new store it will ruin their own merchants and later on they will be obliged to pay the entire cost of the war with interest added—and have the same old deal in the wheat market.

WEDDING BELLS.

The wedding bells rang out merrily on Thanksgiving Day for "one of the finest" on Crookston's police force, when our handsome 1st patrolman John Kyle was united in marriage to Miss Ida Bug, at the Episcopal church in Mentor; Rev. S. Currie tying the silken knot. For sometime we have observed a studious, far-away sort of an expression on John's face, just as though he was a student, going to school every day and studying over his lesson at night—and now we understand it, for Miss Bug was a teacher, one of the best of Polk county's efficient corps of educators—and John had his lesson so well learned on Thanksgiving Day that he recited the Episcopal ceremony without a skip. Wilbur Sisson officiating as best man and Miss Belle Kyle was bridesmaid. The happy couple came to Crookston on the evening train and have gone to housekeeping in a neat little residence on Ash street. John is too well known as one of the most trustworthy and efficent policemen Crookston ever had so we need not mention that. The JOURNAL adds its blessing to the congratulations of hosts of friends.

While all the people in Trilby, the great wierd, powerful, fascinating play, which A. M. Palmer is to present at the opera house on next Tuesday, Dec 10th, are not all good people, neither are they in any play worth a place on the stage. The world is made up of good and evil people, and the drama is simply a reflex of human nature. Svengali, one of DuMaurier's great creations, for instance, is a double-dyed scoundrel, but happiness and good cheer offset his work and dominate the play as well as the book. It is said that Mr. Paul M. Potter has done the work of dramatizing with a master hand, and the result is a play which everyone in this city and vicinity will surely want to see. This will be the only opportunity to witness this great work about which the whole English world is talking.

Catarrh in the Head

Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of cases of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease. It also builds up the system and prevents attacks of pneumonia, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.
[11-tf] A. F. GEORGE, Opera Block.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

CONGRESS INFORMED OF OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS AND FINANCES.

Venezuelan Question Made an Occasion for Reiterating Monroe Doctrine. Greenbacks Should Be Retired and National Bank Notes Substituted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The president's message, read before congress Tuesday, deals almost entirely with our foreign relations and the financial question, departmental reports being entirely left out. In the beginning of the message the president says:

The present assemblage of the legislative branch of our government occurs at a time when the interests of our people and the needs of the country give especial prominence to the condition of our foreign relations and the exigencies of our national finances. The reports of the heads of the several administrative departments of the government fully and plainly exhibit what has been accomplished within the scope of their respective duties and present such recommendations for the betterment of our country's condition as patriotic and intelligent labor and observation suggest. I therefore deem my executive duty adequately performed at this time by presenting to congress the important phases of our situation as related to our intercourse with foreign nations and a statement of the financial problems which confront us, omitting, except as they are related to these topics, any reference to departmental operations.

The Venezuelan Matter.

In the matter of the dispute between England and Venezuela, which involves probably more directly than any question of late years the Monroe doctrine, the president says the position of this government was fully and distinctly set forth. The general conclusions therein reached and formulated are, in substance, that the traditional established policy of this government is firmly opposed to a forcible increase by any European power of its territorial possessions on this continent; that this policy is as well founded in principle as it is strongly supported by numerous precedents; that as a consequence the United States Is Bound to Protest against the enlargement of the area of British-Guiana in derogation of the rights and against the will of Venezuela, that considering the disparity in the strength of Great Britain and Venezuela the territorial dispute between them can be reasonably settled only by friendly and impartial arbitration and that the report of such arbitration should include the whole controversy, and is not satisfied if one of the powers concerned is permitted to draw an arbitrary line through the territory in debate and to declare that it will submit to arbitration only the portion lying on one side of it. The answer of Great Britain has not yet been received.

Other Foreign Difficulties.

The president says the position of the United States regarding the Samoan government is both irksome and unnatural, and ought to be terminated.

Payment of the Behring sea claims of Great Britain are recommended.

The Chinese massacres are touched upon and the fact noted that American citizens suffered less than those of other countries. The punishment of those who took part in uprisings is also noted.

In the Waller case the full courtmartial record has not yet been secured, but it is expected.

The situation in Germany is such that a restriction of her imports to this country may be demanded.

The presence of our naval vessels in Turkish waters, the president thinks sufficient to afford protection of our citizens there.

Regarding the Cuban rebellion the president thinks citizens of this country should refrain from violation of neutrality laws.

Remedy For Our Financial Ills.

After reviewing the financial troubles of the government, the president says:

I am convinced the only thorough and practicable remedy for our troubles is found in the retirement and cancellation of our United States notes, commonly called greenbacks, and the outstanding treasury notes issued by the government in payment of silver purchases under the act of 1890. I believe this could be quite readily accomplished by the exchange of these notes for United States bonds of small as well as large denominations bearing a low rate of interest. They should be long term bonds, thus increasing their desirability as investments and because the payment could be well postponed to a period far removed from present financial burdens and perplexities, when with increased prosperity and resources they would be more easily met.

Would Sell Bonds Abroad.

To further insure the cancellation of these notes and also provide a way by which gold may be added to our currency in lieu of them, a feature in the plan should be an authority given to the secretary of the treasury to dispose of the bonds abroad for gold if necessary to complete the contemplated redemption and cancellation, permitting him to use the proceeds of such bonds to take up and cancel any of the notes that may be in the treasury or that may be received by the government on any account.

The increase of our bonded debt involved in this plan would be amply compensated by renewed activity and enterprise in all business circles, the restored confidence at home, the reinstated faith in our monetary strength abroad and the stimulation of every interest and industry that would follow the cancellation of the gold demand obligations now afflicting us.

As a substitute currency the president would authorize the increase of national bank circulation. He would also gradually coin the seigniorage. He does not see how the free coinage of silver could cure prevailing financial ills.

The question of revenue does not enter into the present difficulty, and an increase in receipts of the government would not help matters materially.

AS TO OUR DESERT LANDS.

Supreme Court Holds That the Price Is Still $2.50 Per Acre.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Justice Harlan rendered the opinion of the supreme court in the case of Benjamin Healy involving the price of lands on alternate sections within railroad land grants entered under the desert land laws. The court held that the laws providing a price of $2.50 per acre in such cases had not been repealed by the timber culture act as was claimed and that $2.50 was under the law the correct charge on entries.

In Memory of John Brown.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 4.—There was a great gathering of representative colored citizens in the Lilac Street Methodist Episcopal church at the memorial services to John Brown. Franklin B. Ham's proposition that an effort be made to secure a national movement to erect a suitable monument to John Brown at Harpers Ferry was unanimously carried. All the addresses were eulogistic of John Brown.

To the Farmers of Polk County.

There will be a meeting of the farmers of Polk county at Crookston on Dec. 30th, 1895, for the purpose of forming an association and in connection therewith making arrangements for handling and shipping directly by the farmers the grain grown in the county another year, in a manner to be decided upon at that meeting; we would recommend that at least two delegates be sent from each town, and that all others interested would attend, to the end that the meeting be made a success. This call, with names of signers will be printed in full in next issue.

AGRICULTURAL, LUMBER AND FUEL CONVENTION,

To be Held at Crookston, Minnesota, Thursday, December 12th, 1895.

CROOKSTON, Minn., Nov. 20, 9895.—Notice is hereby given that a delegate convention has been called to meet in this city on Thursday, December 12th, 1895, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of considering the most efficient means of alleviating the distress and hardships endured by the people of Northern Minnesota and North Dakota, incident to the present inadequate supply of lumber and fuel.

Almost at our very door lies the boundless forests of Northern Minnesota, embraced by the Red Lake Indian reservation, a small portion of which would be ample to supply the wants and needs of our people on the prairies of these sister states.

The people have been waiting for the opening of this timber region from year to year, and it is for the purpose of giving this subject the most careful and deliberate consideration that the Commercial Union of this city invites delegations from every town and city in this section, interested in this matter, to attend the convention, in the hope that something may be speedily done to bring relief.

P. J. MCGUIRE, Secretary,
Crookston, Minn.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the sum of Three hundred and twelve and 22-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Andreas J. Mensen, unmarried, mortgagor, to United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, mortgagee, bearing date the Sixth day of October, A. D. 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of October, A. D. 1891, at two o'clock P. M., in Book 57 of Mortgages, on pages 281 and 282, and there are no other payments to become due upon said mortgage.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America mortgagee, to J. Jorgenson by written assignment dated the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1895, and recorded in the office of the said Register of Deeds on the 16th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 11:20 o'clock A. M., in Book 75 of Mortgages, on pages 12 and 13 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Northwest Quarter of Section Two (2), in Township One Hundred and Forty Eight (148) Range Forty-five (45), in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, said lands being also described as the South Half of said quarter section and lots three (3) and four (4) of the same, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the third day of January, A. D. 1896, at ten o'clock, A. M. of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 18th, 1895.

J. JORGENSON,
32-331 Assignee of Mortgage.
Wm. Watts, attorney for assignee of mortgage.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day,
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block, } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon,
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

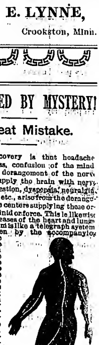
GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable. You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!
A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying those organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves, which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.



Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

SUMMARY OF THE WEEK'S NEWS

Wednesday, Nov. 27.

Many passengers were killed in a railroad wreck caused by Cuban insurgents.

The marriage of Harold McCormick and Miss Edith Rockfeller occurred in New York.

A sound money resolution was introduced in the trans-Mississippi commercial congress.

Cooper Bros.' foundry and machine shops in Cortland, N. Y., were totally destroyed by fire. Loss, $50,000.

E. P. Ripley, third vice president of the Milwaukee, has been chosen president of the reorganized Atchison.

A discharged workman blew up a factory at Palma, Island of Majorca, and caused the loss of seventy lives.

Telegraph wires were prostrated and railroad traffic is paralized by a snow storm in Eastern, Southern and Central Western states.

A fast freight on the Illinois Central struck a box car at Lamar Station, Mo., which had been blown from the siding, and was completely wrecked. Engineer J. C. Woolsey and a negro tramp were were instantly killed.

Thursday, Nov. 28.

Work has begun on the new electric railway at Oshkosh, Wis.

"General" Kelley promises another industrial army demonstration.

There is talk of having congress create a department of gymnastics in the army.

There are still 20,000,000 acres of land open to settlement in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

A desperate attempt to break jail by three prisoners was frustrated by the sheriff at Platte City, Mo.

A would be train wrecker was riddled with bullets and hanged by a mob near Oaks, Marshall county, Ky.

Earnings of Southwestern lines show a decrease in consequence of the small cotton crop in Texas.

The trial of Dr. and Mrs. Hearne for the murder of Amos J. Stillwell has been set for Dec. 9.

William Barrett, the now notorious burglar, passed as a jeweler with Boston refineries for twelve years.

Friday, Nov. 29.

The street railway at Sheboygan, Wis., has been opened for traffic.

The Phi Kappa Psi chapter house at Beloit, Wis., was damaged by fire to the extent of $1,000.

William Katka, living near Menomonee, Wis., chopped up his wife with an ax. His 14-year-old son captured him with a winchester.

A contribution of $5,000 has been made by Hon. Calvin S. Brice to Science hall of Hanover college, in Jefferson county.

It is reported that all questions now pending between Argentina and Chili have been settled and that the two countries will sign an agreement to restrict their armaments.

Saturday, Nov. 30.

Senor Cyrillo Machado has been appointed Portuguese minister to the United States.

John J. Overton, who says that he is 98 years old, was convicted of forgery at Fort Smith, Ark.

Senor Mayorga is said to have been selected as Nicaraguan minister to Washington, vice Guzman.

The Cherokee Indian council repealed the law giving Cherokee citizenship to whites who marry Cherokee maidens.

Mrs. David DeLong fainted and fell into a fire at Sumner, Ills., and was so badly burned that she died in an hour.

The contest over the youngest congressman between New York and Missouri has been settled in favor of New York.

General Flagler, chief of ordnance, in his annual report recommends better arms for the national guard of the states.

Monday, Dec. 2.

Murderer Willis King, a life convict, escaped from jail at Gatesville, Tex.

A wreck of coal barges near Pittsburg caused the loss of 250,000 bushels of fuel.

Missionary boards have appealed to the Red Cross society for aid for the Armenians.

San Francisco savings bank deposits amount to $116,000,000, a gain of $2,500,000 for the year.

Bishop Wayman, senior of the African Methodist church, died of paralysis at his home in Baltimore.

Texas cities are requiring ticket scalpers to give bonds in order to protect the purchasers of tickets.

As recognition of justice due the South, Northern newspapers are beginning to demand other than criminal news from that section.

Tuesday, Dec. 3.

The duke and duchess of Marlborough have arrived at Madrid from Granada.

A. L. Hubbard, of Angola, Ind., fell dead on the street in Chicago. Death was caused by heart disease.

President Pierola of Peru has convoked congress in extra session on account of the crisis caused by the resignation of the cabinet.

East-bound shipments from Chicago last week amounted to 58,312 tons against 74,505 for the preceding week and 84,182 for the corresponding week of last year.

Charles Willier, bookkeeper of the Cincinnati Abattoir company, committed suicide to prevent arrest for embezzling several thousand dollars from his employers.

The monthly treasury statement of the public debt shows that on Nov. 30, 1895, the debt less cash in treasury amounted to $949,477,611, an increase for the month of $9,546,508, which is accounted for by the decrease of $9,554,611 in the cash in the treasury.

CHAMPION OF THEM ALL.
BATTLE AX PLUG
THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR 10 CENTS.

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

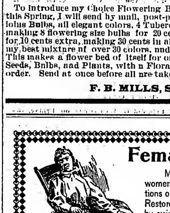
McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading—AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser.☜
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.



Female Troubles.

Many of the disorders peculiar to women are caused by diseased conditions of the Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Restore these organs to a healthy state by using

DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM,

And the female organs will perform their regular functions, and the sufferer be strengthened and cured. Ladies from all parts of the country testify to its marvelous success in curing them.

For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.

THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

SINNERS' TWAIN.

BY JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND"

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY

CHAPTER I.

She was a prairie flower truly, although there were some who would have called her a rare exotic. For the climate of the Canadian northwest is not particularly conducive to female loveliness; its extremes are too trying; the fierce, withering dry heat of summer and the keen biting winds of winter have a tendency to roughen and rob the fairest and softest cheek of its bloom. But then, perhaps, on this the southwestern slope of the Cypress hills, just across from the Sweet Grass hills in Montana and toward the foothills of the Rockies, a little more immunity from such ravages is granted. For here, on the illimitable stretches of coulee scarred prairie, the soft warm winds from the Pacific ocean find their way over and through the breaks and passes of the Rocky mountains, to temper the chill breath of the frozen north. There is no mystery about these chinook winds; they come from sleeping southern seas where perpetual summer reigns. No wonder before their breath the snow melts like magic. No wonder the red man in this quarter of the great lone land regards them with a superstitious awe. But it is only because their influence possibly kept Marie St. Denis' complexion—which was as pure and velvety as the skin of a peach—from withering that these chinook winds are mentioned at all.

She leaned against the doorway of the long, rambling log house, with its sod roof, ornamented by innumerable elk antlers, and watched her father as he converted a wand of willow into a hoop, on which he meant to stretch the skin of a beaver. But before we describe the daughter—an excusable tendency—it would be as well to say a few words about the father—age before beauty is only justice. He was a widower, middle aged, of good physique, and with a pleasing expression on his face. His long hair was perhaps prematurely gray, and his skin was tanned by the sun and wind until it was brown as a berry. His figure was not an unpicturesque one, suggesting, as it did, that of the old French trapper or voyager.

He wore an unplucked beaver cap, a buckskin shirt flowered and fringed and a pair of high heeled cowboy boots of the orthodox pattern. He was a typical old timer; he was hunter, trapper and rancher. In fact, like most men in that country where a picturesque past is fast vanishing, he was anything that would enable him to earn a few dollars. And here perhaps lay the mischief. For, alas! these were the days of prohibition (only in 1892 it ceased to exist) in the territories, and rumor had it that Gabriel St. Denis was not above running a cargo of liquor from across the lines into Canada on an odd occasion. It was a paying if a wrong thing to do. Besides there was an indisputable sentiment among many that there was no disgrace in so doing. Indeed Gabriel was continually telling himself that what might be a crime need not necessarily be a sin. The antiprohibitionists said that the laws prohibiting liquor in the country were made for a time when there were ten Indians to every white man, but now that state of affairs was reversed. Why, they said, should the white population be saddled with a law that was meant for Indians, who were now in a minority? Gabriel did not smuggle liquor for Indians nor yet retail it. Neither did he introduce into her majesty's dominion what was either felicitously termed "forty rod," "coffin varnish" or "tanglefoot," but sound, wholesome "rye" whisky. The country was crying out against the abuses that the law engendered. The mounted police and the very judges of the land found it difficult to reconcile their real sentiments regarding prohibition and what was to them their evident straight course of duty. It was wonderful, however, how elastic the interpretation of the law had become—gutta percha or india rubber was nowhere compared to it. There is a case on record when the judge on the bench, when trying a whisky smuggling case, said: "I have known the accused for a very long time now, and he is a very decent fellow. He is not responsible for what his servants do; therefore I dismiss the case," or words to that effect. Then there was an adjournment for refreshments—of a prohibited nature—in which all parties interested participated, the judge, the accused and the mounted police themselves. They were all jolly good fellows, especially the accused. But let us get back to an infinitely more interesting subject—the girl.

Marie, as has been said, was watching her father as he tied the ends of the long willow wand together. The house was situated just on the edge of a thick clump of cottonwood trees, and just where the coulee ran out into the prairie. It was well sheltered from the north, east and west winds. A creek flowed feebly past, and there was a large corral and garden on either side. It was altogether a snug and beautiful little spot. One could appreciate such a haven when the blizzards were raging, or when, in the deathly stillness of the long winter nights, the thermometer registered from 10 degrees to 30 degrees below zero, when the snow obliterated creek was a solid channel of ice, and when the intense coldness was a deadly, palpable thing—a thing that caught one's breath and froze it as it issued from the lips.

Upon the girl's face there was a strangely uneasy look, while her eyes seemed to follow the course of Many Berries creek as, fringed and marked with a straggling growth of trees, it zigzagged and wandered away over the far stretching and sun dried prairie, until it was lost in the misty and uncertain distance. Then her eyes rested on the three peaks of the Sweet Grass hills that loomed up from their opaline setting like volcanic islands surrounded by a vaporous, shipless sea, and, figuratively, in this wild region they were islands, for between Gabriel St. Denis' house (only a year or two ago) and them there was no human life, only perhaps a small band of wandering Blood, Sioux or Piegan Indians on the hunt and the animal life they hunted.

She was a truly remarkable looking girl, this daughter of Gabriel's, for there never were two people who could agree as to the color of her eyes or hair. Some said her eyes were hazel, some said blue, and some said chestnut. The truth was, they seemed to change color with every mood that showed on her mobile face. There was always a limpid depth in them, which, with the fresh color of her face and her red lips, indicated a healthful, buoyant nature. Her hair was, indeed, of that color which Georgione and Titien gave to their Venetian women—"brown in the shade, golden in the sun." Her figure was finely molded, and perhaps the dead plainness and flowing lines of her neat dress only showed it to a better advantage. Her shapely, proud head was well poised upon that beautifully rounded neck which sculptors love to create—for, alas, it is so seldom found. But she was perhaps a girl no longer, for she stood on the mystic threshold of womanhood, and there was that inscrutable look in her eyes as of one who listens.

From her small hands and feet to her dimpled, resolute chin and low, broad forehead there was not one tame feature in her face. Had she lived in London or Paris or any other great city artists would have discovered her, have made her famous and worshiped her, and women would have paid her truer homage still, for they would have said all manner of false and spiteful things regarding her and have heartily hated her. But she was only "old St. Denis' daughter," who lived like a recluse some 20 miles distant from his nearest neighbor on the prairie of the Canadian northwest. She was an anomaly—like a golden room in a wooden house. She ought to have been without a heartache (how much, after all, does a man know about that complex thing, a woman's heart?); but, as it was, the girl dreamed her dreams and wove the romances of a coming womanhood amid what seemed such uncongenial surroundings for a bright young life. Perhaps that subtle spirit of solitude which settles down over that great lone prairie land with the blood red sunsets had tinged her with something of that pensiveness which occasionally seemed to haunt her face.

And now Gabriel spoke, in a somewhat embarrassed manner, it must be confessed. He did not look up at the pretty picture before him, but wound another piece of string round the joint of the hoop—a quite unnecessary thing to do—with an apparent concentration of purpose that was utterly wasted.

"Oh, by the way, little un, I was nigh forgettin to tell ye thet I'll be gwin away for a week or ten days to Benton to git some necess'ries I can't git yere. I s'pose now ye won't mind bein left alone for thet time? Ye've got old Jeannette, ye know, and I'll fetch ye a present from Benton—some of these yere books ye can't git on this side without givin ever so much for"—

"Oh, dad!"

It was almost like the cry of a wounded animal, but still she did not withdraw her eyes from the vague, blue line of the uneven horizon; only, all at once, the light had gone out of them and there was an apprehensive, piteous look there instead. She had clasped her hands together in front of her involuntarily, and then, as if ashamed at having been betrayed even into this momentary expression of feeling, she caught at and plucked nervously the leaves of some creeping plant that clambered up the doorway of the house.

It could be easily seen that she felt ashamed and humiliated by what she had to say to her father. There was a momentary twitching of her lips, then a droop about the corners of her mouth, but she recovered herself in another minute, with a visible effort, and continued:

"Dad, didn't you tell me that you would not go across there any more? Cannot we live without your having to go there? Some day the mounted police will be running across you as you come back, and they will take your horses and wagons and will fine you besides ever so many hundreds of dollars, and then what will you have gained in the end? Oh, dad"—and there was a world of entreaty and self deprecation in that soft voice of hers—"it is not for me to preach to you, but if you only knew how miserable this thing makes me I don't think you would do it. Besides, how do you think—though I don't care so much about myself, after all—I can go into Medicine Hat and hold up my head, knowing that everybody is pointing to me and saying, 'There goes Marie St. Denis, the'"— But she only bit her lips and left unfinished what she had begun.

"There's hardly a soul in the Hat, barring the parsons," interrupted Gabriel hotly, but somewhat shamefacedly, it must be confessed; and without lifting his head, "thinks any the worse of a man for bein in the whisky bizness. No one thinks enything about it, and the jedges ain't so very hard upon a man for smugglin now. I believe if there was license in the country there'd be less hypocrisy and hard drinkin. It's a foolish law—an injust law."

"But it's the law," she persisted, "and I can't bear to see you break it. I am sure we can manage to live without you doing this thing. My wants are not many, and they can be made fewer. You need not take me into Medicine Hat this winter, and I have lots of good clothes. You know I can make lots of money if you will let me. Look at all those moccasins I have made and sewed with silk and beadwork, and these beaver caps and mitts. There are shops in town would only be too glad to get them, and I could work lots more. I am sure there is no necessity for you to run any risks for my sake."

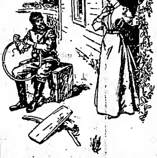
And now there was a pleading, wistful look in her eyes as she spoke; there was entreaty in every delicate feature of her face; there was a suppressed pathos in her soft and modulated voice.

As her name denoted, she was of French descent on her father's side, but her mother had been a Scotswoman. Perhaps it was to this fact that the girl owed somewhat of her complex nature, that quick, sympathetic turn of mind, the lively imagination and light heartedness of the French alongside the deep rooted religious instincts and stable, thoughtful nature of the Scotch. Though Gabriel could talk French—and Marie, too, for the matter of that—there was nothing in their speech that would have led a stranger to suppose so. Gabriel's father, when the former was a mere child, had left the French settlements and pushed out west, and circumstances having thrown the son nearly all his life among the English speaking population he had contracted that nondescript form of speech peculiar to the western man and the frontiersman.

Gabriel surreptitiously unloosed the double string that converted the willow into a hoop and made a show of being annoyed as the ends flew asunder. That he was uneasy and fighting out a battle within himself there could be little doubt. He nerved himself, however, and laughed in a hard, brusque way, very unlike his real self, as he replied:

"'Ough! Ough!' as the Niche says, and what nonsense is it talkin 'bout now, 'bout workin moccasins, fur caps and mitts, just as if it were a squaw or a breed, and hevin to sell them too. Now, look 'e yere, Marie. I don't 'xactly know what I've bin doin to put sich notions in your head; I'm sure you'e allus had all the money you'e iver wanted to. In fact, I kin herdly iver git ye to tek any. Why, my child, instead o' bein a beggar, as ye seem to think, I've a matter of $10,000 laid by, and only want to mek a little more so's to help us leave this played out country—for since the buffalo's gone I've no more use for it—and then we'll strike the trail and go 'way down south into Uncle Sam's country, and tek some nice farm where ye'll hev lots o' comp'ny and won't be boxed up yere as ye're now. I've bin thinkin of late it's hardly the spriest kin o' life for a young gal."

Poor man, it had hardly dawned upon him that she was now no longer a "young gal." He loved her with all the silent and conserved force of an undemonstrative nature, and perhaps love is slow to observe change. And then, her mother having died when she was but a child, and Gabriel having wisely sent her to the convent at Prince Albert, on the Saskatchewan, to be educated, he had doubtless seen too little of her. He was a good hearted man, and, considering the nomadic, frontier life he had led as trapper and buffalo hunter in the far west since he had left his old home in Ontario, and since the death of his wife, was doubtless an exemplary man as compared with most of his kind. When he had taken his daughter from the convent of Prince Albert he had honestly intended to do his duty by his child, and so he had, according to his own lights. He had taken her some 40 miles south of the Canadian Pacific railway, to the southwestern slope of the Cypress hills, into this lonely but beautiful country, and started a ranch. But his progress in acquiring what his heart was set upon, a sufficient sum of money to take up a good improved farm in one of the settled and sunny southern states, was slow, and then the temptation to make easily and quickly presented itself. It was by running cargoes of liquor into Canada from across the lines—in other words, by smuggling. For a long time he resisted the temptation, but when he found how public sentiment ran and that the law prohibiting liquor was looked upon by many as an iniquitous one, he regarded the project with less disfavor. "He who doubts is doomed," may apply to various phases of moral philosophy. "It is all for Marie," he said to himself, rather illogically, it must be confessed, and to conciliate his by no means dormant moral sense. And surely the girl was too young to associate any very serious breach of morality with such proceedings. His first few ventures were successful and paid him well. He began to think, with many in the northwest, that thus to contravene the law was neither a sin nor a crime.



"Oh, dad!"

Then, later on, it became not so much a matter of conscience with him as his daughter's peace of mind, for, of course, he could not expect to keep such a traffic concealed from her, but up till now she had not seemed to take it so very seriously. He had acquired what to many in that country was wealth, but he wanted just another $500 or $600, and then he would quit the trade and "strike the trail," as he termed it. There was no other woman within 20 miles of them save the old French half breed, Jeannette, who assisted in the household duties, and truly she was a never failing source of entertainment. For in the long winter nights, when King Frost held everything in his deadly grip outside and the stove hummed with a cheery sound, many were the wonderful legends and tales told of the days when the old French voyagers penetrated far into the heart of the great unknown with their canoes; of the battles with Indians; of the solemn councils; of the immense herds of buffalo that stretched from horizon to horizon, and a hundred picturesque features of the great lone land now fast passing away. Indeed, Marie was an exemplary daughter and never once complained of dullness. The height of her dissipation was occasionally accompanying her father into Medicine Hat, or "the Hat," as this remarkable example in nomenclature was termed, and to skate with the little crowd on the Saskatchewan of an afternoon, or to have a glimpse of those wonderful cars, which stopped there for half an hour, on that great world's highway, the Canadian Pacific railway, with their wonderfully assorted loads of human beings. Her wants were few and simple; she was content when she saw her father attending to his more legitimate duties and looking happy and contented.

Perhaps Gabriel was troubled with a consciousness that he had not altogether done his duty by her. Anyhow, he had never heard her express herself so strongly as she did now.

"Why, Marie," he ventured at length, and without looking up, "what has made ye become so perticklar all o' a suddin? I remimbers the time when ye used to laugh when ye heard o' the way we'd give the p'lice the slip." Then he continued in a somewhat lower tone, and not without a certain twinkle in his eye, "And p'rhaps some o' the p'lice themsel's are not so very perticklar as to whether they catch us or not—surely that sergeant who comes over now and agen from Willow Creek has not bin puttin eny nonsense into your head?"

To do the man justice, as has been said, he only looked upon her as a child and did not dream for an instant that what he said would have the slightest significance for her. He was tying the end of the hoop together again and did not see her face as he spoke. She had started slightly, and indeed her face had paled for an instant before the warm blood had mounted into it. Her lips had closed on each other, and her eyes had looked fixedly away down the creek bottom as if they were watching the flight of a covey of prairie chickens. At length she spoke.

"I hardly understand you, dad, when you talk about some one putting nonsense into my head. You forget the sergeant is a gentleman; and it was not difficult to see that last time he was here he meant well by you, for, you remember, he mentioned, as if by accident, something about that extra patrol along the boundary line which they had begun. It wasn't difficult to see he felt miserably ill at ease lest we should guess the motives that led him to speak of it. For, of course, he meant it as a warning to you, which few men would have done. Otherwise he would have told you in a very different fashion. As for the corruption—there is only one name for it—you hint at, I am sure he is above anything like that."

And now that maidenly spirit of reserve, as she spoke, had entirely left her; she held her head almost proudly, and there was a fuller touch of color in her cheek. There was that air of nobility about her that glorifies a beautiful woman when she is championing the absent. Not that the absent was anything to her, for loyalty in a noble minded woman is a comprehensive and catholic virtue.

"Yes, Marie," said Gabriel, who still did not seem to notice her aroused interest, "I dropped as to how he meant it. He's a chap as'll do his duty, and I gives him credit for thet same, and I'll give him a wide berth. But there's Jeannette. Now I'm just a-goin to run the horses into the c'ral, for it'll soon be dark. I hope it won't snow afore I git back, but it's gittin late in the fall. I must start tomorrow, honey. I guess I'll be back in less'n ten days' time. I'll just give ye a call on my way back to the Hat and see thet ye're all snug. The p'lice were yere on Monday, so I don't s'pose they'll be back for 'nother fortnight, and by thet time I'll be yere agen. Come, Marie!" And, suddenly throwing away the hoop, he put his arm around her and drew her into the house. Then he reappeared with his bridle over his arm to fetch the horses up. He had been anxious to put an end to the conversation; it was a much more unpleasant one for him than he had cared to admit.

And now the profound and solemn stillness that broods over that vast and lonely rolling prairie seemed to deepen. The prairie chickens and other birds had drunk at the feebly flowing creek and had gone back to the sheltering edge of the scrub for the night. The great cinnamon bear, which at this season of the year leaves the sheltering pine forests and wanders down the coulee and creek bottoms to fossick out roots and feast on the luscious wild berries, rose from his lair amid the thick, long grass and thicker undergrowth and came boldly out on to the bare hillside to have a look around. A keen black frost set in; one could hear the crackle of the growing covering of ice on the beaver dam and the more startling rending of the dead cottonwood trees up the coulee as Jack Frost squeezed them in his icy grip. The stars gleamed out more sharply and clearly in the dusk of the heavens, and toward the arctic circle the aurora borealis, that "dance of the spirits," as the Indians call it, suddenly burst into life and light, its quivering shafts of pearly and silvery fire darting from one side to another, crossing and recrossing, creating a living halo and glory around the throne of the great ice king. Now the loghouse and other buildings showed black as jet against it. From the little uncurtained windows poured mellow streams of light into the cold, crisp air and showed right cheerily indeed. It was a cozy and pretty picture truly, this tiny speck of civilization in the lonely wilderness, when these unwinking eyes of fire looked out boldly into the gloom, as if rejoicing over the fuller life within.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,

SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skillfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"

(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.

Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.

Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm

Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

Order to Examine Accounts, etc.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, } ss. In Probate Court.
County of Polk. }

Special term November 6th 1895.

In the matter of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Margarete Dufour, Administratrix of the estate of P. A. Dufour, deceased, representing among other things that she has fully administered said estate; and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of her administration, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law.

It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this Court, on Saturday, the 30th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Probate Office in the City of Crookston in said County.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 6th day of November, A.D. 1895.

By the Court,
C. M. BENSON,
Judge of Probate.

30-32.)

For Sale Cheap.

Eight Hundred acres of the choicest farming land in Polk county. 600 acres now in wheat, oats, barley and flax. Farm well supplied with machinery and teams to run it including cows, hogs, sheep, hens, etc., etc. Three artesian wells and about 25 acres of good timberland. Immediate possession given if required. Will be sold at a bargain if taken at once as owner is desirous to leave the farm and engage in other business. For full and complete particulars address the JOURNAL office, Crookston, Minn.

[6tf.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

COWS FOR SALE.

Having decided to rent the farm I will offer for sale the fine herd of Jersey cows now on section 9, town of Fairfax, or will rent the farm including the dairy stock. For particulars enquire of H. E. Cooke at the JOURNAL office, Crookston.

[15-tf.] MRS. M. E. BARTLETT.

Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases are all gold as far as you can see. They look like solid cases, wear like solid cases, and are solid cases for all practical purposes—yet only cost about half as much as an out-and-out solid gold case. Warranted to wear for 20 years; many in constant use for thirty years. Better than ever since they are now fitted, at no extra cost, with the great bow (ring) which cannot be pulled or twisted off the case—the

Non-pull-out

Can only be had on the cases stamped with this trade mark.

All others have the old-style pull-out bow, which is only held to the case by friction, and can be twisted off with the fingers.

Sold only through watch dealers. Send for a watch case opener to the manufacturers

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

DR. PEFFER'S FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.

A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 30,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence

EVERY GENUINE

HUNT'S AXE

IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

1895			December.			1895
Su.	Mo.	Tu.	We.	Th.	Fr.	Sa.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

To Our Subscribers.

Those who have not responded to the bills sent out, we mean. Our annual statements were sent out in due time and many have responded but some have not, and it is very necessary that they should make some kind of a response to save trouble in the near future. We are preparing a list of the names of those from whom we have not been favored with a response, which list will be handed to a collector with positive instructions to collect at all hazards, as we do not feel like carrying any who do not feel sufficiently interested in their own business to at least ask us to do so. It will require some two weeks to make up this list; meantime all will have ample time to let us know what they intend to do, so no one will need have any trouble if they choose to avoid it. A word to the wise should be sufficient in this case, as we mean strictly business. We propose to hear from those long past due subscription accounts, and there is a way by which we can do so if we are forced to take it.

It is said that Maj. Baldwin has the details all arranged for opening the Reservation next spring. This is the object of the convention called to meet in this city on the 12th.

Congress is now in session and the House started in right by electing Tom Reed speaker. Mr. Reed found something good to say of the last Congress when he complimented that body on what it had not accomplished.

Hon. Frank M. Eddy writes the Journal that his address is 201 A. St. Southeast, Washington, D. C., where for the time that congress is in session his constituents may address him. His secretary being a Norwegian he is prepared to attend to all correspondence in that language. Mr. Eddy is thoroughly alive to the interests of his constituents and will do all he can in their behalf.

Dave Hill of New York, who has been "swinging 'round the circle" a bit has become tired of it and has gone back to his home. He was in St. Paul and Minneapolis last week but the atmosphere was too chilly for Democrats and it was very soon after that visit that he discovered that he was sick and returned to his native heath. Democrats will not find much solid consolation in Minnesota at the next election.

Judge Arnold has refused to grant a new trial in the Holmes murder case just finished at Philadelphia. This case and Hayward's makes the business of professional murder rather more risky than it seemed to have been once, when it looked as though money was all-powerful enough to release a red-handed murderer from the punishment due his crime. These cases will, no doubt, have a salutary effect upon others who may be engaged in the same line of "business."

Last week Ed. A. Paradis, of the Midway News was summoned before the Grand Jury of Ramsey county to testify in a blind pig case. He was asked the question: "Have you ever purchased any liquor at that drug store without a doctor's prescription for it?" When he attempted to answer he was told that he must answer yes or no. He replied that he could not do that without perjury, and declined to answer the question in that way. He was taken before Judge Kelley who told him he was obliged to answer the question by yes, or no and was given another opportunity to do so. Failing to do so he was taken before the judge again and sentenced to 30 days in the Ramsey county jail. He spent several hours in that institution imagining how Hayward feels and then through the intervention of his counsel and friends was released and given till next Wednesday to answer the question. What a leverage that would be if a fellow could use it to compel his best girl to answer "yes." And if she did not say "yes" have her committed for 30 days for "contempt of court."

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR.
NEW YORK U.S.A.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo. O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Maple Bay Items.

There was preaching in the Maple Bay church, Thanksgiving, in the morning and an entertainment, with supper, in the evening.

Miss S. J. Ball went to Crookston, Friday, to attend the Teachers' Educational Association.

Ed. Iverson returned from Grafton, F. D., last Saturday, where he has been staying for the past eight months.

Charles Hauglund and Miss Bertha Skiple were married Nov. 27, by Rev. N. E. Wikre.

On Nov. 30, by Rev. N. E. Wikre, Olof Borgen and Miss Julia Sanodon were united for life.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church had an auction Dec. 2, where a great many useful articles were sold at a good price.

Rev. S. E. Sorenson and C. C. Moland went to Crookston, Tuesday morning, returning the same day by evening train.

Your Crops This Year have been good and you have been able to pay off some old indebtedness and now feel as though you lived on easy street again. Take a little recreation this winter, or give your wife and children, who have not been to the old home for a long time, a little trip. From Dec. 1st to 31st, inclusive, you can buy a Canadian excursion ticket to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montreal, good for three months, for $40.00. Call on any Northern Pacific agent and he will see that you are properly fitted out. You can thus stop over in St. Paul, Chicago, Detroit, Montreal, etc., and see the cities or visit friends enroute.

How To Set Up A Christmas Tree.

As generally set up the Christmas tree is a rather shaky affair, top-heavy, and in constant danger of being tipped over when it is touched. If you want a substantial base for it, but one that will allow of its being moved easily without danger of its being upset, go to some hardware store and borrow a set of stove trucks. Cover them with boards fastened securely to their frames. In the centre make a hole large enough to admit the base of the tree. Fasten strips of wood from each corner of the trucks to the tree in such a manner as to brace it firmly in place. The casters under the frame will allow you to move the tree easily and safely.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

GREAT NORTHERN

Trains are fast, and equipment and service of the best for Canadians taking advantage of the excursion rates.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Miss Abbie Brewster has finished her term of school at Keystone.

Capt. T. A. Duniava, of Crookston, was shaking hands with numerous friends in town Saturday.

Miss Martin, of Crookston, was in town Thursday and Friday, the guest of Miss Etta Johnson.

O. Osmundson, one of the enterprising merchants of Mallory, was doing business in town Wednesday.

Miss Lizzie Zuracher went home to Crookston to eat her Thanksgiving turkey and cranberry sauce.

It is said that some Crookston parties, whose names we have not learned, will next week open up a stock of general merchandise in the Lee building.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Volker, living north of town, celebrated their silver wedding Wednesday evening. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents.

Horace Huaey received the news the other day of a sad accident which befell his brother-in-law, S. W. Dan, at Tacoma, Washington, by which his head was badly injured by a saw in a lumber mill.

These Winterdays

When the air is bracing, not biting; when the fall work is over and time begins to drag a little in comparison with the busy harvest season we go out to the barn to do the chores after breakfast with a sense of impatience at the emptiness of our days. To be sure there's a bit of mending to be done on the plow harness, and the chores take some time, and we might take a load of wheat to town, since some few provisions are needed by the good wife, but that isn't satisfying. If only one could be in the old home today there would be no lack of something to do. With all the visiting old friends, renewing acquaintances, and half forgotten memories in the dear old provinces and—why not—yes, why not—to what better use could you put part of the value of your bountiful crop. $40.00 will buy a round trip ticket to Montreal with stop-over privileges via the Great Northern Railway, whose local agent will cheerfully give detailed information.

Going to California?

Then you are interested in knowing:

1st. What line will get you there seven hours quicker than any other:

2nd. What line operates Phillips' Celebrated Tourist Car Excursions?

3d. What line has been in the business longest and is most popular?

4th. That all other Tourist Car lines are imitators.

5th. What line offers you choice of routes? Cars leaving ST. PAUL on MONDAYS at 9 a. m., via Kansas City and Fort Worth—the favorite SOUTHERN ROUTE, with no snow, no high altitudes,. Cars leaving on THURSDAYS at 7 p. m. via Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City—the great Scenic Route.

6th. What line uses Pullman Cars that are completely furnished with carpets in the aisles, upholstered seats, clean linen and blankets for berths, cooking ranges in separate compartments, gentlemanly conductors and careful porters?

7th. What line accepts second class tickets and only charges $6.00 for double berth clear through?

The agents of Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. will cheerfully and truthfully answer any of these questions or you can address

A. B. CUTTS,
[34-37] Minneapolis, Minn.

Spending the Holidays.

Almost everybody has a vacation, be it long or short, during the Christmas and New Year holidays, and it is not too early to begin calculating how and where you will spend your time off from school or business. If the old father and mother are yet alive—and you should be thankful if they are—the best use you can make of the holiday time is to go to the old home and delight the hearts of the old folks with a cheery visit, not forgetting a few gifts. Perhaps you have brothers and sisters whom you have not seen for twenty years—and those eastern people, you know, are not much for travelling—they think it a "far cry" to the West. Take time to shake them by the hand and talk over childhood days again; you will never get so much for your money in any other way. Possibly you would enjoy the winter gaiety of the cities—maybe you can afford a trip to California or Florida,. Not to give you too much advice—of course the journey will be by railroad—before starting find out if you can reach the place by the Burlington Route trains then buy your ticket by that line. Your home ticket agent can probably tell you all about it; if not write for maps, rates, time-tables, etc., to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

GEN. HARRISON ON PATRIOTISM.

Aid in Reinstating the Fourth of July; Honor and Reverence Our Flag.

Ex-President Harrison in writing upon "This Country of Ours" for the December Ladies' Home Journal, has this to say regarding Fourth of July and the stars and stripes: "The old-time Fourth of July celebration, with its simple parades and masters, the reading of the Declaration, and the oration, that more than supplied the lack of glitter and color in the parade—once the event of the year—went out of fashion. We allowed ourselves to be laughed out of it. It may be that the speaker was boastful, but a boaster is better than an apologist or a pessimist. The day as a family picnic day or a base-ball day substituted.

"It is coming back, and we ought to aid in reinstating it. The old Declaration has a pulse in it and a ring to it that does the soul good. Has your boy ever read it? Have you—all of it? I would like our census-takers to be required to get an answer to that question.

* * The fathers ought not to be too busy to give some lessons in patriotism; but if they are, let the mothers—who are more busy—see that a love of the country is cultivated, and that the children are very early made acquainted with the wise unselfish and heroic characters in our history. In the home, and before the school days come, the feelings should be kindled and sentiment awakened. Do not be ashamed to love the flag or to confess your love for it. Make much of it; tell its history; sing of it. It now floats over our schools, and it ought to hang from the windows of all our homes on all public days. Every man should uncover when the flag is borne by in the parade, and every one should rise when a National air is given at a concert or public meeting."

Late Literary Note.

Two very important facts in connection with the new Era of magazines are illustrated in the December Cosmopolitan. Its fiction is by Stevenson, the last story written before his death, "Ouida," Sarah Grand, Zangwill, and the beginning of James Lane Allen's new Kentucky realistic story, "Butterflies." Probably no stronger array of fiction has ever been presented in any magazine money could not buy better. Nor has any magazine ever had a larger number of really distinguished artists engaged upon the illustration of a single number. The reader might be puzzled to know how such a number can be made at the price of ten cents. But the magazine itself affords the solution. It contains 139 pages of advertising, which, as the publishers announce, is from $4,000 to $8,000 more net cash advertising than was ever printed in any magazine, of any kind, and in any country: It breaks the world's record in the publishing business. Moreover, the cost of the artists and authors who appear in this number is divided amongst 400,000 copies, bringing the cost per copy proportionately low. The Cosmopolitan thinks that the ten cent magazine, bringing, as it does, the best in art and literature into all classes, is an educational movement second in importance only to that of the public schools.

A Delightful Christmas Magazine.

The Christmas Ladies' Home Journal by far surpasses, both in literary and artistic excellence, any previous issue of that popular magazine. Conspicuous among the contributors are ex-President Harrison, who gives the introductory paper of the series he is preparing upon "This country of ours;" Mrs. Mary Anderson de Navarro, who most interestingly tells of "My First Appearance on the Stage;" and Mary E. Wilkins, who gives the first of "Neighborhood Types" papers. Rudyard Kipling's latest and best romance, "William the Conqueror" (richly illustrated by W. L. Taylor) is begun in the Christmas Journal, as is Julia Magruder's new novelette, "The Violet," which Charles Dana Gibson has illustrated, while Mrs. Burton Harrison's fascinating story, "The Holiday Dance at Worrosquoyacke" (pictures by W. T. Smedley), is delightfully concluded. James Whitcomb Riley's tenderly reminiscent poem, "At the Gate, (superbly illustrated by A. B. Frost,) and Kate Greenway's winsome, dainty little people are two-page features of the December Journal. Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney in a "Friendly Letter to Girl Friends" sharply criticises society for what it is, and shows its true mission or purpose, and a fitting page-mate to it is Lilian Bell's caustic analysis of "The Man Under Thirty-five," a brilliantly witty paper. Edward W. Bok editorially discusses the South and Southern people, directs attention to "An Evil of the Holidays," chats upon "A Young Christmas," and "Young Men and Evening Work." Dr. Parkhurst talks strongly in condemnation of "The Passion of Money-getting;" Hezekiah Butterworth tells "How Longfellow Wrote His Best-known Poems," and Robert J. Burdette humorously and pointedly treats of "Wasting Other People's Time." Aside from the usual departments and talks about fashions in feminine attire, there is a daintily illustrated article—"Attractive Dinner Cards," which outlines the art of dinner-giving; also instructions in Christmas decorations for churches, talks of Christmas gifts, receipts for candies and puddings, suggestions for needle-work, parties and games. "An Ideal Kitchen" and "A $3500 Suburban Home," both illustrated, are especially useful articles; the latter gives all the plans and details of constructions, and is by a practical architect. The musical feature of the number, a hymn, "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee," is one of Bruno Oscar Klein's best compositions. The artists represented in the Journal are among the most notable illustrators, and include A. B. Frost, Kate Greenway, W. L. Taylor, C. D. Gibson, Alice Barber Stephens, W. T. Smedley, E. Grivaz, E. M. Hallowell, Abbey E. Underwood, Miss E. S. Green, W. S. Rice. By the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar per year; ten cents per copy.

Canadian Excursions.

Tickets good for three months with stop-over privileges will be sold by the Great Northern Railway Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st, inclusive to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montreal at a round trip rate of $40.00. Agents at destination will extend time limit of tickets upon payment of a small additional charge. Through tickets will be sold to points in Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island east of Montreal for a single fare from Montreal for the round trip in addition to the $40.00 rate.

For further information call upon local agent, Great Northern Railway, or write F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or E. A. Frudenburgh, T. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

(From the Press.)

John L. Fbike, of Norden, is out again after a long siege of typhoid fever.

Mrs. C. Kretzschmur and children spent Thanksgiving with friends in Red Lake Falls.

Thanksgiving was generally observed here, judging from the quiet of the town during the day.

C. J. Knox, E. S. Wilcox and Frank Seymour returned from a protracted deer hunt in the northern wilds. They were very successful.

C. C. Schuster, who has had a severe attack of fever, is able to be about again.

Dr. J. H. Thomas, the popular Crookston dentist, was in the city a few days the first of the week and enjoyed his usual large practice.

H. L. Douville has sold his stock and fixtures to G. H. Gonyou, of Argyle, and his lot and building to Harry Hawkins and retired from business.

Miss Martha Anderson, sister of Mrs. A. J. Johnson, came up from Crookston Wednesday and will finish the term of school begun by Miss Sampson in the district east of the city. Miss Sampson has accepted a position in the Crookston post office and will leave Monday to enter upon her duties there.

J. E. Gagnelius, whose name adorned a number of worthless checks passed upon some of our local merchants some time ago, has been plying his swindling proclivities in other places in the state and is now being hunted by the police. He is representing himself as salesman for a prominent Milwaukee clothing house, from whose employ he was discharged for his foxiness, and in this way gets the best of his old customers.

Horace and Albert Lahree, John Knight and Louis Evenson were arrested last Monday upon the complaints of Joseph Johnson and officer Mickelson on two separate counts of assault with intent to kill. A hearing was set for Tuesday morning but a change of venue was taken from Justice Ware and the hearing adjourned until Friday, Dec. 6th before Justice Proctor. The defendants' furnished bonds for their appearance.

Dec. 1st. to 31st. Inclusive.

This is the time—all through December—that you can buy Canadian excursion tickets via the Northern Pacific—go back and visit your friends in the provinces this winter and go via the Northern Pacific. Call on our agents for tickets and particulars.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

Mrs. D. Vannet and Mrs. Nickelson left Saturday night for an extended visit to relatives at Barnesville.

The Standard Oil Co. will put in two tanks at this place, one for oil and the other for gasoline. They will hold 16,000 and 12,000 gallons respectively.

Capt. O. R. VanEtten, from South Dakota, has been holding temperance lectures in the churches here this week. The captain is a good speaker and an earnest worker in the cause of temperance reform.

W. A. Marin, the Crookston contractor, was seen on our streets, Monday.

Iver Krohn, the Crookston cigar man, was in Fertile, Wednesday, telling of the good qualities of his different brands of cigars.

Angus Items.

R. King and wife and daughter Ida went to Grand Forks on Monday where Miss Ida will attend school this winter.

F. Stroble accompanied by her son William and daughter Maggie drove to Grand Forks Monday.

A. T. Campion and P. Schell were in Grand Forks on Wednesday.

J. F. Montgomery spent Wednesday in Warren.

Mrs. McAvoy and Mrs. Snelling spent Monday evening in Crookston.

The masquerade social at Mrs. Campion on Thanksgiving evening was well attended all reporting a good time.

W. Lemen, Misses McAvoy, Evans and Stroble went to Crookston on Thursday evening to attend the meeting of the county teachers.

Miss Maggie Stroble went to Grand Forks to attend school.

Ed. Stevens returned home on Saturday from the southern part of the state where he was at work this summer. He will remain at home this winter.

F. R. Stevens was at Hallock on Monday.

Misses Elsie Campion, Aggie and Flora McKinnon, Louise Palmer and Libbie Davis accompanied J. M. Palmer to Grand Forks on Saturday.

Ex.

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
SAVED HIS LIFE
So says Mr. T. M. Reed, a highly-respected Merchant of Middletown, Ill., of a Young Man who was supposed to be in Consumption.

"One of my customers, some years ago, had a son who had all the symptoms of consumption. The usual medicines afforded him no relief, and he steadily failed until he was unable to leave his bed. His mother applied to me for some remedy and I recommended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The young man took it according to directions, and soon began to improve until he became well and strong."—T. M. Reed, Middletown, Ill.

"Some time ago, I caught a severe cold, my throat and lungs were badly inflamed, and I had a terrible cough. It was supposed that I was a victim of consumption, and my friends had little hope of recovery. But I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, took it, and was entirely cured. No doubt, it saved my life."—I. Jones, Emerts Cove, Tenn.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
Received Highest Awards
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Skin Eruptions

and similar annoyances are caused by an impure blood, which will result in a more dreaded disease. Unless removed, slight impurities will develop into Scrofula, Eczema, Salt Rheum and other serious results of

Bad Blood

I have for some time been a sufferer from a severe blood trouble, for which I took many remedies that did me no good. I have now taken four bottles of S.S.S. with the most wonderful results Am enjoying the best health I ever knew, have gained twenty pounds and my friends say they never saw me as well. I am feeling quite like a new man. JOHN S. EDELIN, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

Our Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free to any address.

SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

Buy your articles at The Fair.

See those articles at the Fair store.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Will Stone has returned from his surveying trip.

Charlie Rapp was in from St. Hilaire on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lycan will now make Crookston their home.

Alex. McKinnon went up to Red Lake Falls on business last week.

P. L. Renne took his Thanksgiving turkey with the old folks at home.

John Steenerson will do duty as Dept. Sheriff at this term of court.

Mrs. Streeter went up to McIntosh this week to visit with Mrs. C. F. Page.

Take a look at that doll at O. & L. Gonyea's that somebody is going to get for nothing.

The finest line of jewelry and silverware for the holidays at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

H. E. Ives was in from St. Hilaire to eat Thanksgiving turkey with the Judge and his wife.

E. A. Nelson, of the Hallock News was in attendance at the educational convention last week.

A Thanksgiving ball was given at the Cleveland house and very highly enjoyed by all who attended.

Ed Bivins is serving as Dept. Sheriff at this term of court. He has charge of the Grand Jury.

A. C. Holden was married to Miss Betsy Goodwin on Saturday last, the Rev. F. L. Fraser officiating.

Fred Harris has gone to Marshalltown, Iowa to work for the telephone company with Plowman.

Halvor N. Tweten is one of the deputies appointed by Sheriff Steenerson to serve at this term of court.

W. G. Smith, of Minneapolis, editor of School Education, was in the city last week to attend the school convention.

Mrs. Sadie Childs went to Warren on Thursday morning to eat Thanksgiving dinner with Mama Bradley.

Ed. H. Love, collector at St. Vincent has resigned his position. What Ed intends to go at now is not announced.

The petit jurors summoned to appear at this term answered to their names on Tuesday morning and looked wise.

J. E. Morrissy completed the putting in of a steam plant for the Red Lake Falls Roller Mills and returned home last week.

Wheat had a better tone to open up December with. If it continues to improve it will soon be good property to have.

Arny Grundysen was made foreman of the Grand jury and that body got settled down to regular routine work on Monday.

Ole Anderson and Miss Maggie Anderson; of East Grand Forks were married in this city on Monday, the Rev. J. T. Bursett, officiating.

You can save money on all purchases in jewelry and silverware by calling at Tom Morris' jewelry store and pricing his immense stock.

Prof. S. A. Farnsworth, formerly principal of the Crookston high schools was in attendance at the educational convention in this city last week.

The Fair store is right in it for all kinds of novelties appropriate for the season. You will miss it if you fail to call in and see their fine display.

Henry Steege proposes to win that doll at Gonyea's, and if he don't "catch on" we wouldn't be surprised if he should "propose" to—s'mother "doll."

The body of John Lynch was buried at the expense of the county, on Friday, after waiting a reasonable time to give his relatives time to act in the matter.

Hoke Smith has given the Indians on the Reservation permission to cut logs from the dead and down timber but they must not cut the standing live pine.

Jos Winfield leaves next week for the old home in Canada for a brief vacation visit, when he will return refreshed for his duties behind the block at Geo. Vine's.

Louis Gonyea has rented the cigar and news stand at the Hotel Crookston and will open up about next Saturday. He will handle Crookston cigars as a specialty.

If you are looking for something nobby and nice in the line of silverware or jewelry don't forget to call at Tom Morris' jewelry store and see what he has in stock.

Buy your articles at The Fair.

IT'S A RACE!

A Swift Running Race!

About twenty selling days to Christmas—vs—an over-stock of Dress Goods—Hosiery—Underwear—Woolen Skirts—etc., Whether the days or the goods go first is a matter of moment to us We've got money staked on the result.

So the cruel price cutting spur digs sharply into the Dress Goods stock, the Underwear stock, the Hosiery stock, the Woolen, Skirt stock and bids them go on.

Every piece and garment in the lot marked down to manufacturer's cost.

All are new and choice styles.

Everything in CLOAKS
Marked Down.

Everything in FUR CAPES
Marked Down.

FONTAINE
&
ANGLIM

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
GROCERIES,
BOOTS & SHOES,
CROCKERY and
GLASSWARE.

"Well,—Santa Claus must have run out o'Soap when he left you."

Even the children recognize Santa Claus Soap as one of the good things of life—and why not? It keeps their home clean and makes their mother happy. Try it in your home. Sold everywhere. Made only by

The N. K. Fairbank Company,
CHICAGO.

Wheat opened the week at 44 cents for No. 1 hard.

Try your luck on the handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

When looking for holiday goods don't overlook Tom Morris' elegant stock of jewelry and silverware.

Jas. F. Blaine, a nephew of Jas. G. Blaine, was in the city this week the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gravel.

Mrs. M. E. Bartlett left on Tuesday night for Clifton Springs, New York. Expects to be gone four or five weeks.

T. B. McManus went up on the St. Hilaire branch on Friday, in the interest of Uncle Sam's revenue department.

Every member of Col. Cobham Post should be at the meeting tomorrow evening. The annual election of officers.

Election of officers of Col. Cobham Post, G. A. R. at the Post room Friday night. Every comrade should be on deck to take a hand.

Mrs. I. U. Jennings has received another invoice of Japanese goods from Portland, Oregon, and is daily expecting the goods to arrive.

See that handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's and enter the race for it. Worth double what it will cost even if it will cost twice what it is worth.

The Ladies' Relief Corps will inaugurate a series of social entertainments at their next regular meeting on Thursday evening, Dec. 19th. They will arrange an attractive program for each occasion, and their entertainments promise to be an attractive social feature for the coming long winter evenings.

Collins' hack team took a lively spin from the Northern Pacific depot on Tuesday evening and colliding with a lamp-post in front of Geo. W. Peake's residence took a wheel off the new hack and broke a few panes of glass in the back. The team had a wonderful escape from a broken limb or being killed outright when they collided with the post and and were brought to a sudden stop.

A great many acres of potatoes in Polk county were not dug at all but allowed to freeze in the ground. This ought to reduce the surplus sufficiently to make what were saved more valuable. It is the same all over the state and in the Dakotas, the low price was not an incentive to dig them. As a rule, also many are frozen in cellars during the winter.

Doll Tickets.

L. & O. Gonyea have inaugurated a plan by which one of their customers will receive a very and handsome doll. Every purchase to the amount of five cents entitles the purchaser to one ticket and when the tickets are all given out the one who has the most tickets receives the doll. The doll is one of the most expensive ones to be found anywhere and is now on exhibition at the store. There are already several competitors in the race for the doll and the greatest number of tickets wins.

Fine bracing weather this week anyway.

John G. Tenny has been appointed town clerk in the town of Fanny in the place of J. O. McWaters who died recently.

Supt. Scott, who a short time since resigned his position to take charge of the business of the Queen City Fruit Company, has formed a co-partnership with W. S. Lycan, who has been traveling for a Minneapolis house and together they have bought out the old concern and the firm name will now be Scott & Lycan. Their extensive acquaintance and unrivalled facilities will easily make them the leading fruit house in the Northwest and they will no doubt do well.

HURRAH For The HOLIDAYS! ! !
Nothing too Good for Christmas

Make as Many HAPPY
AS YOU CAN

With bountiful selections from our
GRAND HOLIDAY STOCK.

ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES

Watches, Clocks, Diamonds, Gold Pen and Holders, Opera Glasses, Souvenir Spoons, Gold Rings, Gold and Silver Thimbles, Charms, Chains, Cuff Buttons, Scarf Pins, Spectacles, Violins, Accordeons, etc., etc.

Come and See the Elegant Display at
SAAKE'S JEWELRY STORE.

CANADIAN EXCURSIONS
via Northern Pacific Railroad
To
Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick

Vestibuled Trains Dining Cars

From Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st inclusive, the Northern Pacific will sell Canadian Excursion Tickets,

Good for Three Months from date of sale. Stop-overs subject to Regulations of lines over which Tickets read, will be given.

Tickets will be extended upon payment of additional sums as as follows:

15 Days - - - $ 5.00 | 30 Days - - - $10.00
45 Days - - - $15.00 | 60 Days - - - $20.00

☞ Tickets will be sold to Points as far East as MONTREAL for $40.00

For a Single Fare from Montreal added to the $40.00 rate, Tickets will be sold to Points in Quebec east of Montreal, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Call on any Agent of the Northern Pacific R. R., for further information.

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

34-37)

Atty. Gaylord was up from Fertile on Tuesday.

T. S. Berg came down from Mentor on Tuesday.

Sam Dainerd was in from St. Hilaire on Monday.

Attorney Richardson is in attendance at this term of court.

Dept. Marshal Gus Benulien was in the city on Tuesday.

Wm. Erdmann went to Argyle on Monday morning.

Everybody seems to be in attendance at court this week,

Rev. S. Currie went to Brainard on Tuesday evening's train.

A light snow-fall on Wednesday morning made the sleighing better.

A. D. Stephens has taken rooms at the Hotel Crookston for the winter.

Judge Holt is again able to be on the streets. Has lost 10 pounds during the siege.

Remember that you can get a good supper at McKinnon's hall to-night and to-morrow night and at the same time please the ladies.

W. D. Wilson's condition on Thursday morning was considered extremely critical, with about one chance in ten for recovery. His mother and brothers arrived on the early morning train on the Great Northern.

It is odd that the people will all flock to Tom Morris' jewelry store and not so "odd" either when you see that catchy display of jewelry and silverware he has on exhibition.

Chas. Misner had to go to Euclid on Thanksgiving Day to see if the turkeys up that way taste better than home-made. We havn't his opinion "weather" they do or not.

My stock of jewelry and silverware is full and complete. Call and see that piano lamp that I am going to give to somebody and learn particulars.

Tom Morris,
The Jeweller.

Barber Arnold, of the Crookston Hotel, was brought before Judge McLean, on Saturday, charged with shaving on Sunday. He was released on his own recognizance to appear for trial on Dec. 4th.

Thanksgiving Day was duly observed in this city by the usual church services and the regulation turkey diversion. Turkeys are scarcer this week than they were in the beginning of last.

Supt. W. M. Hayes was up from St. Anthony Park on Saturday looking over the work already done on the new buildings. The site for the new barn was located and the work of construction will soon be commenced.

James Cnillhan and Edward Hogan were discharged from the county jail on Monday and celebrated the event by coming to the JOURNAL office and procuring a lot of papers and magazines to take to the jail for the use of their late comrades.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold a fair at McKinnon's hall this evening and to-morrow evening. Supper will be served from 5:30 till 10 o'clock each evening. No pains have been spared to make this a most pleasant time and all are cordially invited. Supper 25 cents.

The week opened on Sunday morning with good, solid zero weather, 10 or 12 degrees or such a business, and a fine, gentle zephyr blowing from Winnipeg. Monday morning introduced 20 degree weather without the zephyr accompaniment. That's a good starter for the first of winter.

Next Sunday is to be "Children's Day," at the Congregational church. The pastor—Rev. Herman P. Fisher—obtained, when in Minneapolis, some large, colored diagrams which will be used illustrating "Palestine and its Cities," "The mountains of the Bible" and "Life and Labors of Apostle Paul."

T. A. Hoverstad left for St. Anthony Park, Minn., on Monday evening, to spend the winter. He will be back right early in the spring to resume operations at the experimental farm. One of the plans for the coming year involves the setting out of a great many forest trees, and their culture and progress will be a much needed object lesson to the farmers of Polk county.

On Saturday last Christina Nelson died of quinzy, (it was said) and was buried on Monday, a large number attending. A short time since a little sister of Miss Nelson died of the same disease, and Miss Nelson, who had been caring for the little one, was taken sick. It is now whispered about that the disease was nothing more or less than diphtheria in its most dreaded form. If this is true it would seem that someone has blundered fearfully in these cases.

"Trilby is conceded on all sides to be a faithful portraiture of life in the Latin quarters of Paris. "Trilby," the play dramatized by Paul M. Putter, is considered a faithful reproduction of the novel and its characters adopted to purposes and conditions of the stage. Manager A. M. Palmer, who holds all of the American rights, is to present the piece at the opera house on next Tuesday evening, by his own excellent company.

Mrs H. Thompson
Essex, Minn.

Pains in the Side

Could Not Eat or Sleep

Hood's Gave Perfect Relief—Cannot Praise It too Much.

"I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla and what it has done for me. Last spring I was taken sick and when I recovered from my illness I had a dreadful pain in my right side which was greatly swollen. Pains in my stomach also caused me so much suffering that I could not eat or sleep. I became and life was a burden to me. After a few doses of Hood's Sarsaparilla I realized it was helping me. I have now taken four bottles and am no longer troubled with pains in my side and stomach. I can eat heartily and sleep well at night. I feel better in every way than for years previous. I never tire of praising Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. THOMPSON, Essex, Minnesota.

Like a Skeleton

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25c.

Attorney Steenerson was in St. Paul, last week, on supreme court business.

Tony LePage went to Ada to attend the Thanksgiving ball, Thursday evening.

Prof. Casey was down from Red Lake Falls, last week, to attend the teachers' convention.

Wood begins to come in more freely on the Fosston line. It is selling at from $4.00 to $5.00 per cord.

Engineer Geo. Ralph returned last week from a surveying trip in time to partake of a Thanksgiving dinner at home.

Dr. C. E. Dampier went to St. Paul last week, on Masonic business and of course had to hear the great singer, Melba.

A. C. Schmidt and wife went to Fertile last Thursday night to attend the Thanksgiving ball at that village.

Schmidt & Leon have finished painting and decorating the New York store, and the job was done in their usual artistic manner.

The McKinnon carriage works are approaching completion at a rapid pace. The building will be one story higher and much more convenient than ever before. The boys deserve a great long credit mark for this display of enterprise.

The entertainment given by the high school on Friday evening was a great success in every way. An interesting program was listened to by a large audience and although the price of admission had been placed at a small figure the receipts were over $100 net.

The educational convention held in the city last week was a great success in every way. It was largely attended and a permanent organization was formed with Prof. Moore of this city as president, Prof. Bolles, of Ada, vice-president, and Miss Anna Kane, of East Grand Forks, secretary and treasurer.

W. D. Wilson, he of the Fair store, has been enjoying a run of very poor health for a week back. It was rumored that "Wilson had the typhoid" but he denies the allegation and defies the alligator—says that would not be fair—as they don't keep that article in stock. However his friends will be glad that he is improving.

On Saturday last at 6 o'clock Rev. H. P. Fisher said the mystic words which united for life Albert Cochrane, the only son of Uncle Robert Cochrane, to Miss Clara, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kelley. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents in the presence of a few intimate friends. Mr. Cochrane has grown to manhood in our midst, coming here when a lad of about six years and is well liked for his many sterling qualities, while his fair young bride enjoys the distinction of being the first white child born in the town of Crookston. The happy couple will begin housekeeping in the home of the groom's father, Bert having taken charge of his father's large farm. The JOURNAL unites with hosts of friends in tendering congratulations.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

Horse Found.

Came to my place on Sec. 32 in the town of Russia, on Saturday, Nov. 16, 1895, one roan mare. Owner can recover same by paying charges.

[32-34] PHILIP ST. GEORGE.

FRY IT in Cottolene

Fry your food in Cottolene instead of lard and it will be free from that greasiness and "richness" so distressing to dyspeptics; the flavor will be delicious instead of rancid, and your food will do you good. Put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene reaches the cooking point much quicker than lard—care should therefore be taken not to overheat it. Follow these instructions—you will never use lard again.

Genuine Cottolene has trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY CHICAGO.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side
CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

☞ NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

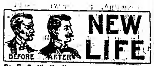
Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.



NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5, with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR

1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis............
8—Neuralgia Toothache, Faceache.....
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding.............
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough,....................
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing,.......
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases,....................
28—Nervous Debility......................
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker..............
30—Urinary Weakness,...................
31—Painful Periods.......................
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.

PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.

Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

CHIPPEWA RESERVATION TO BE OPENED NEXT SPRING.

State Immigration Association Formed at St. Paul—Seventeen Towns of Cass County Annexed to Crow Wing—A Successor to Assistant Secretary Wildt.

Royalton will have a new Catholic church.

Three Minneapolis hen lifters were fined $15 each.

A new militia company is being organized at Mankato.

The first creamery in Lyon county is being built at Russell.

St. Stanislaus Polish Catholic church was dedicated at Winona.

Another large iron deal in the Mesaba country has been made.

Someone stole the horse of Mayor Pratt of Minneapolis Thursday evening.

J. J. Lomen has been appointed assistant secretary of the state, vice P. W. Wildt.

A move is on foot to have a "coarse grain pit" at the Minneapolis chamber of commerce.

Winona board of education sold $18,000 worth of bonds at par, bearing only 4½ per cent interest.

Tracy's new school building, said to be the finest in Southwestern Minnesota, has been completed.

Governor Clough has refused a pardon for Fritz Williams who killed a man named Thomas.

The Winona Willow Ware company has made an assignment. Assets, $35,000; liabilities, $23,000.

Seventeen townships of Cass county will, at the request of a majority of the voters, have themselves annexed to Crow Wing county.

The Minnesota State Immigration association has been organized at St Paul. T. L. Schurmeier donated $2,500 to the running expense fund.

Work has commenced on a new $18,000 parochial school building for the church of the Immaculate conception at St Cloud. It will be of brick and stone.

Fourteen hundred specimens of fishes have been received by the state normal school at Mankato from the Smithsonian institution at Washington, bottled in alcohol, and representing all portions of the country.

Theodore and Eddie Kraguess' Minneapolis wheelmen, have arrived at San Francisco on their wheels, having made the run from Minneapolis via the Union and Southern Pacific routes in 38 days actual travel. They averaged 75 miles a day.

Chairman Baldwin of the Chippewa Indian commission has succeeded in persuading the interior department of advisability of opening the Red lake reservation to settlement. It is stated that the lands will be given to settlers as early in the spring as possible.

Mrs. Forbes, wife of Dr. Forbes of Duluth, once the presiding elder of the St. Paul Methodist conference, and chaplain of the senate last winter, is probably dying. Nervous prostration, followed by a severe attack of typhoid fever, has overtaxed her vitality.

The supreme court has rendered a decision that will be of interest to all savings and loan and kindred institutions. The case is that of the state against the Pioneer Savings and Loan company of Minneapolis, and the decision affirms that of the lower court, which held that money in bank and undivided profits of the company were subject to taxation.

Business men of Lake Benton have ceased track buying, after one week's competition with Van Dusen, the latter agreeing to give as good market as elsewhere. The railway company has given Canby and other places a differential rate of three cents as compared with Lake Benton, and Van Dusen used this as a justification for discrimination.

Warren elevator companies will carry out their threat against the local merchants They have now rented a store building and a general store is being opened. They have also succeeded in inducing the Great Northern railway to refuse to furnish cars to farmers through the agent of the board of trade. The company now requires the farmers to make personal application for cars, otherwise their orders are not recognized.

At the dedication of the new Polish church at Winona, a number of women in the large crowd were relieved of their purses and contents. A woman from La Crosse lost $150, and one from Pine Creek, Wis., had $100 in her purse, which was stolen. Several women from Winona who were in the crowd lost various sums from 50 cents to several dollars. One of the women felt some one at her pocket, and looking around saw a fellow sneak off, but he was lost in the crowd and could not be caught.

THE FAIR ONES PLEAD.

Governor Clough Overwhelmed With Letters from Hayward's Admirers.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 4.—Letters asking for the pardon of Harry Hayward have come to the governor of the state almost by the hundred. The larger number of them are from women, and very young women, judging by the way in which they read. For the credit of the women of the state, however, it may be said that none of them have asked for executive clemency for Hayward The majority of the letters are from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Kentucky, and some of them are very well written. All of the writers want Hayward's neck saved, and don't care whether it is by a pardon or commutation. The governor first began to receive the letters last spring, when he fixed the first date for the hanging. Now that he is about to fix the final date the letters have begun to come in again thick and fast.

AHEAD OF ALL MAGAZINES this country has seen.—Albany Argus.

In The NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW

are always found
The Right Topics,
By the Right Men,
At the Right Time.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as the foremost Review in the English language, and no expenditure is spared in maintaining it in its unrivalled position.

The Review is the mouthpiece of the men and women who know most about the great topics on which Americans require and desire to be informed from month to month. Its list of contributors forms a roll of the representative men and women of the age.

Subjects that concern the interests of - - AMERICAN WOMEN receive constant and special attention

Among special features of extraordinary importance which THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW has in preparation for 1896, is a series of articles by the Rt Hon.

W. E. GLADSTONE
—ON—
THE FUTURE STATE
And The Condition of Man in it.

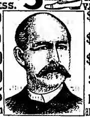
The series will begin in the January number.

50 Cents a Copy; $5.00 a Year.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW,
3 East 14th St., New York.

1,000,000 People Wear
W. L. Douglas Shoes

HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.



$5.00 $4.00 $3.50 $2.50 $2.25 For Men

$3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.75 For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
5th DAY
10th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

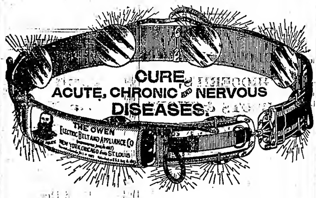
Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

DR. A. OWEN'S ELECTRIC APPLIANCES



CURE ACUTE, CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISEASES.
THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO
NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS

99 TIMES OUT OF 100

Mrs. A. J. Stearns, of West Stockholm, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., under date of July 31, 1895, says: "Words fail me to express my gratitude to Dr. A. Owen for the benefit I have had from using his Electric Appliances. Before using the appliance I was so weak I could scarcely stand alone; had been confined to my bed since last October. After the third day's use of the appliance I could walk several steps; one week later I walked around the house, and in less than one month I was able to ride out, and now I can walk a mile or more without feeling tired. May God bless and spare you to your many friends for years to come."

Mr. Axel J. Ekblado, of Walsburg, Kan., under date of July 20th, 1895, says: "Having used the Dr. Owen Electric Appliances for Nervousness for the past few months, must say they are ahead of any treatment. I am cured of the worst form of Nervous Disease."

Mr. A. Nibek, of Middlefield, Iowa, writing us on June 27, 1895, says: "This is to certify that I have derived more benefit from using the Owen Electric Appliances for a severe case of kidney complaint and nervous prostration than from hundreds of dollars spent for doctor's bills and medicine."

Our Large Illustrated Catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cost of appliances, and much valuable information for the afflicted. Send 6 cents in stamps for it at once.

When writing parties about their testimonials enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope to insure a reply. We have been before the public many years, and our Electrical Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
205 TO 211 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

WHEELER & WILSON'S HIGH-ARM NEW NUMBER NINE 9 IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE.

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS.
Crookston, Minnesota.

The Best Teacher in the world, is experience. The Lorillards have been manufacturing tobacco continuously since 1760. Do you wish to profit by this experience?

Chew CLIMAX PLUG

The brand that for years has been the standard of high grade tobaccos. 'Tis a rich, lasting and delicious chew.

It's LORILLARD'S
Sold everywhere.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA,
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston	For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior,	7:54 p.m.
Daily	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg,	8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent. N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON.
Attorney-at-Law,
Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank
OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON..........President
L. ELLINGTON..........Vice President
J. W. WHEELER..........Cashier
A. P. HANSON..........Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.
A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK-BOOK FREE!

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook-Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Game, etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card is in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. Huron & Oak Streets, TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer ! ! !

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-Class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily	For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at	7:25 p. m
	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at	7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust

Across The Continent Route.

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back sealed day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships, North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3. For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	5:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13. For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61. For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,

or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

THE RAPID DISH WASHER

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

TAYLOR'S SHORTAGE.

South Dakota Officials Say It Amounts to $169,000.

SIOUX FALLS, Dec. 4.—The state officials now know how the state stands in the Taylor affair. The ex-treasurer turned over $100,000 in cash soon after his return, and the appraisement of his property has been completed. His property and that of ex-Governor Mellette, one of his bondsmen, including, also, two quarter sections of land in Brule county, which have been turned in by another creditor, aggregates $85,000 This does not include the Vinton note for $30,000, but which is considered of little or no value, nor bonds of a mining company for $12,000, which formerly were considered good, but the interest on same is now in default. This leaves a total shortage of $169,000.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Do You
Want a Home?

Or to Invest in Lands?

The following Lands in Polk County are offered for sale at $250 per Quarter Section and upward—Easy terms to reliable parties:

T 148, R 44
SW ¼ 28	A. Nephow
T 148, R 45
SE ¼ 6	J. Sylveeterson
T 148, R 46
SE ¼ 6	J. Montague
T 149, R 44
S ½ SW¼ 4, N ½NW¼ 9	J. Bombardier
T 149, R 45
NW ¼ 8	O. Langvin
NE ¼ 30	J. Moore
E½E½32	S. Johnson
T 149, R 46
SW¼ 20	L. Haber
T 150, R 41
NE¼ 29	L. Stone
T 150, R 42
NE¼ 10	I. Dugueau
T 150, R 43
NW¼ 17	H. Deoctelle
NE¼ 33	N. Gaudette
NE¼ 23	A. Beeson
T 150, R 44
NW¼ 8	N. Bell
SE¼SW¼Lot 4 of 30, NE¼NW¼Lot 1 of 31	D. Vaadrin
T 150, R 45
SW¼ 12	P. Lemieux
SW¼ 24	M. Deeantelle
W½ SE¼ E½ SW¼ 26	G. Beauvais
T 150, R 40
NW¼ 12	H. Pare
T 151, R 42
NE—8	J. R. Chinquay
NE¼NW¼9, N½NE¼9, NW¼ NW¼10	L. Vincent
T 151, R 43
SE¼ 15	H. D. McIntyre
NE¼ 18	C. Linde
T 151, R 44
N½SE¼ 34	C. J. Gervais
T 151, R 45
W½ SE and NE of SE
SE¼ 4	John Jones
E½E¼ 12	J. W. Berry
NE¼ 18	I. Goyette
T 151, R 46
SW¼ 10	F. Benoit
NE¼ 24	L. Gauthier
SE¼ 24	A. Lolliberti
T152, R 43
W½ of E½ 28	J. Beaulien
T 152, R 44
N½ SE¼ SW SE¼ 10	B. O. Loe
NE¼ 25	S. H. Kennedy
SW¼ 25	L. C. Comstock
T 152, R 45
NW¼ 25	G. T. Carroll
SW¼ 34	Edwin Neill
T 152, R 49
NE¼ 24	Jas. Brownlee
T 153, R 44
NW¼ 25	J. F. Ives
T 153, R 45
E½ SW¼, Lots 3 and 4, of 18	J. Lubonnta.
T 154, R 45
SE¼ 28	L. C. Gooler
S½ of N½ 32	H. Bontuin

I will be at the Commercial Hotel. Crookston until further notice. Now is the time to buy Cheap Land.

[32-35] H. P. BOLLES.
Representing } Benson & Anderton, Milwaukee, Wis.

WAS A FREE-FOR-ALL.

Cook County Democrats Engage in a Lively Scrap.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—The ball of the Cook County Democracy was the scene of a desperate free-for-all fight in which chairs, clubs, canes and fists were used for all they were worth. There was a contest between John Powers and Thomas Gahan, the latter an Altgeld man, for the chairmanship of the county central committee. The trouble began when Mike McDonald arose, as he phased it, "to tell the miserable low-down Gahan push a few things about themselves." A big man sitting on a window sill became so moved by McDonale's flow of language that he whaked a Gahan man in the eye and then it was all over the place. The doors were locked and the fight raged for half an hour. When there were no chairs left and every one in the room was smashed, Powers and his friends withdrew having lost the political fight, but ready for more of the physical set-to,

WANT THE BAN RAISED.

Catholics Want the Recent Anti-Secret Society Edict Set Aside.

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—A Traveler special from New York says: Hon. James I. Mulligan, postmaster at New Brighton, N. Y., recently chosen provisional chairman of a committee on appeal, organized to take some decisive step towards having the pronouncement that all Catholics must sever their relations with the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows and the Sons of Temperance under pain of excommunication set aside, is now preparing an address to be presented to Mgr. Satolli, asking for a formal reopening of the case of the Knights of Pythias, that the Catholic members thereof may have an opportunity to present their side of the case. Mr. Mulligan believes that a proper presentation of the case to Mgr. Satolli will result in the raising of the ban against the Knights of Pythias, and he asks all Catholics throughout the country to forward their names and addresses to him, that they may be attached to the petition which will be addressed to the papal delegate.

Canadian Excursions.

Once again the time of Canadian excursions is at hand. As usual the Northern Pacific expects to "get there." You know what we have done, what fine trains have run, what splendid accommodations we have given you. Our vestibuled trains are as good as ever—dining car service first-class—and our entire train equipment as perfect as can be made.

The old folks in Ontario and Quebec will feel better if you start on your long trip over the Northern Pacific. Don't make them feel bad by doing otherwise. Call on our agents for particulars and tickets.

Ex-Dept-Sheriff Marvin Losey arrived in the city on Monday and was kept busy shaking hands with his many friends all day. He is traveling for a paint house and will remain a fortnight to settle up some business affairs.

Canadian Excursion

Tickets will be sold by the Northern Pacific from December 1st to December 31st, inclusive, to points in Ontario and Quebec as far east as Montreal. Fare $40.00 for round trip. Good for stop-overs. Tickets good three months from date of sale. By the addition of a single fare from Montreal to the $40.00 rate, tickets will be sold to points in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Upon payment of reasonable amounts in addition, tickets will be extended by agent at passengers' destination.

Call on N. P. ticket agent for further information.

Conductor Tom Stahl came up on Wednesday to make the boys a visit during his vacation, returning in the evening to Barnesville.

Ed Chapin is over from Devils Lake visiting his brother Fred. He got caught in the late unpleasantness there and decided to leave the employ of the Great Northern road. He now intends going into business for himself—open a cigar stand in Grand Forks.

Eighty Bushels to the Acre.

This would be a phenomenal yield of wheat, but it would not be more gratifying than would a visit 'home' via the Great Northern Railway. Crops have been uniformly good throughout this section, and now that the harvest, the threshing and the fall plowing is done, and you have time to think of recreation the old folks expect you, are anxious to see you, and, at a round trip rate of $40.00 to Montreal, you can easily afford a three months visit. Call on nearest Great Northern agent for information about Great Northern Excursions, and see "ad" in another column.

John Florin, the carpenter, went to Warren on Monday morning to fix up the new store the elevator companies have rented.

It looks natural to see Marvin Losey's genial countenance on our streets again. The boy had a run of hard luck, but did not loose his honesty in the deal.

Jay Durand and Miss Nora Fuller were the successful contestants at the oratorical contest of the high school on Monday evening, and were duly elected to attend the contest at Moorhead.

What He'd Do With It.

When the kind old man with the bead that was benevolent and bald had convinced himself, as kind old men whose heads are benevolent and bald were wont to do, that he held the rapt attention of his fellow passengers in the waiting room, he turned to the little wisp of humanity who had been contemplating him with such grave and solemn wistfulness:

"Well, my little man, what can we do for you?" asked the kind old man by way of a curtain raiser.

My little man softly caressed one big toe with another big toe.

"Are you a good little boy?" queried the kind old man.

"Yep."

"Is your father kind to you?"

"Dunno. Hain't got none."

"Now, my little man," said the kind old man, who felt that all the other passengers knew by this time how truly kind he was, "there is a bright new dime. Now tell me what you are going to do with it."

With a look that would have made a Monte Carlo banker faint my little man clapped the bright new dime on his knee. "Match yer ter see whedder it's 20 er nothin."—New York Press.

Altogether Too Honest.

Hotel Clerk—That lawyer stopping with us is the most honest man I ever heard of.

Landlord—Why?

Clerk—He sits up in a chair and sleeps at night.

Landlord—What's that got to do with it?

Clerk—He says after his day's work is over he doesn't think he ought to lie in bed.—Detroit Free Press.

The First Safety Lamp.

The first claim as an inventor of a safety lamp for use in mines was made by Dr. Clanny of Newcastle, who, in 1813, contrived a ponderous and complicated machine, requiring a boy to work it. This apparatus never became popular. It was found to be too unwieldy.

IS IN GOOD CONDITION.

Secretary Lamont Says the Army Was Never in Better Shape.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The operations of the war department of the United States are fully set forth in the annual of Secretary Lamont. The reports of the officers in command of the several geographical departments show that the year has been tranquil and undisturbed by Indian outbreaks, domestic violence or troubles on the border. Steady and general effort to improve the service has brought the troops everywhere to a highly satisfactory condition as to discipline, efficiency in military exercises and soldierly, patriotic spirit. The army is better fed, clothed and housed than ever before, and the policy zealously pursued of promoting the personal comfort of the officers and men has resulted in a devotion to the service which is everywhere apparent.

It can be said with confidence that never in its history has the present condition of the army been surpassed.

A PROCLAMATION BY GOMEZ.

The Insurgent Leader Promulgates Some Severe Orders.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 3.—Spanish papers arriving here say that General Gomez has issued the following proclamation:

First—After Dec. 1 small detachments of our army will proceed to derail all trains by dynamite.

Second—Country people whose residences are located on main roads will move their houses back some 20 yards.

Third—Any one advising the Spaniards of our whereabouts will be dealt with as an enemy.

Fourth—All wire fences must be raised by the owners, otherwise they will be cut,

Fifth—Any one endeavoring to sell the products of his plantation in any city or town will be hung.

In Memory of John Brown.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 3.—There was a great gathering of representative colored citizens in the Lilac Street Methodist Episcopal church at the memorial services to John Brown. Franklin B. Ham's proposition that an effort be made to secure a national movement to erect a suitable monument to John Brown at Harpers Ferry was unanimously carried. All the addresses were eulogistic of John Brown.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS.

Minneapolis Grain.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2, 1895.

WHEAT—November closed at 51⅞c; December, 52⅜c; May, 57⅛c. On Track—No. 1 hard, 54⅜c; No. 1 Northern, 53⅜c; No. 2 Northern, 52⅜c.

Duluth Grain.

DULUTH, Dec. 2, 1895.

WHEAT—Cash No. 1 hard, 55⅛c; No. 1 Northern, 54⅛c; No. 2 Northern, 52⅛@51⅛c; No. 3 spring, 49⅛@44⅛c; rejected, 46⅞@37⅛c.

St. Paul Union Stock Yards.

SOUTH ST PAUL, Dec. 2, 1895.

HOGS—Active at 5c decline; quality fair with the exception of a bunch of choice Dakota hogs that sold at $3.30. Range of prices, $3 00@3.30.

CATTLE—Market steady and active: good demand for everything.

SHEEP—Good sheep and lambs steady and in good demand.

Receipts: Hogs, 600; cattle, 200; calves, 5; sheep, 10.

Chicago Union Stock Yards.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2, 1895.

HOGS—Active and 5c lower than Saturday's closing.

Sales ranged at $3.25@3.55 for light; $3.40@3.5 for mixed; $3.30@3.60 for heavy packing and shipping lots; $3.30@3.40 for rough.

CATTLE—Market slow and generally 5@10c lower.

Beeves, $3.15@4.90: cows and heifers, $1.60@3.75: Texas steers, $2.75@3.30: Westerns, $2.90@3.90: stockers and feeders, $2.25@3.70.

SHEEP—Market steady.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2, 1895.

CLOSING PRICES.

WHEAT—December, 56⅛c; January, 57⅝c May, 61⅜c.

CORN—December, 26⅛c; January, 26½c: May, 29⅛c.

OATS—December, 17⅛c; February, 18⅜c: May, 20⅜@20⅛c.

PORK—December, $7.65; January, $8.70 @8.82½, May, $9.15.

You Can't Do Better

Than to take advantage of the low rates offered by the Great Northern Railway for the annual Canadian Excursion inaugurated by that road several years ago. See full particulars in "ad" in another column.

IVORY
SOAP
IVORY
IT FLOATS
BEST FOR SHIRTS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. CIN'TI.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Origin of the Honeymoon.

The Neue Blatt informs us that the term "honeymoon" was not suggested by the sweetness of that period of bliss, but originated through a custom of the Germans of old, which compelled the newly wedded to drink nothing but mead made of honey during the 30 days following the marriage.

A lie should be trampled on and extinguished wherever found. I am for fumigating the atmosphere when I suspect that falsehood, like pestilence, breathes around me.—Carlyle.

It Will Last.

The wonder still grows that the green goods men can still find victims despite the exposures that the papers are constantly giving of the swindle. The game will probably continue as long as the green goods appeal to the avarice of the green bads.—Boston Herald.

Nothing has been heard from Dr. Donaldson Smith, the African explorer, for nearly a year. It is feared that he has been killed.

The regular Democratic organization of Brooklyn has nominated Edward M. Grant for mayor. The Reform School Suggested For Stick Carriers.

One of those things for which no philosopher has been able to find a reasonable explanation is the growing tendency of young men to carry about with them heavy walking sticks with very large heads, formed either of knobs or of huge crooks. If these formidable weapons were used merely for the purpose of aiding locomotion no one would complain, but when their owners insist on swinging them like the sail of a windmill in a gale of wind, they, as well as their sticks, become a positive nuisance. It is small comfort to a person who has nearly had an eye injured by one of these miniature scaffold poles to receive a kind of apology from the youth who does not know how to handle, though in nine cases out of ten he has not the courtesy to make even a reasonable excuse. As a stick now appears to be an indispensable part of a young man's outfit, the school board ought really to start classes for instruction in the art of carrying the article, just as in first class boarding schools young ladies are taught how to handle their fans.—London Telegraph.

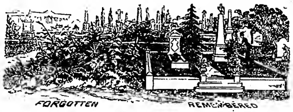
GEO. Q. ERSKINE, President.
WM. ANGLIM, Vice President.
J. W. WHEELER, Cashier.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.
General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.
Town and School Orders Bought.
Money to Loan on Farms

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.
LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT, BARLEY, RYE. FLAX, OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite
Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY DECEMBER 12, 1895. NO 35.

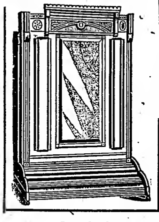
MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Historical Society

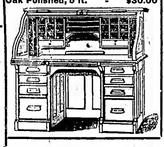
CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

FOLDING BEDS,
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00



OFFICE DESK.
Oak Polished, 5 ft. - $30.00



Best All-Wool Carpet
Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels
Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper
5 c. to 35 c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES
$2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:

We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

THE ITALIANS DEFEATED

Government Troops Meet Disaster in a Battle With Abyssinians.

Surprised and Slaughtered by a Superior Force of Menelick's Men.

African Campaign Severely Criticized in the Chamber of Deputies.

ROME, Dec. 11.—News has been received here from General Baratiori, commander of the Italian troops in Abyssinia, announcing what appears to be a serious disaster to the Italian forces operating against King Menelik. He cabled that the king's army, numbering about 20,000 men surprised and surrounded five companies of Italian troops under Major Toselli, at Ambalagi. Another body of Italian troops under the command of General Armondi, advanced to the support of General Toselli, but they were stopped by the enemy. A severe battle was subsequently fought and the result was not made known here. The official dispatches say that the loss of the Abyssinians was heavy, but no news was furnished concerning the fate of Major Tosselli's command and nothing was said about the losses of the Italians.

Major Tosselli's column was composed of 1,200 native troops, commanded by 20 officers, with 40 noncommissioned officers and a mounted battery. It is now known that of this force of Major Tosselli, 17 of the officers and 900 of the native troops are missing.

Denounced the Government Policy.

Later in the day, in the chamber of deputies, the government was questioned regarding the reported disaster, and the matter led to warm attacks on the government's policy in Africa.

Replying to a question as to the particulars of the battle of Ambalagi, the minister for war, General Mocenni, replied in substance as stated above, and added that the Italian positions were secure. He admitted, however, that the incident was a serious one, although entirely reparable.

Sig. Imbiriani, the Socialist leader, amid interruptions, made a violent speech in opposition to the policy followed by the government in Abyssinia, and other Socialists also denounced the African policy of the government.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—The Daily News has a dispatch from Rome which says that the cabinet has decided to send 5,000 reinforcements to Massowah.

AS A PART OF THE CARNIVAL.

Racing Contests of the Amateur Skating Association Will Be Held at St. Paul.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The skating championships of the National Amateur Skating association will be held at St. Paul this year. They will be given under the auspices of the St. Paul Winter Carnival association, and will be decided some time between Jan. 22 and 30. The selection of St. Paul was made at the meeting of the association held at the residence of President W. E. Curtis. The St. Paul Carnival association was the only organization to make formal application for the championship races.

SECRET SILVER ORDER.

Coin Harvey's New Scheme to Boom Free Coinage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A secret political order, founded by William H. Harvey, with the object of forcing a restoration of the free coinage of silver, will file articles of incorporation with the secretary of state at Springfield within the next few days. For the first time since the secret propaganda of the French revolutionists, a secret order, possessing an elaborate ritual and imposing the most solemn obligations on its members, is to be made the medium of forcing a distinctly political issue.

"Patriots of America."

The order, founded and organized by the author of "Coin's Financial School," is to be known as the "Patriots of America," and its sole object is the restoration of the bimetallic standard. The immediate purpose of the order, as voiced by its founder, is to take such steps as will compel recognition of the claims of the bimetallists from the representatives of the Democratic or Republican parties, or both, when they assemble in national convention next summer.

SIOUX FALLS IS HAPPY.

An Interstate Commerce Decision of Vast Importance.

SIOUX FALLS, Dec 11.—The jobbers of this city are rejoicing over the victory secured by them in the decision of their freight rate case by the interstate commerce commission. The case was brought four years ago and the decision had been so long delayed that business men generally had given up all hope of a favorable decision. The fight which has thus ended favorably was begun by the jobbers 10 years ago, and the matter was laid before the interstate commission four years ago on the advice of Senator Pettigrew. Under the decision the roads cannot charge more from Duluth or Milwaukee to Sioux Falls, the shorter haul, than from those points to Sioux City, the longer haul. Heretofore the rate from those points to Sioux Falls has been 8 per cent greater than to Sioux City. The decision, in its practical effect, gives Sioux Falls the Missouri river freight rate, which is sure to come through the readjustment of rates made necessary by this decision.

SAYS HE WAS A DESERTER.

An Iowa Farmer Whose Conscience Compelled Confession.

OTO, Ia., Dec. 11.—A sensation was created at a Methodist revival now in progress at Oto by the action of Daniel McLaughlin, one of the wealthiest farmers in the county, who arose during a meeting to announce that his name was not McLaughlin but McKenna, and that he was a fugitive from justice, having deserted from the United States army 12 years ago. McKenna came to Oto soon after his desertion, married, and has always been considered one of the solid citizens of the place. No action has yet been taken by the United States authorities, but his early arrest is expected.

Failed to Place the Responsibility.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10—The coroner has rendered his verdict in the Central viaduct disaster. He fails to find sufficient evidence of an act committed or omitted on the part, of any person to warrant him in holding any one criminally liable for the accident. He concludes, that the 17 victims of the disaster came to their death as a result of the injuries sustained, or from drowning in the river.

THE ANSWER IS HERE

LORD SALISBURY'S REPLY TO SECRETARY OLNEY

Arrives in Washington and Is Delivered. It Will Probably Not Be Given Out Until the President Returns From His Hunting Trip and Peruses the Document.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—The reply of Lord Salisbury to Secretary Olney's note of instructions to Ambassador Bayard relative to the Venezuelan boundary dispute was delivered to Secretary Olney at noon. Donelson, the messenger of the British embassy, came early to the state department with a note from Sir Julian Pauncefote, asking for an appointment to see the secretary. This was arranged speedily, and Sir Julian presented the note in person to the secretary, the ambassador himself reading its contents to Mr. Olney, as is the custom when important documents are presented.

For some reason the state department officials took steps to prevent the fact that the note had been delivered from gaining publicity, but without avail. At the British embassy, there was the same indisposition to give any publicity to the proceedings. All inquiry as to the nature of the note failed to secure a response from any official, and it probably will be preserved as an official secret as far as the Washington authorities are concerned, until the president, upon his return, has had an opportunity to consider it and send it to congress, but it is known that it is on the same general lines indicated in the Associated Press dispatches of this week.

IS SHE WEAKENING?

Venezuela Now Thinks She Must Pay the British Claim.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A dispatch to The Times from Caracas, Venezuela, dated Dec 1, says: "The British ultimatum has been delivered here, but the ministers are reticent as to its contents. There are no signs of any anti-English feeling."

The Times also publishes a letter from Caracas which says the Venezuelans are themselves hopeless of preventing the judgment going against them on the question of the frontier outrage on the British Guiana policemen, and the delay in making reparation very probably arises from the shakiness of President Crespo's authority and his fear of incurring unpopularity.

SAYS THE CUBANS WILL WIN.

Opinion of a Prominent Englishman Just Back From the Island.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 10.—Lord Winston Randolph Churchill, son of the late Lord Randolph Churchill, who has been with General Valdez's command in Santa Clara, is in this city. In an interview he said:

"I think the situation in Cuba is serious. The winter campaign is intended to be decisive. Should the Spanish forces not succeed in ejecting the revolutionists from the provinces of Matanzas and Santa Clara this winter, the fight will be prolonged indefinitely as in the last revolution. If the struggle is prolonged the insurgents will gain in numbers on account of the general discontent that will exist and the government, owing to the enormous expense involved, will have to decrease its army and hold only the principal points, while the country and smaller places will be given to the insurgents. In that case the country will soon and the people will bring much pressure to bear upon the insurgents to terminate the struggle, while the United States, on behalf of her citizens' interests, will simply press Spain, and the result will be that Cuba will gain complete autonomy and Spain will not lose her colony. Should the insurgents maintain their position this winter in the provinces then the result is nearer and more promising to them.

Be in a Wretched Condition,

"The Spaniards do not quite grasp their way of fighting and the Cubans, who thoroughly understand the woods, have the advantage. Outside of England, I dont believe there is another country which could suppress that revolution. There are now 85,000 troops being run into Cuba, and unless those in command have arranged a very brilliant coup I cannot see where the additional troops will help the situation much."

More Spanish Troops Reach Cuba.

HAVANA, Dec. 10.—Strong reinforcements of Spanish troops arrived here during the day on board the steamers Colon, Ciudad, Cadiz, Maria Cristina and Santiago. The troops consisted of the Barbastro, Cecilia, Castilla, San Quintin, Navarro and Neridia battalions.

Doll Tickets.

L. & O. Gonyea have inaugurated a plan by which one of their customers will receive a very and handsome doll. Every purchase to the amount of five cents entitles the purchaser to one ticket and when the tickets are all given out the one who has the most tickets receives the doll. The doll is one of the most expensive ones to be found anywhere and is now on exhibition at the store. There are already several competitors in the race for the doll and the greatest number of tickets wins.

THE GREAT REAPER.

Again is our city called upon to mourn the loss of one of its most valued citizens. The JOURNAL mentioned the critical illness of W. D. Wilson last week but at the time we went to press strong hopes were entertained of his recovery, but on Thursday afternoon more unfavorable symptons set in and at about 11 o'clock in the evening he died. His business life among us was an open book, kind, genial and enterprising he had made many friends to whom this sad blow will come as a personal loss.

W. D. Wilson was born at Lucknaw in the Province of Ontario, Canada, on the 3rd of September, 1870. He lived there with his parents until the fall of 1881 when he with the family came to Fargo, North Dakota and there the family has continued to reside. Mr. Wilson attended school at Fargo for some years and there acquired his education. At the age of sixteen years he left shool and began to work for the St. Louis Shoe Company in Fargo as a clerk. He remained there for about three years when he came to Crookston in the year 1889 and established the business in Crookston known as the "Fair" which he has ever since continued to manage and which at the time of his death he owned. This business commenced on a very small scale and has been built up by the industry, perseverance and business ability of Mr. Wilson until it is among the best in the city. His business life has thus practically been entirely in our midst and he has been well known to all business men of this city. That he was energetic, enterprising and agreeable to all it is unnecessary for us to say to the citizens of Crookston. His business has been eminently sucessful and there is no doubt but that if his life had been spared he would have remained one of the prominent and influential men and citizens of Crookston.

Socially there is no young man in Crookston who was more a favorite than Mr. Wilson. His life was such that boys and young men can look up to and follow it as a model.

On Thanksgiving Day Mr. Wilson was not feeling very well but still considered himself only slightly indisposed and took part in the festivities of the day with his friends and associates. That evening, however, he was taken ill and was confined to his room until the time of his death. It was not at any time supposed that his condition was serious or at all dangerous until near the end. On Tuesday he had so much improved that to all appearances he would be out and about his business again in a day or two and his brother who had been with him returned to his home in Fargo. On Wednesday morning Mr. Wilson was feeling bright and much improved but during the day he was taken with a severe chill and alarming symtoms immediately appeared. From that time he sunk rapidly until the time of his death.

Mr. Wilson's mother and one of his brothers, Stewart Wilson of Fargo, were with him at the end.

He leaves surviving him his mother Isabella Wilson, of Fargo, four brothers and three sisters, all of whom reside at Fargo excepting one brother Robert who lives in St. Paul. His brothers, John and Edward arrived in Crookston, Thursday morning. They are both of them well and favorably known in Crookston having spent considerable time here since Mr. Wilson has been in business here.

Funeral services were held at the Congregational church at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Masonic Order of which he was a member having charge of the funeral at this place, sending a guard of honor with the remains to Fargo were the burial took place. The Rev. Herman P. Fisher of the Congregational Church, Mr. Wilson's pastor, preached the sermon at Crookston.

On Monday afternoon at half past two o'clock funeral services were held at Fargo from the Methodist church of which his mother and the other members of the family are members. Rev. Dr. May, pastor of that church preached the sermon and the funeral otherwise was conducted under the auspices of the Masonic Order.

GREAT NORTHERN

Trains are fast, and equipment and service of the best for Canadians taking advantage of the excursion rates.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

COL. COBHAM POST

Elects Officers For The Ensuing Year.

At the regular meeting of Col. Cobham Post held on Friday evening the following camrades were elected to fill the various offices during the coming year:

T. A. DUNLAVA, - Commander.
JOHN GLEASON, - Sen. Vice Com.
JOHN McLEAN, - Jun. Vice Com.
Wm. KISTENMACHER, - Surgeon.
C. H. MIX, - - Chaplain.
B. F. ZARBACHER, - Quartermaster.
J. E. GREENHALGH, Officer of the Day.
LOUIS LEDUC, Officer of the Guard.

J. O. Sargeant and T. A. Dunlava were elected delegates to attend the encampment at Minneapolis with Louis Fontaine and Martin Laily alternates.

The Post has made a wise selection and it is to be complimented in its choice of officers for the ensuing year. Its affairs are now in excellent shape and with a wise and economical administration the Post will continue to thrive and prosper as it has during the past year. Having now secured elegant quarters of its own it can now devote its income to securing a lot of its own and will then be one of the most prosperous Posts in the State. At its next meeting on Dec. 20th the ladies of the Relief Corps will appear and a social meeting will be held. This feature it is hoped can be maintained during the winter.

THE IRONY OF FATE.

At the church sociable at McKinnon's hall, last week, a number of characters from Mother Goose's melodies were personated and W. E. McKenzie, of the Times, was slated for "Baa, Baa, The Black Sheep." It is said that he thoroughly grasped the situation and carried out his part to perfection. If they had selected a lawer, or a doctor, or some other profession it might be said to be appropriate, but who ever heard of a "black sheep" in the newspaper business?

HAPPILY WED.

On Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Johnson on Ash street, the impressive words were spoken that united for life Miss Olive Halverson to Mr. W. J. Marles, the Rev. Mr. Bursett officiating. Frank Marles, brother of the groom acted as best man and the bride's sister, Miss Helen, as bridesmaid. after the ceremony the company, which was composed of the relatives of the contracting parties, sat down to a bountiful repast, and at 7:45 the happy couple departed via the N. P. line for St. Paul and Minneapolis where they will make a brief visit and be at home at Jamestown, N. D. after Dec. 20th. Mr. Marles is an express messenger on the N. P. line, running between St. Paul and Jamestown, is an upright and honorable young man who has hosts of friends to wish him joy of the prize he has won in life's lottery. Miss Halverson has grown from girlhood in our city. She took a position in the post-office when W. B. Dawley was postmaster and so faithful and accurate was she in the discharge of her onerous duties that at the end of his term she was assistant postmaster, a position that she held until she resigned during the latter part of November. She leaves many warm friends in our city who will unite with the JOURNAL in the wish that her future life may be a very happy one.

Quick Work.

Our Euclid items for last week, that should have reached this office on Wednesday morning showed up in good form on Saturday morning. We have reason to suppose they were mailed on time and as the letter was very plainly directed (on a type writer) we can't help but wonder why it required three days to carry that letter 15 miles.

Nervous and Weak.

GLENCOE, Minn., Dec. 1, 1895.—"I felt nervous, weak and tired, so that I could not do my work, and after taking several kinds of medicines and pills, my husband, one day, brought me home one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking one bottle I felt much improved in many ways so I continued taking it and I am glad to recommend it."

MRS. VIGA SCHOUMAKER.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache.

DISTRICT COURT.

TUESDAY MORNING.

The first case called was Rosaaen Bros, vs. Hans Koppaag; A. A. Miller and A. D. Gray for plaintiff and H. Steenerson for defendant.

Plaintiff sues to recover $3,708.13, which he claims due from defendant for lumber, $914.14, and the balance on wheat bought for him. It appears that in the fall of 1892, defendant, as plaintiff claims, got the defendant to buy wheat for him. Plaintiff told defendant he could do it, and all that was necessary to do was to put up five cents a bushel. The defendant put up the five cent margin and plaintiff went to Thompson & Johnson and bought 5000 bushels for May delivery. Rosaaen did not tell T. & J. that the wheat was for anyone else other than himself. Plaintiff claims that he bought the actual wheat, and so arranged with Thompson before purchasing. Thompson claims that he informed the plaintiff that he could deliver the actual wheat either in Chicago, Duluth or Fisher; but that he would have to keep the margin of five cents a bushel good; which plaintiff did whenever called upon so to do. Thus it went on buying and selling, making and losing until about 80,000 bushels were bought and sold. The losses exceeded the gains, but the defendant was encouraged, he says, by Rosaaen, to keep on and he would surely win back all he lost. Koppang put up cash until, as it appears, that the resource was exhausted, then he gave a note to plaintiff for $1,000; then a little later on another for $1,500. He stuck to it—through the assurances of plaintiff, he says—and another loss of $1906 was brought to his attention. This was the last deal. Rosaaen wanted a settlement; goes to the bank of Fisher, where the business seems to have been transacted, and had a statement of the purchases and sales, losses and gains and cash paid in, made out to show Koppang. The account at the bank had been kept in James Rosaaen's name, and this was the first the bank knew that it was a deal for Koppang. The wheat was all bought on the Chicago Board, by Thompson through Mike Doran & Co. of St. Paul. Rosaaen claims that the defendant instructed him from time to time to buy and sell, and that he knew of every transaction. After getting the statement from the bank Rosaaen attempted to get a settlement from Kappang. He wanted that he and his wife give him (Rosaaen) a mortgage on their farm to secure the notes. Mr. Sanaker, the bookkeeper for T. & J. went with Mr. Rosaaen to Mrs. Koppang to get her to sign. She hesitated, and finally refused to sign the papers. Hence the suit is brought to recover the amount. The defense is, that it was a gambling contract, dealing in options, betting on the future price of wheat; which is contrary to law and public policy, and void. And as a counter-claim the defendant sets up that the monys advanced to plaintiff was to apply on the lumber bill.

The first buying was in the fall of '92 and it continued until 1893.

The case was ably conducted on each side, and did not get to the jury until Thursday afternoon about four o'clock.

Tuesday afternoon the grand jury returned two indictments against Albert Boddy of Beltrami for selling intoxicating liquor without license. Defendant pled guilty and was fined $50 on each indictment, or 90 days in jail; and in addition, 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior.

Edward, who is now in jail, was indicted for grand larceny.

Wm. Dunn, out on bail, indicted for assault in the second degree. He assaulted George Brant at East Grand Forks.

George Smith, Frank Murphy, A. C. Urqunart, Thomas Gorman, Jas. McLeary, Willie Wayne, John Casady, Frank Falen, Frank Wilson, Wm. Murphy and James Hughes, all on indictment for grand larceny in the second degree. Seven eight gallon kegs of beer is charged to their account. It appears that they tried to get away with this amount—without drinking it. All are in jail now.

Knute Torgerson gets in for grand larceny; robbing Hans Haugen who had $117 on his person. They were going home from McIntosh.

Henry Stone for forgery in the second degree. He's the lad who, it is charged, attempted to pass a check for $100, dated Oct. 18, '95 and

(Continued on Fourth page.)

IVORY SOAP

IT FLOATS

BEST FOR SHIRTS.

THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

Cheap Flour.

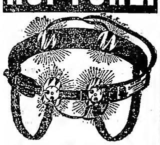
The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.
NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2 per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.



RUPTURE.

Relieved and cured by the Dr. Owen Electric Truss—our latest invention—Guaranteed most Scientific, Powerful, Durable, Comfortable and Effective method. A mild, continuous current of Galvanic Electricity is applied directly to the seat of the Rupture causing a contraction and strengthening of those parts. No detention from business or work. To those who are Ruptured, it will pay to investigate our mode of treatment.

We are honest in the belief that our genuine Electric Truss will cure any case of Rupture that is at all curable. We warrant that the Electricity can be felt instantly on application. Call at our office. No charge for consultation. Our "Treatise on Rupture" is free.

We have been before the Public many years, and our Electrical appliances have become a recognized standard of merit. The largest establishment of its kind in the world

Write for our large illustrated catalogue and treatise upon Rupture.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
201 to 207 State St., corner Adams St.,
CHICAGO.

To the Farmers of Polk County.

There will be a meeting of the farmers of Polk county at Crookston on Dec. 30th. 1895, for the purpose of forming an association and in connection therewith making arrangements for handling and shipping directly by the farmers the grain grown in the county another year, in a manner to be decided upon at that meeting; we would recommend that at least two delegates be sent from each town, and that all others interested would attend, to the end that the meeting be made a success.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the sum of Three hundred and twelve and 22-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Andreas J. Mensen, unmarried, mortgagor, to United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, mortgagee, bearing date the Sixth day of October, A. D. 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of October, A. D. 1891, at two o'clock P. M., in Book 57 of Mortgages, on pages 281 and 282, and there are no other payments to become due upon said mortgage.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America mortgagee, to J. Jorgenson by written assignment dated the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1895, and recorded in the office of the said Register of Deeds on the 16th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 11.20 o'clock A. M., in Book 76 of Mortgages, on pages 12 and 13 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

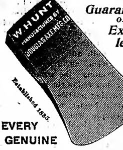
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Northwest Quarter of Section Two (2), in Township One Hundred and Forty Eight (148) Range Forty-five (45), in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, said lands being also described as the South Half of said quarter section and lots three (3) and four (4) of the same, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the third day of January, A. D. 1896, at ten o'clock A. M. of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 19th, 1895.

J. JORGENSON,
32-38 Assignee of Mortgage.
Wm. Watts, attorney for assignee of mortgage.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C.A.SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.



W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW.
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block. } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

Do You Catch the Idea?

A chewing tobacco made to please a universal taste, must be prepared from the highest grade leaf, with a skill that can only be acquired by the longest experience. It must possess a delicious flavor, and a lasting substance, and must neither be too light nor too heavy, too sweet nor too flat. In every element dear to the tobacco chewer is so skillfully concentrated and blended as to make the most delicious chewing tobacco ever put on the market. Try it and you're sure to catch the idea.

Climax Plug

It's Lorillard's.

The Singing Children of Horning.

A row of children suddenly filled the river front. They seemed to come forth, as if at a preconcerted signal, through the low doorways and over the narrow doorsteps of the Horning cottages. Without further delay they burst into a song. They were in excellent practice, for the words of the song were made quite clear:

Ho, John Barleycorn!
Ho, John Barleycorn!
All day long I raise my song
To old John Barleycorn!

When the song was done, some 24 childish eyes were fixed on the strangers in the boat.

"They always sings—Hornin's famed for that. Two hundred years, they say, the children o' Hornin have sung to the passin boats. But it's the yachts that they makes their money off of," was Mills' unblushing introduction of the waiting choir. Something of the youth and freshness of those clear, high voices that only a moment ago had mingled so deliciously with the pinks and the rose scents in the homely, old fashioned gardens had gone. The children, after pocketing their pennies, had turned unnaturally incurious backs on us and the river. They had learned already apparently to take a strictly professional view of the world as it passed.—"A Cruise on the Norfolk Broads," by Anna Bowman Dodd, in Century.

The Ingenious King.

Apropos of Queen Margherita's devotion to her husband, a little anecdote is told which I believe to be perfectly true. The locks of King Humbert, be it told, were formerly as black as a raven's wing, and the pride of his charming consort's heart. Almost suddenly these locks turned white, and the queen, like the fond wife she is, quite fretted over the fact. A certain little delicacy of feeling prevented her from referring to the matter with her husband. So, without saying a word, she purchased a bottle of black hair dye, and one morning placed it on the king's dressing table.

The day wore on and King Humbert appeared at luncheon as usual with his own white hair, greatly to the queen's secret disappointment. Now, the queen owned a pet in a little dog, white as snow, and the dog, as the afternoon wore on, failed to come, as usual, to his mistress' side. What was her surprise when the door opened and he bounded in with a coat as black as ink. The king followed, smiling broadly. "You see," he said, "the use to which I have put the hair dye!" From that day Queen Margherita resigned herself to the fact that her lord preferred to leave his locks to nature's own discretion.—Woman at Home.

A Use For the Shark.

Probably few people who have read the countless stories of the savage shark, the "bandit of the seas," as he is called, know that he is a very useful creature for man. The liver is found to contain an oil of a beautiful color, which never becomes turbid and possesses medicinal qualities of a very valuable character. The skin, after being dried, takes the polish and hardness of mother of pearl, and on being marbled bears a resemblance to fossil coral, so that it is employed by jewelers for the manufacture of fancy objects, by binders for making shagreen and by cabinet makers for polishing wood. The fins, independent of use by some as an article of food, are superior for conversion into fish glue, competing in this line with the well known sturgeon glue prepared in Russia, and are used for clarifying beer, wine and other liquors, also for the preparation of English taffetas and as reagents in chemistry, etc. The flesh, too, despite its oily taste, is in some places eaten as food, and, along with the bones, is converted into a fertilizer.—Revue Scientifique.

A Narrow Shave.

"I was making for a place where the parapet had been worn down by men running over it in order to avoid the exertion of mounting up even four feet, when a young soldier passed me on my left side, and doubtless not noticing I was wounded knocked my arm heavily, saying, 'Move on, sir, please.' As he passed over the parapet with his rifle at the trail, I caught it by the small of the butt to pull myself up. He turned round angrily, asking, 'What are you doing?' and while his face was bent on mine, a round shot, passing my ear, struck him full between the shoulders, and I stepped over his body, so exhausted as to be strangely indifferent to the preservation of my own life, saved by the soldier having jostled me out of my turn at the gap."—"The Crimea In 1854," by Sir E. Wood.

Human Sympathy.

"What has become of Miss Blank, who was always such a favorite in your set?"

"Her father failed some weeks ago, and all they had was sold by auction."

"Poor thing!"

"And now they have to live in a little rented house down town."

"What a change. How she must grieve!"

"Yes; she is so much changed that even her best friends would not recognize her. I met her on the street today and did not know her at all, poor thing!"—New York Journal.

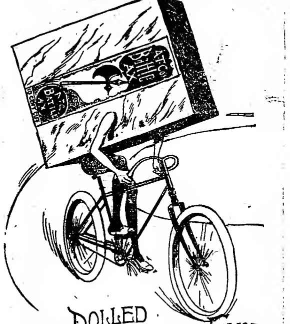
Surely Not.

Customer—Can't you wait upon me? I've been here for nearly an hour. Two pounds of liver, please.

Butcher—Sorry, but there're three or four ahead of you. Surely you don't want your liver out of order?—San Francisco Chronicle.

The bishop of Carlisle boasts that he "can sew a button on better than any woman." The late bishop of Worcester learned to knit, so as to be able to take up his wife's dropped stitches when she grew old.

In France it is believed that when a white pigeon settles upon a chimney the incident betokens speedy death for some inmate of the house.



IT HAS ROLLED INTO PUBLIC FAVOR
BECAUSE
BATTLE AX
PLUG IS THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO SOLD FOR
10 CENTS

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

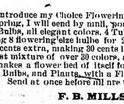
McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.



Bright's Disease

Is the most dangerous of all kidney diseases. Pains in the back, irregularities in the urine, swelling of the limbs or abdomen are the first symptoms.

DR. J. H. McLEAN'S
LIVER AND KIDNEY
BALM

Has proved, in thousands of cases and for many years, to be the peerless remedy for this dreaded disease. It relieves promptly and works a permanent cure

For sale everywhere. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Sinners Twain
By John Mackie
Author of
"The Devil's Playground"

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY

CHAPTER II.

Ten days after the conversation narrated in the preceding chapter, and about a couple of miles or so above St. Denis' ranch, up the coulee, four men are grouped together under a peculiarly formed water worn cliff of yellow sandstone. They are seated in what was once the bed of the creek. But that prince of engineers, the beaver, had constructed a large dam just above them and diverted the course of the stream. In Canada beavers sometimes convert meadows into lakes, swamp homesteads, change the course of all important creeks, and it is no uncommon sight to see a bridge left high and dry, like some stranded leviathan, rendered quite unnecessary by these arch practical jokers.

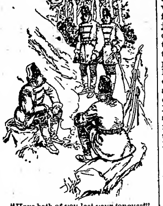
The most important individual in the party referred to, not only in his own eyes, but by virtue of rank, was a commissioned officer of mounted police. His eyes were dark; his whole facial expression might be summed up in three words—red, round and vulgar. Indeed, he enjoyed the sobriquet of "Pudding Face Jamie," from the supposed resemblance of the facial features aforesaid to that popular but homely article of diet. He had at one time been a private holding some subordinate "staff job" in the force, but, having the necessary influence at his back, had secured a commission. Those of his old chums in the force who had expected that when Jamie became an officer he would at least have some consideration for his old comrades were grievously disappointed; for, true to the old adage regarding the putting of a beggar on horseback, when he tasted power he rode roughshod over the unfortunates under him. Fortunately most of his brother officers (the exception being those drawn from his own substratum of society) were gentlemen by birth and education, splendid, all round, good hearted fellows as one could wish to meet, so they providentially kept such characters as Jamie in check and saved many a gently nurtured youth from a martyrdom of petty but galling annoyances.

For in the mounted police a few years ago a very large percentage of the men belonging to the rank and file were gentlemen. Of course Jamie resented the presence of gentlemen; they offered too great a contrast to his own condition—a condition which not even a gold crown on the collar of his serge and goodness knows how many yards of gold lace besides could ever ameliorate. This was where the shoe pinched with Jamie. No wonder that the milk of human kindness was somewhat soured in his composition. The three others present were a police sergeant, a private and a French quarter breed scout named Pierre, a short, stout, dark eyed and pleasant looking individual upon the whole. He had a weakness for saying what were meant to be funny things while at the same time his face bore a look of preternatural gravity. But just then the fact that Jamie had informed him that he would recommend the commissioner to discharge him on the completion of the trip had somewhat damped Pierre's natural cheerfulness. The sergeant was a smart, dark, handsome fellow, and, like many more in his position, seemed born for better things. Even now, although his face was unshaven, although the stump of an old brier pipe protruded from between his lips and his seedy old buffalo coat was buttoned up to his chin, one could see at a glance that Harry Yorke was a gentleman. The fourth man of the party seemed rather a young individual to be a policeman. He was the son of a younger son—some army officer, with a large family and limited means, who was only too glad to get one of his boys disposed of even if it were in the ranks of the Northwest mounted police, for then the youth would be self supporting and would give no further trouble. As it was, Dick Townley, like many more young men in a like position, found the life was not exactly a bed of roses—when, for instance, an officer like Jamie ordered him while in the post to gather bones in a gunny sack, round the barrack square, which had been deposited there by other people's dogs, or to remove the refuse from behind the officers' quarters, in close proximity to an Indian who was ornamented with a ball and chain attached to one leg.

Doubtless, so far as the Indian was concerned, the punishment was not undeserved, for he had probably got six months for appropriating another Indian's squaw and breaking his rival's head when politely remonstrated with. As for the unfortunate private—well, somebody had to do the scavenger's work. It was not perhaps then to be wondered at that his speech partook of a certain cynical and sarcastic tone when the conversation referred to his superior officer. Indeed it might be almost said to savor of his disloyalty; but, then, in the often circumscribed and lonely life of the trooper there were things said, done and tolerated that would not have been dreamed of under different conditions. In the ranks of the mounted police, partly on account of that subtle affinity of class, and conscious necessity of mutual help and encouragement in a life which is to a certain extent one of exile, there was a healthful spirit of camaraderie, the like of which perhaps does not exist in any other force of the kind in the world. Between the noncommissioned officers and privates there was a mutual understanding and good feeling that made the duties of the former comparatively easy and pleasant. Perhaps it was this spirit that made the sergeant tolerant and caused him to take no notice of his junior's many colloquial divergencies.

There were six saddle and pack horses, hard by, in a little clump of bushes. Only a few bleached or blackened leaves clung in a forlorn fashion, like tattered signals of distress, to the great gaunt trees and the dense undergrowth. On three sides they were so hemmed in by trees that they could hardly see the opposite bank of the coulee, although straight across it could hardly be more than a couple of hundred yards or so. It was bitterly cold, and the party sat moodily, muffled up in their buffalo coats, while their saddles and gear were lying about. They had made a fire, over which they hung, and its effect was cheerful enough just then despite the dispiriting social atmosphere.

The wood they burned was old, and of such a nature that the little smoke from it could hardly attract attention. And now the sky had become overcast, and they knew that high overhead, up on the "bench" or plateau, a light breeze had sprung up. At last the scout spoke. The volatile little man could contain himself no longer, even although he had just as good as "got the sack."



"Have both of you lost your tongues?"

"Parbleu! he exclaimed. "It is not surprised I should be if we were going to have just a leetle snowstorm. Generally it is we have one before this time of the year. A-ha, mon cher Richerd, and how it is you will love the entertainment of a snow blanket?"

"Why, my well beloved Sancho," answered the youthful private addressed, "that is a most delightful contingency to contemplate. It reminds me of a legend somewhere, an Indian eda, a Grecian myth, a Scandinavian saga or something of that sort"—here he glanced furtively at his superior officer—"or is it taken from 'The Pilgrim's Progress' or 'Robinson Crusoe?' No matter, but it is about two small children, who, persecuted by a wicked uncle, were lost in a great wood, and the robins and moas, tomtits and dodos came and covered them up with leaves. Now, Pierre, I think you would make a most beautiful and interesting babe all covered up with leaves, or saddle blankets, or, supposing this cliff were suddenly to cave in, with rocks."

"Eh! What, saire?" exclaimed the little scout, with a merry twinkle in his eye, at this stage of the extravaganza. He had not exactly followed it, but he knew that the private was trying to make fun of him.

"By the jumping gewhitaker!" broke in the bearer of the queen's commission, who had been silently wondering if what the private had been talking about were really some "classical stuff" or nonsense specially concocted to annoy him. "I wish you two fools would hold your tongues. Get both of you away up to the bench and come back and tell me what you see there. Take the fieldglasses with you."

"Very good, sir," said the trooper, picking up the glasses which Jamie had indicated by glancing one of his bulging eyes in their direction and moving off. But the little scout still lingered, with an inquiring expression on his face.

"Well, what in the devil's name are you waiting for now, eh?" inquired Jamie. "Sergeant, I call you to witness this fellow's rank insubordination." Jamie was almost cheerful now, for he never felt so happy as when putting a charge for some breach of discipline against a newly made corporal or badgering some willing but not over quick witted constable.

"Please, sir, shall I my horse take?" inquired the scout, with a look of preternatural gravity on his face and as an interpretation of his conduct.

"No, you fool; take those drumstick legs of yours. You grow stupider every day, Pierre."

Pierre smiled pleasantly as he turned his back, as if he had just been complimented. And so he had—when he could make Jamie believe that he was growing stupider.

In a few minutes the pair were back in camp again.

"Well?" inquired the Amiable One before either of them had time to speak. "Have both of you lost your tongues?"

The scout, unseen to the officer, stuck his into his left cheek so that the constable might see it and answered:

"There is nothing, saire, to be seen. But I think we will have a snowstorm, and it is snowed in we are liable to be if we remain here."

"And who in the name of all that's wonderful" (only he put it in a little more forcibly) "told you that we were going to remain here?" asked Jamie, grimly rejoicing in the opportunity afforded of making things lively generally. "Darn you, Pierre! I wish you would give a straightforward answer to a straightforward question. I don't want you to make suggestions; you are not paid for that. It is not necessary for you to point out anything. Sergeant, you and Townley get a rustle on and saddle up the horses. We'll make for shelter."

And now a few flakes of snow began to fall, undecidedly and reluctantly. Then they came down faster and faster, as if at last they saw there was no help for it and might as well do the business with credit to themselves when they were at it. In a few minutes more something like a blizzard had developed with all the suddenness which dwellers in these latitudes have at times experienced.

But before this happened the sergeant and the private had gone off to fetch up the horses; the scout had picked up a heavy Mexican bridle, and, with a significant light in his protruding eyes, addressed the officer. The latter, when he had seen that the scout was about to address him, had preluded the communication with, "Well, what are you going to interfere with now?"

Slowly, deliberately and with evident unction Pierre spoke:

"Saire, I do not wish to interfere or to point out anything, but I would respectfully suggest that the pair of spare beaver mitts belanging to you and lying on that burning log be removed. Already they are en partis consumed. I hope you will perdon me for pointing out"—

He was not allowed to finish the sentence, for the officer sprang forward with an oath and rescued the mitts from further destruction. To do the scout justice, he had not observed the smoldering mitts until it was too late to save them. And now Jamie had something tengible to work upon to gratify his passion for fault finding, and he let loose on the head of the scout a torrent of abuse that would have done credit to a gamin from the slums of Whitechapel or a Queensland bullock driver. But Pierre paid no heed and consoled himself with the thought that a new pair of mitts would cost Jamie at least $3, and that would go pretty near to breaking his heart.

And now they were ready for a start.

"Where to, sir?" inquired the sergeant.

"Why, to old St. Denis', to be sure! Where else?" asked the officer impatiently.

"Well, sir, it's only a matter of ten miles if we make over to Willow Creek through Wildcat coulee, and we can intercept St. Denis' party just as easily from there. If we go to his house, we may miss him altogether."

"No, I guess we will go and stop at old St. Denis' until that gentleman comes back," said the Amiable One, as Dick Townley, the private, in a spirit of mild irony, had dubbed him.

Now, if the sergeant had only exercised a little forethought and had proposed to go to St. Denis' in the first place, his superior officer would have promptly vetoed it and have ordered him to proceed somewhere else. The Scriptures characterize such a spirit as "stiff neckedness," but in the States they have improved upon the expression and call it "pure cussedness." Jamie continued, after a brief pause:

"Besides, Gabriel's sure to look in just to see how that rather smartish girl of his is getting on, on his way to the Hat, and then we can nab him and the liquor too. Savey?"

The sergeant looked at his superior with not a little ill-concealed disgust upon his face as he replied:

"But excuse me, sir; he's not likely to fetch the liquor there, and you forget that there are only two women left at St. Denis', and in a small place like that there's hardly room for us. I don't see that we have any right to take possession of a man's house because he happens to be away, even although he is suspected of smuggling—more especially when he has only left two defenseless women to protect it. Of course, if you intend going into some outhouse, it won't matter so much."

"Outhouse be d——d!" exclaimed Jamie impatiently and with a look of superior wisdom. "I say, Yorke, you've got to see a little more of life and the world yet before you can get along in this country."

A wise man, if he has not traveled, is as worthy of respect as the thoughtful man who has, in that he realizes his own littleness and paves the way to knowledge. But a fool is like a fat donkey that ventures upon thin ice; he courts extinction by the weight of his own ignorance.

The sergeant had turned quickly when Jamie spoke and looked full in the face of his superior officer with not a little surprise, then considerable amusement. As he went slowly on without making any reply, a pitying smile crossed his features as he ejaculated under his breath, "Poor devil!"

"Harry," said the private to his older comrade, the sergeant, as the scout and Jamie headed down the coulee, and with a look of mock gravity on his face, "don't you wish you had seen as much life as the Amiable One?"

"Come, now," answered the sergeant, "none of your treasonable remarks; let's talk of something else. By Jove, though, I can't help wishing that old fool St. Denis had staid at home! If it weren't for that poor girl of his I'd say serves him right to get caught—and ten chances to one we'll nab him this time. It's a shame of him to ruin her life like this—and she is such a superior sort of girl. I think her mother must have been a decided cut above the common run of them, though old Gabriel's not such an unpresentable looking old fellow himself. And by the way, Dick, I don't suppose you've seen her yet. It won't do, you know, to get soft upon her."

"Ah! I see. Soft yourself, eh?" said Dick disrespectfully.

"Well, not quite," was the answer, in a tone that did not exactly reassure the youngster and still less invited further discussion of the subject.

CHAPTER III.

She stood outside the house bareheaded and looked toward the sky, while her hands were outstretched in front of her, palms upward. The light breeze caught up the silky wealth of gleaming hair that had escaped from its heavy folds for the time being, until it streamed in midair behind her like a shimmering shaft of golden light. It kissed and heightened the delicate color on her cheek. A few feathery flakes of snow melted away as they fell upon her firm white palms. Even if they had been animate things, perhaps, they would have been quite content to pass away there. There was a look of concern upon Marie St. Denis' face as she looked all around before going into the house again.

"Jeannette," she said to an elderly and tidy looking French half breed woman, "I believe we are going to have a storm. Oh, I hope dad is in some safe place! It makes me ill to think of him being on the prairie and perhaps a bad blizzard coming on."

"He'll be all right, ma cherie; fret not yourself," said old Jeannette cheerily. But she said under her breath all the same, "And serve him right for going, the wicked man!"

It was a long, low room and scrupulously clean. To use a rather absurd but popular saying, "you might have eaten your dinner off the floor" (just as if there was any necessity for any one to perpetrate such an inconvenient and barbarous deed!), so beautifully clean and fresh it was. There were some humble and not unsuccessful attempts at adornment in this room. For into each of the windows were fitted little boxes, in which still bloomed some hardy plants. There was an absence of all cheap or gaudy ornamentation, which is so often found in the houses of those whose love of show is paramount to their love of the beautiful. But there were some unique and not unbeautiful specimens of wrought Indian beadwork hung against the wall that made one think of the time when interiors were hung with tapestry.

One end of the room was sacred to the burnished and well kept culinary articles of Jeannette. Here and there against the walls, mounted fan shape, were white owls, with their feathers like great ruffles surrounding their beautiful heads, and eagle hawks fierce and picturesque, mounted in a like fashion. They were a species of ornamentation that any drawing room in Belgravia might have been proud of.

Unconsciously in keeping with a prevailing fashion stood a small triangular glass fronted cupboard, with some wonderful old china in it, in one corner of the room. That china had belonged to the girl's mother and grandmother and was a sacred thing. There were a pair of brass mounted, flintlock pistols, crossed over a quaint, narrow and high mirror, and beautiful stone Indian tomahawks and pipes, whose helves and stems were a rich mosaic of colored beads and from which dangled eagles' feathers. Crossed over this doorway was a pair of snowshoes, and over that one, in the center, was a magnificent elk's head whose antlers touched the ceiling. And there were two tiny models of birch bark canoes, and Indian rowers in them with paddles poised in the air. On a small table at the far end of the room there was a unique grasslike woven cloth that was made beautiful and striking by having a fantastic pattern wrought on it in colored silks and beads, and heavily fringed. The yellow and red colors which the Crees affect predominated in it. Strange it is to think—and few there are perhaps who know it—that the Crees got these colors from the Mexicans, when the former were a bold and warlike race—when their territory lay far to the south, and ere they were driven gradually backward by younger and stronger races. Though there was a certain air of barbaric splendor about that cloth, still the effect of the whole room was in keeping with and characteristic of those romantic and picturesque elements of a past now vanishing before a more prosaic nineteenth century utilitarianism. There was indeed really good taste displayed in the arrangement of every detail in that room. Not even the conventional cooking and box stove and lengths of piping could detract from the quaintness of that old world interior, for they were blackened and polished till they reflected one's image like a mirror.

Then the girl put an iron on the stove and looked at a little heap of collars and cuffs which lay upon the dresser ready to be operated upon.

"Sit down, Jeannette," she said, "and tell me a story while I iron these things—something about the old French voyagers, or about the early days of Fort Garry before Riel came to make the metis dissatisfied."

Just at this moment a great wiry haired dog, something between a Scotch staghound and a sheep dog, lifted its head and growled ominously. It had been lying half asleep in front of the stove. The girl started significantly and placed one finger against her lower lip. The half breed woman put her head on one side and listened intently. Then they heard the dull, uneven thud of horses' feet, and dark shadows, as it were, passed and momentarily darkened the front windows. In another minute there was a loud, irregular knocking at the door. Then it was thrown open, and a great fur clad figure stumbled into the room, powdered with snow.

"What a devil of a day!" it exclaimed.

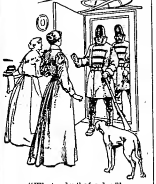
It is perhaps unnecessary to say this was the gentlemen already referred to who had the honor of bearing her majesty's commission.

In another second another figure entered, but it came no farther than the door, and closed it so as to shut out the drifting snow. This figure was the sergeant, who did not speak, but indeed seemed somewhat embarrassed.

The girl stood as if transfixed with astonishment at this sudden entry, or as if these uninvited guests hailed from another world instead of being only matter of fact mounted policemen. But surely it was something more than mere astonishment that paled her cheek and for a second made her lean against the dresser as if for support. Who can tell what thoughts passed through that poor girl's mind just then? It was not difficult to speculate upon one all powerful vision that rose before her, and that was her father. Into her expressive, wide open eyes there came a look of startled apprehension, and then the consciousness of some dreaded presence, which was pitiful to look upon in one so young. But the gallant leader of the party called back the color into her cheeks.

The inspector was a married man, but he possessed a way with him which he considered was all potent with the fair sex. Perhaps it had been potent to a certain extent—in that sphere which he adorned.

"Now then, Mary Ann," he said, "you don't look as if you were glad to see me, as I know you are. Just get a rustle on, like a dear, and shove another log into that stove and—damn it, take that big, ugly brute away, for goodness sake!"



"What a devil of a day!"

The great hound was growling and sniffing in a suspicious fashion in the neighborhood of the officer's ankles, occasioning that gentleman no little concern.

"Sh-h—get away, Michelle! Lie down, sire!" cried Jeannette, catching up a billet of wood and chasing the hound from the visitors, much to Jamie's satisfaction.

And now the claim of stranger to the rites of hospitality had dawned upon the startled girl, and as if she had not heard the officer's free and easy speech she said:

"Won't you sit down? You must be cold." And she placed chairs for them near the stove and was handling a fresh log to put in the box stove when the sergeant came quickly toward her.

"Allow me, Miss St. Denis," he said.

At the same moment he had drawn off his mitts and seized the log of wood she had lifted in both hands. In doing this his hand accidentally touched hers. She looked up at him suddenly and the color on her cheek deepened not a little. "How cold your hands are!" she remarked. "Their touch quite startled me; they are like lead." But she let him take the log, and perhaps he did not know that this simple, commonplace act of politeness, which with some would have passed as a matter of course, was recognized gratefully by her as a deference she felt was only her due, even if she were only Gabriel St. Denis' daughter.

"Have you put your horses in the stable?" Marie asked, turning to the sergeant. "There are four or five spare stalls, you know, and lots of hay."

It was significant that she did not address herself to the officer. But Jamie resented this. He must show this untutored child of the prairie that he was in command of the party.

"Don't fret, my dear," he remarked, with an assumption of graceful facetiousness; "my men know how to make themselves at home. You press the button—I mean, you find the hay, and we do the rest."

Marie looked at him wonderingly for an instant. She did not know whether to put this man's strange speech down to his ignorance of the common civilities of everyday life or to a chronic crudeness or rudeness of manner. She only slightly bit her lip and made no comment. She would be charitable and ascribe his familiarity to the former hypothesis. It would not do to neglect the sacred rites of hospitality, even if—and here her heart sank within her at the thought.

In another minute the private and the scout had come into the room. At last Jamie asked abruptly:

"When do you expect the old men back?"

The sergeant turned uneasily in his chair when he saw the look of wistful entreaty and pain upon the girl's face on hearing this blunt question.

"If you mean my father," she answered, "I am not in a position to tell you. Do you wish particularly to see him?"

"Yup—yaas, I just reckon we want to—to have an opportunity of interviewing him," answered Jamie in his happiest manner. He was under the impression that his humor was of a light and graceful kind, and he looked into the faces of the others to mark the signs of appreciation of these qualities. But he was nettled at discovering only a stolid imperturbability in them. Had his perceptive faculties not been so dulled by conceit he might possibly have detected a look of unqualified disgust and shame there instead.

"Now, look here, my dear," he continued, "it's no use of you tryin this innocent sort of dodge on with me. We want to see the old man, and I guess we'll see him, s'posin we've got to wait in this 'ere house for a fortnight"—

"Sir!" interrupted the girl suddenly, and turning her great clear eyes full upon him, with almost an incredulous look in them.

The sergeant coughed and shifted uneasily in his seat. The constable kicked the heel of the scout surreptitiously with his outstretched foot, and the latter seemed to find something that interested him immensely in a pair of snowshoes which were crossed on the wall over the dresser. The half breed woman paused in the performance of some work, folded her arms, and looked at the officer with brows that knitted like gathering storms. But Jamie saw none of these signs and continued:

"You don't seem to understand, my dear; a pretty girl like you"—

But he had overstepped the mark this time. The warm blood mounted into the girl's face; she held her head erect and looked at him unflinchingly as she interrupted:

"Sir, by what right do you insult two defenseless women?"

The sergeant's breath came and went in quick gasps. Could he risk calling his superior officer to a sense of what was proper and rely on Townley, the private, and the scout becoming temporarily deaf? For he knew if he spoke it meant a serious charge of insubordination against him. But the officer himself released his subordinate from his difficulty and brought about his own undoing. He stared blankly at her for a moment, as if he had not rightly heard; then, realizing that his authority—a high and mighty officer's of the Northwest mounted police—had been called in question by a frail girl, his round, moonlike face became flushed and purple—the change was inconsiderable from its normal one—as he blurted out in a tone meant to impress the entire party and overawe this spirited girl in particular:

"Girl, do you know who and what I am?"

"You have just enlightened us on these points," she answered in a strangely quiet and subdued manner, "for your actions and a certain reputation are identical."

"Eh—what?" he asked uneasily. He had not exactly followed her, but he thought his manner had evidently impressed this wayward girl. "Who and what am I then?"

"An officer of the Northwest mounted police," she replied calmly, "and a cad of the first water!"

As Pierre (who chuckled to himself for nearly two hours after this speech) said to Dick Townley that night, the girl was indeed a "chip of the old block!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lynne's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

The Keystone Watch Case Co. of Philadelphia,

the largest watch case manufacturing concern in the world, is now putting upon the Jas. Boss Filled and other cases made by it, a bow (ring) which cannot be twisted or pulled off the watch.

It is a sure protection against the pickpocket and the many accidents that befall watches fitted with the old-style bow, which is simply held in by friction and can be twisted off with the fingers. It is called the

Non-pull-out and CAN ONLY BE HAD with cases bearing their trade mark—

Sold only through watch dealers, without extra charge.

Don't use your knife or finger nails to open your watch case. Send for an opener (free).

DEFECTIVE PAGE

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers.

Those who have not responded to the bills sent out, we mean. Our annual statements were sent out in due time and many have responded but some have not, and it is very necessary that they should make some kind of a response to save trouble in the near future. We are preparing a list of the names of those from whom we have not been favored with a response, which list will be handed to a collector with positive instructions to collect at all hazards, as we do not feel like carrying any who do not feel sufficiently interested in their own business to at least ask us to do so. It will require some two weeks to make up this list; meantime all will have ample time to let us know what they intend to do, so no one will need have any trouble if they choose to avoid it. A word to the wise should be sufficient in this case, as we mean strictly business. We propose to hear from those long past due subscription accounts, and there is a way by which we can do so if we are forced to take it.

MINNESOTA'S representatives in Congress do not propose to allow the grass to grow under their feet. They are now preparing a number of bills that they will introduce at an early day.

THE policy of England seems to be to delay matters in the Venezuelan affair. She don't want to fight and she don't care to arbitrate, so she is trying to argue the question a little. Grover should not permit too much dallying.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 6, 1895.

There has been much talk of a war with England, but now for the first time in many years there is actual probability of such a war. In fact, unless the situation is misunderstood in Washington, there has got to be a fight or a backdown, and it is certain that even if the administration wished to back down that congress will not allow it to do so. The Monroe doctrine has always been believed in by the Republican party, and the Republicans in congress cannot only be depended upon to stand by the administration in maintaining that doctrine, but to force it to maintain it if such a course be necessary. The only portion of Mr. Cleveland's message that struck a responsive chord in congress was that clause dealing with the communication sent to the British government last July demanding a specific answer as to whether it proposed to submit to arbitration the disputed boundary line between British Guiana and Venezuela, and giving notice that this government would not allow England to forcibly take any territory claimed by Venezuela. England has answered that demand, and although the full text of that answer has not yet been received—it is now on the way by mail—it is understood that it contains a more or less positive refusal to arbitrate the dispute. Should that understanding prove correct, there is nothing left but to inform England that the United States will not allow her to steal Venezuela's territory, and in order to give that information force, it is probable that it will be sent by congress, which alone has power to declare war, in the shape of a joint resolution.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

Mr. Cleveland this week sent for Speaker Reed and the two held a lengthy conference. It is not positively known that the subject of this conference was the Monroe doctrine, but it is believed that it was, and that Mr. Cleveland sent for Mr. Reed in order to ascertain just where the Republicans stood and to arrange as to how the matter should be dealt with by congress. As soon as England's answer is received it will be sent to congress accompanied by a special message from the president and if it be of the nature expected England would just as well prepare to choose between backing down and fighting, for in the present humor of congress she will be allowed no alternative.

Mr. Cleveland's message, so far as it related to financial matters, had just as well never have been written as there isn't the slightest probability that congress will even consider the retirement of the greenbacks at this time. His ignoring of the treasury deficit, in order to escape recommending legislation for increasing the revenues, was plainly done for the purpose of throwing the responsibility of amending the tariff laws on the Republicans. The Republican party has never shirked a responsibility and it will not do so. Congress will provide in its own way the money needed by the government and leave the responsibility of accepting or vetoing that legislation upon Mr. Cleveland.

The Republican senators have held several conferences since congress met to deal with the question of reorganizing the senate, and, although no programme has actually been agreed upon there is little doubt that the Republicans will in due time reorganize the senate. There are not enough Republicans to make a majority, but it is believed that the Populist senators, who have agreed to vote together for a time on the organization question, will eventually divide and that enough of them will vote with the Republicans to make a majority, but no inducements will be offered them to do so.

Among the flood of bills introduced in the house this week was one presented by Representative Johnson, of California, which ought to become a law. It provides for the amending of the naturalization laws so that no alien shall become a citizen who has not for five years preceding his application resided within the United States, and who cannot read, write and speak the English language.

The application of Senator-elect Dupont, of Delaware, for the seat in the senate to which he was elected has been referred to the senate election committee, and there is little doubt about his getting the seat. He has a clear case.

Speaker Reed has not announced the house committees, and until he does the house will probably sit only two days a week, as it did this week, unless there shall be some special reason for changing the programme. Mr. Reed has not set any date, but the impression prevails that the committees will be announced some time next week, or at the latest within ten days.

These Winterdays

When the air is bracing, not biting; when the fall work is over and time begins to drag a little in comparison with the busy harvest season we go out to the barn to do the chores after breakfast with a sense of impatience at the emptiness of our days. To be sure there's a bit of mending to be done on the plow harness, and the chores take some time, and we might take a load of wheat to town, since some few provisions are needed by the good wife, but that isn't satisfying. If only one could be in the old home today there would be no lack of something to do. With all the visiting old friends, renewing acquaintances, and half forgotten memories in the dear old provinces and—why not—yes, why not—to what better use could you put part of the value of your bountiful crop. $40.00 will buy a round trip ticket to Montreal with stop-over privileges via the Great Northern Railway, whose local agent will cheerfully give detailed information.

Going to California?

Then you are interested in knowing:

1st. What line will get you there seven hours quicker than any other:

2nd. What line operates Phillips' Celebrated Tourist Car Excursions?

3d. What line has been in the business longest and is most popular?

4th. That all other Tourist Car lines are imitators.

5th. What line offers you choice of routes? Cars leaving ST. PAUL on MONDAYS at 9 a. m.; via Kansas City and Fort Worth—the favorite SOUTHERN ROUTE, with no snow, no high altitudes. Cars leaving on THURSDAYS at 7 p. m. via Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City—the great Scenic Route.

6th. What line uses Pullman Cars that are completely furnished with carpets in the aisles, upholstered seats, clean linen and blankets for berths, cooking ranges in separate compartments, gentlemanly conductors and careful porters?

7th. What line accepts second class tickets and only charges $6.00 for double berth clear through?

The agents of Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. will cheerfully and truthfully answer any of these questions or you can address

A. B. CUTTS,
[34-37] Minneapolis, Minn.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From The Courier.]

M. T. Hagness and Ole Bang leave for the coast next week. The return trip so far as Mr. Hagness is concerned will be made via Hot Springs, Ark.

Geo. F. Peterson, our popular druggist, quietly went to Minto on Wednesday morning and was married to Miss Hattie Walther, a popular belle of that city. The couple returned to this city the same evening and will make their future home here.

W. R. Bierly still hugs the t'other side of the Ruby, and says East Grand Forks has no charms for him.

People from here who have been called to Crookston say that the present grand jury are gentlemen, liberal and broad gauged, but fearless as to their duties.

Canadian Excursions.

Tickets good for three months with stop-over privileges will be sold by the Great Northern Railway Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st, inclusive to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montreal at a round trip rate of $40.00. Agents at destination will extend time limit of tickets upon payment of a small additional charge. Through tickets will be sold to points in Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island east of Montreal for a single fare from Montreal for the round trip in addition to the $40.00 rate.

For further information call upon local agent, Great Northern Railway, or write F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or E. A. Fradenburgh, T. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

Colds and Grip.

Colds and Grip are one and the same thing. Dr. Humphreys' Specific "77" cures them both. For sale by all Druggists.

Angus Items.

Fred Stroble and son Abram were in Warren on Wednesday.

J. Cameron left on Monday evening for his home in Manchester, Ia., by way of Chicago.

H. Cook left for his home in St. Paul on Monday.

Fred Stroble was in Warren on Friday.

Will and Ed. Stevens spent Friday and Saturday in Grand Forks.

J. F. Montgomery and Miss Nellis McAvoy spent Wednesday evening in Crookston.

Mr. Perkins was in Warren on Thursday.

P. P. Schell spent Friday in Warren.

F. R. Stevens and Mrs. Ford drove to Warren on Friday.

Miss Cosy McAvoy spent Saturday and Sunday at Crookston.

W. Lemen went to Crookston on Monday evening to attend court.

A. E. Brush, W. L. Davies and Fred Peterson went to Crookston on Monday.

A. T. Campian and D. H. Miller drove to Crookston on Tuesday.

F. McLennan and Cliff McLennan were in Warren on Tuesday.

W. Lemen spent Friday evening in Crookston.

A. E. Brush left for St. Paul on Friday evening, where he will spend the winter.

Theodore Brush and wife went to St. Paul on Friday night. Ex.

It is odd that the people will all flock to Tom Morris' jewelry store and not so "odd" either when you see that catchy display of jewelry and silverware he has on exhibition.

Eighty Bushels to the Acre.

This would be a phenomenal yield of wheat, but it would not be more gratifying than would a visit 'home' via the Great Northern Railway. Crops have been uniformly good throughout this section, and now that the harvest, the threshing and the fall plowing is done, and you have time to think of recreation the old folks expect you, are anxious to see you, and, at a round trip rate of $40.00 to Montreal, you can easily afford a three months visit. Call on nearest Great Northern agent for information about Great Northern Excursions, and see "ad" in another column.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

You Can't Do Better

Than to take advantage of the low rates offered by the Great Northern Railway for the annual Canadian Excursion inaugurated by that road several years ago. See full particulars in "ad" in another column.

Grand California Excursion!

A California Excursion of Business and Professional Men will leave Chicago and St. Paul Thursday, January 2, and February 6, 1896, in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific Railways, via Omaha and Ogden, for Sacramento, San Francisco, San Jose, Monterey, Los Angeles, and the Fruit Districts of California. Best of company, lowest possible Tourist rates; Tourist Sleeper—double berth (room for two persons)—from Chicago or St. Paul to San Francisco, $6.00. If you are going as a tourist, or to settle in California, take this train, and you will have the best of company and comfort. Sleeping car berths should be engaged at once. Send orders for berth, with cash, to F. H. Thorn, City Ticket Agent C. M. & St. P. Ry., 365 Robert St., St. Paul; Minn., or C. N. Souther, City Ticket Agent of C. M. St. P. Ry., 95 Adams street, Chicago, Ill.

For further particulars and circulars apply to nearest Ticket Agent or address S. Sherin, Excursion Manager, Palmer House, Chicago, Ill. [35-42

DISTRICT COURT. -

signed by K. J. Taralseth of Warren.

Thursday afternoon the grand jury came in and asked for further instructions in regard to "getting after" the wheat buyers who have been "beating down" the grades of wheat on the pretense that all No. 1 Hard and No. 1 Northern bins were full, and offering the farmers no other alternative but take a low grade for No. 1 wheat.

The Court read that section of chapter 148 of the laws of 1895, regulating wheat buying, and explained to their satisfaction what was necessary for them to do in order not to violate the law.

Immediately after the case of Rosnaen vs. Koppang went to the jury, the case of Anton Haugs vs Olaf Erickson was called. H. Steenerson and W. E. Rowe appeared for plaintiff and DeForest Bucklen and Wm. Watts for the defendant. This suit is brought to recover damages on account of malicious prosecution. In the fall of 1894 defendant had the plaintiff arrested on a criminal charge, on the ground that he feared Hauge and that he thought he would do him (Erickson) some harm. This case was tried before Justice Gossman and Haugs was discharged the Justice finding that there was no cause for fearing any harm from Hauge. It appears that in 1892 this plaintiff went to farm for the defendant on a claim in the town of Fisher. They had sort of a verbal agreement before he went there. Plaintiff being a carpenter helped defendant build a house on this tree claim and moved into it. He was to have the contract in writing, and when he went to get the contract drawn up, defendant backed out. Defendant claims that plaintiff told him he would not take it. They had a sort of a settlement when Hauge moved into the house for the carpenter work he did on the house and Hauge was to have oats for that. Haugs got some oats leaving a balance in his favor of $11 and some cents. Mrs. Hauge sewed for Mrs. Erickson for two weeks which plaintiff claims was never paid. Defendant claims it was.

Plaintiff moved onto a farm in the adjoining town of Rome. In 1894, two years later, while plaintiff and defendant were helping Mr. Gilbert thresh, plaintiff asked defendant to settle up the old account. Defendant claimed he owed the plaintiff nothing, and said the balance of $11 and some cents was not any more than enough for the use of the house and stable and pasture after the time he refused to go on and do the farming. They had some words and defendant claims that plaintiff applied very hard names to him, and threatened him. This of course the plaintiff denies. Defendant also claims that he saw a revolver in plaintiff's hip pocket the next day; and admitted that he had one himself. Plaintiff denies that he carried a revolver the next day, and avers that what defendant saw was a pipe and he exhibited a rather pistolly looking pipe to the jury. After this altercation in 1894 defendant sought to remove plaintiff from the neighborhood, by circulating a petition to get signers to the effect that Hauge and his wife "worked diligently" to stir up strife and destroy their peace and happiness, and presenting said petetion to Mr. Tofte, on whose farm plaintiff was. Outside of defendant's family, one man and his wife signed. Many refused to sign, and Mr. Tofte refused to remove him then Mr. Erickson sought to have him bound over to keep the peace and come to Crookston, consulted an attorney, swore out a warrant and had Hauge arrested. On the trial defendant failed again, and plaintiff was discharged. Now plaintiff brings suit to recover damages for malicious prosecution, and asks for $2,000. The case occupied the attention of the court until Saturday one p. m. when the jury took the matter to adjust and brought in a verdict for plaintiff.

On Friday several indictments were handed in by the Grand jury. Albert LeBree, assault in the second degree. John Hughes and A. LeBree assult in the second degree. F. J. Duffy, for criminal libel. John Hanson, selling liquor without a license. "Jess" whose full name is unknown to grand jury—keeping a house of ill-fame. Nils Fanske, selling intoxicating liquors without license.

Henry Danville, keeping saloon open on Sunday.

Philip Zeh, keeping saloon open on Sunday, Trefle Daoust, selling liquor to a minor.

In the case of Halvor Steenerson vs. Great Northern R. R. Co. and P. & J. Meehan, Intervenor, a motion to strike out plaintiff's demurrer was granted, and plaintiff allowed twenty days to amend.

Court then convened at one o'clock and adjourned until Monday morning at 9.

The Judge is suffering from a heavy cold.

MONDAY DEC. 9, 1895.

Court convened at 10 a. m.

The jury which went out Saturday returned a verdict in the case of Anton Hauge vs. Olaf Erickson in favor of plaintiff. A motion for a new trial on the minutes of the court will be argued some time during the term. In the case of St. P. M. & M. Co. vs. Joseph Beaudette the answer of defendant was withdrawn and judgment was entered for the plaintiff for the possession of the land described in the complaint. Messrs. Grover, Benton, and A. C. Wilkinson for plaintiff and Wm. Watts for defendant.

In the case of A. E. Olson vs. John Petterson, the answer was withdrawn and judgment entered for plaintiff. M. A. Bratland and Ole Vaule for plaintiff and H. Steenerson for defendant. O. J. Gordon vs. Merchants National Bank, settled. W. E. Rowe and O. J. Vaule for the plaintiff and DeForest Bucklen for defendant.

O. J. Moe vs. Aslak Thomason, settled. O. J. Vaule plaintiff and H. Steenerson for defendant.

A demurrer to the indictment against Torgerson was argued by J. N. True for defendant and L. E. Gossman for the State. Demurrer overruled.

Trefle Daoust, indicted for selling intoxicating liquors without license and selling to a minor, was arraigned. Trefle insisted to the court and county attorney that he didn't sell alcohol, and exhibited a small flask, nicely labelled "Rock and Rye," containing a highly colored inflammable looking fluid, which he insisted that he bought for medicine and sold for medicine. He also said our "Mac" gave him license to sell drugs. When asked if he wanted to employ an attorney he said "no." If he wanted to plead "guilty" or "not guilty" he said "guilty"—I sold that and if they swear I sold alcohol how can I help it." He entered a plea of guilty and the court imposed a fine of $50 on each indictment, or sixty days in jail for each; and in addition a jail sentence of 30 days; the jail sentence being suspended on good behavior.

Monday morning there was some disturbance in the jail among the prisoners. The jailer was sick and during his absence some of the gang who had been indicted for stealing beer, by the aid of a mirror were trying to work the combination lock. Then Sheriff Steenerson put in his appearance; another prisoner, a boy, informed him what the other prisoners had been doing. The prisoners made threats to "fix" him. The sheriff kept close watch of them all day.

The case of Andrew Dragseth vs. P. O. Berg was settled by each party paying his share of the costs. Wm. Watts appeared for the plaintiff and H. Steenerson and W. E. Rowe for the defendant.

Henry Stone, the boy who had been indicted for forgery, by his attorney, Mr. Watts, entered a plea of guilty, and the Court passed sentence that he be taken to the reform school and there disposed of according to law.

F. J. Duffy, indicted for libel, appeared, by his attorney, Montague, waived the reading of the indictment, plead "not guilty," and was requested to give his personal recognizance in the sum of $200.

No other case being ready for trial court adjourned.

Tuesday morning court convened at 9 o'clock. The case of Henry Saunders vs. John A. Baker was called. Merrick & Merrick, of Minneapolis, appearing for plaintiff, and A. A. Miller for defendant. The action is brought to recover balance on account for shades, draperies and awnings furnished defendant for the new hotel. Plaintiff claims about $250 still due and owing him. The defendant claims that the order for awnings was countermanded, with the exception of those for the ground floor, by wire, the day after it was given; and that they were put up under protest, and that the draperies were sent back to plaintiff by plaintiff's representative, and that they were accepted by plaintiff and letter sent to that effect. Defendant claims to have paid for the shades furnished and plaintiff has given him credit on account for $150.

Canadian Excursions.

Once again the time of Canadian excursions is at hand. As usual the Northern Pacific expects to "get there." You know what we have done, what fine trains have run, what splendid accommodations we have given you. Our vestibuled trains are as good as ever—dining car service first-class—and our entire train equipment as perfect as can be made.

The old folks in Ontario and Quebec will feel better if you start on your long trip over the Northern Pacific. Don't make them feel bad by doing otherwise. Call on our agents for particulars and tickets.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

AYER'S
The only
SARSAPARILLA
Admitted at the
WORLD'S FAIR
CHICAGO
1893

Why Was It

that Ayer's Sarsaparilla, out of the great number of similar preparations manufactured throughout the world, was the only medicine of the kind admitted at the World's Fair, Chicago? And why was it that, in spite of the united efforts of the manufacturers of other preparations, the decision of the World's Fair Directors was not reversed?

BECAUSE

According to RULE 15—"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition," and, therefore—

Because Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, and not a secret preparation.

Because its proprietors had nothing to conceal when questioned as to the formula from which it is compounded.

Because it is all that it is claimed to be—a Compound Concentrated Extract of Sarsaparilla, and in every sense, worthy the indorsement of this most important committee, called together for passing upon the manufactured products of the entire world.

Ayer's The Only Sarsaparilla
Admitted for Exhibition
AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Those—
—Pimples

Are tell-tale symptoms that your blood is not right—full of impurities, causing a sluggish and unsightly complexion. A few bottles of S. S. S. will remove all foreign and impure matter, cleanse the blood thoroughly, and give a clear and rosy complexion. It is most effectual, and entirely harmless.

Chas. Heaton, 73 Laurel Street, Phila., says: "I have had for years a humor in my blood which made me dread to shave, as small boils or pimples would be cut, thus causing shaving to be a great annoyance. After taking three bottles my face is all clear and smooth as it should be—appetite splendid, sleep well and feel like running a foot race all for the use of S. S. S.

S.S.S.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

J. O. Buhn was in from Mentor on Saturday.

John E. Tice was in from Mentor on Monday.

S. C. Bagley was in from Fosston on Tuesday.

C. E. Southmayd was in from Hill River on Monday.

John Kops was over from Grand Forks on Saturday.

Fred Mix went down along the west side on Monday.

Frank Cernousek was in from Tabor, last week, attending court.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Peter Holm was one of Argyle's citizens in the city on Saturday morning.

Try your luck on the handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

The presiding elder, Rev. Dr. McKaig, preached at the M. E. church on Sunday.

Eli Steenerson left for the woods, this week, to attend to getting out logs for Steenerson Bros.

The finest line of jewelry and silverware for the holidays at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

A little snow has made a wonderful difference in the going about of the city. Sleighs now slip along nicely.

Take a look at that doll at O. & L. Gonyea's that somebody is going to get for nothing.

The Commercial Union has secured and fitted up rooms in the McKinnon block and are now "at home" to their friends.

When looking for holiday goods don't overlook Tom Morris' elegant stock of jewelry and silverware.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Halvorson were down from Fosston on Saturday to greet old time friends and see their daughter married.

The Fair store is right in it for all kinds of novelties appropriate for the season. You will miss it if you fail to call in and see their fine display.

Mrs. W. D. Scott came over from Grand Forks last week to join her husband who has taken apartments at the Crookston hotel for the winter.

If you are looking for something nobby and nice in the line of silverware or jewelry don't forget to call at Tom Morris' jewelry store and see what he has in stock.

The Hutchinson family Sundayed in the city and went out along the St. Vincent line on Monday morning. We hope they will give one of their old-fashioned concerts in this city ere they leave this country entirely.

A Significant Departure.

With the departure of another year when a review is made of the condition of affairs, it is only right that some thought be given to the physical body which enables everyone to battle with life's problem and figure for themselves the profit or loss on the trial balance sheet. Though the bank account may be large and each one's material gain be great, it would not be surprising if it suddenly dawns upon many that good health has been greatly impoverished by the low condition of the blood. It is in this state that the lactic acid in the vital fluid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly the joints, making known the local manifestations of rheumatism. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla the great blood purifier, a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism.

An assistant county attorney greeted Attorney Gossman only on Friday morning. It is said that the first remark the youngster made, after a hearty breakfast, was: "Well, pa, how goes the indictments before the Grand Jury?"

See that handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's and enter the race for it. Worth double what it will cost even if it will cost twice what it is worth.

Carl Hendrickson came over from Grafton, on Saturday, to see how matters at the Scandia-American bank, of which institution he is president, are running. Found everything all O. K., as usual, and returned home contented and happy.

My stock of jewelry and silverware is full and complete. Call and see that piano lamp that I am going to give to somebody and learn particulars.

TOM MORRIS,
The Jeweller.

It is said that F. J. Duffy, of the East Grand Forks Courier has gone over to Grand Forks to form a combination with W. R. Bierly, "offensive and defensive" until the Polk county grand jury shall adjourn. It is whispered that Mayor Rhinehart and the grand jury would like to see the color of Duffy's hair, but Duffy is extremely modest.

IT'S A RACE!

A Swift Running Race!

About twenty selling days to Christmas—vs—an over-stock of Dress Goods—Hosiery—Underwear—Woolen Skirts—etc., Whether the days or the goods go first is a matter of moment to us We've got money staked on the result.

So the cruel price cutting spur digs sharply into the Dress Goods stock, the Underwear stock, the Hosiery stock, the Woolen Skirt stock and bids them go on.

Every piece and garment in the lot marked down to manufacturer's cost.

All are new and choice styles.

Everything in CLOAKS
Marked Down.

Everything in FUR CAPES
Marked Down.

FONTAINE
&
ANGLIM

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
GROCERIES,
BOOTS & SHOES,
CROCKERY and GLASSWARE.

Tell Your Wife

that you have read that Santa Claus Soap is one of the greatest labor-saving inventions of the time. Tell her that it will save her strength, save her time, save her clothes. The merits of appeal at once to every thoughtful woman. It's the best, purest, and most economical soap to be procured. Sold everywhere. Made only by

SANTA CLAUS SOAP

The N. K. Fairbank Company, - Chicago.

See those arctics at the Fair store.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Wheat opened the week Monday morning one cent stronger; 45 for 1 hard.

A handsome line of mantel clocks at Tom Morris' jewelry store. Call and see how cheap they are.

News of the death of Mrs. Judge Brower, at their home in California, was received here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Latta rejoice in a Christmas present a little in advance of time. Found a boy in the stocking (s) on Monday of this week.

"Trilby" amused a small audience at the Grand on Tuesday night. The play was well put on and deserved a far better house than it got.

You can save money on all purchases in jewelry and silverware by calling at Tom Morris' jewelry store and pricing his immense stock.

Mrs. Frank Gravel won the piano lamp at Tom Morris' jewelry store last Saturday evening and now Frank is kicking himself all over town, for what is a piano lamp without the piano?

T. J. McAdams was over from Grand Forks on Saturday on business before the Grand jury.

See that handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

Martin Benson, a brother of the judge was seriously injured by a falling tree last week.

Silverware, the finest line and lowest prices at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Loken welcomed the arrival of a bouncing baby boy on Monday morning.

The Presbyterian church social at McKinnon's hall, last week, netted the ladies about $200 and was a very enjoyable occasion.

If you purchase your confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's you are liable to get the doll.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Barnes were over from Grand Forks on Saturday to attend the funeral of W. D. Wilson.

A large line of novelties in Japan goods—all the latest and newest just imported for the holiday trade. Call and see them at Mrs. I. U. Jennings'.

Make as Many HAPPY
AS YOU CAN

HURRAH For The HOLIDAYS! ! !
Nothing too Good for Christmas

With bountiful selections from our

GRAND HOLIDAY STOCK.

ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES

Watches, Clocks, Diamonds, Gold Pen and Holders, Opera Glasses, Souvenir Spoons, Gold Rings, Gold and Silver Thimbles, Charms, Chains, Cuff Buttons, Scarf Pins, Spectacles, Violins, Accordeons, etc., etc.

Come and See the Elegant Display at

SAAKE'S JEWELRY STORE.

H. A. JOHNSON. WE PAY DRAFTS ON BILL LADING AND WILL MAKE PROMPT RETURNS. O. M. OMLIE.

H. A. JOHNSON & CO.,

GRAIN COMMISSION.

We Sell Wheat to Mills by Sample. We Want all the Barley you have got.

Room 55 Board of Trade,
WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.

Room 506 Corn Exchange,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

—REFERENCES:—

Northwestern National Bank,
West Superior, Wis.

First National Bank,
Grafton National Bank,
Grafton, N. Dak.

Russell & Miller Milling Co.
West Superior, Wis.

CANADIAN EXCURSIONS

via Northern Pacific Railroad

To

Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick.

Vestibuled Trains Dining Cars

From Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st inclusive, the Northern Pacific will sell Canadian Excursion Tickets,

Good for Three Months from date of sale. Stop-overs subject to Regulations of lines over which Tickets read, will be given.

Tickets will be extended upon payment of additional sums as as follows:

15 Days - - - $ 5.00 | 30 Days - - - $10.00
45 Days - - - $15.00 | 60 Days - - - $20.00

☞ Tickets will be sold to Points as far East as MONTREAL for $40.00

For a Single Fare from Montreal added to the $40.00 rate, Tickets will be sold to Points in Quebec east of Montreal, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Call on any Agent of the Northern Pacific R. R., for further information.

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

34-37)

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

E. C. Carruth and wife came over from Grand Forks, on Saturday, to attend the funeral of W. D. Wilson.

One more piano lamp to go in the same way that the first one did. Call and see Tom Morris, who will tell you how its done.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Halvorsen, after a pleasant visit with relatives and friends in the city, returned to their home at Fosston, Monday evening.

If you invest your money for confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's you are liable to get the beautiful doll. Drop in and see her.

Frank Hawkins was up from Fisher, Saturday, to see how matters were coming on at the oat meal mill. Says that he expects to come up to run the engine there when the mill is ready to start up, which he expects to be soon.

Whoever has the greatest number of tickets when the tickets are all sold gets the beautiful doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

W. G. Hunt was down from McIntosh, last week, to regulate the proceedings of the district court, and to make a friendly call on his "particley" friend, M. E. Kirsch, or in his own words, "grasshopper Mike." It is said that Damon and Pythias were not in it, compared with the love that these two have wasted between 'em.

The Grand Forks Packing House on DeMers Ave., will pay the highest cash price for hogs. Having greatly enlarged facilities I am now prepared to cure meats for farmers as heretofore. Call and see me when in Grand Forks

[35-tf] ROB'T. STANTON,
Manager.

Jay Durand won the honors at Moorhead in the speaking contest and goes to St. Paul on the 31st to try for the grand sweepstakes prize. The second place was awarded to Miss Marie Lewis, of Alexandria. Fred has stood it pretty well so far, but if Jay should win at St. Paul—well, it would take Sampson or some other "strong spirit" to hold Fred down.

The funeral of W. D. Wilson, that took place at the Congregational church at 3 o'clock on Sunday was one of the largest ever held in this city. It was conducted by the Masons, assisted by the camp of Modern Woodmen, and the church edifice was taxed to its utmost capacity and then couldn't seat the large congregation that gathered to pay the last sad token of respect to the departed. The altar was banked with beautiful flowers and the casket literally strewn with these beautiful emblems. The pastor, Rev. Herman P. Fisher preached an affecting discourse from the words found in Rev. XXII, 7th verse: "Behold, I come quickly; blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book." After the funeral services the body lay in state until 6 o'clock and was viewed by hundreds of his former friends and associates, and at 8 o'clock the Masons and Woodmen assembled at their halls and went in a body to escort the body to the Great Northern depot on its last journey to Fargo, the home of Mr. W's mother, W. G. Lytle and C. H. Mix, from the Masonic lodge, went down to Fargo as a guard of honor.

First Things.

Post offices were established in 1464.

The first watches were made in Nuremburg Germany.

The first printing press is claimed for Copenhagen, 1493.

Modern needles came into use in 1545.

The first English newpaper was published in 1588.

The first copper cent was coined in New Haven in 1687.

The first steam engine came from England in 1753.

The first lucifer match was made in 1829.

The first steel pen was made in 1830

The first almanac was printed in 1460.

Omnibuses were introduced in New York City in 1830.

Glass windows were first used in England in the eighth century.

The first American newspaper was published at Boston in 1790.

The first telegraphic instrument was operated by Morse in 1835.

George Washington was first in war and first in peace,

The first railroad was opened in the United States in 1820.

The first iron steamship was built in 1830.

The first among Western railroads is the Burlington.

The first thing to do in buying a railroad ticket is to ask your agent to give you one over the Burlington Route; if he has none, take no other but write for tickets, rates, timetables and all necessary information to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

O. M. Omlie was over from Grafton, last week, greeting his oldtime friends and enjoying the visit hugely. He says that times are pretty good at and around Grafton; farms are being sold at good prices and the big crops have made everybody happy. He is handling grain this fall and elsewhere in this issue of the JOURNAL invites the farmers of this vicinity, with whom he used to deal when in business here, to ship their grain to his firm in Duluth or West Superior. Thinks he can do a trifle better by them than some others are doing. All who ever deal with him when he was in business here know that Ole's word is as good as his bond every time. He has handled hundreds of carloads of grain this fall and so far this winter.

Nervous

People should realize that the only true and permanent cure for their condition is to be found in having

Pure Blood

Because the health of every organ and tissue of the body depends upon the purity of the blood. The whole world knows the standard blood purifier is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

And therefore it is the only true and reliable medicine for nervous people. It makes the blood pure and healthy, and thus cures nervousness, makes the nerves firm and strong, gives sweet sleep, mental vigor, a good appetite, perfect digestion. It does all this, and cures Scrofula, Eczema, or Salt Rheum and all other blood diseases, because it

Makes

Pure Blood

Results prove every word we have said. Thousands of voluntary testimonials fully establish the fact that

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Be Sure to Get Hood's

"I have had scrofula for five years. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and it cured me." LYDIA JACOBSON, Luverne, Minn.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25c.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

To Subscribers.

Where you send money to us on subscription see that the address on your copy of the JOURNAL is changed to correspond with your payment. Should it fail to be so changed in two weeks please notify this office at once. A change in the figures on your copy is a receipt for money paid.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Last Sunday morning at the Congregational church, Rev. Herman P. Fisher preached from the text: "But Seek Ye First the Kingdom of God." In the evening he gave an address to young people, illustrating with large, colored diagrams "Palestine and its Cities," "The Mountains of the Bible," and "Life and Labors of Paul." Next Sunday the Rev. Isaac Terborg, of Ada is expected to officiate.

Canadian Excursion

Tickets will be sold by the Northern Pacific from December 1st to December 31st, inclusive, to points in Ontario and Quebec as far east as Montreal. Fare $40.00 for round trip. Good for stop-overs. Tickets good three months from date of sale. By the addition of a single fare from Montreal to the $40.00 rate, tickets will be sold to points in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Upon payment of reasonable amounts in addition, tickets will be extended by agent at passengers' destination.

Call on N. P. ticket agent for further information.

At the annual election of officers of the Woman's Relief Corps, on Thursday evening, Mrs. J. O. Sargeant was elected president, Mrs. Spendley, Sen. Vice President; Mrs. Harris, Jun. Vice President; Mrs. B. J. Duntley, Treasurer; Mrs. Milligen, Guard; Mrs. Reynolds, Chaplain; May Sargeant, Con., and Maud Sargeant, delegate.

Canadian Excursions.

These excursions, at a low rate for the round trip, will start every day from Northern Minnesota and North Dakota points for Montreal and the Canadian provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia Quebec and New Brunswick, from the 10th to 31st of December inclusive. In purchasing your ticket, it will be to your advantage in point of comfort, speed and safty, to ask the agent to give you a ticket over the Burlington Route between St. Paul and Chicago, Our equipment of Reclining Chair Cars (seats free) Pullman Standard and Compartment Sleepers, and Dining Cars (on the cafe plan) is first-class in every particular, as it is well known to our patrons. Our trains leave St. Paul Union Depot morning and evening, and you will make no mistake in going via the "Burlington." For further information, address W. J. Kenyon, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

[35-37]

COOK BOOK 108 COOK BOOK 108

Remember these Directions for using Cottolene

For shortening never use more than two-thirds as much Cottolene as you would of lard. When frying with Cottolene always put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene produces the best results when very hot, but as it reaches the cooking point much sooner than lard, care should be taken not to let it burn—when hot enough, it will delicately brown a bit of bread in half a minute. Follow these directions in using Cottolene and lard will never again be permitted in your kitchen or in your food. Genuine Cottolene is sold everywhere in tins with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
CHICAGO.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

☞ NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL. Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER. Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED.

If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

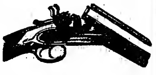
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,



PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwis will receive special attention.

BEFORE AFTER NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

— Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR

1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis..........
8—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods..........
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding................
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough.........................
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing..........
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases..........................
28—Nervous Debility..........................
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker.................
30—Urinary Weakness,.......................
31—Painful Periods............................
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL
"THE PILE OINTMENT."
For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

MADE IN CONGRESS.

CATCHY PHRASES THAT HAVE COME INTO COMMON USE.

The First Buncombe Speech Was Delivered In 1820—Blaine and Conkling In Debate. Famous Sentences Pronounced by Statesmen When Not In Congress.

Many of the best known and most quoted phrases with which the American people are familiar originate in congress.

There is no reason why, if a good thing is said upon the floor of the senate or house, the country should not know it in 24 hours. With a press gallery thronged with correspondents who are always ready and eager to pick up the novel phrase or the apt description, with the great press associations distributing the debates from one end of the country to the other, and with newspapers only too anxious to give currency to the latest expression, a man who says a good thing in congress one afternoon may wake up the next morning and find his saying in everybody's mouth. There is something in the atmosphere of congress, too, that develops the latent wit and inspires to repartee. If a senator or a representative has anything in him at all, it is bound to come out in a rough and tumble debate with a political opponent. Many of the congressmen have already had their genius in this direction tested upon the stump and know how to hold their own in the face of all comers. It does not always follow, however, that a statesman who is good in debate will achieve fame by uttering a phrase that becomes popular.

To go back to the beginning of congressional history is to discover many phrases uttered in congress which are still current. It was as far back as 1820, for instance, that Felix Walker, a member of the North Carolina district which included Buncombe county, apologized for the emptiness of his remarks by stating that he had to make a speech "just for Buncombe." This is a saying which has come down through the years as a byword. "Liberty and union, one and inseparable, now and forever," was uttered by Webster in his famous reply to Hayne. Lincoln's "with malice toward none and charity toward all" was first heard in the halls of congress when his second inaugural address was read to the assembled representatives. In later years Senator Ingalls contributed a number of epigrammatic sentences, the best known of which perhaps was uttered in his wordy duel with Senator Brown of Georgia. The latter had a habit of rubbing his hands together as he talked, and Ingalls, with bitter emphasis, described him as "washing his hands with invisible soap in imperceptible water." Another remark by Ingalls was much quoted at the time. He was discussing the oleomargarine bill and said regarding certain dairy products that he stood "in awe at their strength and reverence for their antiquity." In Proctor Knott's widely copied Duluth speech occurs that phrase, "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," a title which Duluth has always proudly kept.

Blaine and Conkling, with all their greatness, left no single phrase as a legacy of their participation in congressional debates. "Burn these letters" was often quoted after the Mulligan affair, but this sentence was not first uttered in congress. The famous debate between the two men, which estranged their whole lives, occurred in April, 1866, over a very trivial matter—the continuance of the bureau of the provost marshal general. It gave Blaine, however, a chance to satirize Conkling in a single sentence. An article written by Theodore Tilton had appeared in which Conkling had been likened to Winter Davis. "The resemblance is great," exclaimed Blaine, with pungent satire. "It is striking! Hyperion to a satyr, Thersites to Hercules, mud to marble, a dunghill to a diamond, a singed cat to a Bengal tiger, a whining puppy to a roaring lion."

Another debate in which Conkling, then in the senate, was a conspicuous figure, resulted in a sentence which has not been forgotten. Senator Lamar of Mississippi had resented as a falsehood a charge of broken faith made by Mr. Conkling, and the latter retorted that Lamar was a coward, a blackguard and a liar. The Mississippi senator, who had never been accused of cowardice, looked over to his opponent and sarcastically apologized for his first remark. "It was one," he said, "such as no good man would deserve and no brave man would wear." Then he waited for Conkling to reply, but the New York senator was silent.

Many of the sharp things said in congress are left out of The Record. Cobb's "Where was I at?" does not appear in official print, and Senator Wolcott's quotation of the Spanish proverb to Senator Carey, "It is a waste of lather to shave an ass," has also been cut out. A few famous sentences came very near having their origin in congress. Davy Crockett, the author of "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," was a member of the house of representatives for two years, but it does not appear that this oft quoted advice was originated with him there. Henry Clay's "I would rather be right than president" was said to some friends at the capitol, but not in public debate. Senator Sherman, too, is the author of the "mending fences" phrase, although he waited until he was at his home in Mansfield before he uttered it. While Hayes was still president and Mr. Sherman was secretary of the treasury he entertained hopes of a presidential nomination. Just before the Republican national convention met he went to Mansfield, and while there was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. Sherman denied having traveled to Ohio to promote his presidential aspirations. "I have simply come," he said, "to mend my fences, which are greatly in need of repair."—Washington Post.

AHEAD OF ALL MAGAZINES this country has seen.—Albany Argus.

IN THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW
are always found
The Right Topics,
By the Right Men,
At the Right Time.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as the foremost Review in the English language, and no expenditure is spared in maintaining it in its unrivalled position.

The Review is the mouthpiece of the men and women who know most about the great topics on which Americans require and desire to be informed from month to month. Its list of contributors forms a roll of the representative men and women of the age.

Subjects that concern the interests of - - AMERICAN WOMEN receive constant and special attention

Among special features of extraordinary importance which THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW has in preparation for 1896, is a series of articles by the Rt Hon.

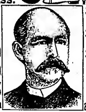
W. E. GLADSTONE
—ON—
THE FUTURE STATE
And The Condition of Man in It.

The series will begin in the January number.

50 Cents a Copy; $5.00 a Year.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW,
3 East 14th St., New York.

1,000,000 People Wear
W.L.Douglas Shoes
HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.



$5.00 $4.00 $3.50 $2.50 $2.25 For Men
$3.00 $2.50 $2.00 $1.75 For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1st DAY
9th DAY
18th DAY
27th DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

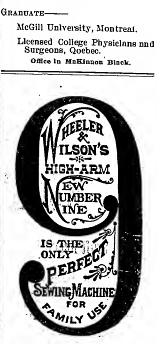
Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Block. - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.



WHEELER & WILSON'S
HIGH-ARM
NEW NUMBER NINE
IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas) administered for the painless extraction of teeth.
OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA,
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily	For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior,	7:54 p.m.
	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg,	8:05 a.m

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT The Choicest Cuts At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway CROOKSTO

A. C. WILKINSON.
Attorney-at-Law
Practices in all the courts. Office over Fo taine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Ban

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,00
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,00

Transacts a General Banking Busine

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collection

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON.................Preside
L. ELLINGTON.................Vice Preside
J. W. WHEELER.................Cash
A. P. HANSON.................Assistant Cash

THE PIONEER HARNES SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the tra
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - MINNESOT

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON
COOK-BOO
FREE!
320 PAGE ILLUSTRATE

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

One of the best C Books published. It c tains recipes for all ki of cooking. Also dep ments on Medicine, quette, and Toilet reci Indexed for handy r ence.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LI HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrapp and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, G etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. Huron & Streets TOLEDO, O

Our Premium Offer !!!

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul. Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at..........7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at..........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust
Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry, Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	[illegible] p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls. Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,

or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.

Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.

One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

Will Have No Special Session.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 9.—Governor Upham will not call a special session of the legislature to redistrict the state, and the work of the apportionment committee has been for nothing. The decision of the governor was conveyed to the Milwaukee members of the legislature by a member the state administration.

George Augustus Sala Passes Away.

LONDON, Dec. 9.—George Augustus Sala, the distinguished journalist, is dead. Mr. Sala was born in London in 1828. He visited the United States in 1863 as special correspondent of The Daily Telegraph. He was war correspondent for the same paper in France in 1870 and afterwards went to Rome to record the entry of the Italian army into that city.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR
PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant,
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Do You Want a Home?

Or to Invest in Lands?

The following Lands in Polk County are offered for sale at $250 per Quarter Section and upward—Easy terms to reliable parties:

T 148, R 44
SW ¼ 28	A. Nephew
T 148, R 45
SE ¼ 6	J. Sylvesterson
T 148, R 46
SE ¼ 6	J. Montague
T 149, R 44
S ½ SW¼ 4, N ½ NW ¼ 9	J. Bombardier
T 149, R 45
NW ¼ 8	O. Langvin
NE ¼ 30	J. Moore
E½E¼32	S. Johason
T 149, R 46
SW¼ 20	L. Haber
T 150, R 41
NE¼ 20	L. Stone
T 150, R 42
NE¼ 10	I. Dagaeau
T 150, R 43
NW¼ 17	H. Desotelle
NE¼ 33	N. Gaudette
NE¼ 23	A. Besson
T 150, R 44
NW¼ 8	N. Bell
SE¼SW¼Lot 4 of 30, NE¼NW¼Lot 1 of 31	D. Vaadrlo
T 150, R 45
SW¼ 12	P. Lemieux
SW¼ 24	M. Desantelis
W½ SE¼ E½ SW¼ 26	G. Beauvais
T 150, R 46
NW¼ 12	H. Pare
T 151, R 42
NE—8	J. R. Chinquay
NE¼NW¼9, N½NE¼9, NW¼ NW¼10	L. Vinceat
T 151, R 43
SE¼ 15	H. D. McIntyre
NE¼ 18	C. Linde
T 151, R 44
N½SE¼ 34	C. J. Gervais
T 151, R 45
W½ SE and NE of SE
SE¼ 4	John Jones
E½E¼ 12	J. W. Berry
NE¼ 18	I. Goyette
T 151, R 46
SW¼ 10	F. Benoit
NE¼ 24	L. Ganthier
SE¼ 24	A. Lollhertl
T152, R 43
W½ of E¼ 28	J. Beaulien
T 152, R 44
N½ SE¼ SW SE¼ 10	B. O. Loe
NE¼ 25	S. H. Kennedy
SW¼ 25	L. C. Comstock
T 152, R 45
NW¼ 25	G. T. Carroll
SW¼ 34	Edwin Nelli
T 152, R 49
NE¼ 24	Jas. Browalee
T 153, R 44
NW¼ 25	J. F. Ives
T 153, R 45
E½ SW¼, Lots 3 and 4, of 18	J. Laboanta.
T 154, R 45
SE¼ 28	L. C. Gooler
S½ of N½ 32	H. Boutaia

I will be at the Commercial Hotel, Crookston until further notice. Now is the time to buy Cheap Land.

[32-35] H. P. BOLLES.
Representing Benson & Auderton,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Stand by Government Schools.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 7.—Premier Greenway in an interview declared that his government would stand resolutely by the act abolishing Catholic schools, in spite of anything the Dominion government might do.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

L. D. Marshall, Supt. of St. A. & D. Elevator Co., was in town Saturday.

S. C. Bugley now has an office over Messrs Campbell & Soderberg's livery barns, and can be found there when in town.

S. S. Stadsvold and W. F. Street will represent Fosston at the convention to be held at Crookston, Dec. 12th. That settles it. Red Lake Reservation is bound to be opened in short order.

Jas. Middleton returned from the Bagley camps Tuesday and left for his home, Minneapolis, the following morning.

Att'y. J. P. Foote came up from Crookston Monday evening on his way to Red Lake agency on legal business. He returned to Crookston this morning.

Atty. J. A. Hendricks was in Crookston last Saturday, appearing for Olla Olson who was brought before Judge Christianson on the charge of selling liquor to Indians. Olson was bound over to appear at the next term of U. S. Court.

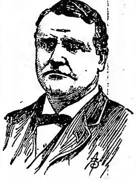
A wedding occurred at the residence of C. F. Husseton, a mile east of Fosston, at two o clock last Thursday afternoon. The parties married were Ole Norud, of Columbia, and Miss Mara Hanson, of Throndljem, Norway, the groom being 62 years of age and the bride 60. Rev. O. Refsdahl performed the ceremony and the couple left in the evening for their future home in Columbia.

DISCUSSED POLITICS

REPUBLICAN LEADERS MEET AND REVIEW THE SITUATION.

Chairman Carter Predicts Victory but Says Not to Be Too Confident—Lively Contest for Convention Between Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburg.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Senator Elkins gave a dinner to a number of members of the Republican national committee. There were also present other prominent politicians of the party, among whom were Chairman Carter, J. S. Clarkson of Iowa, J. H. Manley of Maine, Powell Clayton of Arkansas, William J. Campbell of Illinois, G. A. Hobart of New Jersey, Samuel Fessenden of Connecticut and Senator Quay of Pennsylvania. While no particular object was stated for the gathering, it is known that the meeting developed into a discussion of party politics and what was best to be done during the next campaign. It was not intended that the meeting should be in the interest of any candidate and, in fact, among the gentlemen present there were friends of all the candidates. During a discussion of party measures Chairman Carter took occasion to say that he did not think it wise for the Republicans to be too confident. Although it was apparent there was victory in the air, he said that there were reasons why it was not well to be optimistic



STEPHEN B. ELKINS.

To a Degree of Carelessness.

He thought the grave questions before the country might well cause the Republicans to pause and reflect. The president had placed himself squarely in favor of retiring the credit money of the country. It was possible that the financial centers of the country agreed with him. There is no doubt that a course of that kind, if pursued, would make Populistic votes. Mr. Carter called attention to what he styled the remarkable growth of the Populist vote. He said that it had increased 240 per cent during the past three years and it was well for the Republicans to take this into consideration.

Mr. Carter was charged with being a pessimist and different members of the committee said that with a platform enunciating straight Republican principles there could be no doubt of victory victory with any of the excellent men, who were mentioned for the nomination to head the ticket.

McKinley and Reed Want Rooms.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10.—Manager Lewis of the Southern hotel has received telegrams from Speaker Thomas B. Reed and Major William McKinley, asking that rooms be reserved for their respective delegations, should St. Louis be decided upon as the place to hold the next national Republican convention.

TWENTY-SEVEN PERISHED.

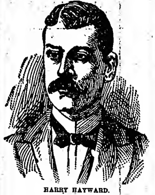
British Steamer Principia Lost on the Coast of Scotland.

LEITH, Scotland, Dec. 11.—The British steamer Principia, Captain Stannard, from Shields Nov. 13, via Dundee Nov. 11 for New York, took fire in the forehold when about 40 miles north of Cape Wrath, on the northwestern extremity of Scotland. She ran for one of the Faroe islands, struck a rock and went down with 27 of her crew, only one, Henry Anders of Rostock, being saved. He was taken from the water after been clinging to wreckage for 18 hours. A passenger named Jackson was also drowned.

HARRY HAYWARD HANGED.

Execution of the Murderer of Catherine Ging at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—The execution of Harry Hayward, convicted of the murder, a year ago, of Catherine Ging, took place in the jail court just before daylight. The execution was conducted in accordance with the law which limits the number of spectators.



HARRY HAYWARD.

Dec. 1st. to 31st. Inclusive.

This is the time—all through December—that you can buy Canadian excursion tickets via the Northern Pacific—go back and visit your friends in the provices this winter and go via the Northern Pacific. Call on our agents for tickets and particulars.

Euclid Items.

P. Fairweather spent Thursday night in Crookston.

A. H. Pitkin departed Thursday evening for his former home at Sabula, Iowa, to be gone about two weeks.

Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the home of the groom's parents, occurred the marriage of Florence E. Dennison and James A. Teal. The commodious dwelling was overcrowded with friends, and promptly at the appointed hour, as the strains of a wedding march played by Ida Teal, were sounding, the bride and groom entered and were pronounced man and wife by the Rev. Dr. Hanscom, of Crookston. During the congratulations of friends and a half hour spent in social coversation the ladies were busy in preparing a sumptuous supper, of which more than one hundred guests partook. After the supper was completed the floor was cleared and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Mrs. Teal is widely known throughout the county, having attained high success as a school teacher. Bert has grown up with the country and is well and favorably known throughout the community. The following list of presents testifies to what esteem the happy couple are held: Ten dollar gold piece and letter receiver, by the groom's parents; beautiful dinner and tea set, several families of Euclid; silver tea set, Messrs. H. C. Misner, A. H. Pitkin, J. S. Chapin and families; beautiful chamber set, R. Teal and family; glass wine set, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong; silver cruet stand, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, Jr.; silver berry dish, O'Riley family, of Fisher; silver pickle bottle, Mr. Frank Sutor; fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gaston; berry set, Mr. and Mrs. Taagland, of Moorhead; glass set, pillow shams, tie and pin, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Moorhead; silver sugar scoop and butter-knife, Miss May Lanctot, Crookston; water set, Mr. and Mrs. G. Von der Beck; flower vase, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rose; glass set, Miss Irene Walker; silver butter knife and sugar spoon, Henry Walker; beautiful bible, Mr. and Mrs. P. Fairweather; glass set Emma Rose and Susie Walker; three pairs linen towels, Miss M. Michael and Emil Von der Beck; China fruit plate, Misses Clara and Susie Benoit, Crookston; glass cake dish and picklestand, Mrs. R. H. Walker; individual cruet stand, Mrs. E. Fisk; silver napkin ring, Alfred and Bennie Von der Beck; child's silver knife, fork and spoon, Rosa Von der Beck; paper receiver, Mr. J. Beveridge; two caps and saucers and saucers and fruit dish, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davidson; pair of linen towels, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hanson; pair of linen towls, Claus Suhl; iron stove poker, E. C. Murney and wife; dozen linen napkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. Burkhardt. Among the guests from abroad were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. Torglund, Moorhead; Misses Susie and Clara Benoit and Miss May Lanctot, Crookston; Messrs Mike and Wm. O'Riley and Miss O'Riley, of Fisher.

Wednesday afternoon C. Stuhr received the sad intelligence of the death of his little grand-daughter, Lottie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mead, of Red Lake Falls. The remains were brought to this place Thursday and interred in Prairieview cemetery. Membraneous croup was the cause of her death.

Mrs. E Salcatine departed Thursdey for Minnieska, Wabasha county, to spend a protracted visit.

Mrs. Hunt lies very seriously ill at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. C. E. Harrington.

Miss Bertha Shultz and Fred Goosen were married at Wylie, Tuesday, morning, at 8 o'clock. The couple arrived here later in the day and the event was celebrated in true German style at the home of the groom's parents.

Populists Senators Reconsider.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Populist senators have changed their former decision concerning the organization of the senate and have now agreed among themselves to interpose no objections to the Republicans taking control.

Confirmed the Peckham Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The senate in executive session at 3:55 p. m., confirmed the nomination of Rufus W. Peckham of New York to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States.

Your Crops This Year

have been good and you have been able to pay off some old indebtedness and now feel as though you lived on easy street again. Take a little recreation this winter, or give your wife and children, who have not been to the old home for a long time, a little trip. From Dec. 1st to 31st, inclusive, you can buy a Canadian excursion ticket to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montréal, good for three months, for $40.00. Call on any Northern Pacific agent and he will see that you are properly fitted out. You can thus stop over in St. Paul, Chicago, Detroit, Montreal, etc., and see the cities or visit friends enroute.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Successor to Mr. Ripley.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 10.—President Miller of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad announces the appointment of A. J. Earling, general manager of the road, as second vice president, in place of Mr. Ripley, who goes to the Santa Fe.

Will Admit All Creeds Now.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Dec. 19.—The Dubuque Catholic Benevolent society, disciplined by Archbishop Hennessy for holding a picnic on a holy day, has decided to continue as a benevolent society and to admit persons of all creeds.

Jefferson Says He Never Said It.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The general manager of the Associated Press has received the following communication from Joseph Jefferson: "Will you kindly state that the interview said to have taken place with me at St. Paul last week, referring to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, never occurred."

Says It Is a Mistake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Bishop Nicholas of the Greek church says the announcement that he has been instructed by the holy synod at St. Petersburg to build in Chicago a great cathedral costing not less than $500,000 is a mistake.

Landed Arms and Ammunition.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—A special to the Herald from Havana, Cuba, says a rebel blockade runner, loaded with arms and munitions of war for the revolutionists, has succeeded in lading her cargo near Marielle.

Russians Instigated the Plot.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says that news has been received there which confirms the report that the Russians were the instigators of the conspiracy of Li Hau Shung against the king of Korea.

All On Board Drowned.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—It is reported that an unknown 3-masted schooner was wrecked and sunk by the storm off the Island of Ameland, in the North sea near Friesland. All persons on board were drowned.

Leaves the British Embassy.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 10.—Rusthuk Said Pasha, who has been a refugee at the British embassy, has returned to his own residence.

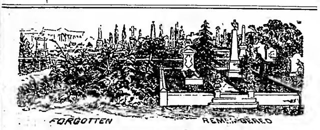
GEO. Q. ERSKINE, President. WM. ANGLIM, Vice President. J. W. WHEELER, Cashier

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.
General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.
Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT, BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Historical Society

MINNESOTA
HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY DECEMBER 19, 1895. NO 36.

CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

FOLDING BEDS,
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00

OFFICE DESK.
Oak Polished, 5 ft. - $30.00

Best All-Wool Carpet
Sewed and Laid - 65 a.
Extra Grade Brussels
Sewed and Laid - 85 a.
Complete Stock Wall Paper
5 c. to 35 a. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES
$2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:

We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

MONROE DOCTRINE

PRESIDENT SENDS A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS.

It Relates to the Stand Taken by Great Britain on the Question of Arbitrating the Venezuela Boundary Matter—The President Upholds the Doctrine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The president has just sent to congress a message on the Venezuelan boundary matter. He gives the attitude of the British government, as outlined in Salisbury's recent note, and recommends the upholding of the Monroe doctrine. He thinks a commission should be appointed to determine as speedily as possible the merits of the case, and that then every resistance to the acquisition of territory by Great Britain by force should be made.

MR. CARLISLE'S REPORT.

Recommends the Withdrawal of Treasury Notes From Circulation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Secretary Carlisle's report was sent to congress. It shows that the revenues of the government from all sources during the last fiscal year amounted to [illegible]. The expenditures during the same period aggregated $4[illegible],178,426, leaving a deficit for the year of [illegible]. As compared with the fiscal year 1894, the receipts for 1895 increased [illegible], although there was a decrease of $11,329,981 in ordinary expenditures, which is largely accounted for by a reduction of $11,346,655 on sugar bounties. The revenues for the current fiscal year are estimated upon the basis of existing laws at $421,907,407, and the expenditures at $448,907,407, which will leave a deficit of $17,000,000.

No Deficit Estimated Next Year.

For the coming fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, the secretary estimates the receipts at $464,793,120, and the expenditures at $457,884,193, or an estimated surplus of $6,908,926. The secretary states briefly the facts concerning the issues of the bonds during the year, the particulars of which have already been reported to congress.

The secretary devotes a large share of his report to a discussion of the condition of the treasury and the currency, in the course of which he makes an exhaustive argument in favor of the retirement of greenbacks.

PLANNING A NEW BOND ISSUE.

The President in Consultation With Members of the Syndicate.

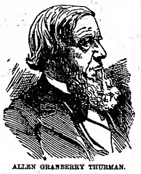
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The World says: The withdrawal Monday of $3,150,000 in gold leaves the treasury reserve at $72,804,766. President Cleveland, seeing that a bond issue must come, has been in personal consultation with members of the syndicate which advised and managed the last issue. The details of a plan for the issue were partially agreed upon and it is understood that the president will order the issue as soon as the reserve strikes the $60,000,000 mark. The issue will be for at least $50,000,000, possibly $100,000,000. It is the general feeling that this shipment will be the last for some time, but it is thought that the president's mark of $60,000,000 will be reached in the first fortnight of the new year, when the bond issue may be expected.

If you purchase your confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's you are liable to get the doll.

JUDGE THURMAN'S DEATH.

The Old Roman Passed Peacefully Away at His Home.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 14.—The death of Judge Thurman was peaceful in the extreme and the soul of the great man left the earthly habitation without a sign of physical distress. At the instant of dissolution and for some hours before Judge Thurman had been lying in an unconscious condition. He passed merely from sleep temporal to sleep eternal and the change was hardly noticeable even to the loved ones who surrounded his bedside.



ALLEN GRANBERRY THURMAN.

Judge Thurman's Last Illness.

The beginning of Judge Thurman's fatal illness dates from Nov. 7 last when he fell heavily while walking across the library floor. A few days after the fall Judge Thurman's life was despaired of, but he rallied from the shock and at times apparently seemed to have regained his old time vigor. The change for the worse became quite marked shortly after midnight Wednesday. He gradually became weaker and 1:15 Thursday afternoon the end came.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Allen Granbery Thurman was born in Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 13, 1813. His father was the Rev. Pleasant Thurman, a minister of the Methodist church, and his mother the only daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Allen, nephew and adopted son of Joseph Howes, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. His parents removed to Chillicothe, O., in 1819, and he made that place his home until he settled in Columbus in 1853, where he has since resided. At the age of 18 he assisted in land surveying, and at 21 he was private secretary of General Lucas, studied law with his uncle, Governor William Allen, and was admitted to the bar in 1835.

In 1844 he was elected by Democrats to congress, and entered that body Dec. 1. 1845, as its youngest member. He declined a renomination to congress, preferring to practice law, and in 1851 was elected to the supreme bench of Ohio. From December, 1854, till February, 1856, he served as chief justice. In 1867 he was the Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio, and fell but 3,000 votes short of an election, though in 1866 the Republican majority had been 43,000.

Mr. Thurman was then elected to the United States senate to succeed Ben Wade. He took his seat March 4, 1869, and from the first was recognized as a leader of the Democratic minority.

In 874 he was re-elected for a second term, and during his 12 years of service, ending in 1881, he won a reputation for judicial fairness dignity and power in debate, retiring with the respect of all, including his political opponents.

In 1880 he was a candidate for the nomination for president on the Democratic ticket, and again in 1884, when he received the third largest number of votes. In 1888 he was nominated for vice president by acclamation in the Democratic convention.

The finest line of jewelry and silverware for the holidays at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

PLACES FOR SENATORS

List of Committees Agreed on by Republicans Given to the Public.

Allison Heads Appropriations and Sherman Foreign Relations.

House Session Enlivened by a Bitter Attack on Secretary Smith.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The Republican caucus committee of the senate has completed its work of assigning the majority members of the senate committees and are prepared to report to the Republican caucus. The Republican membership of the more important committees, if the caucus committee's recommendations are adopted, will be made as follows:

Appropriations—Allison, Hale, Teller, Cullom, Quay, Pettigrew, Perkins.

Foreign Relations—Sherman, Frye, Davis, Cullom, Cameron, Lodge.

Finance—Morrill, Sherman, Allison, Aldrich, Platt, Wolcott, Jones (Pop., Nev.).

Judiciary—Hoar, Teller, Platt, Mitchell (Or.), Davis, Thurston, Clarke.

Commerce — Frye, Cullom, Quay, Squire, McBride, Elkins, McMillan.

Interstate Commerce—Cullom, Chandler, Wolcott, Aldrich, Gear, Carter.

Military Affairs—Hawley, Cameron, Shoup, Proctor, Sewell, Elkins.

Naval Affairs—Cameron, Hale, Perkins, McMillan, Dubois and one other.

Pacific Railroads—Gear, Frye, Stewart, Wolcott and one other.

May Be Announced This Week.

After the list is passed upon by the Republican caucus it will be handed to the Democrats, when it is supposed they will proceed to fill out the minority representation on the committees. It is hoped that this can be done in time to permit the committee appointments to be made late this week, but the Republican managers realize that they are at the mercy of the Democrats in this respect. They have given up all hope of the election of officers before the holidays.

The committee will recommend the enlargement of all the more important committees, including finance, judiciary, appropriations, foreign relations, District of Columbia, commerce, military affairs, naval affairs and public buildings.

In the division of chairmanships Northwestern senators were disposed of as follows: Appropriations, Allison; coast defenses, Squire; education and labor, Shoup; improvement Mississippi river, Nelson; Indian affairs, Pettigrew; library, Hansbrough; Pacific railroads, Gear; postoffices, Wolcott; public lands, Dubois; relations with Canada, Carter; territories, Davis; university of the United States, Kyle; national banks, Mantle.

IS AFTER HOKE SMITH.

Delegate From Oklahoma Enlivens the House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The proceedings in the house were enlivened by Mr. Flynn, the delegate from Oklahoma, who offered a resolution directing the secretary of the interior, "if not incompatible with the public interest, to report to the house the reasons and causes operating to delay the appointment of alloting agents and the alloting of Wichita lands, and whether any of his connections by blood or marriage are acting as attorneys for said Indians or any party or parties interested in delaying the opening of the reservation to settlement."

Attacked the Secretary.

The Democrats were not disposed to raise any objection to this resolution of inquiry, but Mr. Flynn, after consent for its consideration had been secured, began an attack on the secretary of the interior, which called forth a vehement protest from Mr. Cooper of Florida, who maintained that Mr. Flynn's language toward the secretary was undignified and disrespectful. This incited Mr. Flynn to renewed attacks. At the close of his speech, however, he called for the previous question, thus shutting off the possibility of a further defense of the secretary of the interior. The resolution was adopted.

STEWART ON SILVER.

The Nevada Senator Attacks the "Gold Combine."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The senate was in session about two hours during the day, half of that time being given to Mr. Stewart of Nevada, who made a vigorous assault on the "gold combine." In one respect the senator presented a new phase of the subject with which his name has been much identified in senate speeches. He urged that the great depreciation of silver gave to the cheap labor of Asia a tremendous advantage in competing with the domestic products of the American market. Japan, in particular, he said, was profiting by this difference of 50 per cent between our money and that of the Japanese, and Japanese merchants were today underselling our home producers in many lines of goods.

DISTRICT COURT.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON,

The Saunders-Baker case was finished and given to the jury at five o'clock.

A jury was then called in the case of John R. McKinnon vs. Gerard Palen; M. O'Brien, attorney for plaintiff and H. Steenerson and W. E. Rowe for the defendant.

A motion was argued for judgment on the pleadings, and denied.

This action was brought to recover on a promissory note for $25, given Sept. 1st, '91 for a sacker. Defense claim that it was a partnership affair with Leon Wichtermnn, and the sacker was taken away from them in the fall of '92; and asks that the value of it be credited on the note. The case was very short and went to the jury about five o'clock.

Indictments were returned against the following for allowing gaming tables on their premises: Ole Lukkason, Julius Creslen and Wm. Wolf, W. D. Russell and Chas. Doll, Dan Sullivan, W. T. Franklin.

John Knight and Horace LeBree, indicted for assault in the second degree, plead "not guilty." F. A. Grady defending,

Wm. Dunn, indicted for assaulting George Brant of East Grand Forks, it appears has moved to a land that is warmer than this, and it was ordered that his bondsmen Dan Sullivan and Tom McAdam pay the county for his absence $250, the amount of the bond.

Wednesday morning court convened at 9 o'clock. The jury in the case of Henry Saunders vs. John A. Baker handed in a sealed verdict in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $175. Stay of proceedings for 30 days was asked and granted.

A verdict in the case of John R. McKinnon vs. Gerard Palen was handed by the jury, which gives the plaintiff one dollar. Notice of motion for a new trial on the minutes of the court was entered.

A jury was then called in the case of Emil von der Beck vs. Herman Wallace, Wm. Watts attorney for the plaintiff and M. O'Brien for defendant. The action is brought to recover on a claim for threshing for one of the tenants on defendant's farm. Plaintiff claims that defendant agreed to pay for the threshing so done, and the defendant claims he did not agree to pay his tenant's threshing any further than his (defendant's one-third share.) Suit was brought in justice court and judgment rendered for plaintiff for $37.26. The defendant appeals to the district court. The case went to the jury just before noon adjournment.

Ten indictments were handed the court by the grand jury just before adjournment for noon; the contents of which will be made known later.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

A verdict was returned in the case of Emil von der Beck vs. Herman Wallace in favor of the plaintiff for $20.40.

The case of Thal Peterson vs. McCormick Harvester Co. was settled. Wm. Watts and B. S. Bennett, attorneys.

The case of Nils Jeppson vs. Swan Swanson, B. S. Bennett attorney for plaintiff and W. Watts for defendant, was dismissed without prejudice on motion of plaintiff's counsel.

McCormick Harvester Co. vs. Kittel O'Roastad, judgment was entered for plaintiff on motion. Defendant answering but failed to appear. Two promissory notes for $173.00 was the basis of complaint. Bennett & Street for plaintiff and J. Walseth for defendant.

Case of John Olson vs. Erick Dahlin was settled. J. A. Hendricks for plaintiff and Bennett & Street for defendant.

The case of Minnesota vs. A. C. Jellef was called. W. J. Anderson appearing for defendant and County Attorney Gossman for the state. The defendant is charged with taking some hay belonging to one Rupert, in the town of Sullivan. The case was tried before a justice in East Grand Forks and the defendant found guilty by a jury of six men. The justice fined him $20 and costs. Defendant appeals. The jury to-day found him guilty, and affirmed the judgment of the lower court, adding costs of district court.

COURT ADJOURNED.

Colds and Grip.

Colds and Grip are one and the same thing. Dr. Humphreys' Specific "77" cures them both. For sale by all Druggists.

HISTORY.

Address of N. K. Hubbard, at the Old Settlers' Convention in Grand Forks.

The following address, by one who knows how it is himself, by being a participant, is so full of interesting data that we have been watching for an opportunity to present it to our readers ever since the meeting in Grand Forks. It will be found of peculiar interest to all old settlers:

"Old settlers, Ladies and Gentlemen:—Though unable from physical disability to be present with you today, I know of nothing more enjoyable than these occasions. I am glad to note increasing interest in them and am confident that as the years roll on, as we draw closer to the end of our race, we shall appreciate more and more these annual reunions. As those who have descended from revolutionary ancestry look back with pride to the fact that their forefathers were first on the rock-bound coasts of New England, so our children will find pleasure in the fact that their ancestors were the first to settle in North Dakota on our lands of unparalleled richness.

The first settler in the Red River Valley was a French trader who located at Pembina in 1780. While his name has not been preserved, the fact is noted in the records of Long's expedition to locate the international boundary. He was found there forty-three years later, when Long established the international line at Pembina in 1823, and then for the first time "Old Glory" was flung to the breeze on North Dakota soil.

In 1797 a French trader built a fort at Pembina, but when Captain Henry came to establish the interests of the Hudson Bay Company in 1800 he found it destroyed and built his own on the same ground. Having established a fort at Pembina and trading posts at Grand Forks, Park River and other points in the valley, he explored the Mouse and Missouri river countries. In 1801 there was a trading post at Red Lake and Captain Henry paid his compliments to the trader there by sending him a Christmas present of a stallion and two mares. It would seem that the travois and the dog sledge were the only means of transportation in those days, for the captain specially notes in his diary that these were specially fine animals and "had no sore back." Two years later he notes with great satisfaction the invention of the Red River carts, and a year later he wails the introduction of horses and carts, as the tendency was to make the employes of the company lazy and even more shiftless than they were before.

The captain gives the best and first reliable accounts of the occupation of the Red River Valley. After visiting tributary regions he passed on west and was drowned in the Columbia river.

In 1812 the Selkirk colony, consisting of 100 families or more, evicted from the estates of the Duchess of Southerland, made settlement in the Red River Valley, on a tract of land purchased of the Hudson Bay company. They extended their settlements up the Red River as far as Pembina, where they built a fort, which stood until the boundary line was established in 1823, when it was torn down and the Selkirk settlers retired to the British side. The privations and dangers of these settlers were great. A rival interest to the Hudson Bay company not only incited the Indians to commit depredations upon them with a view to driving them out, but their employes, disguised as Indians, waylaid and robbed them, and finally massacred the Hudson Bay company governor, together with a number of their employes and settlers at Seven Oaks in 1816. This affair, however, resulted in the consolidation of the two companies and protection to the settlers. To guard against loss by grasshoppers and drouth the Selkirk settlers kept three years supply of food and forage on hand.

The Hudson Bay company was chartered in 1670, when Prince Rupert and fourteen associates were granted exclusive trading and hunting privileges in all of the land in the vicinity of Hudson's Bay, or on streams and tributaries emptying into that bay. The land was known as Rupert's land, and was supposed to extend up the Red river to Lake Traverse, up Red Lake river to the Portage, up Goose river to Devil's Lake, up the Pembina, Park and other streams in North Dakota to their source. The government of the country was vested in the Hudson Bay company through its governor. The forts, being posts for trade and defense combined, were known as factories, and the principal officers as chief factors. Their employes were enlisted for a term of years, and they had the power to issue currency and to do anything that dependent governments could do.

They had a line of vessels running from Hudson's Bay to England, which made annual trips, bringing the mails and supplies once a year, and carrying back the following summer the winter catch of furs. In midwinter dog sledges were sometimes sent to Montreal with later communications and orders for goods to be delivered the following August. Subscribers for the London papers received 365 copies at one time, and even in our day the wife of our oldest settler, Mrs. Cavalier, a descendant of one of the original Selkirk settlers, informs us the subscriber read only one copy a day, that of the corresponding day of the year before. It was not until Commodore Kittson arrived at Pembina in 1843 and established a trading post, which soon led to monthly mails, that the system of yearly mails was improved upon.

Joseph Rolette appears to have made his way into the country in 1842, the year before Kittson, with his mother's brother, a Mr. Fisher, who had spent his life trading with the Indians. In 1843 he appears to have associated with Mr. Kittson and for many years thereafter, though later making the competition with our friends Moorhead and Cavalier so hot that they sent him to the legislature, where he won everlasting glory among the Saints at the capitol city in Minnesota by defeating the removal of the capitol from St. Paul to St. Peter. Chairman of the committee on enrolled bills, he simply sat in his room eating and drinking and making merry, while the precious hours passed and it became too late to present the bill for the signature of the proper officers necessary to give it life, while Charlie and William made much fur and pemmican at home in business.

Charles Cavalier, our oldest settler of the present day, came in 1851 as collector of the port at Pembina. William H. Moorhead came in 1857 as a carpenter to erect buildings for McFettridge and Rolette, independent traders. Then came the Indian war of 1862, which blocked all development in the Northwest, followed by the Northern Pacific development of 1869 and the following years.

They began the development which has made North Dakota a state. It was my good fortune to be associated with our friend Frank Veits. We came together from Geneva, Ohio, to make our fortunes in the west. We proceeded to Georgetown, seventeen miles north of Fargo, where we found Adam Stein occupying the old Hudson's Bay hotel. Jacob Lowell, Jr., had also come on an intimation from that great railroader, A. B. Stickney, that Georgetown was near the probable crossing of the River by the friend, adviser, relative and representative of Horace Austin, then governor of Minnesota, was there also. Walter J. S. Traill, for whom Traill county was named, was agent at Georgetown for the Hudson Bay company. George Sanborn, a friend and acquaintance of Windom, was also there. We were waiting and watching, and finally the glad tid-

(Continued on Fourth Page.)

A CALL

To the Farmers of Polk County:

Notice is hereby given that there will be a meeting of the farmers of Polk county, at Crookston, on the 30th, day of December, 1895, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of forming an association and making arrangements for handling and shipping grain directly by the farmer in a manner to be decided upon at said meeting; we would recommend that at least two delegates be sent from each town, and all others interested attend to the end that the meeting be made a success. Let us unite in the move and by concerted action secure to ourselves the full benefit of our labor. Signed

E. E. Lommen,
J. S. Nichols,
John Olson,
L. Hamre,
H. S. Carver,
Ener Nelson,
N. R. Englestad,
Peter Olson,
Thos. Lawrence,
Ole Opheim.

Can Veneauela Be Plundered With Impunity.

Can Venezuela be plundered with impunity? Or is it rather the duty of the United States to interpose and insist that the disputed boundary shall be defined by an impartial tribunal? Is that duty imposed on us by a logical deduction from the Monroe Doctrine? Taking the latter question first, let us recall for a moment what that doctrine is, as it was expressed by its propounder The message sent to Congress by President Monroe on December 2. 1873. contained the following words? "We owe it to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and the allied powers, to declare that we should consider any attempt to our peace and safety." It is true that with the development of the United States into a power of the first magnitude and with the diffusion of parliamentary government on the other side of the Atlantic the apprehension of danger to our free institutions from the contiguity of monarchic systems has in large measure disappeard. But that, outside of terrors on their own account, the people of the United States conceive that they have special rights and special duties in the two Americas, rights and duties which might be obstructed by the extension of European dominions within our sphere of influence, is explicitly declared in the ensuing words of the message of President Monroe: "With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European powers we have not interfered, and shall not interfere but with the governments which have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have no great consideration and just principles acknowledged we could not view an interposition for oppressing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power, in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States." It is the words which we have underscored that render unmistakeable the application of the Monroe Doctrine to the Venezuelia boundary dispute. Scarcely will anyone, we fancy, urgue that the forcible dismemberment of an American republic's territory is distinguishable from an attempt to subvert its liberties or control its destiny. To an attempt to draw such a distinction Venezuela could reply that "You take my life when you do take the means whereby I live?" and that, should England assume a commanding position at the mouth of the Orinoco, she would in the strictest sense control the destiny of the Veaezuélian commonwealth she would in truth, have set her hand upon its throat. Much the same thing may be said of England's apparent determination to take possession of the remarkably extensive and rich auriferous deposits on the banks of the Yuruan River in the Venezuelan Territory of Uruary. The tremendous significance of the double wrong inflicted may be measured in a sentence. It is as if Great Britain during our civil war, making a vantage ground of proximity and believing us incapable of self-defence, had undertaken to rob us on the one hand, of California, and. on the other, of the control of the Mississippi,—From The Work of the next Congress." by M. W. Hazeltine, in North American Review for December.

Canadian Excursions.

Once again the time of Canadian excursions is at hand. As usual the Northern Pacific expects to "get there." You know what we have done, what fine trains have run, what splendid accommodations we have given you. Our vestibuled trains are as good as ever—dining car service first-class—and our entire train equipment as perfect as can be made.

The old folks in Ontario and Quebec will feel better if you start on your long trip over the Northern Pacific. Don't make them feel bad by doing otherwise. Call on our agents for particulars and tickets.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. (5)

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the sum of Three hundred and twelve and 22-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Andreas J. Mensen, unmarried, mortgagor, to United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, mortgagee, bearing date the Sixth day of October, A. D. 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of October, A. D. 1891, at two o'clock P. M., in Book 57 of Mortgages, on pages 281 and 282, and there are no other payments to become due upon said mortgage.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America mortgagee, to J Jorgenson by written assignment dated the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1895, and recorded in the office of the said Register of Deeds on the 16th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 11:20 o'clock A. M., in Book 76 of Mortgages, on pages 12 and 13 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Northwest Quarter of Section Two (2), in Township One Hundred and Forty Eight (148) Range Forty-five (45), in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, said lands being also described as the South Half of said quarter section and lots three (3) and four (4) of the same, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the third day of January, A. D. 1896, at ten o'clock A. M. of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law

Dated November 18th, 1895.

J. JORGENSON,

32-381 Assignee of Mortgage

Wm. Watts, attorney for assignee of mortgage.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

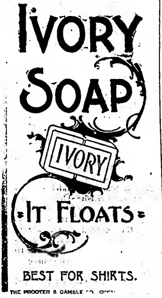
THIS BRAND IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee OF Excellence

W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY
DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1865.

EVERY GENUINE HUNT'S AXE IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

DR. PEFFER'S FEMALE PILLS.

NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS. A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address, PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.



MRS. ROSE'S RESTAURANT

SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.

Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

NELS SWANSON

ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.

A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.

Wells Drilled or Bored.

Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.

Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.

L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 2 Fournet Block. } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon.
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

CANNOT BE MADE FOR

$1 per Dozen

And I am not turning out cheap work.

My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.

P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

It's
Out of Sight—
Climax
Plug

Put a little of it out of sight yourself, and see how good it is. It's LORILLARD'S

Ladies' Home Journal For 1896.

In a dainty booklet printed in light blue, salmon-pink and gray tones—a splendid illustration of the beauties of art applied to printing—The Ladies' Home Journal announces some of its leading literary and artistic features for 1896. There will be a series of papers upon the domestic and social side of Washington by General A. W. Greely, U. S. A.; another by Ex-President Harrison, telling of "This Country of Ours," a third by Mary Anderson de Navarro who writes of her stage experiences, her struggles for recognition and artistic triumphs, with a supplemental article telling of her life and surroundings to-day. In a lighter vein, Mary E. Wilkins will present a series of "Neighborhood Types" papers, pen pictures of quaint and familiar personages—New Englanders; and Jerome K. Jerome will reflect old England life in a number of "Stories of the Town"—stories of London—in his inimitable style. "William the Conqueror," Rudyard Kipling's most fascinating romance, is also among the features for 1896, and Julia Magruder's delighting serial; "The Violet," will continue through a considerable portion of the year. Besides these two popular authors there will be short stories by Brete Harte, Lilian Bell, Ian Maclaren, Sophie Swett, Frank R. Stockton, Sarah Orne Jewett, R. C. V. Meyers, Will N. Harben, Caroline Leslie Field Jane Austen and other prominent writers. Dr. Parkhurst will write a series of forceable articles for young men, applicable to their daily life, while the girls will be written to by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, and Edith N. Thomas, the gifted poetess, will be represented by her finest verse and prose. James Whitcomb Riley will contribute a number of poems, varied in theme and treatment. In its musical offerings the Journal will be unusually replete. Among the best things promised is a minuet by Paderewski the famous pianist; a waltz by John Philip Sousa, the the "The March King"; compositions by Sir Arthur Sullivan, composer of "Pinafore," "Mikado," etc., Reginald de Koven, composer of "Robin Hood," "Rob Roy," etc., Edward Jakobowski, Bruno Oscar Klein and others. There will be instructive musical treatises by Mme. Melba, Mme. Blauvelt, Mme. Clementine de Vere Sapio, Mrs. Hamilton Mott, Miss Maude Powell, Benjamin Davis Charles Adams, Thomas a'Becket, and others.

Artistically the Journal gives rich promise, and during the next year will present several groups of Kate Greenway's bonnie little people; Charles Dana Gibson's best work on new lines and some of Albert Lynch's newest creations. W. L. Taylor, W. T. Smedly, W. Hamilton Gibson, Alice Barber Stephens, W. M. Johnson, Eric Pape, W. A. Rodgers, F. O. Small, B. West Clinedienst, T. de Thulstrup, A. B. Frost, E. W. Kemble, Irving R. Wiles, Abby E, Underwood and other artists of such commanding prominence will contribute their finest drawings. It will print a series of illustrated articles on home building, giving plans and details for the construction of medium-size houses. The Ladies' Home Journal for 1896, in fact, will be complete, and uniquely so.

The National Tribune,
WASHINGTON, D. C.,

The Only Great Paper Published at the National Capital.

Is now publishing
"MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA,"
by Maj.-Gen. O. O. Howard, who commanded the Army of the Tennessee in that great achivement. It is a splendid contribution to history, and begins with the occupation of Atlanta and continues to the Grand Review at Washington.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE has more distinguished contributors than any other paper in the country.

Send for "STATISTICS OF THE WAR" "LINCOLN'S WORDS," and "MISCELLANEOUS MEMORANDA." They are pamphlets, containg matters of great value and interest in the history of the war. Price 5 cents each.

PRICE $1 A YEAR—2 CENTS A WEEK

Send for Sample Copies. Samples Free.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE,
Washington, D. C.

A Significant Departure.

With the departure of another year when a review is made of the condition of affairs, it is only right that some thought be given to the physical body which enables everyone to battle with life's problem and figure for themselves the profit or loss on the trial balance sheet. Though the bank account may be large and each one's material gain be great, it would not be surprising if it suddenly dawns upon many that good health has been greatly impoverished by the low condition of the blood. It is in this state that the lactic acid in the vital fluid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly the joints, making known the local manifestations of rheumatism. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla the great blood purifier, a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism.

BATTLE AX
JUST SEE WHAT A GREAT BIG PIECE OF
BATTLE AX PLUG
YOU CAN GET FOR
10 CENTS

LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR THE MONEY

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom

Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.

FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.

We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.

FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.

CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,

Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,

McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.

BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.

N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty, Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.

☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜

Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs and Plants Given Away!

To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,

F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Cured Diabetes.

March 14th, 1895.

The Dr. J. H. McLean Medicine Co,
St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen: I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to you for my marvelous restoration to health. I was sick for many years with a bad case of diabetes which made me very thin and weak. I also suffered much loss of sleep, having to get up so many times at night to pass urine, and also great annoyance from thirst that water would not satisfy. A few months ago I began to follow your instructions in regard to diet and to use

DR. J. H. MCLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM.

It is a grand medicine. I used three bottles, and, thanks be to God, am a well man again. You are at liberty to publish this if you desire, as I would be glad to be the means of calling the attention of victims of diabetes to a remedy that will give them a blessed relief.

LOUIS PHILLIPS,
Columbus, Neb.

RHEUMATISM
CURED BY THE
Dr. A. Owen's Electric Appliances.

Mr. Henry Wendt, of Peru, La Salle Co., Ill., under date of July 27, 1895, writes:

"I had Rheumatism all over my system. A few applications of Dr. Owen's Electric Appliances gave relief and after six weeks' use of them I was entirely cured."

Mr. J. H. Matteson, of Morrice, Mich., in a letter Oct. 14, 1894, says:

"I had tried several kinds of medicine and two doctors for my Rheumatism, but could get no relief. I bought one of Dr. Owen's Electric Appliances and experienced relief at once; after two weeks' use I was as limber as an eel and could work all day. Now am entirely cured.

Our large illustrated catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cuts and prices of Appliances and much valuable information for the afflicted. Write for it at once, enclosing six cents in stamps for postage.

We have been before the public many years, and our Electric Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit, curing thousands of cases of Rheumatism.

THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.
205 TO 209 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

SINNERS TWAIN.

BY JOHN MACKIE

AUTHOR OF "THE DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND"

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES' COMPANY

CHAPTER IV.

The sergeant rose to his feet. He could not sit by any longer and be an impassive witness of such a scene. To say that he felt heartily ashamed at this moment of the cloth he wore and for the well merited rebuke just accorded it by this beautiful and indignant girl were putting it mildly.

Jamie sat speechless, with his dark eyes fairly bulging out of his head. That a mere slip of a girl should have the audacity to openly insult him—of course there was no question of insult in so far as his conduct in relation to her was concerned—an officer and a gentleman—oh, of course, a gentleman—and before his subordinates, too—was a thing so unparalleled in Inspector Jamie Bounder's vast experience (in the great lone land) that it left him literally incapable of thought or action. To use one of his own beautiful and choice expressions, he was "teetotally flabbergasted" for the moment. The private had risen with the sergeant and made for the door. But the conduct of the little scout was most remarkable, for, on rising, he had, curiously enough, kicked his hat into a corner of the room and appeared to have considerable difficulty in picking it up again. He reminded one of an ostrich with its head stuck in a hole and its huge body gravitating aimlessly round it. He—Pierre—however, snorted in a most peculiar and suspicious fashion.

But it was the old half breed woman who took advantage of the situation to interfere on behalf of her young mistress and put a check to the uncalled for impertinence of the gallant officer. Her dark face became sallow; her black, sharp eyes sparkled ominously; her high, quavering voice betrayed her excitable Gallic origin as she faced the somewhat surprised officer and cried, with a determined stamp of her foot:

"You shall not—I say you shall not, no matter what you are, sit here and insult my young mistress. If you cannot see you are an unwelcome convie in this room, you must be asked to relieve us of your presence and get out of it! We cannot in this storm ask you to leave the house, but there is one large room you can have; it is to the right of the passage as you come in, with a stove in it. You will be good enough to remain in it while you have to stop here. You are evidently not accustomed to the society of women. Therefore, as long as you are in this house do not dare to enter this room again. You see this saucepan of water on the fire? It will boil in a few seconds. It shall remain there, and I swear by the Holy Virgin over your face I will throw it if you as much as show your nose round the corner of that door. These gentlemen who are with you may occasionally come in if they want to—but you—git!" And she literally brought her teeth together with a snap as she pronounced these words and pointed to the door.

"You demmed she cat!" exclaimed Jamie, sorely amazed and taken aback.

It was a bad break. Jeannette snatched up a billet of wood from a heap alongside the stove (the Indian blood was showing now in addition to the Gallic), and in another second he would most assuredly have stopped it in its projected career with his head had not he ducked that turniplike growth with a smartness that did him credit and made a bolt for the door. Once in the little passage he found the other room, where Dick Townley and the scout at once set to work to make a good fire in the stove. It was a large, comfortable room, with a bed in a recess—indeed, it was Gabriel St. Denis' own room, and was as quaintly furnished as the kitchen. Only on a species of stand stood the mounted head of that now, alas! extinct monarch of the prairie, the great American bison. It was a truly grand specimen; there was an air of might and majesty in that picturesque, shaggy, fierce front. Jamie took a seat moodily near the stove and awaited an opportunity of venting his superfluous spleen on the private or the scout.

In the meantime the sergeant had gone back into the kitchen and shut the door gently behind him. He held his hat in his hands—Jamie had never removed his—and as he stood before the two women there was a look of unmistakable pain and humiliation upon his face.

The girl had gone back to the dresser and had mechanically taken up her iron, but somehow she did not seem as if she cared to meet the eyes of the sergeant. And now the latter spoke.

"I cannot tell you how ashamed and sorry I am," he began apologetically in rather an unsteady voice, "at the annoyance you have been subjected to. The fact of the matter is, the inspector is hardly himself today. He was subjected to some slight annoyance before we came here."

And now the girl stopped her ironing and looked full upon the face of the dark, handsome featured trooper. Why should he lie for such a brute?

"Does your force produce many such specimens?" she inquired, with all traces of her former annoyance gone, but with a touch of irony in her voice.

"Only one or two, thank goodness, but they do all the mischief," was the reply. "It is not an edifying subject to talk about such men or how they come to get commissions in the force. There are, however, many officers who, if they had heard the inspector talk as he did a few minutes ago, would have knocked him down; I am certain of that. It may be presumption on my part, but I say this for the sake of many of his brother officers whom I admire and respect as men and gentlemen. Anyhow, on behalf of my comrades of the rank and file, I should like to express my sense of shame and indignation at the insult which you were subjected to. It is very good of you to offer us even the next room to stay in, but you have only to say the word, and I can take it upon myself to promise that we shall quit it also."

"There is no occasion to do that," she said, her innate goodness of heart struggling with another motive.

She took a linen cuff from off the heap beside her and spread it on the dresser. How beautifully rounded and symmetrical her arm was as she poised the hot iron, and how firm and delicately finished her small hand! He thought of the many fine ladies he had known in his time who would have been jealous could they but have seen such hands.

He looked at that sweet, fair face, in which the light of truth shone, and he, who had in an erratic, stirring career seen all sorts and conditions of women, he who had experienced many strange phases of life, felt his heart go out to this girl with a great pity, which was only accentuated by a sense of his own helplessness to aid her.

There was a significant pause, only broken by the slight clicking noise of the iron as it traveled over the snowy cuff and the swathed board. Then old Jeannette, who knew and looked with a favorable eye upon the sergeant, being somewhat mollified by the humble and deferential tone he adopted, opened a door at the far end of the room and went into another to perform, to her, some never ending domestic duties.

Then the sergeant, Harry Yorke, said somewhat awkwardly:

"I have brought you these books, Miss St. Denis. I told you of them last time I was here. I was not sure that we should call upon you, but put them in my wallets in case"—

Many a time had this man, when in a different station of life, given some lady of the great, gay world a much more significant token of regard without as much as the faintest suspicion of embarrassment, but now he felt like a schoolboy talking to a debutante or a bashful lover who is saying his first sweet thing.

"It is very good of you to have remembered the books," she remarked simply, but rewarding him with a pleasant look. Then that odd, apprehensive expression which like a shadow he had seen flit across her face when they had first entered once more crossed it. As if she had nerved herself to say something she had been pondering over, she again turned as if to face him, and looking him steadily in the eyes asked:

"Are you going to wait here till my father comes back?"

He seemed ill at ease and distressed in a most unaccountable manner, this happy go lucky trooper. Indeed he looked like an awkward, hulking schoolboy in the presence of the head master, who gazes with a sinister aspect upon the spectacle of conscious guilt. He tried to look away from her, but he could not. There was evidently a struggle of some sort going on within him, of natural inclination and a sense of duty. And now these all compelling eyes of hers seemed to have exercised their potency, for when he spoke it was, as she had willed, the plain and bitter truth.

"I cannot tell you how much against my own inclination I am here on my present errand," he said brokenly and hurriedly, "but as I see you only desire confirmation of what you already know it is no breach of trust on my part to admit that you are right in what you have hinted at."

He paused, as if there were something else on his mind which he did not rightly know if he would be justified in saying to her. Then he took a turn up and down the room, coming back to where she was standing calmly regarding him, with her two hands resting on the back of a chair, but still with that wistful look in her eyes that was pitiable to see.

After a brief pause he continued somewhat coldly, as she thought:

"I do not know that I should say what I am going to now, more especially as I think you have not treated me as you ought to have done. For a very long time the operations of your father have been known to the mounted police. For instance, they were telegraphed only a few days ago from Fort Benton to Walsh over the Rocky Mountain Telegraph company's wire. Now, Miss St. Denis, I naturally feel somewhat mortified, though I am aware you are perfectly justified in asking me by what right I expressed such a sentiment, when I think how I have sacrificed that fine sense of duty (which should always be paramount in a man in my position) for the sake of helping your father to free himself from the dangerous connections he has made, and how my well meant warnings have been disregarded."

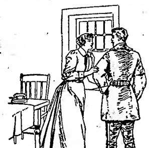
She did not tell him, as some other women might have done (either from mistaken motives of a subtle political nature peculiar to a woman's mind or as a matter of fact), that neither she nor her father had invited this confidence on his part or had even attempted in the very slightest degree to deceive him or dissemble when uninvited he had visited them. She only recognized the justice and truth of what he hinted at, and pressing her hand wearily to her forehead she waited for him to continue, which he did:

"But let us speak more plainly in order that we may not misunderstand each other. As you know, I have called several times upon your father here, just as any other civilian would, in a purely private and social capacity, and you have always been good enough to make me welcome as such. Indeed I often have been only too glad to avail myself of the opportunity your father so kindly placed at my disposal of spending an hour or two pleasantly, that would otherwise have been spent very drearily indeed in this lonely part of the country. Of course—and I am very sorry to give you pain by referring to it again—I have always been aware of the traffic your father engaged in with Montana, and I have always, so far as I could consistently with my sense of duty and ideas of what was proper as his guest, endeavored to influence him against the suicidal course he is pursuing, for such a course in the end must always prove disastrous. Indeed the very last time I was here I gave your father a very direct warning. It seems madness to me that he should have attempted another venture in the teeth of what was said on that occasion. And now we have been sent to intercept him as he comes across the lines. It will be a very serious affair for him if we get him with a contraband cargo, which he is pretty sure to have. I can assure you I dislike the painful task of arresting him only less than the necessity of having to prepare you for it."

And now the composure of the girl seemed to have deserted her. She grew very pale, and a dizziness seemed to seize her. She swayed for a moment where she stood. The trooper caught her by the arm tenderly and respectfully and placed her in a seat. Looking up, she saw the sincerity of his great pity for her in his eyes, and it moved her strangely. But she seemed to recover as she spoke to him.

"I am afraid I am rather upset," she said, with a pitiful little smile. Then, as if unconscious of the presence of any one, she involuntarily clasped her hands in front of her and moaned: "Oh, my poor father, it is all for me you do this thing! Goodness knows I would rather work from morning till night and live on a crust than have things as they are."

She remained for a few minutes as if buried in thought, with her hands nervously clasping each other on her lap and her eyes looking out tearfully and, oh, so sadly, into the blurred, hurrying snowstorm. Harry Yorke stood with his hands behind his back and a troubled expression upon his face, looking away from her into the wintrylike chaos of drifting snowflakes. Once or twice the girl stirred uneasily and regarded the trooper intently as if she were studying him. Some struggle, some conflict of inclinations was going on within her. Was it her maidenly pride and that sense of duty she owed to a parent? Her knowledge of the conventionalities of life might not have been so complete as many of her more worldly wise sisters in more favored parts of the world, but her innate maiden modesty was true to itself and free from prudery. Modesty is always a powerful charm in a girl when untrammeled by false restraints. Once or twice she moved her lips as if to speak, then checked herself. After all, on what grounds could she claim the assistance or connivance of this man? He had always treated her only with that courtly and kindly respect which her instincts told her was in no way different from that which he had used toward those grand ladies of that very different world to which he had at one time belonged. But in the convent at Prince Albert she had mixed with many who were ladies, both by birth and upbringing, and as on both her father's and her mother's side she inherited that natural dignity and charm of manner that has its origin in gentle blood she perhaps showed a higher degree of refinement than generally falls to girls in her sphere of life in the Canadian northwest, so perhaps he could not well treat her otherwise. Besides, she had read much, and, what was of greater importance, she had a natural taste for the better kind of literature of a healthy and elevating tone, not the pessimistical, prurient and sickly sort that libels the present age under the false title of the society "up to date" novel. She could not presume upon any fancied regard which he might entertain for her. The very idea was nauseous. Besides, in that case what would he think of her? To throw herself upon his pity would be equally humiliating. Moreover, would it not be a direct insult to him in the honorable discharge of his duty and be assuming a certain moral laxity in his nature to ask him to help her in this emergency? She might just as well ask him, in as many words, to be false to his queen and country at once.



She placed one hand lightly upon his arm.

But then the thought of her father rose before her, the days when after her mother died and they were traveling westward over the vast and seemingly interminable prairies with the wagons; how, many a time, to please and soothe her to sleep, he would walk for miles alongside the wagons with her in his arms; how he had helped to nurse and tend her, with all the deep seated tenderness and devotion that his nature was capable of; how he would unbend from his seemingly austere mood and gather flowers and play with her on the prairie for hours together, so that she might not miss the companionship of other children; how her slightest wish seemed his proud privilege to perform; how he had nursed her through long sleepless nights of illness, nor ever seemed to have but one thought or wish, and that for her; how he had parted with her, when she had gone to the convent on the Saskatchewan, in what she knew was a spirit of self sacrifice, in order that she might not grow up as ignorant as many of the children in that great lone land. Even now, if her father had broken the laws of the country, something told her it was no mere greed of gain on his part—personally he was the most unselfish of men—that had led him to do this, but that he eventually might be able to bring her into a sphere of life which would be more congenial than the present one. "Oh, father, father!" she repeated to herself, as the image of his kindly, time worn face rose before her from that wonderful magic mirror of the mind, and which she knew and loved so well. One course lay open to her, and she did not hesitate to contemplate it, where only the matter of her own personal safety and physical well being were concerned. Her eyes were undimmed now; rising, she went toward the window and looked out.

"Do you think we shall have much of a blizzard?" she inquired.

"It is impossible to say, but I hope not," he answered.

Then, as if it were in answer to some project she had just communicated to him, he continued:

"But you must not think of going out in such a storm; you would lose your way before you went 60 yards. Besides, if the inspector thought you meditated any such thing, he would not scruple to put you under some embarrassing restraints."

"Does that man control my movements?" she asked somewhat indignantly. "The day is past when the Northwest mounted police relegated to themselves rights that even the Russian police would hardly dare to take."

"No," he answered humbly, coming toward the window and standing opposite her, "but you must recollect that he is not a"—

"Yes, I understand and will spare you the pain of the admission."

"Thanks. I wish I could help you," he continued, "but you can understand my position. I am not blameless in my own eyes now, telling you what I have done."

Still he kept his eyes averted from here and tried to concentrate his gaze upon the hurrying snowflakes, but that was a difficult thing to do.

And now the girl nerved herself for her self imposed task. As if to fix his attention she placed one hand lightly upon his arm, and he was forced to look at her. Somehow, to him, this seemed a natural and simple action coming from her. He knew it was a dangerous and fatal thing for him to look at her, but then he was in no way different from other men, although he belonged to a calling that is supposed to eliminate from its exercise anything approaching sentiment. She was a very beautiful girl indeed, but whether it was a sense of pity for her or the witchery of her superior presence that influenced him he did not speculate upon just then.

"You will perhaps forget what I am going to say now," she said, catching her breath quickly, "if it appears to you an unfair and unwomanly thing of me to ask. Of course, I have no claim on your consideration whatever, but I somehow think you would rather help me than otherwise. I am not going to insult you by asking you to avoid your duty, but I should like you to bear in mind my position. You must know my father is everything in this life to me, and I would not think twice of risking my life in the chance of saving his, though I know he would consider such a sacrifice wasted were I to lose mine. Perhaps you can understand this."

He did not speak, but simply bowed his head.

She went on again:

"I know that wherever he is on the prairie at the present he is safe enough—he has weathered too many blizzards. As long as this one lasts he is safe enough from you, but, of course, you know he may pull in here any time it lifts. What I want to ask of you is that you promise me not to interfere with my movements whenever the snow may stop. It may be nothing to you that I promise my father shall never offend again, but it shall be so. It may not be such a very great thing to ask of you after all, but it means everything to me. Perhaps I might be more certain of the success of my plans were I to keep my own counsel, but I have reasons for this step and would rather feel that you were with me. Will you do as I want you to?"

Her hand still rested lightly, and as if unconsciously, upon his wrist and her touch seemed to thrill him as no touch had ever done before. At the close of her appeal she had withdrawn her eyes from his face, as if she were conscious of having said more than prudence dictated. With that great gleaming wealth of silky hair surrounding her beautiful face like an aureole, watching the downward glance of those delicately veined eyelids, and with that mobile face so near to his, he would have been more than human could he have done otherwise than he did. She had thrown herself as it were upon his mercy. She had shown that she had faith in his natural goodness of heart. And, after all, it was not for herself she pleaded, but for a father. She had not asked him to do anything that was in any way disgraceful; she had merely asked him, what it was unnecessary for her to have asked, not to interfere with her movements when the storm had lifted. Besides, doubtless knowing that the inspector was brute enough to look two defenseless women up if he suspected that they might spoil his contemplated seizure, she reckoned that he, the sergeant, having her confidence, might possibly dissuade him from any such arbitrary measures. But was it necessary to ask his assistance at all? She might have known that, with the exception of the inspector himself, none of the others would have dreamed of interfering with her movements. No, not even perhaps if they had suspected her designs.

Could it be that on account of their slight intimacy in the past she did not wish to appear as if stealing a march on him? Some people had such a fine sense of honor as to the relations between one person and another, even although these relations hinged on a matter of dubious principle. This thought somehow thrilled him with a certain secret satisfaction.

Their eyes met for a second, but neither spoke. Then, by an impulse that he could hardly account for, the trooper performed a good old fashioned, chivalric action that has somehow gone out of fashion in these more prosaic modern times. He caught up one of her hands, and bowing his head over it lightly pressed it to his lips, and she knew that he had granted her request.

And then he left the room abruptly.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

A Hundred Years of Our Commerce.

It is fitting that the victories of peace should be remembered and celebrated as well as those of war-times. One of the great events of our American history was the conclusion of a commercial treaty with England just one hundred years ago, through the satisfactory mission of Chief Justice John Jay, who was sent by Washington to London at a time of severe strain between the two countries. Although our independence had been acknowledged twelve years before, the British had all along refused to vacate a number of military posts which they held upon our soil near the northern frontier, and had absolutely declined to send a minister to this country or to enter into definite trade relations through the establishment of a commercial treaty. The disdainful and unjust treatment of this country by Great Britain had reached a point which American susceptibilities could scarcely endure. But for the conservatism and good judgment of President Washington, it is probable that war would have been declared. The one man in the United States best qualified to conduct negotiations with England was John Jay, of New York, who had served for a number of years as secretary of state and had subsequently been made chief justice. From the foundation of our government down to that period of acute excitement over the slavery question which preceded the civil war, no other one thing made so violent and bitter a dissension among our people as the ratification of the Jay treaty. It was, however, ratified; and there was begun a period of progress which makes the year 1795 a memorable one in our commercial annals. The Jay treaty was very far from being perfectly satisfactory, but England would do no better by us. It did not secure American rights at a number of points and those unsettled questions led eventually to the war of 1812. But it was in every way fortunate for our young country that the inevitable second war with England was thus postponed, through Mr. Jay's negotiations, nearly twenty years. Mr. Chauncey M. Depew is the editor-in-chief of an important volume, which records in a series of chapters prepared by different writers, the story of one hundred years of commercial progress, and which is designed to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the Jay treaty. The event is also to be celebrated in New York by a great banquet on the 19th of December.—From "The Progress of the World," in the December Review of Reviews.

What is this

Non-pull-out

anyhow

?

It is the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled from the watch. To be had only with Jas. Boss Filled and other watch cases stamped with this trade mark.

A postal will bring you a watch case opener.

Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

It is odd that the people will all flock to Tom Morris' jewelry store and not so "odd" either when you see that catchy display of jewelry and silverware he has on exhibition.

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lyane's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

(First Publication December 19th, 1895.)

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made executed and delivered by Kristian Anderson, unmarried, of Polk County, Minnesota, as mortgagor, to the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, as mortgagee, which said mortgage bears date the 24th day of January, A. D. 1889, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1889, at 3:20 o'clock p. m. in book 53 of mortgages, on page 463.

Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of $400.00 payable five (5) years from the date of said mortgage, and interest at the rate of seven per centum (7%) per annum, payable semi-annually, according to the conditions of one (1) certain promissory note and ten (10) coupon interest notes thereto attached, all bearing even date with said mortgage.

And whereas the said the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, duly assigned said mortgage and note to the American Loan and Trust Company, a corporation, trustee, by written assignment dated December 5th, A. D. 1891, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book 65 of mortgages, on page 461.

And default has been made in the payment of said principal sum of $400, and the interest thereon since January 24th, 1893, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of $480.15, being the sum of $400, principal, and $80.15 interest upon said mortgage indebtedness, and no proceedings at law or otherwise have been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the property therein described, lying and being situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: southeast quarter (SE¼) of the southeast quarter (SE¼) of section twenty-one (21); south half (S½) of the southwest quarter (SW¼) of section twenty-two (22); northwest quarter (NW¼) of the northwest quarter (NW¼) of section twenty-seven (27), in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-one (41), west, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold by the sheriff of said Polk County, Minnesota, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the county court house, in the City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, on Friday, the 7th day of February, A. D. 1896, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to pay and satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt thereby secured, together with the taxes (if any), the costs and expenses of this foreclosure, and the sum of twenty-five ($25.) dollars, attorney's fees as in said mortgage stipulated and agreed to be paid on foreclosure thereof.

Dated Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 5th, A. D. 1895.

AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, Trustee,
Assignee of Mortgagee.

Angus G. Braden,
Attorney for Assignee,
800 Kasota Block,
14726G Minneapolis, Minn. 802

(First Publication December 19th, 1895.)

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made executed and delivered by Christina Muller and Ernst Muller, her husband, of Polk County, Minnesota, as mortgagors, to the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, as mortgagee, which said mortgage bears date the 25th day of October, A. D. 1886, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m. in book 30 of mortgages, on pages 1 to 5.

Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of $1000.00 payable five (5) years from the date of said mortgage, and interest at the rate of six per centum (6%) per annum, payable semi-annually, according to the conditions of one (1) certain promissory note and ten (10) coupon interest notes thereto attached, all bearing even date with said mortgage.

And whereas the said the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, duly assigned said mortgage and note to the American Loan and Trust Company, a corporation, trustee, by written assignment dated December 10th, A. D. 1891, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book 62 of mortgages, on page 639.

And default has been made in the payment of said principal sum of $1000, and the interest thereon since October 25th, 1893, and there is now due and claimed, to be due at the date of this notice the sum of $1126.66 being the sum of $1000, principal, and $126.66 interest upon said mortgage indebtedness, and no proceedings at law or otherwise have been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the property therein described, lying and being situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: east half of the northwest quarter (E½ NW¼), and west half of the northeast quarter (W½ NE¼) of section ten (10), in township one hundred forty-eight (148) of range forty-six (46), west, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold by the sheriff of said Polk County, Minnesota, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the county court house, in the City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, on Friday, the 7th day of February, A. D. 1896, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to pay and satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt thereby secured, together with the taxes (if any), the costs and expenses of this foreclosure, and the sum of fifty ($50.) dollars, attorney's fees as in said mortgage stipulated and agreed to be paid on foreclosure thereof.

Dated Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 5th, A. D. 1895.

AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, Trustee,
Assignee of Mortgagee.

Angus G. Braden,
Attorney for Assignee,
800 Kasota Block,
10266G Minneapolis, Minn. 801

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers.

Those who have not responded to the bills sent out, we mean. Our annual statements were sent out in due time and many have responded but some have not, and it is very necessary that they should make some kind of a response to save trouble in the near future. We are preparing a list of the names of those from whom we have not been favored with a response, which list will be handed to a collector with positive instructions to collect at all hazards, as we do not feel like carrying any who do not feel sufficiently interested in their own business to at least ask us to do so. It will require some two weeks to make up this list; meanitme all will have ample time to let us know what they intend to do, so no one will need have any trouble if they choose to avoid it. A word to the wise should be sufficient in this case, as we mean strictly business. We propose to hear from those long past due subscription accounts, and there is a way by which we can do so if we are forced to take it.

And now the question is, which will it be, McKinley, Reed, Davis, Allison or a dark horse?

The 16th of June, the day set for the Republican National Convention, is Cush Davis' birthday. This ought to prove an irresistible boom for Davis for president.

The Republican National Convention has been called for June 16th, and St. Louis named as the place. This makes Chicago feel very tired.

The deed is done and a little more than a year from the day that the mutilated remains of poor Catherine Ging were found lying stark and cold on that lonely roadway, those who were responsible for the cruel, inhuman act have met their just reward —the chief conspirator by the rope, and the tool, imprisonment for life. There are cases where hanging seems too harsh for the crime of murder, but this is not one of them, and Hayward amply deserved the fate that was meted out to him on his own confession, and society is well rid of such a monster in human form.

Up to the very hour the execution took place there were many who held the opinion that Gov. Clough would weaken and commute Hayward's sentence to life imprisonment. The fact that he could resist a long petition, signed by many of the best citizens of St. Paul and Minneapolis; that he could resist the many letters written him by prominent ministers and lawyers; that he could resist the tearful, heart-broken pleadings of an aged mother and father—and they life-long friends of his, because he felt it a duty to society that Hayward's life should pay the forfeit for the crime he committed, shows that the governor is made of sterner stuff than many had given him credit for. Those who know him best know his genial, affectionate nature, but they had never had a chance to see his manhood fully tested before, and they were naturally surprised to see him rise to the occasion and do his whole duty like a man. But it was a severe test in the face of all the influences brought to bear upon him, and shows that he considers the public welfare of the first importance, and is thus a safe man to be trusted.

Is Labor Honorable?

(Red Wing Republican.)

Standing in one of our dry goods stores the other day the writer accidentally overheard a young lady, residing here in town, who was just then employed in inspecting some dress goods, utter, with some show of disgust:

"Oh, I don't want that. Every working girl in town wears that."

And instantly he asked himself: "Is labor honorable?"

To the reader possessed of his or her full mental faculties, endowed by the Creator with an average allowance of common sense—and that will include the majority of readers, all outside of the devourers of love romances—this question may appear to be a foolish one. Yet, after all, is it? Have you ever stopped to consider how many people there are, right in this town, who look upon labor of any sort by women not only as not honorable but even degrading?

"Consider the source." Yes, that is an old bit of advice. It may lessen the pang somewhat when a young woman, striving earnestly to gain an honest livelihood, and doing so finds herself looked down upon by a wax doll creation whose whole ambition in life is to look pretty, be admired, flattered and petted, but it does not remove the pang wholly. A life of toil has hardships enough without subjecting the toiler to unjust, uncalled-for, calumnious remarks.

SWEET CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR.
NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE OLD RELIABLE

SWEET CAPORAL

CIGARETTE

Has stood the Test of Time

MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

All work is honorable. And in a country of democratic institutions like ours none has in reality a place more honorable than the toiler, be that toiler man or woman. Drones are despicable wherever you find them, be they tramps among men or idle gossips among women.

Minneapolis Evening Journal: The Populists propose to join the Democrats against the reorganization of the senate committees by the Republicans. Business cannot be done until the committees are reorganized, and the committee vacancies can't be filled until the new senators are all sworn in. The Republicans have not a majority. They have 42 senators without Dupont, whose case has yet to be determined by the senate, and, when Utah is admitted next month, they will have two more, giving them 44 out of 89 members of the senate, (Dupont seated.) It is held that the Republicans are obliged to reorganize if they have to get Populist or Democratic help to do it; but no such compulsion exists, and Populists and Democrats are talking of herding together and resisting Republican organization. A rule, long overlooked, allows committee appointments by a plurality of the votes cast, with the exception of committee chairmen, but this rule wouldn't avail if the Populists and Democrats combine against the Republican senators. The pressure for reorganization by the Republicans comes principally from the West, which has several candidates for senate offices and chairmanships. Nothing is likely to be done until after the holidays as to reorganization.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

The Convention.

The convention held in this city on Thursday of last week to consider ways and means for the opening of the Red Lake reservation to settlement, was attended by a great number of delegates from all over the north part of the state. A number of rousing speeches were made and resolutions were passed setting forth the advantages to be derived from the opening, not only of the agricultural lands, but the pine lands, as well, and showing the large waste of valuable pine by fire and decay and asking the president to take early action in the opening of the pine lands as well. There is no doubt but the action of this convention will have great weight with the powers that be, and it is sincerely to be hoped that at no very distant day the reservation will be opened to settlement and the pine be in the market where the settlers on these broad prairies can have the benefit of it.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.

[1-tf]
A. F. George,
Opera Block.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C. Dec. 13, 1895.

The members of the cabinet are not as thick-skinned as their master. They have become rattled at the public criticism of Mr. Cleveland's neglect of important public business to go on a hunting junket at public expense—he is drawing a salary for doing nothing, and is besides using a government vessel—and have frantically implored him by telegraph to return to Washington and stop the criticism. Secretary Carlisle's annual report is ready for transmission to congress, and although the law provides that this report shall be made to congress and not to the president, he is afraid to send it to congress until it has been edited by Mr. Cleveland. And Secretary Olney is afraid to open his mouth about Lord Salisbury's communication, until Mr. Cleveland has instructed him as to what he shall say.

It is now considered doubtful as to whether the caucus committee which is arranging the Republican membership of the senate committees, will complete the task before the holiday recess. It is not an easy job by any means.

Representative Grout, of Vt., has introduced a bill that ought to become a law, inasmuch as it probably represents the views of nine-tenths of those who live in places where there are fourth-class postmasters. The bill provides that all fourth-class postmasters shall be elected by a majority vote of those who receive mail at their postoffices, and directs that the postmaster-general shall appoint only those who are so elected. Those who have lived in places where men objectionable to almost all their neighbors have been appointed postmaster, can fully appreciate this idea.

Senator Cullom, of Illinois, made an able speech this week, on the Monroe doctrine, concluding with these manly and patriotic words: "We have reached the time when it becomes our bounden duty to say to the world, with dignity and firmness, that thus far, but no further, shall foreign systems of government be permitted to approach. Our doctrine is the protection of American interests, and our motto is America for Americans. We do not claim that the world is ours, but we will insist on our right to be consulted upon affairs pertaining to the American continents. Let us build so strongly and speak so plainly that the way of the future Executives, Prime Ministers and Ambassadors of this country shall be undoubted. Let it be so clear that no statesman of the future can find, as Mr. Calhoun did in the senate, any ingenious theory to weaken its force and value. Let it be so certain and emphatic that no secretary of state can hereafter become a willing party to a treaty yielding a share of the control and supervision of any inter-oceanic canal to any European country, as in the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. And let it be so straight and practical that no American ambassador to the British court shall feel at liberty to question the policy of his own country, or possibly apologize for the Declaration of Independence and the Monroe doctrine."

The result of the adoption by the House of Representatives, Barrett's impeachment resolution, directing the committee on foreign affairs to investigate two speeches made by Ambassador Bayard—one in August and the other in November—in which he characterized republicans as socialists because of their belief in the policy of protection, and otherwise abused Americans, will not be the impeachment of Mr. Bayard, but it is almost certain to be a sharp censure from the House, unless it can be shown that he was not correctly reported by the English papers. Mr. Barrett's resolution would not have been introduced if the democrats had not adopted the policy of objecting to every resolution offered in the House. Mr. Barett's Massachusetts colleague, Representative McCall, offered a resolution merely asking whether the President has taken any steps to ascertain whether Ambassador Bayard has used the language attributed to him, and when that was objected to by Mr. Crisp Mr. Barrett got mad and raised a question of privilege, which was sustained by Speaker Reed, and offered his impeachment resolution.

Those republicans who are not committed to any particular man as the Presidential nominee of the party think the National committee did a very wise thing in selecting St. Louis as the convention city whether true or not does not matter, but it is certain that the names of each of the other cities contesting for the honor had gotten associated with some particular candidate and the selection of either of them would have caused the impression to go out that the committee was favoring the candidate who wanted the convention held there. That objection did not apply to St. Louis. The setting of June 16, as the date for the convention seems to give general satisfaction.

Until the committees are named the House can pass no bills except by unanimous consent. Representative Hopkins, of Ill, has the honor of having introduced and put through the first bill passed by the House at this session—one amending present law so as to make the customs district of Chicago embrace the entire states of Illinois and Indiana.

Angus Items.

L. J. Lake left for a visit to his old home at Viroqua, on Tuesday. He will spend the holidays there.

W. Lemen spent Thursday in Crookston.

Fred Stevens spent Thursday in Crookston.

John Staska was in Crookston on Friday.

J. M. Palmer was in Crookston on Thursday.

W. L. Davies, D. H. Miller, F. McLennan and F. Melloah drove to Crookston on Friday.

J. Kuchnl went to Crookston on Thursday.

John Bren and F. Jedzik spent Friday in Crookston.

W. Lemen and F. R. Stevens went to Crookston on the Flyer, Friday evening.

Otto Synnestvedt, collector for the G. N. railroad, spent Thursday in town.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson spent Thursday in town.

Mrs. Dixon, of Warren, visited with her sister, Mrs. Perkins, last week.

W. Lemen and J. A. Stroble spent Sunday in Warren.

Euclid Items.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tiedt and daughter, Kate, have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Biever.

Fred Davis was united in marriage with Miss Emily Brubner, at the home of Mrs. Bert Duntley, at Crookston, Thursday last.

D. E. Fairweather is suffering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, but at the present writing is slightly on the mend.

Marvin Losey, Jr., of Lincoln, Nebraska, is visiting with his parents.

Rev. J. B. Astwood, of Evansville, Minn., is up visiting friends.

Rev. and Mrs. Currie returned Saturday morning from Litchfield, Minn., where they went to attend the dairy convention.

Mrs. Frank Gravel, of Crookston, spent Tuesday in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Misner were up from Crookston to attend the funeral of Mrs. E. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Chapin were down from Warren, Monday.

Misses Delia and Ruth Hancock returned from Moorhead, Tuesday morning, owing to sickness. They were joined at Crookston by their brother, Lewis, who spent the day in town.

Died.

December 14th, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Misner, in the village of Euclid, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, at the age of 61 years.

Mrs. Taylor came to Euclid in March, 1882, from Lyons, Iowa, where she had lived from early girlhood. No words of ours can estimate the loss to Euclid and to the sorrowing relatives in the death of this one so beloved by all who knew her. Always the most devoted mother, the sympathetic and self-sacrificing friend, to know her was to love her. Nearly every child in Euclid called her grandma, claiming a share in her motherly love. She was always happiest when making the little ones happy. Both old and young shared her interest and learned deeply to appreciate the beauty of her character, and long will her memory be cherished in the community. God only in his infinite love can comfort this deeply afflicted family, although with them our own hearts bleed. Mrs. Taylor's remains were laid to rest in the Euclid cemetery to await the Resurrection and the life to come.

"The Common People,"

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

The Grand Forks Packing House on DeMers Ave., will pay the highest cash price for hogs. Having greatly enlarged facilities I am now prepared to cure meats for farmers as heretofore. Call and see me when in Grand Forks.

[35-tf]
Rob't. Stanton,
Manager.

HISTORY.

(Continued from 1st page.)

ings came from Cooke. Pitt Cooke, a brother of Jay Cooke, visited Georgetown and selected the crossing. The message was delivered to the Northern Pacific surveyors by me. The order was to locate the crossing at the mouth of the Elm, about 8 miles east of Grandin. Viets and I were first to know it. Imagine my joy. We all went to Elm river excepting Viets, wiser than the rest, who continued furnishing entertainment for man and beast. He paid Adam Stien $100 to move out and let him in. Not for the property, for that belonged to the Hudson Bay Co., but to give him possession and the opportunity to entertain the coming hosts, for we all realized what a rush would come. We knew the country and correctly estimated its value. We all built log houses at Elm River, and most of the party stayed there a whole year before Lowell, who made daily trips up and down the river in connection with Back and McHeach, each having their beat for patrolling the river from Sheyenne to the Elm, discovered Beardsley at work on the townsite at Fargo. And then Elm River was abandoned. I had gone east after two months waiting, and when I returned a jumper occupied my cabin and demanded $600 before he would give possession. I let him keep it and engaged in business at Oak Lake. The crossing was not established for a year later, then twenty-seven miles south of the point named in our sure tip.

This was in 1870. Then the entire white population of North Dakota would not exceed 500. There was a small settlement at Pembina, mostly government employes connected with the custom house or the traders store. There were two or three settlers at Grand Forks, among them Nick Huffman. Ed Griffin lived in Cass county, but Fargo was not located. Georgetown was the metropolis of the valley. The nearest land office in North Dakota were land could be entered was at Vermillion, S. D. But little land had been surveyed, and that about Pembina. Not an acre had been entered, not a bushel of grain had been raised in the valley for shipment abroad, and not enough to feed even the few families found scattered here and there along the river. The Red River cart was the only means of transportation.

L. H. Tenny and myself came into the country on horseback from St. Cloud. Tenny settled at Glyndon and became the father of the N. P. Elevator Co., with George S. Barnes his practical worker, the moving force. Not until December, 1870, was there a single entry of land made in North Dakota. There was no Fargo or Moorhead then. Not one settler had yet entertained the idea of occupying the rich lands in its immediate vicinity. Grand Forks was not even a voting precinct, and all of the valley was Pembina county, which was the only civil organization in what is now the state. There was a postoffice at Pembina, Fort Totten, old Fort Ransom and Abercrombie, but that was all. Much of the state was an unknown land, visited only by Indians, traders, missionaries and government expeditions. Fremont visited Devils Lake in 1829. Catlin came over and saw, but went away without conquering in 1841. Sully and Sibley visited parts in 1862 and 1863. Hatch's batallion occupied Pembina in 1863. Lewis and Clarke had visited the Missouri river region in 1805, and it was their report which gave the world the first idea of the unparalled resources of the northwest and led to its general occupancy by traders. The John Jacob Astor Co., formed in 1808 occupied the Missouri and the James River Valley for a time, but the war of 1812 forced their consolidation with Northwestern, which in turn consolidated with Hudson Bay Co. Then came the Columbia Fur Co., which occupied all of this section for a time, but gave place to the independent traders who disputed the ground with Hudson Bay Co., until after the settlers of 1870 came in possession of a goodly portion of the land.

Twenty-five years ago there were only watchers and waiters for the Northern Pacific crossing the Red river, bent on townsite speculation, and these could be counted on the fingers of your two hands, outside the settlement at Pembina, and the occasional wood-chopper or keeper of the stage stations along the river, and those at the military posts. To-day's flourishing villages, great financial interests unsurpassed by any in the West. There are schools and colleges, churches and literary organizations everywhere and still a goodly number of those who came with me or were co-workers with me are still on earth. Some have prospered in this world's goods, some have enjoyed heaven's choicest boon, good health for themselves and families and are rich in the pleasures and recollections of a happy life. Others have been summoned to the land of eternal rest. A goodly number still live and doubtless will be present to meet with you today. May they eat, drink and be merry and active in good works while their lives on earth last, for as Dickens has caused one of his characters to remark, "we'll be a long time dead."

You Can't Do Better

Than to take advantage of the low rates offered by the Great Northern Railway for the annual Canadian Excursion inaugurated by that road several years ago. See full particulars in "ad" in another column.

Doll Tickets.

L. & O. Gonyea have inaugurated a plan by which one of their customers will receive a very and handsome doll. Every purchase to the amount of five cents entitles the purchaser to one ticket and when the tickets are all given out the one who has the most tickets receives the doll. The doll is one of the most expensive ones to be found anywhere and is now on exhibition at the store. There are already several competitors in the race for the doll and the greatest number of tickets wins.

Grand California Excursion!

A California Excursion of Business and Professional Men will leave Chicago and St. Paul Thursday, January 2, and February 6, 1896, in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific Railways, via Omaha and Ogden, for Sacramento, San Francisco, San Jose, Monterey, Los Angeles, and the Fruit Districts of California. Best of company, lowest possible Tourist rates; Tourist Sleeper—double berth (room for two persons)—from Chicago or St. Paul to San Francisco, $6.00. If you are going as a tourist, or to settle in California, take this train, and you will have the best of company and comfort. Sleeping car berths should be engaged at once. Send orders for berth, with cash, to F. H. Thorn, City Ticket Agent C. M. & St. P. Ry., 365 Robert St., St. Paul; Minn., or C. N. Souther, City Ticket Agent of C. M. St. P. Ry., 95 Adams street, Chicago, Ill.

For further particulars and circulars apply to nearest Ticket Agent or address S. Sheria, Excursion Manager, Palmer House, Chicago. Ill.

[35-42

DON'T WAIT

For a Cold to Run into Bronchitis or Pneumonia.

Check it at Once

—WITH—

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral.

"Early in the Winter, I took a severe cold which developed into an obstinate, hacking cough, very painful to endure and troubling me day and night, for nine weeks, in spite of numerous remedies. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral being recommended me, I began to take it, and inside of 24 hours, I was relieved of the tickling in my throat. Before I finished the bottle, my cough was nearly gone. I cannot speak too highly of its excellence."—Mrs. E. Bosch, Eaton, Ohio.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Received Highest Awards

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Good Blood IS ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH.

You cannot hope to be well if your BLOOD IS IMPURE.

If you are troubled with

BOILS, ULCERS OR PIMPLES, SORES

your blood is bad. A few bottles of S. S. S. will thoroughly cleanse the system, remove all impurities and build you up. All manner of blemishes are by its use. It is the best blood remedy on earth. Thousands who have used it say so.

CLEARED AWAY

" My blood was badly poisoned last year, which got my whole system out of order—diseased and a constant source of suffering no appetite, no enjoyment of life. Two bottles brought me right out. There is no better remedy for blood diseases.
JOHN GAVIN, Dayton, Ohio.

S.S.S.

Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free.
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

See those artics at ths Fair store.

Mrs. W. P. Scott is visiting friends la St. Paul.

S. C. Bagley was in from Fosston on Tuesdny.

See that handsome doll at O. & L Gonyea's.

See Tom Morris for Christmas gifts. No end to thsm.

Marvin Lnsey weat up the line north on Monday.

J. E. Morrisey went to St. Paul this week on business.

Dr. McGillan, of Warren was in the city on Thursday aight.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Chns. Sawyer went north on the St. Vincent train on Tuesdny.

Try your luck on the handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

The city schools closs Friday evening for the two weeks' vacation.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 salt of men's flece-lined underwenr at Ths Fair.

Silverware, the finest lins nnd lowest prices at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

Mrs. Thos. Johnsun lsentertaining her friend Miss Bertha Jarvals, from Fisher.

Mrs. Chas. McArty is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe for the holldays.

S. S. Stadsvold was a passenger on the Fosston train on Tuesdny moraing.

Take a look at that doll at O. &L. Goayea's that somebody is going to get for nothing.

Miss Mny Sharkey, of Floyd, Iowa, arrived last week for a visit with her brother, C. A.

C. E. Misner snd family went to Eaclid oa Monday to attend the fuaeral of Mrs. E. Taylor.

An endless profusion of toys aad cnndy till you can't rest (if you eat it all) at O. & L. Gonyea's.

John Florin has moved his carpenter shop to the old Kretsschmar baildiag on Second street.

A hnndsome line of mantel clocks at Tom Morris' jewelry stors. Call and see how cheap they are.

Whea looking for holiday goods don't overlook Tom Morris' elegant stock of jewelry aad silverware.

Elmer E. Adams was one of ths delgates from Fergus Falls in attendance at the coavention oa Thnrsday.

Whoever has the greatest number of tickets when the tickets ars all sold gets the beautiful doll at O. & L. Goayea's.

A plaao lamp may be had for oae cent—if you get the combiaation. Go and see Tom Morris and let him explain this mystery to you.

If you invest yonr moaey for confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's yon are liabls to get the beautiful doll. Drop in and see her.

You can save money on all purchases in jewelry and silverware by calling at Tom Morris' jswelry store and pricing his immease stock.

Dan Hughes eatertained a large company from the city last Thursday evening at his pleasant farm home in the country.

One more plaao lamp to go lu the same way that the first oan did. Call and see Tom Morris, who will tell yoa how its doae.

The mixed traia oa the Fosstoa branch will bs a freigbt train pare and simple hereafter and the flyer will contiaae to fly, daily.

Caadies and toys for Christmas? Louls Gonyea has them till you can't rest, aad besides yoa get a chaace at that handsome doll.

W. C. Andrew, representlag Wright, Barrett & Stilwell, of St. Paul, gavs as a pleasaat visit on Taesday morning.

O. & L. Gonyea have a large stock of Christmas trees and toys and candies eoough to load them down. Call and look them over.

Candy beads and candy pearls to decorate Christmas tree at O. & L. Gonyea's—and tickets on the doll at ths sams time.

See that handsoms doll at O. & L. Gonyea's and enter the race for it. Worth double what it will cost sven if it will cost twice what it is worth.

The Fair store is right la it for all kinds of novelties appropriate for the season. You will miss it if yon fail to call in and see their fine display.

A large line of aovelties in Japan goods—all the latest and newest just imported for the holiday trade. Call and see them at Mrs. I. U. Jenniags'.

S. A. Sylvester, a former Crookston business man, is in the city in the interest of life lasnrance. He is a genuine hnstier and ought to do well in that line.

"One Price and that Right."

LAST AND GREAT'ST

With the waning year the merchandise story grows intense. Holiday inspiration brings joyoas vitality into trade. Each day from now uatil Christmas will reveal some new line of goods nt special prices. We have to crowd on steam during the few days; trade must move at a liveller pacs. Goods must go and dollars oiust come even if prices are clipped to a point were profit vanishes.

The Ladies' Furs. Gentlemen's Fars. Ths Cloaks. The Dress Goods The Underwear. The Hosiery. The Uaderskirts. The Mitteas. The Woolen Headwear. The Flaaaels. All share in the liberal reductions made to reduce stock.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY and GLASSWARE.
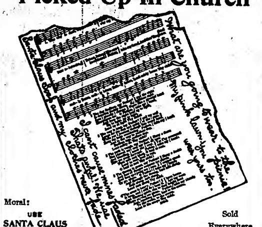
BOOTS & SHOES.

Picked Up In Church



What are you going to wear to the picnic?
My pink lawn. You wear yours too.
I can't cause mine faded
That's awful! We use Santa Claus Soap and my clothes never fade.

Moral:
USE
SANTA CLAUS
SOAP.

Sold Everywhere.
MADE ONLY BY
THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, Chicago.

If you are looking for something nobby and nice in the line of silverware or jewelry doa't forget to call at Tom Morris' jewelry store and see what he has in stuck.

Qalte a namber of oar friends havs dropped in to see about that subscriptinn during the past week. That is as it should be, still there is room for more to follow.

Don't forget that you can get any kiad of a desirabls present in jewelry, silverware, watches, clocks or diamonds at Tom Morris' jswelry store.

The oatmeal mill is being put in shape for grindiag. The manager is expected sonn, and in a short time the mill will be busy at work chewing ap breakfast food.

N. Freeburgh was in from Angus on Monday and dropped in to set that subscription ahead a year or so. Says he had nn average yield of 28 bushels of wheat per acre—far better than ever before. He thinks there will not be as mach wheat raised next year, becnuse very little fall plowing was done and farmers will have to depend on crops that caa be raised on spring plowiag.

Mrs. Mary Kelley, mother of Mrs. R. J. Montsgue, died very suddenly on Monday morning of tbis week of heart failare. She had a slight attack of congestion of the luags about a week ago bat had apparently recovered from tbs sffects of that and arose oa Monday morning nnd partook of breakfast as asaal. About 10 o'clock shs was found lying in hsr bed cold in death. The faneral was held at St. Mary's on Wednesday and the remalas were taken to Rochester for burisl.

Chris Honston, while coming to the city on Taesdny afternoon, came near colliding with a runaway team. One of the runaways fell just before striking the horse Chris was driving nnd did nothing more thaa scare the life out of Mrs. Houston who was in the carriage with her hasband.

Next Sundny being the 275th anniversary of the laoding of the pilgrims a "Forefathers' Day" services will be held nt the Congregational church in the morning; in the evening Rev. Mr. Fisher will givs his first anniversary address, it being one year since hs came to serve the congregational church of this city.

HURRAH For The HOLIDAYS! ! !
Nothing too Good for Christmas

Make as Many HAPPY
AS YOU CAN

With bountiful selections from our
GRAND HOLIDAY STOCK.
ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES

Watches, Clocks, Diamonds, Gold Pen and Holders, Opera Glasses, Souvenir Spoons, Gold Rings, Gold and Silver Thimbles, Charms, Chains, Cuff Battoas, Scarf Pins, Spectacles, Violins, Accordeons, etc., etc.

Come and See the Elegant Display at
SAAKE'S JEWELRY STORE.

H. A. JOHNSON. We pay drafts on bill lading and will make prompt returns. O. M. OMLIE.

H. A. JOHNSON & CO.,
GRAIN COMMISSION.

We Sell Wheat to Mills by Sample. We Want all the Barley you have got.

Room 55 Board of Trade,
WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.

Room 508 Corn Exchange,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

—REFERENCES:—

Northwestern National Bank,
West Superior, Wis.

First National Bank,
Grafton National Bank,
Grafton, N. Dak.

Russell & Miller Milling Co.
West Superior, Wis.

CANADIAN EXCURSIONS
via Northern Pacific Railroad
To
Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick

Vestibuled Trains Dining Cars

From Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st inclusive, the Northern Pacific will sell Canadian Excursion Tickets,

Good for Three Months from date of sals. Stop-overs subject to Regulations of lines over which Tickets read, will bs givea.

Tickets will bs extended upon payment of additional sams as as follows:

15 Days - - - $ 5.00 | 30 Days - - - $10.00
45 Days - - - $15.00 | 60 Days - - - $20.00

☞ Tickets will be sold to Points as far East as MONTREAL for $40.00

For a Single Fare from Montrsal added to the $40.00 rate, Tickets will bs sold to Points in Quebec east of Montreal, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Call on any Agent of the Northern Pacific R. R.. for further information.

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

34-37)

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

W. B. Dawley will eat his holiday dinners at home.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Gus Felsing was in from Maple Bay on Monday.

Dept. U. S. Marshal Sheehaa was in the city Satnrday.

Sheriff Steenersoa went up the St Hilaire line on Monday.

J. D. Marsbal was in from Red Lake Falls on Monday.

J. H. Griffia took a rua up along the St. Vinceat line on Saturday.

Martin Laily has gone to the lamber caaips oa the Clearwater.

A. A. White was up from St. Paul last week to attead the conventinu.

A masquernde ball is booked for Christmas Eve at Grand Army hall.

Stewart Wilson arrived from Fargo this week to look after the business at ths Fair store.

Moaday was an extremely warm day for winter with a light misty raia prevailing nearly all day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Newton, of Mapletoa, Cass Co., are visiting with his mother in the city this week.

Hon. B. Sampson is making preparatioas to put up a saw mill in the town of Knute.

Supt. Jenks went north in his special car oa Monday. It is rumored that he is soon to be promoted.

M. R. Browa went out to McIntosh on Taesday moraing to see how his mercantile basiness is flourishing.

Roy Baker is home froia college at Beloit, for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, of the hotel Cronkstoa.

E. D. Childs was in attendance at the dairy convention at Litchfield, last weak. He seldom allows an event of that kind tu miss him.

Judge and Mrs. R. J. Montague went to Rochester oa Wednesday evening with the remains of Mrs. Mary Kelley. Mrs. Moatague's mother.

St. Jean Baptiste society will entertain the French Canadiaa settlers at McKinnon's hall on the evening of Dec. 31st. Preparations are being made for a big time.

Sheriff Steenersun was la attendaace at ths Hayward matlaee last week. He has no desire to have a similar job, but wanted to he in line in case be ever shoald have.

A drop of two cents on wheat is not very encouraging to have to report bnt that is just what we have to do. Wheat opsned the week at 43 No. 1 hnrd, aud—holds its own.

My stock of jewelry and silverwnre is full and complete. Call aad see that pinao lamp that I am going to give to somebody and learn particulars.

TOM MORRIS,
The Jeweller.

Prof. F. Whittier, the celebrated Eye Expert and Optician, will visit Crookston soon, and all those needing the services of an oculist, or optician had better wait for him. He is now at Graad Forks.

D. H. Hines. the farmer railroad builder, was in the city last week and was kept bnsy answering questions as to his proposed line to Duluth. He is very confident of his ability to pash the work to completion.

Ths Misses Barb, Lydia, Gertie and Mamie, arrivsd on Monday morning from Loagmont, Colorado, to which place their pareats removed last winter. The others will be back ia the sprlag.

Mr. Bradshaw's team made things lively on Robert street oa Saturday for a time. They ran as far as ths bridge to Jerome's Addition where they fell and were captured with no serious damage having been done.

Commissioner M. E. Kirsh went dowa to Faribault last week to take Chns. Fredrickson, a deaf mute, to the asylam, returning Sanday morning. He says Faribault is one of the prettiest villages in the state and bnsiness seems to be very good,

The Northern Pacific passeager train whistle had an attack of lockjaw on Monday evening when the engineer blew his whistle and the masic kept np nntil the steam was nearly exhausted before the valve could bs looseaed np. Everyhody rushed ont to see where the fire was.

A lively runaway caused soms excitement on Friday of last week. They collided with two baggies, ran over one small boy aad smashed the wagon to which they wers attached in front of the Baptist church, then tried to run into the river—but did aot saceeed. The team belonged to Mrs. J. H. Locken.

Two prisoners took French leave from the jail sometime between Saturday night and Sunday morning. One was being detained as a witness in a certain case to come up for trial at this term and the other was serving a senteace of which he only had ten days yet. Together with several other mild cases they were confined in ths room upstairs which is not yet snpplied with steel cages and thsy in soms way managed to break open the iron door to one of the windows and thns easily got oat. No detectives will be sent after them.

Malaria

Sinking Spells, Headache, Impure Blood

Whole Family Helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Augusta E. Grant
Big Bend, Wis.

"About a year ago, when we lived in a low, swampy locality, I commenced to feel very miserable. I had frequent sinking spells, sick headaches, and was troubled with neuralgia and also

Fluttering of the Heart

I became completely run down and could not do much of anything. At the request of a neighbor I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and before the first bottle had been taken it had benefited me so much that all the rest of the family were taking it, and we are greatly pleased with the results." MRS. AUGUSTA E. GRANT, Big Bend, Wisconsin.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills, Biliousness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Sick Headache. 25c.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

Oa dit that three pretty school ma'ams have saccnmbed to the inevitable and will resign to accept a better offer holiday week. It is said who they are is a great mystery and can't be guessed. Why it's Just as easy as falling off n log. It's Miss —— aad Miss —— nnd Miss ——.

Great interest is being shown in the forthcoming production of "Damon and Pythias," by the Sanford Dodge Lyceum Company. This beautiful. romantic drama, contains all the qualities that please those who love the exemplification of purity, undying friendship and patriotism. The play is filled with the most intense dramatic situations and thrilling climaxes known to the stage, and whea played by such a capable company as the Saaford Dodge Lyceam Compaay has proven itself to be, it is a dramatic event seldom enjoyed in this city. Sanford Dodge in the role of "Damon" has woa the highest praise from the public and critics for his fine portrayal of this difficult part, which in both the past and present has been aad is being played by the greatest actors of the legitimate and heroic school. Too much cannot he said of A. G. Johnson la the part of "Pythias." Gifted with a voice which has scarcely an equal on the stage today and with wonderful emotional powers, Mr. Johnsoa makes aa ideal "Pythias." Miss Laara Fraakenfield as "Calaathe" has won the bighest encoaiums; and Miss Zella Zee Sweltzer as "Hermion," is always a favorite. The other members of the cast are gifted and proficient. "Damon and Pythias" will be presented at ths Grand Opera House one night only, Dec. 19th.

Great Christmas Bargains
FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

Suits & Overcoats
For Childran from 4 to 14.
Former Price $4, $5, $6 and $7,
Now Only
$3
Also Some For 90cts.

Latest Styles in Gents' Neckwear for the Holidays at the ☞
Boston One Price Clothing House.
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL Props.

How to Fry with Cottolene

Fry everything from potato chips to doughnuts in Cottolene. Put Cottolene in a cold pan—heat it slowly until it will delicately brown a bit of bread in half a minute. Then put in your food. It will pay you to try Cottolene just this way—see how delicious and wholesome it makes the food.

Get the genuine, sold everywhere in one, three, and five pound tins, with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY CHICAGO.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side'

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

THE BOSTON ONE-PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE

Good Working Pants!

At LOW DOWN FIGURES and Every Thing Else In Proportion, to make room for Our Fall Stock.

TO CLOSE OUT OUR Merchant Tailoring Business

We will MAKE ALL SUITS formerly sold at $35 and $38 For $25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY.

Boston One-Price Clothing House
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL, Props.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

H. BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager.

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

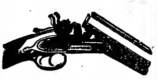
ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.

C. A. FISCHER,



PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5, with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston.

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR

1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis..........
8—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache......
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods.........
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness......
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding..........
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes.......
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough..........
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases,.............
28—Nervous Debility.............
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker.........
30—Urinary Weakness,..........
31—Painful Periods...............
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

With characteristic timeliness the North American Review for December opens with a symposium on "The Next Congress," which is discussed by such eminent authorities as M. W. Hazeltine; Representatives; Thomas C. Catchings, of Mississippi; Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa; George N. Southwick, of New York; and John C. Bell, of Colorado. Mrs. Lynn Linton writes on "Crazes and Craze," vigorously depicting the various fads of modern times, and Prof. N. S. Shaler contributes a thoughtful paper on "The Last Gift of the Century." The Rt. Hon. Lord Norton who has devoted a great part of his life to the study of mendicancy in Great Britain, tells "How London Deals with Beggars." The "Results of the Bering Sea Arbitration" are carefully considered by the Hon. J. W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State, while Pro. Goldin Smith, in "Christianity's Millstone," eloquently contends that the books of the Old Testament are simply historical books devoid of any religious inspiration. "Our Benefits from the Nicaragua Canal" are logically set forth by Arthur Silva White, and in the "Personal History of the Second Empire," Mr. Albert D. Vandam appropriately devotes the twelfth and concluding installment to "The End of the Empire." Dr. Louis Robertson furnishes another clever paper on "Wild Traits in Tame Animals," this time choosing as his subject "The pig." An important paper is that by the Clerk of the House of commons. Sir Reginald F. D. Palgrave, K. C. B. who in "The House of Representatives and the House of Commons" defines the difference in the procedure between these two great bodies. Other topics dealt with are "Congress and the Next Paris Exposition," by Theodore Stanton; "Some Memories of a Great Lawyer," by W. Watson. and" A Plea for the English Wife," by E. M. Nicholl. A carefully compiled Index to the one hundred and sixty-first volume accompanies the number.

Eighty Bushels to the Acre.

This would be a phenomenal yield of wheat, but it would not be more gratifying than would a visit 'home' via the Great Northern Railway. Crops have been uniformly good throughout this section, and now that the harvest, the threshing and the fall plowing is done, and you have time to think of recreation the old folks expect you, are anxious to see you, and, at a round trip rate of $40.00 to Montreal, you can easily afford a three months visit. Call on nearest Great Northern agent for information about Great Northern Excursions, and see "ad" in another column.

Going to California?

Then you are interested in knowing:

1st. What line will get you there seven hours quicker than any other:

2nd. What line operates Phillips' Celebrated Tourist Car Excursions?

3d. What line has been in the business longest and is most popular?

4th. That all other Tourist Car lines are imitators.

5th. What line offers you choice of routes? Cars leaving ST. PAUL on MONDAYS at 9 a. m., via Kansas City and Fort Worth—the favorite SOUTHERN ROUTE; with no snow, no high altitudes. Cars leaving on THURSDAYS at 7 p. m. via Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City—the great Scenic Route.

6th. What line uses Pullman Cars that are completely furnished with carpets in the aisles, upholstered seats, clean linen and blankets for berths, cooking ranges in separate compartments, gentlemanly conductors and careful porters?

7th. What line accepts second class tickets and only charges $6.00 for double berth clear through?

The agents of Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. will cheerfully and truthfully answer any of these questions or you can address

A. B. CUTTS,
[34-37] Minneapolis, Minn.

To Subscribers.

Where you send money to us on subscription see that the address on your copy of the JOURNAL is changed to correspond with your payment. Should it fail to be so changed in two weeks please notify this office at once. A change in the figures on your copy is a receipt for money paid.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Canadian Excursion

Tickets will be sold by the Northern Pacific from December 1st to December 31st, inclusive, to points in Ontario and Quebec as far east as Montreal. Fare $40.00 for round trip. Good for stop-overs. Tickets good three months from date of sale. By the addition of a single fare from Montreal to the $40.00 rate, tickets will be sold to points in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Upon payment of reasonable amounts in addition, tickets will be extended by agent at passengers' destination.

Call on N. P. ticket agent for further information.

AHEAD OF ALL MAGAZINES
this country has seen.—Albany Argus.

IN THE

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW

are always found
The Right Topics,
By the Right Men,
At the Right Time.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as the foremost Review in the English language, and no expenditure is spared in maintaining it in its unrivalled position.

The Review is the mouthpiece of the men and women who know most about the great topics on which Americans require and desire to be informed from month to month. Its list of contributors forms a roll of the representative men and women of the age.

Subjects that concern the interests of - - AMERICAN WOMEN receive constant and special attention

Among special features of extraordinary importance which THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW has in preparation for 1896, is a series of articles by the Rt Hon.

W. E. GLADSTONE

—ON—

THE FUTURE STATE
And The Condition of Man in it.

The series will begin in the January number.

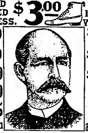
50 Cents a Copy; $5.00 a Year.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW,
3 East 14th St., New York.

1,000,000 People Wear

W. L. Douglas Shoes

HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.



$5.00
$4.00
$3.50
$2.50
$2.25
For Men

$3.00
$2.50
$2.00
$1.75
For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by

Fontaine & Anglim

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.

WHAT "VIGORINE" DID
1ST DAY
9TH DAY
12TH DAY
27TH DAY

VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young men will regain their lost manhood, and old men will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

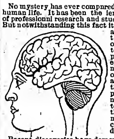
Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.



Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

H. STEENERSON.
Attorney-at-Law.
Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,
Attorney-at-Law
Reckitt Bloc., - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE—
McGill University, Montreal.
Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.
Office in McKinnon Block.

WHEELER & WILSON'S HIGH-ARM NEW NUMBER NINE IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,
SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER McKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10 pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS THROUGH CARS

TO

St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily	For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior, 7:54 p.m.
	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.

have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT

The Choicest Cuts

At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New

MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block—Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON.
Attorney-at-Law,
Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON.......... President
L. ELLINGTON.......... Vice President
J. W. WHEELER.......... Cashier
A. P. HANSON.......... Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

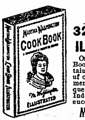
A full supply of everything kept by the trade. Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,

CROOKSTON, - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.
Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK FREE!



320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook-Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes, indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Game, etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card is in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO, Huron & Oak Streets, TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer ! ! !

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY EMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at..........7:25 p. m
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at..........7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust
Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.
Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance traveling.
Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.
Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.
Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.
Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.
Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3, For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	:40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2, For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13, For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston.	6:25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61, For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls, Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only.	9:00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66, For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,
or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

THE RAPID DISH WASHER

General or local Ladies or gents. Agents. $75 a week. Exclusive territory. The Rapid Dish Washer. Washes all the dishes for a family in one minute. Washes, rinses and dries them without wetting the hands. You push the button, the machine does the rest. Bright, polished dishes, and cheerful wives. No scalded fingers, no soiled hands or clothing. No broken dishes, no muss. Cheap, durable, warranted. Circulars free.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 12, Columbus, O.

DEMOCRATS WILL WILL FIX A DATE

Meeting of the National Committee Called by Chairman Harrity.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—W. F. Harrity, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has requested the secretary of the committee to notify the members thereof to assemble in Washington on Jan. 16 next for the purpose of selecting the time and place for holding the Democratic national convention.

Chicago University Gets Another Million.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Miss Helen Culver of this city has given $1,000,000 to the University of Chicago, the entire gift to be devoted to the increase and spread of knowledge within the field of the biological sciences.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant,
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Wesley Morris was in from Mentor on Wednesday and dropped in to see about the JOURNAL premium pictures.

E. E. Abbott was in from Mentor on Wednesday.

Judge Benson and County Attorney Gossman were over at Grand Forks on Wednesday.

Tom Morris would like to show you a nice line of friendship rings. They make a lovely and acceptable gift to your best girl—and we have known them to lead to an engagement ring. Have you?

Rev. H. P. Fisher preached at Ada on Sabbath day.

WE are delighted to see one thing in President Cleveland that we can highly commend—his attitude on the Venezuelan question. Grover stopped fishing and shooting long enough to shoot off at congress the most patriotic message he ever inflicted upon that body. He says to England: "Go easy, Johnny, or my successor in office will be obliged to thrash you!"

Proceedings of the Board of Counto Commissioners.

The county board met at the auditor's office on Dec. 5th with all of the members present.

The application of Mrs. Claus for abatement of taxes on property in Sampson's addition to the city of Crookston, received favorable action and a refunding order amounting to $4.00 was authorized.

Application of John Cromb and A. D. Stephens to be released from official bond of Judge of Probate was granted, and the Judge filed a new bond with John E. Stromsmoe, Ole O. Estenson, Olaf Erickson, Goodno G. Lee, John Steenerson, H. B. Laughlin, John Gilbert, Ole Larson, Anfin Brekke and Sam Thoreson as sureties, which bond was approved.

A contract was made with C. O. Espe to drill a three inch artesian well, said well to flow at least fifty barrels per day for the sum of $250.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the assessment of Mikkel P. Bakken, on lots 1, 2, 5 and 6, of section 9, Twp. 153, R. 43, be reduced as follows:

For year 1893, $ 80.00
" " 1894, 117.00
" " 1895, 117.00

On motion the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, Certain reports have been brought to the attention of this Board of a character reflecting upon the official conduct of Hon. C. M. Benson, judge of probate, therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of three members of this Board be appointed with instructions to thoroughly investigate the matters so reported and submit the result of such investigation in a report to this Board at its next meeting.

Commissioner Kirsch, Lindem and Norland were appointed as investigation committee.

School district No. 228 was formed.

Taxes were ordered abated in a number of cases if paid within 30 days.

The following resolution was offered by Commissioner Norland:

Resolved, That the County Auditor be requested to write the Attorney General and request his opinion on the question as to whether or not quo warranto proceedings can be instituted against the St. P. M. & M. Ry. Co., to terminate its existence as a corporation, on the ground that it has practically ceased to exist for the purpose for which it was created.

Commissioners Oppegard, Lindem and Norland voted yes, and Commissioners Kirsch and Rhinebart no.

The auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for the county printing for the ensuing year.

The usual grist of bills was allowed and the board adjourned sine die.

A New Year's Newspapers.

The aggregate number of copies issued during a year by the newspapers, is estimated as twelve billions. No idea of what this means can be conveyed by the bald statement, and comparison and illustration must be resorted to. These papers, if spread out upon the ground, would cover 10,450 square miles, or an area nine times as large as the state of Rhode Island. If piled one upon another, allowing one hundred papers to make only an inch in thickness, the height would be almost nineteen hundred miles. If a man were to handle one copy each second, work ten hours a day, and three hundred and thirteen days a year, he would be a thousand and sixty-five years old when he finished counting them. The number of words used in these billions of papers would be simply a mass of figures so vast that no human mind could comprehend their significance. Even to tell a few of the attractions and advantages of the Burlington Route as a line of railroad, in the newspapers of the Northwest, takes over five million words a year—and then "the half has never been told." To get the other half, the best way is by experience, buying your railroad tickets by this line always. Any ticket agent can supply you; or you can write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Engagement Extraordinary.

Meade & Allen's New York Ideals. The Booth and Barrett of comedy and music. E. H. Meade, the famous character delineator of Bill Nye and Carl Herrmann, the world's greatest violinist, formerly court musician to the German Emperor. This attraction proves that the most appreciated music is the most refined. That the most enjoyable laugh is produced without a blush; that the solos and songs that the people love most, have sweet, refined melody and pure sentiment; that hearts are moved by moral emotions and sublime patriotic appeals. They will appear at the Opera House Saturday evening, Dec. 21.

East Grand Forks Items.

[From The Courier.]

County Supt. of schools, McCrillis was in town Sunday and Monday. Monday morning he intended to return home to Crookston, and about 4 o'clock boarded a caboose in the N. P. depot yards, and snugly wrapping himself up in his overcoat he lay down and went to sleep. After an hour's nap he still found himself in the caboose in the depot yard, and becoming quite anxious to know what the trouble wuz made inquiry and learned that the caboose he was in was soon to be pulled to Grafton, the Crookston freight having pulled out shortly after Mr. McCrillis had taken up his quarters in the other caboose which unfortunately adjoined the one headed for Crookston. Being compelled to spend all of Monday here the superintendent passed his time in visiting the schools.

The marriage of Daniel Suprenaut and Miss Marie Lessard occurred at Oakwood, near Grafton, the home of the bride, on Nov. 25 inst. The young couple have returned to this city and will make their home for the winter at the residence of the groom's parents.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

The east side school board have ordered an equipment for the upper room of their school building and as soon as it arrives a second room will be opened and an assistant teacher employed.

Those who are representing the city at the convention at Crookston this week are Ira C Richardson chairman, E. A. Krbis, Hans Nelson C. I. Knox, P. S. Ware, Lars Backe, P. H. Kratka, M. V. Evenson C. A, Robbecke and Philip Zeh. The township of North is represented by the town board.

Mike Hines arrived at the Great Northern hotel with his bride day before yesterday. He closed the great deal of his life at Fisher, this state, a short time since, and the happy couple will spend a protracted honey moon here.

Miss Betsey Olsen, of Warren, Minn., arrived in the city Wednesday in response to telegram from her parents here announcing the death of her brother, Hans S. Olson. This is the second time within the past few weeks that Miss Olson has responded to a like dispatch, which makes the occasion the more sad.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

Miss Katbrine Umland left last Saturday for a visit with friends at Crookston and Grand Forks.

J. E. Campbell went down to St. Paul last Saturday with another carload of cattle. Messrs. Campbell & Soderberg continue to ship one or more carloads of cattle each week, and are buying every day.

S. S. Stadsvold, I. I. Hillestad, B. S. Bennett and N. P. Hanson represented Fosston at the convention held at Crookston yesterday.

S. C. Bagley has been out to the Carver Bros. camp this week, looking after the arrangements being made there for the winter's logging operations.

I. I. Hillestad was appointed on the committee on resolutions and the committee on permanent organization at the Agricultural, Lumber & Fuel convention held at Crookston yesterday.

H. O. Hawkins, agent of Greenleaf & Tenney, commission merchants of Duluth and Minneapolis, has been in town during the past week, and bought a carload of wheat from John Vidnesl and Paul Fossbakken, grading it No. 1 hard and paying them 45 cents a bushel for it. To one on the outside it would appear as though either the elevators were making big profits on the wheat this year or that the commission agent was losing money, and it is natural to suppose that the former is the case.

Fisher Items.

(From the Bulletin.)

Capt. John Carmichael, of Lexington Kentucky, an old friend of H. B. Laughlin, was visiting here with H. B. and family Sunday last. The Captain is a special inspector of the United States Land Offices.

Lew Shepard, agent of the Minnesota & Dakota elevator at this place, is happy. A crew of carpenters are busy putting up an annex to his elevator and Shep will now be able to handle all the wheat that comes his way.

Mrs Dave McClenry, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs C. U. Webster Sr. returned home to Crookston Sunday night on account of the illness of her little son.

The "Squaw White Man."

In traveling through the Indian Territory, a short time since, I was deeply mortified to find nearly all the common people of both races living in such ignorance and poverty. I visited many families of the lower classes, and learned from them that they had no opportunities whatever to secure homes, as all the best lands had been gobbled up by a few hundred "squaw white men" and "half breed Indians," who were swimming in plenty and luxury while they themselves were being drowned in want and poverty. I next visited one of the "squaw white men," a land king, who owned thousands of cattle and over one hundred thousand acres of good land, besides a squaw wife attired like a queen. I cautiously asked him how he happened to marry her. He replied that under the law of his nation white men were entitled to citizenship provided they married Indian women, and that it further provided that a citizen could hold such land as he might fence in or plow around. In answer to my question as to how he liked his wife, he said: "It is the only investment I have ever made in my life that has paid me, and I cannot go back on the bridge that carries me safely over." I then inquired of him how long he expected to hold his vast estate. His answer was "I suppose always, as my nation has been guaranteed by the United States to be perpetual, and our law-making power never to be interfered with by them. So you see we are wisely protected for all time to come, and if white men trouble us here, the United States has promised by a solemn treaty to drive them out of our nation." He further informed me he was talked of for senator.—From "An Indian on the Problems of His Race," by Simon Po-ka-gon, in the December Review of Reviews.

The expected lawsuit over Catherine Ging's insurance money is not likely to be tried. W. W. Hayward, father of Harry and to whom the latter assigned his claim for the $10,000 insurance on Miss Ging's life, has relinquished all claim to the money.

These Winterdays

When the air is bracing, not biting; when the fall work is over and time begins to drag a little in comparison with the busy harvest season we go out to the barn to do the chores after breakfast with a sense of impatience at the emptiness of our days. To be sure there's a bit of of mending to be done on the plow harness, and the chores take some time, and we might take a load of wheat to town, since some few provisions are needed by the good wife, but that isn't satisfying. If only one could be in the old home today there would be no lack of something to do. With all the visiting old friends, renewing acquaintances, and half forgotten memories in the dear old provinces and—why not—yes, why not—to what better use could you put part of the value of your bountiful crop. $40.00 will buy a round trip ticket to Montreal with stop-over privileges via the Great Northern Railway, whose local agent will cheerfully give detailed information.

Tom Morris will be pleased to show you one of the finest lines of jewelry and silverware, clocks, watches and diamonds to be found in the city. Just the nicest place to get a Christmas present that you can find in the city. Call and see what he has got.

Canadian Excursions.

Tickets good for three months with stop-over privileges will be sold by the Great Northern Railway Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st, inclusive to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montreal at a round trip rate of $40.00. Agents at destination will extend time limit of tickets upon payment of a small additional charge. Through tickets will be sold to points in Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island east of Montreal for a single fare from Montreal for the round trip in addition to the $40.00 rate.

For further information call upon local agent, Great Northern Railway, or write F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or E. A. Fradenburgh, T. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

Dec. 1st. to 31st. Inclusive.

This is the time—all through December—that you can buy Canadian excursion tickets via the Northern Pacific—go back and visit your friends in the provices this winter and go via the Northern Pacific. Call on our agents for tickets and particulars.

GREAT NORTHERN

Trains are fast, and equipment and service of the best for Canadians taking advantage of the excursion rates.

Canadian Excursions.

These excursions, at a low rate for the round trip, will start every day from Northern Minnesota and North Dakota points for Montreal and the Canadian provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia Quebec and New Brunswick, from the 10th to 31st of December inclusive. In purchasing your ticket, it will be to your advantage in point of comfort, speed and safety, to ask the agent to give you a ticket over the Burlington Route between St. Paul and Chicago. Our equipment of Reclining Chair Cars (seats free) Pullman Standard and Compartment Sleepers, and Dining Cars (on the cafe plan) is first-class in every particular, as it is well known to our patrons. Our trains leave St. Paul Union Depot morning and evening, and you will make no mistake in going via the "Burlington." For further information, address W. J. Kenyon, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn. [35-37]

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, President.
WM. ANGLIM, Vice President.
J. W. WHEELER Cashier

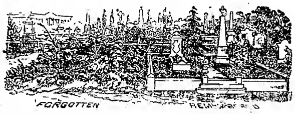
FIRST NATIONAL BANK
—OF—
CROOKSTON, MINN.
Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.
Interest Paid on Time Deposits.
Town and School Orders Bought.
Money to Loan on Farms

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.
LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,
GRAIN WHEAT, BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.
COMMISSION.
504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.
12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce. MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
DULUTH, MINN.

IF YOU WANT
Photographs!
WHY NOT GET THE BEST?
MURI MAKES THEM
BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,
CROOKSTON, MINN.
JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.
Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite
Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED
FARMS
FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.
REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE
E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

Polk County Journal.

VOL. XIX. CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY DECEMBER 26, 1895. NO 37.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

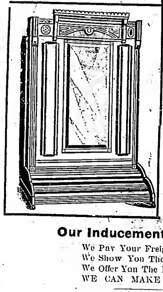
Historical Society

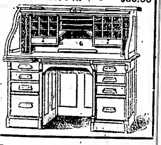
CROOKSTON FURNITURE COMPANY

Carpets, Wall Paper, Furniture
CASKETS, COFFINS, BURIAL SUITS.

FOLDING BEDS,
Large Glass 18x40
Polished Oak, - $32.00

OFFICE DESK.
Oak Polished, 5 ft. - $30.00





Best All-Wool Carpet
Sewed and Laid - 65c.
Extra Grade Brussels
Sewed and Laid - 85c.
Complete Stock Wall Paper
5c. to 35c. per Roll.
15 SECOND HAND STOVES
$2.00 to $10.00
3000 FT. PICTURE FRAME, MOULDING, Made in Frames at 25 per cent off Regular Price.

Our Inducements:
We Pay Your Freight 100 Miles.
We Show You The Largest Stock.
We Offer You The Best Grade of Goods.
WE CAN MAKE YOU EASY TERMS.

☞ Remember we carry a complete stock of COFFINS, CASKETS & ROBES.

NEW BOND ISSUE

J. Pierpont Morgan Is in Washington Supposedly at Cleveland's Request.

President Thought Not to Have Confidence in Quick Congressional Action.

Chauncey M. Depew Predicts Bonds Will Be Announced in Five Days.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—A local paper paper says Mr. J. P. Morgan, who, with Mr. August Belmont, organized the government bond syndicate last February, is in Washington. Bankers who knew of his departure and are also aware of the informal communications that have been had during the last week between President Cleveland and prominent bankers in this city are of the opinion that [illegible] went over to Washington because he was invited to do so by the president.

If this is so, it would seem to indicate that the president is not particularly hopeful of immediate action by congress authorizing an issue of bonds, and that he has determined, as he did last winter, to finance the treasury on the basis of existing legislation.

Where Depew Got the Information.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—A local paper quotes Chauncey M. Depew as saying: "A bond issue will be authorized within five days, and I have not any authority for the statement. I get it from the air. Many good things come out of the air."

MANITOBA'S REPLY IS READY.

Firm Stand Against Parochial Schools Undoubtedly Maintained.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 23.—Premier Greenway and his cabinet, who have been in executive session for two days considering the reply to the second demand of the Dominion government in regard to the restoration of Roman Catholic parochial schools, concluded their deliberations during the evening. The reply will be in the hands of Lord Aberdeen, the governor general, and Premier Bowell's cabinet by Tuesday next.

Premier Greenway and his ministers decline to make the contents of the document known, but without a doubt the reply reaffirms the determination of the Manitoba government not to restore Roman Catholic schools and firmly refuses to enter into any compromise.

MASSACRED AT ZEITOUM.

Said All Armenians Who Did Not Escape Have Been Killed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—A dispatch to the Herald from London says: The Telegraph publishes a dispatch from Vienna, saying it is reported there that Mustafa Pasha, commanding a Turkish force, has captured the town of Zeitoun, which was some time ago taken by insurgent Armenians, and that he has massacred all the Armenians in the place who did not make their escape to the mountains.

A Congressional Duellist.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17.—Congressman C. J. Boatner of the Sixth district has challenged Major H. J. Hearsey, editor of The States, to fight a duel.

COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE.

Personnel of a Few of the Most Important.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The following is the personnel of the leading house committees as announced by Speaker Reed:

Foreign Affairs—Republicans: Hitt, Ills., chairman; Draper, Mass.; Adams, Jr., Penn.; Quigg, N. Y.; Cousins, Ia.; Taft, O.; Smith, Mich.; Heatwole, Minn.; Pearson, North Carolina. Democrats: McCreary, Ky.; Price, La.; Tucker, Va.; Densmore, Ark.; Money, Miss.; Newlands, Nev.

Ways and Means—Republicans: Dingley, Me., chairman; Payne, N. Y.; Dalzell, Penn.; Hopkins, Ills.; Grosvenor, O.; Russell, Conn.; Dolliver, Ia.; Steele, Ind.; Johnson, N. D.; Evans, Ky.; Tawney, Minn. Democrats: Crisp, Ga.; McMillin, Tenn.; Turner, Ga.; Tarsney, Mo.; Wheeler, Ala.; McLaurin, S. C.

Rules—Republicans: Speaker Reed, chairman; Henderson, Ia; Dalzell, Penn. Democrats: Crisp, Ga.; McMillin, Tenn.

Appropriations—Republicans: Cannon, Ills., chairman; Bingham, Penn.; Grant, Vt.; Northway, O.; Stone, Penn.; Arnold, R. I.; Hainer, Neb.; Bliss, Kan.; Pitney, N. J.; Hemenway, Ind.; McCall, Tenn. Democrats: Sayres, Tex.; Dockery, Mo.; Livingston, Ga.; Robertson, La.; Layton, O.; Bartlett, N. Y.

Banking and Currency—Republicans: Walker, Mass., chairman; Brosius, Penn.; Johnson, Ind.; Van Voorhis, O.; McCleary, Minn.; Fowler, N. J.; Le Fevre, N. Y.; Spalding, Mich.; Calderhead, Kan.; Hill, Conn.; Conk, Ills. Democrats: Cox, Tenn.; Cobb, Mo.; Cobb, Ala.; Black, Ga.; Newlands, Nev.; Cowen, Md.

THE CONFESSION OF HAYWARD.

Admitted He Killed Miss Ging for the Life Insurance Money.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 21.—The Tribune publishes the substance of the confession of Harry Hayward, dictated to the stenographer in jail just before the execution. There is considerable doubt expressed as to the truthfulness of the story previous to the murder of Miss Ging.

However, when it came to telling the story of the crime for which he was executed, there is reason to believe that he confined himself tolerably strictly to the truth.

He claims to have murdered a Chinaman in San Francisco with whom he had quarreled over cards; also an adventuress at Pasadena, Cal., for the purpose of securing $500 she had. He also claimed to have shot a man in self defense at El Paso del Norte.

The story of the murder of Miss Ging was told in detail, or rather the planning of the murder, and Hayward's story tallies very well with the theory of the state at the trial. She was killed for the insurance on her life. As to the murder itself the story of Blixt will have to be taken, he says.

TROLLEY STRIKE ENDS.

Philadelphia Street Car Company and Its Employes Compromise.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The great trolley strike is ended. This is final. John Wanamaker is the man who brought about the settlement, succeeding where all others failed. He was aided in the work by members of the Christian league. The basis of settlement was a compromise, with concessions from both sides.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

MANY WRECKS

Great Loss of Life From the Gale Now Raging on the British Coasts.

Life Crew of Sixteen Capsized and Drowned in Kingston Bay.

Seventeen of the Crew of the Moresby Drowned--Fears For the Danube.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Heavy gales prevail over the coast of Great Britain and several small wrecks have already been reported. A schooner was seen to run ashore in Tyne near Shields, where she became a total wreck. It is believed that all the members of the crew were drowned.

LIFE CREW WERE LOST.

Their Boat Capsized and Sixteen Men Were Drowned.

DUBLIN, Dec. 25.—A large three-masted vessel has been seen flying signals of distress in Kingstown bay. A lifeboat watch was sent to her assistance, was capsized, and her crew of sixteen men drowned.

A second lifeboat which started to the rescue was also overturned, but the crew managed to cling to the boat, which was finally righted. The fate of the three-masted schooner is not known.

WILL PROBABLY PERISH.

Little Hope For the Crew of the British Ship Moresby.

DUBLIN, Dec. 24.—The British ship Moresby, Capt. Coomber, was stranded off the Ballina Courts lighthouse, near Dungarven, about a mile and a half from the shore. Her crew, numbering 30 men, have been lashed to her rigging throughout the night and it is believed they will perish, as the sea is so heavy as to render it impossible for a lifeboat to live in it any length of time.

Some of the Crew Were Rescued.

Later in the day a lifeboat succeeded in getting to the Moresby and rescued several of the crew. The others remained, however, lashed to the rigging. The Moresby, at the time the lifeboat was driven away from her, was breaking up.

In spite of the efforts to save them, seventeen of the Moresby's crew were drowned when that vessel broke up.

THE SENATE TAKES ACTION.

House Bill Unanimously Passed Without Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 .—The United States senate, by unanimous vote and without the formality of a roll call, has passed the bill already adopted by the house of representatives, empowering the president to appoint a commission to determine the Venezuela-British Guiana boundary.

This action was the culmination of a debate adding a memorable page to congressional history. It was a day of noble speeches by notable men. The subject of war between the United States and Great Britain was the prevailing theme which found expression in truly patriotic sentiments, in stirring appeals for preparation and defense, in graphic portrayals of the horrors of war, and, at times, in defiant warnings to the people across the water.

At all times during the four hours of discussion the galleries were besieged by an eager crowd, whose patriotic impulses found frequent expressions in applause, which the presiding officer sought vainly to suppress.

Some Notable Utterances.

The most notable utterances of the day were those of Senators Sherman, Teller, Mills, Lodge, Platt, Turpie, Chandler, White, Cafferey, Call and Stewart, representing the three shades of political sentiment, and yet, in the main, uniform in urging the support of the president's vigorous assertion of the Monroe doctrine and, if need be, any action essential to maintain the national dignity. There were strong expressions also, against the panic in American stocks and securities which it was said the London commercial houses were seeking to bring about. Throughout the debate there was an undercurrent of feeling that while the country would not shrink from war, if it must come, yet that such a calamity was not imminent. Shortly before 4 o'clock Mr. Morgan unexpectedly withdrew the amendments to the bill, leaving it in its original form. There was no demand for a roll call,

As the Sentiment of the Senate was clearly an unit and by a loud viva voce vote the bill was passed without a dissenting vote. This completed the legislative enactment of the measure which, with the signature of the president, has the full force and effect of a law.

The passage of the bill was not, however, the only exciting event of the day, for at 4:30 o'clock the president's message urging the gravity of the financial situation and calling on congress not to adjourn for the holidays until relief was afforded, was presented to the senate.

NEARING HAVANA

Rapidity With Which Insurgents Get Around Demoralizes Spaniards.

Gomez' Army Now Only Fifty Miles From the Cuban Capital.

And It Is Likely They Will Be in Town in Twenty-four Hours.

HAVANA, Dec. 25.—Gomez and the insurgent army have turned the flank of the Spanish forces commanded by General Campos in person, at Colon, and are now well to the westward of that place, threatening a quick movement upon Havana. This news has created the greatest consternation here.

ARE MOVING TOWARDS HAVANA.

Spaniards Demoralized by the Quick Moves of Insurgents.

HAVANA, Dec. 25.—The insurgent army is now only about fifty miles from Havana, and the Spanish authorities seem to have entirely lost their heads. At this rate the insurgent army will be soon in front of Havana, if they have obtained control of the railroads from here to Matanzas, which seems not impossible, as they were only a few miles from Matanzas when last heard from and moving rapidly forward.

Entered Into Rest.

At 4 o'clock on Saturday morning Mrs. Carrie Anderson, wife of Fred Anderson, died at the family residence on Broadway, of consumption. For several years she has been a sufferer from this dread malady, and has patiently borne her sufferings, tenderly cared for by a loving husband. She leaves to mourn her loss a father and mother, a husband and young child and a sister, Miss Bessie Brevle. The funeral took place on Tuesday, at the United Lutheran church, and the remains were laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery.

Angus items.

G. Toucan drove to Warren on Monday.

G. Evans and wife were in Warren on Monday.

Fred Stroble and son A. F. transacted business in Warren, on Monday.

W. L. Davies and wife attended the funeral of Mrs. Taylor, at Euclid, Monday.

W. Lemen took in the sights of Crookston on Monday evening.

Luke & Barnes' collector, of Grand Forks, spent Monday in town.

Dr. Pettit, of Fisher, conducted meeting here this week. He was assisted on Wednesday by Dr. Adams, of Minneapolis, and Rev. Darling, of Warren.

Dan LaVail, of Grand Forks, spent Wednesday in town.

Rev. Billing, the Methodist preacher of Warren, preached in the school house, on Wednesday evening.

Dr. Adams took the train, Thursday morning, for Argyle.

D. H. Miller was at Black River, on Wednesday, for wood.

John Beslzk and wife went to Crookston on Monday.

F. Wavra and wife took the train, on Thursday, for Wisconsin for a visit.

C. Johnson and Augusta Lindal were married on Thursday.

W. Lemen went to Crookston, on Thursday.

Mrs. J. M. Palmer left on Friday evening for a visit to her daughter, in Hudson.

Miss Phinney left on Frigay, for Detroit, where she will spend vacation.

Miss Jessie Davies closed a term of school in Farley, on Friday.

F. Edgar died on Friday.

Rev. Mr. Ross, of Minneapolis, preached here on Sunday.

Miss L. E. Davies arrived home on Saturday, from Moorhead, to spend the holidays.

Misses Ida King and Maggie Stroble came home on Saturday to spend the holidays.

Fred Stroble and wife and son William drove to Grand Forks on Saturday.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

WHAT'S THE USE?

What's the use of going from Minnesota to California to find a mild, equable, enjoyable climate in which to enjoy the winter season, when we have the finest winter climate to be found anywhere? We admit that there may be a personal reason why an individual might look forward to such a trip with high hopes and bright anticipations—but to go for the sole purpose of finding a finer climate—that's different—and useless. No finer climate exists on the footstool than Minnesota affords both winter and summer and the bug-bear of our severe Minnesota winters has become like a fairy tale, or an old-wife's fable—it does not exist in part. We had occasion the other day, to step over into Illinois a minute on a little matter of business and we saw more deep snow in a half-hour than we have seen in Minnesota in years and yet to the good people of Illinois we are an object of pity for living in this "hyperborean" region. But this is only from them who never saw this country as it really is and is all pure imagination. All who come to see remain to enjoy the health-giving properties of our unexcelled climate as a rule. As we write these words we observe that the office fire has gone down and we could raise our office window and not suffer discomfort. MORAL—Come to Minnesota and be happy.

Anniversary Services.

Last Sunday was a day of especial interest at the Congregational church it being the anniversary of "Forefather's Day, the 275th from the landing at Plymouth Rock—and the first anniversary of the pastoral services of Rev. Herman P. Fisher with the local church in this city. In the morning the pastor took as his text, Ezra 8-21—the same text which Rev. John Robinson M. A., preached from on the morning of July 22, 1620, when the pilgrims started from Delft Haven, Holland, in search of a home in the new world. Mr. Fisher had many pictures of pilgrim scenes in Old England, Holland and New England. He said that in history there had been three marked periods, viz. conquest, incorporation, and representation—or the Oriental, the Roman, and the English periods. The scene of the first was the Euphrates and the Nile; of the second, the Tiber and the Rhine; of the third, the Thames and the Mississippi. The Pilgrim idea—"a church without a bishop and a country without a king"—was the bright consummate flower of the period of representation. The Pilgrims bequeathed to us three priceless gifts—namely, the free school, liberty of speech, and the worship of God after the dictates of one's own conscience.

If you are looking for something nobby and nice in the line of silverware or jewelry don't forget to call at Tom Morris' jewelry store and see what he has in stock.

A slight snow-fall on Saturday made sleighing fairly good and hundreds took advantage of it on Sunday. The streets were filled with cutters and sleighs of every description all day—and it was a lovely day for a sleigh-ride.

My stock of jewelry and silverware is full and complete. Call and see that piano lamp that I am going to give to somebody and learn particulars.
TOM MORRIS,
The Jeweller.

Very many of our friends have paid up those back subscriptions in full, others have remitted us a portion of it and told us when to expect the balance, while some have neither paid nor written, and for all we know they may be dead. Some of these will probably be very angry when they wake up some day and find a judgment hanging over them—but we can't help it—we have given everybody ample time to fix it up some way and we are still waiting a little to give the rest a chance. We expect to have all these old accounts settled in some way shortly.

Prof. F. Whittier, the celebrated Eye Expert and Optician, will visit Crookston soon, and all those needing the services of an oculist, or optician had better wait for him. He is now at Grand Forks.

You Can't Do Better

Than to take advantage of the low rates offered by the Great Northern Railway for the annual Canadian Excursion inaugurated by that road several years ago. See full particulars in "ad" in another column.

Geo. M. Swift was in from Mentor on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Himmelsbach were visiting Collins' on Saturday.

Sheriff Steenerson returned from his trip below in time for Christmas dinner.

Dennis Ryan was a distinguished citizen of St. Paul in the city on Monday.

Marvin Losey went up to Euclid, on Monday to eat his Christmas dinner with the old folks at home.

Mrs. M. Wikken was brought before Judge Benson on information of insanity, last week. The hearing was postponed till this week to await witnesses.

Col. Cobham Post held an adjourned meeting on Monday evening and three new members were admitted, making 63 now enrolled and in good standing.

Alvah Newland is now living at home. He takes the place of M. B. Hayes as express messenger on the branch lines. Hayes goes out on his farm to rest up a bit.

Bi Chapin, the Warren barber, is said to be ill with typhoid fever. Bi will be remembered as a graduate from Charlie Misner's barberous college, some time since.

J. E. Morriecy is putting in the bathing apparatus for Danser & Thomas, at their new barber shop. He returned from St. Paul on Sunday morning, after having secured the latest improvements in that line.

In Judge Benson's court on Monday Karen Fjeldstrom, who was brought in on information of insanity, was discharged, the evidence failing to make a case. Gunhild Hvile, idiotic and insane, was committed to the insane asylum at Rochester. In the case against Meril Wiken the evidence failed to substantiate the charge of insanity and the case was dismissed.

Mr. I. Manger, of Moorhead, was in the city on Monday, on his way to McIntosh to spend the holidays at his old home, and dropped in to chat with the JOURNAL man. Says he notes many great improvements in Crookston since he was last here, five years ago. He was one of the first settlers near McIntosh and told how himself and Ole Bjoin went out there in the early day and took claims and what grand times they had. He still owns his claim out there, and as he has now rented his land near Moorhead for a term of years, he is thinking of engaging in some kind of business here.

Rev. Herman P. Fisher, the Congregational pastor, preached an anniversary discourse on Sunday evening, from the text found in 1st Samuel, 7th chapter, 12th verse: "Hitherto Hath the Lord Helped us," reviewing the church work for the year in which he has been its pastor. He took a very hopeful view of its future prospects, speaking words of encouragement and good cheer to its members and supporters. Of religion in Crookston he said that he was afraid it was altogether too little understood—people would get together and tell about what their consciences would approve of, seemingly losing sight of what the bible says about it, and he hoped everybody would attend the meetings to be held next month, laying aside everything else and paying strict attention to the meetings.

A CALL

To the Farmers of Polk County:

Notice is hereby given that there will be a meeting of the farmers of Polk county, at Crookston, on the 30th. day of December, 1895, at 10 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of forming an association and making arrangements for handling and shipping grain directly by the farmer in a manner to be decided upon at said meeting; we would recommend that at least two delegates be sent from each town, and all others interested attend to the end that the meeting be made a success. Let us unite in the move and by concerted action secure to ourselves the full benefit of our labor. Signed

E. E. Lommen,
J. S. Nichols,
John Olson,
L. Hamre,
H. S. Carver,
Ener Nelson,
N. R. Englestad,
Peter Olson,
Thos. Lawrence,
Ole Opheim.

I now have money again to loan on good improved farms.
[1-tf] A. F. GEORGE,
Opera Block.

The True American Position.

Secretary Olney has undoubtedly made strong explicit and proper representations of American views upon the whole subject to the British government; and Congress may feel that it will make no mistake if it sustains the position of the Secretary with promptness, without ambiguity and without a word of bluster or harshness. The Monroe doctrine seems to us to be involved in the fullest sense; but even if it were not involved, it would be quite as reasonable for Mr. Olney and the present Administration to lay down a Cleveland doctrine as it was for Secretary J. Q. Adams and President Monroe to announce a Monroe doctrine. We have formed the habit, here in this Western hemisphere, of settling boundary disputes by arbitration. If England desires to be considered as an "American power," it is right that she should accept the good and true principle that there is a peaceful and lawful way to settle these disputes, and that way is arbitration. As for the blustering talk which makes light of the hideous word "War," let us have none of it. War between the United States and England is as impossible as a war between Russia and the inhabitants of the planet Mars. It is not conceivable that our firm request that a scandalous little dispute in our hemisphere should be settled decently and righteously, should make for war rather than for peace. —From "The Progress of the World," in the December Review of Reviews.

Canadian Excursions.

Once again the time of Canadian excursions is at hand. As usual the orthern Pacific expects to "get there." You know what we have done, what fine trains have run, what splendid accommodations we have given you. Our vestibuled trains are as good as ever—dining car service first-class—and our entire train equipment as perfect as can be made.

The old folks in Ontario and Quebec will feel better if you start on your long trip over the Northern Pacific. Don't make them feel bad by doing otherwise. Call on our agents or particulars and tickets.

The Reviews of Reviews for December, in its "Progress of the Worlds" department plunges as usual into the discussion of important current topics. The assembling of the Fifty-fourth Congress, at home, and the disturbed condition of Turkey and some of the European powers at this moment present questions which call for extended comment this month. The editor also devotes several paragraphs to the boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela, and the results of the recent elections in various States are reviewed and summerized. But this department of the Review is by no means confined in its range to political or governmental affairs; it "covers" such subjects as the foundation of the Luther League of America, the doings of Schlatter, so-called "Healer," in Denver, noteworthy events in the educational world (Mr. Rockefeller's latest gift to the University of Chicago, the inauguration of a new president at Colgate University; etc.,) and biographical notes on important men and women who have died during the month (Eugene Field, Signor Bonghi and others).

Doll Tickets.

L. & O. Goayea have inaugurated a plan by which one of their customers will receive a very and handsome doll. Every purchase to the amount of five cents entitles the purchaser to one ticket and when the tickets are all given out the one who has the most tickets receives the doll. The doll is one of the most expensive ones to be found anywhere and is now on exhibition at the store. There are already several competitors in the race for the doll and the greatest number of tickets wins.

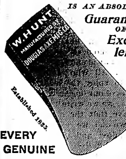
A Significant Departure.

With the departure of another year when a review is made of the condition of affairs, it is only right that some thought be given to the physical body which enables everyone to battle with life's problem and figure for themselves the profit or loss on the trial balance sheet. Though the bank account may be large and each one's material gain be great, it would not be surprising if it suddenly dawns upon many that good health has been greatly impoverished by the low condition of the blood. It is in this state that the lactic acid in the vital fluid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly the joints, making known the local manifestations of rheumatism. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla the great blood purifier, a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism.

A. A. JUST, M. D.
Homoeopathic Physician and Surgeon
OFFICE IN
McKinnon Block, Crookston

MRS. ROSE'S
RESTAURANT
SECOND STREET, CROOKSTON.
Everything New, Neat and Nice. Fine Lunch Counter in connection.
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT.
TRY US.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES.
OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.



W. HUNT
MANUFACTURED BY DOUGLAS AXE MFG. CO.
Established 1835.

THIS BRAND
IS AN ABSOLUTE Guarantee
OF Excellence
EVERY GENUINE
HUNT'S AXE
IS STAMPED AS ABOVE.

DR. PEFFER'S
FEMALE PILLS.
NEW DISCOVERY. NEVER FAILS.
A new, reliable and safe relief for suppressed, excessive, scanty or painful menstration. Now used by over 80,000 ladies monthly. Invigorates these organs. Beware of imitations. Name paper. $2. per box, or trial box $1. Sent sealed in plain wrapper. Send 4c in stamps for particulars. Sold by Local Druggists. Address: PEFFER MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Chicago, Ill.

IVORY
SOAP
IT FLOATS
BEST FOR SHIRTS.
THE PROCTER & GAMBLE CO., CIN'TI.

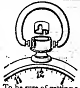
L. E. GOSSMAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
No. 3 Fournet Block } CROOKSTON, MINN.

M. LeGUEE.
Veterinary Surgeon,
Residence and office in Jerome's Addition.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS
CANNOT BE MADE FOR
$1 per Dozen
And I am not turning out cheap work.
My work is all first-class, and my prices reasonable: You cannot get first-class goods for third-class prices.
P. E. LYNNE,
Robert St., Crookston, Minn.

NELS SWANSON
ARTESIAN WELL CONTRACTOR.
A Good Supply of Water Guaranteed.
Wells Drilled or Bored.
Will work by the job, by the foot or by the day.
Crookston, - - Minn.

MILLER & FOOTE,
ATTY'S-AT-LAW,
McKinnon Block, Crookston, Minn.



Going to Buy a Watch?
If so, buy one that cannot be stolen. The only thief-proof Watches are those with Non-pull-out
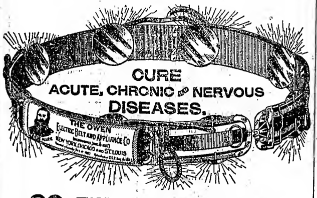
BOWS.
Here's the Idea:
The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendent (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendent, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.
To be sure of getting a Non-pull-out, see that the case is stamped with this trade mark. It cannot be had with any other kind.
Send a postal for a watch case opener to the famous Boss Filled Case makers.
Keystone Watch Case Co.,
PHILADELPHIA.

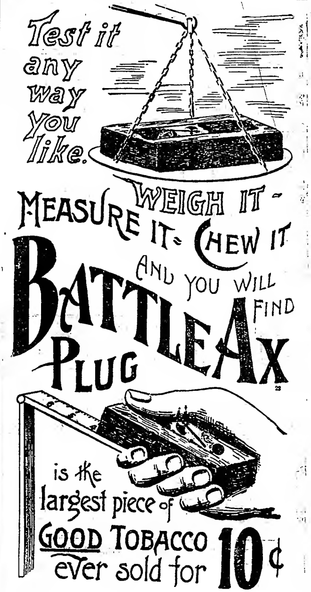


THE OWEN ELECTRIC BELT AND APPLIANCE CO
NEW YORK, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS

DR. A. OWEN'S
ELECTRIC APPLIANCES
CURE
ACUTE, CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISEASES.
99 TIMES OUT OF 100
Mrs. A. J. Stearns, of West Stockholm, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., under date of July 31, 1895, says: "Words fail me to express my gratitude to Dr. A. Owen for the benefit I have had from using his Electric Appliances. Before using the appliance I was so weak I could scarcely stand alone; had been confined to my bed since last October. After the third day's use of the appliance I could walk several steps; one week later I walked around the house, and in less than one month I was able to ride out, and now I can walk a mile or more without feeling tired. May God bless and spare you to your many friends for years to come."
Mr. Axel J. Ekblade, of Walsburg, Kan., under date of July 20th, 1895, says: "Having used the Dr. Owen Electric Appliances for Nervousness for the past few months, must say they are ahead of any treatment. I am cured of the worst form of Nervous Disease."
Mr. A. Nibek, of Middlefield, Iowa, writing us on June 27, 1895, says: "This is to certify that I have derived more benefit from using the Owen Electric Appliances for a severe case of kidney complaint and nervous prostration than from hundreds of dollars spent for doctor's bills and medicine."
Our Large Illustrated Catalogue contains many endorsements like above, besides cost of appliances, and much valuable information for the afflicted. Send 6 cents in stamps for it at once.
When writing parties about their testimonials enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope to insure a reply. We have been before the public many years, and our Electrical Appliances have become a recognized standard of merit.
THE OWEN ELECTRIC APPLIANCE CO.,
205 TO 211 STATE STREET, CHICAGO.

LORILLARD'S CLIMAX PLUG

LORILLARD'S
Climax Plug
IS MUCH THE BEST
When buying CLIMAX PLUG, always look for the little round red Tin Tag. It's the sign by which you can protect yourself against inferior brands. It is an assurance of quality, purity and substance. It represents the word and honor of the oldest tobacco manufacturers in America and the largest in the world. When you want a delicious chew, a lasting chew, a satisfying chew, be sure and get LORILLARD'S
CLIMAX PLUG.



Test it any way you like.
WEIGH IT - MEASURE IT - CHEW IT
AND YOU WILL FIND
BATTLE AX PLUG
is the largest piece of GOOD TOBACCO ever sold for 10¢

Aug. Miller. O. Sandstrom
Aug. Miller & Co., TANNERS.
FUR DRESSING AND DYEING A SPECIALTY.
We dress all kinds of Hides for coats, robes, harness and shoes.
We pay good price for black steer, cow and calf hides suitable for coats and robes.
We also take orders for coats and robes making, and cleaning and repairing of old furs.
FIRST-CLASS WORK GUARANTEED.
CROOKSTON, - - - - - - - MINNESOTA.

McKINNON BROS.,
Dealers in all the leading— AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
McKinnon Block, Main Street, - - - CROOKSTON, MINN.
BEFORE PURCHASING GIVE US A CALL.

CHRISTIANSON & STRANDER,
Abstracters of Title, Loans, Real Estate and Insurance.
N. B. FARM LOANS a specialty. Terms three to five years. Lowest rate of interest, payable annually at our office.
☞ CHOICE FARM LANDS for sale cheap, on terms to suit purchaser. ☜
Office on Robert Street CROOKSTON, MINN

Bulbs & Plants Given Away!
To introduce my Choice Flowering Bulbs into thousands of new homes this Spring, I will send by mail, post-paid, 4 Fairview Fancy Mixed Gladiolus Bulbs, all elegant colors, 4 Tuberose Bulbs, pure white sweet scented, making 8 flowering size bulbs for 20 cents to pay postage and packing, or for 10 cents extra, making 30 cents in all, I will add free 5 Pansy plants of my best mixture of over 30 colors, and there is nothing better ever offered. This makes a flower bed of itself for only 30 cents. Bargain Catalogue of Seeds, Bulbs, and Plants, with a Floral Calendar in 8 colors free with each order. Send at once before all are taken. Address,
F. B. MILLS, Seedsman, Rose Hill, N. Y.

Liver and Kidney Diseases
Are manifested by BACKACHE, RHEUMATISM, LOSS OF APPETITE, FOUL TONGUE, BAD BREATH, WEAKNESS, LOSS OF ENERGY and CHRONIC CATARRH OF THE THROAT.
DR. J. H. McLEAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY BALM
Is the remedy you need, of equal service in all mild or chronic LIVER, KIDNEY and FEMALE TROUBLES.
For sale everywhere at $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Sinners Twain.
By John Mackie
Author of
"The Devil's Playground"

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY

CHAPTER V.

When Marie was left alone, she stood for a long time gazing out upon the blurred and dreary prospect that the external world presented. But perhaps she never saw it, for her eyes had that faraway look that denotes the mind to be engaged in other than its immediate surroundings. When the trooper had kissed her hand, she had not attempted nor indeed did she desire to withdraw it. She was no prude, and she interpreted that old time action as any other sensible girl would have interpreted it. Perhaps, however, it might have sent an extra tinge of color into her cheek, and a shier and gladder light might have dawned in her eyes. As has been said, they were beautiful eyes at any time, but there was a light in them now that had not been in them before. Her spirits gradually rose as a certain definite plan revealed itself to her. She felt as if she must occupy herself with something or other, or else her hectic spirits would break through all restraints and lead her into some foolishness. She looked at the books which the trooper had placed upon the dresser for her. "And I never even said 'thank you' to him," she said fearfully and with a dawning sense of recollection. Then Jeannette came into the room, and away her quick thoughts flew on a new tack.

"Oh, Jeannette! By the way," she said, "I wonder if the police have got their own food with them?"

"Sure, sure, honey. They always carry everything about with them. An old police hand can almost cook a meal in the face of a blizzard. But even if they have not, do you think they have any call on you, specially that piglike man with the little gilt crown on the collar of his pretty little red coat? Ouf! The beast!" And old Jeannette vigorously shoved a billet of wood into the small cooking stove, as if it were the inspector she were placing there for cremation. The old lady's very decided animus evidently amused Marie, who continued:

"But, Jeannette, the others are not like him; for instance, that nice little fat man, Pierre, with the black, beady, twinkling eyes, although perhaps his waist is not quite so slim as one could wish it to be. And there is that young policeman—such a dear, curly headed little fellow. I declare I've almost a mind to fall in love with him, or I wonder if I could get him to fall in love with me? And then the sergeant"—Here she stopped abruptly and did not say anything more about him. But she laughed almost gayly as she continued: "Then, Jeannette, let us make some pancakes—we've lots of maple sirup—and send them into the next room. You know it might possibly put that dreadful thing whom you call the 'houkimo' into a somewhat better humor. I am sure that through the stomach is one way of reaching that sort of creature anyhow." And Marie rattled on as if under the influence of a strong reaction of spirits.

"By the Blessed Virgin, and what may be the matter with my honey?" cried the keen eyed Jeannette, regarding Marie wonderingly.

She had never seen the girl in such spirits before. She had expected since the arrival of the police that the girl would suddenly break down and that she—Jeannette—would have to comfort her and have to advance all sorts of fictitious hopes regarding her father's ultimate safety. But here she was laboring under an almost hectic flow of spirits and even proposing to entertain those who were about to bring disgrace and misery upon her and hers. Ma foi! It was a strange world. Jeannette, for all the years she had lived in it, could hardly understand it.

Jeannette belonged to that lower order of beings with whom the luxury of nerves and their vagaries is supposed to be an unknown quantity. She remembered how, in Old Fort Garry, in the gay old days before the Wolseley expedition, when two or three of the head officials in the Hudson Bay company's service had brought up their wives with them, she had taken service with one of them. These gay creatures of le beau monde came from Montreal or Quebec and had in their time even visited those almost mythical oversea cities, London and Paris. Therefore their manners and little ways, to the sturdy and simple children of the great northwest, passed all understanding. She could remember how occasionally—as if to vary the monotony of their lives—whenever they happened to have differences of opinion with their lords and masters or after laboring under any unusual mental excitement, they inevitably resorted to one potent and unanswerable argument—hysterics. Could Marie's unwonted conduct be another form of this recondite disease? Jeannette knew that this girl's mother belonged to that superior order of beings with whom the possession of delicately strung nerves is a hereditary attribute. This she knew just as truly as that the girl's capacity for suiting herself naturally to such company as chance threw in her way and still showing that she was superior to it was another.

Jeannette, therefore, in order to counteract any further development of the symptoms already referred to, hastened to humor her young mistress, and getting out the flour, etc., prepared to make the pancakes, which, by the way, is a popular dish on the American continent. She, however, resolved to keep an eye on her young mistress and determined if that "piglike brute of an officer" put as much as a foot over the threshold of the kitchen to annoy her young mistress, to find out whether his head or a billet of wood were the harder. Upon this point Jeannette had her doubts.

As the old woman indulged in these speculations there was a knock at the door. It opened, and a buffalo coated figure appeared in the doorway. Now, the law of association is a powerful thing, and Jeannette's hand darted like a flash of lightning to the rolling pin, and her lips framed that significant word, "Git!" In another second Dick Townley, the private, would have met with an impressive reception had not he darted back in alarm.

"Hold hard there, madam!" he cried in alarm. "It's not Puddinghead—I mean the inspector. The devil!" he said to himself. "What an old firebrand it is, to be sure!"

"Oh, it is you, is it? Entrez," cried old Jeannette, with an apologetic smile upon her face. "Why did not you say who you were at first? It would have been a matter of regret with me if I had caused the death of one so young."

The youth looked sheepishly upon the face of Marie, who was sitting with her head slightly thrown back and evidently much amused. Indeed, it would have been a difficult matter for any one to have refrained from laughing at the sight of the young trooper's evident alarm on his catching a glimpse of that uplifted arm and rolling pin.

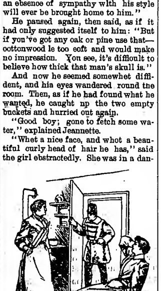
"Indeed, madam," said the polite and talkative youth in answer to Jeannette, "I was not aware that your personal animus to my superior officer was to take such a practical and forcible expression." He paused, shut the door behind him carefully as if to prevent the sound of their voices from reaching the other room, and, with an expressive grin upon his face, continued in a somewhat lower voice: "And I hope you will let him have it good and hard when you do give it him. I can assure you it's the only way that any expression of an absence of sympathy with his style will ever be brought home to him."

He paused again, then said, as if it had only suggested itself to him: "But if you've got any oak or pine use that—cottonwood is too soft and would make no impression. You see, it's difficult to believe how thick that man's skull is."

And now he seemed somewhat diffident, and his eyes wandered round the room. Then, as if he had found what he wanted, he caught up the two empty buckets and hurried out again.

"Good boy; gone to fetch some water," explained Jeannette.

"What a nice face, and what a beautiful curly head of hair he has," said the girl abstractedly. She was in a dangerous mood now, for it is a remarkable psychological paradox that it is often the most likely and the soberest individuals who on occasions do and say the maddest and most incomprehensible things. "But he seems rather self conscious," she continued, "and as if he were almost afraid of a girl. I wonder if he has ever kissed one. Jeannette, you won't look, will you, if I kiss him?"



"Oh, it is you, is it? Entrez."

"Pardonnez moi, Jeannette. Do, like a good soul, go into the next room for only half a minute and just give her a absence."

And to the horror and confusion of poor Marie the youthful trooper, who had been in the passage all the time pulling on his mitts, again put his head into the room and smiled in a fashion that was hardly in accordance with the diffidence with which he was accredited. Marie fairly put her hands up to hide her face, which, judging from the color that had mounted into her beautiful throat and neck, must have been of a telltale crimson. She had never before in her life made such a bold speech, and it seemed to her innocent mind as if it were a special dispensation of Providence that she should be caught in the very act of making it and covered with confusion.

As for Jeannette, her suspicions were confirmed. Her dear and modest mistress had contracted that mysterious disease which she had seen in another form compel highborn dames to throw about china ornaments, to use absurd and incomprehensible language and generally misconduct themselves. To think that this poor girl, whom she had hardly ever before heard mention the name of a man, should actually talk about forcibly kissing one was something that almost took away her breath. Or could it be that her knowledge of the double risk and danger her father ran just then had temporarily unhinged her reason? She—Jeannette—would look up that bag of Indian medicinal roots and herbs which she resorted to in cases of emergency, and would probably find some potent medicine which would counteract and arrest the progress of the disease, for such she regarded it.

So far as the youthful member of the police force himself was concerned, who had been the innocent cause of all the trouble, he was the least concerned of the three. It would have rather surprised the two women and added to their peace of mind could they have known that this not so bashful as he appeared to be young man was in no way shocked by the unblushing declaration of poor Marie. For had he not in his time been in the company of jolly, light hearted and perhaps not a little mischievously inclined English girls, who had not only threatened to kiss him (not under the mistletoe either), but had actually done it too?

And he had not thought much about it either, for he had been one of those enviable ones who, for certain reasons being made much of, grow accustomed to attentions that would turn the heads of less favored individuals, and who even come to look upon such attentions as theirs by natural right. Therefore the diffidence of this ingenuous youth was indeed a refreshing thing and often surprised the unsophisticated. But his halcyon days in the old country had been all too brief, for, like many more younger sons of younger sons, he had been packed off to Manitoba to learn farming. There, finding the task of expostulating with perverse oxen and milking deceitful cows hardly the idyllic and congenial employment he had imagined it to be, he had, like many more of his kind, drifted into the ranks of the Northwest mounted police, there to moralize with kindred spirits over "joys departed never to return."

And now, as he went to the covered well, he bowed his head to the icy blast. "By Jove," he said to himself, "who would have dreamed of seeing a girl like that in this God forsaken part of the world? But she's only like all the rest of them. The girl who looks as if she were thinking of heaven all the time, and who you think only requires a pair of wings to make her an angel, is probably thinking of nothing higher than man's gullibility and wondering if the right chap will have sand enough to come forward at the right time. But I'll have that kiss yet in spite of the old lady."

But he did not have that kiss.

CHAPTER VI.

The blizzard raged for two days. The snow then ceased falling, but the fierce wind hurried the dry, powdery, crystalline flakes along over the exposed and farstretching prairie in one dense and cloudlike sheet, making it impossible for any one to see five yards ahead. And still it was a paradoxical thing, when one came to think of it, that the sun shone brilliantly down all the time, and lit up that ghostly but tangible atmosphere of snow till it became instinct with rings of prismatic coloring and sparkled as if it were a shower of fine diamonds. This is perhaps the one great redeeming feature in this great lone land in the long winter time—what indeed may be said to give it a life peculiarly its own, for were there no shading in nature's pictures then would the comparative effects of light and color be meaningless. No matter how the blizzard rages, no matter how the quicksilver sinks in the thermometer—30 degrees, 40 degrees, 50 degrees below zero—and over the silent and illimitable stretches of snowclad, windswept prairie Jack Frost securely reigns, the all enlivening and encircling sun generally shines down uninterruptedly from a cloudless sky through it all. Ghastly and desolate indeed would be that oceanlike surface of rolling prairie without its cheering rays; a shipless sea in a region of eternal twilight would not be more weirdly melancholy.

In Gabriel St. Denis' room the officer, the sergeant, the private and the scout passed the time as they best could. The officer and the scout had doubtless the best of the situation. The first mentioned was so happily constituted by nature that he never felt the leaden wings of time. He could, like a thought reader, when he wishes to receive an impression or a brain wave, allow his mind to become a perfect blank, in which he existed in an almost trancelike state. Generally speaking, this was Jamie's normal condition, only it needed no great exercise of will power on his part to arrive at this happy state—there were seldom any thoughts to get rid of in his brain. And as for receiving impressions—unless they were unpleasant ones—it would have required more than the hypothetical surgical operation associated with Scotsmen to inoculate him with one. It would have required some violent shock to the system—something of the nature of wood or iron brought in forcible contact with his bulletlike head—to arouse in him the faintest suspicion of intellectual activity. He would lie on his back, stretched on a buffalo robe in front of the stove, for hours at a stretch and gaze vacantly at the ceiling. The only part of the day in which he seemed to evince any interest was mealtime.

On the day of their coming the scout had been summoned to the kitchen by Jeannette shortly after midday, and coming back he had spread the table with a snow white cloth and brought in, much to Jamie's surprise and delight, a dish of hot potatoes, some cold venison, a dish of steaming and juicy bear steaks and a large dish of pancakes with maple sirup. On this occasion Jamie showed signs of returning consciousness such as he had never before been seen to exhibit. Moreover, he was heard to exclaim as he rubbed his hands together, "Well, I'm darned!" After this mental feat and for the next 20 minutes his mouth was too full to permit of his entertaining the company with any further exhibitions of his conversational powers. They all sat down at the same table together, for on the prairie this is the usual way. The meal passed in comparative silence; the sergeant seemed to be engrossed with his own thoughts, the officer's—if he had any—were concentrated upon the bear steaks, and the youthful trooper and the scout soon allowed the light and cheerful tone of banter in which they had at first indulged to gradually subside, for the sight of their officer's face had a depressing effect. At last the latter could eat no more, and rising from the table left the room to have a look at the horses in the stable.

A stable was to Jamie what a drawing room would have been to one of his more civilized brother officers. He felt literally at home in the stable; the absence of conventionality there and something in its very odor suggested congenial environment. He was in the habit of spending many hours, when he could manage it, with a straw in his mouth, surveying the equine race. He felt perfectly at ease in the company of horses.

On the occasion referred to, when he had left the room, Dick Townley, the private, laid down his knife and fork and for a few moments indulged in a quiet laugh. The sergeant asked him what was amusing him.

"I wonder when he's in the messroom at Regina," said the youth, referring to his departed superior, "if he eats with his knife as he does here, dips his fingers into the saltcellars and otherwise does so many extraordinary things? But I have forgotten—he is a married man, so don't suppose he will often honor the mess with his presence."

"You bet your boots," chimed in the little scout, who prided himself upon his superior manners. "When I down in Regina was once, the waiter in the officer's mess did in confidence communicate to me that on one occasion when monsieur was dining in the mess—the commissioner and a number of guests were there—he spilled his potage all over the table, used his fingers a la fourchette, and when those—finger glasses, I believe it is you will call them, were brought in he did stare upon them, and asked if there was going to be a christening match. Mon Dieu! These are pancakes magnifique."

"Oh, come now, you fellows," said the sergeant, who, however, could not conceal a smile, "your talk is of a highly treasonable nature. Why can't you leave your superior officer alone? By the way, we must not allow those women to send in food like this to us. It makes me feel horribly ashamed when I think of their kindness, considering our errand here; but, as the boss won't think of thanking them, I shall go in and do so myself later on. I wonder if we could annex a crosscut saw somewhere. I don't believe in burning other people's firewood for nothing, but I noticed an outhouse at the back. Perhaps we could get a few logs into it and cut up sufficient wood for the whole lot of us. In the meantime I'm going out to look after their cattle in the corral. I wonder if they have any water in their buckets in the next room. You might just go in and see, Pierre. I wonder which of the women made these pancakes? They are superb."

Here Dick Townley said, without looking up, however: "You needn't bother, Pierre. I filled their buckets some little time ago."

"Indeed! That was thoughtful of you," said the sergeant, somewhat surprised, and with an impenetrable smile.

"Why, what are you grinning at, Yorke?" pursued the irreverent youngster, with not a little annoyance showing in his voice. "Can't a fellow carry a bucket or two of water for a woman without you seeing something funny in it?"

"Oh, certainly, certainly; keep your coat on, my boy," was the answer, still with that odd smile. "I might have known that some one would be gallant enough to render a service in that direction. But you haven't told me what you think of Mlle. St. Denis yet, Dick. Don't you think a girl is bound to vegetate in such a place?"

Now, Dick Townley had no particular desire to discuss the merits of this girl with his comrade. He had somehow not thought the latter had sufficient interest in the fair sex to converse intelligently on such a momentous subject. His first impression, when he had seen Marie St. Denis, had been one of surprise and admiration at discovering such a rara avis in such an unlikely place. Certainly he had heard rumors regarding her good looks, but had ascribed them to the usual delusive talk peculiar to mounted policemen, who in their isolated position, by a law of nature, take every bird to be a jay and the plainest featured woman the personification of female loveliness. Moreover, after the, to him, flattering speech he had overheard the girl give utterance to, he had resolved to cultivate her acquaintance. Being only human, and not wanting in worldly wisdom, he had refrained from openly expressing his admiration of her, in case his superior might take it into his head to step in before him and spoil a projected and agreeable flirtation. It was, therefore, with not a little surprise he heard his usually reticent comrade ask him for his opinion of the girl. The ingenuous youth felt flattered and replied with an air of superior knowledge of the subject in question.

"Well, Yorke," he said, "since you've asked me for my opinion I'll give it you. I believe that girl's a brick, a regular little brick, and as good as she's good looking. I don't mean to say, either, that she's one of your milk and water sort, because I believe she's just as fond of a lark as any other girl. But where and how she has picked up her manners and style gets over me. Why, she would pass muster as a lady any day. I would not be surprised if there was a drop of good blood in her. She talks beautifully, and from her hands and feet to her teeth and eyes there is not one faulty point about her. So far as dress goes, though she is simplicity itself in those dainty little white collars and cuffs of hers, there are infinite possibilities. To use a rather hackneyed phrase, she is a prairie rose. But the flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la, have nothing to do with the case."

And as if to divert attention from his rather enthusiastic and somewhat rambling opinion he broke out into a well known Gilbertian rhyme.

The sergeant looked out of the window for a minute and smiled grimly. Then, as if impelled to say something, he said, in a tone that was meant to convey an impression of half heartedness in the subject, but was of a peculiar dryness and significance:

"And so she is a regular little brick, is she? And she is fond of a lark? In fact, as our superior officer would characteristically put it, she has several good points in her general get up. By Jove, Dick, she would feel flattered, I'm sure, if she could only hear your estimate of her. As for there being a strain of good 'blood' in her, as you remark—why, hang it, man"—and he turned suddenly from the window and faced the somewhat surprised youth—"talking about blood, did some of the names that even these half breeds have in this country never strike you? Don't you know that, generally speaking and in comparison with their numbers, there are more representatives of a noble and historical aristocracy in Canada than there are in France, though some of them are humble and poor enough now, goodness only knows? Now, just listen to a few of the names you meet with in this country—names that people have grown so familiar with that no one attaches any significance to them: St. Denis, St. Cloud, St. Arnaud, La Fontaine, L'Esperance, St. Croix, Xavier and many others. Why, the forefathers of some of those people our parvenus hardly know were noblemen long before William the Conqueror took a trip over to Anglia. As to who her mother was I neither know nor care. Jeannette, however, says she came of good stock. But while we are on this subject don't misunderstand me; if the girl's name were Smith or Robinson, she might still be every whit as much of a lady as she is now—the 'rank is but the guinea stamp,' after all, and is too often put on deuced inferior metal. But since you are on this racket I may say she bears a name that is as good as if not better than most borne by our English aristocracy, and you advance the speculation that she has a drop of good blood!"

He stopped abruptly and laughed in a silent and significant fashion. Then he continued, as if arguing the matter out with himself:

"No; the race that took a score of generations to develop hereditive traits and patrician graces cannot have altered so much in two or three generations, even although the lot of the latter has been a hand to hand struggle with adverse circumstances in a strange, new country and with stern surroundings."

Then, as if conscious that he had betrayed a little more interest and warmth in his treatment of the subject than there was any occasion for, he added, with rather a feeble laugh:

"But all this is unimportant, and I don't care a rap for one woman more than for another. But at the same time I can't help thinking it is a confounded shame of old St. Denis to tempt Providence and bring disgrace upon the girl as he is doing, knowing that she is breaking her heart over it all the time. There is nothing of the money grub about her that there is about the father; she is good hearted, sensitive and proud, and, by Jove, she has got the right metal in her too! I never saw Jamie get such a complete taking down before, not even when the late assistant commissioner snubbed him in the orderly room for trying to bully a corporal."

And here he broke off what for him was an unusually long speech and lit his pipe. He was unpleasantly conscious of the fact that his talk was becoming of a rather wild and personal nature. He was also aware of the fact that by saying he did not care for one woman more than for another he spoke as if he had been charged with so doing, when, indeed, nobody had dreamed of hinting at such a thing. But now the ill concealed look of surprise and significant silence of his comrade brought it home to him that he had betrayed an interest in Marie St. Denis which he wished to avoid expressing, far less feel.

But there is no royal immunity granted from the promptings of the human heart. Artificial surroundings and conventionalities may shield us from many wayward longings, but give the princess an opportunity of recognizing an affinity in the person of the plebeian, then all the laws and philosophy of man that ever have been or may be brought to bear in assisting to destroy the attachment so mysteriously formed cannot and never shall remove that unseen but potent bond that knits together two kindred souls. But there was no one going to interfere between Harry Yorke and any one whom he should chance to feel attracted by, unless, indeed, the impediments were of his own making.

But he made a common mistake in supposing that his own particular past and its experiences would make him proof against all emotional promptings in the future. His had been a natural enough if not a common experience. He had been brought up to better things than his station in life would now have indicated. He had enjoyed his brief but bright existence as a man of fashion and pleasure while it had lasted. But evil days, which come to most of us, came to him, and the only thing that would have saved him from ruin—marriage with a rich but proud girl—he had not the courage to essay. He told himself and truly that had he remained in his former independent position he would undoubtedly have asked her to marry him, even although she could show a sovereign for every shilling he could. But what other construction could the world possibly put on his conduct if he asked her to marry him, now he was penniless, than that it was purely sordid and mercenary? And what would the girl herself think? Perhaps about this time he began to regret that he had let so many golden opportunities slip, for he had really admired her. But it was too late; his pride was too strong for him, and he had left England without as much as saying goodby. In six months' time he heard that the heiress was married and incidentally he jeered at woman's inconsistency. Perhaps he did not know that the woman whom in particular he jeered at had hailed at first with almost satisfaction the news of his ruined prospects, for she had thought the gay world would not have the same hold on him and she might win a fuller share of his affections—indeed, she had been ready and waiting to accept him if he only brought a moiety of that desired love for her, and nothing else. She would win it all in time. But perhaps she had not understood him. She gave him every encouragement and sign of her preference consistent with a woman's modesty and self respect. But his overweening pride had blinded him, and he could not see things in their proper light. In an impulsive spirit, born of mortification and pique, she had married.

For some years, doubtless, his attitude toward women had been of a reprehensible and cynical nature. But latterly a more rational spirit had come to him, and he had seen clearly enough that he and not the woman had been in the wrong. But the experience had influenced him; perhaps not for the better in a worldly point of view, for it had deadened ambition in him and caused him to pass through life as if his highest object in it were merely the acquiring of strange and novel experiences. He thought he had done with the one great experience of life. He was not aware of the fact that he had deluded himself and that he had not really loved, for if he had he would either have married the heiress and snapped his fingers at what the world might think or else he would not have tamely submitted to a supposititious inevitable without making some endeavor to overcome it.

Doubtless the dawning of the truth upon him by the awakening of a feeling that he had not dreamed himself capable of brought home the accusation to him that in his concentration on self he had caused others to suffer. The natural laws of retributive justice may be slow, but they are sure. In the dawn of a new life that he struggled against he was haunted by the upbraiding shadows of an old one.

(First Publication December 19th, 1895.)

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Kristian Anderson, unmarried, of Polk County, Minnesota, as mortgagor, to the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, as mortgagee, which said mortgage bears date the 24th day of January, A. D. 1889, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1889, at 3:20 o'clock p. m., in book 53 of mortgages, on page 468.

Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of $400.00 payable five (5) years from the date of said mortgage, and interest at the rate of seven per centum (7%) per annum, payable semi-annually, according to the conditions of one (1) certain promissory note and ten (10) coupon interest notes thereto attached, all bearing even date with said mortgage.

And whereas the said the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, duly assigned said mortgage and note to the American Loan and Trust Company, a corporation, trustee, by written assignment dated December 5th, A. D. 1891, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book 69 of mortgages, on page 461.

And default has been made in the payment of said principal sum of $400, and the interest thereon since January 24th, 1890, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of $480.15, being the sum of $400 principal and $80.15 interest upon said mortgage indebtedness, and no proceedings at law or otherwise have been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the property therein described, lying and being situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: southeast quarter (SE¼) of section twenty-one (21); south half (S½) of the southwest quarter (SW¼) of section twenty-two (22); northwest quarter (NW¼) of the northwest quarter (NW¼) of section twenty-seven (27), in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-one (41) west, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold by the sheriff of said Polk County, Minnesota, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the county court house, in the City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, on Friday, the 7th day of February, A. D. 1890, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to pay and satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt thereby secured, together with the taxes (if any), the costs and expenses of this foreclosure, and the sum of twenty-five ($25.) dollars, attorney's fees as in said mortgage stipulated and agreed to be paid on foreclosure thereof.

Dated: Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 5th, A. D. 1895.

AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, Trustee,
Assignee of Mortgagee.
Angus G. Braden,
Attorney for Assignee,
300 Kasota Block,
2472GG Minneapolis, Minn. 602

(First Publication December 19th, 1895.)

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made, executed and delivered by Christiana Muller and Ernst Muller, her husband, of Polk County, Minnesota, as mortgagors, to the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, as mortgagee, which said mortgage bears date the 25th day of October, A. D. 1886, and was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for Polk County, Minnesota, on the 20th day of December, A. D. 1886, at 1 o'clock p. m., in book 30 of mortgages, on pages 1 to 3.

Said mortgage was given to secure the payment of $1000.00 payable five (5) years from the date of said mortgage, and interest at the rate of six per centum (6%) per annum, payable semi-annually, according to the conditions of one (1) certain promissory note and ten (10) coupon interest notes thereto attached, all bearing even date with said mortgage.

And whereas the said the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company, a corporation, duly assigned said mortgage and note to the American Loan and Trust Company, a corporation, trustee, by written assignment dated December 16th, A. D. 1891, and recorded in the office of said Register of Deeds in and for said County of Polk, Minnesota, on the 3rd day of July, A. D. 1893, at 10 o'clock a. m., in book 62 of mortgages, on page 389.

And default has been made in the payment of said principal sum of $1000, and the interest thereon since October 25th, 1893, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice the sum of $1126.60, being the sum of $1000 principal, and $126.66 interest upon said mortgage indebtedness, and no proceedings at law or otherwise have been had or instituted to recover the same or any part thereof.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and therewith recorded, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed and the property therein described, lying and being situate in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, to-wit: east half of the northwest quarter (E½ NW¼), and west half of the northeast quarter (W½ NE¼) of section ten (10), in township one hundred forty-eight (148) of range forty-six (46), west, containing one hundred and sixty (160) acres, according to the government survey thereof, will be sold by the sheriff of said Polk County, Minnesota, at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the county court house, in the City of Crookston, Polk County, Minnesota, on Friday, the 7th day of February, A. D. 1896, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to pay and satisfy the amount which will then be due on said mortgage and the debt thereby secured, together with the taxes (if any), the costs and expenses of this foreclosure, and the sum of fifty ($50.) dollars, attorney's fees as in said mortgage stipulated and agreed to be paid on foreclosure thereof.

Dated Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 5th, A. D. 1895.

AMERICAN LOAN AND TRUST COMPANY, Trustee,
Assignee of Mortgagee.
Angus G. Braden,
Attorney for Assignee,
300 Kasota Block,
2082GG Minneapolis, Minn.

Polk County Journal.

BY H. E. COOKE.

Devoted to the Welfare of Polk County

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One Dollar and Fifty Cents, if paid in advance to any address inside of Polk County. If outside of Polk County 15 cents must be added for postage. If not paid in advance $2 per annum to any address.

To Our Subscribers.

Those who have not responded to the bills sent out, we mean. Our annual statements were sent out in due time and many have responded but some have not, and it is very necessary that they should make some kind of a response to save trouble in the near future. We are preparing a list of the names of those from whom we have not been favored with a response, which list will be handed to a collector with positive instructions to collect at all hazards, as we do not feel like carrying any who do not feel sufficiently interested in their own business to at least ask us to do so. It will require some two weeks to make up this list; meantime all will have ample time to let us know what they intend to do, so no one will need have any trouble if they choose to avoid it. A word to the wise should be sufficient in this case, as we mean strictly business. We propose to hear from those long past due subscription accounts, and there is a way by which we can do so if we are forced to take it.

The war message—or something else knocked wheat silly last week and No. 1 hard was quoted in the market at 39—the lowest price on record.

You have heard a great deal about the "big feet" of certain residents of Chicago. In the light of the recent heavy rain-falls in that village the mystery is explained—a duck needs "big feet."

For some reason or other Ohio didn't seem to get many important committee places this term. Wonder if Tom Reed had any special reason for this? McKinley lives in Ohio and there be those who think he would make a pretty good sort of a president himself.

Wall Street suffered a slight spasm after the president's war message and just to keep the boys good natured Grover sent in another message recommending another bond issue. Congress should take steps to place our currency upon a basis that will permit of no such jugglery as the present system admits of.

Ben Harrison gets more for his article to young ladies on "How to Run the Country" than ever before paid to any writer for an article. Uncle Sam once paid him a salary in the same line. Ben ought to be well satisfied with what this country has done for him. If he had not once been president his magazine article would not have sold so well.

The Alexandria Post-News says: "It is said that Bronson Strain, of the Battle Lake Review, will be a candidate for the legislature from Otter Tail county."

Well, that accounts for it. We noticed a line picture of him last week in the War Cry, the official organ of the Salvation army. We could not imagine what he was up to.

Russia comes to the front with an offer to loan Uncle Sam $400,000,000 in gold, also a fleet should the old gentleman require such aid in a possible altercation with England. This will have a great effect in the settlement of the Venezuelan controversy and makes the prospects of war very remote. England already begins to crawfish on her financial policy.

The speaker of the House has announced his committees and Minnesota seems to "stand in" with Tom, as she gets placed on some very important committies. Eddy, of the Seventh, is on Mines and Mining and Indian Affairs. Fletcher might have had any committee he desired and he chose to remain on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, he is also on the committee for Agricultural expenditures. Tawney is on Ways and Means; McCleary on Banking and Currency and Heatwole on Foreign Affairs.

The Hayward confession, as given in the Minneapolis Times' extra, reads too much like a fairy tale for one to take much stock in it and it is thought that his "confessions" of murder committed (all except the Ging affair) are made up out of whole cloth. He confessed to having murdered a girl at Passadena, Col., and at that place no such girl as he described is, or ever was known—and the whole business, from beginning to end, reads like a tissue of lies and was evidently gotten up with the idea of making money for his father. When his father refused to humor the whim then Harry gave it to his cousin to make what he could out of it.

SWEET
CAPORAL
TRADE MARK
MILD & EXTRA FINE
Kinney Bros
THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY, SUCCESSOR.
NEW YORK U.S.A.

ABSOLUTELY PURE
THE OLD RELIABLE
SWEET CAPORAL
CIGARETTE
Has stood the Test of Time
MORE SOLD THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED

To Journal readers one and all the Journal's wish is a Happy and prosperous New Year.

Chicago took another ducking last week. Some of her "fortunate" citizens were obliged to seek quarters in upper stories of their houses to "get in out of the wet." Well if Chicago will persist in living in Chicago we can do nothing for her but pity her—she should come to the Red River Valley where such things do not occur—in winter.

Congressman Fletcher, at home for the holidays, says that the only objection he has to the president's message is that it was a little too previous—that he ought to have held it back till Uncle Sam had had a chance to place the new bond issue, or at least until the yearly settlements in the commercial world had been made. Fletcher has a long head and comes pretty near talking practical common-sense.

The year of 1895, with its record fully complete, will have passed into history before another issue of the Journal. And what a year it has been to many who have seen life's dearest treasures removed to that better world and their present life seems a blank not worth the exertion necessary to retain. To others the loss of wealth will make the year memorable in all their future history, while many who entered upon the year with high hopes, with perfect health and with every inducement and prospect for a long and useful life have been called to give up their life and go forward into the untried future. To farmers in the Red River Valley it will pass into history as one of the greatest crop years in the history of the Valley—the year when two bushels to one of former yields is the rule and not the exception—and also the year in which wheat reached the lowest notch in this market in its history. Very few will regret to see it pass into history and all will hope that the new year, 1896, near at hand, will prove far kinder, far better, to the average human being. To this wish the Journal adds: "So mote it be."

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

Addrss, F. J. CHENEY & CO.,
Toledo. O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Frank Bivins & Son received a thorough-bred registered Shropshire ram, from Allegan, Michigan last Friday. For several years they have been carefully grading up their flock until there is now no finer in Polk county. This animal cost a good round figure—spoils a hundred dollar bill, but is worth all he cost them. They act upon the theory that the best is none too good.

All who enjoyed the entertainment at the Grand on Saturday evening speak very highly of it. The New York Ideals are great. Ole Bull and Remenyi may be greater violinists than Carl Hermann—but Hermann is better than Jennings as an all-round violinist and he was encored to the echo. E. H. Meade personated Bill Nye to perfection both in style and make up and he was a hot favorite with all but Steenerson—who thought he was too personal. The Ideals would get a good house if they come again.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C. Dec. 20, 1895.

When Mr. Cleveland is right he can always count not only upon the support of the Republicans in congress, but upon being pushed along by them. He was right when he wrote that ringing message to congress, informing England and the world that the Monroe doctrine was the fixed policy of the United States and would be maintained by fighting, if necessary, and the Republicans in congress quickly responded by giving him the authority he asked for the appointment of a commission to investigate and report to congress the correct boundary line between British Guiana and Venezuela and appropriating the money to pay the expenses of the commission, and not satisfied with doing all that Mr. Cleveland asked the Republicans went further and took the first step towards preparing for a war with England by introducing simultaneously in house and senate a bill appropriating $100,000,000, to be immediately available for strengthening our coast defenses and those along the Canadian border. If that be jingoism let England make the most of it.

When it comes to a question of national patriotism the Republicans do not stop to consider that Mr. Cleveland is a Democrat and that a war with England may result in greatly strengthening the tottering Democratic party. The Republican party now as ever puts national honor before everything else. What if Mr. Cleveland did profit by a study of the language of his patriotic Republican predecessor. The principle was right when it was promulgated by Benjamin Harrison and equally right when promulgated by Grover Cleveland. The Republicans supported Benjamin Harrison when he so vigorosly defended our national honor and they are now supporting Grover Cleveland for doing the same thing. It has always been the belief of Republicans that patriotism should ever come before partisanship, and they will support Mr. Cleveland as long as he is right just as loyally as if he were a Republican.

Gov. Lowndes, of Maryland was given a banquet by some of his Washington friends this week. He assured them of his belief that Maryland was in the Republican column to stay, and his intention to see that honest election machinery was maintained throughout the state.

Hon. Taylor Beattie, of La., who is contesting the seat of Representative Price in the House, says of the political situation in his state: "I think the conditions are ripe for the overthrow of Democracy. The Democrats are divided. At heart nearly all of them are believers in a protective tariff and they know that their real interest lies with the Republicans. A large number of them have already gone over to the Republican party. With their aid and that of the Populists the Republicans could carry the state next year, provided they are accorded a fair count. We have an abominable registration law that gives the dominant party unlimited opportunity for fraud. Our people are getting very weary of dishonest election methods, and many of the best men in the Democratic party say the odious system should be abolished."

The following are the Republican chairmen of the Senate committees, as reported by the caucus committee and approved by the caucus: Proctor, of Vt., Agriculture; Allison, of Iowa, Appropriations; Chandler, of N. H., Census; Pritchard, of N. C., Civil Service; Teller, of Col., Claims; Squier, of Washington, Coast Defenses; Frye, of Me., Commerce; McMillan, of Mich., District of Columbia; Shoup, of Idaho, Education and Labor; Sewell, of N. J., Enrolled Bills; Morrill, of Vt., Finance; Perkins, of Kansas, Fisheries; Sherman, of Ohio, Foreign Relations; Lodge, of Mass., Immigration; Nelson, of Minn., Improvement of Mississippi River; Pettigrew, of S. D., Indian Affairs; Wilson, of Wash., Indian Depredation; Cullom, of Ills., Interstate Commerce; Warren, of Wyo., Irrigation; Hoar, of Mass., Judiciary; Hansbrough, of N. D., Library; Wetmore, of R. I., Manufactures; Hawley, of Conn., Military; Cameron, of Pa., Naval; Gear, of Iowa, Pacific Railroads; Platt, of Conn., Patents; Gallinger, of N. H., Pensions, Wolcott, of Col., Postoffices; Hale, of Me., Printing; Quay, of Pa., Public Buildings; Dubois, of Idaho, Public Lands; Clark, of Mont., Railroads; Carter, of Mont., Relations with Canada; Burrows, of Mich., Revision of Laws; Aldrich, of R. I. Rules; Davis, of Minn., Territories; McBride, of Wyo., Transportation Routes; Thurston, of Neb., International Expositions; Elkins, of W. Va., Geological Survey; Mantle, of Mont., National Banks; Baker, of Kans., Trespassers on Indian Lands and McMillan, of Mich., Ford's Theatre Disaster. The Populists were given four chairmanships of standing committees and two of select committees, and the Democrats the chairmanships of five standing committees and of seven select committees.

Senator Call, of Fla., has at last succeeded in getting the Senate to adopt a resolution providing for an investigation of the senatorial election of Florida, and the influences of corporations therein. The resolution was amended to make the investigation general, and by the Senate committee on elections, instead of by a special committee. Senator Call claims to be able to produce startling evidence against certain corporations. He tried to get the resolution through at the last session, but failed.

Congress is supposed to reassemble on January 3, but it is doubtful whether a quorum will be here before Monday, the 6th, unless something startling shall occur before then.

FOSSTON ITEMS.

(From the Thirteen Towns.)

Two residents of Rosebud, noted for their sobriety, who live but a few miles from town, met each other last Friday night on their way home, but nether one on their right road. They of course consoled one another, each secretly pitying the other for being so far gone. However, they continued to look for their respective homes, eventually coming out all right.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Robt. Morrison left for Crookston this morning with John Smith, formerly a teamster employed in the lumber camps, and witneses against him. He is charged with introducing liquor on the reservation.

Brakesman Wheeler had two fingers crushed between the cars Wednesday evening shortly after the train came in.

It is definitely stated that workmen will arrive here in a few days to erect a two stall round house for the engines while stopping at this end of the line.

A. M. Silver and Chas, Holt of Crookston, returned from an excursion to Bemidji Wedensday afternoon. They say that the new city is being built up rapidly notwithstanding the fact that no lots are as yet being sold. It is now supplied with two good hotels and two general stores. Although so far out in the wilds and away from the railroads it has a millinery establishment and a taxidermist's shop. A saw mill located there is running night and day and cannot keep up with the demand for lumbr, for building purposes.

Fertile Items.

[From the Journal]

Gus Felsing will run a feed mill at Woodside this winter.

D, Nelson was in town the latter part of last week, returning to Fargo Sunday night.

Chris Wilson and Freddy and Ernest Barholz were in Crookston yestarday.

J. F, Hetler, principal of the Fisher school, visited friends in Fertile last Friday night.

The pay car passed up the road Wednesday filling the hearts of the railroad boys with happiness.

John Holton was seen walking from his store to his residence last night with a pair of scales under his arm, and wanted us to guess on the weight of a new arrival at his home. It's a girl and all concerned are doing well.

F. Sankey has rented the Stromsmo building and will put in a restaurant and lunch counter in connection with his other business. The building is being remodeled and painted and when finished Fertile can boast of having a first-class restaurant.

St. Hilaire Items.

[From the Spectator.]

H. F. Brown and Felix Fournet, of Crookston, were doing business in tow tonday,

The Great Northern has been furnishing plenty of cars the past week, every train bringing in thirty or more empties. So far however they have been unable to haul out the loads and loaded cars have had to remain over. One evening the train went out with twenty seven loaded cars besides the two coaches and more to pick up at Wylie, every seat in the coaches were full. Will we get a daily train, do you say? Oh no? if we will only get an extra, Daily trains do not pay where there is no competition. They may have to run our trains in two or three sections but a daily, never!

Postmaster Hoff has been making some improvements on the inside of his building.

Co. Supt. of schools McCrills and Ass't Supt. Gouler was visiting the schools in this vicinity the first of the week.

E. J. Holmes received a telegram from Cannon Falls last Monday announcing that he was the father of a bouncing boy.

THIEF RIVER FALLS ITEMS

[From the Press.]

F. A. Grady is down with an attack of the measles.

County Supt. McCrillis, was visiting schools in this vicinity several days this week.

Mrs. D. Conelly departed Wednesday for a winter's visit with relatives and friends in Canada.

Banker Ellington was in the city a short time Wednesday looking after affairs at the Polk County Bank.

Sheriff Steenerson and Deputy Johnson, were in the city several days the first of the week transacting legal business.

Chief Douglas received word a few days ago from Mr. J. C. Harmon that Mrs. Harmon died on Saturday last at their home in Chippewa Falls Wis.

Deputy Grand Consul. W, A. Case, of Warren, instituted a camp of the Modern Woodman of America in this city last Friday evening. The new society starts in under the most flattering auspices and has a charter membership of twenty-one.

Maple Bay Items.

Our merchant has a good trade.

Travel is fine on the lake now.

An immense amount of wood has been hauled already this winter.

N. S. Byington left last week for Plymouth, Iowa to spend the winter with friends.

Two surprise parties last week, one at the residence of Rev. S. Sorensen, and the other to Rev. N. E. Wikre. With music, speeches, a good supper n pleasant time was had at both places.

A Christmas tree in the Maple Bay church, in the evening, with plenty of good things there-on.

The Misses Horton, Moen, and Hunter spent Christmas at home.

EUCLID ITEMS.

G. W. Hunt, of Pender, Neb., arrived Friday morning to spend a few days with his mother at the home of C. E. Harrington.

Misses Ida and Anna Hancock returned from Fargo and Fergus Falls Saturday to spend their Christmas vacation.

Dr. and Mrs. Chapin drove to Warren Saturday to spend the day with B. S. Chapin who is suffering from an attack of typhoid fever.

Miss Emma Woodall returned Saturday morning from Crookston, where she has been engaged in the public schools.

Rev. Adams, of Minneapolis, spent a few hours in town one day last week.

Rev. Rose, of Canada, delivered an interesting sermon at the church Sunday last. Rev. Rose is here with a view of locating among us and holding regular Sunday services between here and Angus.

Rev. A. C. Pettit, of Fisher, was over the fore part of the week attending to church business.

Will Davidson came home from Grand Forks Saturday to spend Christmas with his parents. Will has been attending the Grand Forks college at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stephens came over from McIntosh Monday morning and visited with the family of A. H. Petkin until Wednesday evening, when they departed for their home at Alexandria.

Among the Euclidites at Crookston Monday were H. C. Misner and son, Harvey, Mrs. J. S. Chapin, Lillie Losey and Dennis Losey.

Mr. Wm. Davidson attended a meeting of the Masonic lodge at Crookston Monday evening.

Miss Mary Useldinger is very seriously ill with typhoid fever.

D. E. Faleweather is improving as rapidly as could be expected, but is still in a critical condition.

Miss Hattie Davidson returned Tuesday morning from Wylie where she had been teaching.

Miss Ollie Tiedt came down from Argyle Monday evening to visit with friends and relatives.

Elling Olson spent Christmas with friends near Argus.

Mrs. H. C. Misner served a Christmas dinner to the carpenters and workmen on the new residence.

Marvin Losey is up from Crookston attending to business for Messrs. Miller & Foote.

Covered With Sores.

Otsego, Minn., Nov. 7, 1895. I had a very bad eruption all over my body especially on my head, arms and limbs. My head was almost a solid scab, and I had to wear bandages when sleeping. I have been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and the sores have now entirely disappeared.
J. L. Pepin.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion.

Go to the California wine house for choice wines and liquors for medicinal purposes. 1(5)

Grand California Excursion!

A California Excursion of Business and Professional Men will leave Chicago and St. Paul Thursday, January 2, and February 6, 1896, in Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific Railways, via Omaha and Ogden, for Sacramento, San Francisco, San Jose, Monterey, Los Angeles, and the Fruit Districts of California. Best of company, lowest possible Tourist rates; Tourist Sleeper—double berth (room for two persons)—from Chicago or St. Paul to San Francisco, $6.00. If you are going as a tourist, or to settle in California, take this train, and you will have the best of company and comfort. Sleeping car berths should be engaged at once. Send orders for berth, with cash, to F. H. Thorn, City Ticket Agent C. M. & St. P. Ry., 365 Robert St., St. Paul; Minn., or C. N. Souther, City Ticket Agent of C. M. St. P. Ry., 95 Adams street, Chicago, Ill.

For further particulars and circulars apply to nearest Ticket Agent or address S. Sherin, Excursion Manager, Palmer House, Chicago. Ill.
[35-42

The Grand Forks Packing House on DeMers Ave., will pay the highest cash price for hogs. Having greatly enlarged facilities I am now prepared to cure meats for farmers as heretofore. Call and see me when in Grand Forks
[35-tf] Rob't. Stanton,
Manager.

Colds and Grip.

Colds and Grip are one and the same thing. Dr. Humphreys' Specific "77" cures them both. For sale by all Druggists.

Mrs. Mary A. Walworth died suddenly sometime between 12 o'clock Monday night and 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. She retired in apparent good health on Monday night and at 12 o'clock was conversing with her husband cheerfully, soon afterward going to sleep. Upon awaking in the morning her husband found she was dead. She had been taking care of her sister, Mrs. Smith, a great deal of late, but seemed in perfect health for a woman of 70. She was sister to Frank Bevins, and leaves also one son and a daughter to mourn her loss.

PRAISE, ONLY,
FROM ALL WHO USE
AYER'S
Hair Vigor

"Ayer's preparations are too well known to need any commendation from me; but I feel compelled to state, for the benefit of others, that six years ago, I lost nearly half of my hair, and what was left turned gray. After using Ayer's Hair Vigor several months, my hair began to grow again, and with the natural color restored. I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. E. Frankhauser, box 305, Station C, Los Angeles, Cal.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR PREPARED BY
DR. J. C. AYER & CO., LOWELL, MASS.

Manifold Disorders

Are occasioned by an impure and impoverished condition of the blood. Slight impurities, if not corrected, develop into serious maladies such as

SCROFULA,
ECZEMA,
RHEUMATISM

and other troublesome diseases. To cure these is required a safe and reliable remedy free from any harmful ingredients, and purely vegetable. Such is S.S.S. It removes all impurities from the blood and thoroughly cleanses the system. Thousands of cases of the worst forms of blood diseases have been

Cured by S. S. S.

Send for our Treatise mailed free to any address
SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Items of Local Interest--Personal Mention--Society Doings, Etc.

See those artics at the Fair store.

See that handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

Ladies' fast black fleece lined hose only 25c a pair at The Fair.

Try your luck on the handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

$2.50 buys a $4.00 suit of men's fleece-lined underwear at The Fair.

Mrs. J. Draper of Red Lake Falls was visiting friends in the city last week.

Silverware, the finest line and lowest prices at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

Everybody is agreed that December weather has been exceedingly fine this year.

Take a look at that doll at O. & L. Gonyea's that somebody is going to get for nothing.

Miss May Sharkey, of Floyd, Iowa, arrived last week for a visit with her brother, C. A.

August Wentzel was up from the farm near Fisher on Saturday doing some Christmas trading.

An endless profusion of toys and candy till you can't rest, (if you eat it all) at O. & L. Gonyea's.

A handsome line of mantel clocks at Tom Morris' jewelry store. Call and see how cheap they are.

Deacon Bain was up from Fisher shaking hands with Santa Claus—and his friends, last week.

When looking for holiday goods don't overlook Tom Morris' elegant stock of jewelry and silverware.

Whoever has the greatest number of tickets when the tickets are all sold gets the beautiful doll at O. & L. Gonyea's.

A piano lamp may be had for one cent--if you get the combination. Go and see Tom Morris and let him explain this mystery to you.

If you invest your money for confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's you are liable to get the beautiful doll. Drop in and see her.

You can save money on all purchases in jewelry and silverware by calling at Tom Morris' jewelry store and pricing his immense stock.

One more piano lamp to go in the same way that the first one did. Call and see Tom Morris, who will tell you how its done.

See that handsome doll at O. & L. Gonyea's and enter the race for it. Worth double what it will cost even if it will cost twice what it is worth.

The Fair store is right in it for all kinds of novelties appropriate for the season. You will miss it if you fail to call in and see their fine display.

Ole Bjoin has his stables so nearly completed that he takes possession this week. He will have one of the finest barns in the city when completed.

A pleasant hop was that at the G. A. R. hall on Friday evening. Just enough present not to be crowded. That little hall is busy nearly every evening in the week except Sunday.

Geo. Vine purchased over 60,000 pounds of pork for the packing house last week and says he is in the market for all that is offered. He thinks he can handle all that comes without any bother.

Rev. James Moody was in from St. Hilaire on Saturday last doing some shopping and dropped in to make the JOURNAL man happy by a renewal of his subscription for the coming year.

Monday was a bright, beautiful day and the holiday trade was booming all day long. The big Christmas stocks were pretty well reduced—and the clerks were all glad to see dark come.

If your address shows that you are way behind on the JOURNAL it will not cost you much trouble to drop us a line, and will be liable to if we do not hear from you in some way soon. "A word to the wise, etc."

S. E. Chapin informs the JOURNAL that he expects to start for Arizona about the middle of January with a car load or so of possible settlers for his new townsite—Phœnix. The most of 'em will be back before spring, no doubt.

The streets on Saturday presented a very busy appearance and the trade in Christmas goods was lively. The day was mild and pleasant and hundreds of farmers took advantage of the mild weather to come in and make their preparations for Christmas.

Charlie Thomas and Mat Dauser have been busy for a week fitting up the room under the First National bank, recently occupied by Hawkins & Co. as a bicycle hospital, for a barber shop. Charlie says they will have all of the modern improvements when they get fairly started.

"One Price and that Right."

LAST AND GREAT'ST

With the waning year the merchandise story grows intense. Holiday inspiration brings joyous vitality into trade. Each day from now until Christmas will reveal some new line of goods at special prices. We have to crowd on steam during the few days; trade must move at a liveller pace. Goods must go and dollars must come even if prices are clipped to a point were profit vanishes.

The Ladies' Furs. Gentlemen's Furs. The Cloaks. The Dress Goods' The Underwear. The Hosiery. The Underskirts. The Mittens. The Woolen Headwear. The Flannels. All share in the liberal reductions made to reduce stock.

FONTAINE & ANGLIM

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY and GLASSWARE.
BOOTS & SHOES.

RUB A DUB DUB, THREE MAIDS AT THE TUB.

ALL USING SANTA CLAUS SOAP.

MILLIONS DO THE SAME.

Sold everywhere. Made only by

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
CHICAGO..

Mrs. J. O. McWaters was in from the farm on Friday of last week, transacting business connected with her late husband's estate.

Salve Knudson, of Grand Forks was in the city on Friday, on his way to McIntosh and Fosston to spend the holidays with friends, and dropped in to see where the JOURNAL is printed. He has been a constant reader of the JOURNAL for nine years and says it has become a household necessity.

Col. Cobham Post No. 90, G. A. R., held its regular session on Friday evening and after the opening services took a recess till Monday evening Dec. 23rd to await the appearance of Inspector J. B. Ashelman, of Ada. The ladies of the W. R. C. put in an appearance soon after recess had been ordered and the evening was pleasantly passed in social converse and cards. These social features will be observed during the balance of the winter.

M. R. Brown has 35 or 40 head of steers in his stables this winter and he will thus utilize some of the cheap feed the farmers have raised this fall. He has been quietly picking up these animals for the past month. When first put into his nice warm stables they were in rather poor condition, none of them used to handling and were thus a wild unruly lot. The first greeting he gives a steer when he gets him into the stable is to saw his horns off—and make him perfectly at home. By the system he has adopted Mr. Brown knows the exact weight of each animal when first put in the stable and when he is sent to the block, thus he knows in each individual case the exact profit for he also knows the cost of feeding. Just now he is feeding them shorts, hay and straw. The animals are mostly grades of all breeds, and they begin to show the effects of good care and attention the very first week.

Raymond, the 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Burhhardt, died suddenly in a fit about 4 o'clock on Thursday morning. The lad had been a cripple from birth and was subject to fits, was seized by one and died.

N. H. Root went up to Warren on Tuesday to work in Bi Chapin's shop while Bi is enjoying a siege of typhoid fever.

HURRAH For The HOLIDAYS!!!
Nothing too Good for Christmas

Make as Many HAPPY
AS YOU CAN

With bountiful selections from our

GRAND HOLIDAY STOCK.

ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES

Watches, Clocks, Diamonds, Gold Pen and Holders, Opera Glasses, Souvenir Spoons, Gold Rings, Gold and Silver Thimbles, Charms, Chains, Cuff Buttons, Scarf Pins, Spectacles, Violins, Accordeons, etc., etc.

Come and See the Elegant Display at

SAAKE'S JEWELRY STORE.

H. A. JOHNSON. WE PAY DRAFTS ON BILL LADING AND WILL MAKE PROMPT RETURNS. O. M. OMLIE.

H. A. JOHNSON & CO.,

GRAIN COMMISSION.

We Sell Wheat to Mills by Sample. We Want all the Barley you have got.

Room 55 Board of Trade,
WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.

Room 506 Corn Exchange,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

—REFERENCES:—

Northwestern National Bank,
West Superior, Wis.

First National Bank,
Grafton National Bank,
Grafton, N. Dak.

Russell & Miller Milling Co.
West Superior, Wis.

CANADIAN EXCURSIONS

via Northern Pacific Railroad

To

Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick

Vestibuled Trains Dining Cars

From Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st inclusive, the Northern Pacific will sell Canadian Excursion Tickets,

Good for Three Months from date of sale. Stop-overs subject to Regulations of lines over which Tickets read, will be given.

Tickets will be extended upon payment of additional sums as follows:

15 Days - - - $5.00 | 30 Days - - - $10.00
45 Days - - - $15.00 | 60 Days - - - $20.00

☞ Tickets will be sold to Points as far East as MONTREAL for $40.00

For a Single Fare from Montreal added to the $40.00 rate, Tickets will be sold to Points in Quebec east of Montreal, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Call on any Agent of the Northern Pacific R. R., for further information.

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

34-37)

Holiday novelties at The Fair.

Buy your artics at The Fair.

Miss Lillie Losey was down from Euclid on Monday

W. J. Hammond was up from Fisher on Saturday.

Mrs. I. W. C. Misner was in from Euclid on Saturday.

Lew Freeman was over from Grand Forks on Saturday.

C. H. Holmes and wife were in the city from Holmes on Saturday.

Louis Filiatrault and wife are spending the holidays in Duluth.

Conductor Jack Ward is reported ill with erysiplas at Grand Forks.

Rev. Samuel Garborg held services at Minerva hall on Sabbath day.

Louis Gonyea was a good bit under the weather on Sunday.

Will McManus was in the city on Monday chatting with old time friends.

Rev. Dr. Hanson was visiting his former parishioners in Moorhead last week.

Mrs. E. H. Bliss is visiting friends in Minneapolis during the holiday season.

Prof. Dewart spends his holiday vacation at his old home in Northfield.

Mrs. Bert Bivins was down from Stephen last week, visiting friends in the city.

T. E. Clyesdale and wife are spending the holidays at Mr. C's old home in Ontario.

Dr. M. Leguee was called to Wylie on Saturday to attend to the needs of sick horses.

Ed Ralston talks of taking a trip to Brainerd to visit his father and family shortly.

If you purchase your confectionery at O. & L. Gonyea's you are liable to get the doll.

The finest line of jewelry and silverware for the holidays at Tom Morris' jewelry store.

Jens Arbach, charged with grand larceny was bound over to the Grand Jury on Monday.

Wheat opened the week at 39 cents gaining one cent by Tuesday morning. Not very encouraging that.

Mrs. J. H. Palmer came down from Angus Friday on her way to the old home in Hudson, Wis., for a visit.

H. C. Misner and son Harvey drove down from Euclid on Monday to see if they could discover Santa Claus.

Prof. H. Carlyle came up this week and went out to Fosston to superintend putting in the new creamery there.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bradshaw have been called upon to mourn the loss of their two-year-old boy, who died on Monday.

The Christian Endeavor social at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cahoon on Friday evening was an enjoyable affair.

The Congregational sociable was held at the residence of Mrs. N. P. Stone on Friday evening. The proceeds were to be devoted to the Christmas tree.

Dr. Dampier went down to Fargo last week to see the sights and enjoy the Masonic festivities which were indulged in.

Have you attended to that JOURNAL subscription? We are doing all we can to save trouble for our old-time friends, but we must know how you are fixed shortly.

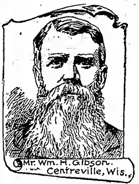
Elling Knudson is suffering an attack of paralysis and is in a very precarrious condition. His friends hope for the best results.

It is odd that the people will all flock to Tom Morris' jewelry store and not so "odd" either when you see that entchy display of jewelry and silverware he has on exhibition

Christmas day was rather cold and quiet as to outside appearances here but joy and mirth prevailed around the many hearthstones and everybody was duly merry. Christmas eve the various churches were decorated and the regulation christmas tree was largely in evidence gladdening the hearts of the children.

Ole Jevning was up from Neby on Monday and made the JOURNAL happy by a paid-up subscription one year ahead. Ole is one of the first subscribers to the JOURNAL way back in '77 or thereabouts, and is one of the kind who likes to have his paper address show advance payment. That's the kind of friends to have—the kind who are the life of a paper. Says his crop was excellent, but he can't say as much for the prices paid for wheat this fall.

Tollef Hoveland was in the city on Monday from his farm in Fairfax and dropped in to renew for the JOURNAL one year. He said: "Although I was hailed out again this summer I don't like to get along without the JOURNAL's weekly visits and I always enjoy reading it better when it is paid for in advance. Then I know it is my own and I feel more independent. If anybody has to wait on me I don't like it to be the newspaper man, who, as a rule, has to work early and late, more hours during the year than we farmers do."



Mr. Wm. H. Gibson. Centreville, Wis.

Renewed in Strength

After the Grip—Liver Troubles, Acute Rheumatism

"For a long time I was suffering from the grip, which terminated with a severe attack of congestion of the liver. I also had rheumatism, being so lame as to be unable to do any hard work, and could only walk short distances. My attention was called to Hood's Sarsaparilla by the druggists and after taking some seven or eight bottles I found myself quite renewed in strength, my rheumatism was gone entirely and I have never had serious trouble with my liver since. My physician also advised the continuance of Hood's Sarsaparilla." WILLIAM H. GIBSON, Centreville, Wis.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

Warm slippers at The Fair.

Next Sunday morning at the Congregational church Rev. Mr. Fisher's subject will be "Eternity." The evening's subject—"Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find."

Ask your druggist for Dr. J. H. McLean's Medical Almanac for 1896, containing the celebrated Storm Prophet, Professor Irl R. Hicks' weather predictions, furnished free.

The body of A. W. Stebbins was brought from Thief River Falls on Monday's train enroute to his former home for burial. He was an Odd-Fellow and the Lodge here turned out to meet the body and take care of it while here.

C. W. Motz has received intelligence of the the death of his wife's brother, Martin Rasmussen, who lived at Davenport, Iowa. Mr. R. was a brother of Herman Rasmussen who died here last summer with consumption.

A private letter from Mr. Albert Hopkins' folks in Duluth informs us that typhoid fever is prevalent in that city and their little daughter Hazel is very sick with the fever. Their many friends here will sympathize and hope for a favorable outcome.

Orders for the JOURNAL premium portraits have been coming in at a lively rate for the past week. These portraits are giving great satisfaction—and well they may for they are first-class work that heretofore has not cost less than $8 each—our readers get them practically for nothing. If you have a photo that you would like to have enlarged call and see us, or write for terms.

Great Christmas Bargains

FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

Suits & Overcoats

For Childran from 4 to 14.

Former Price $4, $5, $6 and $7,

Now Only

$3

Also Some For 90cts.

Latest Styles in Gents' Neckwear for the Holidays at the ☞

Boston One Price Clothing House.
MOSSEFIN & LINDELL Props.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

When Your CAKE Is All Dough

When your cake is heavy, soggy, indigestible, it's a pretty sure sign that you didn't shorten it with COTTOLENE. When this great shortening is rightly used, the result will surely satisfy the most fastidious. Always remember that the quality of COTTOLENE makes a little of it go a long way. It's willful waste to use more than two-thirds as much as you would of lard or butter. Always use COTTOLENE this way, and your cake and pastry will always be light, wholesome, delicious.

Genuine COTTOLENE is sold everywhere in tins, with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,
CHICAGO.

BROWN,

The Cigar Man,

Invites attention to a choice line of CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Manufactory On Second St., Opposite Reckitt Block.

DON'T FAIL TO GET MY PRICES.

H. F. BROWN,
Crookston, Minn.

S. L. Collins,

Proprietor of Main Street

LIVERY AND FEED STABLES

Cor. Main and Fourth Sts., west side.

CROOKSTON, - - MINNESOTA.

Horses bought and sold on commission. Everything neat and nobby. Feeding a specialty.

Complexion Preserved
DR. HEBRA'S
VIOLA CREAM

Removes Freckles, Pimples, Liver-Moles, Blackheads, Sunburn and Tan, and restores the skin to its original freshness, producing a clear and healthy complexion. Superior to all face preparations and perfectly harmless. At all druggists, or mailed for 50cts. Send for circular.

VIOLA SKIN SOAP is simply incomparable as a skin purifying Soap, unequaled for the toilet, and without a rival for the nursery. Absolutely pure and delicately medicated. At druggists. Price 25 Cents.

The G. C. BITTNER CO., Toledo, O.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of the sum of Three hundred and twelve and 22-100 dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Andreas J. Mensen, unmarried, mortgagor, to United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, mortgagee, bearing date the Sixth day of October, A. D. 1891, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Polk and State of Minnesota, on the 23d day of October, A. D. 1891, at two o'clock P. M., in Book 57 of Mortgages, on pages 281 and 282, and there are no other payments to become due upon said mortgage.

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America mortgagee, to J. Jorgenson by written assignment dated the 2nd day of November, A. D. 1895, and recorded in the office of the said Register of Deeds on the 16th day of November, A. D. 1895, at 11:20 o'clock A. M., in Book 76 of Mortgages, on pages 12 and 13 and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The Northwest Quarter of Section Two (2), in Township One Hundred and Forty Eight (148) Range Forty-five (45), in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, said lands being also described as the South Half of said quarter section and lots three (3) and four (4) of the same, with the hereditaments and appurtenances, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the third day of January, A. D. 1896, at ten o'clock A. M. of that day, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 18th, 1895.

J. JORGENSON,
32-38] Assignee of Mortgage.
Wm. Watts, attorney for assignee of mortgage.

The National Tribune,

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

The Only Great Paper Published at the National Capital.

is now publishing

"MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA,"

by Maj.-Gen. O. O. Howard, who commanded the Army of the Tennessee in that great achievement. It is a splendid contribution to history, and beings with the occupation of Atlanta and continues to the Grand Review at Washington.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE has more distinguished contributors than any other paper in the country.

Send for "STATISTICS OF THE WAR" "LINCOLN'S WORDS," and "MISCELLANEOUS MEMORANDA." They are pamphlets containg matters of great value and interest in the history of the war. Price 5 cents each.

PRICE $1 A YEAR—2 CENTS A WEEK

Send for Sample Copies. Samples Free.

THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE,
Washington, D. C.

H BURKHARDT, Proprietor. R. C. BURKHARDT, Business Manager

CLEVELAND HOUSE

CROOKSTON, MINN.

THIS HOTEL has been Enlarged and Thoroughly Overhauled. Only first-class Dollar a Day House in the city. Good Sample Room in connection.

No. 323 Main street, Crookston, Minn.

CITY BARBER SHOP.

On Main St. C. E. MISNER, Prop

Invites your patronage. Everything in the very latest style of the art.

RAZORS HONED. If you desire your Razor Honed and cannot bring it, send it to me with 30 cents and your name and address and I will hone and return it.

Yours Respectfully,
C. E. MISNER.

L. O'BRIEN, MASON.

Plain and Ornamental PLASTERING.

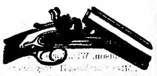
ACME, ADAMANT AND BLACKBOARDS

ALL KINDS OF CEMENT WORK.

ALL WORK WARRANTED.

ESTIMATES FURNISHED ON APPLICATION. Address,

Crookston, Minn.



C. A. FISCHER,

PRACTICAL GUNSMITH.

Repairs Guns, Revolvers, Chock-boring Barrels, Restock Guns of all kinds; also Novelty Repairing. Work done on short notice and satisfaction guaranteed. Shop at Rasmussen & Motz' Hardware Store.

Any work sent in by express or otherwise will receive special attention.

BEFORE
AFTER

NEW LIFE

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

Sold by F. L. Kermott, Crookston,

THE MILD POWER CURES

Dr. Humphreys' Specifics are scientifically and carefully prepared Remedies, used for nearly half a century by the people with entire success.

NO. SPECIFIC FOR
1—Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.
2—Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...
3—Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness
4—Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....
5—Dysentery, Griping, Bilious Colic....
6—Cholera Morbus, Vomiting..........
7—Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis..........
8—Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.......
9—Headaches, Sick Headache, Vertigo..
10—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation
11—Suppressed or Painful Periods....
12—Whites, Too Profuse Periods........
13—Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.......
14—Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions.
15—Rheumatism, or Rheumatic Pains..
16—Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....
17—Piles, Blind or Bleeding..............
18—Ophthalmy, Sore or Weak Eyes......
19—Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head
20—Whooping Cough....................
21—Asthma, Oppressed Breathing........
22—Ear Discharges, Impaired Hearing.
23—Scrofula, Enlarged Glands, Swelling
24—General Debility, Physical Weakness
25—Dropsy, and Scanty Secretions.......
26—Sea Sickness, Sickness from Riding
27—Kidney Diseases...................
28—Nervous Debility....................
29—Sore Mouth, or Canker.............
30—Urinary Weakness..................
31—Painful Periods....................
32—Diseases of the Heart, Palpitation
33—Epilepsy, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance..
34—Sore Throat, Quinsy, Diphtheria....
35—Chronic Congestions & Eruptions...

"77" for HAY FEVER

Sold by Druggists, or sent prepaid on receipt of price, 25c., or 5 for $1.00, (may be assorted), except Nos. 28, 32 and 33, put up in $1.00 size only.
DR. HUMPHREYS' MANUAL (Enlarged & Revised), MAILED FREE.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

HUMPHREYS' WITCH HAZEL OIL

"THE PILE OINTMENT."

For Piles—External or Internal, Blind or Bleeding; Fistula in Ano; Itching or Bleeding of the Rectum. The relief is immediate—the cure certain.
PRICE, 50 CTS. TRIAL SIZE, 25 CTS.
Sold by Druggists, or sent postpaid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York

Public Spirited Citizens

Should take a delight in adding anything to our town or county in the educational line which is valuable, unique and is not found in other communities. Our townsman, C. E. Misner, tells us he has an opportunity to place in our city a fine three and a half inch astronomical telescope, which will be for the educational benefit of our citizens. There is not as fine a telescope anywhere in our state, except at Carlton college, Northfield, where they have a fine astronomical observatory. Mr. Misner says that Prof. Hicks' paper, Word and Works, of St. Louis, offers him this fine instrument if he will get up a club of 800 subscribers to the paper. He is willing to put in a considerable part of his time and make a great effort to secure this fine telescope. If our citizens give him proper support it will not be a very hard matter to secure it. Word and Works is a fine monthly magazine and is well worth $1 a year, the subscription price. Mr. Misner will take subscriptions to this paper and every subscriber will have the privilege of looking through the fine telescope, which will be put up at Lyane's photograph gallery, free of charge. You get your money's worth if you do not look through the telescope, for Word and Works is a splendid family monthly and cheap at $1.00, but you have the satisfaction of knowing also that you have contributed toward the addition to our county of a fine instrument, not to be equaled by anything in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Misner, or his agent, will be around to see the people of the county within the next six weeks and we hope he will receive encouragement wherever he goes. [15-tf]

Eighty Bushels to the Acre.

This would be a phenomenal yield of wheat, but it would not be more gratifying than would a visit 'home' via the Great Northern Railway. Crops have been uniformly good throughout this section, and now that the harvest, the threshing and the fall plowing is done, and you have time to think of recreation the old folks expect you, are anxious to see you, and, at a round trip rate of $40.00 to Montreal, you can easily afford a three months visit. Call on nearest Great Northern agent for information about Great Northern Excursions, and see "ad" in another column.

Going to California?

Then you are interested in knowing:

1st. What line will get you there seven hours quicker than any other:

2nd. What line operates Phillips' Celebrated Tourist Car Excursions?

3d. What line has been in the business longest and is most popular?

4th. That all other Tourist Car lines are imitators.

5th. What line offers you choice of routes? Cars leaving ST. PAUL on MONDAYS at 9 a. m., via Kansas City and Fort Worth—the favorite SOUTHERN ROUTE, with no snow, no high altitudes. Cars leaving on THURSDAYS at 7 p. m. via Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City—the great Scenic Route.

6th. What line uses Pullman Cars that are completely furnished with carpets in the aisles, upholstered seats, clean linen and blankets for berths, cooking ranges in separate compartments, gentlemanly conductors and careful porters?

7th. What line accepts second class tickets and only charges $6.00 for double berth clear through?

The agents of Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. will cheerfully and truthfully answer any of these questions or you can address

A. B. CUTTS,
[34-37] Minneapolis, Minn.

To Subscribers.

Where you send money to us on subscription see that the address on your copy of the JOURNAL is changed to correspond with your payment. Should it fail to be so changed in two weeks please notify this office at once. A change in the figures on your copy is a receipt for money paid.

Buy your arctics at The Fair.

Canadian Excursion

Tickets will be sold by the Northern Pacific from December 1st to December 31st, inclusive, to points in Ontario and Quebec as far east as Montreal. Fare $40.00 for round trip. Good for stop-overs. Tickets good three months from date of sale. By the addition of a single fare from Montreal to the $40.00 rate, tickets will be sold to points in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Upon payment of reasonable amounts in addition, tickets will be extended by agent at passengers' destination.

Call on N. P. ticket agent for further information.

WANTED: Several trustworthy gentlemen or ladies to travel in Minnesota, for established, reliable house. Salary $780 and expenses. Steady position. Enclose reference and self-addressed envelope. The Dominion Company, third floor, Omaha Bldg. Chicago.

AHEAD OF ALL MAGAZINES the country has seen.—Albany Argus.

IN THE

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW

are always found

The Right Topics,
By the Right Men,
At the Right Time.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is recognized on both sides of the Atlantic as the foremost Review in the English language, and no expenditure is spared in maintaining it in its unrivalled position.

The Review is the mouthpiece of the men and women who know most about the great topics on which Americans require and desire to be informed from month to month. Its list of contributors forms a roll of the representative men and women of the age.

Subjects that concern the interests of - - AMERICAN WOMEN receive constant and special attention

Among special features of extraordinary importance which THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW has in preparation for 1896, is a series of articles by the Rt Hon.

W. E. GLADSTONE

—ON—

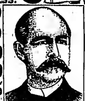
THE FUTURE STATE

And The Condition of Man in it.

The series will begin in the January number.

50 Cents a Copy; $5.00 a Year.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW,
3 East 14th St., New York.



1,000,000 People Wear

W. L. Douglas Shoes

HAND SEWED PROCESS. $3.00 BEST IN THE WORLD.

$5.00
$4.00
$3.50
$2.50
$2.25
For Men

$3.00
$2.50
$2.00
$1.75
For Boys and Youths

Wear W. L. Douglas shoes and save from $1.00 to $3.00 a pair. All Styles and Widths. The advance in leather has increased the price of other makes, but the quality and prices of W. L. Douglas shoes remain the same. Take no substitute; see that name and price is stamped on sole. W. L. Douglas, BROCKTON, MASS. Sold by

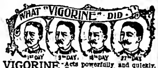
Fontaine & Anglim.

LOANS Negotiated on Real Estate, Life Insurance, or any Good Security on long time and Reasonable Interest. Prompt attention to Collections in all parts of the United States and Canada. Local and county manager wanted. Address The BanWiers Loan and Investment Co, Milwaukee, Wis.



VIGORINE Acts powerfully and quickly. Cures when all others fail. Young man will regain their lost manhood, and old man will recover their youthful vigor by using "VIGORINE." Absolutely Guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Lost Vitality, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Lost Power, Failing Memory, Wasting Diseases, and all effects of self abuse or excesses and indiscretion. Wards off insanity and consumption. Don't let druggists impose a worthless substitute on you, because it yields a greater profit. Insist on having VIGORINE, or send for it. Can be carried in vest pocket. Prepaid, plain wrapper, $1.00 per package, or six packages, $5.00, with A Positive Written Guarantee to Cure or Refund the Money. Circular free. Sold by all local druggists. Address PEFFER MEDICAL ASS'N, Chicago, Ill.

Sold by F. L. Kermott.

Pianos and Organs.

I. U. Jennings has just received a new invoice of Estey and Camp pianos and organs. Examine his instruments before you buy.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

H. STEENERSON,

Attorney-at-Law.

Crookston, Minnesota.

P. J. RUSSELL,

Attorney-at-Law

Reckitt Block, - Crookston, Minn

A. H. DUNLOP, M. D.

GRADUATE—

McGill University, Montreal.

Licensed College Physicians and Surgeons, Quebec.

Office in McKinnon Block.

WHEELER & WILSON'S HIGH-ARM NEW NUMBER NINE 9 IS THE ONLY PERFECT SEWING MACHINE FOR FAMILY USE

For Sale by EDWARD A. COLUMBUS,
Crookston, Minnesota.

W. A. ROBERTSON,

D. D. S. Graduate of Dental Department of the University of Maryland. Operative and Mechanical

DENTIST.

Nitrous Oxide Gas, (Laughing Gas administered for the painless extraction of teeth.

OFFICE IN McKINNON BLOCK.

G. G. HENAULT,

PRACTICAL DENTIST

Office over Times Office,

SECOND STREET, - CROOKSTON.

All work in my line promptly and skilfully performed.

Money to Loan.

I have again perfected arrangements by which I am now prepared to loan money on good farms. Call at my office in the Odd Fellows block.

[52tf] ALEXANDER MCKINNON.

GOING TO CHICAGO OR ANYWHERE EAST?

If you are, see that your ticket from Minneapolis, St. Paul or Duluth reads via

"THE NORTH-WESTERN LINE"
(C. St. P. M. & O. Ry.)

Three (3) First Class Trains Leave Minneapolis and St. Paul for Chicago on arrival of trains from

CROOKSTON,

as follows:

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30am; St. Paul 8:10am.
Daily. Badger State Express. Has Parlor Car to Chicago. Arrive Milwaukee 8:00 p.m. Chicago 9:45 p. m.

Lv. Minneapolis 6:00pm; St. Paul 6:35pm.
Except Sunday. Atlantic & Southern Express. Has Wagner Buffet Sleeper and FREE Chair Car to Chicago. Arrive Chicago 8:00 am.

Lv. Minneapolis 7:30pm. St. Paul 8:10pm
Daily, Famous North-Western Limited. Has Pullman and Wagner Compartment and 16 Section Sleepers and Buffett Smoking Library Coaches to Chicago. Sleeper to Milwaukee. Breakfast in Dining Car before reaching Chicago. Arriving Milwaukee 7:50 am; Chicago 9:30 am.

For Illustrated Folder FREE descriptive of Splendid Train Service via this Line to Sioux City, Omaha, Kansas City, Duluth, Ashland, as well as to Milwaukee and Chicago, Call on your Home Agent or Address,

T. W. TEASDALE,
General Passenger Agent,
St. Paul.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R.R.

RUNS
THROUGH CARS
TO
St. Paul,
Minneapolis
Duluth
Fargo,
Grand Forks
and Winnipeg

TO—HELENA.
BUTTE,
SPOKANE.
TACOMA.
SEATTLE,
PORTLAND

PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS,
ELEGANT DINING CARS
TOURIST SLEEPING CARS

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leave Crookston Daily
For St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Duluth and West Superior. 7:54 p.m.
For Grand Forks, Grafton, Brandon and Winnipeg, 8:05 a.m.
have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car and Dining Car attached.

For information, time cards, maps and tickets, call on write Ticket Agent, N. P. R. R. at Crookston, or

CHAS. S. FEE,
Gen'l Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Paul, Minn.

Hi, There!

DO YOU WANT

The Choicest Cuts

At Lowest Rates?

Try George Vine's New

MEAT MARKET.

Fish, Flesh and Fowl of every kind in due season.

Vine Block, Broadway CROOKSTON

A. C. WILKINSON,

Attorney-at-Law,

Practices in all the courts. Office over Fontaine & Anglim's store, Main St. Crookston.

Scandia-American Bank

OF CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital. - - - $50,000.
Surplus and undivided profits. $25,000.

Transacts a General Banking Business

Steamship Tickets Sold at Lowest Rates.

Special Attention to Collections.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

C. HENDRICKSON	President
L. ELLINGTON	Vice President
J. W. WHEELER	Cashier
A. P. HANSON	Assistant Cashier

THE PIONEER

HARNESS SHOP.

M. RAUENBUEHLER, Prop.

A full supply of everything kept by the trade.
Cor. Broadway and Third Sts.,
CROOKSTON. - - - - MINNESOTA.

Charles A. Baldwin & Co.
BANKERS,
40 AND 42 WALL STREET,
NEW YORK.

Accounts of Banks and Bankers received on favorable terms.
Bonds and Investment Securities.
Daily Financial Letter Mailed on Application.
CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED.

MARTHA WASHINGTON COOK BOOK
ILLUSTRATED

MARTHA WASHINGTON

COOK-BOOK FREE!

320 PAGES. ILLUSTRATED.

One of the best Cook Books published. It contains recipes for all kinds of cooking. Also departments on Medicine, Etiquette, and Toilet recipes. Indexed for handy reference.

MAILED FREE,

In Exchange for 20 LARGE LION HEADS cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent Stamp.

Write for list of our other Fine Premiums. We have many valuable Pictures, also a Knife, Game, etc., to give away. A beautiful Picture Card is in every package of LION COFFEE.

WOOLSON SPICE CO. Huron & Oak Streets, TOLEDO, OHIO

Our Premium Offer ! ! !

OF A FINE

CRAYON PORTRAIT

Of YOURSELF

OR ANY MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY.

A Three-Quarter Life-Size Crayon Bust Portrait, Made for us by the Hub Portrait Co., of Minneapolis who have a world-wide reputation for first-class work and they guarantee good work in every particular, full three-quarter size, 14x17 done by First-class Artists. The retail price of these pictures is $10.00.

OUR OFFER:

To all of our Subscribers who are in arrears two years or more who will pay up to this Fall and one year in advance at $1.50 per annum we will give one Picture FREE.

We will give one copy of the Journal one year and one Picture to all who will send us a Club of 10 subscribers at $1.50 per year, or for 75 cents additional each Member of the club will be entitled to a Picture also.

For a Club of 5 at $1.50 we will give one Picture Free to the getter-up of the club, and 75 cents extra will entitle each Member of the club to a Picture.

This is a Grand Opportunity to get a First-Class Picture of some loved one of Your Family at a mere nominal expense.

These Pictures can be copied from Good Photos, Cabinets, Tin-types or ambrotypes.

Send good clear Pictures for copy and don't ask us to make changes as they tend to spoil the quality of the work.

Enclose the Photograph to be copied with the name and address of the party to whom you wish it returned, enclose a postal money order or an express order made payable to H. E. Cooke and send to us at Crookston, Minn., and you will have your enlarged picture and copy returned in from four to five weeks. (It requires about five weeks to make a good copy.

☞ This offer will probably hold good until Jan. 1896 but we reserve the right to withdraw it at any time previous to that and commence with the issue of the JOURNAL for Oct. 31, 1895.

Send in your Orders without Delay.

ADDRESS: The JOURNAL,
Crookston, Polk Co., Minn.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

NORTHERN PACIFIC

TIME SCHEDULE.

Leaves Crookston Daily
	For St. Paul, Minneapolis, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, and all points east, south, west, and Pacific coast at	7:25 p. m
	For Grand Forks, Grafton, Winnipeg, Brandon, and points north, at	7:22 a. m.

Trains leaving Crookston daily have Pullman Vestibuled Sleeping Car, and Dining car attached.

The Rock Ballasted No Dust

Across The Continent Route.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE

St. Paul
Minneapolis
Duluth and West Superior

—TO—

St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Fargo,
Sioux Falls, Wahpeton, Helena,
Sioux City, Grand Forks, Butte,
Winnipeg, Devils Lake, Spokane,
Anaconda, Great Falls, Seattle,
Kalispell, Bonners Ferry Tacoma,
Fairhaven, Wenatchee, Everett,
Snohomish, New Whatcom, Victoria,
Portland, San Francisco, Olympia,

AND INTERMEDIATE POINTS IN

MINNESOTA, the Dakotas,
Montana, Idaho,
Washington, Oregon and
CALIFORNIA.

Steamer Connections for Alaska, Hawaii Japan and China.

Solid in construction, modern in improvement.

Palace Sleeping and Dining Cars, Buffet-Library Cars, Family Tourist Sleepers and high back seated day coaches especially adapted for long distance travelling.

Meals served on "pay for what you eat" plan.

Through the Grandest Scenery in America by daylight.

Reaches fine hunting, fishing, pleasure and health resorts—Helena and Boulder Hot Springs, Lake McDonald, the Kootenai, the Columbia, Lake Chelan and Puget Sound.

Round trip excursion tickets to points east and west, with stop off privileges, and choice of return route. Baggage checked to destination.

Connects in season of navigation with the magnificent steamships North West and North Land running between Duluth and Buffalo.

ARRIVE	CROOKSTON, 10-8	LEAVE
5:30 a.m.	No. 3. For Grand Forks, Larimore, Devils Lake, Minot, Great Falls and Pacific coast points, also Neche and Win'peg	: 40 a
8:30 p. m.	No. 2. For Ada, Barnesville, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, St. Cloud, Duluth, West Superior St. Paul and Minneapolis.	8:35 p
8:50 a. m.	FLYER. No. 13. For Euclid, Angus, Warren, Argyle, Stephen, Kennedy, Hallock, Humboldt and St. Vincent.	8:55 a
6:25 p. m.	FLYER. No. 14. For Mentor, Erskine McIntosh and Fosston.	6.25 p
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 61. For St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Red L. Falls. Monday, Wedn'day and Friday only	9.00 a Tri w'k'ly.
Tri-w'k'ly.	No. 66. For Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh and Fosston. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday only.	9:00 a Tri-w'k'ly

For maps, tickets and full information call on or address

J. H. GRIFFIN, Agent,

or F. L. WHITNEY, G. P. & T. A.,
St. Paul, Minn.

ELECTRIC TELEPHONE

Sold outright, no rent, no royalty. Adapted to City, Village or Country. Needed in every home, shop, store and office. Greatest convenience and best seller on earth.

Agents make from $5 to $50 per day.

One in a residence means a sale to all the neighbors. Fine instruments, no toys, works anywhere, any distance. Complete, ready for use when shipped. Can be put up by any one, never out of order, no repairing, lasts a life time. Warranted. A money maker. Write W. P. Harrison & Co., Clerk 10, Columbus, O.

THE WEATHER BY MAIL.

The New System Is Being Tested at Huron, S. D.

HURON, S. D., Dec. 24.—S. W. Glenn of the United States weather bureau has provided Postmaster Cogan with a stamping outfit and now all letter mail distributed from this office bears a forecast of the weather for the coming 24 hours. This arrangement is in compliance with the action of the late weather service convention, held in Indianapolis last October, when the scheme was discussed and Mr. Glenn appointed by the chief of the service as one of a committee to investigate the feasibility of the plan. This test is now going on, and soon all the larger cities in the state will be asked to co-operate in it. Mr. Glenn says the test will no doubt prove to be all that is hoped for.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR.
PRICE'S CREAM
BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Do You Want a Home?

Or to Invest in Lands?

The following Lands in Polk County are offered for sale at $250 per Quarter Section and upward—Easy terms to reliable parties:

T 148, R 44
SW ¼ 28	A. Nephew
T 148, R 45
SE ¼ 6	J. Sylvesterson
T 148, R 46
SE ¼ 6	J. Montagne
T 149, R 44
S ½ SW¼ 4, N ½ NW ¼ 9	J. Bombardier
T 149, R 45
NW ¼ 8	O. Langvin
NE ¼ 30	J. Moore
E½E½32	S. Johnson
T 149, R 46
SW¼ 20	L. Haber
T 150, R 41
NE¼ 29	L. Stone
T 150, R 42
NE¼ 10	I. Dagneau
T 150, R 43
NW¼ 17	H. Desotelle
NE¼ 33	N. Gandette
NE¼ 23	A. Besson
T 150, R 44
NW¼ 8	N. Bell
SE¼SW¼Lot 4 of 30, NE¼NW¼Lot 1 of 31	D. Vaudrlu
T 150, R 45
SW¼ 12	P. Lemieux
SW¼ 24	M. Desantells
W½ SE¼ E½ SW¼ 26	G. Beauvais
T 150, R 46
NW¼ 12	H. Pare
T 151, R 42
NE–8	J. R. Chinquay
NE¼NW¼9, N½NE¼9, NW¼, NW¼10	L. Vincent
T 151, R 43
SE¼ 15	H. D. McIntyre
NE¼ 18	C. Liade
T 151, R 44
N½SE¼ 34	C. J. Gervais
T 151, R 45
W½ SE and NE of SE
SE¼ 4	John Jones
E½E¼ 12	J. W. Berry
NE¼ 18	I. Goyette
T 151, R 46
SW¼ 10	F. Benoit
NE¼ 24	L. Gauthier
SE¼ 24	A. Loliberti
T152, R 43
W½ of E½ 28	J. Beaulieu
T 152, R 44
N½ SE¼ SW SE¼ 10	B. O. Loe
NE¼ 25	S. H. Kennedy
SW¼ 25	L. C. Comstock
T 152, R 45
NW¼ 25	G. T. Carroll
SW¼ 34	Edwin Neill
T 152, R 49
NE¼ 24	Jas. Browalee
T 153, R 44
NW¼ 25	J. F. Ives
T 153, R 45
E½ SW¼. Lots 3 and 4, of 18	J. Labounta.
T 154, R 45
SE¼ 28	L. C. Gooler
S½ of N½ 32	H. Boutain

I will be at the Commercial Hotel, Crookston until further notice. Now is the time to buy Cheap Land.

[32-35] H. P. BOLLES.
Representing Benson & Anderton,
Milwaukee, Wis.

These Winterdays

When the air is bracing, not biting; when the fall work is over and time begins to drag a little in comparison with the busy harvest season we go out to the barn to do the chores after breakfast with a sense of impatience at the emptiness of our days. To be sure there's a bit of mending to be done on the plow harness, and the chores take some time, and we might take a load of wheat to town, since some few provisions are needed by the good wife, but that isn't satisfying. If only one could be in the old home today there would be no lack of something to do. With all the visiting old friends, renewing acquaintances, and half forgotten memories in the dear old provinces and—why not—yes, why not—to what better use could you put part of the value of your bountiful crop. $40.00 will buy a round trip ticket to Montreal with stop-over privileges via the Great Northern Railway, whose local agent will cheerfully give detailed information.

Canadian Excursions.

Tickets good for three months with stop-over privileges will be sold by the Great Northern Railway Dec. 1st to Dec. 31st, inclusive to points in Ontario and Quebec, as far east as Montreal at a round trip rate of $40.00. Agents at destination will extend time limit of tickets upon payment of a small additional charge. Through tickets will be sold to points in Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island east of Montreal for a single fare from Montreal for the round trip in addition to the $40.00 rate.

For further information call upon local agent, Great Northern Railway, or write F. I. Whitney, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., or E. A. Fradenburgh, T. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

Happy New Year.

The practice of wishing our friends and acquaintances good fortune at the beginning of a new year is one of great antiquity. In fact, it is not possible to point out the exact date or manner of its origin. There was a time when the year began with the spring, and it seems most likely that the waking up of nature from the sleep of winter, and the prospect of the flowers and fruits, the vintage and harvest of another season, was so delightful that it was the most natural thing in the world for men to congratulate each other. In accordance with a custom that is now universal, we wish all our friends a happy and successful year for 1896. The "times" seem better already than they have been for several years; there is a feeling of coming prosperity in the air; there is more hope for good results from hard work; and it mainly now depends on our courage, our hopefulness and our honesty, to make 1896 a banner year. We should add also, the possession and exercise of good judgment, or "horse sense," which will certainly be shown in at least one way, if you buy your railroad tickets via the Burlington route. Your home agent is pretty sure to have them; if not, write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. agent, St. Paul, Minn.

The December number of the Northwest Magazine will be of special interest to Washington, Idaho and North Dakota readers. It contains eight pages of illustrated matter on "Spokane and its Fruit Fair," by N. W. Durham; a paper on "The Puget Sound Country," by the lamented F. H. Adams, and probably the last lines traced by his gifted pen; "The Great North Dakota Wheat-Crop" and interesting notes on "The New Fargo" and Jamestown, by the editor of the Magazine; "A Tale of Two Territories," by E. Burnard Foote; "North Dakota Prairie Sketches," by Clara M. White, and other attractive features so characteristic of this monthly. Not the least interesting are those departments which illustrate brightest western humor and the many phases of western life. It is a large number, and marks the close of the thirteenth volume of this popular magazine.

Damon and Pythias at the Grand opera house on Thursday evening was very poorly attended—and played in the same way. "Damon" himself was the nearest approach to an actor that the company can afford to carry with them; Pythias was not so pithy as he should be and Dionysius resembled a very poor carricature on Ollie Holmes, who used to run the Red Lake Falls Gazette at the time when that ambitious burg was a bigger man nor Chicago. The female portion of the company—well the less said about that the better. If their conception of the old style Roman matron and maid is the true one, history is utterly and irrevocably at fault. When "Hermion," (Damon's wife) appeared on the stage to "illustrate" the noble Roman matron her very modern address and style suggested a bicycle and all the feminine accessories there unto belonging—far more than a dignified Roman mat. The house was no good and the play fully equal.

List of Patents.

Granted Minnesota inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., solicitors of American and foreign patents, Opp. U. S. patent office, Washington D. C: G. F. Cremer, St. Paul, Marine velocipede. O. H. Hanson, Litchfield, wrench. G. F. Johnson, Milan, bag-holder. W. Millbrath, Lakefield, corn harvester and shocker. F. L. Smith, Litchfield, pillow-sham holder.

This is Business.

Owing to the lively way our friends have responded to our statements on subscription accounts we have decided to postpone taking extreme measures till in January so that all may have ample time to make a settlement, and we are in hopes that by that time everybody will have squared up so that there will be no cause for further trouble and expense. We shall not promise to wait longer than the middle of January, however, and we expect to hear from all long past due subscriptions by that time—or soon after.

Union Meetings.

Commencing on Thursday evening Jan. 2nd, it is expected that Charles N. Hunt of Minneapolis, the lawyer-Evangelist will conduct gospel services in this city. Arrangements are being made to have these meetings of great interest to all who attend. All the churches are expected to participate. The services will commence in the Methodist church.

Currie to Succeed Dufferin.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Chronicle says that it is understood that Sir Philip Curris will succeed the Marquis of Dufferin, formerly British ambassador to France, when the Turkish troubles are settled.

DOCTOR
Acker's
ENGLISH Remedy

for Coughs, Colds, and Consumption is beyond question the greatest of all modern medicines. It will stop a Cough in one night, check a cold in a day, prevent Croup, relieve Asthma, and cure Consumption if taken in time. "You can't afford to be without it." A 25c. bottle may save your life! Ask your druggist for it. Send for pamphlet. If the little ones have Croup or Whooping Cough use it promptly. It is sure to cure. Three Sizes—25c., 50c. and $1. All Druggists. ACKER MEDICINE CO., 16 & 18 Chambers St., N. Y.

New York Fashion Letter.

The evening and ball gowns of the season are elegant in both lightest and darkest tints. The bodices of these new gowns have more often the low square neck so becoming with large puffs or draped sleeves. Fichus of chiffon trimmed with lace are also very popular. Many of the newest bodices are pointed below the waist with a round back. The coat waist is also in vogue for low neck evening gowns of satin, velvet or moire. Jacket fronts are added on a full vest of chiffon. The skirts of these gowns are usually plain and untrimmed and about six yards wide at the bottom, with a train of three or four inches in the back. The new evening cloaks are very picturesque. One novel feature is a hood of great size which presents the appearance of a cape. White is the most popular for day and evening toilettes. It appears in the collars and vests of tailor gowns and every possible application on dinner and evening toilettes. For costumes devoted to practical uses are the new handsome double faced cloths in all fashionable colors. A novelty coat is what is called the British coat. It is usually made of red with the most intricate braiding on it. Ribbon trimmings are very important features of both dress and millinery. Persian and Pompadour ribbons, pale tinted satin in all the new colors as well as gored and Scotch plaid patterns are seen in every possible form of decoration. Spangles sequins are a fashionable fancy for the trimming not only of evening toilettes but for every day dresses and waists. Some of the new trimming laces are most beautiful imitations, particularly the Venitian point and all the Marie Antoinette styles. Much fur is used for evening and day wear. Even waists, skirts and sleeves are made entirely of fur. There is a noticeable return to picturesque and antique styles for elegant winter gowns, for evening festivities. They are made up with Tudor and Stuart collars in various modifications of these old time fancies. Every novelty in button is employed on all parts of the costume. Large and small, old fashioned and new, enameled and jeweled, painted and inlaid, trim the front of the waist, the pocket flaps, bodice, sleeves and so forth. The McDowell Fashion Magazines just received are full of interest and new ideas for the use of dressmakers and families.

"La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashions" cost $3.50 per year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. The "French Dressmaker" is $3.00 per annum or 30 cents a copy; and "La Mode" $1.50 per year or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure either of these journals from your newsdealer do not take any substitute, but apply by mail to Messrs. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th Street, New York.

Terrific Explosion of Naphtha.

WHITING, Ind., Nov. 16.—A tank containing 500,000 gallons of naphtha, owned by the Standard Oil company, exploded shortly after 11 o'clock. It is not thought that any lives have been lost.

PROBATE NOTICE.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, County of Polk. } ss. In Probate Court.
Special term, December 24th, 1895

In the matter of the estate of S. Jeannette Bailey, deceased.

WHEREAS, Certain writings, purporting to be duly authenticated copies of the last will and testament of S. Jeanuette Bailey, late of the County of Grand Forks, State of North Dakota, deceased, and the probate thereof in the County of Green Lake and State of Wisconsin, have been delivered to this Court:

AND, WHEREAS, Eugene C. Elwood has filed therewith his petition, representing among other things, that said S. Jeanette Bailey lately died in said county of Grand Forks, N. D., testate; possessed of certain real estate situated in said county of Polk, on which said will may operate, and that said petitioner is one of the heirs of said deceased, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters of administration with the will annexed, be to Samuel Currie issued thereon;

IT IS ORDERED, That the proofs of said instrument, and the petition, be heard before this Court at the Probate Office in said county, on Wednesday, the 22d day of January, A. D. 1896, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, when all persons interested may appear for or contest the probate of said instrument.

AND IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the POLK COUNTY JOURNAL, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Crookston, in said county.

Dated at Crookston the 24th day of December, A. D. 1895.

By the Court,
C. M. BENSON,
Judge of Probate.

[37-39]

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cheap Flour.

The Valley Roller Mills pays 5 cents per bushel above the cash price, for all wheat received in exchange for flour and feed.

Every sack of flour guaranteed.

Bring in your wheat and get your winter's supply of flour.

They also pay the highest cash price for wheat. [26-52]

Dec. 1st. to 31st. Inclusive.

This is the time—all through December—that you can buy Canadian excursion tickets via the Northern Pacific—go back and visit your friends in the provinces this winter and go via the Northern Pacific. Call on our agents for tickets and particulars.

GREAT NORTHERN

Trains are fast, and equipment and service of the best for Canadians taking advantage of the excursion rates.

Canadian Excursions.

These excursions, at a low rate for the round trip, will start every day from Northern Minnesota and North Dakota points for Montreal and the Canadian provinces of Ontario, Nova Scotia Quebec and New Brunswick, from the 10th to 31st of December inclusive. In purchasing your ticket, it will be to your advantage in point of comfort, speed and safety, to ask the agent to give you a ticket over the Burlington Route between St. Paul and Chicago. Our equipment of Reclining Chair Cars (seats free) Pullman Standard and Compartment Sleepers, and Dining Cars (on the cafe plan) is first-class in every particular, as it is well known to our patrons. Our trains leave St. Paul Union Depot morning and evening, and you will make no mistake in going via the "Burlington." For further information, address W. J. Kenyon, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn. [35-37]

GEO. Q. ERSKINE, President. WM. ANGLIM, Vice President. J. W. WHEELER Cashier

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

—OF—

CROOKSTON, MINN.

Capital $100,000.

General Banking Business Transacted.

Interest Paid on Time Deposits.

Town and School Orders Bought. Money to Loan on Farms

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. LIBERAL ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

ANDREW H. BURKE,

GRAIN WHEAT, BARLEY. RYE. FLAX. OATS.

COMMISSION.

504, 506, and 508 Board of Trade.

12 and 13 Chamber of Commerce.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. DULUTH, MINN.

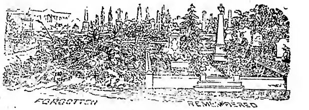
IF YOU WANT

Photographs!

WHY NOT GET THE BEST?

MURI MAKES THEM

BROADWAY, CROOKSTON, MINN.



NORTHWESTERN MARBLE WORKS,

CROOKSTON, MINN.

JOHN O. SUNDET & CO. Props.

Imported and Domestic Marble and Granite Monuments Always in Stock.

RED RIVER VALLEY
IMPROVED
AND UNIMPROVED

FARMS

FOR SALE
ON
LONG TIME
AND EASY PAYMENTS.

REAL ESTATE LOANS and INSURANCE

E. M. WALSH,
Rooms 4 and 5 Fournet Block,
CROOKSTON, MINN.

MINNESOTA
HISTORICAL SOCIETY FINISH
CROOKSTON
POLK COUNTY

JOURNAL

JAN 3 THRU DEC 26
1895 1895

Title:
(Crookston) POLK COUNTY JOURNAL

18:38 - 19:37

Inclusive Dates: Jan 3 1895 — Dec 26 1895*

Missing Issues:
Nov 28, 1895

117-4-1978
120-4-1978

Originals held by: MHS x Other ___

Prepared by: Lynn Trantow LWT	Date: April 10, 1978	Format: 1A x 2B
Filmed by: VRogers	Date: 4-17-78	Camera No. Yellow
Reduction Ratio: 13	Voltmeter .38/80	No. Expos. 420
Prelim. Inspection by:	Date:	Density:
Target Resolution: ________/mm	O.K. ____ Reject ___	Length: